The music was furnished by Prof. Reilly, Mr. Heathly and Miss Klein.

From the handsome girl's head, lithographed in colors, nicely cut out, to the last slip of the pad, Hood's Household Calendar for 1888 is thoroughly artistic. Every month is beautifully engraved, and each slip as torn off presents a new and pleasing combination of color printing. Hood's Calendar easily leads the procession. It is nice enough for any parlor and has so many excellent points in arrangement and convenience that it must be seen to be appreciated. Copies may be obtained at the drug stores, or by sending six cents in stamps to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Tekonsa, Mich., Sept. 10, 1881.
J. D. Kellogg, Dear Sir:—I feel it an obligation to ourselves and others to say that when our little boy had typhoid fever, and at the turning point he commenced sinking, and the restoratives the doctor had left for the occasion did him no good, and he kept sinking, finally we commenced bathing him with your Columbian Oil, he commenced to rally from the very first application, and I am happy to say that he is now in perfect health. For the last four years, we have used it for almost every ailment, and it has given up perfect satisfaction.
Yours very truly,
Mrs. Wm. Howard.

Does anyone remember Jacob Lilly? Just "previous after" the flood, he lived in the township and took the Sentinel. He used to bring in, about these days a load of wood worth .75 to pay a year for the paper, and take .25 in change to pay his taxes. Who humored the man, because he made a regular business transaction of it with as much importance as though a thousand dollars were involved. His annual tax amounted to eleven cents, but one year in some way the assessor, or supervisor, slipped a cog, and 12½ cents stood in formidable array, over against the fair name of Jacob Lilly. As the town treasure announced the sum, Lilly was paralyzed for a moment; then he roared out, what in h—ll, raised the taxes so? Jacob long since went to rest, "to be taxed no more forever," but the taxes keep raising.—Ypsilanti Sentinel.

WHAT HE LEFT.

'Twas 'bout 10 a. m. when he came into our store. Kid'n wasn't very good, so walked. Been want'n a watch sometime. He loved he needed shoes too, but hadn't money nuf to get both, 'n he's goin to have a stem windin, silver back-acting, yard-wide; all wool watch, er bust. The neighbors all said fur him to go to Glazier's; he had the best stock and didn't have but one price on em. Common feller could buy a watch of him as cheap as the Prince of Wales, 'n he warrants em, 'n stays by em like er pig to a root, to see that they give satisfaction, 'n he guessed he'd take that huntin case stem winder with that sand-hill crane wader in a puddle of bullrushes. Well he took it and saved enough on the price over what he expected; so that while I fitted the movement in the case he went out and got him a good pair of shoes. He came back smiling and presented me with his old shoes, saying that I had saved him enough on his watch to get him a dogon good pair of shoes, and he proposed to make me a present of his old ones to show his gratitude. The shoes are now on exhibition at my store.

Makes a specialty of Watch Repairing. He does not "tinker up" a watch, but he repairs it. Note the distinction. So many valuable timepieces are ruined by incompetent or stupid jewelers that the owner of a fine Watch should be careful about having it properly repaired. Give us a trial. All work warranted. Forgive, Forget and Remember.

BY JAMES McLAREN.

When to forgive, is from bondage set free; A bondage that's bitter, and vain to endure.

What folly and madness a captive to be, To passion, from which we can freedom secure.

To brood o'er injustice we may have sustained; The nursing of hatred, of envy and strife,

How much more than folly, since naught can be gained? But all must be lost in the peace of our life.

The past forever the past must remain; The good or the evil, we cannot recall. Remember the good, and its blessings retain,

But cast o'er the evil, obliivians fall; Forgive and forget then the faults of a friend,

Remember his virtues, his vices deplore, Think not by neglect, that his faults you may mend,

Or yourself to exalt while you others sink lower. Remember that none how low their degree,

How dark or how sinful a life they've led, But what some bright spot in their heart we may see,

Or of whom some good might in truth not be said. Nor is there a one so saintly and pure,

Whose life so perfect and upright has been At the stern hands of justice could this verdict secure,

Untainted and free from the impress of sin. Then hope not in man we perfection may find;

Since but one who the form of humanity wore, Was perfect, all others imperfect in mind.

Let us walk by the light he is casting before. Let this be the star that shall guide us through life,

Till the light of eternity dawns on our view, When bidding farewell to this world's care and strife,

We may reap the reward to the merciful due. A Thoroughbred Killed.

We copy the following from a recent issue of the Ann Arbor Argus: "The first thoroughbred Holstein Friesian cow ever killed in this county was shown in Laubenguyer's meat market this week. It was one of the cows belonging to Mills Bros. herd and had been imported from North Holland at a cost of $250. The cow was a four year old, named Pyrola, registered in the Holstein herd book as No. 4,315. It weighed 694 pounds dressed and presented a fine looking piece of beef. The fat was very evenly laid on all over the animal and was as it might be termed, marbled in. It made elegant eating and the butcher, Mr. Laubenguyer was very greatly delighted with it. The cow had not been fed any grain, and had been placed on short pasture in the hope of reducing the fat, before it was decided to make beef of her. As this was the first thoroughbred Holstein cow shown on the market in this county, all stock men will be interested in learning of the complete triumph of the Holstein stock, as for the furnishing of good edible beef evenly fattened, juicy and rich, can constitute a triumph. This effectively disproves what has been claimed by some Shorthorn breeders that these cattle are not a good beef producing breed. Their milk producing qualities have been conceded.

A Thoroughbred Killed.

Those who did not hear John R. Clark Tuesday evening, missed a good treat. The cause and the speaker ought to have drawn a crowded house. The W. C. T. U. were not represented, and they may want the G. A. R. to help them again. Mr. Clark is one of the finest word-painters I have ever seen. His privilege to hear. "Hits and Misses" is full of wit and humor and pathos, with English Irish, Scotch and Negroes direct songs, and as you listen you see moral teachings like a golden thread glistens through it all. One hardly realizes the poor waifs, boot-black, news-boy and singer in public houses. "Among the masses" in the great city of London, who now stands before you the eloquent orator and man of eminence.

"Among the masses" in the great city of London, who now stands before you the eloquent orator and man of eminence.

G. A. R. Benefit.

Those who did not hear John R. Clark Tuesday evening, missed a good treat. The cause and the speaker ought to have drawn a crowded house. The W. C. T. U. were not represented, and they may want the G. A. R. to help them again. Mr. Clark is one of the finest word-painters I have ever seen. His privilege to hear. "Hits and Misses" is full of wit and humor and pathos, with English Irish, Scotch and Negroes direct songs, and as you listen you see moral teachings like a golden thread glistens through it all. One hardly realizes the poor waifs, boot-black, news-boy and singer in public houses. "Among the masses" in the great city of London, who now stands before you the eloquent orator and man of eminence.
