Many extravagant stories are in circulation as to the cost of private cars, used by railroad magnates, opera singers, and millionaires. Stories are printed about cars costing all the way from $100,000 to $300,000. The fact of the matter is that a palace car costs about $12,000 complete. A man doesn't have to be a millionaire to own a private car, but few besides millionaires—outside of railroad people and traveling combinations—own them.

A Big Blaze.

Another very destructive fire broke out in L. Winans' drug store last Sunday morning at 5 o'clock. Rus. Green, who first discovered it, sounded the alarm, and the people came together, but all that could be done was to rescue property, as far as possible, from the other stores. In this the people worked with a right good will, for which they deserve much praise. Large quantities of goods were carefully carried out of the stores of Kempf & Schenk, E. M. Fletcher and Hummel & Fenn. Fortunately by the aid of a good brick wall and a good supply of water that was passed up to the roof, both the Klein building on the south and the Hoag House on the north were saved, although both were badly damaged.

The following buildings were totally consumed: One belonging to Loren Babcock, value, $5,000, insurance, $3,000; one belonging to Wm. R. Reed, value, $4,000, insurance, $3,000. The Hoag House and Chris. Klein's building are both covered by insurance.

The occupants were: L. & A. Winans, drugs, jewelry, groceries and fancy goods, $5,000, insurance, $4,000, and $300 on jeweler's tools, nothing saved. Kempf & Schenk, dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, groceries, etc., $40,000, insurance, $15,000, mostly saved. J. D. Schnaitman, office furniture, $50, no insurance, nothing saved. Mrs. Cole, dressmaking, $500, no insurance, nothing saved. Thos. Krick, shoe shop, $300, no insurance, nothing saved. Dr. M. Bush, dentist, $500, no insurance, nothing saved. Geo. Webster, tailor, $100, no insurance, sewing machine saved. Kempf & Son, carpets, $3,000, insurance, $800, mostly saved. The stock of groceries owned by E. M. Fletcher was all removed, also the stock of drugs, groceries, etc., belonging to Hummel & Fenn, which were damaged considerably. Both are covered by insurance. All the furniture, goods, etc., belonging to Miss Lusty, dressmaker, in the Klein building, was saved. The occupants of the rooms in the McKone building also move out. The Hoag House suffered to some extent by having its goods removed to the street and back again, but the loss is fully covered by insurance.

A message was sent to Jackson for a steamer, which arrived too late to render any assistance as the fire was under control.

Friends nor physicians could not save. This mortal body from the grave; He was not ours but God's alone, God loved him best and called him home.
