THE LEVEE BROKEN.

The Mississippi Breaks It Open and Completely Inundates the Town of Alexander.

ALEXANDER, Mo., May 11.—The Mississippi broke its levee at Alexander Saturday morning the levee south of Alexander, Mo., broke in several places and a vast volume of water began pouring into the town, which was completely inundated. A spasmodic attempt was made to check the flow, but a quit and accepted the inevitable. It required less than an hour to inundate the town, which is covered with water from two to six feet. The water having reached the lower half of the houses their occupants have sought refuge in the upper stories of buildings, where they will be imprisoned until the subsidence of the flood in the main streets. The water is fully three feet deep. The people are compelled to go about in skiffs or rudely constructed rafts. Sidewalks are overflowed and skiffs are landed in the doorways of private residences. Business is entirely suspended. There has been no loss of life or great damage to property within the levee. At this point the Mississippi river is fully seven miles wide. The area of farming land in the Missouri bottoms that is submerged is estimated at 75,000 acres, and a continuance of the flood, if not checked, will result in a loss to the farming community of advanced rates of about $30,000. A high wind prevailed yesterday, which caused the waves to wash openings in the Warsaw levee, which affords protection to 60,000 acres of fertile Illinois land.

The Distance of the Stars.

The distance of Alpha Centauri may be stated in round numbers to be twenty billions of miles. Now, a billion means a million of millions, so that the distance of Alpha Centauri may be stated to be twenty millions of millions of miles. Let us now try to form some conception, however imperfect, of this amazing distance.

Let us suppose a railway train to leave the earth, traveling day and night at the rate of fifty miles an hour without stoppages. In six months it would reach the moon, in 200 years it would reach the sun, and in 6,000 years it would reach Neptune, the orbit of which forms the extreme known limit of the planetary system. The same train, however, would not reach the star Alpha Centauri in less than 42,000,000 years. One more illustration may be useful. Comets, in general, revolve in very eccentric orbits.

When a comet is in the perihelion of its orbit, it is comparatively near to the earth; on the other hand, when it is at the aphelion it is remote, in many instances very remote, from the earth. For instance, the celebrated comet of 1858, known as Donati's comet, one of the greatest comets of modern times, at the time of its passage of the perihelion, was distant from the sun 50,000,000 miles, but when it had attained the aphelion of its orbit (which will occur in about 1,000 years hereafter) its distance from the earth will not be less than 30,000,000,000 miles. Now, our typical railway train starting from the earth would not reach the aphelion of the orbit of Donati's comet in less than 60,000 year, and yet the aphelion distance of Donati's comet is only one-seventh-hundredth part of the distance from the earth to Alpha Centauri, the nearest of the fixed stars.
