dispose of these goods. People wonder at the magnitude of our stock in a place like Chelsea, but we own the goods right, hence no trouble to dispose of them, and satisfy everybody.

Why we are in a position to offer you inducements not to be found elsewhere. We have been making preparations for holiday trade ever since last holidays, and does it not seem right to you that from such a stock as we have, you can better please yourself and purse than to make your selections from an assortment that is uncomplete and picked up in a short time.

Holiday goods are being sold early this season. We are already selling a good many Christmas presents. We invite an inspection of our stock and prices, knowing that if you will look, you will buy.

Respectfully,

Merchants' and Trades' Carnival.

The Merchants' and Trades' Carnival given by the Young Peoples Aid Society of the Congregational church, last Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, at the town hall, was one of the finest entertainments ever presented in Chelsea. No pains were spared in arranging the slightest detail, and everything was carried out in a manner pleasing to the large audience which attended. The main feature of the Carnival was the grand march in which thirty eight ladies took part. Each lady represented a business interest of Chelsea, and her dress was made to advertise the firm which she represented. The ladies were divided into two sections, one of which was headed by Miss Myrtle Kempf and the other by Miss Lucille Hawley, and the whole was led by Mrs. Ewing, drum-major, and Miss Lucille Townsend, drummer. For nearly an hour each evening they marched in various formations upon the floor of the hall. Each carried a banner properly inscribed with the name of the firm which she represented. The variety of costumes and banners showed the ingenuity and taste of the firms and ladies combined. As a whole they presented a pleasing sight.
On Friday evening a male quartette consisting of Messrs. Nafe, Buckley, Reed and Brown, of Ann Arbor, rendered some fine music, and on Saturday evening Mr.
R. D. Glenn, of North Lake, did some excellent whistling.

James D. Reid, United States Consul at Dunfermline, Scotland, appointed the first woman telegraph operator in this country at Lyons, N. Y. She was known at the time as "the Lady of Lyons."

LEGAL proceedings are to be begun against every building and loan association in Missouri for failure to comply with the new law requiring each of them to deposit $100,000 in cash with the State Treasurer.

The news from the Government expedition for the survey of Alaska confirms the previous reports as to the richness of the Territory in all sorts of game, its wonderful mineral resources and its extensive forests.

The latest "fad" in jewelry is a small open-face watch set in the handle of a cane, three or four inches from the top. It is wound and regulated after the fashion of stem-winders by turning the knob or head of the cane.

MR. JOHN H. SHOENBERGER, formerly of Pittsburgh, who died recently in New York, left over $1,000,000 for various charitable purposes at Pittsburgh, including $800,000 for the erection of a Shoenerger memorial hospital.

Mrs. NANCY PICARD, of Biddford, Me., who celebrated her one hundredth birthday last July, continues to cook and do the household work for a family of six. The family seem to agree that exercise is good for the old lady's health.

GENERAL BOULANGER'S personal expenses are defrayed by his admirers in France. Every week he receives a certain amount collected by working people in the provinces. The amount varies from week to week, but has been thus far large enough to keep the wolf from his door.

A NUMBER of coffers, containing about $300,000 in gold and silver in Spanish pieces dated 1666 were recently taken out of the sea near the Island of Andros at the mouth of the Aegean sea, in Greece. Six bronze cannon were also recovered. It was supposed some Spanish man-of-war was wrecked there.

LABOR deposits of ice, believed by some to be relics of the glacial period in this country, have been discovered in Idaho. They are imbedded in earth and overgrown with moss, which has prevented them from melting away. It is seriously proposed to form companies to mine this ice for sale in western cities where ice is always dear and scarce.

A WESTERN inventor is endeavoring to interest capital in his electrical magnet-lantern for easting or reflecting advertisements on the dark clouds that often hang over a city. The inventor claims to have secured contracts from several well-known firms for displaying their cards in this manner. If the idea is fully developed we may expect to see some very startling and grotesque effects.

WITH a team composed of a black and a roan, and a top buggy, P. Moyett, a resident of San Francisco, left that city last September en route for New York. One hundred and twenty days of steady travel, at an average of thirty miles a day, brought him to St. Louis. From that place he went on slower, taking more time at each stopping place. Mr. Moyett will winter in Poughkeepsie, and go to New York early next spring.

This is the way they do things in Belgium: The trial of M. Corvillain, owner of the cartridge works there, the explosion of which recently caused terrible loss of life, and of M. Delaunay for criminal negligence, ended recently in the conviction of the accused. Corvillain was sentenced to four and a half years imprisonment, and each was fined 13,000 francs and required to pay the costs of the trial.

MISS CAROLINE HILLEGAS and Lucinda Easton, the latter colored, died in South Carolina, both aged one hundred and fifteen years. Mrs. Easton was the mother of twenty-two children, the eldest of whom, were now living, would be one hundred and two years old. There is a legend to the effect that Miss Hillegas, while living in Florida during the Seminole war, was scalped by the Indians. She was a teacher in the city schools of Charleston for a great number of years. Miss Hillegas outlived all her relatives, and at the time of her death was the only representative of one of Charleston's oldest families.

The New York police officials have to deal with a case of socialism on their force. The man in question is Sergeant Oliver Tims, of Captain Reilly's West Thirtieth street station. Five years ago he was warned by his superiors not to give public utterance to such sentiments as, in a certain lecture he then delivered, he showed he held. He now renounces the declaration of his views, giving vent to them last Sunday in a two-column interview in the Volksrecht, organ of the Anarchists Mose and Shevitch. In it he said every fifth man on the police force believed with him. Inspector Hynes denies this.

JESSE A. ATWOOD, of San Francisco, who was Quartermaster-Sergeant of the First Wisconsin Cavalry during the rebellion, and assisted in the capture of Jefferson Davis, has applied to the Treasury Department for his share of the reward offered for the capture. It appears that Atwood knew nothing about the reward, and only recently his attention was called to a newspaper statement that the first Comptroller had allowed a cavalryman $207 as his share of the $100,000 appropriated by Congress. Atwood can obtain the money he claims to be due him only by applying to Congress, as the reward has been distributed.
