Our Chip Basket.

A strapping fellow—the barber.

When a man hasn't a red he gets blue.

A retired fireman calls himself an expert.

A cavalry charge is sometimes only a play-ride.

Stands are always sold at auction to the buy-stands.

Mme. Anderson says: "I am sawdust when I sing."

A rooted sorrow—ask that man with the toothache what it is.

The greatest misfortune of all is not to be able to bear misfortune.

It is the brake of day that prevents night from going to far.

The theatre galleries come high, but the newsboys must have them.

A hog is the Adam of brute creation—he has a spare rib you know.

The successful bank robber should be possessed of nerves of steel.

Men who stand around waiting for a drink show a lack of cents.

Adam was the 1st man to enter the garden, although he went 4th from it.

Sleighting Item.—One of our fashionable tailors has a cutter that cost him $1,500 a year.

There's one melancholy fact about a calendar, there's no time when its days are not numbered.

What is the easiest thing for a farmer to plant, and the most difficult thing for him to raise?—A mortgage.

A man fully realizes he is getting on a smart thing when he jumps, after sitting down on an intense mustard plaster.

There are two periods in a woman's life when she does not like to talk. When one is never knew and the other we have forgotten.

John Smith has named his son Victor Hugo. It will be handy in after years, when he wants to say: "Victor Hugo out and split some wood."

A Chattanooga darkey, who was one of a jury failed to convict for want of evidence, explained to his brethren that the culprit was "released on s'picion."

A Boston husband disguised himself and called on his wife. She soon fell in love, and in three weeks ran away with him. She found out—they live separately.

"Why, Willie," said his mother, at dinner, "you can't possibly eat another plate of pudding, can you?" "Oh! yes, I can, Ma. One more plate will just fill the bill."

"Carpenter," said a gentleman, finding a lot of nails strewn about the floor, "if you do not pick up these nails they will be lost." "No fear," said the man, "you will find them in the bill."

A little short of three miles grading and filling, thereby putting all the back Streets in good condition.

There has been about 1000 yards of gravel drawn upon the streets, 300 yards to repair those already graded, and 700 yards upon streets not before graded.

The sluices and bridges have been overhauled and new ones put in.

Five crosswalks have been put down a cost not far from $60.00 each.

The Lock-up and wind mill have been painted.

Criticism is to be expected in regard to the Cemetery road, but when properly considered no other course was open for us but to do the work.

First. A petition, numerously signed representing those who pay more than two thirds of the highway taxes.

Second. The women had raised and expended one hundred and fifty dollars and over preparing the road way, and filling the worst place.

Third. It had become a necessity that some other way must be provided for those attending funerals at the Cemetery every year funerals are of more frequent occurrence. Every year the trains on the Rail Road are multiplying, so that it would be difficult to name an hour in the day but what one or two trains would pass rendering it more and more unsafe to bury the dead. I am persuaded that when the benefits are seen, your action will be commended.

Soon after I came into office, complaint was made of the destruction of a number of shade trees. A reward was offered, no arrests were made. That act of Vandalism was followed by numerous acts of destruction of property, and rowdiness became rampant so much so that the marshal was employed to night watch. Yet no arrests followed, and rowdiness bid defiance to the constituted authorities. By your authority Jay Wood was employed as night watch, and a new effort was made to have order. Arrests and convictions followed, order ruled, property no longer destroyed, rowdiness the exception manifested twice in the cutting loose teams—this era of good order has cost the people about fifty dollars more than has been collected from offenders—no doubt the people will see that in the future law and order prevails even at a much greater cost.

It is to be regretted that owing to the magnitude of the undertakings commenced and carried on by you through the year, we have exceeded the amount in the treasury. So that the village is in debt the sum of $160 besides whatever they may owe on the Cemetery road. Just what that will amount to cannot be determined until completed—and excavation measured—it having been let at eight cents per yard to be measured in the bank. Thirty dollars only having been paid. To reduce the indebtedness there are uncollected taxes of 1878, 1877 and 1878 amounting to $50 which should be collected by sale of property returned and poll taxes uncollected amounting to $52 which should also be collected immediately. And for use of Lock-up for tramps say $20.00

A police officer in New Haven has been fined two days' pay for taking off his boots and going to sleep. Will a policeman ever learn to never pull off his boots until after he has got to sleep?

"What is this mirror for?" inquired a party present. "Well," said the oracle, "I tell her when she gets to lazy that she can't run the machine, she can sit still and see herself starve to death."

It was at the battle of Edge Hill that Sir Jacob Ashley made his remarkable prayer: "Oh, Lord! Thou knowest how busy I must be this day; if I forget Thee, do thou not forget me, Macdon boys."

A young officer thought to puzzle the editor of Le Figaro by asking him when two men of equal age and rank met which should be the first to bow. The editor calmly replied: "The more polite of the two."

A gardener occupies an independent position. He can make his own bed and do his own sowing. He should have money enough, also, for he gets spade frequently and can raise his own celery when he chooses.

A facetious boy asked of his playmate why the boss of a hardware store was like a bootmaker. The latter somewhat puzzled, gave it up. "Why," says the other, "because the one sold the nails, and the other nails the soles."

A three year old youngster saw a drunken man "tacking" through the street. "Mother," said he, "did God make that man?" "Yes my child," The little boy reflected a moment and then exclaimed: "I wouldn't have done it."

A physician, finding a lady reading "Twelfth Night," said: "When Shakespeare wrote about Patience on a monument did he mean doctors' patients?" "No," she answered. "You don't find them on monuments but under them."

A preacher in Kentucky, the other Sunday becoming annoyed, paused in his discourse to say: "Ladies and gentlemen, if you will give me your close attention, I will keep a lookout on that door; and if anything worse than a man enters I will warn you in time to make your escape."

A little girl visiting a neighbor with her mother, was gazing curiously at the host's new bonnet, when the owner queried: "Do you like it, Laura?" The innocent replied: "Why, mother said it was a perfect fright; but it don't scare me any." Laura's mother didn't stay long after that.
