In the library of Dr. Williams, in London, is a copy of the Bible in shorthand. It is exquisitely written, and is said to have belonged to an apprentice of the time of James II., who feared that the Bible was about to be prohibited, and so wrote this copy.

THERE is said to be a great deal of work among the German population of Paris. It appears that the German Aid Society there has, in the course of a few years, sent back to Germany nearly six thousand persons who could not earn a livelihood in the French capital.

THIRTY THOUSAND dollars was voted by Congress the other day for firing morning and evening salutes to the flag, which brings out the curious fact that the powder left over from the war lasted just twenty-three years. The last barrel was used early last spring, since when no salutes have been fired at any military flag except West Point, Fort Monroe and Fort Riley.

BALLOON ascensions near the coast form a hazardous entertainment. Prof. Rogers and his associate, who took an aerial flight from Boston the other evening came down at sea, and, partly submerged, were hauled through the water at railroad speed for several miles. Their rescue from death was more astonishing than their mid-air exhibition. The balloon business is next door neighbor to taking trips through the Niagara river rapids.

THERE is still another Presidential candidate in the field. General A. Servius S. Claiborne, of Boston, has published a manifesto, in which he argues that he is eminently fitted to fill the Executive chair. He says that he and Garibaldi captured an Austrian army of 36,000 men in the war for Italian independence. He further asserts that he is president of a society which has 222,000 members; that he has invented a large number of devices important to the welfare of civilization, and that he has got forty-seven bills through Congress.

AMONG the authorities at Helena, Mo., there is amazement about an applicant who wishes to become a United States citizen. The case is that of Lieutenant-Colonel Leslie Smith, commanding the post at Fort Maginnis, who for thirty years has been an officer of the United States army, drawing the pay and emoluments of his various grades, and who will retire with pay and rank of Colonel in the United States army next May. He has never been entitled to the right of suffrage. This is the only case of its kind known in the United States army.

The new counterfeit five-dollar silver certificate which was recently discovered is thus described by the New York Evening Post: "The face wears a good appearance and is calculated to deceive the ordinary money handler, except that the vignette of Grant is poorly done. The back of the bill is also badly printed. The color is of a slightly different shade of green from the genuine bills, and the printing is blotchy in appearance, so that the most careless observer could scarcely fail to notice it." It is thought these bills are also being circulated in the West.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

POISONED CHEESE.

A Communication Presented to the State Board of Health.

At a meeting of the State Board of Health in Lansing recently Dr. Baker presented a communication concerning about twenty cases of cheese poisoning about May 1st. The symptoms were those usually produced by tyrotoxin. A sample of the cheese was sent to Prof. R. C. Kedzie for analysis, and a letter was read from that gentleman stating that tyrotoxin was present. A letter was presented from a citizen of Branch County complaining that cheese practitioners were driven by the stringent laws of Indiana and other States into the Southern counties of this State, and asking the board to exert its influence to protect the State from charlatans and quacks. A committee, with instructions to draft a proposed bill for presentation to the Legislature, was appointed.

Phenomenon at Marquette.

At seven o'clock the other evening the water in the harbor at Marquette fell twenty-six inches within a few minutes. The fall was so rapid that vessels at anchor were seen to sink. The wind was moderate, and the time and asking the State for a short time before, and it was believed to have been a gigantic water-spout or cyclone, which drove the water before it in such quantities as to cause the strange phenomena.

Electric Light Works Burned.

The other afternoon fire broke out in the Excelsior Electric Light Company's building at Port Huron, containing seven dynamos and a large quantity of electric supplies. The building was saturated with oil and burned rapidly. As the streets were lighted by electric light the city was in darkness for some time. The company also supplied the electric street railway with power, and the cars were stopped temporarily. The loss was estimated at $15,000; insured.

Terrible Sufferings of a Hunter.

Abraham Peterson was hunting in the State for the week ended on the 18th. He was recently with his gun and accidentally discharged, the contents entering his foot and ankle, shattering the bones. He managed to crawl five miles to a road, where he lay for thirty-eight hours before he was discovered. He had had nothing to eat and had driven nearly insane by mosquitoes and flies, and when found was nearly dead. He was taken to the hospital at Marquette, and it was thought he would recover.

A Great Anniversary.

Detroit is the birthplace of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers the order having been organized here August 17, 1833. It will therefore be a quarter of a century old August 17, of the year, and this notable event it is proposed to celebrate in a significant manner. A grand anniversary celebration will be held, in which is expected fully five thousand engineers from all parts of the country will participate.

A Life-Giving Pond.

Mr. Robert Hunt, of Belle River, St. Clair County, lately had well 160 feet deep bored on his farm to supply water for stock, and now it is claimed to be a first-class mineral well, with valuable medicinal properties. Several of his neighbors have, it is said, been cured of chronic diseases, and people from other neighborhoods begin to come with jugs and buckets to be filled with this life-giving liquid from the bowels of the earth, which Mr. Hunt gives freely to all.

A Dastard's Work.

A passenger train on the Grand Trunk railroad was thrown off the track near Detroit by a misplaced switch, the work of an unknown wrecker, for whose arrest a reward of $500 is offered. The fireman of the engine was killed, a lady passenger was seriously injured, and her passengers were badly shaken up.

FULLER WINS.

The Senate, by a Vote of 41 to 30, Confirmed His Nomination to Be Chief Justice of the United States.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—It only required two hours' time in the Senate to consider the nomination of Melville W. Fuller, of Chicago, to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and to confirm it by a vote of 41 to 30. Senator Edmunds (Vt.) opened the opposition by a long and fervent speech, in which he recalled the record of Mr. Fuller in the Illinois Legislature just before and during the early days of the war. He charged Mr. Fuller with being a copperhead and with having voted against the resolution directing the arrest of Vallandigham. He declared that Mr. Fuller's mind was so warped in favor of the State's rights that it would be unnatural to suppose that he did not, even to-day, uphold in a large degree the State's rights, and that it would be dangerous to place such a man in a position as responsible as that of the Chief Justice of the United States.

Senator Edmunds was followed by Senator Everts (N. Y.), who touched upon the common sense spoken of by the Vermont Senator, and then entered into an elaboration of the charge that it was extremely dangerous to place a man in the chair of the Chief Justice who entertained the State's-rights doctrine.

Senator Stewart (Nev.) came in for a strong attack on what he termed the "common sense" record of Mr. Fuller. He declared that the nominee, in a paper read before the Illinois Bar Association, had given his interpretation of the legal value of the various forms of money authorized by the Government, and that he had declared that the backs were a better tender in every form of trade than silver, because greenbacks would always demand of the Government their redemption at their face value, and silver was subject to the constant fluctuations of the market for silver bullion. Senator Stewart charged that one who was only a lawyer in opposition to the popular standard of money value was unfit to occupy the position of Chief Justice of the United States.

Senators Cullom and Farwell (Ill.) alone conducted the defense of the nominee. They spoke of him as a citizen and a lawyer, and gave him a certificate of character which would redound to his credit in any part of the world. Senator Farwell said that if Mr. Fuller had ever been what his enemies had designated as a "copperhead," if he had ever opposed any of the Union measures, it was during his youth, and that his life since the war has demonstrated that he was a loyal and patriotic man who had been tendered a position under his or any previous administration.

At the conclusion of the speeches the yeas and nays were called on the question of confirmation. Although the proceedings were held under a double injunction of secrecy, it was reported that the yeas were 41, and the nays 30.

All of the Democrats present voted for confirmation. The twenty Republicans voting against confirmation were:

Blair, Bowen, Chandler, Dawes, Dolph, Edmunds, Evans, Hawley, Howe, Ingalls, Sherman, Palmer, and Tilden.

The commission of Chief Justice Fuller is expected to issue next week, and he will have an opportunity to take the oath of office immediately after the commission is delivered to him.

Melville Weston Fuller was born in Augusta Me., on February 11, 1833. His father was Frederick A. Fuller, his mother Catherine Martin, daughter of Chief Justice Nathan Weston. He graduated at Harvard in the class of 1853, his classmate being E. Phelps, now Minister to England. Mr. Fuller, after leaving college, began the study of law at Bangor. After studying law in the law department of Harvard University he began the practice of his profession in August in 1856. While waiting for clients he acted as editor of the paper and won his spurs in journalism. He was a faithful adherent to the law, and realizing that his native city did not afford that scope for effort which he stood in need of, Mr. Fuller went to Chicago. There he did not have to wait long for practice. His ability was speedily recognized and properly rewarded. For thirty years he has enjoyed a lucrative practice and has won distinction among the foremost of the Illinois bar. In 1881 he was victorious by large majorities. He was a delegate to the Democratic National conventions of 1864, 1872, 1876 and 1880. In 1880 he was selected by the citizens to deliver the address of welcome to Stephen A. Douglas, in the work of the committee on the part of the Government of the Chicago Convention, and after his decease, Mary Ellen, daughter of the distinguished Chicago banker, William F. Coelhaugh. He has eight daughters. In his practice in the Supreme Court of the United States Mr. Fuller has repeatedly come in contact, both as a colleague and as an opponent, with Messrs. Edmunds, Thurman, Hoar, Ingalls, and other admirably great lawyers, and has never failed to hold his own against the greatest of them.

YELLOW FEVER IN FLORIDA.

An Appeal Made by the Governor for Help from Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Secretary Fairchild has received a telegram from the Governor of Florida asking the assistance of the Government in suppressing the yellow fever which, he says, threatens to become epidemic at Tampa and Manatee. The Secretary had a conference with Surgeon-General Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital Bureau, on the subject, and instructed him to render all possible assistance. He also informed the Governor of Florida by telegram that the necessary steps would be taken by the proper Federal officers to aid the local authorities.

A VICTIM OF REMORSE.

The Physician Who Attended Mr. Mandeville in Tullahoma Prison Committed Suicide.

LUDLOW, July 21.—Dr. James Ridley, the medical officer in attendance at Tullahoma jail during Mr. Mandeville's incarceration there, and who was subpoenaed to appear at the inquest at Michelstown into Mr. Mandeville's death, has committed suicide. Dr. Ridley had been present at the inquest daily, ready to be called to the witness stand. The evidence given to show that Mr. Mandeville was subjected to ill usage while in the jail seemed to prey upon his mind. His suicide confirms the popular belief that Mr. Mandeville was cruelly treated by the prison officials.

CIVIL-SERVICE REFORM.

The President Sends a Message to Congress on the Work of the Commission on the Review and the People's Complaints on the Basis of the Cause Accruing from Recent Legislation.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The President has sent to Congress the following message:

"To the Congress of the United States: Pursuant to the second section of chapter 1 of the laws of 1883, approved August 2, 1883, and to improve the civil-service of the United States, I herewith transmit the fourth report of the United States Civil-Service Commission, covering the period between the 1st of January, 1888, and the 1st day of July, 1887. This report has special reference to the operations of the commission during the period above mentioned. It contains, with its accompanying appendices, much valuable information concerning the inception of Civil-Service reform and its growth and progress, which can not fail to be interesting and instructive to all who desire improvement in the administrative methods of the time. Commencing with the 1st of January, 1883, 15,802 persons were examined for admission in the classified service of the Government in all its branches, of whom 10,746 passed the examination, and 5,056 failed of it. The examination 2,977 were applicants for admission to the departmental service at Washington, 2,847 were examined for admission to the customs service, and 6,822 for the postal service. During the same period 547 appointments were made from the eligible lists to the departmental service, 641 to the customs service, and 5,361 to the postal service. "Concerning the appointments from the classified service, the report only informs us of such as have occurred among employees in the public service who had been appointed from eligible lists under civil service rules. When these rules took effect they did not apply to persons then in the service, comprising a full complement of employees, who obtained their positions independently of the new law. WAITING FOR THE BUGLE.

We wait for the bugle; the night dew is cold, the limbs of the soldier feel faint and old, the field of our bivouac is windy and bare, there is loud in our joints, there is frost in our hair.

'OH! IF I HADN'T.'

A Regret That Came Too Late—A Surgeon's Story.

I was the resident surgeon in hospital, about fifteen years ago. One warm afternoon in August the ambulance surgeon asked permission to go "off duty" for a few hours, as he was not feeling well.

At Forty-seventh street we turned down, in obedience to the directions Frank had received from the door-keeper, and saw at once why we had been summoned.

matron if you will report it at the station, that if her friends inquire about her they will know where she is.

On our arrival at the hospital I set for the matron, and while the orderlies were carefully carrying the man to a bed in the ward I had time to ask her to look after the little one until the superintendent had decided what to do with her.

Just then I saw that our superintendent enter the ward and beckon towards me. I went to see what was wanted, and, drawing me aside, he said: "Do you know who that is?"

"What is he arrested for?" I asked. The superintendent replied: "The officer tells me he has embezzled a large amount from his employers, and is supposed to be trying to escape from the country."

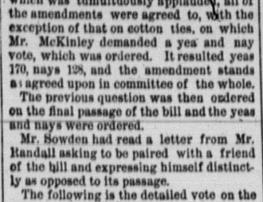

We learned afterward that he had been able to secure a large sum by theft, but had been utterly unstrung by the dread of detection and the loss of self-respect, and so had fallen in the street, to be found by our ambulance.

A love of study or a love of knowledge is of advantage as a means to an end; but in itself it has no more value than a love of money-getting or a love of power.

THE MILLS BILL.

It Passes the Lower House of Congress by a Vote of 191 to 149—A Detailed Statement of the Vote—Brief Synopsis of the Provisions of the Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The Mills bill has passed the House. The vote stood: Yeas, 191; nays, 149. When the Speaker announced the passage of the bill the Democrats broke into cheers and Mr. Boutwell ironically moved to take a recess until the next morning.

ROGER Q. MILLS OF TEXAS.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mills' speech, which was unanimously applauded, all of the amendments were agreed to, with the exception of that on cotton ties, on which Mr. McKinley demanded a yeas and nays vote, which was ordered.

The following is the detailed vote on the passage of the tariff bill:

Yeas: Abbot, Ford, Norwood, Allen, (Miss.), Forney, Oates, Anderson, (Ind.), French, O'Ferrall, Anderson, (Ill.), Gibson, O'Neil, (Ind.), Bacon, (Ill.), Peale, Bankhead, Grimes, Peale, Barnes, Hall, Pennington, Baskin, (Ill.), Peale, Biggs, Hatch, Phidook, Blanchard, Hayes, Ryker, Blount, Richardson, Brooks, (Ky.), Johnson, (N.C.), Browder, Russell, (Mass.), Burnett, (Va.), Sawyer, Burton, Head, Scott, Burton, Johnson, (N.C.), Shaw, Campbell, (O.), Jones, Shively, Campbell, (T.), Kilgore, Smith, Chandler, Lafoon, Smith, Carlton, Logan, Snyder, Carruth, Lamson, Springer, Cato, Lane, Stewart, (Ga.), Chapman, Latham, Stewart, (Ga.), Clements, Lee, Stockdale, Cobb, Lynch, Stone, (Mo), Cochran, Collins, McDonald, Mahoney, Compton, Mahoney, Tarsney, Colman, Mahoney, Thompson, Cal. Damaging Testimony Against the "Q" Conspirators—Wilson, One of the Arrested Men, Proves a Violent Detective—Bowles' Makes His Confession in Open Court.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The preliminary examination of the conspirators against the Burlington road was resumed before Commissioner Hoyne. The first witness was Detective John McGinn, of the Chicago police.

The hearing before Commissioner Hoyne terminated soon after court opened. The defense placed no witness on the stand, and the defendants made a statement.

At 10 o'clock on July 20, John A. Bauer, a resident of Chicago, was brought here from Chicago and held to answer to charges of bringing dynamite into the State for the purpose of conspiring to injure the property of the Burlington road.

Stay in the Sun.
Sleepless people, and there are many in America, should court the sun. The very worst soporific is laudanum, and the very best sunshine. Therefore it is very plain that poor sleepers should pass as many hours as possible in the sunshine and as few as possible in the shade. Many women are martyrs, and yet they do not know it. They shut the sunshine out of their homes and their hearts, they wear veils, they carry parasols, they do all possible to keep out the subtlest and yet most potent influence which is intended to give them strength and beauty and cheerfulness. Is it not time to change this and so get color and roses in their pale cheeks, strength in their weak back, and courage in their timid souls? The women of America are pale and delicate, they may be blooming and strong, and the sunshine will be a potent influence in this transformation.—Ex.

A Pair of Geological Puzzles.
The Grecian island of Cephalonia, in the Mediterranean, contains two rather remarkable natural phenomena. The first is a rock which oscillates several inches to and fro with the regularity of a pendulum, pressing firmly against a fixed rock one moment and directly afterward opening a space into which the clenched hand may be thrust. The motion is due to some unknown cause, having been found to be quite independent of the sea's action. In the other phenomenon about half a million gallons of water daily flows upon the land by four inlets and is sucked into the earth. The water has been collected in a short canal to drive two mills, but disappears among the rocks, with no visible outlet, after being thus used.—Ex.

Profit in Upraising Barns.
All farmers should know that the cheapest room they can get in a barn is in the basement. On many accounts it is the most valuable, especially for keeping the stock comfortable during the cold weather. But there is a further profit in raising barns and putting cellars under them. A barn that has stood for years close to the ground has been during that time not only the harbor for noxious vermin, but the occasion of serious waste of valuable manure. Much of the liquid excrement of stock stabled above will be found under the barns absorbed by the soil, which it converts into the richest nitrogenous manure. Nitre was formerly obtained from the soil under old buildings, and it impregnates earth under stables and barns that a load of it drawn upon the fields will do more good than an equal quantity of barnyard manure as usually made.

Birth and Breeding.
Two negro boys were disputing, when one of them said to the other: "You ain't got no manners, nobow." "Manners," responded the other; "you knows a heap 'bout manners, don't you? Why, yo' daddy was an ole Alabama nigger, an' he picked yo' mammy up when they was re-fugeein' here durin' the war. My mammy an' daddy came from ol' Virginny and never was sol' in der lives. De ol' marster wouldn't take fo' thousan' dollas for 'em one time. You talk to me 'bout manners! Shucks!" And he turned and went away in disgust.

Quaker Ways.
The Quaker never makes oath. He avoids as far as possible coming where such procedure is necessary, but if obliged to make a declaration, the falsity of which would subject him to legal penalty, he affirms. Nor does he observe any holy or feast days. He believes that the obligation to regard one day more than another ceased with the Mosaic dispensation. The visiting of theaters, race courses, dancing halls, or the investment in any kind of lotteries—grab bags in church fairs included—are declared to be incompatible with the teachings of the society, and are forbidden.

Old Bank Notes Redeemed.
After the death of an old woman, long a servant in Southbridge, Mass., there were found among her possessions three hundred and ninety-eight dollars in old New England State Bank bills. They were issued by nineteen Massachusetts, eight Rhode Island, six Connecticut banks and one Main bank. Although some of the bills were forty years old, and the banks were bound to pay none of them, the administrator in charge of the estate had little difficulty in "securing" their redemption.—Ex.

What Mrs. Grundy Says.
That most women so particular about social lines began life at the wash tub. That never since the flood has so much been talked about the weather as this summer. That the girl of the period is prejudiced against books likely to be of mental benefit. That nowadays the biggest fool seems to be the one who makes greatest social progress. That if there is any pig in a man's nature it will be developed when he is travelling. That there should be a law to forbid young girls from taking music lessons with windows open. That now is the time when unknown relatives of political candidates come smiling to the front.
