DEATH THE DECREE.

In view of the facts presented by the record, the finding is that the defendants were engaged in a common conspiracy; that that conspiracy was for the purpose of overthrowing the law; that the meeting was called to further that conspiracy, and the bomb-throwing was the result of it: that Officer Degan died from wounds received from the explosion of the bomb. Held, that the defendants are guilty of murder as accessories before the fact. "In this case the court orders that the sentence of the criminal court of Cook County on the defendants in the indictment of August Spies, Michael Schwab, Samuel Fielden, Albert R. The Anarchists have now only fifteen days to file a motion for a rehearand thirty from the close of term to file a petition in support thereof. This will act as a stay of sentence, and they will have to show very strong grounds before the court will consent to saue a stay of execution until a rehearing can be had next term. In fact, it is almost certain that the motion for a rehearing will be denied. THE DECISION.

The following is an abstract of the decision, which is too lengthy for reproduction in its entirety: The crime charged is the throwing of a dynamite bomb on the evening of May 4, 1881, at a meeting held in Haymarket square, corner of Randolph and Desplaines streets, Cnicago, when seven policemen were killed and a number more injured. It is undisputed that the bomb was thrown, and that it was the cause of Degan's death, but there is not evidence to show that any one of the defendants had a hand in throwing it. It is conceded that no one of them actually committed the deed. The charge is that they were accessories before the fact.

There are sixty-nine counts in the indict-Some of the counts charge that the eight defendants above named, being present, abetted and assisted in the throwing of the bomb; others, that, not being present, aiding, betting or assisting, they advised, encourage 1, aided and abetted such throwing. Some of the counts charge that said defendants advised, encouraged, aided and abetted one Rudolph Schnaubelt in the perpetration of the crime; thers, that they advised, enco and abetted an unknown person in the perpetration thereof.

The statute on this subject reads: *Sec. 2. An accessory is he who stands by and aids, abets or assists, or who, not being | fused interviews of any kind or length. present, aiding, abetting, or assisting, hath adrised, encouraged, aided or abetted the perpetration of the crime. He who thus aids, abets, assists, advises or encourages, shall be considered a principal and punished accordingly.

Miss Van Zandt remained at the mitted within or without this State by his aid jail until nearly five o'clock, and looked very or procurement in this State, may be indicted much dejected. Mrs. Lucy Parsons came in and convicted at the same time as the princias usual and sat talking with her pal, or before or after his conviction, and husband during the hour and a half of his whether the principal is convicted or amenable exercising hours. A few minutes after five to justice or not, and punished as principal." In consideration of this statute the court asks the questions:

locked up in their cells, and the death Did the defendants have a common purpose watch, which has been kept up ever since or design to advise, encourage, aid or abot the their conviction, was resumed, but with much greater vigilence than before. Mrs. murder of the police? Did they combine together and with others Parsons, in a talk with a reporter, said: with a view to carrying that purpose or design into effect? Did they, or either or any of them, do such acts or make such declaration in furtherance of the common purpose or design as did actually have the effect of encouraging, aiding or abetting the crime in question?

The questions are based on the propositions of law as laid down by the court and sustained by previous decisions in this and other States. The premises are held that if the defendants advised, encouraged, aided or abetted the killing of Degan they are as guilty as though they took his life with their own hands. If any of them stood by and aided, abetted or assisted in the throwing of the bomb, those of them who did so are as guilty as though they threw it themselves.

Joined to this is the charge that the defendants formed a common purpose and were united in a common design to aid and encourage the murder of the policemen among whom the bomb was thrown. If they combined to accomplish such murder by concerted action the ordinary law of conspiracy is applicable, and the acts and deciarations of one of them, done in furtherance of the common design, are, in contemplation of law, the acts and declarations of all. This prosecution, however, is not for conspiracy as a substantive crime. Proof of conspiracy is only proper so far as it may tend to show a common design to encourage the murder charged against the prisoners. It may be introduced for the purpose of establishing the position of the members of the combination as accessories to the crime of murder.

Also the statute abolishes the distinction be tween accessories before the fact and principals. By it all accessories before the fact are made principals. As the acts of the principal are thus made the acts of the accessory, the latter may be charged as having done the acts himself, and may be indicted and punished ac-

First, there was at that time existing in hicago an organization of Socialists or An archists whose purpose was the overthrow of all laws which were enacted for the protection of private property. The evidence also shows that the speet ng of provincial government, which will, it is exat wh ch all of the defendants took part; that the call for the meeting, the word "ruhe," was printed in two newspapers which some of the defendants controlled; that at that meeting defendants controlled: that at that meeting when a speaker said "We are peaceable," he used the word "ruhe," which was the signal for the bomb-throwing, and immediately the bomb was thrown.

It is held that the police were right in their presence at the meeting. The times were troublous, strikes were everywhere. There had been trouble at McCormick's the day before, and the circulars which called the meeting were threatening in their character. Hence it was the duty of the police to be on hand to protect the peace and to break up the meeting. Which was not an orderly one. Northern Pacific Affairs.

The President was not allowed to sleep late yesterday morning, for the day was packed full of incidents for him and he had to start out betimes. His escort, the First City troop of cavalry, under Captain Grubb, reached the Lafayette Hotel long before nine o'clock, and in a few moments the Commit-tee of the Commercial Exchange drove up in barouches and paid their respects to the President, Chairman Thomas M. Thompson and B. K. Jamieson were already there and in a few moments Mr. Cleveland was ready for his first public duty of the day-the reception at the Commercial Exchange. It is well that we should not entirely forget in the midst of our centennial jubilee that the aim and purpose of good government tend, after all, to the advancement of the material interests of the people and the increase of their trade and commerce. The thought has sometimes occurred to me that in the hurry and rush of business there might well be infused a little more patriotism than we are wont to see, and a little more recognition of the fact that a wholesome political sentiment is closely related not only to the general good, but to the general success of business. Of course our citizens engaged in business are quick to see the bearing of the policy which the Government may adopt, as it affects their personal success and their accumulation. After a hearty round of applause he delivered an appropriate address, his remarks being interrupted with many demonstrations of appreciation. Mr. Kasson was followed by the President, who spoke as follows: "I deem it a very great honor and pleasure to participate in these impressive exercises. Every American citizen should on this centennial day rejoice in his citizenship. He will not find the cause of his rejoicing in the antiquity of his country, for among the nations of the earth he stands with the youngest. He will not find it in the glitter and the pomp that bedeck a monarch and dazzle abject and servile subjects, for in his country the people themselves are rulers. He will not find it in the story of bloody foreign conquests, for his Government had been content to care for its own domain and people. He should rejoice because the work of framing our constitution was completed 100 years ago to-day, and also because when completed it established a free Government. He should rejoice because this Constitution and Government have survived so long, and also because they have survived with so many blessings, and have demonstrated so fully the strength and value of popular rule. He should rejoice in the wor drous growth and achievements of the past 100 years, and also in the glorious promise of the constitution through centuries to come. We shall fail to be duly thankful for all that was done for us one hundred years ago, unless we realize the difficulties of the work then in hand and the dangers avoided in the task of forming 'a more perfect union' between disjointed and inharmonious States, with interests and opinions radically diverse and stubbornly main-

"It is related that upon the back of the chair occupied by Washington as the president of the convention a sun was painted, and that as the delegates were signing the completed constitution, one of them said: 'I have often and often in the course of the session, and in the solicitude of my hopes and fears as to its issue, looked at that behind the President without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting. But now, at length, I know that it is a rising, and not a setting sun.' We stand to-day on the spot where this rising sun emerged from political night and darkness, and in its own bright meridian light we mark its glorious way. Clouds have sometimes obscured its rays and dreadful storms have made us fear; but God has held it in its course, and through its life-giving warmth has performed his latest miracle in the creation of this wondrous land and people.

"As we look down th origin of our Constitution, as we contemplate its trials and its triumphs; as we realize how completely the principles upon which it is based have met every National peril and every National need, how devoutly should we confess with Franklin, 'God governs in the affairs of men, and how solemn should the center of its columns twenty-one of the | be the reflection that to our hands is committed this ark of the people's covenant, and that ours is They were a mass of tattered and torn | the duty to shield it from implous hands. We receive it sealed with the tests of a century. It has been found sufficient in the past, and in all the future years, it will be found sufficient, if the American people are true to their sacred trust. Another centennial day will come, and millions yet unborn will inquire concerning our stewardship and the safety of their constitution. God grant men in line to walk facing that they may find it unimpaired; and, as we rejoice in the patriotism and devotion of those who lived a hundred years ago, so may others who follow us rejoice in our fidelity, and in our jealous love for constitutional liberty."

The President concluded his remarks at 12:05, and on taking his seat was greeted with a tremendous roar of applause. In the middle of the cheers the cherus broke into a song, and for a few minutes the noise was simply deafening. When quiet had been restored United States Supreme Court Justice Miller stepped to the front of the stand, and facing the assembled dignitaries began the delivery of his oration. He held his audience spellbound, and was followed with rapt attention. He described briefly the work of forming the constitution and the objections made to the drawing up of the instrument. He also touched on the mode of selecting United States Senators. He closed his address with the recitation of

One of the most elaborate receptions which ever took place in this vicinity was given Saturday by George W. Childs and wife to Mrs. Cleveland. Several hundred guests, comprising the elite of the Quaker City, were invited by the great philanthropist to meet the lady of the White House at his country "Wooten," near Bryn Mawr station, on the Pennsylvania railroad. The highly enjoyable visit at "Wooten" was cut short by pressing engagements. Great regret was expressed on account of the President's inability to attend the reception, but the city engagements would not

aza Deals in Wheat - The Nevads Bank's Tremendous Losses-Estimated

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—A complete analysis of the statements filed by Dresbach and Rosenfeld show that the losses of the wheat deal are about $2,500,000 over the estimate. In Europe the loss is over $5, 000,000 on cargoes afloat, and loading over $3,750,000, on purchased cargoes $70,000, on call board contracts $1,250,000, making a total of $10,000,000.

The Nevada Bank's loss for this year may be set down at $12,000,000, while authoritative statements are that the result of their three years' operations in wheat will reach at least $15,000,000.

A DAY OF DISASTER.

Two Trains Collide in a Fog Near Du-buque, Ia.—Five Men Killed—Trainmen Badly Injured by the Explosion of Sev-eral Car-Loads of Dynamite in Pennsylvania—Three Persons Drowned in Lake Geneva, Wis.—Other Fatal Occur-

DEATH IN A FOG. Dusuque, Ia., Sept. 20.—A horrible accident on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, twelve miles north of this city, took place about half-past five yesterday morning. The north and south-bound passenger trains collided at full speed. Five persons were killed outright and many in-

A later dispatch gives the following list of killed: Charles Fales, of Dubuque, engineer of south ern-bound train; instantly killed. Arn Rich-mond, his fireman; also killed outright. Elmer Winchester, of Dubuque, engineer north-bound train, was living when picked out of wreck, with left leg cut off, right leg broken, skull broken and face horribly mutilated. He was conveyed home, where he died a few minutes later. Cummings, of Dubuque, fireman on chester's engine, had both legs broken and head horribly mangled; he died about noon, John Penerty, Milwaukee, brakeman, instantly

Among the injured are: J. O'Brien, Dubuque, express messenger on south-bound train; injured in groin and hip. recovery doubtful. Robert Mumma, brakeman; injured nally, possibly seriously. Richard Wright, Holy Cross, passenger on south-bound train, badly injured in spine, shoulders, right thigh, and ankle. M. L. Sweeney, Holey Cross, passenger, hand in-James Hurley and R. T, Nicholson, mail agents on the north-bound train were attending to their duties when the collision occurred. Their car was thrown down a steep embankment and landed on the side, followed by the tender of the engine. The car was crushed into splinters, but both Hurley and Nicholson escaped with few bruises. The scene at the wreck is appalling. The wonder is how the passengers escaped un-hurt. Both engines are a total wreck. The combination smoking and gage-car on the south-bound sengers were in the day coach, but fortunately none in the smoking apartment of the combination car. A brakeman in the baggage-car was instantly killed. The occupants of the sleeping-car were unhurt. Both trains were lightly loaded or the loss of life would have been greater. Conductor Wolcott was in charge of the north-bound train and Conductor Clark of the south-bound train; both escaped unhurt.

The trains collided without the least warning. A heavy fog obscured the vision of the engineers, and as the road curved about the high bluffs along the river bank the whistle, if sounded, could not be heard. The collision occurred before the air-brakes could be set, and the occupants of the cabs literally broken into fragments. The loss to the railroad company on rolling stock will fall short of $100, 000, besides liability to the injured and relatives of the unfortunate employes.

The accident is believed to be due to the carelessness of the train dispatcher at La-Crosse and the policy of the railroad company. As a matter of economy no night operators are employed at the stations between Dubuque and LaCrosse. Conductor Wolcott, of the north-bound train, was late in leaving Dubuque and thought it prudent to wait for the south-bound train, instead of pulling out and passing it at Peru station, about seven miles north, as was customary. He and Engineer Winchester both refused to move on the first Crosse, as the south-bound train was nearly due. The absence of night operators rendered it impossible at this early hour to locate this train. The second order from the dispatcher was imperative, and the train started, only to meet with death and destruction two miles up the road.

FOUR CAR-LOADS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODE. WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 20.-Two freighttrains collided on the northern branch of the Pennsylvania railroad Saturday night, and four box-cars loaded with giant powder exploded, wrecking about twenty-five cars, which afterwards caught fire and with their contents were consumed. Three brakemen were hurt. The money loss is $100,000. The accident is attributed to the fault of the train dispatcher.

FATAL WRECK ON THE FORT WAYNE ROAD. CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 20.-The first section of a freight train on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago railroad broke down near Forest at four a. m. yesterday, and the second section collided with it. John Bough, fireman of the second section, was killed. Several cars of oil in the second section caught fire and soon the entire forepart of the train was wrapped in flames. While the trainmen were trying to subdue the fire a car loaded with dynamite exploded with terrible violence, destroying several cars, tearing up the track, and injuring Engineer Lyons of the second section and a tramp named George Smith.

It is easily kept clean, for the dirt lies on top and can be brushed off instead of becoming ground into the fabric, as is the case with carpets. As it grows dingy it may be freshensd by wiping it with a cloth dampened in salt and LEMONADE, manufactured out of sound lemons, well squeezed, clear, cool water, with ice in it if needed, and plenty of granulated sugar, is about as delicious a beverage on a hot day or night as the genius of mankind has yet designed. Nothing is better in winter than the same mixture taken warm or as nearly hot as the thirsty sufferer can stand it, especially if troubled with a bad cold. The lemon is the prince of acid fruits, and deserves the highest respect of all classes.

FOR a quick filter, take a clear piece of chamois skin, free from thin places, cut it of the desired length, wash it in a weak solution of sal soda or any alkalı to remove the grease, and rinse thoroughly in cold water before using. Tinctures, elixirs, syrups, and even mucilages, are, says a writer in Druggists' Circular, filtered rapidly. A pint of the thickest syrup will run through in four or five minutes. By washing thoroughly after each time of using it will last a long time.

Sometimes the lamp-wick obstinately refuses to be turned up in an orderly manner It will seem firmly wedged at one side, while the other runs up in a point, causing weariness and vexation of spirit. To overcome this depravity take a new wick, draw out a single thread near the selvage, and the wick will be found quite tractable when introduced into the burner. The cogs will take it up properly, and it will appear in good form and give an even flame when lighted.

A Prominent Merchant in Trouble. Old moneybags mopes in his office all day,
As snappish and cross as a bear;
The clerks know enough to keep out of his way,
Lest the merchant should grumble and swear,
Even Tabby, the cat, is in fear of a culf,
Or a kick, if she ventures too near;
They all know the master is apt to be rough,
And his freaks unexpected and queer.

What makes the old fellow so surly and grim,
And behave so confoundedly mean?
There's certainly something the matter with him—
Is it stomach, or liver, or spleen?
We've guessed it—his liver-is sluggish and bad,
His blood is disordered and foul.
It's enough to make any one hopelessly mad,
And greet his best friend with a grow!.
The ground-wide remedy. Dr. Pierce's

What It Means. To the man or woman who has never been ill, the word "health" is meaning-less. But to the one who has suffered and despaired, health appears as a priceless boon. To the thousands of unfortunate women, who are suffering from some of the many forms of weaknesses or larities peculiar to their sex, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy restoration of this "priceless boon."

Constantly Mawking and Spitting." THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

ELI ROBBINS, Runuan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and wound and hearty."

What is Death?

BY JAMES MC LAREN.

A dark impenetrable shade,

To anxious mortals has been made. If it be all of death to die, The breath to cease the heart to still, In endless sleep to ever lie,

Or if it be again to live We lay this mortal body down, A spirit body to receive, With reason as immortal crown.

If death be an eternal night Without one ray of hope to cheer, If we no more shall see the light

If death has nothing more to give, If we are only born to die,

Of love and friendship cherished here.

Why were we ever caused to live? And darkness that surrounds us here Beyond the portals of the tomb

All clouds and doubts will disappear. A land that's free from care and pain, Where friendship's ties shall break no more Then we shall not have lived in vain.
