"FORGET-ME-NOT."

BY J. A. WATKINS BIRMINGHAM.

Where beautiful the wild flowers grow,
By Danube's mead bright to the view,
And nature blushed bright to the glow,
Like youth's romantic dream,
Those colors had the mellow light
Of Lanna's golden hue,
Armed cap-a-pie, a gallant knight
Bidding his love adieu.

She said, "I give thee to my God,
For e'en to death I'll follow thee;
Then pinkest a violet from the sod,
A gift to bind the two;
Just then, while spring's the morn'g breath
The flower lies on the wave;
The knight plunged in, dying death,
That precious gift to save.

He madly dashed the waters by
Until he reached the shore,
He caught it up and held it high,
A token of love's power.
"Go sleep, said kindly the tide—
"Go sleep," was her lot;
He kissed the gift and dying sighd,
"Oh, love, forget-me-not."

The knight was buried near the deep,
The lady by his side;
Together now they calmly sleep,
Where she had pinned and died,
The violet that he saved to save
When all that lovely spot,
The same flowers bloom above their grave—
They're called forget-me-not.

A WESTERN journal offers this inducement: "All subscribers paying in advance will be entitled to a first-class
obituary notice in case of death."

A GENTLEMAN lately entered a shop in which were books and various miscellaneous articles for sale, and asked this shopman if he had Goldsmith's Greece on hand. "No," said he, "but have some splendid air oil."

A FRIEL housemaid who had been sent to call a gentleman to dinner, found him engaged in using a tooth-brush.
"Well, is he coming?" asked the lady.
"Yes, ma'am, directly; he is just harping his teeth."

A YOUNG lady in Western New York

from a wealthy lover whose name is Hussey. It is impossible not to admire the spunk of that woman, who refuses to be called a Hussey for any man.

A ROMANCE 4-year old boy had been denied some trifling gratification by his mother, but it did not seem so trifling to him as to her. So, striking an attitude before her, he said with the utmost gravity, "Mother, were you ever a boy?"

AS old lady in a town of Worcester County, Mass., recently refused the gift of a load of wood from a tree which had been struck by lightning, though fence around the one of the "fluid" might remain, she would see a cause disaster to be removed.

"On, Mr. Butcher, what a quantity of meat was in that hind piece of meat we had from you," said a lady very inquisitively. "Was there, ma'am? But, however, the very first fat bullock I will without any bone, I'll let you have one joint for nothing."

"Do you eat things here?" inquired

On the other day, as he sauntered to a fountain and addressed the proprietor. "Yes, we do." "You cast all kinds of things in iron, eh?" was the next query. "Certainly; don't you see it is our business?" "Ah! well, cast shadow, will you?" "He was east, on the Pacific Slope, and gazed on the 6,000 solitary diamond and other like tokens, she doubtless concluded that going to the Golden Gate for a spouse was equal to marrying a naval officer at home."

A Chinese Inn.

Passing through the giant door, the visitor finds himself in a large unadorned hall, with buildings all around it. On each side are perhaps six or eight green rooms, little boxes about twelve feet square, with paper in place of glass for windows, doors which do not fit, and to find them that way. A very rickety old chair and an equally decrepit table are the only furniture, the bed being simply a brick or mud platform, filling nearly half the room, and raised about a foot from the floor. Underneath it is a floor of straw, in one corner of which another man is snoring and firing the hearth. The man pushes a zigzag line upon the surface of the couch, and continually escaping up a vent in the wall to the first place there is none; and if, as often happens, the chimney should be foul, the warmed bed is but a poor compensation for smarting eyes and partial suffocation. There are other rooms, sometimes two or three to the first, and each with an object to secure them, as they are a trifle larger and cleaner and possibly in better repair. The charges are moderate—from ten to two hundred cents per night, with extras for food and drink. On entering the inn, your cart is backed up close to the door of your room, the mules are unharnessed, and enjoy their siesta in the dust; and the host appears your order for food. The meal dispatched, the weary guest rolls himself up in his coverlet to sleep till daybreak if he can; but rats and lesser vermin often disturb his rest.

DOESTICKS, who went to Minneapolis for his health, got it, and now goes back to New York to run down again. He says he had rather be an invalid in New York than an athlete in Minnesota in the winter.

Emancipation in Cuba.

The movement in favor of emancipation in Cuba begins to assume formidable proportions, and the watchword "Cuba Libre" which has for so long a time been heard already sounds like a pean of coming victory. An address to the people of the United States has recently been prepared by the Cuban Anti-Slavery Society in New York, calling for the sympathy and encouragement of all who believe that the time has come when an expression of sentiment on the part of the American people in the affairs of Cuba is demanded in behalf of liberty and right. Another petition addressed to President Grant is also to be presented at an early day, and a committee has been appointed by the Society to visit the principal cities for the purpose of obtaining signatures to the address to the President. The petition rehearses the wrongs which the Spanish Government has compelled the Cubans to endure, and prays that the Government of the United States accord to the Cuban patriots that favorable recognition to which a four years' gallant struggle in the interest of freedom justly entitles them. The agitation is not confined to pamphlets, however. The arrival of the Cuban steamer Edgar Stewart at Key West with Gen. Agiero aboard, who commanded the expedition, was the occasion of an enthusiastic demonstration by the Cubans in that vicinity, and a large sum was immediately subscribed toward fitting out another expedition. Over a hundred men from Key West have signified their intention to join the patriot ranks when their services are required.

Postmasters Take Notice.

The President has ordered that "Persons holding any Federal civil office by appointment under the Constitution and laws of the United States, will be expected, while holding such office, to hold no office under any State or Territorial gift, or under charter or ordinance of any municipal corporations, and further, that the acceptance or continued holding of any such State, Territorial or Municipal office, whether elective, or by appointment by any person holding civil office as aforesaid under the Government of the United States, other than judicial officers under the Constitution of the United States, will be deemed a vacation of the Federal office held by such person, and will be taken and will be treated as a resignation by such Federal officer of his commission or appointment in the service of the United States. The offices of Justices of the Peace, of Notaries Public, and Commissioners to take acknowledgements of deeds, of bail, or administer oaths, shall not be deemed within the purview of this order, and are expected from its operation, and may be held by Federal officers. The appointment of Deputy Marshal of the United States may be conferred upon Sheriffs, and Deputy Sheriffs, and Deputy Postmasters, the emolument of whose office does not exceed $500 per annum, who are also expected from the operation of this order, and may accept and hold appointments under State, Territorial, or Municipal authority; provided the same be found not to interfere with the discharge of their duties as Postmaster."

Poor Postmasters must now be content with one office. 'Tis well, let them stand back and give others an opportunity to make themselves notorious.

A Lady's Seat on Horseback.

A lady's horse, to be perfect, should be all over handsome, and well up on its haunches. It slightly hollow in the back, so much the better, for it generally tends to ease in action, and to less motion to the saddle. A lady should never be heard upon the saddle—that is, there should be no bumping noise, not even in a trot. She should sit so closely, and, when rising to the trot, possess such elastic motion from the foot to the knee and the waist that her return to the saddle should seem as light as a feather. She should sit "square to the front," and her horse's ears (to speak as a soldier) ought to dress well with the buttons on the bosom of her habit. Nothing is so bad as to sit with a lean to one side, and, when admirers are following after, to let them fear that a very little would cast her off from the stirrup side of her saddle. Her hands should be down, but light, and her arm, as well as every inclination of her figure, should harmonize with the motions of her steel, as if both possessed the same volition.

Hope.

Hope is the life-preserver of the soul about to sink beneath the waves of despondency, heaving it upward and onward o'er the tempestuous sea of life. It is a fair sunset after a dark and gloomy day, giving promise of a brighter to-morrow. It is food to the heart starving for something in the future not yet obtained. Hopes are blossoms hanging on the tree of Desire, and Reality the fruit. How often are the blossoms swept off by the winds of disappointment, leaving us to mourn for the fruit which we were not permitted to taste. Hope is a staff on which we lean in our journey through life, without which we would grow weary and faint by the way. How often, when the shades of misfortune gather around us and all looks dreary and desolate, we lose sight of hope; but when we turn at last to the slumbering embers, to fan them into life again, behold the rekindling fire casts a cheerful glow throughout the soul, dispelling the clouds and gloom. Hope is a sweet bird in our hearts, singing to us in the hour of trials to drown the mournful and discordant notes of life.

The Days of the Week.

In the Museum of Berlin, in the hall devoted to Northern antiquities, they have the representations of the idols from whom the names of our days of the week are derived. From the idol of Sun comes Sunday. This idol is represented with his face like the sun, holding a burning wheel with both hands on his breast, signifying his course around the world. The idol of the Moon, from which comes Monday, is habited in a short coat, like a man, but holding a moon in his hand. Tuesday, from which comes Tuesday, was one of the most ancient and peculiar gods of the Germans, and is represented in his garment of skin, according to the peculiar manner of clothing. The third day of the week was dedicated to his worship. Woden, from whence Wednesday came, was a valiant prince among the Saxons. His image was prayed to for victory. Thor, from whence we have Thursday, is seated on a bed, with twelve stars over his head, holding a sceptre in his right hand. Friga, from whence we have Friday, is represented with a drawn sword in his right hand, and a bow in his left. He was the giver of peace and plenty. Sator, from whence is Saturday, has the appearance of perfect wretchedness; he is thin-visaged, long-haired, with a long beard. He carries a pail of water in his right hand, wherein are fruits and flowers.

Where the Sun Does Not Set.

A scene witnessed by some travelers in the North of Norway, from a cliff one thousand feet above the sea, is thus described: "The ocean stretched away in silent vastness at our feet; the sound of waves scarcely reached our airy lookout; away in the North the huge old sun swung low along the horizon, like the slow beat of the pendulum in the tall clock of our grandfather's parlor corner. We all stood silent, looking at our watches. When both hands came together at twelve, midnight, the full round orb hung triumphantly above the waves, a bridge of gold running due North spanning the water between us and him. There he shone in silent majesty, which knew no setting. We involuntarily took off our hats; no word was said. Combine, if you can, the most brilliant sunrise and sunset you ever saw and the beauties which now lit up ocean, heaven and mountain. In half an hour the sun had swung up perceptibly on his beat, the colors changed to those of morning, a fresh breeze rippled over the flood, one songster after another piped up in the grove behind us—we had slid another day."

Granville Hall, Deputy United States Marshal, and Dr. Wolf, Deputy Postmaster of Nebraska City, were shot at Wyoming, Nebraska, recently, by a man named Woodson of Missouri, while attempting to arrest him.

Miss Mary Garvin, daughter of ex-District Attorney Garvin, stepped upon a match on the floor. It ignited, set fire to her clothes and but for the timely arrival of her father, would have burned to death. As it was, she was badly burned, as was her father before the flames could be extinguished.

The emigrant ship, Northfleet, from London, with 412 passengers, collided with an unknown vessel two miles off Dungeness, and was out to the water's edge. Only 85 persons are known to have been saved, and it is believed every other person who was on board has found a watery grave. When the collision took place the passengers, who were asleep, rushed from their berths to every portion of the ship where they thought they might be safe, and utterly refused to obey the orders of the captain. That officer, as a last resort to enforce obedience to his command, fired upon the terror-stricken people, and one of them was wounded.

On Wednesday a man occupied as a peddler called at the office of the Houston and Texas Railroad Company, at No. 52 Wall street, New York, and engaged the attention of the occupants, who were the President, William E. Dodge, of Phelps, Dodge & Co., and an unknown person. The latter laid a package of twenty-five bonds and sundry papers upon the window-sill, while he and Mr. Dodge examined the peddler's wares. Two men then entered, and one began an incidental conversation relative to the business of the road and the value of its securities. While he was thus engaged the other hastily seized the package of securities mentioned, and both men speedily departed. The package contained $35,000 in bonds and securities.

BRIEF MENTION.

WEATHER.—The balmy days of Tues- day, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week, remind us that spring is near at hand.

177 We are informed that there is to be a lumber yard started in Chelsea, by Wm. S. Winger. Success to enterprise.

THANKS.—We return our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Winans for a bountiful supply of wedding cake. 'Tis sweet to be remem- bered.

178 The Leavitt's Swiss Bell Ringers, performed to a large and appreciative au- dience on Thursday last week, at the Congregational Church.

179 Our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shaver for a long of splendid apples; and also, for a large head of cabbage weigh- ing about fifteen pounds. of the drum- head specie. Who can beat that.

180 All business men are interested in the growth of the business of our place; and we are gratified to see the car loads of lumber coming in for the new concern of Wm. S. Winger. We wish him every success.

HUSBAND WANTED.—Lizzie is "sweet sixteen," and expresses a willingness to take a partner for life. Applicants will please leave their cards at HERALD office.

177 Sheriff Fleming reports but two boarders—one waiting removal to the Reform School and the other trial. He— the sheriff—thinks this a decidedly orderly community.

FAT SHEEP.—Last week W. H. Scadin, of Wood Street, sold twenty fat weathers, fine of breed, whose average weight was 126 pounds, at 6 1/2 cents per pound, or $8.19 per head. Who says it is not profitable to raise sheep?—Ann Arbor Courier.

178 The new calendar of the Ann Arbor University shows lady students in atten- dance in the library department classified as follows: Resident graduates, 2; seniors, 1; juniors, 5; sophomores, 7; freshmen, 20; selects, 5; pharmacy, 2-42; in the medical department, 37; law department, 4; total, 83.

NOTICE.—All those indebted to the firm of L. Babcock & Co., either by book or note account, are requested to call and set- tle the same. Messrs. Babcock & Co. have taken their books to Wood Brothers store where they will be happy to wait on all their debtors and creditors.

REMOVAL.—Aaron Durand has moved from the corner, to one door east, to the brick store lately occupied by L. Babcock & Co. Mr. Durand tender his thanks to the buying public of Chelsea and vicinity, for the liberal patronage he has heretofore received; and hope for a renewal of the same. Mr. D. will be happy to wait on, and show the goods buying public, his new stock of varied and cheap goods. Give him a call.

A NOTICE.—It has become a very common thing in this town, as well as elsewhere, for a crowd of boys with sleighs and "jumpers," to run after teams, and after attaching their little "conveyances" to a sleigh, the most unmercifully yell are sent forth to the annoyance of all good teamsters, and to pedestrians. This practice is a nuisance that should have a stop put to, and if there is no other way that it can be done, let the town authorities take the matter in hand.

177 We copy the following from the Ann Arbor Courier: There has been some little excitement in the city for the last week, caused by the appearance of the small-pox. Thus far there are eight cases, and they are mostly confined to the Medi- cal students. It is supposed that the dis- ease originated from one of the dead bodies used as subjects for dissection. There has been quite a panic among those who have Medical students boarding with them. The city authorities have secured a suitable building, situated in an isolated position, and have provided good nurses, and if there should be any new cases they will be re- moved to it at once. The panic has sub- sided, the streets are full, business is as lively as ever, and no serious danger is apprehended.

178 DONATION.—On Wednesday evening of last week, the Congregational Church and society gave the Rev. Benjamin Franklin, their annual donation. The notice of the meeting being unusually short, there were not so many present as would have been by a greater extension; yet there was a good representation of cheerful faces and warm hearts. We learn too that a goodly number not con- nected with this society, put in their ap- pearance and expressed by cheerfully donating their esteem and affection for this ambassador of Christ. Long may he con- tinue to preach the Gospel of Christ, and be heartily supported by his brethren. "Even so bath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel."—1st Cor., 9: 14.

DIED.

Chelsea Bank—New Safe.

We notice that the new safe contracted for by Mr. Glazier last summer has arrived, and now occupies the place formerly oc- cupied by the old one. It stands upon a solid stone foundation built expressly for it, being necessary to support so great a weight. The foundation is built large and strong, so as to preclude the possibility of the safe falling into the cellar, in case the building should be destroyed by fire, and will remain as permanently where it rests as the rock of Gibraltar. Mr. Glazier, we are informed has devoted considerable time investigating the quality and various claims of superiority of most of the prom- inent safe manufacturers, and he assures us that after careful examination at the work- shops of many of the safe manufacturers, where sales in every degree of construction, the material of which they are composed, and the workmanship could be closely compared, that he is fully satisfied that Mosler, Bahmann & Co., of Cincinnati, the parties who constructed the new safe, makes as good, if not the very best safe made in this country. The new safe is a model of strength and beauty; and we note as important improvements the patent nitro glycerine preventative, and the double vault arrangement, each five inches (dial proof) thick with lock so arranged on the left vault door, and two on right hand vault door, so to require the right vault opened before the left can be opened, and the locks can be so set on different combi- nations as to make it impossible for any one individual, without the co-operation of two others, (each having the combination of one lock only) to open the vaults— thereby preventing a possibility of success by kidnapping at night either one person, and demanding the opening of the vaults by threats of assassination, as several in- stances have occurred in eastern banks in the past year. The safe weighs seven and a half tons, and cost $3,000. In looking at the new safe and its surroundings, we are forcibly impressed with the system and economy with which Mr. Glazier conducts his business. Grown up as he has from boyhood in the drug business, and having made himself conversant with banking, he has been extremely fortunate in associating with him R. S. Armstrong, M. D., in the drug business, and Mr. H. M. Woods, cashier in the bank, gentlemen of charac- ter and unusual ability in their respective departments. By conducting the two branches of business in one building, Mr. Glazier is enabled to give personal atten- tion to either business, and thereby save in cost of help, room, fuel, lights, etc., about two thousand dollars per year expense, that would be required if each branch of business was conducted in separate build- ings. A great sequel to success in business is low expenses and no losses. Mr. Glazier is conducting his business as above stated, paying no rents, buying and selling only for cash, and adhering to conservative rules in banking, has been very successful in the past, as he will undoubtedly be in the future.

A Card

To my Benefactors—
Beloved for Christ's sake.

Allow me once more to thank you for another instance of your generosity as expressed to me and my family, on the evening of the 5th instant. Your benefac- tions are gratefully accepted. While you have thus shown your care again of him who ministers unto you in spiritual things, we trust you will suffer no lack in those blessings of divine grace, which above all things form the grand source of human happiness. Your kindness to God's min- isters shall not pass unnoticed; the great head of the church is a close observer. At the last day, "The King shall say unto them, verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

But then, while we would appreciate any gift, small or great, we value far more highly the kind and affectionate feeling which prompted the act. "Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith." Let us then especially cultivate the love of the heart, care for one another, bear one another's burdens, and pray for the peace and prosperity of Jerusalem.

Wishing you temporal and spiritual prosperity to an extent that shall be com- mensurate with your eternal welfare.

I am affectionately yours in Christ,
BENJ. FRANKLIN.

177 Pure drugs and medicines are as necessary as skillful physicians; they are the means provided by nature and science to overcome the insidious advances of death, and if these are demoralized by unskillful arrangement, lack of prudence, vigilance, or thorough chemical and sci- entific knowledge, they become dangerous agents of destruction, of which the less we have the better. These truths are obvious, yet they cannot be too strongly or too often impressed upon the public mind.
