A Desperate Thief's Bloody Work in Chieago-He Shoots and Robs a Woman-An Officer Attempts His Arrest and Is shot Down-Chased Through the Streets by a Mob, He Turns on His Pursuers and Shoots a Citizen and Another Policeman -The Latter Mortally Wounded. CHICAGO, March 8 .- Officers Isaac Linrille and Emmet Briscoe, of the central detail, and E. C. Cole, a citizen, were shot down in the street shortly after 6 o'clock Friday evening by Patrick Crowe, a desperate young thief whom the officials were attempting to place under arrest for a diamond robbery of ing close watch on Holzhay, and for some days Deputy Warden Hawley has suspected that he was meditating some considerable magnitude.

Patrick Crowe is a recent importation from Omaha, Neb., having, according to his story, been in the city but a few days. Wednesday night Crowe, who had been on a protracted spree, called at a disreputable house on Clark street, near Polk, and next morning about 11 o'clock he attempted to rob a woman named Annie Hall of diamond jewelry valued at $1,500. The woman resisted and Crowe discharged his revolver at her, the bullet lodging in the fleshy part of her left arm. The thief then made his escapé. The robbery and shooting were reported at the Central station and Detectives O'Brien, Weaver, Plunkett and Marsh were detailed on the case. They found that Crowe has pawned a diamond star belonging to the woman at Harris' loan office, 186 Clark street, promised to return in the evening with more of the jewelry, and of this fact the officers were apprised. They watched for him until 6 o'clock and then left for the station, after requesting Officer Linville, who stands at the corner of Clark and Monroe streets, to arrest the thief if he should put in an appearance. The detectives had but just left the loan office when Crowe was seen by Officer Linville to enter the place. As-Crowe was leaving the pawnshop Officer Linville stepped up to him and placed him under arrest.

"I'll never go with you alive," retorted the prisoner, whipping a revolver from his pocket and firing full in the face of the officer. The bullet struck just below the left ear, and, passing completely through the tongue, made the blood pouring in torren'ts from his mouth.

The shooting took place at a time when all the employes of the factories and stores in the vicinity were quitting their work, and a hundred or more citizens followed the fugitive, who was more, until the street was filled with In the Canadian Parliament a bill was pursuers who were yelling: "Stop > seize the man, when a shot from in the left breast, the bullet enterwounded. As he dropped he pulled his own revolver and fired at Crowe, the bullet crashing through the assailant's Michigan avenue, his pursuers being reinforced by Detectives Plunkett, Marsh, McDonald and half a dozen uniformed officers who were attracted by the sounds of the shooting and the yells and cries of the excited crowd.

As he was crossing State street Crowe ing chamber of his revolver at the crowd. The bullet plowed through the arm of C. E. Cole, who was foremost among the pursuers. Crowe continued running and turned south on Michigan avenue, taking refuge in building, where, with revolver in hand, he kept his pursuers at bay until Detectives Plunkett and Marsh struck him down with well-directed blows from the butts of their revolvers. Hand- the fair organization would be incorcuffs were placed on his wrists and he was marched toward the station, still followed by at least a thousand persons who had joined in the chase and whose cries of "Lynch him!" "String him up!" | would make from $0,000,000 to $7,000, caused the now thoroughly-cowed man to tremble with fear.

At the station Crowe said he came here from Omaha last Monday, where he had been employed in the packinghouse of Armour & Cudahy. He admitted that victims of his in that city had caused him to leave rather suddenly, but refused to say what the trouble was. He has a father, mother and brothers living in Omaha, whom he claims are very respectably connected. His brother-inlaw, Patrick King, is a police magistrate in that city. Crowe also claims to have a brother in this city who is a placed themselves entirely in the priest, but refuses to give his name or the church over which he presides.

Officer Linville was taken to his home at 32 Sixteenth street. It is feared that it expressly understood that Chicago he will lose his power of speech, his did not ask any postponement. Chitongue having been almost cut in two cago, it was said, could finish her buildby the assassin's bullet. It is also feared that lockjaw will set in, in which case the injuries will probably prove fatal. E. C. Cole, the citizen who was shot, was taken to his home at the Madison House, 157 Madison street. His injury, which consists of a flesh wound in the arm, is not considered dangerous. Officer Briscoe, who is the most dangerously injured. was conveyed to the Mercy Hospital. He is believed to be fatally injured.

HOLZHAY'S LATEST BREAK.

The Imprisoned Highwayman Terrorizes Marquette Penitentiary for a Couple of Hours and Only Surrenders After Four Fingers of His Right Hand Are Shot Away by the Warden.

MARQUETTE, Mich., March 7.-Rei aund Holzhay, the train robber and nurderer new serving a life sentence at the branch prison here, will never pull a trigger again. All four fingers of his right hand are shot away.

The prison officials have been keep-desperate outbreak. Wednesday afternoon he sent Keeper Polliser bring the convict to his office for search. Polliser unlocked the cell and told Holzhay to come along. As Polliser turned to lock the cell door Holzhay threw his left arm around the keeper's neck, and, drawing a murderous-looking knife, pressed it against his throat. He then drew Polliser toward the gate. Deputy Warden Hawley drew a bead on the. convict, when the latter held Polliser in front of him so as to form a shield. He continued this device for some time, stepping out and daring the deputy warden to kill him, but dodging behind Polliser and holding his knife at the latter's throat whenever the rifle was aimed at him. Finally Polliser broke away and ran around the cell block, with Holzhay in pursuit.

Seeing that Polliser would escape,
Holzhay seized a convict named Mezervey, who happened to be loose in the corridor, and repeated the same game. For two hours the warden stood at the gate trying to get a chance to disarm Holzhay or to induce him to drop the knife. "I would have simply rushed in," said the warden, "but I was afraid the fellow might be insane, and that any attempt to do so would simply result in Mezervey's death. At last, by sending Deputy Warden Hawley to talk with another convict on the other side of the cell block, I distracted his attention for a moment. His right hand, holding the knife, lay on his knee. took steady aim and planted a bullet right in his knuckles. He got up and called out: 'Well' you've done it,' and walked toward his cell.

The heavy bullet from the Martini rifle tore away all of his right-hand fingers and smashed the metacarpal bones; only his thumb is left. It grazed Mezervey's leg, but he was not hurt. Holzhay was seen last evening. He lay groaning with pain and refused to answer questions. By his coolness and good marksman Warden Tompkins certainly saved Meservey's life. Public opinion here would have sustained him fully in clared that he would not stay in prison two years.

Governor Luce recently pardoned Daniel Sullivan from State's prison. Sullivan was sentenced January 8, 1885, for five years. His crime was assault and attempt to kill. The reasons for his pardon are, his youth (he was 19 at the time of the sentence), the apparent absence of motive, as it was a drunken quarrel, and the belief of the pardoning board that he has been sufficiently punished. He had signed a pledge to abstain from intoxicating drink and places where to Occurs at London - The Minister's Stricken Family Condoled by President Harrison and Queen Victoria - The Young Man's Remains to Be Brought to America for Burial.

LONDON, March 6.-Young Abraham Lincoln died suddenly at 11:07 o'clock yesterday morning. When the doctor and family saw him the first thing in other day and she was taken with her the morning there was no indication she happened to think that her Christmas frock, in which she took so much as it had been doing for months, but he was cheerful. There was at least hope that he might pull through. At 11 o'clock the attendants in the room gave him a drink of beef tea. The patient, as

The body will be embalmed and sent home for interment. The funeral service will be held in Mr. Lincoln's house on Friday next. Only intimate friends of the family and the officials of the United States legation will be invited. The body will be deposited temporarily the catacombs at Kensal Green, whence it will be transferred to the family tomb at Springfield, Ill. Mr. Lincoln desires that the funeral shall be conducted with the greatest privacy and simplicity. The Minister is bearing up well under the affliction.

The Minister's family are Presby-teriaus, and the service will probably be conducted by a Presbyterian elergyman. Since the news of the lad's death got about the Minister has received no end of messages of condolence, not only from friends at home but distinguished people here. The Queen promptly sent a message through Ponsonby. The Ambassadors and Ministers here of other Governments expressed the deepest sympathy. It is not unlikely that within a few weeks the Minister may return to America with leave of absence to take the body to Illinois. The Minister had expected to spend a few weeks in America about Christmas time, but the critical condition of his son at Versailles prevented.

Young Lincoln wanted nearly six months of being 17 years old, but was a manly, vigorous fellow. He was an immense favorite with all who knew him. WASHINGTON, March 6 .- The President has sent a message of condolence to Mr. Lincoln.
