NOTICE.—All communications, local notices, and advertisements must be handed in on Monday of each week, to insure that week's publication. The above rules will be strictly adhered to.

Legal Printing.—Persons having legal advertising to do, should remember that it is not necessary that it should be published at the county seat—any paper published in the county will answer. In all matters transpiring in this vicinity, the interest of the advertisers will be better served, by having the notices published in their home paper, than to take them to a paper that is not as generally read in their vicinity, besides it is the duty of every one to support home institutions as much as possible.

To Correspondents.
Correspondents will please write on one side of the paper only. No communication will be published unless accompanied with the real name and address of the author, which we require, not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.
All communications should be addressed to "THE HERALD,"

Statistics of Suicide.

A work of an extraordinary character has recently been published in Italy by Prof. Morelli, of the Royal University, of Turin. It bears the title of "Comparative Moral Statistics of Suicide." It is throughout statistical, and claims to embody the most complete results with reference to the somber and melancholy subject of suicide that could be obtained from every available quarter.

Assuming that figures, carefully collected and collated, as those in this work profess to have been, can not lie, the results are singularly interesting and inexplicable upon any ordinary moral or philosophical theory. From a notice in Nature of an English translation of this work, we abstract some of the statements which are given as conclusive results of the investigation. It is impossible, of course, to gain any statements, or to explain the conclusion reached from the statistics. It requires, however, a very considerable degree of faith in figures to adopt the inferences thus drawn from them.

In the first place we have, what is held to be demonstrated by the statistics gathered, the painful fact that suicide has increased in almost all the civilized countries of Europe and the New World, from the beginning of the present century. In France and Italy, especially, there has been a great increase. Suicide is said to be most frequent in the temperate zone. Flat plains and the courses of large rivers are the most favorable localities for suicide. The transition period between spring and summer, and especially the month of June, exercises the most positive influence on suicidal tendency. So far as concerns the influence of the seasons, this is directly at variance with the hitherto accepted opinion that suicide is more frequent in damp, cloudy and dark weather, like that not uncommon in November.

Suicide, it is said, is everywhere committed with the greatest frequency during the first third of any given month, and the first two days of the first third yield the largest proportional number. The highest proportion among women is on Sunday. The Celtic race are found to be the least addicted to suicide, and the Germans the most so. As to religious influences, it is said that the Jews display an habitual resistance to suicide. The Catholic nations stand on the last step of the scale of suicides, while those exclusively or chiefly Protestant take the first grade. In countries of mixed religions the inclination toward suicide diminishes in direct ratio to the predominance of Catholicism. Those countries which possess a higher standard of general culture furnish the larger contingent of voluntary deaths. Concerning sex, the proportion of suicides among women is one to three or four men, except in Spain, where it is one to two and a half men. In England, however, the number of young women who commit suicide exceeds by more than a tenth the number of men. In regard to the different occupations, the following is the statement: "First of all are the literary and scientific; all those, in short, who make the greatest use of their brain power. Next come the military, the statistics in regard to whom are very remarkable. In Prussia the average of suicide in the whole population is 394 per million, while in the army it rises to 620. In Austria the proportion is still higher. In the English army the suicidal tendency is more than triple that of the civilian population."

Concerning the methods and places chosen by suicides, the rope is the favorite instrument; next the water; then fire-arms; and finally, falling from a height. In Russia hanging is the favorite mode, and in Italy, drowning.

We have given these facts—for they are set down as facts—as a matter of curious interest, and not that we believe them to possess any permanent or absolute importance or moral significance.—Boston Traveler.

Marriage.

To become a husband is as serious a matter to a man as it is for a woman to become a wife. Marriage is no child's play; it brings added care, trial, perplexity, vexation, and it requires a great deal of the happiness which legitimately springs out of it to make the balance heavy in its favor. Very few live happily in marriage, and yet this is not because unhappiness is germane to the relation, but because those who enter it do not know, first, how to get married, and second, how to live married happily. You have already made your choice; wisely, I am bound to believe. Those qualities of character which have attracted you to choose as you have, should make your love grow daily while you live together.

And as to the second point. If you wish to live in harmonious union with your wife, start out with the recognition of the fact that she is your companion and co-partner. Marriage usually makes the wife neither of these. In many instances she sees less of her husband than before she married him. He comes, he goes, he reads, thinks, works, and under the stimulus of business has all his powers and faculties to the surface, and is developed thereby—not always symmetrically, but vigorously—not always harmoniously, but with increasing power. Married men do not usually shrivel up nor put on a look of premature age, but women frequently do, and it is plain to us why they do.

Married women are shut up in houses, and their chief care is for things that have no inspiring influence. Their time is taken up in meeting the physical wants of their families—cooking, washing dishes, keeping the house in order, sewing, receiving company—not one of which has in it a tendency even to culture and elevation. Married women are devoted to a house, and this means a life of vexation and pettiness. It gives no sort of stimulus to the spirit. So the husband, who is out of doors, active, interested in measures which affect the public good, coming into contact with men greater than himself, who inspire him to better purpose and nobler ends of labor, develops into manly beauty, and grows in character; while his wife at home, who has as faithfully performed her share of the work, withers and decays prematurely.

Treat your wife exactly as you yourself would like to be treated, if you had to live under her circumstances, and you will not go far wrong.

Do not entertain the silly notion that because she is of a different gender from your own that she is therefore different, in her wants, feelings, qualities and powers. Do not be the victim of any social policy. Stand up bravely for the right, give your wife a chance to live, grow, and be somebody and become something.

Try to be thoughtful, considerate, and forbearing. You will have new duties, and they will bring new trials. Take good care of your health and hers. Be simple, both, in your habits; be continent in your relations; be careful in your expenditures; be industrious. If you keep good health, and are frugal, blessings will come from your united love, and you will grow happier and better day by day, as the years pass.

COMMON ERRORS.—What absurd mistakes we make in our dress and habits! Many people brush their teeth in the morning, 10 or 12 hours after they have partaken of food; yet, clearly the proper time to cleanse the teeth is after a meal, or otherwise the operation is performed for beautifying and not for cleansing the teeth. Then, our clothing is very absurd. In this climate, where throat and lung diseases are particularly prevalent, we expose the throat to the cold night air with but slight protection, while we cover it securely in the daytime. Women, who suffer from catarrh and colds in the head, wear hats which are purely ornamental and afford no protection. They put warm clothing over the body and are generally insufficiently clad about the limbs. The weight of their clothes is on the hips instead of on the shoulders, which has a tendency to aggravate all the diseases peculiar to the sex. Instead of wearing shoes to protect the feet, high-heeled abominations are worn, which cripple the movements and plague the wearer with bunions and corns. Again, in the matter of food and sleep. In all the animal creation sleep follows feeding, and in warm countries people take a siesta after a meal; but the modern man and woman dash from the dinner table to the theater, ball or club, and bring all the powers of mind to bear at a time when the process of digestion and assimilation is going on. In diet, attire and general habits, can we not at all sympathize with the man who said he believed in the doctrine of Metempsychosis, for he could distinctly remember the time when he was an ass.

What is Soiling?

The soiling system is that by which stock of various kinds are excluded from pasture fields, and the food prepared and fed to them regularly. The soiling system is always associated with what is known as "high farming," which has for its rule the "largest return from the smallest available space," and it is to this point we are journeying on our road to perfection in agriculture. It is a system, however, that demands extra labor and close attention, and one that entails great expense. It calls for constant examination of the condition of stock in order to prevent injury to them from confinement; but usually cattle seem to thrive well under the soiling system wherever practiced. As none but the most progressive farmers have ventured on the plan, it is safe to say that success is due more to good judgment and care than to the system itself, so far as the health of the animal is concerned, but that it is the only true way of keeping farms in a high state of fertility cannot be denied. But few fences are required in soiling. This is a source of considerable saving. The food can be of a variable character, and it undergoes careful preparation, in accordance with the capacity of the animal, and whether the desire of the owner be for milk, beef or butter. The system takes into consideration the question of shelter, likewise, and the animals are as tenderly treated as they are well fed. It calls for the selection of the best stock, of the breeds suited for the purpose desired, and no other; and the improvement of the stock every year is a paramount object, no expense being spared to accomplish it; nor is the manure overlooked, for every ounce is not only saved but preserved. There must be no loss of ammonia, no leaching from rains nor exposure to the sun. It is treated as an article of the greatest value, and fitted for proper assimilation by the crops which it is to nourish. Great as the interest of the farmer may be in stock, yet, with all this care, he does not cease until the ultimate object is attained, which is to increase the productivity of the soil, and every year the stock becomes more valuable, the dividends larger, and the soil richer. Less land is required under the system, and no energies are wasted over broad fields, but time, labor and money are concentrated on the smallest possible space that can be made to support the amount of stock required. Manure is spread thickly, and when it is all taken from the barnyard not another acre is touched outside of the area the manure covers, except for green manuring. The crops are put in just where they do best, and no land remains idle, for green crops are turned in, a proper system of rotation is followed, and the best manual skill and the best machinery are called to the assistance of the farmer in making everything pay. In fact, soiling, properly conducted, is scientific farming.

NERVOUS WOMEN.—It is a lamentable fact that a large per cent of our women, in some localities, are so nervous and debilitated as to be unable to occupy any difficult position in society or in the family.

While it is not claimed that our women shall be drudges, or labor as hard as men (many do it from choice, or as their own mistress), it is claimed that as mothers of the race, controlling the physical and mental condition far more than they suppose, they should be far healthier than at present. After a practice of more than 30 years, I do not hesitate to say that the able bodied mother is the exception, not the rule. In evidence, I might refer to the great prostration attendant on the exercise of their maternal function.

That our women are either over-worked or over-task themselves, is apparent. Most certainly they are more or less exhausted. It matters but little what may be the cause, so far as work is concerned. Our women are in a hurry; they plan more work than anyone can reasonably perform, and of course are behind—always in an excitement. This induces some to worry and fret, which state of mind is more exhausting than the physical labor. One cause of this chronic excitement is found in stimulation—not in the use of ardent spirits always, though far oftener than some suppose—but from the action of articles as certainly exciting and as harmful to the nerves of women as liquors are to those of men. I now refer to tea, coffee—especially when strong—mustard, vinegar, pepper, and the whole range of the spices. All of these irritate the surface more or less when applied outwardly, and they must affect the coats of the stomach to some extent, if not as much. The irritation here, by sympathy, is transferred to contiguous surfaces, actually affecting the whole nervous system. Under the excitement from this and other causes, the nerves are aroused to an unnatural action, resulting in excessive labor. At least some of this labor is performed under unfavorable circumstances, as at night. It of course follows that the drinker of strong tea is wakeful, rarely securing sufficient sleep. Then neuralgia, nervousness, and stimulation, all combining, with the care of sick children at night, produce premature old age, disease, "nervous prostration" (whatever that may mean)—a wreck at 35 years of age. Some of our puny, physically worthless children are born of such mothers.—[Dr. J. H. HANAFORD.]

REGISTRATION IN MICHIGAN.—Attorney-General Van Riper has given an opinion as to the proper construction of the time within which registration of voters should take place, under Act 142, laws of 1881. Many have construed the law to require such registration to take place at the meeting of the board of registration and at no other times, which would be an impossibility. The attorney-general first calls attention to the various acts providing for registration, and says: "The registration to be made this fall, and that of every ten years thereafter, is to be made as provided for registrations since 1859, which may be found in sec. 169, C. L. 1861, wherein it provides that after the year 1859 it shall be the right of any such qualified elector residing in the township, and entitled to vote at the next election therein, and whose name has not been registered, on any day, except Sunday, the days of the session of the board of registration, and the days intervening between them and the next approaching election, to apply to the township clerk, in person, for the registration of his name, and if, upon such examination as is required by the next section of this act (Sec. 170, C. L. 1871), the clerk shall be satisfied that such applicant is a resident of the township, and otherwise qualified and entitled to vote in such township at the then next election to be held therein, the name of such applicant shall be written either by himself or by the clerk upon a separate paper, to be kept by the clerk, his residence described, and the date of the entry noted, etc., which paper shall be laid before the board of registration of each township, at its next meeting, for examination and review, and the names of such persons appearing thereon as the board shall be of opinion are qualified electors at the then next election, and entitled to vote thereat, may, by some member of the board, and under their direction, be entered in the proper register in the manner above set forth," etc. In summing up the case the attorney general says: "It will thus be seen that electors need not wait for the meetings of the registration boards, but may as above stated, call in person upon the township clerk, leave their names with him, and thus secure their registration. I am therefore of the opinion that the registration of names as above provided, and as registered since 1859, will be valid, and in accordance with the existing registration laws, as amended in 1881."—Lansing Republican.

Washington county Agricultural and Horticultural Society commenced their annual fair at Ann Arbor last Tuesday, and will continue up to Friday.

The Ann Arbor Register puts in its appearance on our table this week, in an enlarged form of eight columns to a page, at one dollar per year. May success attend it.

STILL THEY COME.—A Yankee notion bazar has just opened out in the basement of Reed & Co's. drug store. The parties invite the young and old folks to call and examine their beautiful goods.

O! where, O! where has he gone? You tell—James E. Mack, the state agent for the Payne & Son's engines of Corning N.
 Y. It is our opinion that he has bursted his boiler and was scattered to the four winds.

MARRIED in Chelsea, Sept., 19th, 1892, by Rev. E. A. Gay, Mr. Ira O. Church, of Vernon, Shiawassee Co., Mich. and Miss Jerusha Russell, of Franklinton, N. Y.

The happy couple took the train for their home, with the best wishes of their friends.

Chelsea is bound to be a city in the near future. We received a call from Mr. Thos.
 J. Keach of Ann Arbor, agent for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He has been talking telephone to the business men of Chelsea, for two days, and has raised about $500. This will be a big thing for Chelsea to have a state telephone communication.
 We hope our business men will one and all, take hold and raise the desired amount.
 Next week we will give our readers a more lengthy article on the subject and explain all its workings.

The state fair held at Jackson last week, was a grand success. The weather was beautiful, clear and dry. The exhibits were larger than any previous year. The display in the machinery department was exceedingly large. Floral Hall was elaborately and artistically trimmed and decorated by the society, to which the fine display of flowers made by James Vick, of Rochester N. Y., adds its beauty and interest.

The track was in good condition, and a large number of noted horses made good time during the races. In fact it is said to be the best state fair held for years.

Mr. L. E. Sparks of the Chelsea mill, will sell flour at $2.80 per hundred, and deliver it free of charge, to any part of the village on short notice. Give him a call.

Given Away.

We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr.
 King's New Discovery for consumption.
 You are requested to call at Armstrong's drug store, and get a trial bottle free of cost, if you are suffering with consumption, severe coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, loss of voice, hoarseness, or any affection of the throat or lungs. It will positively cure you.

The new bank to be organized under the state banking law will occupy the corner where the present savings bank did business for five years, and open for deposits and discounts in November. Mr. Kempf of this city but doing business in Chelsea, will be its president. The stock $50,000 was taken with very little effort.—Ann Arbor Argus.

The new banking firm at Ann Arbor has been duly organized. The bank will be known as "The Farmers' and Mechanics' bank of Ann Arbor. The directors are Reuben Kempf, Joseph T. Jacobs, W. A.
 Tolchard, H. Cornwell, W. C. Stevens, D.
 F. Schaller, John Burg and Ed. Duffy.

The best place in Chelsea to buy pure spices, teas, coffees, and in fact every thing in the grocery line is at Loomis'. He sells as cheap as the cheapest, and for pure articles he beats them all. Always a full supply of extra family flour on hand manufactured by L. E. Sparks.

Which pleases the ladies,
 They say it's all right.
 It rises so nicely
 And makes their bread white.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicine, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly most valuable medicine, and will surely cure biliousness, fever and ague, stomach, liver and kidney complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Each.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by R. S. Armstrong.

MICHIGAN CROP REPORT.—The crop reports received at the office of the secretary of state show, so far as known, there has been 1,865,322 bushels of wheat threshed in the four southern tiers of counties, and showing an average of 17 1/2 bushels per acre.

The oat crop is probably one of the best ever grown in the state. Yield so far about 31 bushels to the acre. Corn, though very late, promises an average crop. The estimate for barley is the same as in August, 20 bushels per acre. Meadows and pastures and clover sowed this year, are in excellent condition. Beef cattle and sheep are in better flesh than on September 1, 1891.

In the central, southeastern and southern parts of the state winter apples promise from one-third to one-half, and in the northern counties about eight-tenths of an average crop. The average for the state is 55 Late peaches promise six-tenths of an average crop.

Buffalo Bill and Sitting Bull.
 Buffalo Bill (Hon. W. F. Cody), the renowned scout and actor, has made a decided hit for the coming theatrical season in employing the celebrated Sitting Bull (the Indian chief who slew Custer and his command on the Little Big Horn) as one of his chief attractions. Buffalo Bill's success as an actor adds an additional charm to the romance of his life as the greatest of all living scouts and plainsmen. The Historical Publishing Co., St. Louis, has issued a life of this remarkable man, whose fame is even greater than that of Daniel Boone or Davy Crockett, embracing also the lives of Wild Bill, California Joe, Texas Jack, Kit Carson, and other great Indian fighters. It is a book of wild life on the Plains, and must meet with great popularity. The name of the author, Mr. J. W. Buel, is a host within itself. Persons desiring agencies will find the advertisement in this paper.

TWIN COMETS.—Prof. E. E. Barnard, of Nashville, Tenn., on the 14th, inst. discovered a new comet located near the star Lambda, in the constellation of the Twins.
 His discovery was announced by telegraph to Mr. H. H. Warner, at the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y., and almost at the same moment Prof. Lewis Swift, Director of the Warner Observatory, received intelligence that a large naked eye comet had been discovered in Rio Janeiro, South America. Prof. Barnard is the first person to receive the Warner 100. The fact that these two to view at the same time is significant.

DIED, at her residence in this village, last Saturday, MARY ELLEN PENDERGAST, in her twentieth year. The funeral took place Monday, and was largely attended.

CARD OF THANKS.—The most heartfelt thanks from a grief-stricken father and mother, are extended to the kind-hearted participations in the funeral of our beloved daughter Mary Ellen Pendergast, who died after a short illness of two weeks in her twentieth year. And especially to Miss Depew, her former teacher, and to her classmates, who came to pay the departed their last respect. And also to the ladies who were kind enough to adorn the coffin of the deceased with flowers, and to all the friends that came to witness the solemn but sorrowful act of interment.

Now we leave her with our Savior Whom on earth she loved so well He will give us balm for sorrow Sweeter far than words can tell.

WHY PRINTERS ARE CYNICAL.—The other day I stood within the composing-room of a great daily newspaper. There was nothing to delight the eye—no pictures, statues, or sumptuous furniture. Serious-looking men were standing before their cases so fixedly that nothing less than the falling of the roof would have distracted their attention. Scarcely a sound was audible but the faint click of type falling into place. I never before realized so forcibly the cause why newspaper printers are, as it is said naturally cynical. To-day they set up the type that tells the world of rejoicings and festivity, to-morrow the same type is made to proclaim disaster and mourning; the same type which carries to 10,000 homes the inaugural message of the ruler of 50,000,000 of people has not time to lose its sharpness by use before it is employed to report the funeral oration in the Capitol in memory of the same man. The momentary contraction of the forehead, of a despicable wretch levels exalted hopes and robs the whole civilized world in sable. If there be a spot on earth where the instability of human affairs is epitomized hourly, it is in the composing-room of a daily newspaper.

For Burns and Scalds
 There is nothing that compares with Cole's Carbolsalve. It will immediately relieve the pain and cure the worst case without a scar. T. Olson, Taylor, Wis., says: "My daughter was so terribly burned about the face and neck by boiling molasses that we feared she would be disfigured for life, but by promptly applying Cole's Carbolsalve the pain was allayed, a new skin rapidly formed, and now she is completely cured and without a scar to show for it." It is soothing, healing and cleansing, and unequaled as a household remedy. Small boxes, 25 cents; large boxes 75 cents.

SAW-DUST FOR PLANTS.—A correspondent of the Journal of Horticulture says:
 "As far back as 34 years ago I was wondered at for working with saw dust, but only those who try it will know its great virtues. My gardener cries out for coconut fibre, I say, 'No, use saw dust.' Now, my plan was this: Supposing I made up a bed of hot manure for a frame, I at once covered it with the lights, and filled in six or eight inches of saw-dust, and let it be ever so hot I could at once use this frame.
 Water it well, and in a few days you may plunge your pots down to the rim, and so soon as you see the young plants growing vigorously be sure that they have a fibre or two into the saw-dust, and it is then that you must decide what to do, for if you do not the plant will rush in two or three days out of your comfortable keeping; but the saw-dust must be kept damp. And then what comes of it? It becomes a fine, rich, black brown, crisp to the hand, and invaluable for potting composts. Anyone, also, who can get saw-dust and run the house sewage through it will find a manure of no mean value. It may be said of sawdust that anything and everything will grow in it if moisture is supplied and decay of the saw-dust be promoted or started before using it."

A lecture on the nature, Treatment, and Radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhoea, induced by self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c., —By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book" &c.
 The world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, prostatic or curi-al; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
