WHISPERINGS.

Marbles! Give the town hall another benefit! Who will be the next officers of Chelsea village?

The latest sensation, at Ypsilanti, is the mineral well. It is expected Gov. St. John will lecture at Ann Arbor soon.

Read the election and registration notices in another place.

Turn out and see "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," to-morrow (Friday) evening.

Before starting for his northern home, Hawley Hoag purchased a nice span of ponies of M. J. Noyes, to use in his extensive drives.

Another plate has been handed us by the agents of the Champion Machine Co., Messrs. Kempf & Brother. This is the most useful one, we have yet seen, as it has a thermometer on it.

Several business men have spoken favorably of the project of building a good hotel on the stock company plan. Let others say, and perhaps Chelsea will yet have the one thing she needs!

We have been crowded with job work this month, but with our three presses, the power paper cutter, and three good men in the office, we can do all that comes, even if we work till nine or ten in the evening. Fetch it along!

The person or persons, who purchased the scenery of the town hall used good judgement, for it is very nice and appropriate.

Mr. B. F. Tuttle, the agent of the Deering binder, will probably soon address the farmers through the columns of the HERALD.

If people don't know that last Thursday was Washington's birthday, it's because they didn't read the first line in the local column of each paper.

The representative of Drs. K. & K. made Chelsea a visit last Friday. Shouldn't think he could make much, as Chelsea now has a number of good M. D's.

A nice plate now adorns our office, handed us by the well-known insurance agents, Messrs. Gilbert & Turnbull, and is sent out by the Underwriters Insurance Company.

Howlet, of Lyndon, could be seen, on the evening of February 23, 1883, twenty-seven happy faces, gathered there in honor of their worthy friends, Mr. Clide Rowe and his estimable lady, who were recently married. May their journey through life prove a happy and prosperous one, is the wish of their many friends.

"Now no plumed throng Charms the woods with song; Ice bound trees are glittering; Merry snow-birds twittering; Fondly strive to cheer Scenes so cold and drear."

Notwithstanding the poets vivid picture of outdoor scenes of the present, it is quite in contrast with the warm, comfortable atmosphere, cheerful lively picture, and pretty surroundings, experienced by any one stepping in at the Bank Drug Store. The finest, best appointed, and best conducted drug store in the state. If you are not very ill, the satisfaction of patronizing such a store, will almost cure you without taking medicine—but if you are seriously ill, what a satisfaction to know that the medicines prescribed by your physician, were obtained there, where such faithfulness and care is exercised in securing the best quality of drugs only, and accuracy and skill in compounding medicinal preparations.

It is a noteworthy fact, that the most successful and best patronized physicians in Chelsea, obtain their own medical supplies, and direct their prescriptions to be prepared at Glazier, DePuy & Co's, Bank Drug Store, Chelsea.

Notices in this space will be inserted at ten cents per line.

For Sale! A good farm horse! Enquire of CHARLES DEPUE.

Notice! Having but little wheat sown, and having two reapers, I offer my McCormick Harvester and Binder for sale, cheap; you only have to read the HERALD to find all the recommendations needed. HIRAM PIERCE.

For Sale! Three thorough-bred Durham Bulls, one year-old. No fancy price asked. E. A. CROMAN, One mile west of Waterloo, village.

Farm For Rent! The undersigned will rent his farm to good and responsible parties, within the next thirty days—said farm is situated on section thirty-five and two, in the township of Waterloo, Jackson Co. Mich., and contains 200 acres of land, 126 acres under plow. There is 47 acres of wheat on the ground, which I will sell or let on a harvest share. PHILIP MCKERNAN.

Our Latest Addition.

The above cut, clearly represents our power paper cutter, by which we are enabled to cut a sheet 23x33 inches. It is a great help to us, and since we have had it, have used it many times a day. The greatest help is in cutting our papers, since we cut and paste them, and it can be done in one-third the time, and in a better shape than with the common plow cutter or knife. It is made by the Globe Manufacturing Co., of New York City, and is all iron except the board the knife cuts on.

HINDU RELIGION

Singular Ideas of a Future State of Existence

Fortnightly Review

The conception of divinity is so sensuous as to debase and corrupt any sentiments that may gather round it. Still, the ordinary Hindu of to-day has a vague impression that after death he will be absorbed, body and soul, into a supreme being who is beyond all gods and goddesses. But his notion of a blessed reward for virtue, or of a future punishment for sin, is so shadowy as to be almost evanescent. Many observers have thought that it is this want of an active belief in a judgment to come which causes the natives to face inevitable death with such stolid calmness. The Hindus have, indeed, a moral code, binding on their conscience and conduct; they seldom or never ask themselves whether this code is an emanation from the Supreme Being; if pressed, they would doubtless acknowledge that originally it must have so emanated. The Hindus have no definite expectation of an earthly Messiah visiting India to re-establish Hindu domination. Still a vague idea of this description does sometimes float across their minds.

Some of their chief gods are deified Princesses, and there are mythical heroes of more than mortal prowess. Pandus, the mention of whom has an exhilarating effect on a Hindu audience. Allusion to such persons is sometimes made in proclamations or other notices privately circulated for raising political excitement. In short, the Hindus have a transcendental notion of the affairs which rested on their progenitors in a remote antiquity. They trust that hereafter this ancestral spirit will descend upon some heroes, who shall restore all that has been lost to the Hindu race during many ages. But they do not pretend to discern any way in which the fulfillment of such a hope can happen.

The Coming Man's Education

In a recent lecture on this subject, Mr. James Purson, the historian, said: "I have in my mind's eye a glorious university, completely organized and equipped to afford an education such as the future man will be given. It looks not at all like Oxford or Cambridge, nor even like Harvard. It looks more like a factory village situated in the midst of a finely-cultivated farm of 1,000 acres, with beautiful gardens and parks, the whole the center of a thriving industry such as our factory villages might be, must be, and are just going to be, for man will not long be the submissive vessel that he is now. This university of mine shall have a chime of bells, which at 6 a. m. summons 2,000 men to rise and cast off sleep and put on workmen's clothes and prepare for labor. At 7 they are in their dress-shops, workers in wood, in metals, in flux, in wool. For three hours they labor, being held to a strict account for the abuse of tools, material, and time. In summer a portion of each day is spent by all upon the land, so that all may have insight, some practical knowledge, of farming, of horses, of cattle, of the dairy, the garden, the orchard. At 10 all of this is over, except in harvest time or other periods of pressure. The chimes now send these workmen to their rooms, where they remove the dress and garments of manual labor, and come out to class and remain all day university students. Separated from the soil, man never yet has succeeded in thriving. At best without it, he is a potted plant, and some of the pots are miserably small. I have visited many factories in New England, and I find that wherever the operators have a reasonable chance at the soil, where every family can have a good-sized garden, with access to pasture for a cow, I find the people healthy, contented, and saving. Wherever this is the case, the factory population is able to live without actual starvation or extreme destitution in the event of the mills being closed for even a very long period. Whenever they are separated from the soil, as in some of our large cities, there is squalor, demoralization, and despair."

A very estimable woman, so far as character is concerned, was sent with recommendations to Senator Vest of Missouri for a place in one of the departments. Understanding that a clerical post was what she wanted, the senator told her to make application in writing. Next day the good woman brought her formal application. The senator and a friend looked over it, and concluded that it clearly showed the writer incompetent for the position sought. She was informed of the verdict, and said, with a burst of tears, "Now see how easy it is to make a mistake. That was written by a person high up in the department. As for myself, I can't write at all—Commercial Gazette.

"I can't hold this baby any longer," called out the young husband and father, "it's getting too heavy." "Pshaw, Edward," replied a muffled voice from the other room. "You used to hold me for hours and never complain, and the baby is not a feather compared to what I was." "I was a fool," said Edward, and she was too sleepy to dispute him.

THE GOVERNMENT'S OFFERS

The following is the substance of a bill introduced in the House of Representatives on the 19th inst., regarding the seizure of post-offices under the present postage law. OUR BROTHERS' CARE

The joint resolution offered in the House by Mr. Skinner, to provide for the equitable disposition of the surplus money in the United States Treasury, sets forth in the preamble that the amount of revenue now being collected is greatly in excess of the needs of the country, and declares it expedient to repeal all internal taxes except those on liquors, and direct that all the surplus in the Treasury, after the redemption of bonds due, be divided among the states, to be applied by them to the payment of their state debts, or for school purposes, and that $100,000,000 from the surplus now in the Treasury be so divided among the states according to population on July 1 next.

The section also contains a provision that drawback shall be the amount of duty shall be allowed on all foreign merchandise imported and used in the construction or repair of American vessels.

NEWS NOTES

THE JEANETTE REPORT

The court of inquiry in the case of the Jeanette has submitted its report. The members of the court say that while the vessel was not especially adapted for arctic exploration, yet her condition on departure from San Francisco was good and satisfactory to the officers and crew. The chances of reaching Wrangle Island were sufficiently good to justify the commander in attempting to reach it, and he would have been successful had he not done so. In the management of the Jeanette up to the abandonment of the vessel Commander DeLong, in the judgment of the court, provided all measures to meet emergencies that prudence and foresight could suggest, and no blame attaches to him or any other officer for the loss of the vessel or the subsequent sufferings of the officers and men in trying to reach settlements on the Lena Delta. The report ignores the charges presented by Dr. Collins whose brother died, as the doctor believes, in consequence of ill usage by DeLong. The report closes with commendations for nearly everybody who took part in the expedition.

FOR THE WOMEN

The board of regents of the academy of pharmacy of Louisville, Ky., for the education of women as pharmacists has perfected arrangements for the opening of the academy on March 1. Five matriculants were entered in one day. It is expected that 50 will be present at the opening session. Among the donations received are a laboratory valued at $5,000, the use of 15 acres of growing plants for botanical research, and the American Journal of Pharmacy. The faculty are: Prof. Thomas W. Tobin, chemistry; Prof. J. P. Barnum, pharmacy; Prof. P. F. Smith, materia medica; Prof. H. O. Cotter, microscopy; Prof. Alfred Neuner, botany.

A HEAVY FAILURE

The announcement was made late Saturday the 17th, that the great iron firm of John D.

McAlister & Co. of Chicago had failed. This announcement created quite a sensation, as the interests of the firm are very extended, and their sudden suspension widely unexpected by the public. The firm began doing business in 1850, and had of late years been doing an immense business. Robert C. Ayer, the head of the firm, owns $200,000 of the capital stock of the Brown-Bonell company of Youngstown, O., which operates the largest rolling mills in the Birmingham valley and the largest sheet mill in the United States. R. C. Ayer is president of the company and owns a majority of the stock. The company also owns a number of blast furnaces, coal mines, iron mines and lime quarries, employing some 4,000 men who will now be thrown out of work, though not recovered from the long strike of last summer. The amount of liabilities cannot now be given but will be very heavy, running probably at $2,000,000. The immediate cause of the failure is said to be the failure of the iron market.

REARER DENIES IT

This is the way Justice Bradley of the supreme court denied the rumor, that he was about to resign. "The first I ever heard of it. No one but myself knows whether I ever thought of resigning, for I never spoke a word to anybody on the subject. No, all those rumors are sheer fictions, probably started to annoy me, or to annoy those in whose favor I am supposed to resign."

A BRICKS FALLS

A fire broke out on the second floor of the school attached to the German Roman Catholic church in New York city, between 4th avenue and First avenue, on the afternoon of the 20th inst. The removal of the children from the upper stories began quickly enough, and was progressing rapidly, when one of the children in charge of a class fainting. A panic immediately followed, and a deadly rush took place. The stairs broke, and the mass of struggling children was precipitated to the floor below, falling in a packed mass, one upon another, from four to five feet deep. Six children were at once taken out dead, and ten more died immediately after being rescued, making a total of 16 deaths. The scene in the class room and in the halls after the panic was indescribable. Turn books and clothing and broken school apparatus gave terrible evidence of the wild struggle of the children to escape from the building. The school is an adjunct of the Most Holy Redeemer, and is in charge of the Sisters of Notre Dame. Two hundred girls under 12 years of age, and 200 boys attend the school, and they were all in their classes when the panic occurred. A careful investigation shows that every rule and precaution for safety had been disregarded. In every one of the nine class rooms the doors opened inward, and there is only one door in a room for the egress of from 30 to 35 children, and the doors are very narrow. An actual measurement showed that the inward opening door came within 15 inches of the end nearest the benches leaving hardly room to get through. The doors in charge did all in their power to get their charges safely out of the building, and had it not been for the unfortunate circumstance of the door falling, and the subsequent panic this fearful accident might have been avoided.

WILL HAVE MORE POWER

Latest reports from Rome say that the Catholic bishops in America are to have their power over the religious orders extended, that they are to have full control over the various Jesuit colleges, etc., privileges similar to those of the bishops of the same church in England.

CALL HAMILTON TO HAVE AN OFFICE

Gov. Butler of Mass. has offered the position of trustee of the state workhouse at Bridgewater to Miss Abigail Dodge, better known as Gull Hamilton, and it is understood that she will accept the position. While her work and sympathies have always been with the republican party her selection is due to the suggestion of many influential democrats who are anxious to carry out the party platform imposing the extension of suffrage to women. Miss Dodge will take the place made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. James Ticknor Fields, the widow of the publisher and dramatist.

THE OLDEST PRIEST

Father Stone, the oldest Catholic priest in the United States, and one of the oldest in the world, died in St. Louis, Mo., on the 21st inst. He was the first priest to celebrate the Holy Sacrifice in Chicago.

SOLEMN AND SAD

The funeral of the unfortunate victims of the recent panic at the German Catholic school in New York took place on the morning of the 23d inst. The church was tastefully decorated, and the services were most solemn and impressive. While the coffins were being carried into the church by the undertakers most agonizing scenes were witnessed. The parents and relatives of the dead children had gathered and were uttering doleful cries. Fathers Hoeslein, Wessell and Arend, with 30 acolytes, performed the solemn mass. As Father Hoeslein ascended the altar 40 little girls dressed in white, with sashes of black crape, knelt at the communion steps, while another line of girls were ranged around the coffins. After the benediction Father Schaefer preached a sermon, and pater and aves were said for the repose of the dead, and then the coffins were reverently removed to the hearse and borne to the Calvary cemetery.

CLEAR ORIT

Before daylight on the morning of the 23d inst. over 50 residents of Evanston, in the suburbs of Chicago, armed themselves with crowbars and pick-axes and tore up several blocks of the track of the Milwaukee & St. Paul, R. R. A posse of police was sent to the scene and dispersed the mob with difficulty. The riot was instigated by property owners who claim that they have not been paid for the right of way.

San Francisco, where he was to visit a wealthy lady, but disappeared before the wedding day arrived.

ATTORNEYS' OPINIONS

A dispatch received from Jefferson City, Mo., on the 23d inst. gives the following account of a notorious outbreak in the penitentiary at that place. The convicts in the penitentiary had just commenced making breakfast in the common dining hall, when a man named John H. C. Ayer, president of the company and owner a majority of the stock, the company also owns a number of blast furnaces, coal mines, iron mines and lime quarries, employing some 4,000 men who will now be thrown out of work, though not recovered from the long strike of last summer. The amount of liabilities cannot now be given but will be very heavy, running probably at $2,000,000. The immediate cause of the failure is said to be the failure of the iron market.

By the will of a wealthy Boston lady Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Blackwell bequeathed $25,000 each for their interest in behalf of women suffrage, and it is said will use the money pending the cause.

A Visit to Wendell Phillips

A little plain house in a narrow street whose unrefined vicinity has been chiefly surmounted to city traffic, painted doorway, a worn sill, admitting to a narrow, dingy hall and carpeted stairway, all these impressions followed rapidly before I was admitted to a reception room. Happily, no Mr. Phillips' study.

Meanwhile I have opportunity for backward glance of memory, for plucking my thought and my interest amid the scenes of the last generation. Nothing else was possible in that room. Opposite the center table, on a small stand, is a statuette in plaster, the model submitted by Miss Ann Whitney when the construction of a certain statue for the Public Gardens was under consideration. This was conceded to be the best offered, but it was nevertheless declining in favor of a poorer, on the ground that "a woman could not make a statue."

LIKE A NOVEL.

The Story of a "Prominent Citizen" told in Atlanta Reporter.

Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution. In ante-war times there lived in Meriwether county a don't-care sort of a negro named Jack Wilson, who could neither read nor write. He had gained his livelihood in some way or other, and his freedom in some way or other, and his director-general to famous horses in his neighborhood. Jack became attached to a servant girl who was owned by a man named Gates, one of the wealthiest men in Georgia, who owned thousands of acres of land, and with his family lived in lordly style. The servant girl was a bright mulatto, and was as white as a swan. They made a match of it, and were married under the order of things that existed in war times. At the same time Jack had a white-time wife in Virginia, but she was black as coal. When the war closed and the slaves declared free, Jack took his Georgia wife to be his partner for life, and by living with her for a stated period he became his wife according to law. As soon as he was married Jack showed a sudden spirit of industry that astonished everybody. His careless habits were thrown aside, and he went to work with a will.

The wealthy Gates, his master, died, and the broad acres fell to the possession of the heirs. Jack still worked on the place, and was saving and careful. The Gates family had lost everything except their land. Hundreds of slaves were freed by the new order of things, and the vast and princely fortune was gone. The heirs could not adapt themselves to the situation. Finally pressed, they sold 40 acres of land to Jack; then they wanted more money, and Jack took their security at the LaGrange bank, and when they were unable to pay he would take up the notes at bank and trade for a piece of the Gates plantation. He worked with a vengeance, and all his family worked. Old man Jack became a noted and honored citizen of the county. He was industrious and prospered. In the meantime his old master's children continued to sell his parts of the old homestead. Finally he owned it all, and was rich. Three years ago he decided that it was his duty to provide for his old Virginia wife, so he sent for her, and she, with her children, came to him. She was given a house on the plantation, and is well provided for. Jack owns now the magnificent place of about 1,500 acres within three miles of White Sulphur Springs, in Meriwether county. He is sixty years old, and his children are settled around him, and all are contented and happy and industrious. He owns fifteen or sixteen mules, and is noted for keeping the best stock in the county. His credit at the La Grange Bank is good, and he can borrow all the money he wants on his simple note of hand.

"How much is he worth?" "I should say about $30,000, and every cent of it has been made since the war. It is a remarkable story of how a slave succeeds his master in the ownership of a vast landed estate. I passed the place a few months, and the Georgia wife came to the door and gave me a drink of water. Everything was neat and clean about the place, the yard was newly swept, the barns appeared filled, and in the lots I saw piles upon piles of manure carefully sheltered. It is a model plantation. Why, I have seen on Jack's place 180 acres of corn under one fence."

"Is he educating his children?" "Yes, although he can not read and write, he sees the advantage of an education, and is giving his children the benefit of schooling. The story is a true one, and shows what can be done right here in Georgia by pluck and industry. The old adage is true: 'There is more in the man than there is in the land.'"

A Wonderful Memory.

In came a gentleman and sat down and says to the man waiter, very nice and polite: "Have you any nice Providence River trout?" "Oh yes," says the waiter. "Real nice ones, now?" says the gentleman. "Oh, why, certainly," says the waiter. "Well, I wish you would open for me a nice one, please." "All right, sir," says the waiter, and he was coming away. "Wait a bit," says the gentleman; "is that trout nice and sweet?" "We have some powerful fresh but-ter," says the waiter. "Do you have nice fresh milk?" says the gentleman. "Well, it's generally so considered," says the waiter. "Well, how are your crackers, nice and fresh?" says the gentleman. "Never had no fault found with our crackers," says the waiter. "Then, if you'll take and make me a nice little stew, John, I'll be much obliged to you," said the gentleman. "Then he let him go. When I saw him coming, I says to myself, says I: 'How can I get that man to remember all that?' But he marched right up to the kitchen pipe, and jest opened his mouth, and says: 'One's two,' and that was

How Much Will do it?

How much of Thomas' Electric Oil is required to cure? Only a very little. A few drops will cure any kind of an ache; and but a trifle more is needed for sprains and lamenesses. Rheumatism is not so readily affected; an ounce and sometimes two ounces are required. No medicine, however, is so sure to cure with the same number of applications.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CASE.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 20th, 1880.

To Mr. J. W. Graham, Druggist: Dear Sir—My case was an acute form of bronchitis, and was of one and a half year's duration. I employed the best medical aid possible, but failed rapidly, until the doctors said I would die—that my case was incurable. Thrown upon my own resources, I got a bottle of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and in six hours felt a decided relief. In three days the cough almost disappeared. Now that my chances of life are good for many years, I earnestly recommend the above to every sufferer of lung or throat disease.

HOBSON'S CHOICE—The origin of the expression "Hobson's choice" is thus given in Addison's Spectator: Tobias Hobson was the first man in England that let out hackney horses. When a man came for a horse he was led into a stable, where there was a great choice, but he obliged him to take the horse which stood next to the stable door; so that every customer was alike well served according to his chance, from whence it became a proverb, when what ought to be your election was forced upon you, to say, "Hobson's choice."

A Cincinnati clergyman thought he would raise his own pork. So he bought five pigs and fattened them. Now that they are fit to kill he hesitates. He says they appear so much like his own children that he hasn't the heart to kill them. The pigs are in good luck, but what a commentary on the good parson's progeny.

What kind of a town is it where the saloons close up week day nights so the bartenders can go to prayer meeting? That's the story the Chelsea Herald tells of its moral burgh. A young duskey snatched a garnet colored porte-monnaie from the arm of Miss Fannie Bailey, our eldest daughter on Saturday evening at 7:45 o'clock, as she, accompanied by a friend, was walking on Division street. The purse, a handsome one, was a present to the young lady's mother, and the thief thought it ought to contain much money. To his bitter disappointment he found, as its proceeds, 35 cents, a key and a letter. Probably he did not know she was a member of the editor's family.—Argus.

Given Away. We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. You are requested to call at Armstrong's drug store, and get a trial bottle, free of cost, if you are suffering with consumption, severe coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, loss of voice, hoarseness, or any affection of the throat or lungs. It will positively cure you. Worthy of Praise. As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicine, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Table with 6 columns (1 to 6) and 15 rows of names and vote counts. Total vote: 126 126 126 126 126 126. Necessary to choice: 62 62 62 62 62 62.

Charged With Poisoning Her Step-son.

Mrs. Elizabeth Newington of the township of Huron, Wayne Co., wife of James Newington, was lodged in the county jail on Monday the 19th inst., by constable Munger of Flat Rock, on the charge of administering strychnine to her eight-year-old step-son, Amza J. Newington, between the 10th and 15th of February. Mrs. Newington was arrested on Sunday, the 18th inst., and the following day was arraigned on the charge of murder before Justice Garretson of Flat Rock, who held her for examination in the sum of $1,000, with two sureties. The complaint was made by her step-son, Elliot Newington. From what can be learned the boy died under suspicious circumstances. The child, it is stated, was taken ill Monday morning the 12th inst., and died at 6 o'clock in the evening of that day in spasms, of which he had several previous to his death. A coroner's inquest was held, the verdict of the jury being that the child died of poison. Mrs. Newington has been charged with extreme cruelty to the child, but when charged with his death she professed great love for him and indignantly denied the charge, and was the first to propose a post mortem examination. She admitted having purchased poison, which she intended to give a neighbor's dog that had been annoying her. She says she told the person of whom she purchased it what use she wished to put it to. She further says that she did not know what kind of poison she purchased. Her examination has been set for Friday, the 23d inst.

Michigan Pine Interests.

During a speech in the House in favor of protection for Michigan pine, Mr. Hood gave the following facts: "In 1882 Michigan manufactured 3,850,000,000 feet of pine lumber; the entire product of the state including lath, shingles, staves, etc., was $60,000,000; of the whole country $290,000,000; value of Michigan lumber plant (mills, camps, etc.) $40,000,000; of the entire United States, $180,000,000; Michigan mills employ 21,000 men at an average of $2 per day making a daily pay roll of $42,000; Michigan lumber camps employ 35,000 men at an average salary of $1.75 per day, making a total daily pay roll of over $100,000; amount paid for labor in the Michigan lumber industry last year $17,500,000; in the United States over $60,000,000; number of men employed in the mills of the entire United States 90,000; in lumber camps, 135,000; over $30,000,000 was paid to agriculturists last year for food for these men, and the animals employed in this industry. Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin produced over 7,000,000,000 feet of lumber last year; the northwest 4,000,000,000 shingles; two counties on Saginaw river produced 95,000,000 pieces of lath. There is 7,000,000,000 feet of standing pine timber in Michigan's lower peninsula; in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, 81,000,000,000; in the southern states 230,000,000,000; in all the Canadian provinces but 75,000,000,000. Last year the importations of lumber were 300,000,000 feet, paying $1,000,000 duty. The tariff commission reported in favor of retaining the tariff on lumber. Stumpage in Michigan is worth $3 to $5 per 1,000 feet, in Canada, $1.50 to $1.75. Most of the remaining pine lands in Michigan were heretofore granted to the canal and railroad companies by the government. Annual taxes in Michigan are $100 per section; in Canada not one-fourth that. Wages in Michigan mills are 30 per cent. higher than in Canadian mills, and Canadian shingles dock over. In Michigan it costs $8.50 to take a thousand feet of lumber in the tree and pile it sawed on the dock; in Canada $6. Horses, feed, provisions, machinery, harness, camp implements, etc., are higher in Michigan than in Canada. One firm alone shipped 200,000 bushels of oats, 50 bushels of corn, and 2,500 tons of hay into the Michigan lumber woods last year. The fire caused by the settlers of Michigan and the locomotives compelling lumbering to save the burned and killed timber, which the wood beetle destroys in the summer unless put in the water. Mr. Horr exhibited a piece of beetle perforated board. The present high price of lumber causes a saving of 20 or 30 per cent. of timber, in that cuts at the top of the trees and smaller timber are now saved, that at low prices would not pay for the manufacture. When lumber was cheap we paid camp men $15 to $20 month and board; now we pay $30 to $35 and board. When lumber was low we paid 30 cents for corn, now 65; 23 cents for oats, now 45; $10 to $12 a ton for hay, now $18 to $22. From these facts Mr. Horr deduced his argument in favor of RETAINING THE TARIFF ON LUMBER, holding a country is most prosperous when prices are high; that protection should not be local but national.

One of the Commissioners.

Rev. Dr. John M. Gregory, who has been recently appointed one of the civil service commission on account of his reputation as a public educator, laid the foundation and built most of the superstructure of that reputation in Detroit and Michigan. He came to Detroit after receiving an ordinary education and unsuccessfully trying the law in his native state of New York, and established a private classical school of which he became the principal. The marked success of this his first educational venture directed general attention to his capabilities, and in 1859 he was elected state superintendent of education of Michigan, and was twice re-elected, filling the position until 1865, when he declined a third re-election to accept the presidency of Kalamazoo college. He retained the latter position until 1867 when he was unanimously elected regent of the Illinois industrial university at Champaign, where he remained until 1880 and only resigned on account of pressing literary work he had mapped out and which demanded his whole attention. About the time of his election to the superintendency of education in this state, he, in conjunction with President E. O. Haven of Michigan university, and Prof. Welsh, of the Normal school, founded the Michigan Journal of Education. Mr. Gregory is well remembered by the old citizens of Detroit, and is regarded by those acquainted with his educational labors and achievements as one of the foremost educators of the Union. A gentleman who has been largely identified with educational progress in Michigan says that his efforts in behalf of the educational interests of the state left a lasting impress for good. Mr. Gregory is now 62 years old.

A Good Showing.

The State Commissioners of Railroads furnished the House with a statement showing the average earnings and expenses per mile for each passenger transmitted over the railroads of Michigan for five years past, as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Number of passengers carried, Earnings per mile, Expenses per mile, Net earnings per mile. Rows for 1877, 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881.

Unhappy Toledo.

AT TOLEDO. The danger that threatened Toledo has been happily averted, though the loss is indeed, very heavy. The largest portion of the loss is on railroad bridges and docks. It will cost $30,000 to repair the bridges, $25,000 to put the middle ground in as good shape as before the flood, and about $100,000 to repair the docks. The losses of merchandise, including logs and lumber, are relatively small, and will not exceed, it is thought, $15,000. The expense of moving goods to places of safety is the next most serious item and will aggregate $4,000 or $5,000.

AT CINCINNATI

the worst is over, and business men are all busy trying to bring order out of chaos. Railroads are running on schedule time, and freight is being handled slowly.

AT LOUISVILLE

everything is being done for the sufferers that can be done. Relief comes in from all quarters, and is being wisely dispersed.

DETROIT MARKETS.

Table with 2 columns: Commodity and Price. Rows include Wheat, Flour, Buckwheat, Corn, Oats, Clover Seed, Apples, Dried Apples, Butter, Eggs, Dressed Chickens, Dressed Turkeys, Doves, Potatoes, Honey, Beans, Beans, split, Hay, Straw, Pork, dressed, Pork, family, Beef, extra mess, Wood, Beech and Maple, Wood, Hickory, Coal, Egg, Coal, Stone, Coal, Chestnut.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

TRIALS CONTINUED. The trial of prisoners charged with conspiracy to murder government officials was resumed in Dublin on Monday, 19th inst. The excitement during the progress of the examination was intense, and was at boiling point when Carey, the man who created such a furor in the court room on Saturday, the 17th, was placed on the stand for cross-examination. As a result of this examination 21 persons have been held for trial for the murder of Cavendish and Burke.

A CORONATION.

The coronation of the king of the Sandwich Islands took place on the 12th inst. The coronation was the occasion of a great display.

AN AMERICAN WAR VESSEL LOST.

A dispatch from Hong Kong dated Feb. 21, says: The United States steamer Ashlatoff has been lost at sea. All her officers were saved but 11 of her crew were drowned. The Ashlatoff was an iron-paddle vessel. She carried 28 guns and was of 786 tons burden.

THE LAST CABINET.

The new French cabinet is composed of Ferry, Prime Minister and Minister of Public Instruction; Challemeil Lacour, Foreign Affairs; Waldeck Rousseau, Interior; Martin Feuillie, Justice; Charles Brun, Marine; Meline, Agriculture; Herisson, Commerce; Cochezy, Posts and Telegraphs; Raynal, Public Works; Tirard, Finance; Gen. Thibaudin, War.

A LAND LEAGUER'S VIEWS.

The following dispatch from London appeared in the Irish Nation, John Devoy's paper, of the 23d inst. "The murder trials in Dublin are still the all-absorbing topic of the hour, and the interest is deepened by the revelations of Carey, the self-confessed murderer, who, to save his life, has turned on the condition of giving him his life as a crowning disgrace for the government and reveals the utter rottenness of the English system in Ireland. It is known that there was a sharp struggle at the Castle before it was finally decided to bring him forward as a witness. There were three different meetings of the privy council in Dublin at which the question was discussed. The reward expected by the government for this infamy is the implication of the land league leaders, and Carey's evidence is carefully directed to that end." The tory speeches made in the house of commons are very bitter in tone, and party feeling is high. The Irish party still maintain an attitude of reserve but it is evident that there is a deep seated intention to contend vigorously for their rights.

THE LATEST SENSATION.

A private examination was held on the 21st inst., in the case of Jesse Smith, arrested for complicity in the Burke and Cavendish assassination. His statements agreed with those made by the informer Carey. A complete alibi has been proven for Gen. Maccaderes, accused of being the mysterious "Number 1."

CAREY REPRICATED.

A Dublin trades meeting has disavowed Carey and repudiated his claim to be a representative of workmen, and unanimously voted to expel him from trade societies.

FAVORABLY RECEIVED.

The French press are very favorable to the programme of the new ministry. It is believed that Ferry will participate actively in all discussions regarding any branch of the government.

THE WAY PARNELL TALKS.

There was a great excitement in the house of commons recently when Parnell declared Carey's testimony unreliable and denounced Forster for suppressing the truth with regard to affairs in Ireland. Parnell said he had been challenged to defend himself but had nothing to defend himself from. The story that land league funds had been used to pay assassins had no other foundation than that money had been paid to families of imprisoned suspects. The Phoenix park assassins were no members of the land league nor were they paid or contented by it.

AN INFERNAL MACHINE.

A parcel addressed to Earl Spencer held by the postal authorities, was found to contain several ounces of dynamite with a fuse attached.

THE LATEST PLOT.

Authorities at St. Petersburg have received letters containing threats to blow up the Kremlin at Moscow, where the czar is to be crowned. A close watch is being kept, and the public are not allowed to enter the building.

WRECKED AT SEA.

A dispatch received at New York on Saturday, February 24, says the steamer Glamorgan from Liverpool for Boston, was wrecked while at sea, and that seven of the passengers were drowned, beside the captain and mate. The survivors were picked up by the steamer Republic. The Glamorgan encountered a terrific storm on Feb. 16, and the vessel was all stove in, and completely swamped. The Republic did noble work in saving the lives of the unfortunate people.

OBSCURE.

UNPROVOKED MURDER.

A Pittsburgh, dispatch of Feb. 20, says: An out-going passenger train near Braddock's station was the scene of a peculiarly reckless tragedy last night. A young man named Cayman, who was but recently married, boarded the train at Braddock's to meet his young wife returning from a visit in this city, and finding her chatting with another young man, Cavanaugh, in a fit of jealousy drew a revolver to shoot his supposed rival. The conductor and brakeman supposed the would-be shooter from the car was he about the brakeman, wounding him seriously. He then fired a shot at random down the aisle of the departing car, the ball striking and killing an inoffensive German named Hamick.

FRANK JAMES AGAIN.

Frank James appeared in court at Gallatin, Mo., on the 20th inst. and was arraigned upon three indictments, one for the murder of McMillan in the Winston train robbery, the second as accessory to the murder of Conductor West falls, and third the murder of Cashier Sheets in the Gallatin bank robbery. He pleaded not guilty, and after a long argument trial was fixed for the third Monday in June, being at the next term of the circuit court, and the prisoner was remanded to jail. A large crowd was present and the prisoner maintained his usual steady demeanor. The general belief is that the state will produce witnesses to testify to James' presence in the vicinity at the time of the murders and the present Charles Ford and Dick Liddell, members of the gang, to prove his participation in the crimes charged.

A few weeks ago the office of a business man in a Pennsylvania village was destroyed by fire, and among his papers were the notes of hand of several of his fellow citizens for various amounts. Each one gave a new note as fast as spoken to, until a call was made upon the last—a steady old deacon, who was supposed to be strictly honest. The case was explained and he was asked to make another note. "Suppose I refuse?" he asked. "Oh, you won't refuse." "Suppose I declare that the note which you say you held was for only $50, instead of $50?" "I'll trust you, deacon, to do the right thing." "Well, I guess you can, I guess you can," mused the old man, "for it has struck me that you had two witnesses in the office the day we made out the note."—Wall Street News.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER.

A baby form of gentlest grace... I watched in all the infant's eyes...

A STRANGE RESCUE.

The sun was sinking behind a mass of battlemented clouds... Eph Warren looked up the steep hill...

Lights had been seen glancing from it... several belated peasants who had wandered into its precincts...

But Eph Warren was a hardy American traveler... who was striving, by dint of seeing many lauds and watching many wonders...

Miss Fotheringay, wealthy, highly accomplished and beautiful... committed suicide. Her body was found floating in the East River...

As he toiled up the road he fancied... as a light moving in some distant corner of the ruins. He stopped, con- sidered the stunted and gnarled trunk of a seamore tree.

There was again a dead stillness about the shadows were deepening... and he now distinctly saw a light burning in one part of the ruins.

He walked steadily and firmly, but with instinctive caution... and as he advanced he saw the light larger and more distinctly.

Seated in a low chair, with her head thrown listlessly back... was his betrothed—Nellie Fotheringay herself.

The room was elegantly furnished, and through an open door another room could be seen, similarly furnished.

In the tumult of his surprise and joy, he had great difficulty in repressing a cry, but he restrained himself...

"Not mad! Of course you are not mad! But who will believe you? Who will dare to interfere between an uncle and his crazy niece..."

"You will not be troubled with me long, uncle. Let me die here in peace, and your title to the property will be secure."

The woman sprang on the poor girl and seized both her arms in a strong grip, while the uncle, holding a pair of handkerchiefs, advanced on her.

Neither uttered a sound but a fierce snarl, as of two beasts in mortal combat. They rolled over the floor, striking each other strong and rapid blows with one hand, while the other firmly clutched the enemy.

Through a bloody mist Warren saw something gleam at his breast. He struck at it, and a loud explosion followed.

Warren caught up the light form of his betrothed, and, unlocking the door strode out into the starlight.

she kissed his bleeding face again and again. "Oh, my darling! my darling! that hideous dream is over. God sent you to me, my brave, devoted love."

Warren removed the blood from his face, and with a strong body of constables returned to the ruins of Mucklenowe Grange.

The master of a sailing vessel had been bribed to bring the young lady—who was represented to be insane—to Europe.

When General Jackson was a candidate for the presidency in 1828, not only did the party opposed to him abuse him for his public acts...

Old Hickory's Wife. Mrs. Jackson watched him, and though she heard not a word she saw mischief in his eyes.

She answered: "I saw it in the paper after you went out; put up your horse and go back."

He replied furiously: "But I will go—get out of my way."

Instead of this, she grasped his bridle with both hands. He cried to her: "I say let go my horse! The villain that reviles my wife shall not live!"

No One Objected. A notorious scamp, much affected at a revival, once went to Jonathan Edwards, and said to him, in the religious parlance of the time:

The Queen of England sent a life-sized bust of herself by Mr. Boehm as a silver-wedding present to her daughter, the Crown Princess of Germany.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

The following composition was found in Charleston, S. C. during the war. It was printed on very heavy satin, and is quite a literary curiosity.

Thou! to the mercy seat our souls doth gather, To do our duty unto thee—our Father, To whom all praise, all honor should be given; For thou art the great God—who art in heaven."

Let not the soul of any true believer Fall in the time of trial—"But deliver," Yes, save them from the malice of the devil. And both in life and death, keep—"us from evil."

"Grand Bumper Degree." "Say, are you a Mason, or a nodfellow, or anything?" asked the bad boy of the grocery man.

"Oh, nuthin, only I wish me and my chum had muzzled our goat with a pillow. Pa would have enjoyed his becoming a member of our lodge better."

"Well, sir, my chum and me practiced with that goat until he could hunt a picture of a goat every time. We horried a buck beer sign from a saloon man, and hung it on the back of a chair, and the goat would hit it every time."

"No, General, you shall not take the life of my reviler—you dare not do it; for it is written: 'Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord!'"

"I yield to you; but had it not been for you and the words of the Almighty the wretch should not have lived an hour."

LITERARY NOTES.

THE CENTURY.—The frontispiece portrait of Gambetta in the March CENTURY, and the accompanying article by the writer who is intimately acquainted with Gambetta, appear now with timeliness, which, to foot-note explains, is not to be credited to editorial haste or energy, since they were both in preparation for the March CENTURY before Gambetta's illness. One of the numerous interesting anecdotes in the article relates to the not over-scrupulous manner in which Gambetta's Mother, who was ambitious for her son, outwitted the stubborn father, who wished his son to succeed him in business. An excellent portrait of the father shows a man of strong will and eccentric character. A short biographical sketch of the late Dr. Leonard Bacon, with portrait, is contributed by his son, Leonard Woolsey Bacon, under the appropriate title, "A Good Fight Finished."

The Art Amateur for March contains admirable full-sized working designs of clover, azaleas and water-lilies for china painters; a South Kensington chair seat, and a chalice veil for embroiderers; a score of delicious cupids, and a page of fresh and excellent monograms, twenty-six in number, giving the letter A in successive combinations with the entire alphabet. The remaining letters are to be similarly given in future numbers. The leading article in this issue is a capital notice of the Water-Color Exhibition, by Edward Strahn, with illustrations of over thirty of the noteworthy pictures. Boughton's beautiful painting, "Snow in Spring," is finely reproduced, and there is a good portrait of Dore, with some well-chosen examples of his work. Flower painters, china painters and photograph portraitists are remembered in the practical articles, and there is much pleasant and copiously illustrated talk about French furniture, Japanese art, new houses, old fashions, and a variety of other art topics. On the whole, the March number is an excellent specimen of this always attractive magazine. Price, 35 cents. $4 a year. Montague Marks, publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

The March number of St. Nicholas is very interesting, and contains a frontispiece: "The Broken Pitcher," after the painting by Greuze.
