IN 1891 the charters of all Canadian banks expire, and the plan upon which they shall be renewed will soon have to be determined. Whether it is better to continue the old system or take pattern by the newer and simpler method in the United States is the point to be decided.

SAMUEL MOSS, of Essex, Mass., has been hungry all the time for thirteen years. He drinks three quarts of water per day and eats hearty meals every hour. His age is sixty-one years and his weight one hundred and thirty-five pounds. His case is a puzzle to the physicians.

DOM PEDRO is an exile, but with a pension of $400,000 a year and a snug fortune of $2,500,000. The dark clouds that hang over this Brazilian exile have a very good border of silver and a touch of gold from the sunset of his glory of fifty-eight years as Emperor. Dom Pedro is sixty-three years old, and his reign has been longer than any living monarch.

THREE members of the sophomore class of Yale College were about to be expelled recently for hazing freshmen, when the class came to their assistance in a body and promised that if the sentence was not executed they would refrain from hazing for the present. On these conditions the faculty agreed to suspend punishment until the next offense. The strain on the students in the meantime, however, is something intense.

MR. ANDREW YOUNG, the writer of the religious song, "There is a Happy Land, Far, Far Away," is still alive, a man eighty years of age, vigorous in mind and body, and having all that sympathy for children without which it is impossible to influence the little ones for good. It is about fifty years since these words were written to the music of an Indian air, and they have since been translated into nineteen languages.

THE Government has given instructions that persons living in Windsor, Can., and pursuing their daily occupation in Detroit, must either give up their Canadian residence and come to live in the United States or be fined $1,000 each under the alien contract law. This will probably increase the population of this country about twenty-five hundred or by compelling the Canucks to earn their bread in the Queen's territory furnish so much more work for Americans.

At Reynolds Bridge, Conn., not only beans but bean poles grow from the same hill. James Bunnell had a pole from a button ball which had been out for several years. He used it for his bean vines to grow on, and now he finds that the pole has sent out roots and started several sprouts from the top.

THOMAS A. BRISON has made a contract with the Mexican Government to furnish the post-offices of the republic with photographs to be used for the transmission of messages. In place of writing a letter, a Mexican hereafter can say what he wants to say by photograph, and the wax impression of his tone will be forwarded to the person for whom the message is intended. The latter will be notified on its arrival and the message will be ground out to him by the local phonograph. It is believed that the phonograph will be extensively used in correspondence.

PRINCESS ISABELLA is said to be mainly responsible for the recent overturn in Brazil. The Princess is a self-confessed follower in the path of that other Isabella of Spain, who sent Columbus on his Western journey. Although the Roman Catholic is the State religion of Brazil there is toleration for any creed "not prejudicial to the best interests of the State." A popular impression existed that Isabella, if Dom Pedro should die, would not only succeed to the throne, but would wage a bitter religious persecution against all who did not attend confession. The new republic ends all fears of this kind.

THE son just born to the King and Queen of Portugal has been given the single name of Manuel. This is not in accordance with the usual customs of crowned heads in such matters. They usually give the infant a list of names a mile or two long. The young Prince's two-year-old brother has eighteen names, and the rest of the family are about as well supplied. Perhaps, however, the baby was restricted to one name for the reason merely that the liberal use of names heretofore has temporarily exhausted the supply. It may be the intention to give him more names as they happen to think 'em up.

NEARING THE END.

The Cronin Murder Trial in Chicago Will Soon Be Finished.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—In the Cronin trial yesterday William Merles, the milkman, was called by Mr. Foran and questioned as to the first conversation he had with the defendant on the night of May 4, and as to the movements and appearance of the one who drove the man to the cottage. Despite the fire of questions Merles stuck closely to the story told him on his first examination.

J. W. Fralich, a painter, swore that Kune, under the name of John Kroger, worked for him from April 30 to June 28. That he attended to his duties on May 4 morning from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., and reappearing promptly on the following Monday and discharging his duties as usual.

Several witnesses were called to impeach O'Sullivan's sensational charge that when Burke and Kune were in the cottage on the night of May 4, they were in the presence of a third person, the man who was later identified as Kune, driving away.

The defense then rested.

The State was ready with its rebuttal and at once called Dr. Curran for the purpose of swearing that James Lyman, on the night of the Cronin funeral, told him that the death of the physician had been ordered by the executive board and was therefore all right. Lyman when on the stand last week swore that he had nothing to do with the funeral.

FOUR little girls, children of Hugh Dunn, a wealthy mine owner at Elliptown, W. Va., were blown to atoms on the 26th ult. by the explosion of a keg of powder.

THE barge David L. Dows was wrecked in a storm on Lake Michigan on the 26th ult., twenty miles southeast of Chicago. Loss, $100,000. The crew had a narrow escape, and all were badly frozen.

A CYCLOPEE in Buford County, N. C., on the 26th ult. blew down houses and trees were torn up by the roots. The residence of a farmer near Washington was wrecked and the entire family, consisting of father, mother and four children, was killed. A factory near Washington was also destroyed and two people killed, while a dozen others received bad injuries.

NEAR New Amsterdam, Ind., White Caps severely beat a young man on the 26th ult. who was found with a dislocated wrist, and the woman was warned to mend her ways.

By an explosion of nitro-glycerine on the 26th ult. at Oil City, Pa., James and Charles Fisher (brothers) and Ed Hoffmann were blown to atoms.

TALKING TO THE JURY.

State's Attorney Longenecker Concludes His Argument Against the Cronin Suspects, and Judge Wing Begins His Address to the Jury.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—When court opened in the Cronin trial Saturday morning State's Attorney Longenecker resumed his address. Item by item and speech by speech he went over the proceedings in Camp 20 on the nights of February 8 and 23, bringing out the parts taken by Beggs, Coughlin, O'Sullivan and Burke in the first steps of the conspiracy.

Coughlin's declaration that Dr. Cronin was another Le Caron; O'Sullivan's assertions that he was taking into the Cronin cottage the members of the Order of Deputies, and the statement by Beggs that "a day of punishment would come for such men" were set aside as significant utterances. Then he grouped other events around these. The hiring of the Clark street flat February 20, the purchase of the furniture at Revell's, the presence of Kune and a tall man in the Clark street flat early in April, the appearance of Martin Burke as tenant of the Carlson cottage, the meeting of Coughlin and O'Sullivan in Mahoney's saloon four days after O'Sullivan had learned from Burke that the cottage was rented, the threats against a North side Catholic by Coughlin in the saloon, the organization of a literary society in Lake View March 29, when Cronin and O'Sullivan met, the payment of a second month's rent on the Carlson cottage almost simultaneous with O'Sullivan's declarations about intending to make a contract with Dr. Cronin, the printing of new cards by Dr. Cronin, the formal making of a contract when the nurse that led the doctor to his death was later foretold, the final dispatching of Dinah's horse and buggy which drove the doctor to his death—all these details were rehearsed by the State's Attorney, not a thread or shred of evidence being neglected in the terrible charge.

While Judge Longenecker was speaking about the flat at 117 Clark street Kune interrupted with "I never slept there," and a moment afterward exclaimed: "It's a lie!"

The prosecuting attorney claimed that Martin Burke could not have known the lonely cottage in a remote part of Lake View was for rent unless Patrick O'Sullivan, who lived next door to it, or Dan Coughlin had told him about it.

The removal of the furniture to the Carlson cottage and the details of O'Sullivan's contract with Dr. Cronin were explained at length. O'Sullivan said to Dr. Cronin: "If I am out of the city a man will bring one of my cards." The man who called for Dr. Cronin said: "O'Sullivan is out of the city and I have brought one of his cards." Coughlin's attempt to have "Major" Sampson "sing" Dr. Cronin, and a tribute to Thomas F. Cronin, Henry O'Connor, Patrick McGarry and other Irishmen who had boldly come forward and revealed the conspiracy formed in Camp 20 closed his morning's speech.

In the afternoon he spoke until 8:40 o'clock, reviewing the engagement of Dinah's horse by Coughlin, the descriptions of the man who drove it as given by six witnesses, its subsequent identification, and all circumstances connected with Dr. Cronin's journey to the Carlson cottage.

He spoke of the finding of the trunk. It was, he said, "sarcastically referring to the evidence of the defense, a common trunk—a common trunk with a common key, thrown off, I suppose, with common hands, besmeared with common blood, with common cotton sticking to the sides, and the edge, and the bottom, with blood as though a hog had been stuck and incarcerated in the trunk, as if the trunk had been deluged with blood. This was the kind of trunk that was used."

He described the discoveries in the Carlson cottage, the blood on the sidewalk and steps and walls, and asked if that blood came there through the killing of a dog, an ox or any other animal whatever, why should pains have been taken to cover it up by painting the floor.

Dr. Cronin was seen to enter the cottage; the blows were heard; the cries of the murdered man were stifled while he was calling on his Maker and Saviour. An hour later Coughlin and Kune appeared after the deed was done, Coughlin entered the cottage as if he were at home. Then Coughlin and O'Sullivan went to a saloon to drown their feelings in wine.

He then told the story of Burke's wanderings, and his remarkable flight at Winnipeg against extradition. Why should Burke attempt to fly to Europe, or why should he object to returning to Chicago, if, as he claimed, he rented the Carlson cottage for a lawful purpose. In conclusion Mr. Longenecker urged the jury to ponder well the evidence presented; to remember the death cries of the unfortunate physician who in his last moments called upon his God and his Jesus; to think of the men who struck him down as he uttered these cries, and he had no doubt that the verdict would be a vindication of law and justice.

Judge Wing, in behalf of Coughlin, spoke about an hour. He devoted his attention to a discussion of the nature of circumstantial evidence, and showed that in several cases it had been unreliable. He warned the jurors not to allow a national prejudice to interfere with their judgment, and reached the closing hour before he had fairly begun his argument.

REED GETS IT.

The Republicans in Congress Choose the Maine Statesman for Speaker—Subject for Congressional Action at This Session.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Republican Congressmen began gathering in good time on Saturday for the caucus for Speaker of the House of Representatives. The hour set for the caucus was noon and little time was lost in coming to order. General Henderson, of Illinois, was chosen chairman, and after the roll had been called the caucus decided that the balloting should be open. The first ballot resulted as follows: Reed, 76; McKinley, 39; Cannon, 23; Burrows, 10; Henderson, 15. On the next ballot Mr. Reed was nominated, receiving 86 votes. The Republican majority in the House of course insures his election.

Voting down a motion to take a recess until evening, the caucus immediately proceeded to select a nominee for clerk, and the various candidates were presented in short speeches. The result of the first ballot was the election of Mr. McPherson, of Pennsylvania, who received 110, to 50 for Carson, of Pennsylvania.

A. J. Holmes, ex-Representative from Iowa, and A. R. Reed, of Minnesota, were the candidates for Sergeant-at-Arms, and Mr. Holmes was elected.

Mr. Adams, of Maryland, was nominated for Doorkeeper, receiving 84 votes, against 80 for Mr. Wheat, of Wisconsin. The latter received the nomination for postmaster of the House.

It is understood that Cannon will get the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee, as he occupied a prominent position on the committee in the last Congress.

BUSINESS BEFORE CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Fifty-first Congress will have brought to its attention a number of matters upon which the public has become well informed by reason of previous discussion. The principal ones are as follows:

The Hair Educational bill; the bill to forbid land grants, general and special, to colleges, universities and schools; the bill to repeal the civil-service and oleomargarine tax laws, and various measures relating to the tariff, internal revenue and general financial systems.

There will also be presented to the Senate the results of the investigations made during the recess by the several committees upon the dressed beef business, the subject of irrigating arid lands, the relation of Canadian railroads to the Interstate Commerce law, and the commercial relations existing between the United States and Canada, including the Alaska fisheries.

The silver question will probably come up in some shape. Senator Stewart's resolution, introduced last session, declaring it to be the sense of that body that the Secretary of the Treasury should purchase the full limit of silver bullion for coinage fixed by the law—$4,000,000 monthly—will be pressed for adoption. The tripartite treaty with Great Britain and Germany respecting the control and direction of affairs in Samoa, the principal topic to be discussed under the head of foreign affairs.

Mr. John Rowe purchased a horse of Henry Gieske last week. John now has a mate to his jumbo grey.

The school taught by James Hagan proves to be a success since the scholars are obliged to toe the scratch.

People in this part of the country are enjoying themselves taking sleigh rides and improving their time hauling wood and other truck.

Frank Riggs has commenced his winter term of school with a uniform set of text books, and has the pleasure of pulling the rope on a 400 pound bell.

The Enjoyment of a Bath.

Is greatly enhanced by the use of Cole's Carbolic Soap. It is an absolutely pure medicinal Toilet Soap that is refreshing and invigorating to the skin and preserves and beautifies the complexion. It soothes and heals irritations, sunburns, rash and prickly heat, cures pimples, skin blemishes and humors, and is suited both to the infant and the aged. It produces a soft, creamy emulsion, even in hard water, and its delightful perfume, absolute purity and rare medicinal properties render it far superior to all other soaps for toilet, bath and nursery purposes. The wrapper on the genuine Carbolic Soap is black and the letters green. Price 25 cents. Sold by Glazier the druggist.

The Bald Headed Truth

About our stock is just this—It's immense. Quality, quantity, prices, each defy competition. Others may deal out "bald disjointed chat" about their goods, but the bald headed truth is that our kurt prices can't be capped or handicapped.

Truth Crushed to Earth

Will rise again but the truth about our prices is that they are so crushed that they can't rise again. They are utterly smashed, broken and

All Knt Up.

Now is the time to take advantage of the greatest bargain opportunity of a lifetime.

Opportunity Has No Hair

behind says the proverb. It's no good to chase opportunity when it's gone past you once. The bargains and kurt are on sale now, but they are going fast, the public have caught onto the fact that we are writing a new chapter on bargain making.

We have put the knife into our complete stock of Holiday Goods, it has knt deep, it has knt right and left, cutting prices to almost nothing, but strange as it may seem, has left the goods in excellent condition. The only fault people find with them now is that the prices knt such a small figure.

See Our Knt On Dolls.

Have got 'em from 50 per cent down up to 99 cents each. Only two car loads left, and going fast.

We intend to convince you that it pays to trade with Glazier the Druggist.

Verily, merrily, more and more it pays to trade at Glazier's Store.

Probate Order.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Washtenaw, ss. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, on Tuesday, the 12th day of November, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine. Present, J. WILLARD BABBITT, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Abigail Davis, deceased. William E. Deper, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, comes into court and represents that he is now prepared to render his final account as such executor. Thereupon it is ordered, that Tuesday, the 12th day of December next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for examining and allowing such account, and that the devisees, legatees and heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Ann Arbor, in said County, and show cause, if any there be, why the said account should not be allowed, and the hearing there of, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Herald a newspaper printed and circulating in said County, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

J. WILLARD BABBITT, Judge of Probate. WM. G. DUTY, Probate Register. n4

Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN. Louis Dettling, Complainant, vs. Valt Bannister, Catherine Bannister, Michael Weinman, Caroline Weinman, defendants. 22nd Judicial Circuit in Chancery. Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, in Chancery, at Ann Arbor on the 30th day of October, A. D. 1890. In this cause, it appearing from affidavit on file, that the defendants Michael Weinman and Caroline Weinman are not residents of this State, but reside at Nigardville, Washington County, Oregon, On motion of complainant's solicitor it is ordered that the appraiser of said non-resident defendants, Michael Weinman and Caroline Weinman, be entered herein, within four months from the date of this order and in case of their failure to do so, the complainant's solicitor may cause a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Herald, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said County, and that said publication be continued therein once in each week for six weeks in succession, or until such time as the said non-resident defendants at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for their appearance.
