RECKONING.

If we sit down at set of sun,
And count the things that we have done,
And, counting, find
One self-denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard;
One glance most kind
That felt like sunshine where it went,
Then we may count the day well spent.

But if, through all the livelong day,
We've not eased hearts by yet or nay;
If through it all
We've nothing done that we can trace,
That brought the sunshine to a face;
No act, most small,
That helped some soul and nothing cost,
Then count the day as worse than lost.

CAN'T MAKE UP MY MIND.

O, would I were a married man,
My house all full of glee
A smiling partner by my side,
And children round my knee.
The cause why I'm a bachelor
Not hard it is to find;
The fact is, that I really can't—
I can't make up my mind!

There's Juliana Lilywhite— I know that she would drop I know that she would drop
Into my loving arms, if I
Would but the question "pop;"
With Carrie Cowslip, too, I should
No difficulty find;
She would not hesilate, but I—
I can't make up my mind!

There's Angelina Marigold,
Who would with me elope,
If to her window I would fix
A ladder made of rope!
She's gentle and she's beautiful,
Her purse is richly lined,
And she'd have me spite off"pa," but I—
I can't make up my mind!

Now when I walk along the street,
Girls' roguish looks I catch,
As with a sneer they say "There goes
A rusty-fusty bach!"
Well, I'll resolve this very day
Some sort of wife to find;
I'll wed—I think I will—O, dear,
I can't make up my mind!

Bave in a martyr's grave, The care-lined face that none forgot Bent to the kneeling slave. Let man be free! The mighty word He spake was not his own; An inpulse from the Highest stirred These chiselled lips of stone.

The cloudy sign, the fiery guide Along his pathway ran, And Nature, through his voice, denied The ownership of man.

We rest in peace where these sad eyes
Saw peril, strife and pain;
His was a nation's sacrifice,
And ours the priceless gain. O symbol of God's will on earth

A NEW YEAR'S STORY.

BY VIOLET VALE. "Stitch, stitch, stitch! Will the work never be done? Work, work, work! Will this weary life never end?"

So thought Mabel Wilmot as she sat in her little fourth-story room, where all night long she had been at work on Irene Hendrick's dress, which was to be worn that New Year's night to the grandest ball of the season.

Poor, weary, lonely Mabel! God.

grant, gentle reader, you may never pie!" know how weary she was, as she pressed her face against the window pane and gazed at the merry scene be-

There were sleighs gliding hither and thither over the glistening snow, door-bells ringing, and a "Happy New Year!" for some one on every lip. But there was no one to wish any good thing for her; no one cared whether her new year was happy or sad, unless it were some philanthropist, who wished mankind might be happy.

Four years before it was not so. Oh, no! Then she was the beautiful daughter of the aristocratic Colonel Wilmot. Then full as many tripped up the mar-ble steps, and were ushered into the lighted parlor, to be received by the stately Mrs. Wilmot and daughter, as called at any other mansion on Fifth Avenue. But the King of Terror entered their home, and after him, un-known to Mabel, stalked gaunt poverty.
Col. Wilmot was killed by a fall from his horse. It was the old story. His financial affairs were in a precarious condition; what he had, or rather what the world supposed he had, was squandered by heartless lawyers or seized by grasping creditors. Proud Mrs. Wilmot retained her usual style as long as the law would allow, and daughter. When at last the crisis came, she sent Mabel to visit friends in a distant city, and stayed to meet

It appears that Mr. Hayward, who adds to his various occupations of pastoral, agricultural, and ostrich farmer, that of what Dr. Benja-min Richardson has aptly called the "devil in solution," had just completed his season's distilling, and he caused the residuum to be taken out of the copper, and thrown into his ostrich camp. The unwary birds tasted the delusive stuff, and like other bipeds liked it, and took a little more, then a great deal more, and finally too much The effect of the intoxicating beveraga or whatever shape it took in its different stages, is described as highly edifying to on-lookers. At first, the hilarity of the birds knew no bounds. They waltzed and gyrated with their partners with surprising energy, and when heated with the dance, went to have another "whet." They resumed their hilarity, but it soon degenerated into a Ostrich kicked their spouses until they collapsed, mere bundles of feathers. [Communicated from the Family Story Paper to the Chelsen HERALD.] The Parting Hour.

THERE's something in the "parting bour Will chill the warmest heart-Yet kindred, comrades, lovers, friends, Are fated all to part. But this I've seen-and many a pang Has pressed it on my mind-The one who goes is happier Than those he leaves behind

No matter what the journey be, Adventurous, dangerous, far, To the wild deep or bleak frontier, To solitude or war-Still something cheers the heart that dares In all of human kind. And those who go are happier Than those they leave behind.

The bride goes to the bridegroom's home With doubtings and with tears, But does not hope her rainbow spread Across her cloudy fears? Alas! the mother, who remains, What comfort can she find But this, the gone is happier Than one she leaves behind.

Have you a friend-a comrade dear-An old and valued friend? Be sure your time of sweet concourse At length will have an end! And when you part-as part you will-Oh, take it not unkind, If he who goes is happier

God wills it so-and so it is; The pilgrim on the way, Though weak and worn, more cheerful is Than all the rest who stay. And when at last, poor man, subdued, Lies down to death resigned, May he not still be happier far Than those he leaves behind?

Another important step is being taken by our worthy Mayor Mabley. It is the introduction in the city of the telegraph fire alarm; and to accomplish this, the Mayor, with others interested, payed a visit to Detroit last week, to view the system in operation there. Mr. Mabley expresses nimself much pleased with what he saw, and it is understood the system will be in operation here soon. Success to any enterprise which will be a helpmate to our fire department.

Do It Well.

WHATEVER you do, do it well. A job slighted, because it is apparently unimportant, leads to habitual neglect, so that men degenerate insensibly into bad workmen.

"That is a good rough job," said a 3 foreman in our hearing, recently, and he meant that it was a piece of work not elegant in itself, but strongly made and well put together.

Training the hand and eye to do work well leads individuals to form correct habits in other respects, and a good workman is, in most cases, a good citizen. No one need hope to rise above his present situation who suffers small things to pass by unimproved, or who neglects, metaphorically speaking, to pick up a cent because it is not a dollar.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and in every way the most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Facegrubs, Pustules, Blotches, Bolls, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood, and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions. It promotes energy and strength. It restores and preserves health. It infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair, who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial. Remember, the earlier the trial, the speedier the cure.

Its recipe has been furnished to physicians everywhere; and they, recognizing its superior qualities, administer it in their

For nearly forty years AYER'S SAR-SAPARILLA has been widely used, and it now possesses the confidence of millions of people who have experienced benefits from its marvellous curative virtues.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, residents of Elizabeth, N. J., being well acquainted with the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, a specific for As the Christmas season approaches, the tores where articles suitable for holiday gifts are displayed assume their most alluring aspect. Among the best known of these establishments that of M. S. Smith & Co., whose reputation Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cold in the Head, and impaired hearing, resulting from Catarrh, do hereby certify to its great value as a remedy for those terrible complaints, and would assent would assent the complaints. and would earnestly recommend it to our friends and the general public .

is that of M. S. Smith & Co., whose reputation in Detroit and Michigan has been so well established for these many years as one of the most enterprising and honorable firms in the country. Although the season for exchanging holiday presents has heretofore found their fine show rooms, on the first and second floors of their store, resplendent and attractive with tempting and tasteful articles, most appropriate for presents, they have this season excedeed all previous-efforts to place before the public an alluring array of novel and beautiful attractions, superior to anything before presented by them. Their present collection of Parisien novelties, French clocks, bronzes, diamonds, etc., was purchased in the European markets, during the past summer and early autumn, by the senior partner of the firm, M. S. Smith, who visited Europe for that purpose. Direct importation Robert W. Townley, Mayor, Elizabeth, N. J. E. H. Sherwood, at National State Bank, Elizabeth, N. J. Smith, who visited Europe for that purpose. Direct importation enables the Messrs. Smith & Co. to offer great inducements to purchasers, in prices, as the customer is saved one profit. A very noticeable feature of their first-floor show room, is an elegant rosewood case, of semi-circular form, designed especially for the display of diamonds, in which this firm deals largely. Their stock of these and other gems is unequaled in this country, except in the case of two or three houses in the larger eastern cities.

The second floor is devoted to the display of sterling silver and the plated ware of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, French clocks, in marble, crystal, bronze, brass and other fine materials, faience and other pottery, polished brass goods, bronzes and bijouterie. The collection of rare and tasteful articles gathered on this floor gives evidence that the firm fully appreciate the growing refinement of taste, and that they have the tact and enterprise to meet it with the unique and beautiful creations of art. Purchasers of these goods are not usually very well informed as to the quality or value of articles such as diamonds, watches, silverware and jewelry, and must rely somewhat upon the honor of the dealer. The high character of the firm in question is a sufficient and certain guarantee concerning the price and quality of any article sold by them. The citizens of Detroit feel a just pride in this establishment, and visitors are shown through the elegant show rooms by resident friends, who regard it as one of the city's chief attractions. How Long We are to Live.

It is not every one who asks himself this question, because, strangely enough it is the belief of many persons that their lives will be exceptionally lengthy. However, life-assurance companies are aware of the credulous weaknesses of those whose lives they assure, and have therefore compiled numerous tables of expectancy of life for their own guid-ance, which are carefully referred to before a policy is granted. The following is one of these well-authenticated tables, in use among London assurance companies, showing the length of life at various ages. In the first column we have the present ages of persons of average health, and in the second col-umn we are enabled to peep, as it were, behind the scenes of an assurance office, and gather from their table the number

Reckoning Interest.

The following is a convenient rule for reckoning interest: Call one-half the number of months cents, and onesixth the number of days mills, and their sum will be the interest of one dollar for the given time at six per cent. For any other rate take as many sixths of it as that rate is of six. For example, the interest of $240 at six per cent. for six years, seven months and eighteen days may be found thus: Six years and eight months equals eighty months. Calling one-half the number of months cents, and one-sixth the number of days mills, and taking the sum we have $0.403, the interest of $1 for the given time. If the interest of $1 is $0.403, the interest of $240 is 240 times $0,403, which is $07.72.

To find the interest at seven per cent. add one-sixth to that at six per cent.; for five per cent. subtract onesixth, etc. When partial payments have been made upon an interest-bearing debt. the following is a rule which has been generally adopted: Compute the in-terest on the principal from the time the interest became payable to the time when a payment alone or in conjunction with previous payments shall equal or exceed the interest due on the principal. Deduct the sum and compute the interest on the balance as before. In this way there is no reckoning of interest upon interest.

The Condition of Russia

The news from St. Petersburg by late dispatches is of a grave character, and indicates an impending revolution, in which the Imperial House will be divided against itself. According to this information a serious quarrel this information a serious quarrel has arose between the Czar and the Czarewitch—the latter demanding the institution of certain reforms which he considers indispensible to the safety of the Empire and continuance of the color only, and each exactly fitting the the color only. The continuance of the color only and each exactly fitting the color only and each exact present dynasty. The Emperor was indignant, and in his wrath ordered the arrest of the Czarewitch, but the order was countermanded on receipt of a protest by telegram from the Empress. Rumors also go to the effect that sev-eral Generals of the army have threatened to withdraw their allegiance from the Emperor, unless he concedes the constitution demanded by the peo-

It is difficult to obtain reliable news from Russia. The press and telegraph are kept under the closest surveillance. These reports are already officially contradicted, but the contradiction does not conceal the fact that serious trouble exists. The people are discontented and disaffected. The rigor of the Imperial rule has become insufferable. And this discontent and disaffection is not confined to the lower classes. It honeycombs the nobility, and extends fact, is in a revolutionary condition, and the procedures of the Government to suppress revolt are a confession of it. It need surprise no one to hear any day that Russia has begun a revolution that may be radical in its overturnings as well at that of the French ninety years ago.

A German Scare.

No doubt many legends of the ansoming on actual events, as definite as that which, some four years ago, was destrifying the peasant mind in North Germany. The report had spread far and wide that all Catholic children he for two hours conversed pleasandly with black hair and blue eyes were with his wife and friends at Sayre, Pa. to be sent out of the country, some his brother at Mauch Chunk, Pa, and said to Russia, while others declared that it was the King of Prussia who had been playing cards with the Sultan of Turkey, and had staked and lost forty thousand fair-haired, blue-eyed children; and there were Moors traveling about in covered carts to collect them; and the schoolmasters were helping, for they were to have five dol-lars for every child they handed over. For a time the popular excitement was serious; parents kept their children away from school and hid them, and when they appeared in the streets, the little ones clung to them with terrified looks. Dr. Schwartze, the well-known mythologist, took the pains to trace the rumor to its sources. Comes from the decay of animal matter. Calico Printing. Calico is derived from Calicut, a town in India where the cotton cloth was made, and strictly speaking is plain cotton cloth, after being figured t becomes prints. The most common cloth now used for printing is known as 64 square 7 yards, meaning a square inch of the cloth counts 64 threads each in the warp and filling, and 7 yards weigh a pound. Immense quantities of this cloth are used annually by the calico printers. In the city of Fall River alone there are thirty printers, and their weekly product is 149,-000 pieces, and their monthly pay roll amounts to $310,000; and besides these mills there are hundreds of thousands of yards made in Lowell, Manchester, and other large cities. Printed calico was probably known to the Egyptians several thousand years ago. In India, the printing of calico was originally the well known Randanna pattern, and printed on silk as well as cotton. The manner of making the little squares and other figures seen upon these goods was very primitive, and consisted of tying bits of cord around small por-tions of the cloth before it was put into the dye pot. Then the yellow or red dye would color the cloth except where it was tied by these cords, these latter spaces being left irregular and

The printing of calico was introduced into England in the seventeenth century, but little progress was made until 1764, when Robert Peel, grandfather of the future prime minister, left the plow for the printery. The block he used, however, had a handle on the back, struck by a mallet to produce an impression. A piece of calico of 28 yards required 448 applications of the block. Copper plates, working much like an old-fashioned press, came next, and in 1785 the cylinder press was invented. The calico printing press of to-day is the same thing, and the 28 yards of cloth can now be printed in two minutes. About this time Jacob Perkins, of Newburyport, born there 1766, and who also invented steel the copper roller, which, when worn out, can easily be renewed.

Let us follow a piece of calico from its unbleached state to a finished condition. First, it is bleached to make it white, then it is singed by placing over gas jets or red hot plates to remove the nap of the fuzz, and it is then ready for the printing machine, which weighs 10 tons, is 10 feet high.

and will print from 1 to 12 colors at once. The figure is engraved on copper rollers, each having a separate roller, which revolves in a trough of colering matter, covering the roller completely, but a parallel flat rod called the "doctor," the exact length of the great revolution has taken place in the printing of calicoes, and certain colors, like green, blue, and yellow, once hard to produce, can now be brought out at will, and madder, once so important, is now a thing of the past, and superceded by steam colors and chrome, which last fixes the color.

There are 350 printing machines in the country, with a capacity of printing 1,500 pieces each, or a total of 525,000 per week, each piece containing 40 yards, or 21,000,000 yards, and the United States stands second in the business, the printeries of England placing her number one, one printery alone near Manchester running 52 machines. Twenty years ago not a jobbing house in Boston but had a line of English goods, but to-day and for some time past, it would be difficult to find any; our best designers, however, are from the mother country, and those throughout the army. The country, in printeries are most successful which employ best designers and printers.— Boston Journal.

Origin of Plagues.

It is not very pleasant to dwell upon the habits of our ancestors, but if you would just consider for a moment what were the modes in which the English the Stuarts, you would see what a ground the plagues had for fructifying in England. High above all other dwellings were the castles and the stuarts and the tribut vania Central and the trib chemt world, though not really history, in England. High above all other vania Central and the tributary lines are myths which have arisen by read dwellings were the castles and the it controls, the Lake Shore & Michigan monasteries; it was luxury and it was squalor. The wigwams-for they deserve no better name-in which the ic, the Kansas Pacific and the Misson peasants lived were made of logs plastered with mud, and in them dwelt a ally members of one system. The miserable, ague-stricken population. Those who were a little better than the peasant and even the higher middle classes, lived in an extremely filthy state. They scattered rushes upon the floor, and they threw the relics of the food upon these rushes and never re- ed. The most direct and effective moved them, but placed new rushes means to this end is through national upon the top when they became too legislation. For the reception of the guests it was given a thorough cleaning, and it was remarked that, whilst the plague was all around, it didn't attack Oxford. Luckily, soon after the great fire in London burned down the rookeries which had been the source of the plagues, and the plagues lisappeared from England, and men began to come back to the ancient knowledge, that cleanliness was connected with health .- Dr. Lyon Play-

A Hot Water River.

The projector of the Sutro Tunnel is of the opinion that the hot water which is so troublesome in the Comstock mines comes from a depth of ten of fifteen thousand feet, where the rocks are at a high temperature; also that there must be some connection between the water of the Comstock lode and that of the boiling springs at

Steamboat, six or seven miles distant. One of the great advantages of the tunnel is the means it affords for draining the mines. The tunnel discharges about twelve thousand tons of water every twenty-four hours. To lift this water to the surface would cost not less than $3,000 a day. Some of the water has a temperature of 165 ° where all the water mingles; four miles from the mouth of the tunnel the temperature ranges from 130 ? to 185°. If left to flow through the open tunnel this water would so fill the air with steam as to make the tunnel plates for bank notes, brought out a process of transferring the engraving from a small three inch long steel cylinder to the large copper roller, by first cutting on the soft steel, hardenfirst cutting on the soft steel, hardening it, and then bringing it out in relief on a second cylinder, from which, after again hardening, it is pressed on the copper roller, which when worn which serves as a tail rose.

count in heating hot houses and to irrigation. The tunnel company has a farm of over a thousand acres which when properly watered, is very fertile In course of time there, will probable be many acres of fruit and vegetable under glass at this point, all warmed and watered by the tunnel water.

The Ratiroads

From a temperate, well considered article in the Prairie Farmer on the new railroad combination, we extract. the following, and believe it expresses the sentiments of intelligent farmen throughout the Northwest without er. ception:

As the details of the great transaction tion in New York Central railroad stock become better understood, they are well calculated to excite uneasiness and alarm. It is now apparent that all the great trunk lines of the country have been combined, and that this combination, either directly or indirectly, by the immense wealth it controls, overshadows and subordinate to its will, other lines to which the public might otherwise look for relief in the exent of extortionate charges for transportation to the seaboard, la for transportation to the seasoard, la its comercial aspect, this unprecedent ed sale of railroad stock is of deep sig. nificance, for in it are involved the interest alike of farmer, mechanic and merchant. All of the vast industries of the country may be compelled to pay unjust exactions to a monopoly the most gigantic which has ever laid the people under tribute. From the information which the public has been able to obtain from eastern sources it now seems certain Southern, the Mishigan Central and its feeders, the Wabash, the Union Pacifri & Texas extensions, are all practicpower which such a stupenduous com-bination possesses over the producing classes is a matter of the highest mo ment, and to protect the people from possible and probable wrong, some plan or policy is imperatively demand. settled the question of state and nacant is the decision of the supreme

We notice that the subject has a ready been brought to the attention of Congress by a petition from the National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry. It will be well to supplement this with similar petitions, memorials and resolutions from all association and organizations in the interest of the producing classes, and by merchants, shippers, and all who are engaged in regulations as shall put a veto a selfish and unreasonable exactions les

The country cannot get along with out railroads; they are of vital importance to its vast business interests, and however convenient and beneficial th water-lines we now have or may con struct to the seaboard, are, or may be we must rely solely upon the railway present outlook of the situation, is view of the financial and political power which this stupendous combination may exert if unrestrained by wholeson legislation on the part of Congress, anything but encouraging, and that
