CHELSEA, FEBRUARY 12, 1880

"The World Owe Me a Living."

It is false! The world don't owe anything of the kind. You are its debtor in innumerable ways; owe it more than you could pay if you lived a score of lives. Under providence everything that you possess comes from the world; and how much can you find upon the credit side of the account? There never was a more miserable subterfuge to shift the responsibility; to get something for nothing; to live upon others; to be worthless drones in the hive, and feast upon the honey you have done nothing in gathering. The world don't owe you the single fraction of a cent—never has and never will; and it is the veriest nonsense to prate of such a thing. You know better; know you are proclaiming the baldest trash, you do not believe yourself, and at which everybody laughs at and condemns.

From birth to death—from the first sob to the latest sigh, you are indebted to the world for thousands of acts of consideration, kindness and forgiveness; from the toddling little child to the grey-headed, trembling old man, you have to lean upon the world and depend upon its support. In scarcely a single action can you "go it alone." The tree can no more thrive without the earth, or the river without the springs bubbling from the mossy rocks of the mountain. We all have to depend upon others; all have to lean heavily upon the world. No one thing is self-supporting, any other doctrine is as monstrously absurd as false.

Don't let your head be turned with any such miserable stuff. You have your part to play, your duty to perform; have to earn your own bread. A more preposterous idea was never promulgated than that you could live without work, because, forsooth, the world was a bank in which you had an unlimited deposit, to be drawn upon at pleasure. If you are insane enough to put faith in such a notion, try it; and be convinced how soon your checks will be protested and your drafts returned with the endorsement of "no assets." The world never owes sluggards and sloths and "bummers" and "tramps" an iota. Even that which the rich can claim as their own is gotten by hard-knocks and the sweat of their brow. The world is a task-master that demands and will have full time and faithful labor. Kind to those who earnestly and honestly toil is it, but almost vindictive to any who idle away time, neglect opportunity, and fancy it can be cheated out of just dues. The entire plan is against any such shirking the responsibility, and its wisdom is apparent in every phrase of life. There was no gap in the fence left for you especially to crawl through while others have to climb over; no road constructed all down hill for your benefit. There is a burden for each and every one; a load that cannot be carelessly thrown aside; you have got to "fish or cut bait," or do worse—to beg or steal.

When the world owes you anything you may safely depend that it will be paid to the uttermost farthing, and that without dunnings. When it does! Aye, when; for in that single word is condensed the whole gist of the matter. But until you are assured beyond the possibility of mistake that such is the case, don't "lay back and fan," and wait for it to lay its treasures at your feet. If you do you are making bricks without straw, building houses without nails or mortar, and the ideal "glorious fabric" will soon tumble in ruin, and lucky if you are not crushed beneath. The world does a strictly legitimate and cash business; it neither gives long nor short paper, and never was known to beg discount. Every demand is paid in full on presentation, and without the customary "three day's grace." When you can establish the fact of indebtedness, make up the account and go boldly and demand your deed. Never fear that you will be put off or solicited to take less. The world is no niggardly pay-master, but it will have an equivalent for all it gives.

But don't make a laughing stock of yourself and claim what is not your due. It is the most irrational of communism to prate of the division of that in which you have no right to share; which you never earned; for which you can show no tangible proof. Go to work like a man, not be loafing about trying to fish from others that which you are too indolently selfish to acquire for yourself. Put in full time; don't try to see how little you can kill it with, and when your work is done make out your bill. Then you can do so without being ashamed; buy your bread and eat it, sweetened by the knowledge of its having been fairly won. Remember, the world don't owe you the most minute atom of food or clothing; that all such claims are imaginary. Be a man amongst men; be a worker among workers. In whatever rank your lot is labor for the highest place and toil for the highest reward. Don't be an "everlasting fool," and think yours an exceptional case. The only thing for which you can have a claim against the world is "six feet of earth"—for every thing else you are its debtor. Pay up with work. Toil and you will get your reward. Don't sleep or dream away the days. Life is too brief for idleness, and the man who sits down content in the belief that the "world owes him a living" will find he has a very sorry one. Work and send in your bill. But until you do something worthy of pay don't proclaim your own worthlessness and disgrace by shouting from the house-tops about owing, when the shoe is most decidedly on the other foot.

Just as he finished his little serenade, the moon came out from behind a cloud, and she, the mother of the moon of his heart, leaped to the window and upon him emptied about two gallons of cistern-water. "After me the deluge," he simply and prettily said; and, as he walked briskly away, the plashing aqueous in his light guitar made it sound as though he were carrying home a jug.

As a sedate old man entered a railroad car with his wife at Truro, Cal., a flask of whisky fell from his coat pocket. A passenger picked it up and offered to return it. "O, it isn't my husband's," the woman said, "he never drinks or carries liquor." "No, it's not mine," the man added, "easily." At the next station the couple left the train; but before it started the passengers were amused to see the old man come back to claim the flask.

This and That.

Farmers daughters are charming, and when they become old maids they are matchless.

Women can never play ball satisfactorily until they are permitted to use their aprons to catch with.

"Mary, dear, suppose I were to shoot at a tree with five birds on it, and kill three, how many would be left?" "Mary—four years old—'Three ma'am.' Teacher—"No, two would be left." Mary—"No, there wouldn't, though; the three shot would be left, and the other two would be fled away!"

A Michigan man has invented a flying machine, and found, on trying to fly with it from the top of a flag-staff, that he had got a contrivance that would get him to the ground quicker than he could get there by jumping without it. It is thought the thing will prove a tip-top well-digging machine.

"Papa, didn't you whip me once for biting little Tommy?" "Yes, my child, you hurt him much." "Well, then, papa, you ought to whip sister's music master, too; he bit sister, yesterday afternoon, right on the mouth; and I know it hurt her, because she put her arms around his neck and tried to choke him."

Edison has invented a machine for condensing the noise of the elevated railway in New York City, running it down a pipe to the Battery, loading it on the Sound-steamboats, and dumping it near Brattleborough, Vt. Great man that Edison! The Brattleborough people expect to can the noise and sell it for Fourth of July celebrations.

They sat in the parlor, and he squeezed her hand. "Oh! would that this hand were mine!" he sighed. "Why?" she whispered. "Because, if it were mine, I could knock bullocks down with it better'n with a sledge-hammer." The last seen of that young man he was trying to climb to the top of the house by means of the waterspout.

An enterprising undertaker sent the following excessively cool note to a sick man: "Dear Sir:—Having positive proof that you are rapidly approaching death's gate, we propriety suggest itself to me to call your attention to the enclosed advertisement of my abundant stock of ready-made coffins, and make the suggestion that you signify to your friends a desire for the purchase of your burial outfit at my establishment."

There is in Harrisburg, Penn., a dentist who has a daughter who is loved by a young man; but he is so bashful, and don't like to go to the house to see her unless he has an excuse. So every Tuesday and Friday he calls and gets the old man to draw a tooth for him, and then he goes into the back parlor and sparks the girl, under the pretence of trying to find his hat. He has only six teeth left now; and what worries him is to know what he is going to do when they are all out.

To My Friends and Patrons.

I would say do not be alarmed about high prices, and the great advance that is talked about that is said will happen in the near future. It is mostly talk, for "any reasonable thinking person" will see at once that there is no excuse for it. The piece goods for Ready-Made Clothing for Spring and Summer Wear, was purchased by manufacturers last Fall when there was scarcely any advance, and with the great competition in the United States, one can see at once that there is no reasonable reason for an advance this Spring, and I intend (if not in person) in reality, to remain in the

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in nature, and are perfectly adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effective remedy yet discovered for diseases, caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their and private practice, and by civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel, or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effective cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Puffiness of the Face, Headache, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal. While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

TIM. McKONE means business; his brick block is getting along rapidly toward completion.

Why is a widower like a house in a state of delapidation? Because he should be repaired.

THE weather is beautiful; we almost imagine that we hear the fine warbling notes of the robin.

THE M. E. Church social, held at Tuttle's Hall, in this village, on last Friday evening, was a financial success.

A PARTY of our village young men left last Monday for the lakes, to camp out for a week and to have a good fishing time.

MRS. WARREN, of Ann Arbor, addressed the Reform Club, at their hall, in this village, on temperance, on last Sunday, to a large audience.

CORD wood is coming into market with a rush. We wish to remind our readers, who are in arrears, to bring along a little of that commodity as we are nearly out.

THE "Bee social" came off last Monday at the "Hive." They were laden with a large stock of Groceries, Boots, Shoes, etc. Aaron and Ferd. are the "King bee."

MARRIED.—In Lima, at the residence of George Mitchell, by the Rev. E. A. Gay, of Chelsea, on Thursday, Jan. 29th, 1880, Mr. Wm. H. Lloyd to Miss Carrie A. Covert. The happy couple start out in life with the kind wishes of many friends.

HON. S. T. CARRY, of Ohio, will lecture for the Chelsea Reform Club, on Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 20th and 21st, 1880. The first lecture on "Mistakes of Moses, or Ingersoll—which?" The other on "Temperance."

RUNAWAY.—On last Monday as Mr. McDonald, the tree agent, was coming from Lima to Chelsea, his horse got frightened and started off on the double quick; but was finally caught. No serious damage was done.

THE social ball given by the German Workmen's Benevolent Association, of Chelsea, on last Monday evening, at Tuttle's Hall, was largely attended. Some 75 couples enjoyed the gay and festive scene, and "tripped the light fantastic toe," until the "wee sma' hour beyond the twel'." We're informed that it was a grand financial success.

CHELSEA has commenced to put on "City airs." H. S. Holmes, our leading dry-goods merchant, has adopted the check system, where he employs both large and small boys to carry the cash up to the "Captain's office." Another of our leading firms, Parker & Babcock, have also got a beautiful wire sign in front of their store, which to strangers visiting Chelsea would think that they were in Boston or some other large city.

It has been said that "Truth is stranger than fiction," and whether correct or not would seem to work out in the experiences of some. We are credibly informed that not long since an estimable young lady, of an adjoining town, "took a long knap," and on returning to consciousness was surprised to find herself in that "land of sunshine and flowers," (Florida,) wreathed with orange blossoms. We hope that in "courting somnambula," she will find that joy and wish which is the sure reward of the faithful.

THE celebrated, Wilkinsons troupe will appear in Chelsea, at Tuttle's Hall, Friday evening, Feb. 20th, 1880, and produce the beautiful drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." (Mrs. Stowe's famous story,) in a most excellent and life-like representation. It is very seldom that our citizens are favored with so fine an entertainment, and especially where each and every character is so faithfully delineated. Hard, indeed, must be the heart that can witness unmoved the pathetic scenes of this popular drama, the unexceptional style in which the Wilkinsons place it before the public, must be given to be fully appreciated. We predict a large audience.

MR. A. NEIGER, of Taylorsville, Penn., writes: My mother, an old lady of sixty years, suffered for thirty years with Rheumatism, to such an extent, that she was at times entirely lame. We procured from Messrs. Ludwig Bros., Druggists, in Scranton, Pa., a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL, used it according to directions, and saw our efforts crowned with perfect success. Mother was relieved.

In no branch of railroading is the work of economy being more thoroughly enforced than in the workings of locomotives, many companies offering handsome premiums to the engineer or fireman who makes the best record in this respect. The Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne and Chicago Railway Company pays a monthly cash prize of $10 to the fireman, and $20 to the engineer of the engine, which makes the best record as to the amount of coal, waste and oil used. A prize of $100 is paid for the best record each year.

Wood Bro's are expecting a car of Shelled Corn from the West soon, and will keep in stock all Spring.

A JUDICIOUS WIFE.—A judicious wife is always nipping off from her husband's moral nature little twigs that are growing in the wrong direction. She keeps him in shape by continued pruning. If you say anything silly, she will affectionately tell you so. If you declare that you will do some absurd thing, she'll find some means of preventing your doing it. And by far the greatest part of all common sense there is in this world unquestionably belongs to women. The wisest thing a man commonly does is that which his wife counsels him to do. If Johnson had been married there would have been no hoarding up of orange peel, no touching all the posts along the street, no eating and drinking with disgusting voracity. If Oliver Goldsmith had been married he would never have worn that memorable and ridiculous coat. Whenever you see a man you know little about, oddly dressed or talking absurdly, or exhibiting any eccentricity of manner, you may be tolerably sure he is not a married man; for the corners are rounded off, the little shoots pared away, in married men. Wives have generally much more sense than their husbands. The wife's advice is like the ballast that keeps the ship steady.

Wood Bro's have decided to add Crockery, Glassware, and Lamps, to their stock, and have accordingly purchased of Jones, McDuffy & Stratton, Boston, (the largest Importers in America,) a full line of best English White Granite Ware; and, also, a crate of beautiful decorated ware. You should withhold your purchases in that line till their goods arrive.

A WORD TO YOUNG MEN.—My friend, did you ever know, can you call to mind a single instance, of a person who, having his own way to make in the world, spends his time in the streets, in billiard saloons, around hotels, or in any of the forms of dissipation, to succeed in a great degree in any enterprise? Look over your list of friends and acquaintances and note their course. Do you not find on examination that those who to-day are men of influence and honor, were the youth who made the most of valuable time, turning it to good account; and, on the other hand, don't you find that those who stood at the corner with cigar or pipe in their mouth, went from bad to worse, and finally to ruin? Sadly must the answer be made—oh, that it were not so—they have failed! Will you not profit by the experience of others? Go not that way. Never be idle. Every moment of your time is a golden one; use it as such. Fix your mind upon some noble subject. Be men.—The call is for men. Will you not be one of that number who can say, "I am a man?"

A GREAT SAVING TO FARMERS.—A SELF-SUPPORTING OR PORTABLE FENCE.—The patentee says: "Two hundred rods is enough to enclose 100 acres of land, and by the use of this fence you can do more pasturing on 10 acres than you can on 30 acres, where the stationary fence is used. Last year I had 20 acres, which I expected to use for pasture. I took enough of this fence to fence off 3 acres, and when that was fed off I enclosed 3 acres more; when that was fed off I placed it around 2 acres more; when that was gone I commenced back, and had fresh pasture; and that 8 acres furnished pasture for seven horses, four hogs and nine head of cattle, and a balance of 12 acres was left to mow for hay. I thus saved enough to pay for the fence. Two men and a team can move and set up four acres in one hour.

"When I am done grazing, in the fall, I place the fence on my wheat field, on the rolling portion of it, and if we have snow, I will warrant a good crop of wheat on any hill in the country that will grow wheat. Two years ago, last winter, I placed on my wheat fields 80 rods of this fence, and I believe I saved 100 bushels of wheat."

All orders can be addressed to the owner, S. R. Beam, Battle Creek, Mich., or to this office. Those wishing to put up a cheap and substantial fence, can call at this office and get a descriptive circular and other information.

SLAUGHTERED BY A MOB.

FIVE PERSONS MURDERED IN CANADA AND THEIR BODIES BURNED TO A CRISP.

THE annals of Canadian crime contain nothing equal to the horror of a midnight assassination which took place about 17 miles from London, in the township of Biddulph.

On Tuesday night, or early Wednesday morning, about 20 masked and blackened men rode up to the residence of William Donnelly and called him to the door. His brother John responded to the summons, and was shot dead at the door.

The vigilance committee then rode to the house of James Donnelly, father of the gang well-known as the "Donnelly boys," about two miles distant, and there demanded entrance. As far as can be learned Tom Donnelly went to the door, and was killed in the yard after a terrible struggle, in which the old man and his wife, who had rushed from their beds, took part. The old folks never got further than the kitchen, for there they were knocked down and beaten to death, with clubs and implements hastily picked up on the premises.

Bridget Donnelly, a niece of the old folks, was covering in terror in a bedroom near the kitchen, and evidently the assassins knew of her presence, as she was sought out and beaten to death with the same horrible and relentless fury which had caused the death of the others.

After having murdered the entire family the building was fired, in order, no doubt, to destroy all traces of the perpetrators of the deed, and the bodies of the Donnelly's burned to a crisp. The victims of this bloody outbreak of a long-suffering community were five in number, including old man Donnelly, his wife, two sons and a niece.

No hand was raised during the night to stop the burning of the house, though the country is thickly settled. In the morning the scene was visited by an immense concourse of people, who scarce dared comment on the deed for fear of the result.

The Donnelly family were a bad crowd, and carried things with a high hand. The neighborhood in which they lived was exclusively Irish, and when any one had a difference with them, such as a lawsuit or a fight, they would burn down the buildings or dismember the animals of their enemies, or those with whom they had trouble. As time rolled on they grew to be the terror of the country round about, and the broils into which portions or all of the family engaged were numerous and sometimes bloody. Two of the tons lost their lives in fights in which they were the aggressors, or were responsible for the difficulty. A feeling has long been rampant in the community that the family should be exterminated as a curse, or at least run out of that portion of the country, and, finally, culminated as stated.

One of the sons of the murdered father is somewhere in Michigan, and there is another living near Buffalo, N. Y., so that it is not unreasonable to suppose that they will turn up as avengers at their old home.

The bloody tale would perhaps have remained untold were it not for the presence of a small boy named Connor, who was staying all night at the ill-fated place, and, during the struggle, had secreted himself under a bed and remained undiscovered, fleeing in time to avoid being burned.

JOE T. JACOBS, and daughter Katie, of Ann Arbor, started on their Florida trip.

THERE is plenty of time yet for good sleighing. A few years ago we had two months of good sleighing after this time.

It is a mistake young man, when you think the girls just dying after you. It is only you who are thoroughly in love with yourself.

SILVER is abundant, and although a most desired article to possess, still it is of some annoyance if carried in the pocket, on account of its bulkiness. However, this is not the only inconvenience and bother the holder is subject to. Some time ago the post-office authorities refused to take coins with a hole punched in or otherwise defaced; shortly after express companies followed suit, the banks have issued an edict similar in purport, and now the various tradespeople refuse silver coins of large or small denomination which have an ornamentation put on after leaving the mint. In connection with this it is a remarkable fact that there is such a large number of coins with holes in them.
