Wednesday, March. 11th, being the eighty-seventh anniversary of the birth of our esteemed friend and neighbor, Mrs.
Abi Spaulding, her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Spaulding, gave a very pleasant entertainment in commemoration of that event. Invitations were extended to all her children and grandchildren and a goodly number of her old neighbors. The time was very pleasantly spent, first in social and friendly intercourse, after which followed a dinner, made up of such a bill of fare as would satisfy the most positive epicurian, and reflected honor on both host and hostess. After dinner, a brief sketch of the early life of Mrs. Spaulding was read by Mrs. C. H. Wines, which was followed by remarks from several others.
Mrs. Spaulding with a warm heart tried to express her gratitude to God for his great mercies, and her appreciation of the kindness of her children and friends. Her grandchildren then sang "The Old Wooden Rocker," which was followed by "The Old Arm chair," and other music. As one after another of the guests departed to their respective homes, the prayer of each, was that Aunt Abi might celebrate many more anniversaries before going to here heavenly reward. C. H. W.

Obituary.

Mrs. Cynthia L. North, the notice of whose death was given the 12th inst., was born in Cayuga Co., N. Y. in 1815. She came to Michigan in 1835, and her marriage to Wm. North occurred Sept. 4th 1836. The union was blessed by two children, a son and daughter. In 1846 came sad and dark days to the little family for the wife and children were bereaved by the death of the husband and father.
Time in its rapid flight again brought bereavement to the mother: the son afterwards the daughter were taken from home and loved ones to be forever at rest on the farther shore. Early in life she became a member of the Christian Church; and christian faith calmed and strengthened her heart in afflictions and hope of a future home unclouded and the happiness of rejoining the loved ones gone before.

It is hard to be reconciled to the loss of dear kindred whose presence is near to our happiness and the memory of the departed one whose loving kindnesses to those who were early left motherless will ever linger fondly in their hearts, though loss is her gain.

Life's duty done, as sinks the day, Light from its load the spirit flies;
While heaven and earth combine to say, How blest the righteous when he dies.

The man Patrick Benan, who shot Deputy Sheriff Kohl in Negaunee, March 5, was still at large on the morning of the 10th, although search is being made for him. A reward of $100 for his apprehension has been offered by the mayor. "The Carp" a house of prostitution a few miles from there, where Benan was stopping, was burned the day after the shooting and the inmates taken into custody afterward by the sheriff. Benan's consort being threatened with lynching if she did disclose his whereabouts, she confessed that he escaped during the confusion of the fire. Kohl died on the morning of the 7th. Five hundred determined and armed men are scouring the woods for Benan, and unless he is captured his whole gang may be lynched. A reign of terror prevails, and crooks and toughs are leaving the city rapidly.

Parmelia Hopkins has filed a bill of divorce in the superior court of Detroit against her husband, Mark Hopkins; the millionaire of St. Clair, Mich. The grounds given are extreme cruelty. The bill states that Mrs. Hopkins a the time being the widow of Samuel R. Morgan and having one child, aged 5 years. Mr. Hopkins at that time was a foreman in a pattern factory and very poor. She lent him her all, $4,000 which he lost within a year in speculation. In 1878 the wife of the defendant died leaving the latter's father about $2,000,000, $400,000 of which was handed over to the defendant. He built a large house in St. Clair and lived in elegant style, but became very abusive to his wife and ordered her out of the house. The bill further alleges that the defendant gave the complainant $50 to leave his abode, that being the only money she now possesses. Three children resulted from the marriage, one of which is now living with Mrs. Hopkins.

Railroad Earnings.

Wm. McPherson, Jr., commissioner of railroads, has furnished the chairman of the senate and House railroad committees with the following information:

Traffic earnings of all Michigan railroads in 1885.....	$7,220,043 54
Same in 1884.....	66,404,318 14
Decrease.....	$ 7,220,043 54
The decrease is 9.05 per cent., and the report for 1885 shows little or no increase over 1884.

"Ho, There Fisherman!"

For the benefit of those who may be tempted to fish during the months of March or April, we append the section of the law on the subject, which says:

"It shall not be lawful hereafter, at any time to fish with seines, pound nets, trap nets, or any species of continuous nets, or during the months of March or April by spearing or shooting in any of the waters of the State of Michigan, except Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron, St. Clair, the St. Clair and Detroit River, Lake Erie and the harbors connected with said lakes. Any persons offending against the provisions of this act shall, on conviction thereof, be liable to a fine of not over one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail not over sixty days, to be determined by a court of competent jurisdiction."

Shall We Have a State Encampment?

Lansing correspondent Detroit: Free Press.

The question of holding an encampment of state troops next summer is not fully settled. It probably will be held as formerly, but before that is determined upon three questions will have to be settled. The first is, shall the new muster of troops for the Fourth Regiment be legalized; the second, shall the companies composing it be equipped; the third, shall the cloth in the quartermaster's stores be sold and the money applied to the military fund. It appears that the military board has considered these questions and have advised the Commander-in-Chief that the cloth should be sold and the money paid into the treasury; second, that unless the legislature confirms the mustering of the "our new companies," held to have been illegally mustered last December, they be mustered out of the service, and third, that unless this be done or provisions made by the legislature by an appropriation to meet the deficiency in resources, the board advises the Commander-in-Chief that there will not be enough of the funds to meet the expenses of the encampment.

It appears that the military fund received for the present year was a trifle less than $65,000. Out of that the last administration had expended and incurred an indebtedness of nearly $100,000, leaving the amount available nearly $52,000. The expenses of the encampment of 1884 were nearly $75,000 and in 1885 nearly $85,000. The estimate for the present year, excluding the new regiment, is about $57,000.

On this statement one member of the board advised the Commander-in-Chief that it is best to maintain the troops already equipped and that they may have the benefits of an encampment in new companies should not be equipped inasmuch as to equip them for the field would be to incur debts, which it appears the board is not authorized to incur, and to hold an encampment at Island Lake to begin July 30 and continue for the usual time. This recommendation was not fully approved by the entire board.

Another member of the board finds that Quartermaster General Hart's estimate for the encampment alone will be nearly $36,000 and for other expenses $20,000. The expenses of the four new companies will be $9,500, making in all $65,500, of which recuts, etc., are not to be paid until next January, leaving as the net amount to be provided for the current year $60,000.

As there is upwards of $51,000 on hand and available the actual deficiency is $9,000. This member of the board thinks that the muster of the Grand Rapids Artillery Company was unauthorized, but not strictly illegal, and that the muster of the Fourth Regiment was illegal. The Montgomery Guards were accepted into the state service and also have the same claims.

It is further reported to the governor that Quartermaster General Shakespear used the money obtained from the United States through Friend Palmer's agency to buy cloth, bunkram, etc., of Israel & Co., of Kalamazoo, to the amount of $21,000. This purchase and the necessity for it is criticized, and under the terms of the Senate resolution, will be investigated. Persons and papers will be sent for. The cloth is stored in the basement of the capitol.

If the sale is authorized by the Legislature and the proceeds in money paid into the treasury to the credit of the military fund, there will be an abundance for the encampment. In any event the encampment will probably be held, but the four new companies may not be equipped so as to participate in this year.

COOLEY THE MAN.

A Brief but Harmonious Session.

The Republican state convention met in Lansing, Wednesday, March 11. Chairman Van Zile called the convention to order, and prayer was offered by Rev. E. H. E. Jameson of the Lansing Baptist church. Secretary Smith read the call for the convention. Chairman Van Zile presented as temporary chairman Hon. John K. Boies of Hudson. Mr. Boies was received with applause. He thanked the convention for the honor conferred upon him. The institutions for which nominations are to be made, he said, are known and recognized wherever the English language is spoken. The nominations for the supreme court and the state university at stated times fall upon the people, from which all power should come. The choice should be made wisely. When the rosters were shooting and the first burning last fall and political opponents were shouting themselves hoarse it was said that the Republican party was dead, but it is evident they were false prophets and there is life and vitality in the old party yet. The victory was only by a scratch and the Democrats had the advantage to start with of 152 votes of the solid South, secured by fraud and violence. Had the party stood solid to the front as in former campaigns James G. Blaine would have been triumphantly elected.

The speaker eulogized Grant as the grand old hero, statesman and soldier, of the party. "He is now lying torn by disease and bravely awaiting his end. Only until the dying days of congress were he restored to the honor and emoluments of the military position which he so ably filled. [Tremendous applause.] The Republican party stands to-day supported by 500,000 majority of the loyal men of the states who stood for their country's good in time of war." He congratulated the party in the redemption of the state from the nation control and the party for standing up to its pledge which it made concerning submission of the prohibition amendment. The party has done its duty and if the movement fails the fault will remain with the opposition to it, which has so strenuously exerted itself. This grand Republican party, which took this country with $1,000,000,000 of debt, turned it over with a full treasury, a credit un surpassed and currency that is good wherever the American flag floats. By fraud and violence the reckless elements, which compose the Democratic party have again acquired the power in this country, but the mission of the Republican party is not ended, for it will be sure to be called upon to secure the government from the disaster which will surely follow. If the party be true to itself, be true to right and to justice, and to the enlightened sentiment of the nation, by the blessing of God it will again go forward to victory in the future as in the past.

Following this speech Moses Taggart of Grand Rapids moved the appointment, which prevailed, of a vice president for each district. Col. E. A. Sumner of Kalamazoo was made temporary secretary.

The appointment of the various committees was then made, and vice presidents were appointed—one from each district.

The committee on permanent organization decided to make the temporary organization permanent, and a recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Upon the re-assembling of the convention the committee reported as follows:

THE RESOLUTIONS.

That the record of the Republican party is a source of satisfaction and pride to its every member; that a wise and faithful administration of law is essential to the prosperity and welfare of the state; to accomplish this we must have high-minded, pure and learned judges; the necessity therefore in the supreme court of last resort, to which all other courts in the state, the bar and the people look for these principles which are to be their daily guides, is absolutely essential; this court is one of the fountains of our law, and too great care cannot be exercised in maintaining it; the law is not an exact science which can with mathematical certainty be applied to new, varied and complicated cases as they arise; it is gathered from a wilderness of single cases, and to cull therefrom the principles applicable to, and apply them in a given shape of facts so that the case presented thereby may be correctly decided and a wise and safe precedent established, requires not only vast legal learning and good common sense, but a ripe and experienced judgment. For over 20 years Thomas M. Cooley has been one of the justices of the supreme court of this state. During the time he has been on the bench the decisions of but few courts of last resort, if any, have stood higher with the bench and bar of this great country than have those of the supreme court of the state of Michigan. During the same period Chief Justice Cooley has reached the highest ranks as a jurist distinguished for the strength, clearness and accuracy of his opinions; and the purity of the judicial ermine worn by him has remained unsullied, while as an author his works are quoted and accepted as authority in the courts and legislative halls of Europe and America. The Republican party believe in maintaining the present high standing of the supreme court, and by its representatives in convention here assembled will again present a candidate worthy the high standing of the court and cordial indorsement of the people. We congratulate the people of this state upon the position of the university as an educational institution, and pledge the nominees of this convention to assist in maintaining its high standard and reputation among the educational institutions of the world.

Otto Kirchner then took the floor and briefly nominating Thomas M. Cooley for supreme court justice, moved that it be made by a rising vote. The vote was taken and Cooley nominated with great cheering.

For regents John A. Eiget of Saginaw, in a eulogistic speech presented the name of Charles Stuart Draper; Rev. W. H. Brockway, of Albion, nominated Chas. T. Gorman; Attorney General Taggart nominated A. C. Walker.

Graham's name was withdrawn and Draper nominated by acclamation. Judge Ramsdell nominated Aaron V. McAlvay of Manistee. The roll was called by counties, and the vote resulted: McAlvay, 539; Graham, 192; David Clark, Wayne county, 3; Don C. Henderson, L. McAlvay's nomination was unanimously declared unanimous.

A singular freak of nature is shown in the case of Mrs. Polly George, a lady well known to many citizens, who lives two miles from Milburn in this county. Mrs. G. is 76 years old, the mother and grandmother of a large family in the county. During her life she has out and shed her teeth twice, and now has commenced to cut her third set having cut four teeth within the past month—two above and two below. She did also, a little over a year ago, shed her hair, which was white with age, and is now replaced with a suit of black hair with an occasional silver thread only.—[Wickliffe, Ky., Journal.]

Municipal suffrage has been granted to unmarried women and widows in Ontario and Nova Scotia, and full suffrage for women has been obtained in Washington Territory. So it seems the world moves.

BATTLE FLAG AT SHENANDOAH.
[Joquin Miller in Celtic Magazine.]
The tested fold wore a wrinkled frown, The emptied church from the hill looked down
On the empty road and the empty town,
That summer Sunday morning.
And here was the blue, and there was the gray,
And a wide green valley rolled away Between where the battling armies lay.
That sacred Sunday morning.
Young Custer sat, with impatient will,
His restless steed, 'mid his troopers still,
As he watched with glass from the oak-set hill
That silent Sunday morning.
Then fast he began to chafe and fret:
"There's a battle flag on a bayonet Too close to my own true soldiers set For peace this Sunday morning!"
"Hold over, come one," he haughtily said,
"And bring it to me! Why, in bare blood And in stars I will stain it, and overhead Will flaunt it this Sunday morning!"
Then a west-born lad, pale-faced and slim, Rode out, and touching his cap to him, Scribbled, as swift as the swallows swim,
That anxious Sunday morning.
"Oh! never rule man in the world so well
From bill of Heaven to valley of hell;
And for men and friends, as in a spell, Stood still that Sunday morning:
On, on through the valley! up, up, anywhere!
That pale-faced lad like a bird through the air
Kept on till he climbed to the banner there That bravest Sunday morning!
And he caught up the flag, and around his waist
He wound it tight, and he fled in haste,
And swift his perilous route retraced.
That daring Sunday morning.
All honor and praise to the trusty steed!
Ah, boy, and banner, and all God speed!
God's pity for you in your hour of need!
This deadly Sunday morning.
Oh, deadly shot! and oh, shower of lead!
Oh, iron rain on the brave, bare head!
Why, even the leaves from the trees fall dead
This dreadful Sunday morning!

An Old Woman's Story.

It is an old tale, the experience of age striving in vain to temper the enthusiasm of youth. I am a mother now, and a sedate matron may well try to remember how she loved to think her old friends splenetic through infirmary, dearly as she loved them, rather than abate one atom of the fairy visions which danced around her.
And when the arch enchanter Love, waved his hand and bathed earth and sea and sky in hues of purple and gold, how cruel seemed the hand, though stretched in tenderest watchfulness, that would fain have brought her back to the sober hues of reality.
In the arrogance of youth, of beauty, we forget that our kind mother has felt as we feel the same fond trust, the same ecstatic hope, and can say, "I too, shepherd, in Arcadia dwelt." I have never known the blessed care of a mother, but her venerable parent was permitted to watch over our orphaned childhood. I can now understand her earnest and prayerful anxiety, as we grew up to womanhood, and the time for our settling in life drew near.
I can feel with her now, though in my inexperience I could not then, for I, too, have fair girls to guard, whose happiness here and hereafter is entwined with my very heartstrings.
Remember the day on which my father told your grandmother of my engagement to your father. I was then, my Margaret, young and light-hearted as yourself, and dear grandmother laid her withered hand on the curls which clustered in golden luxuriance, and a tear dropped slowly down her venerable cheek.
"Do not grieve, dear grandma; I shall not leave you for a long time yet, and," I added, pressing her hand in both of mine, "I shall see you very often." Here my own tears began to flow, for in the engrossment of my new feelings, I had scarcely dwelt on the severing of old ties, which my new engagement would involve.
"It is not selfish grief that thus affects me," said my beloved monitor.
"I would not cloud your young spirits, nor dim the hopes which are said to bless the morning of life and fit us for the burden and heat of the day, but you, my Grace, remind me of my cherished daughter Agnes, whose early death you have often heard me lament.
I will now tell you something of her life, and if it makes you rejoice with trembling amid your present happiness, that happiness will be more likely to endure. From her infancy I had watched over Agnes with a more tearful tenderness than any other of my children. Here was character strangely made up of quick and joyous impulse and deep, unsuspected feeling. She seemed altogether without that cowardice so often attributed to woman as a reproach, but which, in a world of dangers, often serves her as well as the cautiousness of wisdom. Meanness and cunning she scorned, and the petty article, so common in both sexes, was never found in her. Her spirits were high and untam-able—sometimes to wildness, but if unkindly or harshly rebuked, none so utterly subdued. Can you wonder, then, that I watched over her as if she were some precious vessel sent out on a sea full of rocks, quicksands, and whirlpools? I used often to pray that, before the dawn of life what it may be, she might ever feel the balm of loving looks and kind words."
"And what was her lot in life, dear grandmother, and was she happy?" Do tell me all about her. Was she pretty?"
"She was not so fair as her sister Grace," continued grandmamma, "but there was a variety in the play of her features and a playfulness of manner which made her generally admired. At the age of 18 her hand was asked in marriage by a young merchant, Arthur

Walford, and before I was aware of her danger her heart was his. I say danger because she was too young to encounter the cares of married life, and the uncertainties of trade press heavily on the wife of a merchant. She suffers from the variations of a husband's spirits, and she is a highly favored woman if his temper, too, do not suffer; and my Agnes' tender yet high spirit, was I knew, ill-fitted for such trials. Arthur was an intelligent young man of high character and most honorable in all his dealings. It was, however, his misfortune to have for a mother a weak and irritable woman, whom prosperity had not improved. She was surrounded with blessings, but was constantly complaining; and as her education had not strengthened her mind, nor a watchful self-denial improved her heart, she was likely to impress on her son's mind a very low opinion of all women. I, my dear Grace, was honored by my husband with his entire confidence, and I tried to return his trust by being indeed a helpmate for him. If a woman does not know the state of her husband's affairs, she is defrauded of what is justly her due—the privilege of advising with him and uniting with him in his efforts to do justly to all men. About a year after Agnes' marriage the crisis occurred in the commercial world which laid many lofty houses low. I often surprised Agnes in tears, but she said nothing to me; and I have always made it a principle not to enquire into family secrets. I have seen so much evil from the well-meaning, but ill-judged reluctance which many a mother feels to give up her daughter's husband, in good faith and sincerity, the secrets of that daughter's heart.
But one day my Agnes came to my house and rushed up stairs to my bedroom. I followed her and secured the door, and I was then grieved to hear her sobbing bitterly and in an agony of sorrow."
"Can I give you any comfort or advice, my darling? Confide in your mother, and perhaps I may be able to console you."
"Oh! my husband, my husband! He has used me cruelly; he has not been open with me; he might have told me the state of his affairs. I am not a child.
I could bear poverty! I could live any where and labor for him, as many are obliged to do, but this cruel reserve—oh, it will kill me!"
"Agnes, my child," I answered,
"now's your time of trial. You know where to look for strength; and, oh, beware of a rebellious spirit! Strive to be patient and tell me all you fear."
"Our head clerk has just been to our house, mamma, and he tells me that his master has gone to London, and his return is uncertain; and he has left a request to me that I will come and stay with you until his affairs are arranged one way or the other. I am more hurt by his allowing me to learn all this from a stranger than shocked at his ruin; for we are both young, and may hope for better times. But oh, mother, there are many things which I might have done without, and now the people will suspect me of having known our circumstances all along, and I shall have the disgrace of being suspected of dishonesty."
"Alas! Agnes, I said, 'yours is a common case. To a woman of integrity it is indeed a sore trial to be thought capable of wronging any tradesman; but do not injure your health by this violent grief. You are, whatever happens, our dearly beloved daughter; and now, for Grace's sake and for your father's and mine, try to compose yourself."
"I knew that this appeal to her family affections would have a strong effect on her generous nature; for Agnes, in becoming a wife had not ceased to be a dutiful daughter, and her love for her sister, your dear mother, my Grace, was beautiful to behold.
"She was delicate even then, and required the tenderest care—too gentle and unselfish for this world. She was even then more like a heavenly than an earthly being.
"When she saw Agnes come down with the marks of tears on her cheeks, she strove by every tender attention to soothe and cheer her; and I sighed to see her gentle offices lavished in vain.
"Our dear Agnes was wounded to the quick by her husband's want of confidence and we could not cheer her.
"In a short time, however, Arthur's affairs were wound up—all claims were satisfied, and he resumed his business with a good prospect of success; but he had lost one possession more valuable than gold—the confidence of his wife was forever gone.
"There was a restlessness and anxiety about Agnes which never left her.
She refused ever again to take the most trifling thing on credit, and once, when he jestingly alluded to her prudence, he jestingly replied, 'I have as he termed it, she replied, 'I have been treated like a child, Arthur, and you must remember a burnt child dreads the fire. If I am not to be trusted, I will avoid being duped.'
"She died at the age of six-and-twenty, after a short illness, but I shall always think her indignation and anguish ways that had paved the way for her early death."
My grandmother ceased, and seemed lost in thought; then she added, "You, too, Grace, are about to marry a merchant, and I have told you this sad story in order to impress upon your mind that romantic feeling of first love is not sufficient to happiness in the married life. There must be mutual confidence, or the yoke will press heavily indeed on the helpless woman.
Before you marry, make it a condition that no deception of any kind or degree is to be permitted between you.
Unless a man confides in his wife he does both her and himself irreparable wrong."

I took my dear grandmother's advice, and as far as this varied scene admits of happiness, happiness has been mine.

To My Boy.

Peck's Sun.
Yes, my boy, marriage is a good thing. And it is well for men and women to marry and be given in marriage, provided they are actuated by that highest and noblest of sentiments —love. It is a beautiful thing for two young, loving and trusting souls to unite their hopes and fears, their hearts and lives, and sail boldly out on the rough sea of the unknown, arm in arm, facing poverty and all things else for each other's sake, determined to build up for themselves a home gilded with the bright rays of conjugal bliss.
But, my boy, be careful. Be sure that you know what you are doing before you go ahead. Be sure of your moorings before you tie your craft.
Know your girl before you prepare to take her into the family firm. Keep a sharp lookout and don't get stuck. Go slow and feel your way till all is well, then dive in.
As you are young and inexperienced, perhaps a few gentle hints from one who is older and has observed a few things in life, may not be out of place.
In the first place you are poor, therefore don't be in a hurry to get a wife.
With a wife comes family, and with a family comes other cares, such as sickness, poverty, and high rents. There are too many soft-headed youths in the land now who want a wife before they get anything else, and who, when they marry, have to stand the minister off for his fee. No young man can afford to marry when his sole possessions of worldly goods consists of only a change of socks and a five-cent collar button.
If he does, the day will come when he will see the folly of his way, and they will come pretty soon and pretty often.
Again, never marry and take your wife home to live with your folks, and never marry and go to live with your wife's people. If you can live long enough you will experience enough sorrow without this. Relatives are a good thing, but the less they see you the more they will like you. They will think more of you at a distance. This is one of the instances wherein distance lends enchantment to the view. Never live with your relatives unless you want a foretaste of hell on earth. Better live on bread and water—yes, better even put up at a Chicago boarding-house and wrestle with the inevitable hash and the inevitable bedbugs.
But when you have raked together enough of wealth to start a family on,
and have made up your mind to marry, then make your arrangements with care and select your future wife the same way. Don't allow your heart to run out after a beautiful face when there is no soul behind it. Don't marry for wealth and don't marry for beauty, but marry for love—every time.
Don't marry a human doll who sits in the front parlor and bangs the piano while her mother bangs the stove, the pois and the cats in the kitchen. Such a girl would no doubt be a nice, dainty, pretty little parlor ornament, but not what you need. While you are not able to own more than a one-room house, size, 12x14, with a 4x6 dry goods box attachment, you will find that parlor ornaments are not the things you will most suffer for. What you will need is a wife who knows how to help you along, and who can make a five cent soup-bone lengthen itself out into a week's provisions. You want a real sensible, loving, careful little woman, who will see that your buttons are all sewed on and that the holes in your socks are properly darned.
You don't need a wife who is bent on keeping up all the fashions, and who will want you to mortgage a house for a piano, while you go about with one suspender fastened on with a nail, and the rear end of your pants resembling the ragged edge of despair.
You don't need a wife who cares only to gain the notice and applause of other men, while her husband has no stronger proof of her affection than a dinner composed chiefly of cold biscuits which are dynamite proof.
You don't need a wife who will spend half her time working up a fund for the benefit of the heathen, while her husband is left to lead a heathenish life and wear his shirts without buttons, and the few moments he has to spend at home must be spent alone with the house cat for want of more congenial company.
By all means, my boy, marry. But don't be in a great rush about it. It is something that don't have to be done at once. Keep your weather eye open for breakers. Remember that beauty fades and that a complexion can be bought at any drug store, and that an accomplished piano player is not near as much of a luxury to a poor man as a good bread maker, and that a fair face pales before that of the homely little woman who will see that nails do not take the place of buttons on your clothing, and who will give you a change of socks before the coroner sits on your feet.
The following recipe purporting to be a sure preventive of bloody murrain appeared in a recent number of the Texas Farm and Ranch: One teaspoonful of sulphur, one teaspoonful prepared charcoal, one-quarter teaspoonful prepared madder and two teaspoonfuls saltpetre, mixed. This mixture given every eight days is said to prevent the disease. If made in the spring it will keep all through summer, and will be given to cattle, mixed with meal, to eat it readily.

FARM AND GARDEN.

THE OUTLOOK.
Each year the faithful farmer Shakes his head with a sigh,
And tells of ruined prospects,
Of blessings passing by.
The bean crop's deemed a failure, Cranberries cannot set,
Fleas devastate tobacco plants,
The Spring's too dry or wet.
Peaches the frost has ruined
And the grapes are also gone, While cats won't head out fairly,
And crows pull up the corn.
Rye must be mowed for fodder,
The potato bugs survive,
Green worms get in the cabbage,
And army worms arrive.
Grass roots are killed by winter, Green apples fall to the ground,
High winds lay low the growing grains,
And others ill abound.
Thus year by year the cry is raised,
Yet when the harvest's o'er,
The farmer finds his barns are full With nature's richest store.
The grain is rich and heavy,
And fruit is heaped up high;
The year is rich as the year before,
And it must be so for aye.
New England Homestead.

Care of sheep.
American Agriculturist.
Shepherds, like poets, are born, not made. You may find a dozen men who can be trusted to take care of horses, cows, or pigs, to one who is fit to be entrusted with the management of sheep. Why, we do not know. All the great sheep-herders of the world have given much of their own time and labor to the care and supervision of their flocks. We have not space here to go into details, and in fact it is not necessary, as these vary greatly, according to circumstance. Much must be left to the common sense and experience of the shepherd. If any of our readers are going to keep sheep, and have had little experience, we would advise them to consult some good farmer in the neighborhood, and in addition to this, the following hints may be useful: Sheep must have dry quarters. Nothing is so injurious as damp, ill-ventilated cellars, barns, or sheds. Do not think you can make such places warm and dry and comfortable by the liberal use of straw for bedding. This only makes the matter worse. There is nothing a sheep dislikes more than a fermenting manure pile. To compel a flock of breeding ewes to lie on a mass of damp straw-manure several inches deep, is almost certain to be followed by a weak, puny, sickly crop of lambs. We once knew a valuable flock of South-downs that has entirely disappeared. Goitre destroyed the lambs. We knew another large flock of Long wool sheep that suffered severely in the same way. In the former case, the sheep were shut up in a small shed yard. The rain from the roof of the shed ran into the yard.
Straw was thrown in from time to time, and the poor sheep were compelled either to stay in the shed or stand on this mass of wet straw. In the other case the sheep had damp sheds and cellars to sleep in, but as they had the run of a large yard, the results were not so disastrous. Many lambs died of goitre and infantile pneumonia, but as soon as dry quarters were provided, the animals gradually improved in health.

Hints on Celery Culture.
There is more celery raised around Kalamazoo than any other locality in Michigan, probably, and the following communication to the Telegraph of that city may be of interest to those who may be raising it (or attempting to) hereabouts. The writer says: A great deal has been said and written about the culture of celery in and about Kalamazoo, so that there does not seem to be much room left to say anything more. Yet, as the time draws near for another season's campaign, a few remarks from one of the first growers may not come amiss, and an experience of eight years may be of some good to some one.
In the first place it has been a question ever since we have been in the business, how is the best way to apply manure. The most prevalent way has been to dig a trench, spread the manure and cover with a thin layer of earth, which is a very narrow-minded view if we consider the nature of the plant we wish to feed; the roots of a good healthy plant will reach out three feet each way. This being the case, the best way is to spread the manure all over the ground and plow or spade under.
Another great mistake we have been guilty of is too close planting. The rows should be five or six feet apart and the plants five or six inches in the row; this gives plenty of room for the plants to forage around for the manure that has been spread out and well mixed up with the earth. And another thing. At this distance the sun can do his perfect work, which is an important factor in the production of this beautiful and healthful plant. I would say to those bound to stick by the plan of manuring in the row, spread the manure a foot or eighteen inches and fork or spade under so that it may be well mixed with the earth.
It is the height of folly to undertake, as a general thing, to raise three crops from one piece of ground the same season. Two is as much as should be tried where everything is favorable.
An important, and I should say the most important item, is drainage. I mean thorough drainage. This complied with deep culture, will bring about pleasing results and remunerate us for our labor.

In looking over the management of the celery crop in and about Kalamazoo, I find that through mistaken notions, coupled with an unfavorable season, many failed to see any profit in their efforts. Now if we wish to get back the laurels we have won in the past and maintain a reputation as the best of celery growers, we must give close attention to all those things which tend to make celery desirable for the market and table.
The books tell us to get down and press the soil around the plant by hand to avoid getting dirt into the heart of the plant. In our soil this advice is unnecessary. We can stand up and draw out the soft, spongy and accommodating soil with a hoe.
In choosing hens for breeders, says the American Poultry Journal, look first for good layers, fair size, vigorous constitution, color even and pure, symmetrical in form, and the most perfect in general characteristics, and you are pretty sure, as a rule, to obtain by this combination a superior progeny.
Disease among fowls is almost always the result of mismanagement, no matter how much science may be mixed in as preventive or cures. Cleanliness is of the first importance; next, an abundant of good food always accessible and in variety; also fresh, clear water, summer and winter, where the fowls can get it when desired.
It is not advisable to feed uncured sour apples to pigs that are fattening on corn. The acid in the fruit injures their teeth, makes the pig's mouth sore and prevents regular feeding. The unripe corn, if fed in excess, often has the same effect, as it sours on the stomach and thus injures digestion. Apples may be fed in small quantities with meal, and if they are cooked together, no better fattening could be desired.
It is more than probable that the wool clip of 1885 will be the world over, considerably below that of 1884. This will especially be the case in the United States, where thousands of sheep are being slaughtered on account of the low price of wool, and in Australia, where 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 are said to have died from the effects of the drought. It is a good time to improve your flock, not to sacrifice it.
Hold on to the sheep, remarks the American Agriculturist. The depressing tendency of the wool market is apt to influence many sheep-raisers to get rid of their flocks at any price and go out of the business. We believe those who do this will miss it. Every business has its low tide, but it will surely rise again, and they who hold on to their sheep will be gainers in the end.
The farmer or stock-raiser should not be fickle.

Farm Notes.
Lime is a good purifier for the poultry house. Whitewash spring and fall.
It is not a hard matter to keep a hen house free from lice, but it is rarely that it is so kept.
When you haul newly sawed lumber from the mill, pile it up at once in good shape under a shed where there is a free circulation of air.
Most people judge fruit by the eye more than by palate. This is why the most productive and showy sorts are profitable to the growers.
A Southern exchange says that the market for Kentucky mules is exceedingly dull. Mules are cheaper than they have been for many years.
It is estimated that there is only one Jersey to 300 farmers the country over.
These are not fixed figures, as Jersey cattle are rapidly increasing.
Fish culture is becoming so important that it almost makes a connection with farming operations, the same as poultry keeping and bee culture.
Never grease a hen that is setting, for if grease gets on the eggs it closes the pores through which the confined chick gets its air, and the consequence is death.
Those keeping large flocks of poultry will find an advantage in separating the cocks from the hens and keeping each by themselves until midwinter.
To insure success in the management of bees, always prepare and make all your hives during the winter months ready for the coming season.
Repeated experiments have proven that fowls do best on meal mixed with boiling water. Care should be taken not to use so much water as to make the food too wet, as an excess of water is injurious to the fowls.
Luminous harness is the latest device used in England to make the horses visible at night. A phosphoric paint applied to the blinkers, collar and other prominent parts of the trappings is used to bring about the result.
John Hunsberger, of Harvey county Kansas, reports a great yield of wheat from a small quantity of seed. From one and one-half bushels of seed sowed on three acres he reaped 135 bushels, a yield of 90 bushels to each bushel of seed sown.
In Canada the price of mutton is usually as high as beef, owing to the fact that farmers there pay more attention to raising superior mutton than farmers do here. Wool here is considered of prime importance as compared with quality of carcass.
The agricultural papers have most thoroughly exposed the evils resulting from allowing cows to drink from stagnant ponds, or from water that has remained to long in troughs. The sweetest, purest, and most milk is obtained when cows have ready access to clear, pure water.

GATHERINGS.

Over 200 votes were cast in Manchester village at the last election—nearly every voter taking part.

Mrs. Toller, of Ann Arbor, gave a "bean bag social" to a number of friends recently. Do you know what that is?

Andrew Jackson sold his short horn Durham bull, "Duke of Putnam" Saturday to McQuillin of Dexter. Duke tipped the scales at 2190 lbs.—Stockbridge Sun.

Ralph A. Matteson, son of E. A. Matteson, of Ann Arbor township, died on Tuesday of last week of pleuro-pneumonia. He was 16 years of age, and a freshman in the high school.

An old adage says that "the child that is born on the Sabbath day is loving and giving and fair and gay." How true! Bro. Gildart was born on the Sabbath day. So were we.—Saline Observer.

The sheep breeders held a meeting last Saturday and elected James M. Kress of Bridgewater, president and C. M. Fellows, of Sharon, secretary. They will hold no shearing festival this spring.—Enterprise.

To the housekeeper. Insist on getting DeLand's saleratus and soda, and don't let your grocer argue you out of it. It will pay you in the end, and you will use no other.

A crisis in the fortunes of the Washtenaw county agricultural and horticultural society has been reached. The mortgage on the property has fallen due and unless something is done immediately to protect the mortgagees, it will be foreclosed. Accordingly a meeting has been called for Tuesday, March 17, at 11 A. M. in the society's rooms at the court house, for the purpose of determining whether the society shall continue or be allowed to die.

War's dread alarms carry terror to the hearts of peace loving citizens, but it is safe to say that the number of lives annually sacrificed to liver complaint in its various forms greatly exceed those of the most destructive battles. Geo. L. Martinez, of Nicaragua, writes: "During my last visit to New York I was presented with half a dozen bottles of Mishler's Herb Bitters, and I cheerfully testify that less than two bottles cured me of liver complaint of five years' standing."

Jim. Tolliver, the colored chap who cut the front of his neck with a razor, a few weeks ago at Jackson, is stopping with his parents in the African suburb of Saline. He finds the silver tube through which he breathes a very great improvement over the original one and thinks the operation which he performed upon his throat has materially benefited his health. He did not perform the operation with suicidal intent, but did it for the good of science, and believes his name will be handed down to posterity, and that history will make him the grandest example of human sacrifice that will be recounted upon its pages.—Saline Observer.

The following communication was received from Defiance, Ohio, Monday: Eds. Ypsilantian:

If your town has got a "sure thing" on cancer send your documents to Gen. U. S. Grant, New York City. Respectfully, Wm. C. Holgate.

We can inform Mr. Holgate that it is positively stated by those who speak from experience, that our town has a "sure thing" on cancer, and that Gen. Grant has been notified to that effect. A letter was sent to Mrs. Grant, this week, by Mrs. King, of Painesville, Ohio, who is being cured of cancer by the Ypsilanti Mineral Water, telling her of the benefits she has derived from the water, and advising her to urge her husband to try it.—Ypsilantian.

Political pull is a rather uncertain thing to depend upon as a basis for obtaining the necessities of life. With the frequent changes of party somebody is sure to get left out on a whole any man of brains and ability is really fortunate if, by missing a fat public job, he is compelled to take up some such business as an agency for Dr. Foster's Pain Home Talk, which is sure to be a good paying business as long as he will devote himself to it. A really popular medical book such as Plain Home Talk sells at all times and in all places and often the best ground for an agency is that which has already been plowed over once or twice by an agent. There is room for all who will apply to the Murry Hill Publishing Co., 129 East 28th St., N. Y. City, and "first come, first served."

Frank Wilson, of Jackson, has received $970 in premiums on sheep and hogs exhibited at the New Orleans exposition.

Mrs. Sally A. McGoumdre, of the fifth ward, mother of Mrs. Spencer D. Lennon of this city died Monday of general debility at the advanced age of 74 years and 9 months.—Register.

Thirty persons from this burg went to see Nast at University Hall last Saturday evening, and enjoyed the occasion hugely, although many were disappointed, having set their mark too high.

The Baptists of Manchester must be very poor or else they do not think much of their pastor. They recently gave their pastor, D. B. Munger, a donation, but only raised $35—less than the smaller villages usually.

Jacob Staffan let a horse and buggy to a jewelry peddler one day last week, and on Friday received a telephone that the rig and $10 had been left at Dundee. When Staffan's man arrived there he found the rig but the $10 was missing—so was the peddler.

Richard Green of this township thinks he has the only pine lumber ever raised in Washtenaw county. He set the trees, a Norway spruce and a Scotch pine, in 1862 and cut them in 1884. The first cut of the Norway spruce produced 76 feet of lumber. The Scotch pine was 44 feet high—Manchester Enterprise.

As an anti-malarial medicine
DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially ef fective as a trustworthy specific for the cure of kidney and liver complaints, constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women suffering from any of the above peculiarities, this Favorite Remedy is especially proving itself an un equalled friend—a real blessing. Address the proprie tary, Dr. D. B. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

JUST AS GOOD.
Many unscrupulous dealers may tell you they have remedies for coughs and cold equal in merit and in every respect just as good as the old reliable Dr. Bosanko cough and lung syrup, unless you insist upon this remedy and will take no other, you are li kely to be greatly deceived. Price 50 cents and $1. Sold by Glazier, DePuy & Co. - 3

ACHES! PAINS!
"I ache all over!" What a common ex pression; and how much it means to many a poor sufferer! These aches have a cause, and more frequently than is gen erally suspected, the cause is the Liver or Kidneys. No disease is more painful or serious than these, and no remedy is so prompt and effective as

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.
No remedy has yet been discovered that is so effective in all KIDNEY AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, MALARIA, DYSPEP SIA, etc., and yet it is simple and harm less. Science and medical skill have combined with wonderful success those herbs which nature has provided for the cure of disease. It strengthens and in vigorates the whole system.

Ben. Thaddeus Stevens, the distinguished Con gressman, once wrote to a fellow member who was suffering from indigestion and kidney disease: "Try Mishler's Herb Bitters. I believe it will cure you. I have used it for both indigestion and affec tion of the kidneys, and it is the most wonderful combination of medicinal herbs I ever saw."

A number of our worthy exchanges are giving notice that Chelsea is to have or has another paper. To them we would say: If you call a 4 x 8 or an 8 x 12 dodger (which is thrown into a farmers' wagon) a paper, we have it—we print as high as 5000 a week at times. If you speak about a 7-8 or 9-column sheet it is a myth.

Those of our former friends who con template building fences on their farms will do well to peruse the following: The courts have decreed that no boundary fence can be made of barbed wire without the consent of persons owning adjacent land, and any man that puts a barbed wire fence along the highway renders him self liable for all the injuries resulting to stock passing along said highway.

Having leased his farm, E. Feb. 19th, Mr. C. Meirs, of Cream Ridge Monmouth county, delivered to John Tay lor & Co., Trenton, 95 pigs average dressed weight, 303 lbs., and 28 hogs, which dressed 513 lbs., or a total of 43,176 lbs. This is claimed to be the heaviest lot of pork ever fattened in one season on a single farm in the state. Mr. Meirs also keeps a dairy of 28 cows. All this on a farm of 220 acres. Mr. Meirs' pork crop amounted to $2485.62.—Bordentown (N. J.) Register.

The Fountain of Youth.
Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civil ized life. A weak, dyspeptic stomach acts very slowly or not at all on many kinds of food, gasses are extracted, acids are formed and become a source of pain and disease until discharged. To be dyspeptic is to be miserable, hopeless, depressed, confused in mind, forgetful, irresolute, drowsy, weak, languid and useless. It destroys the Teeth, Complexion, Strength, Peace of Mind and Bodily ease. It produces Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of Stomach, Bad Taste in Mouth, Bilious attacks, Palpitation of Heart, Inflammation of Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms. Dyspepsia invariably yields to the vegetable remedies, in GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS, the great purifier of the blood and restorer of health. In these complaints it has no equal, and one bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement. We warrant GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS. Take no others. Sold by R. S. Armstrong and Glazier, DePuy & Co.

CURE FOR PILES.
Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration producing a very disagreeable itching after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding, and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, al laying the intense itching, and affecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Ad dress, The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Pi que, Ohio. Sold by Glazier, DePuy & Co.

Estate of Thomas Clark.
STATE OF MICHIGAN,
COUNTY OF WASHTENAW, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, on Tuesday, the 10th day of March in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

Present, William D. Harriman, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Thomas Clark, deceased. John Clark and P. Tuomey the administrators of said estate, come into court and represent that they are now prepared to render their final account as such administrators.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Wednesday, the 15th day of April next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for examining and allowing such account, and that the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the city of Ann Arbor, in said County, and show cause if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed: And it is further ordered that said Administrators give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said account, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Herald, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

the Secretary of State for such information as the department may have regarding the rumored attempt of Gen. Rufino Barrios, President of Guatemala, to seize upon the territory or destroy the integrity of the Republics of Nicaragua, Honduras, San Salvador and Costa Rica, and to report what steps are being taken by the government to preserve the rights of the United States under existing or pending treaties. Mr. George of Mississippi, presented the credentials of Mr. Walthal as Senator from Mississippi, vice Lamar, resigned, and Mr. Walthal took the oath. Mr. Van Wyck of Nebraska, called up his resolution offered yesterday directing the Secretary of the Interior and Attorney-General to take steps to prevent the sales of the lands granted to the state of Florida to aid in the construction of railroads in that state. A long debate ensued, participated in by Messrs. Van Wyck, Call and Plumb, but pending action the Senate adjourned, without executive session, and without receiving any nominations from the President.

MARCH 13.

SENATE—Mr. Cameron offered a resolution naming the chairmen and members of the Senate committees as agreed upon by the Attachment Notice.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the statute authorizing attachments against non-resident debtors, that an attachment was issued out of the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, on the 7th day of January, A. D. 1885, against the estate of Margaret Murphy, a non-resident debtor, and in favor of Isaac Taylor, plaintiff, herein for the sum of $107.66, the same being returnable on the third day of February, 1885. The sheriff of Washtenaw County returned the above attachment on the 3rd day of February 1885, with property attached but no personal service could be made on said non-resident debtor. Now therefore, notice is hereby given that unless the said defendant shall cause her appearance to be entered in said court in this cause within the time required by law, from the last publication of this notice, for six successive weeks from Feb. 19, 1885, in the CHELSEA HERALD, a newspaper printed in said county, her default will be entered and said attached property appropriated according to law for the payment of said debt and costs of this suit.
