In all matters transpiring in this vicinity, the interest of the advertisers will be better served, by having the notices published in their home paper, than to take them to a paper that is not as generally read in their vicinity, besides it is the duty of every one to support home institutions as much as possible.

CHELSEA, JUNE 19, 1879.

The Good Old Times.
A CONTRAST BETWEEN THE WAYS OF LIFE IN 1829 AND 1879.

A half century ago a large part of the people of the United States lived in houses unpainted, unplastered and utterly devoid of adornment. A well-fed fire in the yawning chimney of a huge chimney gave partial warmth to a single room, and it was a common remark that the inmates were roasting one side while freezing the other; in contrast, a majority of the people of the older States now live in houses that are clapboarded, painted, blinded and comfortably warmed. Then the house-hold furniture consisted of a few plain chairs, a plain table, a bedstead made by the village carpenter. Carpets there were none. To-day, few are the homes in the city or country that do not contain a carpet of some sort, while the average laborer by a week's work may earn enough to enable him to repose at night upon a spring bed.

Fifty years ago the kitchen "dressers" were set forth with a shining row of pewter plates. The farmer ate with a buck-handled knife and an iron or pewter spoon, but the advancing civilization has sent the plates and spoons to the melting pot, while the knives and forks have given place to nickel or silver-plated cutlery.

In those days the utensils for cooking were dinner-pot, tea-kettle, skillet, Dutch oven and frying-pan; to-day there is no end of kitchen furniture.

The people of 1830 sat in the evening in the glowing light of a pitch-knot fire, or read their weekly newspaper by the flickering light of a "tallow-dip;" now, in city and village, their apartments are bright with the flame of the gas jet, or the softer radiance of kerosene. Then, if the fire went out upon the hearth, it was rekindled by a coal from a neighboring hearth, or by flint, steel and tinder. Those who indulged in pipes and cigars could light them only by some hearthstone. To-day we light fire and pipes by the dormant fire-work in the match safe at a cost of one-hundredth of a cent.

In those days we guessed the hour of noon, or ascertained it by the creeping of the sunlight up the "noon-mark" drawn upon the floor. Only the well-to-do could afford a clock. To-day, who does not carry a watch? And as for clocks, you may purchase them at wholesale, by the cart-load, at 62 cents apiece.

Fifty years ago how many dwellings were adorned with pictures? How many are there now that do not display a print, engraving, chromo, or lithograph? How many pianos or parlor organs were there then? Reed organs were not invented till 1840, and now they are in every village.

AT A SESSION OF THE BOARD of Trustees, held at the office of G. W. Turnbull, on June 6, 1879—Present, G. W. Turnbull, President, Trustees present: J. R. Gates, Wm. Martin, C. H. Kempf and James Hadler. The following ordinance was adopted as follows:

ORDINANCE NO. 4.
Designating the times when saloons, barber shops, meat markets, drug stores, dry goods stores, groceries and all other public places of business, except hotels and boarding houses, shall be closed and desist from transacting business:
Be it Enacted by the Board of Trustees of the Village of Chelsea.
SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for any saloon, dram-shop, or other place, except drug stores, where malt, or intoxicating liquors are kept, within the village of Chelsea, to be opened or kept open for the sale or giving away of such malt or intoxicating liquors, between the hours of ten o'clock P. M. on Saturday and six o'clock A. M. on the following Monday, and between the hours of ten o'clock P. M. and six o'clock A. M. on all other days, except as hereinafter specified.

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful for any saloon, dram-shop, or other place, except drug stores, where malt or intoxicating liquors are kept in the village of Chelsea, to be opened or kept open for the sale or giving away of such malt or intoxicating liquors, between the hours of ten o'clock P. M. on the day next preceding any local, special or general election and six o'clock A. M. on the day next succeeding such local, special or general election.

SEC. 3. The discovery of any person or persons other than the owners or employees of such saloon or dram-shop going into or coming out of the same during the times mentioned in sections one and two of this ordinance shall be prima facie evidence that such saloon or dram-shop is open for the sale or giving away of malt or intoxicating liquors.

SEC. 4. It shall be unlawful for any druggist or his agent to hold open his place of business, within the village of Chelsea, for the sale or giving away of any article whatsoever on the Sabbath day, except medicines.

SEC. 5. It shall be unlawful to keep open any meat market within the village of Chelsea, for the transaction of business on the Sabbath day, except from 4 A. M. to 9 A. M. on that day between the 1st day of June and the 1st day of October each year.

SEC. 6. It shall be unlawful for any dealer in dry goods, groceries, clothing, hardware or any other article of merchandise, other than those mentioned in the preceding sections of this ordinance, to hold open his place of business within the village of Chelsea on the Sabbath day for the purchase, sale or giving away of any article, or the transaction of any business whatsoever.

SEC. 7. It shall be unlawful for any person to keep open any barber shop within the village of Chelsea, on the Sabbath day for the transaction of business.

SEC. 8. Any person or persons, who shall be convicted of violating any provision of this ordinance before any Justice of the Peace in the village of Chelsea shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and fined not to exceed fifty dollars, ($50), besides costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment not to exceed thirty (30) days, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SEC. 9. All ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

SEC. 10. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication.
G. W. TURNBULL, President.
C. H. ROBBINS, Clerk.

FEW DIE OF OLD AGE.—Few men die of old age. Almost all die of disappointment, passion or bodily toil, or accident. The common expression, "choked with passion," has little exaggeration in it, for even though not suddenly fatal, strong passions shorten life. Strong bodied men often die young; weak men often live longer than the strong, for the strong use their strength, and the weak have none to use. The latter take care of themselves, the former do not. As it is with the body, so it is with the mind and temper. The strong are apt to break, or like a candle, to run; the weak to run out. The inferior animals that live temperate lives have generally their prescribed number of years. The horse lives twenty-five; the ox fifteen or twenty; the dog ten or twelve; the rabbit eight; the guinea pig six or seven years. These numbers all bear a similar proportion to the time the animal takes to grow to its full size. But man, of all the animals, is one that seldom lives this average. He ought to live a hundred years, according to physical law, for five times twenty is a hundred; but instead of that he scarcely reaches on an average four times his growing period; the cat six times, and the rabbit even eight times the standard of measurement. The reason is obvious—man is not only the most irregular and intemperate, but the most laborious and hard worked of all animals. He is also the most irritable, and there is reason to believe, though we cannot tell what an animal secretly feels, that more than any other animal, man cherishes wrath to keep him warm, and consumes himself with the fire of his own secret reflections.

A New Thing in Postal Facilities.
The Postmaster-General is authorized to issue to the public the double postal card, the double envelope, and the envelope letter sheet. The two former are intended to provide for sending an answer to a message or letter upon the same card or under the same envelope. The double postal card will be the same size as the present, but with two stamps, one on each upper corner, and will, of course, be sold for two cents. The stamp on the right hand corner is canceled when the card goes through the mail the first time, and the other on its return. The original sender writes his communication on the back and the address of his correspondent on the face; the latter appends his answer, erases his own address, and writes that of the person who sent it to him. The double envelope also has two stamps placed as on the postal card, its flap is gummed in two places, and between them is a line of perforations. The sender instead of inclosing a stamp to pay return postage, uses one of these envelopes, writing the address on the right-hand end of the envelope, and seals it by moistening the gum on the outer edge of the flap. The receiver cuts through the line of perforations, and the envelope is opened. Enclosing his answer, he seals it as usual, and writes the address of his correspondent on the left hand end. The envelope sheet is a sheet stamped on the back like a stamped envelope, and so arranged that it can be folded and sealed without using an envelope. Its advantages are economy, and also the convenience, especially in the care of papers that may be used in evidence in legal proceedings, of having proof of the time of its receipt by its attachment to the document.

Our Chip Basket.
The words of truth are never lost. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.
That is the best part of beauty which a picture cannot express.
The heart has its reasons, which Reason does not apprehend.
Many complain of their memory, but none of their judgement.
A man seldom improves who has no better model than himself.
It is not life to live for one's self alone. Let us help one another.
Let your word be your bond. Good credit is a fortune to begin with.
A talent is perfected in solitude; a character in the stream of the world.
Adversity does not take from us true friends; it only dispels those who pretend to be such.
It is not advisable to go out of doors without anything on your head, nor into company without anything in it.
The pebbles in our path weary us and make us foot-sore more than the rocks, which require only a bold effort to surmount.
Work is a necessity in one way or another to all of us. Over-work is of our own making, and like all self-imposed burdens, is beyond our strength.
Kindness is stowed away in the heart like rose-leaves in a drawer, to sweeten every object around them, and to bring hope to the weary-hearted.
As the storm goes and the stars come so will trouble go and joy come, if we but live for the within, but not in selfishness. Days will look all the brighter for the clouds across sunshine.
The best recipe for going through life in an exquisite way, with beautiful manners, is to feel that everybody, no matter how rich or how poor, needs all the kindness they can get from others in this world.
Many a timid child postpones his first attempt at walking simply because he lacks the courage to exercise an ability which he fully possesses; and many a man lets a noble scheme and grand enterprise fall to the ground from the same cause.
Some men fill the air with their strength and sweetness, as the orchards in October fill the air with the ripe fruit. Some women cling to their own houses like the honeysuckle over the door, yet, like it, fill all the region with the subtle fragrance of their goodness.
He who blames others the most is usually the most to be blamed. A quick eye to detect the faults of another has usually a blind side to its own. A sharp tongue is moved by an unquiet spirit, and an unquiet spirit waneeth not words and complaints.
There is no greater every-day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in man among men is like sunshine to the day, or gentle renewing moisture to parched herbs. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself, and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it. The sourest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continuous good humor.
