Stephen W. Rawson has long been a prom inent figure in Chicago. The president of a leading bank, a prominent factor in business affairs, member of a fashionable club, a pillar in the Presbyterian church, he took a high stand both in social and mercantile circles. His second wife died a few years ago. In March, 1886, he married Mrs America Lee, an engaging brunette, 33 years of age. She was originally a Miss America Smith, born in New Orleans, and at 17 was a pretty girl, as she is now a handsome woman. At that early age she married a man named Slaymaker, a New Orleans gambler, and William Lee, or more properly William Slay-maker, who did the shooting yesterday, was the fruit of that union. She got a divorce from Slaymaker on the ground of drunkenness, and came North some years afterward to Ohio, marrying a second hus-

As he came from the portals of the sacred edifice he walked to nearly the center of the sidewalk in front and turned to go south. The swarthy youth had stood but a few feet from him, awaiting his coming. As

Mr. Rawson turned to go south the boy followed after, and was very close to him Mr.

Rawson had gone perhaps fifty feet south when the sound of a shot startled the crowd of men, women and children who had gathered from the church to the sidewalk. Mr. Rawson turned partially about, for the shot had been aimed at him and had penetrated his right leg. As he instinctively turned he raised his right hand partially above his head, and a second shot immediately followed. This penetrated his wrist and shattered the bone. The excitement created by the second shot was fearful and threw the women and children into a panic. It seemed as if Mr. Rawson was anxious to get away from his pursuer, for he faced again to the south as if to walk away, when a third shot followed, which penetrated his back, near the spine. He tottered for a moment and then fell, going down on his face. By this time the youth had gotten close to him, and rapidly fired two more shots into the prostrate form. As the fifth shot was fired two

DEATH IN THE FLAMES. CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—During the weekly dance given to the more tractable patients of the Northern Ohio Insane Asylum last night fire broke out and six insane women perished before they could be rescued and three others were terribly injured. As soon as the first excitement had abated the attendants made a courageous rush into the suffocating smoke and rescued all they could of the unfortunates who had been overcome. But for the heroic conduct of the physicians and attendants, who rushed into the blinding smoke and flames and dragged the terror-stricken insane people from the chapel, the loss of life must have been terrible. As it was, the side of the chapel was on fire before all the unfortunates had been removed. The fire started in the laundry, a one-story building, which adjoins the wing in which the chapel is located. The prompt response and active work of the firemen prevented a disastrous spread of the flames, and the loss to property will fall below $25,000. Had the bre occurred on any other night of the week there would have been no loss of life.

THE WRECK AT KOUTS.

Kours, Ind., Oct. 13 .- The body of the unknown woman mentioned in yesterday's dispatches among the ten bodies recovered from the wrecked Chicago & Atlantic train has been identified as that of Bridget Malone, of Westport, Ireland, aged 28 years. The unknown man is supposed to be O. Lindberg. The fatalities will almost certainly be increased by the death of Herman Miller, aged 14 years, who is lying here, and advices from Spencerville, O., say that Dr. J. R. Welch, of that place, received probably fatal internal injuries.

The railroad people claim that only nine people were lost, and Coroner Letheran seemed inclined to accept this estimate, but the charred trunks and one body not mutilated are against them. The chances are that the fatalities exceed the ten certain ones, as the heat was so intensa that bones and all must certainly have been entirely consumed.

The testimony before the coroner here is briefly as follows: J. B. Parks, conductor of the passenger train, testified that the train was nearly two hours late; broke the eccentric strap on the engine between Hurlbut and Boone Grove, and lost fiftyfive minutes; lost half an hour at Boone Grove, stopped for water at Boone Grover; in three minutes the freighttrain, No. 48, struck us on the rear end and telescoped the sleeper into the ladies' car, smoker and baggageoar: the wreck took fire at once; got eighteen passengers out; nine were killed and burned; the semaphore (apparatus for exhibiting signals) was turned when we stopped; did not know the freight train as coming at the rate of twenty miles an hour. J. W. cobs, passenger brakeman, testified that he turned the semaphore; saw Brakeman Cotton going back with the signal light; could not see the headlight of the freight engine until eight or ten car-lengths from us; the train was coming down grade at about twenty-five or thirty miles an hour; assisted in getting the passengers out J. S. P. Cotton, second brakeman on the passenger train, was told by Parks that we had No. 48 and extra No. 48, and to look out; jumped off our train before we stopped at State line ditch tank and ran back to flag the train; the freight called for brakes: was knocked senseless by the passing freight.

John Dorsey, engineer of the freight train, testified that he was fifty-five minutes late at Boone Grove. At Crown Point he was notified to look our for passenger train 12, which had a disabled engine. He approached Hulberts carefully, but did not stop, and the station agent there signaled him to go ahead. It was very |foggy. At Boone Grove the order board was clear. The operator gave him no s'gnal. He did not see the semaphore lights until he ran under them. Then he reversed his engine and met the flagman from train 12. His fireman jumped on him, and witness jumped within three car-lengths of the passenger train. W. H. Willets, fireman of the freight engine, testified that he saw the semaphore lights a train's length before reaching them. E. H. Mattis and John Kilfoyle, o n luctor and brakeman on the treight train, corroborated the other witnesses as to the signals at Hulberts, and it is admitted by the operator there that he gave the signal to go ahead. The other trainmen gave substantially the same evidence.

Superintendent Parsons declared las evening that as yet he found not the slightest excuse for blaming any employe. The dense fog and the failure of Engineer Dorsey to see the semaphore lights was the direct cause, but he could see no culpable negligence on the part of any one, Coroner Letheran announced that he might render his verdict at his home in Valparaiso. The coroner has spent se much of his time in the company of railroad officials that the result of h s investigation is anxiously awaited, although nothing else is expected than an exoneration of the railroad management.

FALL TOP-DRESSING.

Its Results Not as Favorable as Those Ob-

I believed in the common theory of fall top-dressing, but a little accidental experience opened my eyes to the fact that top-dressing at other seasons is often far more effective. Between the road and the fence across the front of my house-lot is a strip of land 3 1-2 by 40 rods which, at much labor, I leveled and set in grass-a portion in lawn grasses and the remainder in mowings. Across this a class of people delight in asserting their right to travel during the muddy season, and it is sometimes a good deal cut up. One season when the fall of snow was light it was traveled nearly all winter, and in the spring great ugly ruts were cut the whole length of it, and the prospect for grass seemed very poor indeed. When the road became settled and travel assumed its normal course, I took a spike-tooth harrow and smoothed it down as well as I could, finishing the job with a prong hoe. I then gave it a light dressing with manure from the shed-a good quality of manure-and reseeded it. A part of a load of manure left over was also spread, very lightly, over a part of the plot nearer the fence.

The operation was in every way a success, and I was bountifully repaid for the labor and expense. The season proved dry, and the general grass erop was much shortened, but where that little spring dressing was applied it was full and luxuriant. Of course it was a very small experiment, but it was wonderfully suggestive, and I de-termined to follow it up. I have not wholly abandoned fall or winter dressing, but I have dressed in spring up to the time when the grass had got a good large start. The only difficulty experienced in late spring dressing is in getting the manure well spread. When it is garefully and thoroughly spread, so as to leave no lumps, the effect has always been magical in thickening the bottom growth and imchild, and with fall the comforts of a happy home, it will not distress me nor interfere with my good appetite to tell it.

It was advised by friends to sell the formula to sell the property, move elsewhere and take a property and the comforts of a property, move elsewhere and take a property my wife too sacred to think of any one of more than one hundred and fifty I have in my barn now more than ton of the finest of hay from the application of four loads of manure after disease of the womb. It induces refreshing aleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skiliful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription," is a posistive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chron'o congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inclammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Lite."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgrative Peilets (Littl). happily but too well known. They differ in different individuals to some extent. A Billious man is seldom a breakfast eater. Too frequently, alas, he has an excellent appetite for liquids but none for solids of a morning. His tongue will hardly bear inspection at any time; if it is not white and turred, it is rough, at all events. The digestive system is wholly out of order and diarrhes or constipation may be a symptom or the two may alternate. There are often Hemorrhoids or even loss of blood. There may be giddiness and and tenderness in the pit of the stomach.
