The expression "dark horse," now in such general political use, first occurred in Lord Beaconsfield's "Young Duke." Here is the paragraph: "The first favorite was never heard of, the second favorite was never seen after the distance post, all the ten-to-ones were in the rear, and a dark horse which had never been thought of rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph."

BETWEEN April 9 and June 30 of this year the United States Bureau of Animal Industry slaughtered nearly 10,000 suspected cattle in the district within a radius of eight miles of the new city hall in Philadelphia. At the same time they, in conjunction with the State, inspected 2,065 herds, visited 3,319 stables, inspected 41,067 animals, tagged 23,026 animals and destroyed 13 diseased herds containing 150 cattle.

Mrs. ERNESTINE L. ROSE, who was one of the first to advocate the cause of women's rights, is still an interesting figure in the American colony of London. She lived in Michigan, and as early as 1836 addressed the State Legislature in person on the subject of women's enfranchisement. As long as she remained in this country she was foremost in the movement, and even now, when too feeble to move from her home, sends letters of encouragement across the water to the women who are in the van here.

Mr. Guilfoyle, who was attending the high school, was compelled to abandon his studies because of his health. Instead of improving he became worse rapidly. About two years ago he sank one night into a partial trance, or cataleptic sleep, and since that time has lain in his remarkable slumber. The other day he awoke, and is gaining strength. Of his sleep he remembers nothing.

The International Submarine Company of New Haven, Conn., has a contract with the United States Government and several Philadelphia capitalists to procure the treasure on board the British sloop-of-war Broak, sunk in Delaware bay May 25, 1798. Liquor Selling Within One Mile of the Soldiers' Home is Unlawful.

The Supreme Court has rendered a decision denying a mandamus in the case of Whitney & Saunders to compel the board of trustees of the Soldiers' Home to approve their own bond. The reason for withholding approval was that their business was in violation of an act of the Legislature of 1887, which prohibited the sale of intoxicants within one mile of the Soldiers' Home. The relators claimed the law to be an invasion of the State constitution, and the fourth section of the United States constitution, depriving them of property without due process of law, etc., and therefore void. Justice Morse writes an opinion denying the mandamus, in which Justices Long and Champlin concur. The board of trustees is ordered to execute their bond. ELLEY MEN KILLED.

A Country-seat Quarrel in Kansas Results in Bloodshed—A Pitched Battle Between Factions in Which a Sheriff, Four of His Deputies and Six Others are Killed.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 28.—The county-seat in Shawnee County has broken out afresh and has resulted in the murder of John Cross, sheriff of the county; H. H. Hubbard, C. W. Eaton, H. T. Toney and W. H. Wilcox, all citizens of Wooddale, and it is reported others, making eleven in all.

The county was organized two years ago and is occupied largely by hard characters. Hugoton was chosen the county seat by fraud, the Wooddale people say, and the election result is in litigation. Bad blood has long existed between the two towns. Last Sunday Constable C. E. Short, of Wooddale, and two others attempted to arrest Sam Robinson and three other Hugoton men in the neutral strip. Tuesday Sheriff Cross received a request for help from Short, and, with Hubbard, Eaton, Toney and Wilcox, he started to render it. The party stopped at a ranch that night, and were there surprised in their sleep by thirty Hugoton men, headed by Robinson, who seized them, took away their arms, stood them up in a road and shot them.

Colonel R. N. Wood, mayor of Wooddale, called on the city to lay the matter before the Governor. He expects to return at once to Wooddale, and says he has an offer of 100 men from Colorado to help clean out the outlaws. J. R. Jones, a Hugoton man who has just arrived, gives a different account of the killing. He makes this statement: The marshal of Hugoton, and M. Cook, of the same place, went to the Dudley ranch, near Pony creek, accompanied by their wives, to look up some cattle which they were trying to buy. While taking dinner Deputy Marshal Short called on the sheriff, and the marshal, who took him from the well, and the men were so overcome with fatigue and joy that when the men began to congratulate them they wept like children. So intense was the excitement and sympathy for the unfortunate man that business of all kinds had been very much neglected. Farmers left their fields and merchants their stores and flocked to the scene of the accident, offering to lend a helping hand. The women have shown their willingness to help, also, by cooking and sending food to the workers. Although the rescuing party did all in their power, Anderson never would have been saved for his own efforts. He planned and directed the last two days of labor, and all the while he was imprisoned never was heard to utter a complaint.

When Anderson fell into the well on July 19 he was engaged in repairing the curb. Suddenly, by an unlucky blow of the pick, he caught the earth, which was very sandy, and he fell. He discovered his danger in time to raise an alarm, and neighbors started to draw him up. After he had been raised twenty feet a second fall occurred, which stopped the well up entirely. A large force of men at once began to dig beside the old well, but, after working four days and nights, the conclusion was reached that Anderson was dead. They continued work, however, and on Monday Anderson signaled that he was yet alive by cutting the rope that held the bucket. The diggers reached him about three feet from the bottom, and were able to communicate with him. He informed them that he was all right and asked them to be careful. On the same night the well began caving again, and the caving sank him three feet from the bottom. He was out of the well, but almost immediately went back again, and found Anderson all right. He asked them to save him if possible, but not to take too many chances. It is about 100 feet to the bottom of the well, and the space he obtained a r, getting the only water that he had for five days by sucking the rotten but water-soaked planks.

The DePuy Tomb.

This monument to our cemetery, erected by C. E. DePuy, Stockbridge, Mich., we understand is completed, with the exception of the granite tablet forming the door, which is to be replaced by a more perfect stone.
Thinking a description of this work which has required the labor of several workmen some four months, and a vast amount of material, would interest our readers, we present the following: Plans for the tomb were furnished by P. Casse, the most extensive builder of this work in New Orleans, where, owing to the nature of the soil, all burials are from necessity above ground. These were submitted to stone contractors in Fort Wayne, Toledo and Jackson. The successful bidders being Pickels & Buttler, of the latter city.
Work on the foundation was began in March, and with the exception of one or two delays occasioned by material being delayed in transit, there has been no interruption until the last stone was put in place last Monday.

The dimensions of the tomb are as follows: 11 feet 6 inches long, 7 feet 6 inches wide, and 12 feet high. It is divided into four chambers, each separated from the other by a tight slate floor two inches thick. Each chamber will accommodate two caskets, and is capable of being made completely airtight. The lower one which is just below the surface of the ground contains the remains of Mr. DePuy's wife and infant son.

The building, for it is a miniature house, resembling in design a chapel, is located on the most commanding point of our cemetery, and is again elevated from the ground level by the foundation on which it stands.

Surrounding the lot is a brown stone coping from the top of which the grade of the lot gradually rises to the base of the brown stone water table.

From the drive, the door of the tomb is reached by a short flight of brown stone steps, on each side of which is a balustrade cut from a single piece of brown stone, and each supporting a red stone vase of unique design, intended for plants or flowers.

The rear and side walls as well as the roof and a great portion of the front is of red Ashlar stone, which, with the brown stone, was obtained from Lake Superior quarries.

The finish of the walls is in what is called rock face work, the sides being relieved by three arched pannels, resembling very much in shape the windows of a chapel. The roof consists of but seven pieces of stone, and is so constructed that notwithstanding its weight of 20,000 pounds it adds strength to the balance of the structure.

The front presents a very pleasing effect with its variety of work and material, and is the part which from the position of the tomb will be most observed.

On either side of the door is a column of polished red Scotch granite surmounted by a cap of ashlar stone, the whole supporting a heavy rock face arch on which rests the front end of the roof.
Back of the columns and forming the front of the tomb proper, the wall is of smooth red stone, and extending over the door an inside arch of the same material, on which is cut in raised letters the name "DePuy." The door consists of an arched tablet of polished gray Vermont granite, bearing the simple inscriptions:

Cora E. DePuy,
1869-1887.

Don C. DePuy,
1887-1888.

Removal.

G. Heischwerdt has moved his restaurant from the Kautleher block to the Wilkinson block, East Middle street, and has furnished some fine bedrooms, and will now take regular or transient boarders.
He will be happy to meet all his old friends and as many new ones as will favor him with a call. He also thanks old patrons for past favors and hopes for a continuance of the same. Ice cream by the dish or by the quart, and a square meal for 25 cents.

Card of Thanks.

If the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam should publish a card of thanks, containing expressions of gratitude which came to him daily, from those who have been cured of severe throat and lung troubles by the use of Kemp's Balsam, it would fill a fair sized book. How much better to invite all to call on F. P. Glazier, druggist, and get a free sample bottle that you may test for yourself its power. Large bottles 50c and $1.00.

Notice.

I do hereby forbid any person trusting or harboring Nora Cushman on my account, as I shall not be responsible for any debts contracted by her.
