CRONIN WAS KILLED.

THE house of Rev. F. C. Clarke, a Baptist minister, near Virginia Beach, Va., was burned early on the morning of the 23d, and he, his two daughters and a son and a niece visiting him were consumed by the dames. His wife and two children escaped. The fire was of incendiary origin.

CHICAGO, May 23.—The body of Dr. P. Horonin, the Irish agitator who disappeare teh basin on Evanston avenue. A towel was wrapped about the head, but the rest of the body was stark naked. The Catholic charm called the "Aguus Dei," which the doctor always wore next his skin, suspended about his neck, was untouched. On the head were the marks left by a dozen deep cuts which have severed the scalp and indented the skull. It is the opinion of the police that Cronin was foully murdered, and by some man who could not bring himself to disturb a Catholic charm.

A gang of laborers in the employ of the Lake View city government have been cleaning the ditches along Evanston avenue during the week. Wednesday Foreman Henry Roesch and two men were working north on the east side of Evanston avenue, towards Fifty-ninth street As they neared the eatch-basin at the corner, they noticed a strong smell of putrifying flesh, and Roesche pried off the top of the catch-basin with his spade and uncovered the body of Dr. Cronin. A TENANTLESS cottage at 1,872 North Ashland avenue, Chicago, was searched on the 24th and found to be smeared with blood in many places. The police thought it was the spot to which Dr. Cronin was decoyed and murdered on the night of May 4 last. The cottage was occupied at that time by two men who had since disappeared.

On the 24th William Whit an eighteenyear-old colored boy of Evansville, Ind, was sentenced to ten years in prison for killing Alexander McFarland.

At Cincinnati the police commissioners The corner of Fifty-ninth street and Evanston avenue is about 300 yards from the Argyle Park station on the Chicago & Evanston branch of the Chicago, Milwau-kee & St. Paul railroad. It is but two or three blocks from the lake and about nine-tenths of a mile north from the corner of Sulzer street and Evanston avenue, where the empty trunk was found on the day after disappeared. There are four cutch-basins at the intersections of the street, and the body was found in the one on the southeast corner. It seems altogether remarkable that it was not sooner discovered, for the FIFTEEN tramps, located in the southern part of Hammond, Ind., were raided on the 34th. They had for some time been helping themselves to every thing they wanted Lake View police started out to search all the catch-basins in the city the week after the blood-stained trunk was found.

Immediately upon taking the body out of the basin Foreman Roesch notified the Lake View police station and summoned the patrol wagon. The body was stretened out in the Lake View morgue, which occupies the front in the basement under the station. Telephone messages were sent to the city police, and an hour after the finding of the body a dozen of Cronin's friends were at the station. John E. Scaulan, Mortimer Scanlan and

John F. Scanlan were among the first who arrived. They identified the body as that of Cronin upon first sight. Later it was more positively identified by L. L. Conklin, the saloon keeper with whom Cronin lived, and by James Boland and Patrick McGary. Dr. Lewis, the dentist who last worked on Cronin's teeth, reached the station late in the evening and also positively identified the body, as did A. C. O'Keefe, who for many years was Cronin's tailor. Mr. Scanlan intended at first to send for Mrs. Conklin, but later it was thought unnecessary ....

In the Lauterbach district of Germany John F. Scanlan was led to give his feelings on the case and the search which had been made by the police for the body of the missing doctor. He hooted the idea that any sane man could ever have thought that Cronin had run away. His first remark was meant to connect the name of the iceman Sullican in some way with the doctor's removal.

[Saturday, May 4, at 7:20 p. m., Dr. Cronin was busy with several patients in the office rooms of the flat he occupied in the Windsor Theater Block with Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Conklin. Somebody rapped on the outer door of the flat. Mrs. Conklin opened the door. A man asked hurriedly if Dr. Cronin were in. Mrs. Conklin said he was busy. The stranger said it was a matter of life and death. Mrs. Conklin called Dr. Cronin. The stranger told Cronin in Mrs. Conklin's hearing that a work man of the Sullivan lee Company had been run over and crushed and that Sullivan who was over and crushed and that Sullivan, who was out of town, had left word that Cronin should be called in case of any accident. The doctor said he would go at once. The stranger said he had a horse and buggy. Cronin prepared his instruments and bandages, and went downstairs with the stranger. At the bottom they met Frank T. Scanlan, Jr., of No. 84 Bellevue place, who had called to accompany Cronin to a business meeting at the latter's down-town office in the Chicago Opera-House building. Cronin explained the situation, and said he didn't know how soon he could get down town. He got in beside the stranger and they drove north on Clark street at a rapid gait. This was the last seen of Dr. Oronin by his friends until the discovery of his body. Late that night his friends became alarmed. P. O. Sullivan said he had not hurt, and he knew nothing of the stranger in the buggy. Cronin's friends at once claimed their belief that he had met with play, Next day the Lake View police found a large trunk in a grove of trees near Evanston avenue and Sulzer street. The trunk was smeared with blood, and there were cotton batting, such as doctors use, and several locks of hair in it. The trunk and the disappearance were at once connected. Unavailing efforts were made to trace the trunk Thursday, May 9, a man named Frank Wood ruff was arrested for horse-stealing, and was so frightened that he volunteered a statement to the effect that he had left the trunk in Lake V.ew, acting under the directions of three men, of whom Cronin was one. He said the trunk contained the body of a woman, which was taken out and buried. He gave the names of his companions as King and Pairburn. Steps were taken to test his story, with the result that not much confidence was

CHICAGO, May 27. - Peter McGechan, who CHICAGO, May 27.—Peter McGechan, who mysteriously disappeared from Philadel-phia three months ago, and was next heard of in this city, where, it is alleged, he threatened the life of Dr. Cronin, was arrested Sunday. He has been under surveiliance since May 4, the date of Cronin's disappearance. His arrest is thought to foreshadow other arrests, and it is believed will eventually land all the participants in the foul crime. It has been impossible to ferret out the evidence against him now in possession of the police, but it is undoubtedly very strong. There are constantly under espionage six or eight people in Chicago, and the police assert that, with not more than two exceptions, the principals and accessories are Chicago people.

AN ALARMING CONSPIRACY. AN ALABMING CONSPIRACY.

The police have been put in possession of startling facts concerning Dr. Cronin's mur-der. It has been clearly shown by the dead man's friends that his removal was ordered by a committee representing the Clan-na-Gael society. Charges of traitorous an-Gael society. Charges of tratorous sonduct were preferred against him at a meeting of the Clan-na-Gael camp. He was found guilty and his death was ordered. The charge was based on the statement of the British spy Le Caron that there were four more spies in America.

Were four more spies in America.

When Le Caron made that statement on the stand before the Parnell commission he was ordered to give the names of the spies. He said he dared not do it because if they were known they would be murdered. Presiding Justice Hannen then took him into in ante-room and in the presence of Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney-General, who is conducting the prosecution, and Sir Charles Russell, Parnell's attorney, Le Caron gave the names.

Within forty-eight hours after this news was cabled from London nearly every Clanna-Gael camp in America had met and passed resolutions declaring in favor of a a rigid hunt for the four spies. Suspicion, justly or unjustly, was pointed at Dr. Cronin.

A committee was appointed to try him. He was convicted without having a chance to make a defense and his assassins were brought here from other cities to carry out the mandate of the committee. His death was ordered under the clause i the Clan-na-Gael by-laws which says that a man can be "removed" for traitorous co It is claimed that W. J. Hynes, the well-known attorney; Father Tuchy, a promi-nent Catholic clergyman; Captain Dan Gleason, Captain T. P. O'Connor, John Devoy and one or two others have been tried and convicted of certain charges and orders for their "removal" signed. A sensation has been created by the arrest of Dan Coughlin, one of the best known members of the city detective force, circumstances pointing to the fact that he has a guilty knowledge of the crime. Coughlin went to a livery-stable keeper on North Clark street on the morning of the day or which Cronin was lured to his death, and asked him to let a friend of his, who would call in the evening, have a team and he would make it all right Dinan, the liveryman, agreed to this, and about 7 o'clock which has been identified as the rig in which the unfortunate physician was driven to his doom. The driver's description also corresponds with that of the man who procured the team. Dinan, when the story of Cronin's disappearance came out, went to the police station to inform Captain Schaack of these facts, but was met by Coughlia, who requested him to say nothing as it might get him (Coughlin) into trouble. Dinan agreed, but a day or so later gave up his knowledge to the authorities, and Coughlin was called on to explain the matter. He said the man for whom he had provided the Mich, and that his action in the case was only one of accommodation. Coughlin was ordered by his superior officer to find his friend and bring him in. Several days later the detective reported that he had seen the man, but was satisfied that he was all right, and as he was in a hurry to go to New Mexico on urgent busiess, he did not arrest him. These and the fact that Coughlin was known to be a member of several Irish societies and was pro-nounced in his enmity towards Cronin, led Mayor Cregier and Chief Hubbard to order his arrest, and he was accordingly placed in a cell at the armory. It has been discovered that the furniture found at the cottage at 1879 Ashland avenue, where the murder was committed, was a portion of a lot purchased, together with the trunk in which the body was con veyed from the spot, from A. H. Revell & Co., by a man who gave the names of Simons, and who answered the description of one of the men who rented the Carlson cottage. This purchase was made seventy-two days before the awful deed was committed, and this shows that it was a deliberate. ly planned affair, Simons, it has also been learned, first occupied rooms on Clark street directly opposite Dr. Cronin's office, his intention evidently being to keep a close watch on all the movements of the victim. These rooms were given up March 19, and the Carlson cottage was rer ed March 20.

Dr. Cronin's remains were placed on a catafalque in the Cavalry Armory on the Lake Front Saturday evening. They were not exposed to view, but thousands of perons passed by the casket, not a few paus to kneel and utter a prayer for the repose of the soul of the dead man. The funeral on Sanday was a most impressing affair. A procession participated in by probably 4,000 persons escorted the remains to the Cathedral of the Holy Name, where the rites of the Catholic church were accorded them, Rev. Father Muldoon, chancellor of the diocese, delivering the funers sermon. Thence the body was taken the Milwaukee & St. Paul depot, who trains were waiting to convey all to Calvary Cemetery. At the cemetery the casket was placed in a vault. No special cere. mony was observed.

Romantic Story of Memorial Day.

day, sinking slowly to repose, began to cast long shadows upon its peaceful cheek. There were bronze clouds dawdling through the high pale sky, move only in their frayed, gilded edges by the low west wind wan-toning downily rough the ambient air. But for this wind the day had been very warm. Even the weet breath scarce tempered the heat to that small patriotic band of school teachers, school children, youths and maidens who, with wreaths of new flowers, were quickly marching to the tolling of the bell It was Memorial Day. more self-provident had ridden or ered on ahead, and now, when that procession came redly and rather aggedly tramping into the cool retirement f the graveyard, they were gathered in a mildly expectant crowd around ine platform, temporarily thrown up unler agreat elm in the center of the cemeery, upon which the singers and the speaker and the dignitaries generally were to sit. So many years in their untimely graves! And these now living inherently loyal beings (some of them yet unborn when these graves were dug) here now in the sweet vening light to remember the long depart-such a peaceful scene! Here on the village's western edge the level, orderly cemetery, dappled with the grey shade of natural elms and suffused with the wholesom meense of hardy flowers. Yonder to the west of it a rolling sweep of tawny sedge, skirted by a line of hazeful woods, every that of rich green under the attiring brush

Over the gently alert crowd assembled sround the platform a gentler quiet settled as the minister rose and offered prayer, and, afterwards, gave place to the singers. The music of plaintive voices in that gracious. aggestive spot—one's heart rose in long swells beneath it like the ocean at eventide. The wind that brushed one's cheek was like

Then the speaker arose. Did not the heart of the war-scarred veterans among them move with a light sign of pathetic diversion—of tender diversion—as that slim, dapper youth, child of peace and favorite of fortune, came forward in the gentle evening light and spoke out in clear, oratorical tones lines of such fine entiment, vicarious pathes, inherent patietism? sm? One or two gentlemen had gone a few steps to met her and she took her place on the edge of the crowd with a smilling glance of greeting to the faces nearest her and an instant turning of her attention upon him who was speaking.

h the midst of a sentence—across the austering heads between—their eyes met; look of welcome and repose,

When his address was over there was another song, and then the crowd began suit to trickle off toward the rows of low bounds where the soldiers slopt, as they had fought, in ranks. Mordaut had made and he also is with the dead."

"It all happened," said she, softly, looking up with dreamy, awed eyes, "before either you or I were born. This man," she touched the gray stone, "and your father went to the war, each with her image in his heart; they were friends. She did not know then where her heart lay, and so when they went she told them when her heart spoke the beloved's name in his absence she would send to him a letter that amidst the roar of battle and the lonely watch by camp fires he might know his love's prayers followed him. One night they two sat weary and sad in the light of the camp flame and he saw your father take a letter from his breast and sit gazing upon a letter from his breast and sit gazing upon it with dreaming looks. His cheek waxed pale. 'Jim!' he said. And glancing up your father saw that wan dread fixed in his eyes as they stared at the letter. Jim turned in that instant whiter than his friend. 'Yes, John, yes,' said he, in a hurried, husky whisper.

"Next day," the speaker gazed at the dis-tant woods with her hand laid against the laces at her throat, "the next day your father's friend sought oblivion in the thickest of the fight-and found it."

"Do you judge him harshly-my father?" asked Mordant, wistfully, watching the soft wind at play amidst the light dusk hair. "Remember, he loved her so-and it was but half a lie. Could he know his rival would take it as he did?"

"Never mind," said she, kindly, considerate of the gloom that had come into his eye. "It is all past. She loved this poor fellow and he died for her. As long as 1 live he shall have roses"—tenderly, under her breath—"for her sake." She came out of the lot and was beside trude, history repeats itself. More than twenty-five years ago my father loved your mother. To-day I love you. Dearest!" his cheek flushed. "Is my father's fate to be mine also? Look at me. I love you truly." She glanced-backward across the cemetery—trembling.

"See—they have all gone. It is late. "Gertrude! Do you love me?"

She moved restively. "I-please-I am sorry -" but the words died vaguely off her lips and he saw her eyes fasten with sudden intentness upon some distant object. Turning, he discovered a tall, alert figure step ping briskly toward them down the wide sand walk; Mordant's friend-and youngest brother of the man asleep yonder beneath Gertrude's roses.

For one instant Mordant looked levelly at him, then turned his eyes upon his companion, a keen pang at the sore heart of him. "Gertrude!" his appeal was quick and sharp, "is my father's fate mine? Is it my friend, not me, you love?"

There was no time for verbal answer, yet as the new comer reached them, and, after a cheerful nod to the man, turned with an eager out-held palm to the girl, Mordant read his answer in the dim pink that warmed her cheek and the full, appeased content of the sweet, upward glance accompanying the shy hand she gave. Reports to the State Board of Health by fifty-nine observers in different parts of the State for the week ended on the 18th indicated that measles, neuralgia, erysipelas and tonsilitis increased, and influenza, whooping cough, diarrhea and consumption of the lungs decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at seven places, scarlet fever at twenty-two, typhold fever at two, and measles at eleven.

Generous Bequests. The will of the late Alexander Folsom, of Bay City, was filed for probate the other day. Aside from various personal bequests he leaves $60,000 to different missionary sosieties under the Presbyterian manage-ment; $30,000 to Alma College at Alma, Gratiot County, and $30,000 to the Y. M. C. A. of Bay City. He also leaves large bequests to the Presbyterian Church Society of Bay City for various specific purposes.

Taught Them a Lesson. Miss Kate Young teaches the village school at Sebewa. She has also taught the school board a trick or two. When she was refused money for soap and towels a few days ago she instructed each scholar to bring an egg to school. With the result of this assessment the lavatory necessaries were purchased, and Kate is happy and the children clean.

Marriage an Experiment, Marriage in Bay County is apparently regarded as an experiment. A woman applied to the county clerk the other day for a license that would carry her through two years, and enable her to quit her husband at the end of that time if she didn't like him. She was surprised to learn that there were none of that kind to be had.

Early Americans.

Simplicity in their mode of living was the narked characteristic of the early settlers of America. Every thing which pertained to them was plain and unostentatious. The food which they are was frugally served and of the substantial kind. Their clothing was home-spun and the moccasins which covered their feet were a home product, being made from the hide of animals and ornamented with beads after the Indian fashion. Their homes were simplicity itself, consisting of roughly hewn logs and home made shingles—the whole constituting the old Log-Cabin home of frontier life.

Yet those were model homes. The wives and mothers were well versed in the art of all that pertained to house wifery, Conspicuous in the early home was striking figure of the old grandmother. Not only was she the adviser in social af-fairs but she was the medical adviser and prescriber for the sick. Often were her hands engaged in the preparation of some healing potion or remedy for the relief of agents, which have made the old Log Cabin famous for all time to come. Conscious of the great value of some of those old time home cures a successful effort has been made to re-discover the lost secret of their preparation, and, coupled with all the improvement which human ingenuity and progress suggests, they are now widely known under the name of Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, the most promi nent being Log Cabin sarsaparilla and Log Cabin cough and consumption cure. The suffering public has been quick to recognize and approclate their true value and the manufacturers are daily in receipt of much praise for the re-discovery and revival of these old time remedies against sickness and disease.

To the old Log Cabin home, however, is justly due the praise for all the good which may, thereby, be effected.

Wife—"John, do you deliver your lecture, 'Is Life Worth Living?' again to-night?" Great Pessimist—"No, my dear; I am greatly afraid I have caught a slight cold, and I don't intend to risk my life by venturing out of doors at all this evening."

And 100 men to call daily on any druggist for a free trial package of Lane's Family Medicine, the great root and herb remedy, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. For diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys it is a positive cure For constipation and clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Children like it. Everyone praises it. Large-size package, 50 cents. At all druggists.

"PRISONER, the evidence shows that you brutally assaulted the complainant. Have you any thing to offer in extenuation?" Prisoner—"No, sir; my lawyer took all the money I had."

"The days of miracles are past." That may be, and yet some of the most wonderful things ever witnessed by the human family have occurred within the last decade. Not the least of those wonders is the success which the agents of B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., are meeting. Write them for particulars. They will show you how to work wonders.

A woman in Baltimore bled to death from a cut on the leg, caused by the breaking of a whisky-bottle that she habitually carried in her stocking.

Ir you are doubtful as to the use of Dob-bins' Electric Soap, and cannot accept the experience of millions who use it, after the 24 years it has been on the market, one trial will convince you. Ask your grocer for it. Take no imitation.

HARD water is wasteful of soap, because it contains lime salts, which form an insoluble compound with the soap, thus rendering a part of it useless.

Ladies can permanently beautify their complexion with Glenn's Sulphur Soap. Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, 50 cents.

People who have to listen to violin practicing nearly always bring up in the asylum. For twenty-five cents, you can get Carter's Little Liver Pills—the best liver regulator in the world. Don't forget this. One pill a dose.

THERE are many blessings attached to poverty. But they are fearfully disguised. lr afflicted with Sore Eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water. Druggists sell it. 25c THE earliest onions grow from sets; the longest keeping onions grow from seed.

Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache. Biliousness And all diseases arising from a Torpid Liver and Bad Digestion. The natural result is good appetite and solid flesh. Bose small; elegant-ly suar coated and easy to swallow.

SOLD EVERYWHERE. My little boy, 5 years old, was field with a disease for which dectors had no name. The nails came off his fingers, and the fingers came off to the middle joint. For 3 years he suffered dreadfully; is now getting well and I am satisfied Swift's Specific is the chief cause of his improvement.

POISONED BY A CALF—My little boy broke out with sores and ulcers, the result of the saliva of a calf coming in contact with a cut finger. The ulcers were deep and painful and showed no inclination to heal. I gave him swift's Specific, and he is now well.

Survivors of Early Administrations

Geo. Bancroft and Mrs. Polk are the sole survivors of the Polk administration. Bancroft is now living in Washington, feeble in mind and body, and waiting till the shadows are a little longer grown, of a devoted circle of friends in the Polk mansion of Nashville.

Of the various Cabinet officers under Taylor and Fillmore only one survives-Alex. H. H. Stuart, and he is enjoying a green old age in the Virgina Mountains.
