CHELSEA, MAR. 30, 1882.

This World's Reward.

Keep pushing! 'tis wiser than sitting aside And sighing and watching and waiting, the tide;

In life's earnest battle they only prevail, Who daily march onward and never say fail.

Opening the map of God's extensive plan We find a little isle, this life of man; Eternity's unknown expanse appears, Circling round and limiting his years.

The busy race examine and explore, Each creek and cavern of the dangerous shore;

With care collect what in their eyes excels, Some shining pebbles, and some weeds and shells.

Thus laden, dream that they are rich and great, And happiest he that groans beneath his weight.

The waves o'take them in their arduous play, And every hour sweeps multitudes away.

They shrink and sink, survivors start and weep,

Pursue their sport and follow to the deep. A few forsake the throng, with lifted eyes Ask wealth of Heaven, and gain a prize.

Whence came the Soil?

Astronomy teaches us that once all the substance of the solar system was in a gaseous state, like the far-off nebulae of today. This mass assumed a spherical form and a motion of rotation in accordance with well established laws of matter; its heat was thus changed to motion and part was radiated; cooling, it contracted, and threw off belts from its equator, which formed into spheres and rotated on their axis, the earth being one of these planets. The planets threw off belts from their equators to form moons, and losing their heat by radiation and change of motion, cooled from a gaseous to a liquid form. The cooling process still going on patches of solid matter appeared, and in this misty border-land astronomy and geology meet.

The crust wrote its own history, a long and enduring one, for it was traced deep in rocks and iron and gold. Through the Eozoic, Paleozoic, and Cenozoic times the crust thickened and suffered revolutions and catastrophes at the hands of fire and water. At the close of the Tertiary period the earth is fit for the habitation of man, and all nature seems expectant of his coming. Timber, water, game, and the domestic animals, are already there. From the formation of iron in the very dawn of the Eozoic to the deposition of gold in the evening of the Mesozoic time, the various minerals have been stored up for his use, and the carboniferous age treasured up countless tons of coal.

But the creative plan is not yet complete. Where a tropical climate had before existed, now glaciers plowed their way or icebergs lazily floated along. Existing life perishes. Glaciers from the north move down every valley, crushing and grinding them to powder, cutting away hills, scouring mountains, filling up valleys and river channels, and depositing debris of powdered rock as soil over the entire country north of latitude forty degrees north, and east of the Rocky Mountains. They also transported gravel and stones as well as sand and clay and lime in minute particles. "Bowlders" from the mainland cover Long Island and Martha's Vineyard. "Masses of native copper from Lake Superior are scattered over Wisconsin, Michigan, and even Ohio and Indiana. The streets of Cincinnati are paved with stones quarried by the hand of Nature in the region of the upper lakes." Rocks are found on our Western prairies six hundred miles from home.

Again, the temperature is increased and the melting glaciers send torrents of waters to the very border of the gulf, covering the southern valleys with sediment—the soil that is now cultivated. The land sinks till only the loftiest mountains are visible, while the waters sort and modify the drift, making it adapted to the support of the existing flora.

The glaciers did not grind up rocks to form all the soil. Before their time chemical and atmospheric agencies had decomposed the rocks to a depth of many feet. While the glaciers wore and ground down solid rocks then as they are now doing in the Alps, their chief work was to carry forward and commingle the different materials, bringing together lime from rocks of the Trenton, Niagara, Lower and Upper Helderberg periods, silica from rocks of the Potsdam, Oriskany and sub-carboniferous periods, and alumina from the Hudson, Salina, Hamilton and Chemung periods, to make a soil containing all the elements of fertility.

When, in the Terrace epoch, the continent arose from its last baptism, there sprang up an abundant flora and fauna, and as the glaciers melted away man came upon the scene. There were spring-time and autumn, and the abundant vegetation drank nourishment from the earth and breathed the gases of the air through spring and summer, to give both to the soil when they withered in autumn and decayed in after time. For ages the wealth of the atmosphere was transferred to the earth, until at last man learned to cultivate the herbs and grains, and to eat them not only in their season, but to store them away for winter use.

This is the answer that geology returns to the question, Whence came the soil? It is all rock to the geologist. Once gas or vapor; then liquid, then solid, it was baked by fire and cooled by water again and carried where needed by Nature's great transporter, water.

A Glimpse of the Splendid Past.

Five hundred years before the birth of Christ there was a city in Italy called Sybaris. It was a magnificent place, and the wealth and luxury of its inhabitants was so great that the name Sybarite exists to this day as a pseudonym of a devotee of sensual pleasure. It was at one time so populous, that it could send 300,000 men into the field, yet its annals are lost and its great men unknown. All the information we learn about it is the fact of its greatness, and that its ruins are to-day under the bed of a river in southern Italy. It seems there was a quarrel amongst the rulers of this mighty city, and the discontented joined with their enemies, the Crotoniates, who succeeded in capturing Sybaris, drove out its inhabitants, and, to make its ruin complete, changed the course of a river so that it swept over the remains of the once mighty municipality. To-day the ruins are covered by a bed of slime and earth from sixteen to twenty feet deep, and soon the work of bringing the remains to light will be undertaken. It is believed that the memorials of a very distant past will be brought to light equal to, if not exceeding in interest, those of Pompeii. We live after all in a very old world. Mighty nations flourished, and prosperous cities gathered wealth to themselves long before history began to keep its records. In these days of the marvelous applications of science to our daily life, it is well to remember the might of the past, in order that we should not become too conscious of the splendor of the age we live in.

From Demorest's Monthly for March.

Is the Earth drying up?

Physicists and scientists say, that the amount of water on the surface of the globe is steadily decreasing, and that the land gains on the sea year by year. It is quite true, that in some portions of the globe the sea is eating up, as it were, the land. This is true of the Atlantic coast, which gives evidence of a steady encroachment of the ocean upon its shores. New York will some day be a city under the sea, and its great bridge and ruins can be examined and disintered only by means of diving bells. Geographers tell us, that two-thirds of the earth's surface is composed of water, so we can afford to lose a good deal of that element without suffering. If the nebular hypothesis is correct, and the earth was once a vast sea of fire, water was then nonexistent, and when it first appeared, must have come in the form of steam. Life was not possible until the fluid cooled and it must have been myriads of years before the great salt seas formed. If the earth should gradually lose its moisture, great changes will be effected. There will be more land and a denser population, fewer marine animals, and more room for the races which now inhabit the land. Certain districts will become arid, swamps will dry up, vast waterways will be converted into dry land. What a pity it is we cannot go to sleep for a thousand years, so as to see what kind of a world this will be in the year 3000. There will, we apprehend, be some water left even then.—From Demorest's Monthly.

CARTER'S HOGS.—On Monday, 8th inst., Joseph Carter, of New Hanover, slaughtered his crop of 31 hogs and 30 pigs, which were delivered in Trenton on Saturday. The weights of the hogs were as follows:

1007, 880, 835, 815, 803, 770, 760, 755, 740, 730, 725, 703, 695, 685, 685, 675, 675, 671, 670, 669, 655, 650, 645, 645, 625, 620, 615, 615, 607, 595. Total—22,060—green.

The total weight of the heaviest 20—15,119. Average 756.

The average weight of the pigs was 325 pounds.

The above concludes the list of New Hanover's big crops for 1882. The badge is in possession of Mr. Richard Harrison who won it fairly and squarely in '80 and '81. Before it becomes the permanent property of the winner it must be won three times in succession. If all the parties shall determine to formally contest for it next year, Mr. H. will probably make an effort to hold it. If awarded this year, it will go to Mr. Southard, as his hogs were bred on his farm, while the heaviest of Mr. Carter's were not.

Leader: There is a young lady in this village who refused to attend an entertainment, lately, because, as she said, she had nothing to wear. Her excuse was a good one, for who would expect a modest young lady to appear at a public gathering without wearing something.

Every strong, active, bad man is systematically engaged in creating and sharpening the instruments for his own destruction. The people in this world are getting worse every day. The world is so crammed with swindlers that a really honest man or honest thing, is almost as scarce as robins in January.

He did not mince matters.

A representative of the Lynn (Mass.) Item, in a late ramble throughout that city, gathered, among other scraps of interest and information, the following: The first place visited by the reporter was the fruit store of Mr. J. Levett, No. 67 Market street, in response to a rumor that the proprietor had been cured of the rheumatism by the great remedy. Mr. Levett not being in, the reporter had a talk with his son. Mr. Levett stated that his father had been cured of an exceedingly bad attack of rheumatism by the St. Jacobs Oil. He had the disease in his right arm and shoulder, which became perfectly helpless after being affected a few hours. His pain was so great that he could not rest in comfort or attend to business with any degree of satisfaction. After enduring this sort of thing for some time, he purchased a bottle of the Great German Remedy and began to apply it. He did not mince matters at all, but just used the Oil for all it was worth. After pursuing this mode of treatment for three days the pain was banished and his father was in a perfectly healthy condition. He has never since felt any rheumatic pain.

It is said that red stockings will be the fashion this spring. The young ladies observe that they are stared at by the young men while crossing muddy cross-walks. We advise the young men not to stare at the young ladies—especially those who come into town from Lima.

A Royalty Fight.

We copy the following from the Jackson (Mich.) Citizen:

St. Paul, Minn., March 23.—The visit of Mr. Charles Calahan, of Chicago, to this city and Minneapolis to-day was, it is understood, for the purpose of demanding of the Minneapolis harvester works in the name of C. H. McCormick, of Chicago, Normal C. Thompson, and Helen A. Gorham, of Rockford, Ill., a royalty of ten dollars upon each twine-binding harvester that said company has made or will make.

This claim is based upon patents which, after several years of controversy in the patent office, were in 1880 granted to Marquis L. Gorham, of Rockford, and it is claimed by the parties who own and control all the patents relating to the automatic binding of the bundles of grain. The Minneapolis harvester-works, the William Deering company of Chicago, the Champion reaper company of Springfield, Ohio, and the E. Terry harvester company of Whitewater, and all others that are using twine-blades made under the Appleby patents are to be proceeded against by the parties controlling the Gorham patents. The attorneys who have been engaged by the McCormick faction are George Harding of Philadelphia, E. N. Dickerson of New York, M. D. Leggett of Cleveland, Ohio, and Parkinson & Parkinson of Cincinnati.—Chicago Times.

DO IT YOURSELF.

BY WILL, THE POOR SCHOLAR.

Lines suggested by hearing the reading of an excellent essay on examination day March 3rd, at the Chelsea High School bearing the above title. If such grand principles as that essay taught were imbibed by all the youth of our noble School, we believe that ere long it would rise to a model of excellence second to none in this State:

The world is full of obstacles
For you to overcome,
Life's early morn may be o'ercast
With clouds that darkly loom—
But to the one who bravely strives
To walk the rough hewn way,
In living he saves other's lives
And hastens on the day.

Do it yourself! Don't ask the help
Of those who near you be
The darkest hour's before the dawn—
The time we least can see
Is oftentimes the harbinger
Of better days to come,
Which in Life's drama make a stir
And breaks the settled gloom.

Do it yourself! The very storm
That shakes the sturdy tree
To its foundation makes the root
More firm and settled be.

Within the rough block-marble lies
A form of symmetry—
To bring it out the sculptor tries
In nature's rivalry.

And all the nearer the ideal
His chisel marks the lines
Of an exquisite loveliness
And nature's soul defines.

So higher in a noble art
He wends his upward way,
Nor heedeth disappointment's dart—
A victor in the fray.

We all are actors working out
Our part in earth's great strife,
And on the way we fix our route
Hangs all the after life.

Life's morning is the time to leave
Earth's trifling things behind,
And all grand principles receive
Which mould a noble mind:

And all the hindrance we receive,
If bravely overcome,
Raise up the soul and virtues give
For evermore to bloom.

In that fair garden of the Lord
Where youth and beauty grow
Ruled by pure love's soft hallowed word,
Excelling all below.

The Michigan Central Railroad, with its connections at Chicago, affords the most direct and desirable route of travel from Michigan to all points in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Texas, Minnesota, Dakota, Manitoba, etc. Michigan Central trains make sure and close connections at Chicago with through express trains on all Western lines. Rates will always be as low as the lowest. Parties going West this Spring will find it to their interest to correspond with Henry C. Wentworth, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Line, at Chicago, who will cheerfully impart any information relative to routes, time of trains, maps and lowest rates. Do not purchase your tickets nor contract your freight until you have heard from the Michigan Central.

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, ss.
COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, ss.
At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Saturday, the fourth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

Present William D. Harriman Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the Estate of Allen McCarter Deceased. Calvin T. Conklin the administrator of said estate, comes in a court and represents that he is now prepared to render his final account as such Administrator.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Thursday, the 30th day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for examining and allowing such account, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, and show cause if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed: And it is further ordered that said Administrator give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said account, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

WILLIAM D. HARRIMAN,
Judge of Probate.

MANHOOD

How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHEA or Seminal Weakness; Involuntary seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, etc.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps. Address THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York.
