A STORY comes from St. Louis that a young married woman who had apparently died from puerperal fever, and had been placed in a coffin, was resuscitated just before the time set for the funeral, a movement of one of the arms being detected by her husband. The victim alleges that she was perfectly conscious of all the movements of her relatives, and suffered untold anguish at the thought that she was about to be buried alive.

WILLIAM H. BURGESS, of Alexandria. Va., who in 1836 assisted in building Washington's new tomb at Mount Vernon, tells how the face of the father of his country looked fifty-three years ago: "I was a lad then, but I remember that, in removing the bodies of George and Martha to their tomb, we decided to open the coffin. I looked in and saw General Washington's face. The body was well preserved, and the features were intact. A minute after exposure to the air there was nothing recognizable. The face looked like the pictures of him."

BLOOD oranges, for which a big demand has already sprung up in New York, probably because there is a big supply, have long been popular in Paris, so popular that suspicion was east on their genuineness. The supply of blood oranges in Paris a year ago seemed to be enormous, and the question arose whether common plain oranges were not colored by artificial means. On submitting a "blood" orange to an analytical chemist it was discovered that fuchsine, a red, harmless coloring matter, had been injected with a small syringe.

DEATH ON THE LAKE.

Porr Huson, Mich., May 20.—The steam-barge R. P. Ranney arrived down Saturday morning with the news of a disaster on Lake Huron by which five lives were lost At 2:30 o'clock Friday morning the Ranney, of Cleveland, collided with the schooner ferrick, of Detroit, ten miles off Presque sie, and sank her in deep water. The es of the lost are:

Only two of the Merrick's crew were saved, Captain Busho, of Detroit, and William Goodfriend. Captain Rusho says that when he discovered the Ranney about to cross his course he hauled the Merrick up and tried to run across the bows of the Ranney, but the latter cut into the Merrick in the smoke and fog, and sank her almost instantly. Captain Rusho was at his post and William Goodfriend at the wheel. The other four men and woman cook went down with the ship without realizing what had happened. The Merrick was owned by George Maitland and G. P. Taylor, of Detroit, was valued at $7,500 and insured for $5,000. She left Sand Beach Wednesday for Port Austin, where she took sand for Lake Linden, Upper Peninsula Martin Johnson, the mate, was a resident of Detroit for the past twenty years. Captain Rusho's wife has made every trip with him until the last one, when she left the boat at Cleveland. Both captains agree that the catastrophe was accidental. The Ranney has a large hole stove in her port bow. THE GOOD TEMPLARS.

pose of the Ment. ' New York, May 20 .- At the adjourned meeting of the representatives of the American Meat Company and the directors of the American Cattle Trust Saturday afternoon, the much talked of deal between the two concerns was finally consum, mated. A contract for a term of years was drawn up and signed by the controlling powers of the two organizations, by which the meat company will handle the entire product of the cattle trust.

Exactly what the terms of the agree ment are could not be learned, but from a semi-official source it was ascertained that the rumors so widely spread for some time as to a consolidation of the two corporations were without foundation. simple truth is that the American Company has agreed to butcher all the stock of the Cattle Trust at the slaughter-houses in Kansas City, send the meat to the East in refrigerator-cars, and after disposing of it at the best possible price hand over to the Cattle Trust a share of the net profits. What the share would be was not divulged

The American Cattle Trust owns large tracts of land and thousands of head of cattle, but hitherto has been in the same condition as to marketing the products of its ranches as the humblest ranchman. In other words, it has had to take chances for selling its cattle or meat with other ranches The meat company claims that in addition to having cattle ranches, re-frigerator-cars and slaughter-houses of their own, they are possessed of facilities for disposing of unlimited quantities of meat in the large Eastern, Western and Southern cities

Ten years were, by the terms of the will, to be added to the 200, during which time the heirs were to be hunted up and if they were found the vast sum, the plate, and the jewels were to be equally divided between them. If all could not be found this great wealth was to go to the crown of Holland. It so happened that one of the heirs was a captain and he could not be found though most diligent and anxious search was made for him. The ten years flew swiftly by and brought no tidings of the lost captain, though he was the neces sary link in the chain that connected the great treasure. Give Up Enough of Their Lands to Furnish Farms for a Thousand Men. YANETON, D. T., May 16 .- A dispatch received here from the Yankton Indian Agency states that the Sioux Indians at that place are preparing to negotiate with the Government for the sale of about seven townships of the north part of their reservation. Engineers are now at work surveying the agency and the Indians are selecting their land in severalty. The reason assigned for selling this land is that their treaty with the United States only allows them $15,000 per annum and their present treaty will soon expire. The tract em-braces some of the finest land in South Dakota and a rush of settlers is expected to follow its opening to homesteaders, which will be within thirty days. These lands will furnish homes for 1,000 families, allowing

Hippolyte's Forces Defeat Those of Legi-New York, May 16.—A shipping firm who trade with the "Black Republic" has received this dispatch, dated St. Nicholas

Mole, May 9: "In an engagement at Marchand, an important town between St. Mare and Gonportant town between of Marc and Gon-aives, Hippolyte's troops were victorious. Legitime's forces were routed, and besides a number killed and wounded forty men were made prisoners. Hippolyte has also captured the towns of Marmalade and St. Michael, and communication has been opened from St. Mare to Cape Haytian. Great dissatisfaction is felt in Port au Prince against Legitime, and the people are ready to rise up in arms on the first approach of the Northern troops. Hippolyte's forces are marching on Port au Prince."

In all the world—where e'er you roam— With sister, wife or brother, You'll never know so sweet a home As that one made by—mother.

In all the world—though wealth co For you the work of others— You'll never find a pair of liands To toll for you like—mother's.

In all the world—although you should In riches nearly smother— You'll taste no cooking half so good As that prepared by—mother. In all the world—though friends sincere And more to you than brothers.
You'll never for a moment hear
A voice so kind as—mother's.

In all the world—although you break The tender he irts of others, There is no heart can ever ache For you as much as—mother's,

In all the world—though you create
A pleasure for another,
You can give none a joy so great,
As you can give to—mother,

In all the world-although a wife May you in goodness smother, There's none who'll sacrifice a life For you as quick as—mother. In all the world-where you in bliss,

May soon forget another,
There is no one whom you will miss,
When she is gone, like—mother.

RELIC OF CROMWELL.

A Cup Belonging to England's Only President to Be Sold by Auction.

One of the links that connect the present with the Cromwellian era in England will soon be sold by auction in London. It is a massive silver cup covered with handsome engraving, and belongs to Mrs. Riscom, of Bilton, Rugby. The curio has been the bone of contention in several legal suits instituted to gain possession of it, and its history is an interesting one, bringing, as it does, prominent actors on the stage of the seventeenth century before the footlights of the present

It was originally presented by Oliver Cromwell to his son-in-law, Henry Ireton, who in 1646 gave it to Dame Ursula Whorewood. It then descended as a family heirloom to the late Dr. Whorewood, of Willoughby, Rugby. He died about five years ago, and by his will the cup was to have gone to the then Lord Sherborne, but his lordcame into possession of the household effects and claimed the cup, opposing started with us toward their village. Lord Sherborne mentioned in the will. "Sly Fox remembered the butte as cell as I, and we had hardly reached ir saddles when, as by a common pulse, we turned our horses' heads the back trail. The Indiana is allowed to ride my horse, but Sly Fox had to foot it, his right hand trials, in favor of Mr. Riscom, who having since died, his widow is the present owner. It is expected to bring several thousand pounds, and has just been put on view in London.—London Globe.
