CHELSEA HERALD.

We solicit communications and news items from all the surrounding towns.

Every communication must contain the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

If you have any business at the probate office, make the request that the notice be published in the HERALD. Such a request will always be granted.

Our market report will invariably be correct, as we give it our personal attention and take great pains to give correct quotations. The prices quoted are those paid by dealers.

We must not be held responsible for sentiments expressed by writers.

Address all communications to

Hoag's Bazaar has a new announcement in this issue.

Miss Jennie Tuttle started for Wolf Lake on Monday last.

Mr. D. B. Bently spent Sunday last with friends in Dexter.

Mrs. J. Krum, of Sylvan, fell and fractured a rib, yesterday.

Frank Beissel, of Jackson, is spending several days with friends in this place.

Mr. Jas. Geddes has commenced the erection of a nice new residence, on Park-st.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guthrie and children, of Fulton, are visiting parents at this place.

Jacob Hepfer spent several days at Stockbridge, putting a tin roof upon a new building.

The young ladies of Sylvan have a picnic at Cavanaugh Lake to-day. A big time is expected.

There will be an ice cream social at the Baptist church to-morrow evening. All are invited to attend.

Mr. Daniel Long offers his fine farm for sale, 2 1/2 miles west of this village. It is a bargain for some one.

The Young Men's Band of Chelsea furnish music for the young ladies' picnic, at Cavanaugh Lake, to-day.

A three-year-old son of Joseph Wank, of Freedom, fell from a high-chair and broke his collar-bone, Wednesday.

Charles Wunder and C. S. Laird have improved the appearance of their shops with generous coats of paint.

The regular weekly social of the M. E. society was held at the residence of Geo. Glazier, Wednesday afternoon.

H. S. Holmes & Co. make some new announcements to our readers in this paper. This firm is fully abreast of the times.

Mrs. Lathon Miller and children attended the reunion of the Clinton high school last Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Quite a severe hail storm passed over this locality Sunday. It was unaccompanied by wind, therefore little or no damage was done.

A heavy rain prevailed in this vicinity, yesterday, followed by a bright, warm sun, which made the vegetable world smile profusely.

Mr. Whitaker is expecting every day a message from the McCormick Company, that will call him to Ohio, Tennessee and other states.

Mr. White, of Jackson, a musical instructor, spent a part of this week in this village. He says Chelsea is the liveliest town of its size in Michigan.

Mr. L. Baldwin started for Missouri, Monday, to look at the country and purchase a home. He makes the trip with horse and buggy. His family remain in Chelsea for the present.

Ann Arbor will have no circuses this year owing to the fact that the M. C. railroad will not furnish them cheap transportation. The railroad company is a human benefactor in this instance.

A correspondent occupies some space in THE HERALD, this week in discussing the needs of more school-room in this district. This is a very important matter, and a thorough discussion through these columns is invited.

John Brittenbach, of Lyndon, will be in the field this fall with a new Nichols, Shepard & Co. separator, purchased last week through their agent, F. Whitaker. Farmers, take notice!

There are said to be at least a dozen residences in course of construction in this village at the present time, which is far more than any other village in the county can boast of and probably equals either of the cities.

The first clips of wool were brought to this market last week by Mr. I. M. Whitaker and Mr. Spafford. Messrs. Babcock & Gilbert were the purchasers. For many years Mr. Whitaker has been the first to market his wool.

The stone wall for F. P. Glazier's new house, on South-st., is now completed.

We have seen many creameries, but never saw one so complete as the one in Chelsea. We hope to be able to give a description of the building and its workings in detail shortly. It is an institution of which Chelsea is justly proud.

The scholars in the first intermediate room upon being asked if Chelsea was a manufacturing place, answered "Yes." Being asked what the manufactures consisted of, one little girl said one of them was a creamery, and another mentioned the henry.

Our thanks are due several of our citizens for furnishing news items this week. One can easily imagine that to one wholly unacquainted in a community, local news-gathering is up-hill business, and all such favors thus kindly bestowed upon us in this, our time of need, will glitter in our memory like rarest gems.

Miss Cora E. Lewis, who has so acceptably served as teacher in the Second Primary of our Union School for several years past, has been compelled to resign on account of poor health, which fact is greatly regretted by her many friends and patrons of the school. The position is now filled by Mrs. F. O. Cornwell, who is a thoroughly competent and practical teacher.

The eleventh annual meeting of the Michigan State Pioneer Society, which was to have been held at Lansing the 3d and 4th inst., has been adjourned to June 17th and 18th. We notice that Rev. Lorenzo Davis, of Ann Arbor, is booked for a paper, entitled: "Recollections of the Early Ministers of Washtenaw County." The railroad will sell tickets to members of the society at one-third fare, and the hotels of Lansing will furnish accommodations at greatly reduced rates.

We have had occasion to ride through the country contiguous to Chelsea considerably of late, and have never seen crops look more favorable at this season of the year. Wheat is striding ahead at a wonderful rate, much of it being nearly ready to head out. Corn is up, and looking splendid in most places. Oats, which have been considered rather backward, are now growing finely, and are nearly up to the average of this season. Our farmers justly feel cheerful over the prospects, which are seldom equaled.

THE HERALD aspires to become a first-class local and family newspaper, and for the accomplishment of this happy end, we request all who have been correspondents in the past to continue in the same capacity. We desire to interest every community in this part of the county in THE HERALD, and neighborhood correspondence is the best method of accomplishing this result. We invite our patrons everywhere to furnish us such items of interest as they may have at all times. Church announcements of all societies are earnestly solicited, as well as all notices of general interest or of a benevolent character. Do not be backward in furnishing us with all such items.

BURGLARIZED.

The hardware store of J. Bacon was entered by burglars on Wednesday evening of last week, and quite a large number of articles were taken, among which were two double-barreled shot-guns, three revolvers, some silverware, and probably much else. The thieves gained entrance by removing a glass from a window in the rear end of the building. The money drawers were overhauled, but the cash having been removed previously the culprits found no money, and contented themselves with what other articles they could carry off. The same store was entered in precisely the same manner three years ago, and Mr. Bacon believes by the same parties.

One Fred Lorie, a fellow of somewhat unsavory reputation, was suspected as one of the criminals, and on the following Friday was arrested at Eaton Rapids, and returned to Chelsea. His examination was made before Justice Lehman, on Tuesday of this week, but owing to lack of sufficient evidence to convict the prisoner was discharged, although he was unable to render satisfactory account of his whereabouts on the night of the burglary. None of the stolen goods have thus far been recovered.

CARD OF THANKS.

The Committee on Decoration Day exercises would extend their thanks to all who so kindly assisted them on that day. To the four young men who sang, to the lady that assisted as organist, to the young ladies who arranged the flowers, to the different bands, and to all citizens who assisted by a ready subscription to meet the expenses of the day, you have our thanks, and also of R. P. Carpenter Post No. 41, G. A. R. MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

BANK ELECTION.

At the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the Chelsea Savings Bank, held in the Directors' room of the bank, Monday, June 1st, the following stockholders were elected Directors of the bank for ensuing year:

Hon. Sam'l G. Ives, Hon. A. T. Gorton,
Thos. S. Sears, W. J. Knapp,
John R. Gates, H. S. Holmes,
H. M. Woods, Frank P. Glazier,
Geo. P. Glazier.

Mr. Ives was selected President; Mr. Sears, Vice President and Mr. Geo. P. Glazier, Cashier. The bank has been a well patronized institution from its organization, and with the above gentlemen continued in charge of its affairs, prudent and able management of its business is assured.

THE AUTOGRAPH QUILT.

The committee in charge of the autograph quilt of the M. E. Church are pleased to report that the enterprise has met with much encouragement. The first names secured were those of Mr. and Mrs. Emmert, our retiring editor and wife, and more than 600 names have since been added. We are now anxious to hasten its completion, and yet not too hastily to give every man, woman and child in the community an opportunity to have their names inscribed upon it according to the original plan. If any have been omitted in the canvas made by our ladies, it has not been intentional, and we will be glad to have such names handed to any solicitor, or person interested. Aside from all financial considerations, we are hoping it may become an interesting relic of the year 1885, in the homes of some of our citizens.

Those still having blanks will please report at their earliest convenience.

DECORATION OBSERVANCE.

Decoration Day in Chelsea passed off very pleasantly considering the weather. At 9:30 A. M. R. P. Carpenter Post, under escort of the Martial Band, marched to the depot to meet comrades and band from Dexter, and also the orator of the day, the Hon. Geo. M. Buck, of Kalamazoo. Upon arrival of trains procession was formed and marched to Town Hall, where at 11:30 A. M. dinner call was sounded and dinner served to about 250 people.

At 1:30 P. M. the exercises opened in Town Hall, which was well filled, and the following exercises were observed: Vocal music by the Quartet; Prayer by Rev. J. A. Kaley; Vocal Music, by Quartette; Calling Roll of honor, by Adjutant J. D. Schnaitman; Music, by Cornet Band; Oration, by Hon. Geo. M. Buck; Vocal Music, by Quartette; Music, by Dexter Juvenile Band; Benediction, by Rev. J. A. McIlwain. After close of exercises in the Hall, the procession was formed in the following order: Chelsea Cornet Band, R. P. Carpenter Post No. 41, G. A. R., Flower Wagon, Guards and Committee, Martial Band, Dexter Juvenile Band, Citizens on foot and in carriages, marching down Middle street and Willow Avenue to the Oak Grove Cemetery, where the graves were decorated and salute fired. Procession then reformed and marched back to Town Hall and disbanded.

Owing to the rain the exercises had to be changed somewhat, but all seemed to enjoy themselves, and all were pleased with the oration, which was good, and filled the wants of the occasion. Taking everything in detail, it was an enjoyable day and one to be remembered.

At 5:15 P. M., the Post, under escort of the three bands, marched to the depot and took the train for Dexter, where they were met by a hearty welcome from the citizens, who did all they could to make the evening pleasant and enjoyable, and the G. A. R. boys will always think of Dexter and its citizens with a kind remembrance.

Closet confinement is at all times undesirable, but most especially is it so in a room that has been freshly painted amid the fumes of the lead and oil and other unhealthy odors that proceed from the painter's broom and pot. Patrick G. Maloney, of Washington, D. C., writes, that he contracted painter's colic in a parlor which he was painting, and was cured by Misher's herb bitters. For cramps, colic, indigestion, or complaints of the bowels, liver, and kidneys, it is infallible.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The universality with which Decoration day was observed this year is evidence enough that the brave boys who lost their lives that the union might be preserved, are not forgotten. All hearts united in paying tribute to our soldier dead, and over their graves was erected a new altar on which the fires of a holy, true patriotism, will burn brighter as the years pass by.

In Philadelphia, the other day, a man in a warehouse was sprinkling benzine on some furniture to kill moths, when there was a sudden explosion, which wrecked the building. This should be a warning to many families who use benzine for such a purpose. Benzine ought never to be exposed in an open vessel, or sprinkled or poured, inside of any building, especially if there is a fire or a light anywhere in the building. All such operations should be performed in the open air, removed from fire or lights.

HISTORY is repeating itself in the Southwest. Savage Apaches are out on a thieving and killing expedition in Arizona and New Mexico. Troops are after them. Cowboys are also on the warpath against the red devils. The passes into Mexico are guarded. Extermination is the cowboy cry. The fighting will be fierce, and a sudden reduction of the Indian population is probable. These annual outbreaks justify the rage of the people of the raided localities. It would seem that the most extreme measures will meet the case.

ERIE, Pa., is agitated by a singular death. Some time ago one Adam P. Harley, a prominent Odd Fellow and Knight of Pythias, was pronounced by the physicians dying of consumption. He thereupon submitted his case to a faith or prayer cure organization; and, to everybody's astonishment, he got up out of bed and went about the city proclaiming himself cured, and lauding the prayer cure as the cause of his recovery. This gave the faith cure a boom, and many sick people came forward to be treated. A few days ago, however, while Harley was engaged in prayer for the candidates for the prayer test, he suddenly died of his disease, and much excitement followed.

THE war in Egypt having enormously increased the price of gum arabic, so largely used for confectionery, as also used in many of the arts, there is a search for substitutes. It is said that a substitute for confectionery, which is equal to gum arabic in all qualities and superior in flavor, has been found in the gum which exudes from peach and plum trees. This may be cheaply gathered by children. After purification, its native flavor can be readily removed, or enough of it may be left to give a pleasant suggestion to the palate. It is said that confectioners who have tried this substitute are highly satisfied with the results of their experiment, which promises to add a new and increasingly valuable product from American orchards.

A TEST suit has been begun by a body of Sabbatarians in Massachusetts against the Old Colony railroad company, for running trains on Sunday. The suit is based on an ancient statute which prohibits unnecessary travel on Sunday. The company says that it runs no unnecessary trains on Sunday. Travel must go forward on that day to some extent, for many purposes. Their trains carry people to and from cities to attend church; doctors for the sick; sick people going home; and many who for various reasons cannot and will not stop on Sundays. As to freight trains, they say they move none but cattle and stock trains, and perishable goods, on Sunday, both of which they claim to be necessary and lawful. They aver that every railroad company in the country would be glad to stop its trains on Sunday, if it were possible; that the roads run just as few trains as they can on that day. But travel cannot be wholly stopped; the mails cannot be stopped; perishable goods cannot be destroyed by delay; stock cannot be allowed to suffer; and the courts would hold a company responsible for damages caused by a total stoppage. The case will be, it is supposed, carried to the highest court for a decision, and its result will be looked for with much interest.

A FALLING BUILDING.

Four Persons Killed, and Several Seriously Injured.

A three-story frame tenement house in Jersey City, N. J., occupied by five families, collapsed the other morning, and four persons were killed. Barney, Nellie and Mary Anderson, aged 9 years and 7 years and 3 months respectively, were all smothered in bed. Michael Webb, aged 15 years, had his head crushed. John Coyne, aged 33, an insurance agent, was badly injured. Nine other persons, hurt more or less seriously, were cared for by neighbors. The building was known to be insecure and was to be repaired shortly. Fortunately no fire broke out in the ruins. The firemen and police at once engaged on the work of clearing away the debris.

GENERAL NEWS.

TWENTY-TWO LIVES LOST.

The steamship City of Rome, arrived in New York, reports that on May 25, at 4.30 p. m., during a dense fog she collided with and sunk the French bark George John, which was lying at anchor. She rescued two of the crew, but the remaining 22 were lost.

BLOODY APACHES.

The Apaches are on the war path in New Mexico, leaving a bloody trail behind them. More than 50 citizens have been killed in one locality, and everything belonging to settlers is wantonly destroyed. Sheridan thinks the Indians will be subdued soon, but that vigorous methods must be adopted at once.

STORMS IN TEXAS.

Portions of Texas have been visited by another severe storm. A number of lives have been lost. T. A. Deminghoff, German, and his wife and three children, were drowned. Six miles south of the city a family of six Negroes were drowned. A number of houses and five of the eight bridges spanning Waco creek within the city limits, are washed away. The damage to farms and crops along the river and creeks is very great.

BIG BEAR'S BUTCHERY.

Gen. Strange's column reached Fort Pitt, and Inspector Peters, with 20 mounted police, has arrived in Battleford from his command and reports Fort Pitt burned. The body of Policeman Cowan was found there with the heart cut out and impaled on a pole. Inspector Peters discovered at Frog Lake the remains of the people massacred there by Big Bear's braves, and one body found in a well is supposed to have been that of Gowanlock. The remains of Mrs. Marchand and Lafard were found much charred in the cellar of a burned house, and in the woods near by were the remains of Delaney, Quinn and Gilchrist.

SUCH HONESTY IS RARE.

A man named Snyder, who belonged to a New York regiment during the late war and who has been drawing a pension of $72 per month, called at the pension office and requested that his name be taken from the rolls and payment stopped. The only reason he gave for his singular request was that the government had already done enough for him. Commissioner Black says a similar case was brought to his attention some time ago. A Kentuckian requested to have his pension stopped and a considerable sum which he had not drawn returned to the treasury, as he believed he had fully recovered from his disability.

A REVENUE REPORT.

The collections of internal revenue for the first ten months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1885, as compared with the collections during corresponding period of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1884, were as follows: From spirits, 1884, $3,104,740; 1885, $56,126,245; decrease, $6,978,895. From tobacco, 1884, $21,349,890; 1885, $21,417,536; increase, $67,637. From fermented liquors, 1884, $104,227,890; 1885, $14,303,735; increase, $117,135. From miscellaneous, 1884, $519,863; 1885, $236,802; decrease, $283,061. Aggregate receipts, 1884, $39,102,362; 1885, $92,144,417; decrease, $7,137,855. The aggregate receipts for April 1885 were $1,141,832 less than during the same month of 1884.

INDECENT JOURNALISM REWARDED.

Ray S. Hathaway, a reporter on the Toledo Sunday Democrat, was treated to a coat of tar and feathers by C. H. Merry, H. E. Smith and W. H. Peters, three of the most respected citizens of Norwalk. The affair occurred in Norwalk, and was in consequence of a scandalous article reflecting on the character of these gentlemen and other members of the Peek-a-Boo club, published in the Democrat. There was the greatest indignation expressed by the citizens of Norwalk over the article, as the members of the club are of the best representative families. About 9 o'clock Hathaway was enticed into a barn and bound. A coat of war tar and feathers was then applied and he was ordered to leave town on the first train. He came home this afternoon and threatens to have his eyesight arrested. Hathaway will lose his eyesight, even if nothing more serious results.

EDMUNDS' ERRAND.

Senator Edmunds goes to England soon for the purpose of testifying before the house of lords committee on privileges touching certain points of American law. The matter before the committee is a civil suit affecting the title of the estate and pittance of the earl of Lauderdale, and the vital point at issue is the validity of the marriage of Sir Richard Maitland with Mary McAdam by Dr. Orville. The estate is claimed on one hand by Major Frederick Henry Maitland, of the Bengal cavalry, and political agent for central India, who is a direct descendant of Sir Richard Maitland, adjutant general of the North American colonies from 1766 to 1772, and fourth son of the sixth Earl Lauderdale. The other claimant is Sir James Ramsay Maitland, a descendant of the fifth son of the sixth earl. If the decision of the lords' committee is that Mary McAdam was lawfully married to Sir Richard, Sir Frederick will become earl of Lauderdale. If otherwise, Sir James succeeds. It is in regard to the laws and customs in vogue in the colonies at that time Senator Edmunds will testify.

John Elliott & Son's foundry in London, Ont., was burned a few days since, at a loss of $250,000.

It is estimated that the debt statement for the month of May shows a reduction of about $5,000,000.

A break band of a mine in Charleston, W. Va., broke the other morning, instantly killing four miners.

Poundmaker, the half-breed chief, and five of his best men have surrendered unconditionally to Gen. Middleton.

A large furniture factory in New York City burned at an early hour the other morning, involving a total loss of over $500,000.

Charles L. Thomas, whose home is in Burlington, Vt., confirms the reports of ill-treatment of American citizens in Guatemala.

Colorado has had a visitation of grasshoppers which devoured everything in the way of early vegetables and tender shrubs.

Cowboys at Coleridge, N. M., compelled Theodore Thomas' concert troop to entertain them with instrumental and vocal music. No lives were lost.

Willie Prentiss shot his father dead at Orange, Mass. The father, while in a drunken fit, ordered his son to shoot at a cup which he held on his head.

A man about 27 years old, named McComb, of Weland Ont., jumped over the precipice at Niagara, just below the new suspension bridge and was instantly killed.

CHINESE INCOOPER.

The Exhilarating Beverage Indulged In By the Heathens.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The spectacle of two Chinamen staggering along Smithfield street last night, evidently "three sheets in the wind," was one that excited some curiosity. Whether they had been tanking up after the most approved American style on plain, ordinary lager beer or old Monongahela rye, was the question.

"They have a quiet little still of their own," was the remark of a habitue of the City Hall. "Chinamen don't take kindly to beer or whisky. They go to one of their countrymen in town who deals in the article, and get a bottle of liquid distilled from rice. I tell you it's a lively drink, too. Why stone fence and Jersey lightning are like water when put on a level with incooper. That's what the Chinamen call it."

The Chinese storekeepers in San Francisco import the stuff and ship it to their agents in different parts of the country. It is put up in queer-shaped bottles, and looks something like gin. You can get plenty of it in town if you have a Chinese friend. Just ask John Chinaman the next time he brings your washing to get you a bottle of incooper and give him a dollar. It is surprising how much these Mongols can stand. They will sip incooper all evening and toddle home in single file without varying a shade from a straight line. Sometimes, though, they get more than they can carry, just like those fellows you saw pass by. Why, if an old toper on whisky were to try incooper it would knock him out flat in three rounds. It's a mighty queer liquor and a bad thing to fool with. If you do you will want to whip your mother-in-law and your best friend in half an hour."

A Japanese Girl's Toilet.

M. C. Griffin in St. Nicholas.

When a Japanese girl gets up in the morning she washes her face, but does not have to dress her hair. That is attended to but once a week. The hair dresser comes to the house and arranges her jet black locks in the fashion for little girls of her age. So she has no trouble about her hair, and after her bath the servant assists her to powder her neck with a small white brush. She puts a little red paint on her lower lip and a little gilding in the middle. When she removes her sleeping dress she has on only a short skirt, which is simply a square piece of cloth, crepe or silk, tied around the waist. No other underclothing is worn.

In making her toilet for the day, she first puts on a garment made usually of some coarse material, not very long, and reaching only to the waist, but with long sleeves. On the neck of this garment is sewed a deep fold of scarlet or some other bright-colored crepe or silk. A long, straight skirt of blue or red crepe, silk or wool is tied around the waist, and over all three of these garments is worn the kimono, or dress. This is of some dark color, and made of coarse spun silk or thick crepe.

For festivals and holidays the dresses are of very fine material and very handsome. The outer dress is simply a wrapper reaching to the feet, with very long and wide sleeves hanging nearly to the ground, and used as pockets. On each shoulder a deep tuck is made which extends to the waist, thus making a little fullness for the skirt. But the dress has no gathers, and is straight all the way down. The neck is adorned with a wide piece of black velvet or satin, which reaches nearly to the waist, and the dress is crossed over the bosom and confined by a girdle. Over this is worn a very wide sash; a piece of brocade silk or satin, stiff with embroidery in gold or silver, lined with soft silk, and fastened behind in a very large bow. When these are all on, but bare-footed, or if in cool weather, in white mitten socks, made to reach only to the ankle, and with a place in which to put the great toe (just as mittens have a place for the thumb), she goes out to say "Ghaio," or good morning, to her father.

A Business Woman.

Woman's Journal.

I have twice written something about the women who have held, or are holding, positions in the employ of the Manitoba Railroad company, but I find I had not known it all. The first woman mentioned was Mrs. Carey, who, some years ago, was left with three sisters and a brother to support. She learned to be a telegraph operator, and wherever she went, took her family with her and supported them. She taught two sisters and a brother the business, and was appointed agent at Wayzata, where she had charge of all the business, which in the summer, with short line trains and steamers on Lake Minnetonka, is very heavy. After a time she was allowed to have her brother to help, and one sister was appointed train dispatcher on the same road.

Think of it! a woman, who used to be considered so helpless and impractical, and generally useless and incompetent, given the control of all the life and property involved in the management of the numerous trains on that busy road. And what do they think of her? "I tried again and again," said the superintendent, "to catch the woman off duty, before I gave her the place, on Sundays and all sorts of odd hours, and I never once succeeded."

An Ex-Congressman's Recollections.

Columbus (O.) Herald.

Mr. Fisher served in the war of 1812, and soon after married, taking his bride to a small house about one mile from the cabin in which the old commander, General Grant was born. He loves to dwell on the life of General Grant, whose birth he remembers, and which happened but a mile or two from his settlement, and he tells of dancing with the general's mother, when she was Miss Hannah Simpson, and before Jesse R. Grant had courted and wedded her.

The old commoner was a warm personal friend of old Tom Corwin and stumped the state during the hard cider campaign in 1840, at which time he was a whig and since a republican. In 1846 he was elected to the 30th congress, serving one term and refusing a re-nomination. The lamented Lincoln was a member of the same congress, and the two became fast friends, rooming together for a considerable time in a boarding house, where they formed relations that were only dissolved by that great man's death.

Of Lincoln's character he says: "He was the most lovable public man I ever met, and, like me, did not return to Congress; but, unlike me, a few years later became the greatest man of the age and the savior of our Union. I strongly advocated his nomination for the presidency at the Chicago convention, and his winning the prize there was perhaps the first step toward the regeneration of our land. Before the war, while traveling in the West, I spent three days as his guest at his home in Springfield, and one evening remarking that I never got the Congressional Director for which I had subscribed and paid, Mr. Lincoln said: 'Take one of mine; I have two, and you will see, Fisher, that it speaks better of you than it does of me.'"

In answer to the question relative to the death of ex-President John Quincy Adams, Mr. Fisher replied, with evident emotion: "Adams was, next to Mr. Lincoln, the grandest man I ever met. His seat was directly opposite mine—only a narrow aisle separating our desks. The ex-president was very aged and for years quite feeble, having a slight touch of paralysis, perhaps just before Washington's birthday, in 1848, Mr. Adams half rose in his seat, suddenly put his hand to his head, whereupon I rose from my desk and caught him in my arms just as he was sinking. The house was in an uproar, but in an instant the word passed around, Adams is dying, and immediately members came to my aid and we carried the fallen statesman into the speaker's room, where three days later, the spirit of 'the old man eloquent' had gone to its Maker. He never spoke after falling into my arms, save that historical ejaculation uttered just previous to his final dissolution."

Mr. Fisher was identified with Salmon P. Chase in the organization of the republican party. He now resides with a married daughter, whose home is a most beautiful one, and not five miles from the place he took his bride so many years ago, and but a short distance from the cabin in which the now nation's patient saw the first light of day. In form he is stately and impressive, but has been blind for twenty years. Speaking of social life in Washington he says the finest entertainment he ever attended was Senator Benton's party to his son-in-law, General Fremont on his return from the Mexican war.

Old Librarians.

April Atlantic.

The old librarian was a peculiar character, as these officials are apt to be. They have a curious kind of knowledge, sometimes immense in its way. They know the backs of books, their title-pages, their popularity or want of it, the class of readers who call for particular works, the value of different editions, and a good deal besides. Their minds catch up hints from all manner of works on all kinds of subjects. They will give a visitor a fact and a reference which they are surprised to find they remember and which the visitor might have hunted for a year. Every good librarian, every private book-owner, who has grown into his library, finds he has a bunch of nerves going to every bookcase, a branch to every shelf, and a twig to every book. These nerves get very sensitive in old librarians, sometimes, and they do not like to have a volume meddled with any more than they would to have their naked eyes handled. They come to feel at last that the books of a great collection are a part, not merely of their own property, though they are only the agents for their distribution, but that they are, as it were, outlying portions of their own organization. The old librarian was getting a miserly feeling about his books as he called them.

Bonnet strings have been discarded in Paris.

Long silk scarfs are again to be worn. They are simply tied in a large sailor bow at the throat or are pinned with a brooch and then fastened at the waist.

Robes of Unguilla cloth, with the embroideries in white, black, cardinal and navy-blue, are in fast colors, and will look as well after washing as before.

A bonnet of roseda straw has a turned-up brim covered with plush of the same color. The square crown is almost hidden on the left side by a tuft of short feathers of a darker shade, which are secured by a golden arrow, and fall over the side of the crown, the tips touching the hair.

THE HERALD

C. F. OVERACKER, EDITOR & PROPRIETOR.
SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $1.40 PER YEAR.

BUSINESS NOTICE

In assuming the proprietorship of THE CHelsea HERALD the writer will make no promises which some unforeseen circumstance may prevent him from fulfilling. It will be his aim to furnish Chelsea a local paper commensurate with the thrift, enterprise and importance of the village and adjacent territory.

Politically, THE HERALD will henceforth hold unreservedly independent views, and attempt to discuss, so far as it deems advisable, all political issues from this standpoint. It is not the province of a local paper to devote much space or labor to political matters, therefore THE HERALD will hold itself aloof from such discussions as far as practicable. Upon all moral and social questions the paper will endeavor to be found with the right, and will fearlessly advocate whatever it believes to be in the interest of humanity, good morals and good government regardless of consequences.

THE HERALD will continue to be conducted in the interests of Chelsea and her people, and it respectfully solicits the undivided support of the business men of the village, which is very essential to the prosperity of the paper.

GEO. A. BEGOLE, Clerk.

To-day is a Catholic holiday, and large numbers of that faith are in town.

Born, in Lyndon, on Friday, May 29, 1885, to Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, a daughter.

The semi-annual meeting of the Washenaw Pioneer Association will be held at the village of Saline, the 10th inst. Papers will be read by Judge Harriman, Rev. Lorenzo Davis, and others, and it is expected to be one of the largest and most interesting meetings that have ever been held by the Society.

The reputation of DeLand's chemical baking powder for purity and strength is so well established that we can confidently recommend it as the best and most economical of any now on the market. Its own merits recommend it. No lady is safe in attempting to use any other saleratus or soda than DeLand's. All over this broad land their name is a synonym with excellence.

Never speak disrespectful of another gentleman in the presence of a lady.

To answer a civil question rudely, or even impatiently, is a gross breach of etiquette.

The lady should always enter the carriage first, when taking a ride with a gentleman.

Avoid entering a room noisily, slamming the door, or stamping heavily upon the floor.

One of the Terrors That Attend Winter Life in the Mountains.

High up on the side of the grim mountain is a large rock which stands out in bold relief. Its top is not level, but it has an incline down the mountain. Twenty men could find standing-room on the crest of that stone. Above it—fifty feet or more—with not even a bush intervening, is a smaller rock, and just in line. On the crest of this rock a man could scarcely find room for his feet. From the base of the larger rock to the trail winding up the valley is a distance of three-quarters of a mile, and the ground is covered with rocks, small pines and seraggy brush.

So it was in September. As we look up the mountain side on this April day it seems like a great bank of whitest chalk. Pines ten feet high are hidden under the snow, and the ugly rocks are buried many feet deep. The upper and smaller rocks are wearing huge hats of snow—a cone rising five or six feet high. On the lower and larger one the snows of two hundred days have fallen and packed until the weight amounts to tons. In the valley the snow is soft and slushy, and here and there the blades of grass struggling for life among the rocks are being warmed into vigor by the sun.

Now, watch! One—three—five—seven men are ascending the trail, having three pack mules with them. One would think the warm sun must put them in good humor, but it is not so. They look up the mountain-side with fear expressed in their faces, and even the beasts of burden show by their actions that they labor under mental anxiety.

Indians?
No!
A mountain thunder-storm?
No!
The dreaded cyclone?
No!

When the leader of the band is almost opposite the two rocks which have been described he halts and surveys them, and it is scarcely an instant before he has thrown up his hand to those behind. They rightly interpret it to mean: "Softly—softly, for your lives! The avalanche has prepared its trap for us, and a word may seal our fate."

It is too late to retreat. If the avalanche starts this will be its center, and its wings will be a mile long. Softly! softly! The men step as if walking upon thin ice.

Now cast your eyes up the mountain to the upper rocks. The sun has been beating down upon the snow for hours, and water appears at the base of the cone. The south side of it has been undermined. At noon its wing would have toppled it over. As we look a bird no larger than a bluejay, weary in its flight, or thirsting for water, alights on the cone with a shrill chirp.

Puff! It topples over, and the mass falls heavily upon the lower rock. The sun has been at work here as well, and the bulky mass of snow is ready to move.

Puff! puff! The air is filled with the white powder as the mass leaps off by what follows. With such a s-s-wish-h-h as never met your ears before—with such a grinding, crouching, tearing as you never imagined, the tens of thousands of tons of snow on a mountain side two miles long breaks loose and rushes into the valley.

Rocks weighing tons are but marbles to roll before the white billow. Trees are but matches to be carried along and ground to splinters. It moves faster—faster—and now with one awful crash the mass takes on such motion that the frozen earth is dug out in great furrows, and there is no stop until the billows meet the mountain opposite.

The valley is still the valley, but it is higher by many feet. In the June days, as another party of prospectors come up the trail, they may find here a hoof—there an arm—here a portion of a pack—there a broken rifle—here a human body with every bone broken as if by blows of a hammer.

The men will glance up the bare mountain side—from rock to rock—and they will know the story as well as if one had survived to tell it.—Detroit Free Press.

There were some severe laws in the world two centuries ago, but apparently no more morality than now. There was a time when a Bob Ingersoll would have been imprisoned for life, even if he escaped burning at the stake. By statute, in the time of Elizabeth, if any person in plays or songs or by casual conversation said anything in derogation of the book of common prayer, he was liable to suffer imprisonment for life.—Chicago Herald.

A Great Discovery

Mr. Wm. Thomas, of Newton, Ia., says: "My wife has been seriously affected with a cough for twenty-five years, and this spring more severely than ever before. She had used many remedies without relief, and being urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery, did so, with most gratifying results. The first bottle relieved her very much, and the second bottle has absolutely cured her. She has not had so good health for thirty years." Trial Bottles Free at R. S. Armstrong's Drug Store. The Secret of Wealth.

Broken down invalids, do you wish to gain flesh, to acquire an appetite, to enjoy a regular habit of body, to obtain refreshing sleep, to feel and know that every fibre and tissue of your system is being braced up and renovated? If so commence at once a course of GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS. In one week you will be convalescent. In a month you will be well. Do not despair because you have a weak constitution. Fortify the body against disease by purifying all the fluids with GOLDEN SEAL BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified. The liver, the stomach, the bowels, the kidneys are rendered disease proof by this great invigorator. Ruinous bills for medical attendance may be avoided by counteracting the first symptoms of sickness with these Bitters. They are recommended from friend to friend, and the sale increases daily. We warrant a cure. They are a positive cure also for all female complaints. In these diseases they have no equal. Take no others. Sold by R. S. Armstrong and Gilzler, DePuy & Co.

GRAND MOTHER

Used herbs in doctoring the family, and her simple remedies DID CURE in most cases. Without the use of herbs, medical science would be powerless; and yet the tendency of the times is to neglect the best of all remedies for those powerful medicines that seriously injure the system.

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

A combination of valuable herbs, carefully compounded from the formula of a regular Physician, who used this prescription largely in his private practice with great success. It is not a drink, but a medicine used by many physicians. It is invaluable for DYSPEPSIA, LIVER AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, WEAKNESS, INDIGESTION, &c.; and while curing will not hurt the system.

Mr. C. J. Rhodes, a well-known iron man of Safe Harbor, Pa., writes: "My son was completely prostrated by fever and ague. Quinine and barks did him no good. I then sent for Mishler's Herb Bitters and in a short time the boy was quite well."

"E. A. Schellentrager, Druggist, 717 N. Clair Street, Cleveland, O., writes: "Your Bitters, I can say, and do say, are prescribed by some of the oldest and most prominent physicians in our city."

MISCELLANEOUS.

Over eighty years was the average age of the persons who died in Dublin, N. H., last year.

One of the Washington Treasury clerks is able to count 4,000 new notes an hour for seven hours a day.—Washington Post.

Investigations made by a committee of the British Association show that a man really grows in stature up to his fiftieth year, although the growth is very slow after twenty.

Paper bags were invented by the Pennsylvania Moravians, whose thrifty habits would not permit the waste of paper used in the old-fashioned method of putting up bundles.

A seventy-two-year-old citizen of Belfast, Me., some time ago dreamed that he had made away with his life, and brooded over the vision until a few days ago, when he realized it with a razor.

At a Territorial fair in the Northwest an Indian sent a war bonnet fringed with human scalp locks as an exhibit. It was not refused, but occupied a prominent position and took a first prize.

The English ship Daphne capsized when launched and many persons were killed. She was raised and renamed the Rose, but only to be sunk at her anchor in harbor. Again raised, she ran ashore, was got off with difficulty and named afresh the Lanthe, and a month ago en route to Smyrna she struck a rock on the Irish coast and is laid up for repairs.

The discoverer of the richest of the Leadville silver mines sold his claim at once for $40,000, and during the following year the two purchasers made $1,000,000 each from it. Meanwhile the discoverer squandered his $40,000 in prospecting, and the other day, a homeless tramp, applied for a night's lodging at the Leadville Station House.—Chicago Herald.

Far out at sea along both the Gulf and Atlantic coasts of Florida are several springs of fresh water. They are well known to the spongers and fishermen, who frequently visit them to replenish their water-casks. On this same coast is an oil spring which diffuses a calm over troubled waters and affords a safe refuge to small vessels during a gale.—N. Y. Sun.

An examination of 3,726 prescriptions in a Boston drug store showed that 504 different drugs were called for by the doctors. Quinine took the lead by appearing in 292 prescriptions, morphine appeared in 172, bromide of potassium in 171, iodide of potassium in 155, and muriate of iron in 134. The whole number of articles in the pharmacopoeia is 994, and Boston used more than half of them.—Boston Journal.

The Troy Times reports that a Troy institute student, in returning from a visit to an island on Lake Champlain, strapped his baggage to a hand-sled and a pair of skates to his feet and skated twenty-eight miles to make railroad connection, preferring this mode of travel to a mountainous drive of fourteen miles. His journey on the ice was made in four hours, less time than if he had traveled in a vehicle.

The Churchman says of a phenomenon which often causes astonishment: The reason of the immunity which drunken men are said to enjoy from the consequences of accidents is attributed to the fact that the nerve centers which regulate the heart and vessels are so paralyzed in them as not to be affected by the shock, which in sober men would have acted in them so violently as to stop the heart, arrest the circulation and cause death.

The Turkish woman is superstitious in the extreme. She believes in charms. She will not live an hour bereft of her three-cornered bit of leather which encloses the mystic phrase that is potent to ward off the evil eye. She distrusts Tuesday as the mother of ill-luck, and will not celebrate the birthday anniversaries of her children, or even record the date, lest some magician use it to cast a spell against the child.

"Compared with those of the British isles," writes Miss Constance Fenimore Woolson, meditatively, "all the skies of the United States are blue. In the north this blue is clear, strong, bright; in the south a softness mingles with the brilliancy and tempers it to a beauty which is not surpassed. The sky over the cotton lands of South Carolina is as soft as that of Tuscany; the blue over the silver beaches of Florida melts as languorously as that above Capri's enchanted shore."

There is a Faith Home in Springfield, Mass. Two women, who are called Sisters Rosa and Orpha, opened it five years ago. The Republican vouches for them as humble, earnest believers in the miracles which they think they work. They are making no money out of the enterprise, for they charge no fees and accept only sufficient contributions for comfortable sustenance. Numerous families in the city and neighborhood will employ no physicians in cases of sickness, but trust implicitly to the curative power of prayer.

A romantic young waiter-girl at a hotel in Ontario, Canada, came near losing her life the other day by trying a foolish experiment. She had heard an old saying that any girl who swallowed a raw chicken's heart would have for a husband the first male person she shook hands with, and, believing the proverb, attempted to swallow a chicken's raw heart, but failed. The heart stuck in her throat and would not move either way, down or up. A doctor was called in and arrived only in season to save the deluded girl from an untimely death by choking.

"Well, well!" said Mr. Jarphy. "Well, what?" asked his wife. "I'm just reading of the American missionaries' attempt to introduce the Bible in China, my dear," replied Mr. Jarphy. "What is strange about that?" inquired Mrs. Jarphy. "Oh, nothing particular, only I've seen it in calf and in Russia leather and in cloth and I thought I'd like to see it in China," and he innocently scratched his nose. "Jarphy, you're a fool," said Mrs. Jarphy.—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

Outdoor Life.

Man seems planned for an outdoor life in a mild climate, with just a leaf or two of shelter for a rainy day. His nature will bend for a time to the conventional burdens of an artificial civilization, but replant him on first principles in the outdoor garden of life and his recuperative forces will rebound with the elastic energy of steel springs relieved. Our fashionable friends would lose caste were they to use their neighbor's second-hand clothing, but they will daily try to purify their own blood with their neighbor's second-hand or ten-times used breath, poisoned as it always is, even when exhaled by young and healthy persons. Man, in common with other warm blooded creatures, generates a surplus of heat within his body. Outdoor sleepers find that no matter how cold the surrounding air may be, if dry, enough of the outflowing heat may be dammed back and retained by suitable clothing to sustain the vital functions in health and comfort. Until domestic art can supply our lungs with cool, first-morgaged air, in warm rooms, its votaries will have an important problem to solve. In the meantime out-campers and hovel dwellers will wear the best aerated blood in the land.—American Home.

There are scores of persons who are suffering from some form of blood disorder or skin disease, such as scrofula, boils, etc. After a practical test, R. S. Armstrong asserts that Acker's Blood Elixir will certainly cure all such diseases, including syphilis and rheumatism. It is not a patent nostrum, but a scientific preparation. He guarantees it. 2

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years, my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and my leg is now sound and well." Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by R. S. Armstrong.

Over one million of Acker's dyspepsia tablets sold in the past twelve months, purely upon their merits. Why suffer with chronic constipation, dyspepsia, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, and female troubles when R. S. Armstrong offers you relief and positive cure in the dyspepsia tablets. He sells them on guarantee. 3

MICHIGAN NEWS.

Happy Molony.

Among other presidential appointments made a few days ago was that of John P. Molony of Detroit, as collector of internal revenues for the first district of Michigan, vice J. H. Stone removed.

Caged at Last.

A correspondent of the Detroit Post writes from East Tawas, May 30 as follows: The notorious Hank Farrington was arrested by the sheriff and his deputies this morning on Charity Island and is now occupying the cell which was built for him eight years ago in Tawas City jail. He and another man, supposed by some to be Wilson, who is wanted in Detroit for killing a policeman, have been skulking around the lake for the last few days in a skiff, using a blanket for a sail. When they saw the officers making for the island the supposed Wilson took to the woods; old "Hank" stood his ground, but offered no resistance. They were camped one night on the Dead Sable, near Au Sable. The citizens were very much excited when it became known that Farrington was around, and every person who met Judge Tuttle—who happened to be up there—wanted him to cause the man's arrest, as they were afraid he intended to carry out his threat of killing some of them. Yesterday the judge ordered the sheriff to arrest him on the charge of assaulting with intent to kill Henry Nye, when Farrington was in jail waiting his trial for murdering Steward. Nye was jailer for Smith. Farrington made an attack on him with a knife and came near killing him. Farrington was tried in a justice court and convicted. If he should be released on the charge of murder the authorities will give him a dose of that. The old charge has been hanging ever since.

Daring Desperadoes.

Word was received at the Central Station in Detroit a few days ago that a Grand Trunk freight train bound for Detroit had been taken possession of by a gang of five men who were running it to suit themselves. The assistance of the police was asked, and Sgt. High, accompanied by ten patrolmen, immediately went to the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee railroad depot at the foot of Brush street, where an engine and a caboose were ready for them. They started at once to meet the train, but were too late to be of any assistance. The freight left Port Huron about 11:30 o'clock and the five men boarded it between that place and Mt. Clemens. They told the conductor not to interfere with them, threatening his life if he did. The latter, however, managed to telegraph to Mt. Clemens asking the sheriff to meet the train there. That officer was on hand with another and an attempt was made to arrest the gang. While one of the officers drew a revolver which he placed at the head of the ringleader, the latter pulled a pistol from his pocket and put the officer to flight. The gang ordered the train to proceed to Detroit, and in the meantime the engineer, brakeman and conductor were kept apart. The former was guarded by two of the men in the engine and the other three took care of the conductor and brakeman. Communication between them was forbidden, and they were told not to move. At one time the engineer was on the point of seizing a wrench when one of the men who kept his eye on him put a revolver to his head and threatened to shoot him if he moved. At Fraser station the conductor was compelled to leave the train, and when about two miles from the junction the men got off and walked along the track. They are unknown and are reported to have been well dressed.

A short time ago Chas. G. Gay, auditor of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad disappeared. A few days ago his body was found north of the Protestant cemetery in Marquette, with a bullet hole in his temple, and a pistol clutched in his hand. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

Doctors Ranney and Post of Lansing, who offered their services to the Russian government at the time of the threatened war, have received word that to be eligible to such service they must have a diploma from some Russian college; that their ignorance of the Russian language would be a serious drawback, and that owing to the large number of Russian surgeons available their chances of acceptance would be very meager anyway.

William Sussex was shot by Sylvester Cochran near the county house, four miles northeast of Jackson. Sussex, in company with several others, was trying to frighten Cochran, who lived alone, and is an old miser. They made Cochran believe they were going to rob him and he fired Sussex's body full of fine shot. Sussex lay all night in a fever and died. A physician was sent for. The officers are investigating the matter.

The ten miles of track running between Buchanan and Berrien Springs, constituting what is known as the St. Joe valley narrow gauge railroad, has just been sold to Walworth D. Crane, who made the purchase in the interest of Baltimore parties. The company will be thoroughly reorganized immediately, and the work of changing the road from a narrow to a standard gauge, also of extending its limits south to South Bend, Ind., and north to Lake Michigan, will be in full blast inside of the next 30 days.

James Way, the 12-year old son of James Way, a millwright, was drowned while bathing in Plaster Creek, near Grand Rapids, on a recent afternoon. He was with a number of smaller boys and was taken with cramps in three feet of water. His companions were so scared that they made attempt to rescue him except by reaching sticks to him, although they could easily have waded to him. His body was recovered forty-five minutes later by some men who were called, but life was extinct.

A bed of solid salt thirty-four feet thick at a depth of 2,027 feet yielding one hundred per cent of brine has been struck in Manistee. This is the largest salt well in the world, being nine inches from the first 600 feet to caving rock, then a seven-inch hole through caving rock a distance of 1,600 feet, then a five-inch hole to the bed of salt. This well in twenty-four hours will produce sufficient brine to make 800 barrels of salt, which will net the firm about thirty-five cents per barrel. This makes eight salt wells completed and three more are being put down.

A nest of thieves has been discovered in Monroe which accounts for the many burglaries and depredations on freight cars which have been committed for the past year or more. Stories told by school children led to the search of a house occupied by James E. Navarre, situated in the Third ward, where there was discovered all kinds of stolen property, some of which was missed upwards of a year ago. Navarre has been arrested but was released on bonds of $1,000. One Thomas J. Armstrong, who hails from Montreal, has also been arrested and is now in jail. It is hoped this will break up the gang.

Upper peninsula miners and mine owners intimate that the passage of the Brant bill, making it unlawful to employ persons in a mine unless the underground workings are connected by at least two shafts not less than 100 feet apart (an exception being made for miners working by open pits), would shut out of every ten copper and iron mines now at work in Michigan. They claim that the Calumet & Hecla is at the back of the bill, the introducer of which knows nothing whatever about mines, and who, as an alleged labor representative, should not lend himself to a measure that would throw so many men out of employment.

The affairs of the bankrupt firm of ex-senator Thomas W. Ferry and his brother E. P. Ferry are almost settled. E. P. Ferry says: "I have turned over to the eastern banks all the real estate and property held by us in the state, outside of the E. P. Ferry lumber company at a valuation of $100,000—just the figures I proposed. The property includes timber lands in Oceana, Ottawa, Muskegon and Newaygo counties, tributary to White river and Black creek, the city property in Grand Haven and village property in Montague. This wipes out most of our indebtedness to the eastern banks. For the rest they are willing to wait without security. They offered to accept this amount in receipt for their claims in full, but I do not care to take advantage of their proffered kindness, as I intend to pay up everything at 100 cents on the dollar and will do so if given time. The creditors are very well satisfied, and it gives me great satisfaction to be able to straighten out matters."

THE DISPUTE SETTLED.

England and Russia Agree Upon the Boundary Question.

Foreign News in General.

The Daily News of London announces on the highest authority that Russia's reply to England's counter-proposal has been received in London. The reply, it says, involves the acceptance of the proposals and practically settles in a satisfactory manner the whole question of the Afghan boundary. Both Maruchak and Zulcar remain in possession of the ameer. The main features of the work of delimitation have been finally fixed and the boundary commission will settle details. Negotiations have been conducted in a most friendly spirit on both sides.

The London Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent says the following is the exact state of the Afghan frontier negotiations at the present time. The Ameer surrenders Pendjeh for Zulcar. The question is unsettled as to whether the Zulcar pass shall form a part of the boundary or remain wholly in Afghanistan. Russia insists that Meruchak belongs to Pendjeh. England objects and makes the retention of Meruchak a sine qua non. This difference of opinion is now the main difficulty.

In the house of commons on the 11th inst., Lord Harrington, minister for war, stated that the government had definitely decided to abandon the plan of advance on Khartoum. The British troops would be concentrated at Wady Halfa and Assouan. Suakin could not be evacuated until an arrangement could be made to garrison the place by the troops of some civilized power. These changes in the original plan of operations in the Soudan would make it unnecessary to push forward the railway from Suakin toward Berber.

WITNESSED AGAINST.

A brave baritone voice was heard among the roses and syringas at the Lilies; and the tall, handsome girl, pulling pearly clusters of the Baltimore Belle from its vine, could not but listen.

"Be well to be gallant and gay,
Be well to be tender and true,
But you'd better be off with the old love
Before you are on with the new."

Leslie Darrell curled her red lips with a heightened color, but did not turn her beautiful head one inch, although she knew John Maddern was waiting for a glance; and she carried from the vine as many roses as her slender fingers could close around, yet never once turned her face toward the spot under the locust tree, where the young man leaned and watched her.

Was it mere caprice? John Maddern knew that his sweetheart was a little capricious; but beauties were always spoiled, he argued, with a tender smile.

To-day there was a lurking uneasiness in his heart. Leslie's rich old uncle and his adopted son had come from Florida the day before. Did handsome Adrian Delafield see how beautiful Leslie was? Her cousin, she called him. Cousin, forsooth! That graceful, Spanish-looking fellow, of seven-and-twenty, was no kin to the aged, eccentric, misshapen dwarf, who, rolling in riches, had taken a whim to adopt him as his heir.

One would think there would be a ruffling of feathers in the dove cot of the Lilies at the intruder, since Leslie had always been considered Luther Delafield's heiress, and Leslie was her grandmother's idol; but how the intruder had disarmed all resentment with his smooth tongue and charming manners!

"Who was the good looking fellow?" he had heard him ask Leslie.

With that air of quiet indifference, Leslie had replied, without a tinge of tell-tale color:

"Mr. Maddern is one of our old neighbors."

Old neighbor, indeed! He had been wild about her ever since the Darrells had come to the Lilies. There had only been stately Madam Darrell and the sweet, dying girl, Aida, at first—these two and their servants.

He had never known what ailed Aida Darrell, but she was fading, like a flower from day to day. Before the year ended the young sister was called from school to the funeral.

He had been commissioned by Madam Darrell, with whom he was a favorite, to meet her at the train.

What a flashing, impetuous, dazzling young creature she was! They had softened the blow for her. He did not know that her lovely sister, Aida, needed no anxious thought of her young heart—was beyond pain, in a casket of lilies—but her pitiful ignorance made his heart ache while he wondered at her beauty.

When he saw her again the bright impetuosity was gone, the young face clouded with weeping, but the charm the girl had cast over him stayed. He loved her.

After that she had remained at the Lilies. It was two years ago. He had come to know him well in all the changes of that time. Did she care that he loved her?

There was always a difficulty in getting Leslie to be quite serious, but there was a certain shy uplifting of the dark eyes which he had come to consider quite his own—a smile he believed to be his only—and it is easy at five-and-twenty to hope.

Adrian Delafield did know that Leslie was beautiful, having good eyes and a taste similar to most men's.

He surveyed the dark lustrous eyes and peachy cheeks quite at his leisure, and it was he who put it into Luther Delafield's head that Leslie must go to the White Mountains with them in August. Leslie accepted the invitation with a girl's love of novelty, and Madam Darrell consented.

She liked John Maddern, but she was old enough to be wise, she argued. People always needed money whenever they married, and Leslie had better marry where the money was. Compared to Luther Delafield's half a million, John Maddern was poor.

The latter felt all this, though not a word was said; and he was proud, and would not beg for Leslie's love, since she, too, seemed careless and indifferent.

So, one fine summer day, the party departed for the White Mountains, and he held his peace with what grace he might.

The trip was to be made as extensive as possible, and Adrian Delafield was the most delightful of companions, knowing the legend of every waterfall, the best ascents, the loveliest retreats. Such days of enjoyment, such hours of sweet surprises, Leslie had never known.

And one evening by Echo Lake she looked up into Adrian Delafield's face, and out of the fulness of her heart, innocently said:

"Aren't you happy?"
"It was enough. The young man matched the white hands."
"I never was so happy in my life,

Leslie! Who would not be, here with you?"

For one little instant Leslie shrank from the vehement declaration.

Every heart knoweth its own secrets, and if there was a bondage all unacknowledged, it was a vague and sweet one, and left the girl unsuspecting that her glad, free way might be perilous to another man.

But her kind heart shrank from the giving of instant pain, and whether Adrian Delafield suspected the truth or not, he was no novice in women's hearts, and pursued his advantage.

Leslie could not be insensible to the gentle deference, the gallant protection constantly offered her; and since the trip gave Adrian Delafield, in the accidents of travel, every advantage, the chances grew fast in his favor.

The lover present hid the lover absent from her view. And at eighteen, perhaps women are apt to be inconstant. Step by step the man of the world advanced, until he believed he needed only her promise to make Leslie his own.

And Leslie—she seemed in a glorified world, where there was neither sorrow nor pain. All the bright surrounding scene glowed in a rose-color. To see beyond the present was impossible.

They stopped, one day, at an old farm house, with quaint, diamond paned windows. Leslie fancied the wainscoted rooms and the old garden of hollyhocks and fragrant southern wood, and waited in the sunny sitting room, like one in a pleasant dream, for her dinner.

Her uncle and his adopted son had gone to make sure that their beautiful carriage horses would receive the best of care.

Suddenly the wind blown boughs of the door yard cherry tree parted, and let a shaft of sunshine upon the diamond paned of the window, and Leslie saw writing there, and rose to read it.

Scattered by a diamond were the names "Adrian Airlie" and "Aida Darrell," and a date was added.

The room reeled around, but the evidence was before her eyes. Her host—a garrulous, common place little man—strolled into the room and observed her occupation.

"Wonder if the gentleman'll remember when he wrote them names. Lemme see; 't was nigh three years ago. I knew him the moment I laid my eyes on him. I'm powerful good at recollectin' faces. You're not like the other one. She was smaller an' fairer, though not any better lookin'." 'Twas a diamond ring he writ 'em with—a mighty fine one."

Two shadows had paused in the doorway, as Leslie turned.

You would not have known the girl she was so white and stern.

"Your name—was it Adrian Airlie?" she demanded.

No answer; but there was guilt in the man's face.

"Yes," said her uncle, "his name was Airlie before he took mine."

For one little moment Leslie looked into the shallow shrinking black eyes. Then she turned away disdainful as a princess, and drew out her watch.

"Will you take me to the station in time for the train, Mr. Mudge? Yes, dear uncle, I must return home. No persuasion would induce me to stay here!"

One evening John Maddern strolled sadly into the garden of lilies. A tall girl rose up from a rustic chair.

"John!" she cried gladly.

Soon they were walking arm-in-arm under the locusts in the twilight.

"I never told you, John, but my sister Aida died of a broken heart. Long ago when my mother was estranged from her parents because she married against their will, we lost father and mother, and were left unprotected for."

"Aida was but sixteen. She went into a rich family in New Hampshire as governess, while I was tossed from pillar to post by indifferent friends—a troublesome little imp, they said."

"It was up there that Aida met Adrian Airlie. She was very pretty then, when in health. They were betrothed. She wore his diamond ring. Poor Aida! so lonely, so loving!"

"He was only amusing himself. He left her to break her heart. Grandma did not know when she found us and brought us home at grandpa's death. She needed us as much as we needed her. She had a fine house in the city, but she brought Aida here, seeing her so delicate."

"No, she never knew! Aida wrote it all out in a letter, and left it for me. Oh, I cannot tell you how I have wept over that letter. He was all her world, and she hoped so that he would come back to her."

"I can understand how bright he made life for her for a little while, and then he left her—nothing. Aida would have lived to be happy, but for his selfishness and cruelty. When I think that I might have loved him, it seems as if I should die of shame!"

"Don't blame me too much, dear. I have not seen a great deal of men, and this one had more charms than any other I ever met. Yet to-day I hate him—hate to the core a nature all selfishness and insincerity!"

"Thank God, I found out before too late! John, if I have given you any pain, will you forgive me?"

And John Maddern knew that the girl that he took into his arms was all his own.

"Hog" is defined by The Cedar Rapids Republican as "only an abbreviation for condensed corn."

It is estimated that 200,000 tons of beet sugar will be consumed in this country during the coming year.

Mr. John Gould remarks that it is better to buy a good animal with a poor pedigree than a poor animal with a good pedigree.

In counting railroad freights, the charge is generally by the ton. Thirty-three and one-third bushels of wheat, or 35 2-3 bushels of corn, make a ton.

"Too much style" is said by the Lansing Republican to have cost a schoolmistress her position at Yankee Springs, Mich. "She was dismissed because she would not eat fat pork."

The discomfiture and helplessness of the Washburn & Moen barbed wire sharks shows what the people can do with a monopoly if they set about it.—Western Rural.

A Dakota correspondent says flax is a paying crop there; that farmers must give more attention to stock and less to wheat; and, "hard times have caused a stay in the advancing prices of lands."

Pray look to the cellars. Decaying apples, pumpkins, potatoes, cabbages, turnips and the like are thought to be the causes of malignant fevers, diphtheria and the like.

The Saginaw Courier is "confident that the era of wholesale land robbery has nearly ended." "Good reason why," comments the Philadelphia Record, "the wholesale land has nearly ended too."

The barbed wire monopoly is approaching its end through the lapsing of patents.

The United States produces forty-eight bushels of cereals for each person, as against the raising of eleven bushels for each person in Great Britain and Ireland.

In looking about for help the coming season, bear in mind that poor workmen are apt to ask as big wages as good ones, although they may be not worth half as much. Discriminate between the two classes, and pay according to actual worth.

It is generally best to cut all the wood wanted for each year's fuel from one division of the woodlot, cutting everything close, and protecting the sprouts from cattle. All will then grow up together, thickly, trim and straight. The less valuable can be checked by sprouting off in August. In about fifteen years there will be a strong growth again, fit for many uses.

There is nothing that farming so much needs as more brains and brain-work in studying the necessities and capabilities of the farm, and in systematically planning its work, and then tenacity in intelligently working out these plans. Thought, system and persistency are the foundation pillars of successful farming!

We quote the following remedy for chapped hands from The Boston Journal of Chemistry for J. H.: Eight ounces glycerine, two ounces water, one of starch, one of arnica tincture. Heat the glycerine water and starch until it becomes a transparent mass. When nearly cool add the tincture of arnica, and perfume with oil of rose. If desired, it can be colored with tincture of alkanet.

At a meeting in Canada a speaker asked what crop the farmers of the country considered to be the hardest on the land, whereupon the Toronto Globe says, "there were cries of Oats from all parts of the house." Mr. Mills asked if it was not a fact that farmers generally sowed oats at the end of a rotation on land that would not produce other cereal crops; and if it were not true that oats would thrive where most other crops would not. He said it was perhaps true that oats were harder on land than wheat, but not so much so as was generally supposed."

Cookery.

ORANGE PIE.—Grated rind and juice of two oranges, four eggs—save whites for frosting—one cup of sugar, one tablespoon of milk, one teaspoon of cornstarch, butter the size of an egg.

ROAST SPARE-RIB.—Take a nice spare-rib with part of the tenderloin left in; season with salt and a little pepper, sprinkle with sage or summer savory; put it in a pan with a little water; baste often and roast until nicely browned and thoroughly well done.

ROAST LEG OF PORK.—Cut a slit near the knuckle and fill the space with sage and onion, chopped fine, and seasoned with pepper and salt, with or without bread crumbs. Rub sweet oil on the skin to prevent blistering and make the crackling crisp; the rind may be scored about once in half an inch. If the leg weighs seven pounds it will require three hours roasting. Serve with apple sauce.

PREPARING TRIPE.—First have the tripe washed very clean; have ready a kettle of boiling water, cut the tripe up in small pieces, dip for one or two minutes into the boiling water one piece at a time, take out and scrape with a knife. Put a board into the sink so it will be inclined, on which to scrape the tripe. It is very quickly done in this way.

For a good, hot, bread cake, take two tablespoonfuls of Indian meal, two of molasses, one not at all heaping, one of soda, one and a half teaspoons of buttermilk, a good pinch of salt; thicken this until it is about like a thick paste with rye flour; bake in moderate oven for thirty-five minutes. Another way, both recommended by an excellent authority, is to start with a pint of wheat-bread sponge. Mix with this two quarts of Indian meal and water enough to wet it; then stir in half a pint of wheat flour and a tablespoonful of salt; let this rise, then knead it well and put it in tins; when light bake it for an hour and a half.

The Application of Method.

Method is the oil that makes the wheels of the domestic machine run easily. The master and mistress of a house who desire order, must insist on the application of method to every branch and department of household work. To be well done, a thing must be done at the proper time and in the proper way. There must be a time and a place for everything, and everything must be in its proper time and place. Nothing is more fatal to home comfort than the habit of dawdling, of lingering over a little task in a desultory and indolent spirit, of going from one bit of work to another, and finishing neither. Example is better than precept; and if the rulers of the household display a vigorously active spirit, all who serve under them will be animated by it.

House Plants.

Dryness of the air is the chief obstacle to successful window gardening. Plants succeed much better in the kitchen than in the parlors, as the air is charged with moisture from the cooking, etc. If the house is heated by a furnace, there should be a pan for evaporating water in the furnace, kept well supplied. If stoves are used, keep vessels of water on them. Dust is injurious to plants. Much may be prevented from settling on the leaves by covering the plants with a light fabric whenever the rooms are swept. All smooth-leaved plants, like the ivy, camellias, etc., should have a weekly washing with a damp sponge. The others may be placed in a sink or bathtub, and given a thorough showering. Water should be given as needed, whether daily or weekly. Do not water until the soil is somewhat dry. Keeping the earth constantly wet soon makes unhealthy plants. Let the water be of the same temperature as the room. Hanging plants dry out rapidly. Plunge the pots or baskets in a pail or tub of water, and after they have ceased to drip return them to their places. The so-called green fly or plant louse is easily killed by tobacco water. Apply this when of the color of weak tea. Red spider is very minute and works on the lower side of the leaves. When these turn brown the spiders may be suspected. Give frequent showers, laying the pot on the side, and apply water with the syringe. Scale insects and mealy bug are best treated by hand-picking before they become numerous. Chrysanthemums, when through flowering, should have the stems cut away and the pots of roots taken to the cellar. The pots of bulbs which were placed in the cellar or in a pit for roots to form may be brought to the window and as they grow give an abundance of water. If needed, support the heavy flower spikes of hyacinths by a small stake.

The Marriage Life.

The marriage life, says Sir Richard Steele, is always an insipid, a vexatious or a happy condition. The first is when two people of no genius or taste for themselves meet, upon such a settlement as has been thought reasonable by parents and conveyancers, from an exact valuation of the land and cash of both parties. In this case the young lady's person is no more regarded than the house and improvements in purchase of an estate, but she goes with her fortune rather than her fortune with her. These make up the crowd or vulgar of the rich, and fill up the lumber of the human race, without benevolence toward those below them or respect to those above them.

The vexatious life arises from a conjunction of two people of quick taste and resentment, put together for reasons well known to their friends, in which especial care is taken to avoid (what they think) the chief evils poverty, and insure to them riches, with every evil besides. These good people live in a constant restraint before company and too great familiarity alone. When they are within observation they fret at each other's carriage and behavior; when alone they revile each other's person and conduct.

The happy marriage is where two persons meet and voluntarily make choice of each other without principally regarding or neglecting the circumstances of fortune or beauty. These may still live in spite of adversity or sickness; the former we may in some measure defend ourselves from; the other is the portion of our very make.

How to Cook Beef so it Will Keep Until July.

My plan is to cut my beef into suitable pieces for the cook. Soak all bloody pieces over night in cold water. For 100 pounds of beef I make a brine of eight gallons of water, four quarts rock salt, four pounds brown sugar, one large spoonful saltpeter. Boil, skim and cool; sprinkle a little salt in the bottom of the barrel; pack the beef edge-wise (but not too tight) sprinkle a little salt and sugar over each layer of beef and turn the cold brine on it. If you do not take from it often give the barrel a shake once a week, as that will keep the brine from becoming stagnant. If any scum should arise remove it before you remove the weight or disturb the beef. In the month of May remove the beef, scald and skim as before, and repack with rock salt and sugar. If you draw from it often enough to keep the brine wall stirred up, you will have as mellow, sweet beef at the end of fifteen months as the first week.

For Fair Reform.

Mr. J. W. Newcomb, Kenton, Ohio, uses very plain language in a column and a half of The Farmer, apropos of the annual fair of that State, a subject which is still discussed in the local papers. To say nothing of the saloon business; the licensed boarding-house appears to have been kept "for the privilege of fleecing the public;" at least one of the side-shows was little short of obscene, and on the whole the management was "all wrong." Instead of "promoting husbandry and kindred interests" the exhibition "seems to be the source of evil, and that continually, and few mitigating circumstances. It is the headquarters of roughs, gamblers, pickpockets, confidence men and all who live by their wits from the hard earnings of—well, let me say, fools. Why are they suffered to cumber the grounds, making a Babel of confusion? The fair was not instituted for any such purpose. For a consideration the board licenses them to ply their trade, which is plunder. If the quiet farmers cannot meet and interchange views without being crowded and hustled and their rights invaded, let them stay at home."

The closing sentence of the above suggests the remedy for such condition, if no other is within reach. Let self-respecting farmers, who value the future of their children, and all right-thinking people, refuse to countenance such exhibitions, either in Ohio or any other State, by keeping away from them.

Tobacco Growing in Wisconsin.

From the Country Gentleman.

Few persons have any idea of the huge proportions of the tobacco interests in this portion of Wisconsin. A few years ago the tobacco crop was confined to a very circumscribed locality; now it is an overspreading, constantly increasing crop. A few years ago the revenue was comparatively insignificant, benefiting a few individuals only; now tobacco is the staple crop of this portion of Wisconsin. The 1884 crop was about 7,000 acres, for which we will, in round numbers, receive $2,500,000. The tobacco warehouses in Janesville, and Edgerton, fourteen miles west, built in the past three years, will aggregate $100,000. Besides the warehouses, there have been innumerable tobacco sheds erected on the various tobacco plantations in the neighborhood. The crop of 1884 is nearly all sold; quite a large amount has been already shipped. Most of the crop was cured in good condition, some of the slovens being the only ones who brought ill-conditioned tobacco to market.

Curing Hams and Bacon.

Mr. William Crozier's method of curing hams and bacon is as follows: When the meat has been properly cut up it is well rubbed with salt and left on the benches to drain for 24 hours. This removes the moisture from it. Seven-and-one-half pounds of salt, two-and-one-half pounds of brown sugar, and four ounces of salt-peter, are then put in as much water as will dissolve them completely, and two ounces of Cayenne pepper are added. The liquid is boiled a few minutes, skimmed, and set aside to cool. Meanwhile the meat is rubbed with a dry mixture of the same, and is closely packed in the barrels or tubs, and the pickle is poured over it until it is covered. In six weeks it is cured and ready for smoking. It is smoked with hickory brush-wood or corn-cobs, or both, one hour a day for ten days. The fire is made outside of the smoke-house, and the smoke is carried in by a flue, so that it is cooled and does not warm the meat. After ten days the meat is rubbed with pepper and is ready for sale, or, if to be kept, should be packed in close boxes with wheat chaff or cut straw, and kept in a dry, cool place.

Judge Thomas M. Cooley, for twenty years on the Supreme bench of Michigan, and a well-known writer on legal topics, will retire from the bench at the close of the present year, when his term expires. There is a very general disposition among the legal fraternity and leading men of parties to secure Judge Cooley's renomination by both parties, but he now positively declines to serve longer.

THE HERALD.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1885.

COMMUNICATED.

The school district board of No. 3 Chelsea, gave notice at a special meeting called May 8th, that, owing to the largely increased membership of our school, it became necessary to provide more room, which seems almost indispensable. Besides the inconvenience of a crowded house, it is rendered more unhealthy, and some departments, I learn, are overtaxed with pupils, an evil which arises out of the want of more room, and in this case the teachers fail to do justice to their pupils, and a general complaint ensues to the disadvantage of the school, also they berate the teacher for neglect of duty, which seems on their part unavoidable. Not that I wish to uphold any special favors, but I see the necessity of a good school, with plenty of room, which every citizen should feel in duty bound to support. The daily attendance over-runs the seating capacity in the primary department 43, and in a graded school it is improbable for the lower grades to mingle with the higher. But it is not this department alone which needs more room; the whole house is short. Now, the board want $2500 to build a wing on the north side of the main building, and new roof the old part and erect a suitable belfry, adding taste, order and convenience to the whole superstructure. I do not wish to pay my building tax for costly and elaborate fixtures, but for a substantial and roomy structure which looks advisable and economical. Neither do I wish to pay money for small, temporary wooden buildings for school purposes, located at the central point of our school district. If we must have them, build them out where they will accommodate small scholars who have long distances to walk. The voters of this district responded to call, but failed to accomplish either proposition presented by the board, but I do think that the people of Chelsea are willing to appropriate means when they see the necessity of the case for a substantial structure; and let us have it by duplicating the south wing. Those who see fit to oppose this proposition have framed the excuse that the old building is unsafe (which I fail to see). If this is a fact, tear it down and build up one that is safe as soon as possible. We need a good house to educate our four hundred children of the rising generation, for we leave in their hands a trust—the administration of one of the best governments in the world, a confidence of a special reliance in their supposed honesty. This government was sustained by the district school-house, through one of the greatest struggles for existence that ever befell the lot of any nation. The intelligence that came through the school house gave stability to our cause which saved the Union.
