LEGAL NOTICES. Sheriff's Sale.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, ss. JOSEPH H. DURAND, Sheriff.

By virtue of a writ of execution, issued out of and under the seal of the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, in the above entitled cause, to me directed and delivered, I did, on the Eleventh day of September, A. D. 1870, seize and levy upon the following described real estate, to-wit: Lot number three (3), in Block number two (2), in James M. Congdon's second addition to the Village of Chelsea, Washtenaw County, Michigan, according to the recorded plat of said Village, which said described Real Estate, I shall expose for sale, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the north door of the Court House, in the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan, on the Seventeenth day of January, A. D. 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day.

Dated December 4th, 1870. JOSIAH S. CASE, Sheriff. By EDGAR WARREN, Deputy Sheriff. DEWEY & LEHMAN, Att'ys for Plaintiff.

Mortgage Sale. DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, executed by Andrew Guide and Mary Guide, his wife, to James Taylor, dated the eighth day of July, A. D. 1876, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for the County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, on the third day of August, A. D. 1876, in Liber 55 of Mortgages, on page 5, which mortgage was duly assigned by said James Taylor to Maria Guide, on the twenty-seventh day of November, A. D. 1877, by an assignment recorded in said Register's office, for said County of Washtenaw, on the third day of December, A. D. 1877, in Liber 5 of Assignments of Mortgages, on page 569, and said mortgage was assigned by said Maria Guide to said James Taylor, on the twenty-eighth day of November, A. D. 1877, by an assignment recorded in said Register's office, in Liber 5 of Assignments of Mortgages, on page 568, on the third day of December, A. D. 1877, and again on the sixth day of November, A. D. 1879, said mortgage was duly assigned by said James Taylor to said Maria Guide, by an assignment recorded in said Register's office, for said County of Washtenaw, in Liber 6 of Assignments of Mortgages, on page 367, on the seventh day of November, A. D. 1879, by which said default the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative, and no proceedings having been instituted in law or equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and the sum of one thousand and eight dollars being now claimed to be due on said mortgage; and, also, an attorney fee of thirty dollars, as therein provided.

Notice is therefore hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed, by sale of the mortgaged premises therein described, or some part thereof, viz: The undivided one-half of all that certain piece or parcel of land, situated in the Village of Chelsea, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, known and described as follows, to-wit: Lot two (2), John C. Taylor's subdivision of the north-east corner of Block number four, Village of Chelsea, according to the recorded plat thereof, at public vendue, at the east door of the Court House, in the City of Ann Arbor, on the seventh day of February, 1880, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day.

Dated November 13th, 1879. MARIA GULDE, Assignee. DEWEY & LEHMAN, Att'ys for Assignee.

A simple device, says the Plumber, is within the reach of every one having an ordinary window in his room, by which fresh outer air can be admitted in small quantity, with such an upward current, as will prevent its being felt as an injurious draught by the inmates. It is particularly adapted to sleeping-rooms when the weather is too cold to admit of an open window. Thus, start both top and bottom sashes of the window half an inch, which is not quite enough to clear the rebate or stop-bands at top and bottom, but which leaves an opening of an inch between the meeting rails through which a current enters, but diverted upward by the glass as it should be, so as not to fall directly to the floor, as its coolness might otherwise induce it to do. It thus becomes well mixed with the air of the room, without being felt as a draught.

Conversation.

To converse well is an art of much value. It is the most certain means by which to give a charm to social life, and by which dullness may be banished the moment it attempts to intrude itself. No other talent or amusement has an equal power at all times; music may often fail to withdraw our thoughts from unpleasant remembrances, and the theatre and ball-room, are not always in unison with the state of our feelings. But it is not thus with conversation, which is scarcely ever so powerless as not to beguile the thoughts from even the most painful recollections. Conversation is at once the medium of affection, consolation, amusement, and instruction. It is the means by which wisdom may obtain an influence over weakness and folly; piety over irreligion and immorality. To converse agreeably requires in the first place a cultivated mind, without which your conversation would be insipid to others. Another requisite is to have well-governed feelings. These will enable you to preserve your equanimity, and to avoid giving disturbance to others. Discrimination should also be included in the list of requisites, in order to discover what subjects, according to time and circumstance, we should choose or avoid, and the proper moment to talk or be silent. A monopolizer of conversation is by no means an agreeable appendage to a party. The love of display is another trait very unfavorable to conversation, the chief object of which should either be instruction or amusement. Conversation has been compared to a game of ball, at which each player should urge the ball with spirit into its right direction, but never suffer it to rest with him beyond its proper time, or to fall to the ground when any dexterity or skill on his part can keep it in play. The improved state of a person's mind, and the extent of his acquirements, ought rather to be inferred from the conversation than forced or obtruded upon the observation of others.

To speak well, the following rules should be earnestly attended to:

You should be quite as anxious to talk with propriety as you are to think, sing, paint, or write according to the best rules.

Always select words calculated to convey an exact impression of your meaning.

Let your articulation be easy, clear, correct in accent, and suited in tone and emphasis to your discourse.

Avoid a muttering, mouthing, stuttering, droning, guttural, nasal, or lisping pronunciation.

Let your speech be neither too low nor too loud, but adjusted to the ear of your companion. Try to prevent the necessity of any person crying, "What? what?"

Avoid a loquacious propensity; you should never occupy more than your share of the time, or more than is agreeable to others.

Beware of such vulgar interpolations as "You know," "You see," "I'll tell you what."

Learn when to use and when to omit the aspirate h. This is an indispensable mark of a good education.

Pay strict regard to the rules of grammar, even in private conversation. If you do not understand these rules, learn them, whatever be your age or station.

Though you should always speak pleasantly, do not mix your conversation with loud bursts of laughter.

Never indulge in uncommon words, or Latin and French phrases, but choose the best understood terms to express your meaning.

Above all, let your conversation be intellectual, graceful, chaste, discreet, edifying and profitable.

This and That.

"Vat a monster language," said a Frenchman; "here I read in ze newspapers that a man committed a murder, was committed to trial and zen committed himself to a reportair. No wonder everything in America is done by committee."

"I didn't at all expect company to-day," said a lady to her visitors, with a not very pleasant look; "but I hope you will make yourselves at home." "Yes, indeed," replied one of them, starting off, "I will make myself at home as quick as possible."

"Any burglars in this town?" a traveler asked a villager in Western Tennessee. "Well, no, not now, stranger; there was a couple of 'em here last spring, but one night they broke into the editor's house, and starved to death before they could get out."

He had an amburn-haired girl and promised to take her out riding. She met him at the door when he drove up, and he loudly exclaimed, "Hello! re-a-dy?" She misunderstood him, and they don't speak now. Thus slang makes another slap at love's young dream.

A bashful young man could defer the momentous question no longer, so he stammered: "Martha, I—I—do you—you must have—are you aware that the good book says—er, says, that it is not g-g-good that man should be alone?" "Then, hadn't you better run home to your mother?" Martha coolly suggested.

Some one asked Prince G.—what the great powers of Europe were. He replied, as only a Frenchman could and with Talleyrand: "They are England, Germany, France, Russia, and—women."

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

Some Notable Things About Its Business Methods.

A FEW steps further on was the powerful institution whose influence is felt in finances and trade all over the world—the Bank of England. Bounded on all four sides by the street, all its windows prudentially open into a central court, and, since the riots of 1780, it has been occupied every night by a detachment of soldiers. Its business requires a working force of 1,200 men. Its bank notes are printed within the building. The same note is never paid out over the counter twice. The new bill that is issued this morning is retired as soon as it returns, no matter if the same man pays it in again this afternoon without a wrinkle in it. It is allowed to issue notes to the amount of £15,000,000, on the security of its standing loan of a much larger amount to the Government, which constitutes a part of the public debt. For every note issued above that, and it has a circulation of over £40,000,000—bullion of an equal amount must be paid into the treasury, and must be kept there for the redemption of the note when it returns. The traveler on the continent often finds its notes at a premium in gold. No note is issued of a less denomination than £2. Every note is numbered, and the name of the party to whom it is paid out is carefully recorded. The practice of keeping a memorandum which will show from whom he receives every bank note that passes through his hands, is common also with the painstaking London tradesman. It proved a fortunate thing for a friend of mine on one occasion. He had given his wife a £10 note. Their little child got hold of the porte-monnaie and destroyed the note, as they supposed, by throwing it on the open-fire. There would have been no hope of realizing on a greenback under such circumstances. But $50 was worth trying for. The number of the note was ascertained from the parties through whose hands it came to my friend, a sworn statement of the facts was filed at the bank, and after a year or so had passed without its having been presented for redemption the bank paid over the money. The bank takes in and pays out its gold coin by weight. Sometimes it sends out a sealed package and receives it again before the seal is broken, and yet deducts quite a sum from the amount at which it paid it out, to make good the loss—detected by the unerring scales—which occurred by the abrasion of the coins in transportation.

A Boy Who Resembles a Frog.

Five miles southwest of Kenton, Tenn., on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, is the greatest monstrosity of the age—a human being who resembles a frog. He is the son of R. Newell, is twenty-six inches high, weighs forty-eight pounds, and was born in Obion county, Tenn., March 12th, 1875. His body and arms are regularly formed and well developed, his fingers are short, and the manner in which they are set on his hands gives them the appearance of a frog's feet; his legs are small, and are set at right angles with the regular line of walk; his feet are small and badly formed; his face is eight or nine inches long, and makes an angle of 62 degrees, with the base of skull—facial-angle; his head is almost conical; his eyes are small and without expression; his upper jaw projects far over the lower one; his lower jaw is small and has a superabundance of flesh attached, which renders him quite froggy. He can't talk. If you throw a nickel on the floor, he will light on it like a chicken on a June-bug. He can't walk, but what is wanting in walking is made up in jumping. I saw him jump eight feet after a dime. If a tub of water is placed near him, he will jump into it like a duck. In rainy weather he goes to the door and leaps out, and remains out-doors until the rain is over. Obion county has given birth to the following: The female dwarfs, the mud-negro, the sleeping beauty, and the frog-child. She is justly entitled to the appellation, "Mother of Monstrosities."—Troy (Tenn.) News.

High Wind Velocities.

In its review of the hurricane which swept along our Southern Atlantic seaboard, lately, the Weather Bureau reports that the wind velocities, noted as the central vortex neared Cape Lookout, were among the highest, if not the highest, which have ever been recorded. At Cape Lookout, at 6:30 A. M., one day recently, the barometer falling very rapidly, the cups of the anemometer were blown away while the instrument was registering a wind velocity of 138 miles per hour. But this was not the maximum. An hour and a half later, as the storm center began to pass away, and the barometer to rise, the wind rose to the estimated velocity of 165 miles per hour. An observed velocity of 100 miles an hour was also reported from Cape Henry. The highest winds attending storms near sea level, with which these can be compared, are, perhaps, those of the Liverpool storm of February, 1868—from 100 to 120 miles an hour—and those of the great Gadeloupe hurricane of 1865, from 100 to 130 miles.

Cash and Credit.

A very well-considered article headed as above, after quoting the couplet—

"The man who builds and wants wherewith to pay, Erects a house from which to run away," the Rural New Yorker goes on to say that the experience of many a business man, as well as many a farmer, has indorsed this statement. But it is more especially applicable to farmers. Merchants, from the very nature of their business, must trust and be trusted in return. To them a credit system is indispensable. When a demand for a certain article is created on short notice, the tradesman must be able to supply his customers, and to do so it often becomes necessary for him to go in debt for the goods; but if he has foresight, buys with judgment and understands his business, he will in a short time have disposed of the goods at a profit, and be ready to pay off his debt. Not so in the case of the farmer. In his business there are no sudden hits to be made. For him to go in debt in ninety-nine cases in a hundred hampers his prosperity, instead of promoting it. His income consists in what he derives from the sale of his products—his grain, fruit, hay, potatoes, stock and dairy produce. These are slowly produced. Many disasters beyond his control are liable to interfere with his plans, of which the present condition of affairs in England furnishes a striking example, and when quick and sure returns cannot be had it is, to say the least, a hazardous policy to go in debt.

What we desire to impress upon our readers is to keep clear of debts. Of all rash acts, we believe that to borrow money even for a permanent improvement, unless such improvement is an absolute necessity, is most likely to be repented of. A new house may afford much cherished comfort, but comfort bought with borrowed money is borrowed comfort, and must in the end be dearly paid for. It is not enough that a certain improvement will pay the interest on the money invested. If it pays only the interest, what will become of the principal? The tendency of things is to wear out, and diminish in value. The drains put into a field, or a new barn, cannot last forever, and if improvements that return only the interest are made on borrowed capital, the condition stated at the outset will eventually ensue; the owner will be forced to leave his home in the hands of his creditor. Again, the returns from the farm are ordinarily so slow, that before a borrowed capital can be paid off the interest upon it may often amount to once or even twice the principal, and the improvement becomes a costly undertaking. We do not mean to say that no improvements should be made on the farm; without improvements agriculture would degenerate. What we mean is that they should not be made with capital borrowed on loose and superficial calculations. But few men have the sagacity to foresee and judge correctly of the real value of such investments, and without such foresight it becomes but little better than a game of chance, in which no man should stake his independence.

There is another class of debts in which some families thoughtlessly involve themselves. It is those little items from the grocery, the hardware store, the lumber yard, the shoemaker, etc., which, though seemingly innocent and insignificant in themselves, soon swell in the aggregate into respectable bills that will be doubly hard to pay, after the goods have all been consumed. No one should buy on credit if he has the cash wherewith to pay, though it be necessary to disturb a bank account, and if the money is not at immediate command, it is better to contrive to do without a thing in some way than to buy it on credit. To live within one's means is an important lesson to learn. No man is rich whose expenditures exceed his income, though he dabbles in millions, while the one who can save ten cents a day is on the road to fortune.

Young men who are fettered by poverty, and who wish for the use of

A Put-up Job in Matrimony.

"I HAVE been a subscriber to the News Letter for the last ten year," said a "broke-up" looking young man coming into this office recently, and sitting down in front of the managing editor, "and I call upon it for aid and assistance."

The editor looked rather pointedly at the clock, and asked what he could do for the visitor.

"Why, I want you to hold up to public scorn and detestation a fellow called Mooney, and a mean red-headed girl named Morrissey."

"Scandal case, eh?" "A heap sight worse. You see I was engaged to be married to that girl—her name's Maria—and Dr. Stone was to hitch us up the first of the month, so I asked this mean cus, Mooney, to be one of my groomsmen."

"He consented, of course?" "You bet' he did. You see Mooney has a big black mustache and all that—and he's a good deal of a masher, as it were. He said he'd try to make it lively and pleasant for the bridesmaids."

"And did he?" "Why, he actually made love to all four. Got the other groomsmen furious by flirting with the whole lot. Told 'em it was the correct thing in Europe for the groomsmen to kiss the bridesmaids all round, before and after the ceremony, and that they ought to meet and practice to get the thing in good running order."

"Did they practice?" said the editor, laying down his pen.

"Did they? Why, it was just disgusting the way they went on every evening. To see that villain Mooney pretend to steer down the aisle, and back up against the chancel rail, and then, when the mock service was over, kiss and paw around the girls, would have made your hair raise a foot. Why, he actually began flirting with my Maria—I mean that Morrissey girl."

"Made love to the bride, eh?" "Exactly; and she's a letting him do it—mind you. Well, yesterday they said they were going to have a fine rehearsal that night, and to make the thing more perfect, they intended to get Bings, the young divinity student, to read the service. And as I was going over to Oakland with a load of furniture for our new house, Mooney said he would officiate in my place."

"That was kind of him."

"But wait a minute. When I got back and called at Maria's house, about eleven o'clock P. M., I found all the party sitting around the parlor looking very serious, except the bride, who seemed kinder frightened. 'What's the trouble?' said I; what's happened?"

"Well, the fact is," says that cheery Mooney, "there's been the most singular accident, and the queerest mistake you ever heard in your life. You see, we were rehearsing the service as usual, and I was a-holding Maria's hand just like this, when young Bings got sorter absent-minded, so to speak, and the first thing he knew he pronounced us man and wife in the regular form, and he now says we are married in real earnest. 'Too bad, isn't it?'"

"Singular mistake," said the editor.

"But the worst of it was the way that false hearted hussey took it. She said it was pretty hard, but what couldn't be cured must be endured, and that she supposed they couldn't get a divorce under a year, anyway, and a lot of stuff like that."

"Peared resigned to her fate, as it were."

"Exactly; and then Mooney chipped in with a lot of stuff about not crying over spilt milk, and said he'd take the furniture off my hands and pay for the ring. Said he'd give his note for 'em. Cheek? Why, that man has more gall than a pawnbroker's clerk, and I want you, Mr. Editor, to show him and his red-headed, big-footed wife up the very worst way. Accident, indeed! Why, it's the plainest put-up job I ever saw in the whole course of my life. Just let 'em have it in italics, if you please, and I'll take 500 extra copies."

The editor said he'd attend to it, and has since written to Mr. Mooney to say that a position as a reporter was always open to him on his go-ahead journal.—San Francisco News Letter.

"A Yankee woman recently married a Chinese laundryman, and in three days thereafter the unhappy Celestial appeared at a barber's shop and ordered his pigtail to be cut off, saying, in explanation: "Too muchee yankee."

LAST Sunday was the most beautiful winter day we have seen for a long time. If a man does not catch cold this season, the cold will catch him, which is all the same.

THE corn crop is estimated to be in excess of any previous year by over 150,000, 000 bushels. THE difference between a bill and a pill is, that the bill is hard to get up and the pill is hard to get down.

Kisses are the right kind of smacks to sail down the stream of life with, although taking a buss is not bad. 'Tis rather neat upon your feet a pair of skates to find; 'tis rather dear upon your eye when skates slip up behind.

PAUL CHRISTMAN, of Ann Arbor, was married a few days ago at St. Johns, Mich., to Miss Emma Congdon, of Chelsea.

WHEN a writer swears because his communication is refused, it's a proof that evil communications corrupt good manners. SAW FILING.—B. F. Tuttle will for the winter file all kinds of saws at Bacon & Co.'s Hardware store, on reasonable terms.

THE beaming countenances of our young ladies inform us that the "seed time of their harvest" draweth nigh—we mean leap-year. OUR merchants inform us that the past year has been far the best year for business they have ever witnessed in Chelsea. That sounds well, doesn't it?

THE cold weather has "let up" some for the past few days, in order to get a new hold; and then when it comes again, oh, woe! don't mention it. A NUMBER of young men at Ann Arbor have pledged themselves to abstain from the use of tobacco for the next 12 months. We advise our Chelsea young men to follow suit.

DIED.—At Grass Lake, on Sunday last, Mrs. Backus, aged 71 years. The body was brought to Chelsea on Tuesday forenoon, by the Grand Rapids Express, for interment.

THE exhibition of poultry, pigeons, pet stock and dogs, under the auspices of the Michigan Poultry and Pet Stock Association, will be held at Ann Arbor, Jan. 20th, 21st, 22nd and 23rd, 1880.

It would now be proper for the weather clerk to give us a snow that would last about four weeks. What little we have had has only provoked the small boy to wrath. The essence of his prayer is, "give us more snow."

THE alarm of fire was sounded from the Baptist Church bell on last Saturday. It caused a little excitement; on repairing to the spot it was found that the chimney of Jacob Staffan's residence was on fire. No serious damage was done.

THE Sunday School of the Congregational Church, in this village, have elected the following officers: Superintendent—Rev. Thos. Holmes. Assistant Superintendent—L. E. Sparks. Treasurer—Miss M. Geddes.

CHILDREN who are indulged too much, fed on delicacies, kept in hot houses, will surely become effeminate. They ought to "rough it" enough to make them tough and rugged; for it is surely those who can conquer in a world like ours, where the struggle of existence is so great that only the strong win.

A LADY who prides herself on knowing how to care for house-plants, says: "The temperature of a room for plants to do well, should run between 70 degrees for the day time, and 55 degrees for the night. Rooms are kept too warm for both plants and human inmates. Provide some method of evaporating water in the room to moisten the air."

AN exchange says: "Some men never spend a cent for advertising, either in newspapers or any other way. In the stores of such men are generally seen old barrel heads, on which are inscribed in chalk or charcoal, such devices as these: Flower, Korn Meal, Peppers, Pourk, Cheze, Kalk, Kountry Produce hawt & sold, goods chepe four kash; Tee, Sugar, etc."

LARGE FIRE IN UNADILLA.—About 8:30 A. M., on Tuesday, Jan. 6th, a fire was discovered in Mr. Kempf's tin-shop, and in a few minutes it was all in a blaze. In a few minutes more Miss Marshall's house and store on the north was also in flames, and also, Mr. Gilbert's blacksmith shop on the south, all of which were wholly consumed. With great exertion Overt & Co.'s store and the hotel, were saved. Mrs. Hay's and Mr. Phillips lost most of their furniture.

It is the easiest thing in the world to discover all the grease spots on a man's coat when you don't like him. It is said that a child born on Christmas will always hate turkey and goose, and lean towards codfish and bacon.

We have received the first number of a weekly just started at Ypsilanti. It is in quarto form, and it has a fine typographical appearance, gotten up with skill and ability. It is published by M. T. Woodruff, and is called the Ypsilantian. We wish it success.

"THERE is something expressly touching in the fallen leaves," sighs an esteemed author. There is; there is. It's when you slip on one of the articles on a wet morning, and touch the unsympathetic pavement with the end of your foot.

REV. BISHOP GILMOER, of Cleveland, Ohio, has used the Great German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, and endorses it highly. He writes about it as follows:—I am pleased to say that the use of St. Jacobs Oil has benefited me greatly, and I have no hesitation to recommend it to all as an excellent curative.

Geo. MILB DUTCHER delivered a very able lecture on temperance at the Baptist Church, on last Sunday evening, to a large audience. Mr. D. as a lecturer is second to none. His advice to the young and rising generation was most eloquent, and affecting; in fact it was one of the best temperance lectures that has ever been delivered in Chelsea.

Dissolution Notice. THE Co-partnership heretofore existing under the firm name of HOLMES & PARKER, is this day dissolved, by expiration. All persons having book account with us, will please call and settle by cash or note, at once, as it becomes necessary for us to close our books. Respectfully, HARMON S. HOLMES, BENARD PARKER. Chelsea, Jan. 1st, 1880.

Special Notice.—The business of the late firm of Holmes & Parker will be continued in all its branches, as usual, at the old stand. It shall be my endeavor, in the future, to carry one of the most complete lines of general merchandise ever brought to Chelsea, and at prices that will meet with legitimate competition. Yours, truly, H. S. HOLMES.

A LARGE amount of wheat and corn has been sold in this market the past week.

This weather is so favorable to the development of diphtheria, that any approved remedy should be widely disseminated. A ROOF, heart-broken, and financially embarrassed editor consoles himself with the following angelic prophecy: "Tell me ye angelic hosts, ye messengers of love: shall swindled printers herebelow have no redresses above?" The angels flapped their wings and said, "To us a harp is given, delinquents on the printers books can never enter heaven." And it is said the world will come to an end this year, delinquents should pay up at once.

An exchange prints an article headed, "How long should our girls be courted?" Well, it depends upon the circumstances. If the girl is willing a fellow might stay till one o'clock, but if the old lady is a step o'clock sharp parent, it is best for a fellow to leave on time. If the old man is down on him, and has a vicious dog, he had best not stay at all, but disguise his voice and court through the telephone.

BUSINESS AFFAIRS.—A careless business man is morally unsonic. Show me a man who never pays his notes when they are due, and who shuns the payment of his bills when it is possible, and does both things as a habit, and I shall see a man whose moral character is, beyond all question, bad. We have had illustrious examples of this lack of business exactness.

We have had great men whose business habits were simply scandalous, who never paid their bills unless urged and worried, and who expended for their personal gratification every cent of money they could lay their hands upon. These delinquencies have been apologized for as among the eccentricities of genius, or as the unimpairedness of small affairs which naturally attend all greatness of intellect and intellectual effort; but the world has been too easy with them altogether. No matter how many amiable and praiseworthy traits of character such men possessed, they were dishonest and untrustworthy in their business relations, and that simple fact condemns them. I am ready to believe any bad of a man who habitually neglects to fulfill his business obligations. Such a man is certainly rotten at heart, and does not deserve respect.

PLANT TREES.—If nature warns man to touch the forests with a sparing hand, she no less indicates that he shall put his utmost energy into breaking up the soil of the prairies, and when possible plant trees. The quantity of rain in Western Nebraska and Kansas is reported to have doubled since the early settlement of those regions, and the reason doubtless is to be found both in the planting of trees, and the opening up of the soil, so as to absorb more moisture. Moreover, brooks, or "branches," as they call them out there, are starting up in gullies and gulches hitherto dry. Colorado and California, States generally utterly dry for eight summer and fall months, have this year begun to have heavy rains. The same causes are probably at work all over the "dry season" portions of our country. On the other hand, Ohio and Northern New York are echoing, and, with reason, the complaints of the French Agricultural Report, that the falling of forests is the ruin of rivers. These natural laws seem plain enough. Man should learn to follow them.

THE CROSS-EYED CHILDREN.—Nobody can tell who has not watched it what an effect a physical deformity has upon the mind and character of a growing child, especially one which detracts in so marked a manner from its personal appearance. It exposes the child to taunts and cruel appellations of its comrades, which in sensitive children often drive them into solitude, and make them shy and suspicious of strangers, in whom, on the other hand, they excite suspicion. The turn in the eye gives either a wandering, doubting air to the face, or, if the gaze is fixed, a too intense expression, which is disturbing and perplexing, if not downright painful to the beholder.

I have known young boys of eight and ten years of age beg their parents to let them undergo the pain of an operation to rid themselves of a deformity which subjects them so often to the unfeeling remarks of their elders, usually friends of the family, as well as the unfeeling but expressive titles bestowed upon them by their own contemporaries, of goggle eye and cock-eye. Nor does this end with childhood. The deformity is a disadvantage to him through life. It pursues him in his business and in his profession. Cheated of feature by dissembling nature, he is often thought to be dissembling himself when nothing is further from his thoughts. How often do we hear people say of another, whom we know to be perfectly upright and trustworthy, that they do not like him because he never looks them squarely in the face. And it is a little curious that precisely here it is that the lesser degrees of the trouble produce the most effect.

That peculiar expression which people complain so much of is generally due to a deviation in the axes of the eye—a slight convergence which is never very conspicuous, and at times only to be detected by a trained eye, but which, nevertheless, produces in all a very disagreeable impression, although not marked enough to betray its cause.

MEDICAL.

FROM THE N. Y. CUSTOM-HOUSE. CUSTOM HOUSE, New York City, Nov. 14th, 1870.

DR. M. M. FENNER, Fredonia, N. Y. Dear Sir:—I have been afflicted for some time with Billiuness and Nervous Prostration unfitting me for business. Having had your Blood and Liver Remedy and Fenner's Tonic recommended to me by several friends here, who had experienced its beneficial effects, as the great remedy for restoring a disordered system, I was induced to try it. I can thankfully assure you that it has exceeded my expectations, and that I can most confidently urge its use upon those suffering from the diseases for which it is prepared.

Sincerely yours, Wm. W. Post, Chief Clerk, Weighers Department.

Dr. Fenner's Blood and Liver Remedy and Fenner's Tonic may well be called "The conquering hero" of the times. Whoever has "the blues" should take it, for it regulates and restores the disordered system that gives rise to them. It always cures Billiuness and Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headaches, Fever and Ague, Spleen Enlargements, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Pimples, Blisters, and ALL SKIN ERUPTIONS and BLOOD DISORDERS, Swelled Limbs and Dropsy, Sleeplessness, Impaired Nerves and Nervous Debility; Restores flesh and strength when the system is running down or going into decline; cures Female Weakness and Chronic Rheumatism, and relieves Chronic Bronchitis, and all Lung and Throat difficulties. It does these things by striking at the root of disease and removing its causes.

Dr. Fenner's Improved Cough Honey will relieve any cough in one hour. Try sample bottle at 10 cents.

Dr. Fenner's Golden Relief cures any pain, as Toothache, Neuralgia, Colic, or Headache, in 5 to 30 minutes, and readily relieves Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, Diarrhoea, etc. Try sample bottle at 10c.

Dr. Fenner's Vegetable Blood and Liver Pills. The best family physic known. For sale by Glazier & Armstrong, Chelsea, Mich. [v8-13]

It cures by causing discharge and healing, not by drying up, is easy to apply, is a wonderful cleanser and healer, with it a small child can be treated without pain or dread, it reaches old and obstinate cases, it opens the nasal passages which have been closed for years, it restores the sense of taste and smell, it removes unpleasant breath and bad taste in the mouth, when resulting from Catarrh. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications, and thoroughly used it will effect a decided cure. Physicians are compelled to acknowledge that beneficial results are derived from its use. The proprietors of ELY'S CREAM BALM do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a certain remedy for the above diseases.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, residents of Elizabeth, N. J., being well acquainted with the merits of Ely's Cream Balm, a specific for Catarrh, Hay Fever, Cold in the Head, and impaired hearing, resulting from Catarrh, do hereby certify to its great value as a remedy for those terrible complaints, and would earnestly recommend it to our friends and the general public.
