HON. J. PROCTOR KNOTT.

New Governor of Kentucky.

The Hon. J. Proctor Knott, who has been elected as the Democratic Governor of Kentucky, was born at Lebanon, in that state, Aug. 29th, 1830. He commenced the study of law when he was nineteen years of age, and in 1850, removed to Missouri and became a member of the bar.

In 1858, he was elected to the Missouri House of Representatives, and two years later, was made Attorney-general of the state, by the gubernatorial appointment, to which office he was elected by the Democrats in 1862.

Returning to the home of his childhood, in 1863, he was engaged in the practice of his profession until 1867, when he was elected as Representative from Kentucky, to the Fortieth Congress, by a large majority. He has served in this body ever since, always on the Democratic ticket.

Last year he declined being a candidate. While a member of the House of Representatives, he always occupied a prominent position on important committees, and was chairman of the Judiciary Committee during the last Democratic Congress.

Mr. Knott has a fine literary education, and his reputation as a humorist is fully established. He is a powerful speaker, and combines the easy flow of wit with the common sense and judgment which have achieved for him his great popularity in his native state and at Washington.

The Democratic Central Committee claim a Democratic majority of from 40,000 to 50,000, with the legislative overwhelmingly democratic.

If you have any business at the Probate Office, make the request that the notice be published in the HERALD. Such a request will always be granted.

WHISPERINGS.

Soon you can indulge in fresh oysters. Many are laying in their supply of coal. S. Seney and sons are on hand with two threshing outfits.

Much needed rains visited this section on Sunday and Monday mornings.

The Washtenaw County Fair will be held Oct. 2, 3, 4, and 5. Hope it will be a better one than it was last year.

A. A. VanTyne has an old English padlock that has been in the family for fifty years. It must weigh about two pounds.

"Bill, the apple tree agent" is again in our midst, taking orders for fall delivery. Will be well known and gives good satisfaction.

A. A. Wood, of Saline writes us that his clip of wool weighed 4,798 pounds. Was this clip sheared in Washtenaw county or Texas?

Boarders at the Chelsea House had the pleasure of "making away" with some speckled trout, last week, which Dr. J. H. Hoag, of Fife Lake caught and kindly sent on.

As far as heard from, Sam Tucker has had the largest yield of wheat. His yield from 16 acres was 528 bushels—33 bushels per acre. Burnett Steinbach did the threshing.

Mr. Adam Shaver, of Canestota, New York, although 93 years of age, can walk several miles, and do considerable work. He has been a subscriber to the HERALD since its publication.

The Florida letter this week, is one received by Mr. Ashley, of Jackson, from Geo. Frost, a well known Boston millionaire who is interested at Altamont where the Michigan colony is working. He gives his testimony in regard to the land being purchased by Michigan men, and knows whereof he speaks.

We learn that the M. E. church society of Alpena, has just completed a fine new church edifice, which is to be dedicated next Sabbath. The Rev. H. C. Northrup, pastor of our M. E. church, who served the above society for a full ecclesiastical term, has been invited to preach one of the sermons on dedication day and leaves for that purpose next Saturday morning on the early train.

Mr. Reuben Kempf has just returned from a trip through northern Michigan, and, like many other men of good judgment, he can not see why young men go to Dakota when so much good land can be had in our own state. Mr. Kempf invested in some land.

A Re-Union Pic-nic.

On Thursday, the 16th inst., a company of sixty or over, of the old friends and schoolmates of Mr. T. W. Baldwin and wife, met at their residence, to renew the old long-forgotten memories of the past, it being the thirty-seventh anniversary of their wedded life. We were surprised to see so many men and women of about the same age, who have passed their years together in the same neighborhood, and yet, out of the large company present only one, Hon. Milo Baldwin, was present at the wedding thirty-seven years ago. One other is living, Mrs. Orlo Fenn, of this place.

After a visit of some length, in the beautiful grove, which, by the way, was planted by the hands of the husband and wife when they were much younger than now, the good ladies began to prepare a bountiful repast which consisted of the many luxuries for which the Chelsea ladies are noted in preparing. All seemed to enjoy the feast of good things, and while all seemed to eat with a relish, the visit continued unbroken, even by the use of knife or fork.

Supper being ended, the friends had prepared a surprise for the bride and groom. Returning from the tables, a beautiful centre table and pickle urn, were found standing in the midst, which pastor Gay, in a few fitting remarks in behalf of the kind friends present, presented. Mr. Baldwin, with heart too full for easy utterance, replied in touching words, the feeling and pleasure of their hearts.

As darkness began to shut in around us, we took our departure, hoping they and all of us, might be spared to enjoy many more of the happy wedding anniversaries.

A Card.

The undersigned wishes to say, that through the consideration of many friends he was a few days ago, made the recipient of a very fine, comfortable, and convenient invalid chair, for which he takes this occasion to express his heartfelt thanks, with the earnest hope that none of the kind friends who have so generously remembered him may ever stand in need of a similar favor. S. D. WHITAKER.

LITERARY NOTES.

Unusual variety and range in illustrations and reading matter and an out-of-door quality befitting the season are the distinctive features of the September Century. A fine portrait of Robert Burns is the frontispiece. It is after a daguerrotype owned by Mr. Edward C. Steadman and made from a miniature which belonged to the sister of Burns. In the same number is a delightful account of "A Burns Pilgrimage," by H. H., who relates several anecdotes in the poet's country.

A richly illustrated paper on "Cape Cod," by F. Mitchell, transforms that curious hook of sea-sand into a homely Yankee paradise, where the fields are green, the woods are filled with birds, the villages are quaint and prosperous, and the inhabitants are honest and witty. The article has a colonial flavor, which allies it to Dr. Edward Eggleston's illustrated historical paper, in the same number, on "Indian War in the Colonies." This is a careful paper of thrilling interest, based on much original research. Striking pictures also accompany Lieutenant Schwatka's account of "A Musk-Ox Hunt," an incident of his Arctic expedition in 1879. H. C. Bunner, in the "Open Letters" department, talks encouragingly and entertainingly of "New York as a Field for Fiction."

A journal has been started in New York called The Undertakers' Assistant. Why not call it The Physician at once?

Henry Clow, of Sharon, a man of about 80 years of age, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head, last Friday. Justice Lehman held an inquest Saturday, and the jury being undecided, said in their verdict that the deceased came to his death at his own hands, but whether intentional or accidental, they could not say. He leaves a sister and two daughters.

The following officers were installed Aug. 13th, in the I. O. of G. T. lodge at this place.

FRED HOPPE, Commissioner of Highways of the Township of Sylvan.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

THE colossal skeleton of a man who must have been twin brother to the Cardiff Giant has been dug from the shelving bank of a ravine near Barnard, Mo., by a farmer named John W. Hannon. Twelve feet was the height of the prehistoric gentleman, and his longest ribs measured four feet in length. The fact that his relics have been dug up in Missouri suggests the probability that he was the original "border ruffian."

THE death of Miss Harriet Starr, of Cincinnati, in her eighty-eighth year, deserves a notice. She was a prominent member of the Society of Friends, and for the last fifty years had been a good angel to the poor. During most of that time it was her custom every winter to prepare a huge boiler of soup on two days of the week. This she distributed gratuitously at her door to all who wished or needed it. Even as late as last winter, though extremely feeble, she was at her self-appointed post as in days gone by. While others, it may be, have been vainly warring over theological abstractions, this unknown woman has been illustrating in her life the true spirit of the Christian religion.

TEN medals are about to be presented by the Mayor of Baltimore to men who showed "heroism and daring intrepidity" in saving lives at the time of the Trivoli dock disaster, and a number of others are to be honorably mentioned in public. The first medal is for Christopher Doyle, who saved fifteen lives and spent the rest of the night in diving for the bodies of the dead. He was standing near the Rev. William E. Starr on the outer edge of the pier when the crash came. Realizing that he could do more effective work if unimpeded by his clothing, he asked Father Starr if it would be right to strip before the women and children. "Go in, man, as God made you," replied the priest, and so he did.

WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT did a graceful and generous thing in handing his check for $3,000 to the proprietor of a hotel in the White Mountains to be distributed among the thirty college boys who are acting as waiters there. This is one of the ways adopted by poor young men in New England colleges to make a little money for the following year at the same time that they are getting the benefit of a vacation. It is not an easy part to play—that of gentleman and scholar and waiter at the same time; and, indeed, a great many young men would rather not try it. But Mr. Vanderbilt's gift was prompted, it is said, by the self-reliant spirit and gentlemanly bearing of these young men. This is a proof that they were highly successful in this difficult role, and is a remarkable compliment.

Nor the least of the blessings which the Republic has conferred upon the French people is the great encouragement given to the cause of popular education. The school system has been so extended as to place within reach of the masses far better educational facilities than the youth of the country ever before enjoyed. A late and important feature of the governmental plan of public instruction is the creation of lycées or colleges for young girls—that is, girls from twelve to eighteen years of age—in fourteen of the larger cities and towns. It is announced that the State pays 1,650,000 francs for the building in which the "lycée" in Paris will be established. French enterprise does not always go in the right direction; but this scheme for the education of girls is certainly commendable.

ARKANSAS has not contributed to the world many of the valuable inventions of the day, but by a stroke of genius it has in rather a novel manner become famous. Lynching seems to have grown into a sort of general if not legitimate industry, and the man who suggests any improvement in this summary process of administering justice is a public benefactor, so to speak. Hanging men to trees has become too common to be genteel; railroad bridges and telegraph poles are not always convenient, and lamp posts are unknown in the rural districts, but they have overcome all these obstacles on Hurricane Creek by hanging a man in his own doorway.

Aside from the convenience of this plan there seems an eternal fitness in making the condemned supply his own gallows. The expense and trouble of conducting him to and from the place of execution are obviated, and when the exercises are concluded his remains can be at once turned over to his family without further ceremony.

THE testimony given before the Senate Committee on Labor and Education in session for the purpose of investigating the causes which led to the telegraphers' strike does not contain much that is news to the public concerning the trouble between the Western Union Telegraph Company and its employees, although a few points were brought out which heretofore have not been entirely clear. The strike has been contemplated, it seems, by both the company and the operators since last March. This accounts, perhaps, for the fact that the company was able to assume the attitude taken when the men's demands were presented. The basis upon which the operators expected to compromise is also given. It was a reduction of the hours of labor to eight and extra pay for Sunday work. The curious statement was made by Mr. McClelland, a prominent manager of the strike, that if the operators were defeated they would only be more powerful than before. This is, indeed, making the best of the situation.

An Old Seal Follows Her Captive Offspring Eighty Miles.

Santa Barbara (Cal.) Press.
An interesting incident, illustrating the maternal affection of an animal for its young, was brought to notice during the visit of an excursion party to Anacapa Island off the coast of California. A young seal pup only a few months old was brought away from the island by little Ernest Whitehead, who desired to take it home for a pet. Shortly before sailing a large seal was noticed swimming around the sloop anchored off the cave where the capture was made, uttering loud barks and at times howling piteously. No particular attention was paid to the animal at the time or to the little captive, which at times barked in response to the old dam's plaints. The boat sailed away, making for the Ventura shore. When off San Buenaventura a calm in the wind decreased the speed of the boat, when a large seal was noticed near by.
On reaching the wharf at Santa Barbara a large seal was again discovered swimming about the boat. To better secure the pup until daylight the rope was taken from its fin and it was tied up in a jute sack and left loose on the deck. Soon after coming to anchor the seal responded to its mother's invitation by casting itself overboard, all tied up as it was within a sack. It is asserted by the man on deck that the seal mother seized the sack and with her sharp teeth tore open the prison of her offspring. This, however, is a mere conjecture. If it did the little pup was saved; otherwise it would have been tied up in the sack. The incident was the more interesting from the fact that the old seal had to follow the sloop at least eighty miles over the ocean in a hopeful endeavor to rescue its young.

Science vs. the Boy.

Peck's Sun.
An exchange says that "no boy will claim that he can catch more fish than a scientific angler." No, perhaps the boy will not claim that, and it is hardly necessary that he should. But let the scientific angler with a superb outfit of rods and reels, and silk fish lines and gold-plated hooks, and patent flies, the usual accompanying combination pocket flask, and other first-class articles that go to make up the outfit of the scientific angler, let such a fisherman go out to the fish pond to fish, and when he has sat all day in the sun, emptied the flask, and has not caught a fish, he will quietly crawl around and commune with the boy, who sits with a battered straw hat on, and one suspender, his pants rolled up, and both feet dabbling in the water. The scientific angler will note that the boy has nothing in the line of fishing tackle, except a tamarac pole, a cotton fish-line, one-cent hook, and a baking powder can full of angle worms, but he has a large string of fish, for which he receives a good price from the scientific angler, who carries them triumphantly through town, and tells the people what big luck he has had. No, the boy does not say he can catch more fish than the scientific angler; the scientific angler does not say so either, but the stubborn facts in the case stick out as prominently as a wart on a Roman nose.

Miss Rosalind A. Young, who a couple of years ago wrote an article about Pitcairn's Island for Scribner's Magazine, is still living in that out of the way spot. Her father is pastor of the island church and teacher of the school, and she is organist and assistant teacher. She is about twenty-six years old, and writes a retired sea-captain who not long ago visited her at home, "she weighs two hundred pounds, never had a shoe on her foot, and if necessary could swim off to a snip four miles from the island and back again to shore, and then go into the little church and play the organ nearly as well as any young lady in the States."

FOLK NOTES.

Prince Albert Victor matriculates at Cambridge this year.
Pope Leo XIII. has sent a painting from the Vatican as a gift to the Detroit Art Association.
Professor Packard, of Yale, expects to leave soon for Athens to teach in the American school there.
John Brown's shackles, the ones used on him at Harper's ferry, are owned by George B. Kensington, of Boothbay, Me.
Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb were believers in Spiritualism, and would sit hours to receive communications from little Minnie Warren in the spirit land.
George Bancroft, Jared Sparks, J. G. Palfrey and Richard Hildreth, leading historical writers of America, were all educated at Phillips Exeter Academy.
It is reported that ex-Mayor Isaac S. Kallio, late of San Francisco, Cal., intends to settle in Washington Territory and to endeavor once again to make a new start in politics.
Josh Billings is a native of Lanesboro, N. H., and there he hopes to be buried. He has directed his children to mark the grave with a rough stone from the quarry near by.

King Alfonso of Spain wants all the nations to take part in a grand celebration in Spain of the Columbian discovery of America, and not to hold the celebration in Italy or America.
Mr. G. R. Blanchard, of Boston, has brought home from Paris the last work of Gustave Dore. It represents a group of Cupids playfully drawing back a curtain from before a mirror.

A lineal descent of Brian Boru, the last king of Ireland, lives in Colorado, and he is a king indeed. His cattle cover a thousand hills, and he is one of the cattle kings of the West.
J. H. Wade is said to be the richest man in Cleveland, O. He made his millions by investments in telegraph stocks when telegraph was only an experiment, and is now well on in life.

Miss Nellie Hunt, daughter of the American Minister to Russia, was claimed the most beautiful of the coterie of American ladies at the coronation. A Paris paper describes her as "fascinatingly pretty."

A fine medallion portrait of the late Marshall Jewell has been made by Francis B. Watts, a deaf-mute marble-cutter. It is said to be an admirable portrait, and was modelled entirely from a photograph.

Frederick N. W. Crouch, author of the song, "Kathleen Mavourneen," has been rescued from poverty by a wealthy and eccentric young Southerner, James Marian Roche, who assumes his name and supplies all the money that he needs.

Col. Bob Ingersoll, who is a very earnest temperance man, expressed his opinion of the richly finished bar of the Hoffman House, New York, when he saw it, thus: "This is the most orthodox show I've seen. You can deal out hell fire here and believe you are in heaven while you're doing it."

Mr. Barnum was in Montreal when he heard of "Tom Thumb's" death, and immediately telegraphed to the widow: "Dear Lavinia: Yourself and family have my warmest sympathies. Death is as much a part of the Divine plan as birth. The Heavenly Father finally overcomes all evil with good. His will be done."

Edgar A. Poe's old home at Fordham has been purchased by Nelson Strong for $7,500. This was the house in which Poe's wife died in 1847, when she was but 25 years old, and when Poe was too poor to buy a blanket to put on her bed. She died in the middle of winter, covered with a sheet and her husband's overcoat.

A curious question concerning the identity of the corpse of the poet Schiller is being discussed in Germany and France. Prof. Welckers of Halle, after a careful comparison of the skull in the tomb at Weimar with the plaster cast taken immediately after Schiller's death, has come to the conclusion that the person buried in the dual vault is not Schiller at all.

White Dog, the famous old chief of the Ogallala Sioux, takes much interest in tornadoes, and describes them in a peculiarly picturesque fashion, all his own. "Me catch" (understand—"catch" on) "cyclone," he says. "Big wind in cloud. Blow wigwam 'way off. Spit fire. Make roar like five big herd buffaloes. Always go that way" (pointing to the northwest). "Me see plenty of 'em; more than that many" (counting twenty on his fingers). "When he come, Injun lie down on his belly and grab soap-weed and grass. Ugh! Big wind!"

Having lived prosperously in Crawfordsville, Ind., for several years, Frederick Kruger decided that his circumstances warranted him in marrying, and he accordingly commissioned his brother in Germany to select a wife. Miss Eloise Stagg, a Westphalian damsel, was chosen, and promptly shipped to this country. Her destined lord and master went to Toledo to meet her, with some perturbation, but the fraternal standard was found to be a good one. The young woman is a plump and pleasing person and thrifty withal, for she brought with her a stout chest filled with linen which she herself had spun.

A young woman went to sell a book to Jay Gould. She hid it under her cloak and seemed mysterious. "No one but Mr. Gould would do," she told the messenger. Mr. Gould was not in. She would come again. She kept on calling daily until, in despair, the messenger informed Mr. Gould, who had her shown in. "I suppose, Mr. Gould," said she, "when you know my business you will kill me. I am so 'ing books." But after some persuasion he purchased a volume, and gave her a list of names of his friends to whom he thought she could sell. Russell Sage was the only one with whom she was not successful.

"The Pope is now seventy-four," says the London Globe, "a tall, thin, ivory-complexioned man, with a benignant expression and smiling lips, bearing the stamp of indelible firmness—the expression of a man to bend, but never to break. Some one has said he has the mask of Voltaire, but this is nonsense. There is none of the saturnine caducity, the depressed mouth and prominent chin, or spectral smile. Leo XIII. is tall; he wears his years well; walks upright and thus makes the most of his inches. His hair is snow-white and naturally forms into a crown about his finely developed brow. His long face is serene, his small eyes dancing with intelligence; add to this a harmonious sonorous voice and a wide knowledge of languages, which he speaks with the correctness of a professor."

Past, Present and Future of Wyoming.

Laramie Boomerang.
Some writer has said that no portion of the globe is at this time so full of mighty possibilities, or so rich in promises for the future, as the broad stretch of rich territory lying west of the Mississippi, and this assertion comes as near the truth as a newspaper man dare get. But a few years ago this portion of the Union was very appropriately termed a wilderness. The coyote squatting in the shelter of the umbrageous sage tree sang his tuneful lay, and the cactus stood sadly in the midst of the wide expanse of country known as the Laramie plains, with no human being to love it and cherish it—and sit down on it. The very thought of an orphan cactus being doomed to sit in eternal silence, with no kind word or look for centuries, and with no picnic party and no soft eyed young man with ice-cream pants on to come and nestle lovingly down upon its fuzzy bosom, is sad enough to draw tears from the eyes of Bob Ingersoll himself—at the usual Star Route price. Until lately, too, the Westerner who ventured across the Missouri River was looked upon as a curiosity, and the people watched him with apprehension for fear he might be loaded. Within the last half score of years, however, the West, particularly this portion of it, has waltzed to the front and demanded recognition among the countries of the world, and got it, too. The only objection to farming on these plains is that the land comes pretty high—about 8,000 feet. The assertion, however, that there is always a sea breeze blowing at that elevation, just moving the leaves of the trees and blowing the cellars out from under the houses occasionally, is false. True, sometimes a whisper of wind springs up on the starboard jib and blows about due west by galley-west for an hour or two, but nothing heavier than corner lots with big mortgages on them have been blown away that we ever heard of.
Raising cattle is Wyoming's chief industry at this writing. With a good branding iron the humble ranchman can get up a pretty nice little herd in a few years. One man who went into the cattle business up in the Sweetwater four or five years ago with an I. C. mule and a healthy branding-iron is now worth a million. He carried a charcoal furnace with him, and had the brand tied to a rope. He kept the iron hot, and could throw it so as to leave his brand on every maverick he saw, if he could get within twenty yards of it. He just branded all the cattle he could find every spring and let nature take her course.
"I tell you, pard," said old Jimmy Cannon, the guide, to the writer recently, "the West has lost its romance. Only a little while ago, it seems to me, where once there was nothing but the whoop of the Indian and the song of the six-shooter, now there are railroads and churches, and commercial men, and high schools, and three-card monte men, and lecturers, and daily newspapers, and, every little while, a natural death. Why, within the past two months, if the blasted papers tell the truth, several men have died in Wyoming of disease. I tell you, it looks as though us old-timers would have to move away. When we have to wait for lingering disease to snuff us out, it's time to light out for the frontier."

Why He Did Not Succeed.

Peck's Sun.
Probably the most surprised man of the season, was the postmaster at Orange, this state, who prepared to commit suicide a few days ago. He sent his hired man to New Lisbon for some morphine, to kill himself with. His family, suspecting all was not right, changed the morphine to quinine. The doomed man took one of the powders, and laid down to die. He felt a buzzing in his head, but death did not approach with that rapidity he desired, so he got up and took another powder, and laid down with a feeling that death would soon relieve him of all troubles. The buzzing in his head continued, and after waiting an hour on death which did not arrive on schedule time, he got up about as mad a man as could be found. He got the balance of the powders, procured a microscope and examined them, and when he found they were only quinine, the trifling conduct of relatives was clear to him. He thought the matter over for a few days and then shot himself in the head. As he was alive at last accounts he no doubt feels that the bullet had been changed in the gun.

LEPROSY IN THE WEST.

Its Ravages Among the Norwegians, Chinese and Indians.
Milwaukee Cor. N. Y. Telegram.
It has just been made public through the columns of the Sentinel that leprosy prevails to an alarming extent among the Norwegians in the northwestern portions of Wisconsin. As far as has been ascertained the loathsome disease has confined its ravages to the Norwegian inhabitants, but its rapid spread has been viewed with much alarm. Crossing the Mississippi river it has fastened its fangs on the population in Eastern Minnesota, until now Wisconsin and Minnesota in the districts indicated constitute one of the four great head centers in the United States from which the contagion is radiating in the Western Hemisphere. Wisconsin, Louisiana, South Carolina, Mexico, Bermuda, California and the Sandwich Islands are considered the most affected districts. It is professed by medical men that unless measures are taken soon this State will be afflicted terribly by the encroachments of the disease.
A prominent physician of Milwaukee said:

"As has been well known for some time, there exists among the Norwegian population of this state a large number of cases of the disease which is now the scourge of the people of the Sandwich Islands, and which was looked upon by the people of Biblical times with such dread and merited abhorrence. In searching the records of the State Board of Health I can not find that effort has as yet been made to stop its spread or limit its introduction. The disease in question is eminently contagious, and is not only carried by actual contact of a healthy person with a leper, but may be acquired from hotel towels and like things."

"In the course of forty years, or since the time of its introduction into the Sandwich Islands, it has spread with so much rapidity that at this date at least ten per cent of the people of Hawaii are rendered unfit for any kind of occupation, and are debarréd entirely from any and all social life; at the present there are four leprosy centers in the United States, namely—Eastern Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin among the Norwegians, Louisiana, among the Chinese, Louisiana, and among the Indians of the Northwest."

"That the disease is spreading among us and that, too, with comparative rapidity, can not for a moment be doubted, and it would seem that the time had come for local and national action to prevent its further introduction and further spread. To any one who will take the trouble to investigate this matter the results will not only be of interest, but will be alarming, as the matter is one which is of interest not only to the medical profession, but to the world at large. I think that the attention of the public should be drawn to it. I hope that proper action may be taken through public legislation to blot out this most disgusting disease from this state, at least, and perhaps, eventually, from the whole nation."

Flying Without Wings.

St. Nicholas.
In the forests of the Indian Archipelago is found a curious flying animal that forms the connecting link between the lemur and the bat. The natives call it the colugo, and also the "flying-fox," but it is more like a flying-monkey, as the lemurs are cousins of the monkeys. Like the bats these animals sleep in the day time, hanging from the limbs and branches of trees, head downward; but as evening comes on, they sail forth, often doing great harm to the fruit on the neighboring plantations. In some parts of Java they are so numerous that it is found necessary to protect the fruit trees with huge nets. The extent of their flights through the air is something astonishing. They sometimes drop to the ground and hop along with a shuffling kind of leap, but if they are alarmed, they spring to the nearest tree and in a moment reach its top by a series of bounds. Out on the branches they dart, and with a rush are off into space, sailing through the air like some great bird, down they go obliquely swift as an arrow, a hundred and fifty feet or more, rising again in a graceful curve and alighting safely on a distant tree. In these great leaps they carry their young, which cling to them, or sometimes follow them in their headlong light, uttering hoarse and piercing cries. The colugos live almost exclusively on fruit, preferring plantains and the young and tender leaves of the coca-palm, though some writers assert that they have seen them dart into the air and actually catch birds.

Valuable Time
lost by farmers on account of their horses having sore necks and shoulders. This can easily be avoided by using Cole's Veterinary Carbolic. It prevents inflammation, cures collar and saddle galls quickly, while the horse is being used, and invariably brings the hair in its original color. W. W. Preston, St. Olaf, Minn., says: "For bad collar galls, fresh cuts or old sores, there is nothing equal to Cole's Veterinary Carbolic. It is a big thing for horses and can not be too highly recommended. I would not be without it for many times its cost." Pound cans, $1; small cans, 50 cents.

HOW WATCHES ARE MADE

In a SOLID GOLD Watch, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus gold is actually needless. In James Doss' Patent Gold Watch Cases this waste is saved, and SOLIDITY and STRENGTH increased by a simple process, at one-half the cost. A plate of SOLID GOLD is soldered on each side of a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished steel rollers. From this the cases, backs, centers, bezels, etc., are cut and shaped by dies and formers. The gold is thick enough to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving and engine turning. These cases have been worn perfectly smooth by use without removing the gold. This is the only case made under this process. Each case is accompanied with a valid guarantee signed by the manufacturers warranting it to wear 20 years. 150,000 of these Cases now carried in the United States and Canada. Largest and Oldest Factory. Established 1854. Ask your Jeweler.

GATHERINGS.

Saloons are not all closed in Ann Arbor on Sundays, hence trouble is threatened.

Joseph McCullum, a deaf mute, was run over by a train at Manchester last Friday, and received injuries from which he died a few hours after.

Miss Jane Halsey, aunt of Mrs. W. W. Wines, celebrated her 93d birthday last Friday by a dinner with friends and relatives and by going down in the afternoon and having her picture taken.—Courier.

May and December have again come together. On Thursday of last week, A. M. Bodwell of this city, aged 62, and Mrs. Annie N. Young, of London, Eng., aged 26, were married by Rev. Mr. Pope.—Argus.

Willie Larkin, aged 15, son of W. Larkin's of Dexter, was drowned in the river at that place Saturday evening, Aug. 11. It is supposed he walked into the river while in a fit. He was an unusually smart boy and will be greatly missed.

Farmers are warned against a party of herd book swindlers who have been recently operating in Jackson county. They send out circulars offering to register fine stock at $2 per head and throw in the book, and have managed to swindle a number of farmers out of some cash.—Enterprise.

Some malicious villain put powder in the stovewood used by the family of Wm. Gilbert, of Unadilla, and as his daughter Anna was preparing supper the stove was blown to atoms and the fire scattered all over the kitchen. Fortunately no one else was hurt and the fire was extinguished.

A settlement of grievances in the Decker family of Lyndon township, took place in justice McMahon's court on Tuesday. Thomas S. Decker, the husband, charged with disorderly conduct by, and assault and battery upon his wife, settled both cases by payment of costs. Henry, a son, plead guilty to assault upon his mother and was fined $2, and $11.50 costs.—Argus.

While three boys were bathing at Dexter recently, one of them stepped on a sharp stone or some glass severing an artery. The other two lads, with rare presence of mind, tied a towel and fishline around the ankle, thus checking the flow of blood. Dr. Wright dressed the wound and says the boy would have bled to death had the boys not done as they did. The boys were from 10 to 14 years of age.

It becomes our sad duty this week to chronicle the death of two of Saline's worthy women—sisters—who have been sick most of the past winter and spring. On Sunday, Mrs. Eliza P., wife of E. R. Olds, died at the age of 47 years. Monday, only one day apart, her sister, Mrs. Phebe E., wife of Wm. Gordon, died, aged 30 years. Both parties lived near the southwest corner of Saline township.—Observer.

Wooster Blodget, of Webster, recently found in one of his fields a tax receipt bearing the date 1881, and made out to a man by the name of Henry, at Eaton Rapids. It will be remembered by our readers that a man by the above name had his house demolished by the storm that visited Eaton Rapids on the 23d of July. In all probability the receipt dropped here as the storm passed over.—Dexter Leader.

FLORIDA THE FIELD.

Michigan Colony Forming—What a Boston Man Says.

Mr. B. S. Ashley is in daily receipt of many letters, making inquiry of the prospect for orange culture in Florida. He has received about an hundred, many from northern men who are already engaged in the enterprise. The following, from Mr. Byron Ashley, Jackson.

Your favor at hand, and I was pleased to get it. If there is any one I am intensely interested in, it is Orange county, Florida. My special interest centers in and about Altemonte. The state as a whole is so uninteresting to a northern western resident, that when you take the rolling country, you are lighted and at once become interested and pleased. I consider the climate of southern Florida for some months of the year the finest on globe while the whole year is objectionable to the permanent resident. To those who have reached passed mid-life, I claim Florida a special interest.

was first led there to try the effect of the climate upon myself principally, having for some years been troubled with chronic throat difficulty, and found the change and the effect of the soft, even climate beneficial that I decided to make winter home for myself and family. My wife, although she has no ailment, has received great benefit from our visits there, and winter declared she had not felt well for twenty-five years!

My first visit to Altemonte was in 1881, and while we were delighted with the even, perfect climate, I did not enthuse over the land question, believing that the residents were over sanguine as to the value of that locality. I came north about investing a dollar, and there where I made a mistake! On my return a year later, to my surprise, property was being held, and ready to be made at about double the price of one year before! Before leaving I made a purchase of 40 acres on which were one hundred trees some years old (seedlings), and which were just coming into bearing. The year I had it cared for by the owner, who certainly cared well, but as I desired to set out a grove, and learning of the facilities perhaps superior to any else there for caring for a grove, I considered myself fortunate in securing his services.

A Georgia picnic recently was largely attended, but when the parties returned home two couples were missing. Simultaneously there appeared at a hotel in Albany two strange couples, who seemed to have something important on hand. They got the hotel-keeper to procure for them marriage licenses for W. L. Simpson and Miss E. Collier and James Gliz and Miss A. Lundy. A preacher arrived, but here a hitch occurred. One of the ladies wanted to back out, and the parties kept the parlor door locked for five hours, trying to settle the point. At ten o'clock at night the door was thrown open and the preacher admitted, when the ceremony was performed. They returned home to Terrell County, where the fatted calf was killed, and all forgiven. They all belong to the upper-tendom.—Chicago Times.

A chubby brown sparrow flew up from the ground in Boston Common carrying in its beak a soda biscuit. He flew but a few feet away before he dropped the biscuit, when another sparrow seized it and carried it a few feet further, and so one after another carried it along until the last sparrow dropped it plump on a horse-car track. Then away they all flew as if their object had been accomplished. Pretty soon along came a car, and passing over the cracker, ground it into crumbs. Then down swooped the whole flock of feathered philosophers and made a good breakfast.—Boston Post.

The Albany (N. Y.) Journal has an article "How to treat sunstrokes." Should say the best way would be to treat them coolly.—Detroit Free Press.

The Signing of the Declaration.

In thinking of that instrument one is apt to call up before him an august assemblage gravely seated around a table, with the Declaration spread out upon it, and each member of the Continental Congress in turn taking a pen and affixing to it his name. Nothing, however, can be further from that which actually took place. Very few of the delegates, if indeed any, signed the original document on the 4th, and none signed the present one now in Independence Hall, for the very good reason that it was not in existence.

On July 19 Congress voted that the Declaration be engrossed on parchment. Jefferson, however, says that New York signed on July 15. Consequently New York must have signed the original copy of the Declaration before it had gone into the hands of the engrosser. On what day the work was done by the copyist is not known. All that is certainly known is that on the 2d of August Congress had the document as engrossed. This is the document in existence now in Independence Hall. It is on parchment, or something that the trade calls parchment. On that day (August 2) it was signed by all the members present. The original Declaration is lost, or rather was probably purposely destroyed by Congress. All the signatures were made anew. When the business of signing was ended is not known. One, Matthew Thornton, from New Hampshire, signed it in November, when he became a member for the first time; and Thomas McKean, from Delaware, as he says himself, did not sign till January, 1777. Indeed, this signing was in effect what at the present day would be called a "test oath." The principles of many of the new delegates coming into Congress from the different States were not known with certainty—some of them might be Tories in disguise—and thus each one was required on first entering Congress to sign the Declaration. In January, 1777, an authenticated copy, with the names of all the signers, was sent to each State for signatures—a fact which may have put a stop to the business of signing. It shows, however, the little importance that was attached to this ceremony, that Robert R. Livingston was one of the committee of five that reported the Declaration, and yet did not sign it, unless his signature is lost with the original document.

The truth is, the Declaration of Independence was considered at that time of much less importance than now; nor did the signers dream of its becoming a shrine almost of worship at the present day.—W. L. Stone, in Harper's Magazine.

SECRET.

THE ONLY DISSOLVER OF THE POISONOUS URIC ACID WHICH EXISTS IN THE BLOOD OF RHEUMATISM AND GOUTY PATIENTS.

SALICYLICA is known as a common-sense remedy because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so called specifics and supposed panaceas only treat locally the effects.

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments, and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid.

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid, and so removes the disorder. It is now exclusively used by all the celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy reports 95 per cent. cures in three days.

REMEMBER that SALICYLICA is a certain cure for Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia. The most intense pains are subdued almost instantly. Give it a trial. Relief guaranteed or money refunded.

It is not a bad idea, sometimes, to sell your property, if it is in market, if you are offered a good price. The Stanton Herald tells of a lot in that city, now used as a horse pasture, which could have been sold for $3,750, ten years ago, but the owner wanted $4,000. About six years ago $2,500 was offered for it and refused. To-day it is doubtful if it can be sold for cash for $1,500, and it has not produced income enough to much more than pay the taxes during the past ten years. The prohibition State convention met in Eaton Rapids on the 15th inst. Shocking Accident in Watertown.

A frightful accident happened James Hoard, Sr., while driving from Mayville with his son James. On the road home Plin Brown was a short way ahead of them, driving a colt in a buggy; the Hoards had a lumber wagon. Jas. Hoard Jr. was driving and informed his father that he was going to give Plin a tight run, or words to that effect. The father remonstrated, but at any rate the son started up the horses, which were soon going at a very lively gait. In the neighborhood of Thomas Briggs' farm, near Hurd's Corners, there is a log culvert in the road somewhat lower than the road grade. In passing over this culvert the wheels struck it with such force as to raise the wagon clear off the ground. James junior grabbed his father's coat and the piece was left in his grasp, for the old gentleman was thrown from his seat. In falling he struck his breast on the rapidly revolving wheel which dashed him to the ground with the velocity of a ball shot from a cannon. His collision with the ground broke his jaw in three places, badly smashed his nose, and otherwise tore and bruised his whole face, and fractured his left arm at the wrist. He was taken to his home and his injuries attended to. Mr. Hoard is also inwardly injured, and suffered from internal hemorrhage. The opinion is expressed by the physicians that, if inflammation can be kept down, hopes of his recovery may be entertained. The patient's condition, is, however, critical in the extreme.

A young lady, who had probably had reason to doubt the veracity of the male bards, says batches of lies are only equalled by the lies of bachelors. - Boston Transcript.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

WASHINGTON.

THE CASE OF ILLIGES.

The last time Lieutenant-Colonel Illiges was tried by a court-martial before the recent trial for duplicating his pay accounts, was in July, 1875. At that time he was sentenced to be dismissed from the service, but eight members of the court which tried him recommended clemency in his case on account of his excellent military record. Although it was Lieutenant-Colonel Illiges's second offense, the President, in his order approving the findings and sentence of the court-martial, said that "in view of some palliating circumstances he had been induced for the second time to extend clemency to this officer." It also remarked that the duplication of a pay account by an officer involved "dishonesty, fraud and an act of dishonor," and that "clemency in such a case cannot be expected by any officer after this warning." Under these circumstances probably Lieutenant-Colonel Illiges does not expect to be leniently dealt with at this time. There is some reason to believe, however, that he will not rest easy under the disgrace of a dismissal from the service. If the case of Colonel Morrow, late of General Sherman's staff, shall be persistently ignored by the War Department. It appears that some of Colonel Morrow's creditors in Washington are indignant at the position of affairs in relation to that officer. It is said while certain of his creditors are to participate in the benefits accruing to the "Syndicate" which took up his dishonored accounts and formed a trusteeship with the consent of the War Department, other creditors whose claims are equally good—some of them even stronger—have been ignored entirely. There is some reason to believe that this is true. Meanwhile Lieutenant-Colonel Illiges, an ambitious young officer who loves his profession, is to be tried by court-martial for a duplication of his pay accounts which, as explained, happened in a way which reflects very little discredit upon him.

HOW THE GUILTY ESCAPE.

Alpha B. Beal, who was arrested a short time ago on a charge of taking an excessive fee from a widow for obtaining a pension, has been dismissed, the court holding that there had been no violation of the statute. The judge holds that the check having been cashed by the bank, and a portion of the amount placed with the bank on deposit the money was no longer under the protection which is placed by the statute over money received, on account of pensions, and the fact that defendant received part of it on account of service rendered does not constitute a violation of the statute.

A MODEST CLAIM.

S. B. Edmonston et al., of St. Louis, have put in a modest claim for about $3,000,000 for property in the city of Washington, much of which is now the capitol grounds.

ENCOURAGING.

Inspector Haworth, who has general charge of the government schools for the Indians, has just returned from the west, and submits a very encouraging report as to the work being done for that people. The schools now in process of construction will be ready for use in January, and when completed the Indian schools throughout the country will accommodate 10,350 pupils.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE NEGRO.

A decision was rendered by Judge Mills in the Washington police court in the civil rights case of the Rev. George H. Smith, colored, of Norwich, Conn., against James W. Bell, proprietor of a restaurant. The ground of the complaint was that Bell had denied the accommodation of his restaurant to the plaintiff on account of the latter's color, and suit was brought to enforce the criminal provisions of the act of March 1, 1875. The court holds that under the common law an inn-keeper is bound to take in and receive all travelers and wayfarers, and that by the act of March 1, 1875, it is made a misdemeanor to discriminate against a traveler on account of race and color regardless of any previous condition of servitude. A restaurant-keeper has a right to establish certain regulations as to hours for meals and to designate certain places or seats for customers, but such hours and such seats must be the same for all, or if any discrimination be made it must be made upon some principle or for some reason that the law recognizes as just and reasonable, and not on account of color, race or previous condition of servitude. All guests of an inn or restaurant must be given the usual privileges, and the places designated for them must be accessible to all respectable persons at a uniform rate of charge. From these principles it follows that the defendant in discriminating against the complainant on account of his race and color was guilty of a misdemeanor and incurred the penalty prescribed by the second section of the civil rights act of 1875. Judgment is entered accordingly. This case is in some respects a novel one since it is the first attempt to enforce a penalty under the second section of the civil rights act which makes violation of the law a misdemeanor, and it is the first effort made to enforce the criminal provisions of the law in a territory where the congress of the United States has exclusive and absolute legislative jurisdiction.

NEWS NOTES.

A SENATOR'S WIFE SUICIDES.

The wife of United States Senator W. B. Allison, of Iowa, committed suicide by drowning herself in the Mississippi River at Dubuque. She left home in the afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock, informing her servant that she was going to one of her neighbors, instead, however, taking her gossamer under her arm, she went in an opposite direction towards the country, where she has been accustomed to take almost a daily walk. It was ascertained that she wandered around in the outskirts of the city during the afternoon. She was seen by several persons walking rapidly, and apparently very much excited. Not returning by 9 o'clock from the place she was supposed to be an alarm was given and search instituted and maintained throughout the night. The next morning her body was discovered by an out-going train at 7 o'clock in the river about a mile below the city. She had cut her gossamer, placed some stones in it and tied them about her neck, and then walked and deliberately into the river about thirty-five feet from the bank, laid down and was drowned where the water was only two and a half feet deep. Mrs. Allison was of a highly nervous temperament, and during the past two or three years has suffered from and been treated for mental disease. While at a water-cure establishment in Western New York in 1881, under medical treatment, she attempted to commit suicide in much the same manner, but she was rescued. She was a niece and adopted daughter of the late Senator Grimes, of Iowa, and has been married for ten years.

ATLANTA'S LOSS.

The Kimball House at Atlanta, Ga., one of the largest and best equipped hotels in that state, was totally destroyed by fire the other morning. The loss will reach $1,000,000, with only a nominal insurance. The prompt action of the proprietor enabled all the guests and employees to escape, and so far as learned no lives were lost. Incendiarism is alleged.

MILWAUKEE BLAZES.

A fire in Milwaukee the other day destroyed the Passavant Hospital and a building adjoining, in which were confined 23 patients. Many of the inmates were severely burned. Dr. Boyd, proprietor of the hospital and his son, lost their lives while attempting to rescue the patients. Loss about $40,000, with no insurance. The fire was incendiary.

A SOUTHERN CYCLONE.

A cyclone swept through Chattanooga, Tenn., the other day. The G. T. & Ga. and Alabama Great Southern depots were unroofed. A large number of buildings were unroofed and several blown down. A flying timber seriously injured J. H. Jennings, and going through a box car before a heavy hail storm prevailed at the time and horses ran away. One was killed and many injured.

THE APACHES AT IT.

A special courier from the headquarters of the army operating against the Indians in Oposum, Sonora, Mexico, says the Apaches on August 13 made an attack on the Village of Macari, where Lieut. Marengo is stationed with a small picket of state troops, killing five picket guards. At daylight next morning Marengo marched with twenty men and found the savages to the number of 150 men strongly entrenched, and he was compelled to retreat. He made a second reconnaissance, accompanied by armed villagers, but ammunition becoming exhausted made a second retreat. Several Indians were killed and Marengo slightly wounded. After the skirmish the savages had things all their own way and drove off large herds.

A SERIOUS SMASH UP.

A serious accident occurred on the Iron Mountain railroad, about 60 miles from St. Louis, Mo., the other day. It appears that a freight train broke down at Cadit and an engine was sent down from DeSoto to bring it up. When about a mile from Cadit the relief engine collided with a gravel train coming north, badly wrecking both engines and several cars. Jerome Pinson, fireman of the relief engine, was killed outright and Broome Williams, its engineer, very seriously scalded about the head, face and body, and will probably die. John Stevenson, engineer of the gravel train, had an arm broken and ribs fractured. Henry Moore, brakeman, arm broken, internally and perhaps fatally injured. Pat Glenn, fireman of the gravel train, foot crushed. Williams, Stevenson and Moore were brought to Cadit and taken to the railroad company's hospital. Glenn was taken to his home at Irondale. The accident occurred in a deep cut on a sharp curve, and the train in collision with the freight was not a gravel train, but was laden with pig iron and watermelons, more than half of it was badly wrecked. Both engines were nearly demolished. The boiler of one of them exploded and large pieces of it were thrown over 100 yards. All the engine men were more or less scalded by escaping steam. The damage by the accident will amount to several thousand dollars.

THE RESULT OF VIGILANCE.

It is stated that by reason of the vigorous action of the government in prosecuting the opium smugglers on the Pacific coast the duties collected at San Francisco on opium the last fiscal year were more than $1,000,000 in excess of the collections from that source the previous year.

STRIKE OIL.

For three years or more capitalists have been prospecting for coal oil in the vicinity of Canon City, Colorado, but with indifferent result. A few days ago a vein was struck in the Land Investment company's well, which has since yielded at the rate of forty barrels per day, and of excellent quality, thereby demonstrating to a certainty that coal oil exists in paying quantities in that vicinity.

THE STRIKERS.

Western Union reports indicate that the strike is practically a failure. From various places come reports that operators are returning to work at the employer's terms.

THE STRIKE ENDED.

The telegraph strike is practically ended. The striking operators are returning to their keys in many places, 27 leaving the Brotherhood in one day in New York city. One of the best operators in the city said in abandoning the Brotherhood: "I believe in the Brotherhood, and stood by it as long as I could, but we are beaten and may as well give up first as last. I have signed the ironclad oath and will return to work to-morrow, and I know many others who will return at once."

A COLLISION.

The Mt. Sterling, Ky., accommodation going to Lexington ran into the rear car of a train on the Kentucky Central at Winchester crossing, exploding 400 kgs of giant powder. The depot was wrecked, the engine blown to atoms. Engineer Schuler is not found. Yardmaster Randall was killed, Conductor McMichael fatally injured and several others supposed to be killed.

A NEW PHASE OF THE CHINESE QUESTION.

In the United States circuit court at Boston Judges Lowell and Nelson gave an opinion in the case of Captain Douglass of the British bark Eric, charged with unlawfully bringing a Chinese laborer to this country in the person of Ah Shong, who came as a ship carpenter. The opinion reviews the various treaties with China and concludes: "We are of opinion that the prohibitory act passed by congress and concludes: 'We are of opinion that the prohibitions of the act are not to be construed as applying to persons of the Chinese race who are not and never were subjects of or residents within the Chinese empire. As Ah Shong is a person of this description the defendant cannot be guilty of a violation of the act and therefore is entitled to be discharged.'"

POLITICAL.

KENTUCKY'S GOVERNOR.

The elections held in Kentucky on the 6th inst. resulted in the election of Knott, Democrat, by about 40,000 majority.

VIRGINIA "STRAIGHT-OUTS."

The Virginia Straight-Out Convention of Virginia met in Richmond on the 15th. The platform adopted favors a strict adherence to Republican principles and a protective tariff; endorses Jas. G. Blaine for the Presidency; condemns the action of the administration in aiding Gen. Mahone in the repudiation of one-third of the state debt; declares that the power thus given to Mahone has been used for the persecution of life-long Republicans; that the power given by the administration to Mahone makes him virtually President of the United States for the state of Virginia. The platform also opposes mixed schools; favors civil service reform and honest enforcement of the recent acts of Congress. It favors a free ballot and an honest count; declares that the Republican party never advocated the imposition of a capitation tax; that the Republican party of Virginia placed in the State Constitution clauses that the establishment of public free schools should be made mandatory; favored a division of the school funds according to population and concludes by expressing unalterable opposition to the one-man power in Virginia represented by Mahone, and calls the attention of the administration to the results of such a system in other states.

CRIME.

TRIPLE MURDER.

Chas. Stigel, who was at work with two brothers, James and John Adair and a man named Osborne, arose one night after his companions were asleep, crushed in their skulls, and robbed them of about $80. He made his escape, but was captured the next day.

TOO ATTENTIVE.

Laurence Dinman met Rev. R. G. Sewell on the street, of Galveston, Texas, and fired at the minister four times, inflicting wounds which resulted in death in a short time. Rev. Sewell had been too attentive to lady members of Dinman's family.

A WICKED NEGRO.

Albert Anderson, a light mulatto, stabbed and killed Charles Marshall, a mulatto, at a Sixth Ward voting precinct during the progress of a Republican primary election in Cincinnati. Anderson's name was on the ticket, and Marshall began to abuse Anderson for keeping his (Marshall's) name off. Marshall drew a pistol, but before he could use it Anderson stabbed him with a pocket knife. He died on his way to the hospital. Marshall killed Policeman Karsh three years ago and a colored man two years before that.

ONE CONVICT STABS ANOTHER.

Sue Fletcher, alias Burton, and Mollie Denton, colored female convicts in the state penitentiary at Nashville, Tenn., quarreled in the several times when the latter stabbed the former cutting two gashes across her right arm and another across her left breast, and a fourth and fatal stab in the neck, penetrating the auricle of the heart, from which she bled to death in a short time after a physician arrived.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

ASYLUM BURNED.

Dr. Boyd's insane asylum at Eaton, Eng., burned a few days ago. The water supply was inadequate and the fire could not be subdued before the building was wholly destroyed. The roof fell in and six patients were killed. Several others were injured.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Miss Fanny Douglass, an estimable young lady of Windsor, Ont., daughter of James Douglass, one of the oldest residents of that town, dropped dead from heart disease on Hickory Island, where she had been camping with a party of young people from Windsor for several days past. She had just returned from a boat ride.

A SPANISH PROCLAMATION.

The proclamation issued by the rebel leaders to the inhabitants of Seo de Urgel on the occasion of the rising at that place is published. It declares that those persons who oppose the public will be punished with death, and decrees the separation of church and state; the permission of liberty of conscience; suppression of the Ocotri, and abolition of the courts of justice in favor of a revolutionary municipality, which will administer justice in accordance with the constitution of 1809.

GERMANY AND MEXICO.

The text of the treaty of commerce and amity between Mexico and Germany is published. The treaty contains the most favored nation clause, Germans to pay no taxes not levied on Mexicans, to be exempt from military service and contributions in lieu thereof; also from forced loans.

TWELVE MEN KILLED.

While a party of miners were descending a mine shaft at Redruth, county of Cornwall, Eng., the other morning, the rope broke, precipitating the men to the bottom of the shaft, killing 12 and seriously injuring several others, some fatally.

REBELLIOUS STUDENTS.

Arrests of students occur daily in Russia. Much dissatisfaction has been discovered at the cadet school in the South. As regards the attitude of the students in the civil schools, the Minister of Education has addressed a circular to all his subordinates. More or less important traces of a sedition propaganda have been discovered in thirteen gymnasias and ten schools of a secondary class. There have been serious disorders in fourteen gymnasias. The scholastic authorities have been urged to enforce discipline in the educational institutions and to call in the aid of the police if necessary.

A SCHEME OF STOCK JOBBERS.

Newspapers in Madrid declare that French speculators raised 750,000 francs for the purpose of corrupting the Spanish army and bringing about a rising. The papers making this assertion promise to give more particulars concerning the scheme when the censorship of the press is abolished. Semi-official journals admit that there may be some foundation for the story.

AN EXPLANATION WANTED.

Great Britain demands an explanation of Russia in regard to the expulsion from that country of a British Jew.

MORE EXILES.

Twenty-two young men, who were students in the university at St. Petersburg, and connected with the Nihilist journal, have been sent to Siberia.

A NEW GERMAN COLONY.

A business firm of Bremen which purchases Angra Pequena, on the western coast of South Africa, has sent a schooner thither, and will open traffic between their acquisition and Capetown. The firm will also buy a strip of land stretching 12 miles inland. The entire area of the colony will be 350 square miles. A section of the German press is jubilant over the fact that the government will permit the hoisting of the national flag over the firm's purchase. The semi-official newspaper, the Post of Berlin, says it is convinced if Germans would promote home manufactures by founding such commercial colonies they will not fail to receive the protection of the government.

CAUSING WASTE PLACES TO BLOOM.

The Polo Romano (newspaper) says the town of Casamicciola,

AN EGG OF INFLUENCE.
The Almost Wonderful Work of a Hen of Good Reputation.
(N. Y.) Standard.
Mrs. Whital, the estimable wife of a harnessmaker of Erieville, Madison Co., N. Y., heard her favorite hen cackling in the barn in a strange and unprecedented manner. Upon reaching the barn she found an egg of ordinary size, but emblazoned with raised characters, which nearly caused her to faint. She rushed out and spread the news among the populace. All further work on that day was suspended. Men working in the fields put up their horses and tools in the barns, after which they gathered anxiously at the Whital residence. The excitement was intensified when the report was confirmed that the egg was a miracle. A brother of Mrs. Whital, had been so unnerved at the sight of the egg that he had taken to his bed in great distress. The most skeptical were convinced of the sacredness of the egg when it was taken to the hotel and exhibited by Mr. Whital's sons. The characters were simply raised upon the shell, and they had been made upon the egg by a half moon. The latter theory was more generally accepted, since the egg was held to the light, something which resembled a face was discernible in the concavity of the character. This was inferred to represent the man in the moon.
On that night the morals and manners of the village of Erieville were excellent beyond parallel. New resolutions were formed and bad habits sworn to. Husbands and wives no longer exchanged doubtful compliments and flatulencies, but tenderly embraced each other and agreed to await the coming of the egg in a commendable manner. Mrs. Whital's household was too excited to sleep. Her daughter Sarah was quite ill, and it was feared that the sacred egg would tend greatly to shorten her life. Alarmed at this, Frank Richardson, a clerk in the postoffice, acknowledged that the miracle had been performed through his instrumentality. He explained that to get even with one Mr. Whital's sons he traced the characters on the egg with tallow and placed it in vinegar. After the egg had sufficiently eaten the shell to show the parts traced with tallow to become prominent, he visited the Whital home, deposited the egg in the nest, and an innocent hen and decamped. Richardson's expose has had the fortunate effect of dispelling the influence of the egg. The villagers have returned to their former ways.

A Delightful Snarl.
Mr. Bright, in a recently published work says: "A man may have a legal wife in the colonies, and another legal wife in England. He may bring his Canadian legal wife to England, where she touches our shores, she is not a legal wife, and where her children here are not legitimate. If you can satisfy this, I will not argue with you." On this the London Law Journal remarks: "The statement may or may not be justified, on the ground that we are not bound to alter our laws to suit the taste of those who visit us, but it is safely traversed. If a Canadian, married to a deceased wife's sister in Canada, were to come to England, his wife would not cease to be his legal wife, and his children born here would be legitimate. In fact, the legality of a man's marriage does not depend on place where he happens to be, or the legitimacy of his children on the place where they are born. It depends on his domicile at the time of his marriage. A man is not married and unmarried as he crosses a frontier." And the House of Lords held, in Brook v. Brook, where an Englishman met and married his deceased wife's sister in Denmark, that the marriage, although forbidden in Denmark, was invalid in England. And so, although Mr. Bright's statement was too broad, yet it would have been correct if he imagined a Londoner marrying his deceased wife's sister in Canada. That makes a man about as bad for the consistency of his laws.

Not in Need of Sympathy.
Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.
On the train there was a woman with three children, aged respectively five, seven and nine. I wondered what could induce a sane woman to start on a journey with such incumbrances. I asked her as a widow who was being shipped west to her friends. I asked upon her past with a sort of morose satisfaction: I turned a riotous situation loose upon her misfortunes, presently, being weary of the situation, I learned that she was enroute to a place about eighty miles distant, bent upon giving those urchins a holiday. She asked me in the course of the conversation that the trip cost her a hundred dollars altogether, but she had saved $7,000 on her ranch in Nebraska. I said: "Whenever I have noticed a man at a theatre or any other place amuse himself with one baby I have invariably regarded it as an incipient case of insanity; but when I found this woman with her three babies going eighty miles to a circus, I was dumb. These Nebraska women are not remarkable for their beauty, but they certainly don't lack nerve. This one was evidently not suffering from sympathy, and I went back to my place and the rapidly dissolving views of the most monotonous country under heaven."

The Wide, Wide World.
LIMA, REPUBLIC OF PERU.—Senior A. de La E. Delgado, L. L. D. and Counselor, Tribunal of Justice, Lima, Republic of Peru, says: One single application of St. Jacobs Oil, cured me completely of rheumatic pains in my left arm. I recommended it to two of my friends, the Mrs. Dona Juana Garcia, widow, and Mr. D. Herman Decker, a German gentleman. Madam Garcia was relieved entirely by the pain-cure from terrible neuralgic pains of ten months' standing. Mr. Decker was cured of inexplicable pains by a single application of the cure. My brother used the great remedy for a species of paralysis in the arm. He was entirely relieved from his ailment by one or two applications, after having tried numberless other remedies without effect.

Like an Evil Spirit.
In olden times it was thought that evil spirits came in through cracks and keyholes. The generally approved way to keep them out was to plug up the keyholes and stop the cracks with cotton. Notwithstanding these preventive measures, the evil things had their own way and often came in as they pleased.
So comes malaria now-a-days. We try to keep it out of the keyhole and it comes in by the crack. We stop up the crack, and lo! it comes from a leak in the plumbing, or an opening from some neglected drain, or from some unsuspected source and unguarded direction.
We cannot always keep malaria out, but we can give it battle and drive its effects from our systems. If BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is taken in time, malaria has not a ghost of a chance. This is the great family medicine. Your druggist sells it, and you ought to keep a bottle in the house.

DR. WOLFE treats the above named diseases by Medicated Inhalations. When thus administered, remedies are brought "face to face" in contact with the disease; whereas, if they are swallowed they mix with the contents of the stomach and never reach the organs of respiration.
DR. WOLFE has, by the judicious employment of Medicated Inhalations, assisted thousands to regain their health, many of whom had been pronounced incurable, and given up to die by their family physician and friends.
DR. WOLFE has prepared a list of questions for sick people to answer by mail. They are in character the same he would ask were he by the bedside of the invalid. By writing answers to these questions any one can send an accurate statement of his disease and receive and use inhalant remedies at home, in any part of the United States or Canada, without incurring the expense and discomfort of making a visit to Cincinnati. Since the introduction of spelling matches, many words have come prominently into notice—words that were previously comparatively unknown. For instance we find Antiseptic, meaning: preventing and stopping all fermentation and decomposition, and Analgesic: Painkiller. Then there is Antipyretic: cooling down inflammation and fever heat. These three words so often mis-spelled, are three of the cardinal virtues of something that will cure many a bad spell, and that is Salicylic acid, pronounced Sal-icy-lie-a. Warranted to afford immediate relief, and guaranteed to cure Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia.

Logs and Lumber.

Northwestern Wisconsin is the place where the "foreign lumber" comes from which we use in Laramie in the erection of our palatial residences. I visited the mill last week that furnished the lumber used in the Oasis Hotel, at Greeley. They yank a big wet log into that mill and turn it into cash as quick as a railroad man can draw his salary out of the pay-car. The log is held on a carriage by means of iron dogs, while it is being worked into lumber. These iron dogs are not like those we see on the front steps of a brown stone front occasionally. They are another breed of dogs.

The managing editor of the mill lays out the log in his mind and works it into dimension stuff, shingle bolts, slabs, edgings, two-by-fours, two-by-eights, two-by-sixes, etc., so as to use the goods to the best advantage, just as a woman takes a dress pattern and cuts it so she won't have to piece the front breadths, and will still have enough left to make a polonaise for the last summer gown.

I stood there for a long time watching the various saws and listening to their monotonous growl, and wishing that I had been born a successful timber thief instead of a poor boy without a rag to my back.

At one of these mills, not long ago, a man backed up to get away from the carriage, and thoughtlessly backed against a large saw that was revolving at the rate of about two hundred times a minute. The saw took a large chew of tobacco from the plug he had in his pistol pocket, and then began on him.

But there's no use going into details. Such things are not cheerful. They gathered him up out of the sawdust and put him in a nail keg and carried him away, but he did not speak again. Life was quite extinct. Whether it was the nervous shock that killed him, or the concussion of the cold saw against his liver that killed him, no one ever knew.

The mill shut down a couple of hours, so that the head-sawyer could file his saw, and then work was resumed once more.

We should learn from this never to lean on the buzz saw when it moveth itself aright.—Nye's Boomerang.

ST. JOHNS, CALIF.—Mr. Thomas, editor of the Mountain Tribune, of this place, publishes that the great pain cure, St. Jacobs Oil, has worked wonders in his family, and that he would not be without it. He states that among all the people St. Jacobs Oil is the most popular medicine ever introduced.

Society bells are adopting low heels and broad toes.

We offer no apology for frequently calling attention to Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, as it is the most valuable remedy that has ever been produced. It is a sure cure for diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera morbus.

The whistle of a locomotive can be heard nearly two miles.

War, famine, and pestilence all combined do not produce the evil consequences to a nation which result from impure blood in our veins. Parsons' Purgative Pills make new, rich blood, and prevent all manner of diseases.

No man can be a good critic who is not well read in human nature.—[Samuel Parr.

From Mrs. John Splitter,
No. 28 Wilt St., Fort Wayne, Ind.

I have suffered for sixteen years with spasmodic pain in my head, and general nervous debility. Recently I had a severe attack of pain in my head, caused by weakness and nervous exhaustion I really thought I should die, my husband said we would test Zina-Phora thoroughly. He gave it to me according to directions for severe cases, and in less than two hours I had complete relief. I advise all ladies who suffer from nervous or sick headache, or any form of female weakness, to use Zoa-Phora. There is no medicine to be compared with it.

VALUABLE TESTIMONIALS.

Ella's Spavin Cure Co.
Dear Sirs:—We were having an occasion to put a valuable horse in condition for a race. In giving the horse this work, we knew of a cure, in consequence of which I would have sold him at the time, for three hundred dollars ($300) or less. Hearing of Ella's Spavin Cure Liniment, I tried it with good results. In two days the swelling was gone and the horse going sound. I put him in condition again and in two months we sold him for as many thousands as we valued him worth hundreds when he had the cure. The horse is at present boarding at our stables and being driven on the road every day. We can safely recommend your Spavin Cure Liniment for all bone diseases and callous lamppes of any kind. If I properly used.
Yours, with respect, Dunn & Schurk.

We have used Ella's Spavin Cure in our stables for two years and have tried it on the following with perfect success: Spinals, curbs, ring bones, bunches on the neck, swollen tendons, sore shins, sore throat, and we consider this liniment it is the best article we have ever used.
I would gladly recommend your Spavin Cure to all with perfect confidence as to the result," writes
