Perils of the California Desert.

A letter dated October 1, from Dos Palmas Station, on the Desert, to the Yuma (California) Sentinel, says: Four days ago the son of Old China Theodore, from Yuma, came to this Station about dark, on foot, and nearly dead for water. He said he had left his father and a boy, the brother of Mrs. Jeager, out forty miles in the desert, without water and nearly dead for the want of it, having been without it for three days when he left them twenty-four hours before. Joe Dittier, the station-keeper, and Hank Brown started the next morning with a team and plenty of water, to find them. After going twenty-five miles they came upon the old man. He had found a cask of water that had been left by surveyors, and had nearly drunk himself to death. One of the party stayed with him and the other went to look for the boy. After going fifteen miles he was discovered stretched out under a bush, naked and almost dead—his tongue being swollen and black, and blood running out of his nose and ears. He was brought to after two hours' hard work, having been without water for five days and nights. Their three horses died. The party are now stopping here and getting along all right. The old man says that if he had not lost his knife he would have cut his throat and ended his misery. The station-keeper and Brown deserve praise for the manner in which they acted, being without food three days on their return.

Another Printer Gone to "Quod."

The Waukegan (Ill.) Gazette, tells the old story of the tramp, humorously, as thus: "Needing a little extra help last week, we were rather glad than otherwise to see a dirty, seedy-looking individual enter the door of our sanctum, and announce himself as the inevitable tramp-printer. He was out of work, out of money, out of sorts and out at the elbows, and we accordingly gave him a case and he helped us through the week, leaving us on Friday night with money in his pocket, and evidence that he had a brick in his hat. He said he was northward bound, and would leave on the first train. He failed to do so, however, and on Monday, being 'hard pressed' no doubt, he concluded that a pair of pantaloons hanging in front of Biddinger's, would be a 'fat take,' and accordingly 'lifted' them from the 'hook.' Proceeding up the street to an alley, he was about to let the new clothes 'go' for the old ones, when Mr. 'dinger, who had followed him, took possession of him with assurance that he 'permanently' 'sit' for him. After taking the pantaloons, he watched him, until the arrival of officer Hinkley, who, after a little 'chase,' succeeded in 'looking up his form' in the county jail. He is evidently a hard 'case,' and it is well that he is now in the 'embrace' of the 'minions' of the law, and behind the 'imposing stones' of the jail wall. It is just those 'sticks,' of whom he is a 'type,' that cast discredit upon the trade."

OLD AGE.—There is a quiet repose and steadiness about the happiness of age, if the life has been well spent. Its feebleness is not painful. The nervous system has lost its acuteness. Even in mature years we feel that a burn, a scald, a cut is more tolerable than it was in the sensitive period of our youth. The fear of approaching death, which in youth we imagine must cause inquietude to the aged, is very seldom the source of much uneasiness. We never like to hear the old regretting the loss of their youth. It is a sign that they are not living their life aright. There are duties and pleasures for every age, and the wise will follow them. They will neither regret the loss of youth nor affect to be younger than they are. When men, they will not dress as boys, nor compete with them. When matrons or matronlike maids, they will not dress like girls. When young women, they will not be childish and play piping tunes by way of enchantment. To be happy, we must be true to nature and carry our age along with us.

Grapes as Food.

Men can live and work on grapes and bread. The peasantry of France, Spain and Italy make many a satisfying meal in this way, and of the wholesomeness of the diet there can be no doubt. Medical men constantly recommend the use of grapes for their patients. Scarcely any plant can equal the vine as regards the beauty of its leaves and fruit. As a covering for bare walls and for affording shelter and shade it is a climber of the first rank. To sit under one's own vine in all ages has been considered the acme of rural happiness,—an emblem of peace, a symbol of plenty, and a picture of contentment. That pleasure, though perhaps not in all its fullness, may become the heritage of thousands in these temperate climes. Neither our latitude, longitude, nor leaden skies, nor erratic climate forbid the growth of the grape-vine throughout the larger portion of the kingdom. In many districts its fruits will ripen more or less perfectly. In almost all it would ripen sufficiently to be useful for eating or wine making. Even green grapes are useful for conversion into vinegar, for making tartar, or wine. Ripe grapes are universally esteemed. No one tires of them. If any declined to eat their own grapes, or grew more than were needed for home consumption, there is a ready market in most neighborhoods for grapes at from four-pence to a shilling a pound, according to quality. Thus cottages might make or save the rent many times over. I know many cottage-gardens in which the vine or vines are not only their chief ornaments, but the main source of profit. These might be multiplied up and down the country to infinity. As a means of increasing their number, I would suggest that prizes be offered by all cottage-garden societies for the best trained and most fruitful grape-vines on cottages. I have known this done to such excellent effect that the vines became models of both; and such a spirit of emulation was stirred up that one laborer had paid another two days of his wages to do up his vine for him. There need be no fear of an excessive supply; neither are ripe grapes so perishable as most fruits. Cut with a piece of wood stretched, and placed in bottles of water, or even suspended in a dry room, the ripe fruit will keep good for months, and even improve by keeping.—London Garden.

Origin of Aroma in Butter.

The aroma of butter has a very complex origin. It springs from certain volatile oils which exist in the plants on which the animals feed. Voelcker reports butter to contain two per cent. of these oils. To these are given the names butyric, caproic and caprylin, and from them are formed the butyric, caproic and caprylic acids which are the occasion of rancidity in butter. The easy formation of these acids is one of the greatest obstacles to the manufacture of good butter. But the volatile oils in butter are not confined to three or four varieties. Every species of herb upon which the cows feed, and, indeed, upon the farm, has more or less volatile oil peculiar to itself, on which its peculiar odor and flavor depend. It is easy to see how the flavor and odor of butter are affected by the food the cow consumes. A cow eating peppermint, for instance, carries the odor of peppermint into her blood and thence into her milk, where, combining with the cream, it is carried into the butter, giving it the flavor and aroma of the plant. Cows do not live on a single variety of herbage. Twenty different kinds are more likely to be found in a single pasture than in any one. The mingled oils of all these constitute the aroma of the butter made from their milk, each one having its modifying influence, though some may be distinctly recognized, when, like onions, garlic or cabbage, their influence is greater than that of all the rest. The kind of food which furnish the most agreeable aromas are the most desirable for dairy pasture, though they may not yield the most. Most people are more pleased with the aroma from Kentucky blue grass than with any other; hence blue grass is regarded as the best food for the dairy. By a little attention, every dairyman can determine for himself what food is most suitable for his herd; and that little attention will impress upon him the fact that if he would make clean flavored butter, his cows must not live on garbage, litter or strong scented weeds.

There is another peculiarity about the essential oils in herbage from which the dairyman may sometimes derive advantage. It is the different degrees of lightness they possess, the rapidity with which their essential oils are evaporated by heat. For instance, the pungent oil of the horseradish is so volatile as to escape in a short time by exposing the crushed radish to the air; the poisonous oil of the mild parsnip and of ivy escape while the foliage is wilting; an offensive oil in green clover which affects butter unfavorably, escapes while it is drying, so that the dry plant makes a better product than the green. The aromas of turnips, cabbage, onions, etc., are heavier and are not entirely carried away by drying. But by heating the freshly drawn milk, even these oils can in many instances be entirely driven out.

Chips from the Editor's Block.

What is the difference between a tube and a foolish Dutchman? One is a hollow cylinder and the other is a silly Hollander. A Maine sportsman shot two bears and seventy partridges in one day. According to Blackwood, every man who is not a monster, a mathematician, or a mad philosopher, is the slave of some woman or other. A youth seventeen years old, at Ixonia, Wis., weighs just twenty pounds. Fully two-thirds of the writers on the New York press are under thirty-five years of age, and nearly one-half are scarcely thirty. An iron will, a silver voice, plenty of brass, and a little tin, will win golden opinions. A Cincinnati man bought his wife 2,000 papers of pins the other day. He said he'd stop her jawing about pins if it took his house and lot. A man at Paris, Ky., has invented a wheelbarrow which a man may sit down on and wheel. A scientific Virginian has made himself very unpopular, by demonstrating that kerosene oil is as efficacious as whisky in curing snake-bites. Sir Samuel Baker, the African explorer, is seriously ill at London with inflammation of the lungs. Motto of a Princeton (Ill.) merchant: "Early to bed and early to rise, never get tight, and advertise, let your wares be known if you are wise." A Pennsylvania farmer has held an eagle captive for thirty-six years, and the bird is as untamable as ever. "Why are you crying so, my child?" inquired a French mamma of her grown-up daughter. "Because Mlle. B. gave me a slap in the face." "And did you return it?" "No, I gave her one first." One-eight of the people of England are members of friendly societies, such as Odd Fellows, Foresters, etc. A Rochester editor went hunting the other day for the first time in twenty-two years, and he was lucky enough to bring down an old farmer by a shot in the leg. The distance was sixty-six yards. A lady reporter sent to an agricultural fair wrote of a lot of pigs, "They look so sweet to live a minute."

A Universal Tea Drinking?

"A Universal Tea Drinking" is proposed for the 16th of December, as that day will complete a century since the throwing overboard of the British East India Company's tea in Boston harbor. A favorite amusement at San Diego, Cal., is to enclose a mouse and a tarantula in a bottle and let them fight it out. Once, when a Michigan Congressman offered Bean Hickman a twenty-cent cigar, Bean replied:—"No, sir, thank you; such cigars are good enough for Congressmen, but I can't permit my reputation."

THE NAVAL STATION FOR RUSSIA.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the London Standard says: "Seeing that as long as her ships remain shut up in the Black Sea and the Baltic, Russia cannot become a first rate naval power, the necessity arises for finding some port where their movements are less likely to be impeded by the ice or a hostile force, and the Moscow Gazette has cast his eyes on the Veranger Fiord, which formerly belonged to Russia, but which formerly belonged to Norway. This gulf contains three excellent harbors, capable of sheltering a large fleet; and as the coast is washed by the Gulf stream, the ports are never frozen, and vessels can sail from them for the open sea at any season of the year. The coast can, moreover, be so strongly fortified as to render the entrance to the Gulf extremely difficult, if not impossible. In exchange for this coveted acquisition, the Moscow Gazette offers the Spitzbergen Archipelago, all of which it seems to have a very high opinion. But even if the island belongs to Russia, which is very doubtful, the exchange of the Veranger Fiord for this barren group, that has been successively abandoned by all who have ever attempted to settle there, would be a bad bargain for Sweden."

Khorrassan. This place where, according to our telegrams, hundreds of human beings are daily dying for want of food, and the starving people are actually reduced to cannibalism, lies between latitude 31-33 degrees 30 minutes N., and longitude 53-52 degrees 30 minutes E., and the largest province in Persia, containing 210,000 square miles. Nearly one-third of this area is a salt waste; a large portion of the remainder consists of plains of shifting sands, leaving a comparatively small part susceptible of cultivation. The fertile districts are in the north, where the high range of the Elburz mountains crosses the country, throwing out spurs, thus forming an elevated district abounding in well-watered valleys. Art assists the work of nature by means of canals, which conduct water wherever it is most needed; but this system of irrigation, though much used in ancient times, has been to a great extent abandoned on account of the incessant internal troubles which have disturbed the province for many centuries past. The chief products of Khorrassan are grain, cotton, silk, hemp, tobacco, aromatic and medicinal plants, fruit and wine. Gold, silver and precious stones are to be found there, and large numbers of camels, horses and asses are raised. There are also manufactories of silk, woolen, camel's and goat's hair fabrics, as well as musket and sword blades. The principal towns are Meshed, the capital; Nishapur, Yazd, and Astrabad. The inhabitants are mostly Mohammedans of the Shia sect. In former days Khorrassan included the desert of Khiva or Kharassan, and the district now known as the kingdom of Hebra, but the first was separated from it by the warlike Seljuks at the beginning of the eleventh century, and the latter about 1510—since which time it has been more than once seized and held a short period by the Persians. Khorrassan itself has been several times disunited from the Persian empire, but was finally permanently attached to it at the commencement of the sixteenth century, by Ismail Sofi, the first Sufavean Shah of Persia.

How a LAD WAS SAVED FROM BEING STUNG TO DEATH BY BEES.

A Missouri paper we read a romance of a Mr. Hayes and his son are jointly the heroes. As the story runs they were in a field, when a swarm of bees alighted upon the boy, covering him from head to foot; they hung upon his ears, chin and nose in great bunches, and clung in thick clusters to every part of his body. Mr. H., realizing the dangerous situation in which his child was placed, commanded him to stand quite still. This the brave little fellow did, until the bees had all settled. Mr. Hayes then took a stick, gently lifted the boy's hat from his head and placed it on a neighboring bush, when the entire swarm left their extraordinary resting place and took to the hat and bush. Strange to relate, the boy received only one sting, and that was caused by his seizing, with his teeth, a bee that was trying to make its way into his mouth.

THE PROPER DISTINCTION OF WOMAN.

A writer in Lippincott's Magazine says: Is there any barrier against presumption, and against an attempt at equality, like thoroughbred courtesy? "Do what you will, you can never be so thorough a lady as I am," was the impression made upon me by the sweet humility, the plain dress, the almost forlorn surroundings of Mrs. Custis, the former mistress of Arlington. It was more what she did not do, the absence of effort, coupled with the desire to make you happy are thoroughbred-breeding, the self-abnegation, the graceful dignity, that made this lady a duchess in her father's day. Such breeding and such manners as hers are not within the reach of every one—they are partly natural gifts—but the virtues which led to them are to be cultivated by everybody with some hope of success. Miss Seawick was one of those wonderfully well-bred women. No woman in America was more famous than she in her prime, and she had much of the grace, with little of the formality of those "old-school" manners in which she must have been trained. Flattery never turned her head; she was humble and modest as a village girl, graceful and courtly as Madame de Sevigne. Her manner of introducing two persons has never been surpassed. She made them both feel honored and distinguished. Her attitude of listening was in itself a compliment, and to the very last she maintained a charm beyond beauty, the charm of perfect manners.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine. Perhaps no other medicine is so universally required by every body as a cathartic, and no one ever feels so generally obliged to every country and among all classes, as the mild but efficient purgative PILLS. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does all.

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine. Perhaps no other medicine is so universally required by every body as a cathartic, and no one ever feels so generally obliged to every country and among all classes, as the mild but efficient purgative PILLS.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD. The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys is derived from its cures of many of the most distressing cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system is so generally affected with corruption, that the most powerful remedies are unable to cure it. It is a powerful purgative, and cures all the skin diseases, which were aggravated by the scrofulous poison, and has been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that it is scarcely necessary to be informed of its virtues or uses. Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive of the human system, and unless it is removed, it will ultimately destroy the life. It is a powerful purgative, and cures all the skin diseases, which were aggravated by the scrofulous poison, and has been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that it is scarcely necessary to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption. Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so quickly the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has been higher and higher in its estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the most distressing affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and administered as soon as the first symptoms of the disease are perceived. It is a powerful purgative, and cures all the skin diseases, which were aggravated by the scrofulous poison, and has been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that it is scarcely necessary to be informed of its virtues or uses.

Ayer's Ague Cure.

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chills, Malaria, Biliousness, Headache, Stomachic Disorders, and all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons. As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it is a healthy and safe remedy. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our price is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed. Unaccompanied persons, either resident in or traveling through malarious localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily. For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, and indigestion, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity. For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, which other medicines had failed.

Rev. Mr. Wolf, Services every third Sunday.

BRIEF MENTION.

Excuse.—We hope our readers will excuse us this week for being somewhat behind in the issue of the HERALD, owing to our Dear, thinking that the holidays were near at hand, and indulging a little in tangle-leg. The devil is always in mischief, and makes lots of trouble.

W. S. Hayden, watchmaker and jeweler, has moved to Laird & Townsend's premises.

The storm and cold of the past week show that at last old winter is here at hand, and warns a preparation for his sojourn.

The November term of the Circuit Court for this county commenced last Monday.

The Bankrupt Stock have removed to Laird & Townsend's premises.

Again we repeat the warning to be careful about leaving doors and windows insecurely fastened. Thieves are plenty, and depredations are numerous reported.

The Chelsea sportsmen arrived home this week from the north woods, after an absence of three weeks. The party killing 13 deer and any quantity of other game.

There will be a Donation at the M. E. Church, in Chelsea, on Wednesday evening, December 3rd, 1873, for the benefit of their pastor, Rev. J. W. Campbell. Ample refreshments will be supplied by the Ladies. All are invited to attend.

The third annual election of the North-western Farmers' Club, will be held in the Union School House, at Chelsea, on Saturday, December 6th, 1873, for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing year. A large attendance is requested.

Notice.—We would call special attention to the advertisement of the Ann Arbor Trading Association, on the third page.

ACCIDENT.—On last Tuesday night about half past ten o'clock, as Mr. A. A. Hillis was coming down the steps of the platform near Mr. J. Van Husen's hotel, slipped his foot and fell to the bottom, dislocating his ankle and breaking his leg. We think it is about high time, for our town fathers to inform the Marshal to see that the inhabitants get about cleaning their sidewalks.

WAR WITH CUBA.—Uncle Sam is determined to go to war with Cuba—provided she don't get down on her knees and beg for mercy. Uncle Sam will forgive her. Now the only way for us to do, is to insure in that reliable insurance company, the "Waterford."

M. J. NORRIS, Agent.

There will be a bona fide Public Sale of the J. C. Dopey Farm, on Saturday, December 27th, 1873, at 10 o'clock A. M., to the highest bidder, on the premises. The above farm has not been sold at private sale. The statute require that such estate shall be sold to the highest bidder.

MARY E. DEPEW, Administratrix.

Go to A. Joudson's, at the store formerly occupied by J. G. Wackentin, on Main street, Chelsea, and examine his stock before making your purchases. His stock is complete, and he is now receiving from New York and Boston, all kinds of goods bought at panic prices, which will be sold accordingly. We are sure he can make it pay you to call on him, before making your purchases. They also pay cash for all kinds of produce.

Judging from the number of persons we see passing along the street with turkeys and chickens under their arms, we should say that there will be many good Thanksgiving dinners eaten to-day. Thanks to our friends Wood Bros. & Burkhart, for a present of a fine turkey weighing about twenty pounds. We hope all may enjoy their dinners, as we expect to ours. Long live Wood Bros. & Burkhart, and may Thanksgiving come often.

BERKEY & GAY FURNITURE COMPANY, of Grand Rapids, Mich., advertise their great auction sale, to commence December 10, and continue ten days. This will be the most important affair of the kind ever announced in the West, and we have no doubt will be largely taken advantage of by the trade and public generally.—Grand Rapids Eagle.

WANTED.—A situation to work for my board, and go to school. Address this office.

We have done as requested and published the above. But whether the applicant is male a female, we cannot say: as the writer only gives the initials of his or her name. So any one wanting a young gentleman's help had better make application. Anyone requiring help of the other sex, will stand an equal chance for success and probably better make the want known. Meantime we will try and ascertain the sex.

There are seventeen American sculptors in Rome to six English and nine German.

Pond's Extract. Many forms of disorder proceed from the same cause. One Remedy sufficient.

A boy eight years old, in one of our public schools, having been told that a reptile "is an animal that creeps," on being asked to name one on examination day, promptly and triumphantly replied, "A baby."

The "Pond Amendment."

[We copy the following from the Lake-side Weekly, published at Muskegon, Mich.]: "The honorable regents of the University of Michigan, seem to be in a fair way of forgetting entirely the people who supply them with funds, but it is pretty certain that the people will not forget the regents. Like the barbers' ghost in the legend, this body has always a new and more repulsive front to assume as soon as the public has become tolerably familiar with and resigned to the unpleasantness of the old. We have nothing to say against the machinery for managing the University; it is probably as good as any that could be desired, but it strikes us that rather poor material has of late years been used in its construction. An institution of learning like that at Ann Arbor, which draws its funds from the State Treasury, should be very near to the public in government. The Board of Regents and the members of the Lansing Commission ought to have had sense enough to understand that, as its management is taken from the electors of the State, its interests and welfare become like those of any other close corporation with which they have no sympathies, but which they are obliged to tolerate.—something as the sailor did the terrible old man of the sea—until its demands and existence can be ended together. This above all things ought to be avoided, and no one should see it clearer than the regents themselves. But perhaps they did see it, in which case we shall hear it claimed that they are quite as likely to carry out the will of the people as the Legislature, than which no greater absurdity could be advanced. There is no excuse for "Pond's Amendment," unless, indeed, it is intended to show that the men who govern the State are incompetent to govern the University; it is fully to give the exclusive care of the institution and its funds into the hands of the Regents, unless they first prove that the tax-payers who earn the money are incapable of rightly directing its expenditure. The tendency of the times to concentrate power should not touch our educational institutions. It is not for the interest of the people that a very few should govern them. No better proof of this fact could be advanced than that the regents are now expending appropriations made by the Legislature, for the benefit of the University, in resisting legislative acts demanded by the people in their own interests. This impudence would satisfy any ordinary body, but now that they have the check to ask an entire release from all restraint. We want no more of the management of the present Board of Regents. We believe a man can be found who will not place their own glory above the interests of the people."

[We copy the following from the Ann Arbor Courier. We think the Courier tells the truth, when they say that there is more papers printed in this county than can get support—and that the publishers can scarcely hold their heads above water.]

"We have received the first three numbers of the Manchester Journal, one-half of which is printed in Chicago and the other half in Jackson. The editors and proprietors are two men of energy and in some respects of more than ordinary talent. G. R. Palmer is a young lawyer of some promise and if he would stick to his profession would soon make his mark. The other is a gentleman farmer, and formerly a merchant, a Mr. L. B. Stewart, formerly of this city. He has great business tact, and if he would confine himself to his legitimate business would succeed. These men could run a good paper and do well if they would go where there is room. There is no more room in this county, there being already ten papers, two Republican, three Democratic and five neutral. The profits of any good first-class farm or dry goods store are worth more than the profits of the whole lot. It is about all any of them can do to keep their heads above water. Every single one of them would be glad to have the money for what they have invested in the business.

The Journal is Democratic in politics, and as the expense is small of running it, of course they can run it for some length of time, but it will be a miracle if they can support two families out of the profits.

It is rumored that the eleventh paper will soon be started in Scio."

CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLE.—Show me a man of the greatest practical wisdom, and you will show me a man without resentment. This is the central idea of Christianity. Whether consonant with human nature, matters not; its practical effect is excellent. But then we have the consolation to know that it is practiced, and always with success. And they who practice it have an influence for good such as nowhere else is found. But we who are troubled most by the affinities of human nature, may practice (by self-denial), and attain to the eminence of Christians—not church members necessarily, but men who do good from the nature of their principles, which their life, thus tutored, necessarily reflects. Such a man, a true Christian in principle, or in action, does the good in the world, morally—and morality is the foundation of society. As are the morals of a nation, so is the nation. Politeness is based upon it—upon an amiable disposition. We see this in Christian nations—not among barbarians. To cultivate morality, requires an effort—but nothing benefits so much. Think of a world of true brotherly love. There would be no need of almshouses or houses of correction. The millennial would then have arrived. And this is within our reach; is each individual's privilege—duty.
