The Mormon Question in Congress.

The opinion has been frequently expressed that the present Congress would follow the example of its predecessors in discussing the Mormon question with more or less warmth, and then leaving it untouched so far as legislation was concerned; but the prospect is said to be good for at least an earnest attempt to secure some effective legislation against the twin relic of barbarism in Utah. In the last three Congresses the Democrats have controlled the House of Representatives and its committees, and while they have not been the open defenders or apologists of Mormonism or polygamy, as they were of slavery, they have not showed any active hostility to it. They have ignored the recommendations of the Presidents for additional legislation, and have smothered in committee the bills offered by Republicans intended to assert the authority of the Government and to enforce the sentiments of the country in regard to polygamy. Their course in the last Congress is a fair illustration of the manner in which they shirked their duty and evaded their responsibilities in reference to this subject. Among other bills there were three introduced by Mr. Willets of this State. They were referred to the judiciary committee of which Mr. Willits was a member and Proctor Knott was chairman. It was several weeks before the chairman could be induced to refer the bills to a subcommittee, and no effort availed to secure a report either favorable or unfavorable from that committee.

In the present House, a different temper is already observed. Mr. Willits's bill to abolish the territorial legislature of Utah and substitute a legislative council to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, is received with great favor and a majority of the judiciary committee have already expressed themselves in favor of that or some similar measure. Sentiment also favors such change in the laws relating to evidence and jurors in the Utah courts as will make it possible to secure convictions for violations of the laws against polygamy. The continued tolerance of that evil in territory under the direct jurisdiction of the general government, is a stain upon our civilization and a crime against morality, and Republican members of Congress will only reflect the best sentiment of the country when they earnestly undertake the difficult task of its removal.

The issue is likely to be first brought before the House upon the contested election case of Campbell vs. Cannon. The Mormon, Cannon, though an alien and a self-confessed violator of the laws, has been allowed to retain his seat undisturbed, in former congresses. Resolutions have now been prepared and will soon be offered, reciting admissions made by Cannon under oath—that he is a polygamist in theory and practice, and that he has publicly preached and taught that doctrine, and declaring that the House will never consent to the admission as a delegate from any territory of any man who practices plural marriage. There is a fair prospect that these resolutions will pass; and whether they do or not, it is nearly certain that Cannon will not much longer occupy the seat he has heretofore disgraced.

That gigantic floating palace, the Livadia, made, in passing from Cork to Gibraltar, upward of seventeen miles an hour, while there was a total lack of any disagreeable motion, her "pitch" being but one degree. This may lead to a great change in ship-building.

Railroads in Russia.

A Moscow letter to the London Times gives the following flattering account of railroads in Russia and their benefit to that country:

"If there is a country in the world for whose special benefit railroads may be said to have been invented, that country is decidedly Russia. From St. Petersburg to Moscow the distance is 604 versts, or 403 English miles, and the night train travels over it in fifteen hours, not reckoning stoppages, which is considered fair average speed on the continent. In posting-times, all that horse-flesh, by the most strenuous efforts, had been made to achieve was the conveyance of the imperial mails between the two cities in five days and five nights, or 120 hours, the rate being three and one-half miles an hour. The gain in time is, perhaps, greater in this than in any other country; but in no country has that speed, which is, after all, the only real advantage of railway traveling, been less counteracted by its undeniable drawbacks. In England, for instance, railways have robbed us of all the charms of the road, the shady park, the breezy common, the crowding villagers, the chaff of driver and hostler, the ingle nook at the wayside inn, the foaming ale of the stirrup-cup; in France and Italy of the sight of the hundred minor towns, with their cathedrals and town halls in the market-place, the luscious fruits, the lively faces, the quaint costumes which enlivened us at every stage. We traveled then through the life of the country. All we enjoy now is the blank dead wall of the station, the thronged platform, the piles of luggage, the engine-shriek, the stale sandwich, the hurryscurry, the sour look of fellow-passengers, more thankful for our room than our company, and from station to station two hours' prison, boxed up, locked up at the guard's discretion, the express tearing away deaf to our sufferings or dangers, cooped up with bears or bores, and with the chances of falling in with a Muller or a Lefroy.

"In Russia alone, railway traveling may be said to have been all gain and no loss. There is no line in either hemisphere that comes up to the comfort and luxuries of the Moscow and St. Petersburg line; roomy and lofty saloon carriages, a window seat, a fauteuil lit, a light baggage net for every traveler, a toilet room at the carriage end, regular halts at convenient intervals; the finest stations, the best supplied and cheapest refreshment-rooms, and loftiest, widest, cleanest platforms to stretch one's legs in; and everything everywhere contrived to protect you from winter cold or summer heat—a great improvement, all this, upon the cramped open sledge, with the thermometer at 30 degrees below zero, and the cold creeping in and curling your blood, under your fur coat, cap and boots, the snow and sleet pelting your face, a pack of wolves howling in your rear, ready to catch the hindmost, and the motion of the sledge over snow furrows causing you to bob up and down in your seat like a log on the waves, with an upset now and then, and many passengers regularly sea-sick; yet even all these miseries preferable to summer traveling, with the stifling heat and blinding glare of a twenty-two hours' day and the dust, both stifling and blinding, and the jolting that broke every bone in your body.

"The Russian travels fast, and with the happy consciousness that neither in town nor in country does he leave anything behind worth loitering for. Even Murray, who is bound to say something, has but little to tell us about Chudowa, Volkova, Tver, Klin and other localities the train stopped at on our route. And, as for the country, the panorama is almost everywhere the same dreary flat from end to end, the earth spreading far and wide like a broad dish all round to the horizon, and the blue vault of heaven encompassing it like a dish-cover—the very idea of the universe as man conceived it before Galileo put spectacles on his nose and made him see 'more worlds than one.'

In 1870 the territory of Dakota had a population of only 14,181 persons; in 1880 it had 135,177, and now its population exceeds 170,000. In 1860 Nebraska was a territory with a population of 28,841. In 1870 it was a state with 122,993 inhabitants, and in 1880 the number had increased in population with equal rapidity and Kansas still more rapidly. Dakota is gaining in population as rapidly as any of the states mentioned, and by all precedents is entitled to admission as a state.

A BRAVE LITTLE DAUGHTER.—There is a very pretty story by Miss Strickland, in her "Queens of England," of a little girl who saved her father's life.

"It was in the time of Queen Mary, and Lord Preston, the father of the child, was condemned to death for conspiring to bring back the exiled King James to the throne. Her name was Lady Catherine Graham, and she was only nine years of age. "The poor child was, during the trial of her father, left in the Queen's apartments in Windsor Castle. The day after the condemnation of Lord Preston, the Queen found the little Lady Catherine in St. George's gallery, gazing earnestly on the whole-length picture of James II., which still remains there. Struck with the mournful expression of the young girl's face, Mary asked her hastily what she saw in that picture which made her look on it so particularly. "I was thinking," said the innocent child, "how hard it is that my father must die for loving yours." The story goes that the Queen, pricked in conscience by this artless reply, immediately signed the pardon of Lord Preston, and gave the father back to the child.

A FOOLISH GIRL.—The seventeen-year-old daughter of Dr. W., fell, (or imagined she did), wildly in love with a mellow-voiced baritone in the Mapleson company. Under an assumed name she wrote him gushing and romantic little notes, and finally sent her photograph. The face was so lovely that it piqued the singer's curiosity, but it was in vain he pleaded for an opportunity to see it. Miss W. could only enjoy her escapade as long as she maintained her incognito.

Finally the baritone, noting the name of the photographer, visited his parlors and ascertained his correspondent's name. Then he wrote to her under her real address, saying he had identified her, and she could take the choice of having her picture and notes back and giving him $200 in cash, or he would tell a reporter of the Police Gazette the story and have the picture published. There is little likelihood such a threat would have been carried out, but the girl was so terribly frightened that she sent him all the money she could scrape together, and the rest of the sum in jewelry.

A MODEST REQUEST.—"Darling, wake up and stop snoring," said a Chicago woman to her husband.

"Eh? Whazza matter now?" he asked as he half raised up in bed.

"Won't you please stop snoring? If you only knew how homesick it made me, I'm sure you would."

"Homesick! How the deuce can my innocent snore make you homesick?"

"Why, you know, darling, that the home on the coast from which you took me, a joyous bride, was only half a mile from a fog-horn, and every time you snore it reminds me so of home that I just can't stand it. Please lay on your side and have some little respect for my feelings."

And then the brute spread himself out on his back and in five minutes had her bathed in tears as visions of the old home crept upon her.

Josh Billings thus disposes of Col. Ingersoll: "I wouldn't give 5 cents to hear Bob Ingersoll on 'the mistakes of Moses,' but would give $500 to hear Moses on the mistakes of Bob Ingersoll."

PROFITABLE PATIENTS.

The most wonderful and marvelous success, in cases where persons are sick or wasting away from a condition of miserableness, that no one knows what ails them (profitable patients for doctors) is obtained by the use of Hop Bitters. They begin to cure from the first dose, and keep it up until perfect health and strength is restored. Whoever is afflicted in this way need not suffer, when they can get Hop Bitters. OBITUARY.

Died at his residence in Sylvan, Dec. 30, 1881, of inflammation of the bowels, WILLIAM NOTTEN, aged 48 years.
Mr. Notten was born in New York in 1833, of German parents, who emigrated to this country in 1837. He served in the 20th Michigan Infantry during the war. In 1867, he was married to Caroline Ariz, whom he now leaves with three children to mourn his loss. He was an earnest member and trustee of the M. E. church, near his home, and was beloved by all who knew him. The funeral was under the direction of Vernon Lodge I. O. O. F., of Chelsea, of which he was a member, having passed the chairs and been representative to Grand Lodge. At high twelve, Monday, January 24, the procession, headed by the Chelsea Cornet Band, and followed by the above lodge and representatives of lodges from Ann Arbor, Manchester, Grass Lake and Dexter, and a large concourse of friends and neighbors, marched to the church, where the funeral sermon was preached by the local pastor; after which, remarks were made by Revs. Magoffin, of Dexter, and Gay, of Chelsea. The remains were then deposited in the church-yard, with the solemn and impressive ceremonies of the Order.

Jackson is to have a street railway running east and west the whole length of the city. Will Chelsea follow suit?

The Supreme Court began the January term on Wednesday last, with 119 cases on the calendar.

The Masonic fund distributed among the northern fire sufferers, who were members of that fraternity, will amount to $150 per man.

The body of Leonard Graves, a coal miner, was found on the Michigan Central railroad track near Jackson, Sunday morning. He had evidently been struck by the Pacific express in the night.

Patrick Maroney, a Michigan Central brakeman, fell from a freight train Saturday night, between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and had one of his legs so badly mangled that it was amputated in the hospital at Ann Arbor, whither he was removed after the accident.

The meeting of the Chelsea Dramatic Club was a success in every particular. Each and every one took hold of their work with a vim that exists in none but Chelsea young people. They held another meeting on this week Wednesday. Save up your money for a grand entertainment before long.

THE LADIES of the Christian Temperance Union feel that a card of thanks is due the Good Templars and the leading temperance men of Chelsea, for their help in defraying the expenses of the lecture at the Baptist Church, January 4th, by the Hon. Neal Dow. And it is the prayer of the Union that it may be returned to them as "bread cast upon the waters."

A double runaway occurred last Thursday, between two teams; one belonging to John Moran, the other to a Mr. Mullen. They were frightened, as was supposed, by the cars at the depot. They took a southerly direction, breaking everything, wagons, etc., with the exception of a demijohn, supposed to contain whisky. No serious damage done.

Our band had a nice time last Monday evening serenading. They went to the residence of Justice Lehman's and gave him and his wife a hearty serenade. They next went to the residence of the newly married couple Mr. and Mrs. Speer, where they had a joyous time, rendering beautiful music. Mr. Speer was not prepared to receive them, but invited them down to Heselchwerdt's restaurant, where they enjoyed a bountiful repast. After supper they played some beautiful airs, and all feeling happy, they dispersed to their homes.

Auctioneer Davis, of Chelsea, through the columns of the Herald, advises the people of that vicinity not to go to Ann Arbor or Jackson to get their auction bills printed, but to go to the Herald office, on the grounds that they can get better work done and at cheaper rates at the latter place than in the former places. We have always had a good opinion of the Herald, but when it becomes so egotistic as to publish such statements regardless of the truth, it lowers that journal in our estimation at least one hundred per cent. The quality of presswork is done at that office, and fairly contradicts their boasting statements.—Ann Arbor Courier.

Editor Chelsea Herald:

When I wrote a notice to the farmers, advising them to have their auction bills printed at the HERALD office, it was not particularly to puff your paper, but because I had in view the best interests of the farmers who would be likely to get that kind of work done in the future. The facts are just this: I have had a number of sales within the past year, where the men I sold for, would come to me on the day of sale, and say "that not one-half of their stuff was advertised," or words to that effect; saying they had been to Ann Arbor on business, and got their bills printed at the same time, and most always added, "they paid enough to get a decent bill." Of course, I never knew at what printing house in Ann Arbor these bills were printed, until I saw that wait in the Courier of week before last. How true it is that "straws show which way the wind blows," and that "a wounded bird always flutters." You see the other printing houses did not take it at all—the cost did not fit them—and, in what I said, I had no thought of wounding any one; but poor Uncle Beal took it right home, and virtually acknowledged to all the readers of the Courier, that his was the office that printed "said" auction bills; and then he tries to get way down beneath himself, by calling your paper a "smutty sheet." Now then, Mr. Editor, don't you say a word, just let poor Uncle Beal—squel. You know "Balaam once had an animal he let do all the talking."—mum's the word.

Sheriff's Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given, that by virtue of a writ of Fieri Facias issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, in favor of Fredrica Bush, against the goods and chatties and real estate of Mortimer W. Bush, in said county, to me directed and delivered, I did on the twenty-eighth (28) day of November, A. D. 1881, levy upon and take all the right, title and interest, of the said Mortimer W. Bush, in and to the following described real estate: that is to say, all that certain piece or parcels of land situated in the village of Chelsea, County of Washtenaw, and State of Michigan, known and described as follows viz: Lot number fifteen (15) in block number seventeen (17) according to Elisha Congdon's third addition to the plat of the village of Chelsea, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, all of which I shall expose for sale at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the north front door of the Court House in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county, on the third day of February, A. D. 1882, next at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of that day.
Dated this Thirtieth day of December, A. D. 1881.

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, ss.
COUNTY OF WASHTENAW.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Ann Arbor, on Friday, the thirtieth day of December, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Present, William D. Harriman, Judge of Probate.
In the matter of the estate of Alfred B. Bird, James P. Bird, Agnes E. Bird, and Daniel B. Bird, minors.

On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of William F. Bird, Guardian, praying that he may be licensed to sell certain real estate belonging to said minors.
Thereupon it is ordered, that Tuesday the thirty-first day of January, 1882, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the next of kin of said minors, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said county, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further Ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.
WILLIAM D. HARRIMAN,
Judge of Probate.

Probate Register.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHOEA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Enlargement and Prolapse, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, etc.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Sent under seal in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps. Address THE CULVERWELL-MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York. 18
