BY LARRY CHITTBDEN. Ah, what is life? A bubble blown Across Time's mystic stream, Its secret source, alas, unknown, Its future still a dream?

Ah, what is life? An echo sound; A passing sunbeam's glow; A search for something never found, A pilgrimage of woe?

Ah, what is life? A shoreless sea That's swept by gales of sorrow: A tear perhaps, to-day for thee, Oblivion for to-morrow?

Ah, what is life? A selfish hour; A thrill of thought and breath; A hidden, budding, thorny flower Which withers soon in death?

No! Life's a river, broad and deep, That flows to fairer seas,
Through pale, mysterious realms of sleep,
To God's eternities.

Every young man who carns wages ought to buy a lot and make a start on s home. The way to get a start is to save home. The way to get a start is to save a little money each month and make a payment on your purchase, and so, a little by little, pay for a lot and build you a house. Don't spend all your money of livery turn outs, dances and ice cream to please your best girl. After a while you will need a home for that best girl and the youngsters that in some way or another come around and want to "put up" with you. Put a little of your spare cash into the ground as you go along, and after many days it will bring you a royalty.

A home without a newspaper is no home at all. It is a kind of a dreary den—s rendezvous of bed bugs and fleas, where the inhabitants live in blissfull ignorance of what the world is doing. It is inhabited by a class who do not know who is president or what he is president of—who never find out that a thing has happened until long after everyone else has forgotten it. The children grow up in rags and dirt, while the wife generally finds consolation in darning socks and lugging a pipe loaded with long green tobacco, and the man generally lives because he can't die and he is too lazy to kill himself. He goes out on election day and does not know what he is voting for, but just takes the ticket bearing the name his great-great grandfather voted for."

An exchange says: "Did you ever stop to think what a tireless letter writer a good local paper is? Week after week, reaching into year after year, it goes on telling of marriages, births, deaths and the coming and going of the people of our town, business success or failure, accidents, crops, improvements, meetings, in fact events of all kinds. All is grist that comes to the hopper of a good local paper. Why, if you were to undertake to write a letter every week to your absent friends and tell them half the news that your local paper gives, you would soon give up in despair. The supposed pleasure would become tiresome, and the letters grow shorter, farther and farther apart and finally quit. Why

His mother, a daughter of Henry Little, of Newcastle, Me., died prematurely.

Thomas Drummond graduated from Bowdoin College at Brunswick, Me., in 1830, at the age of 21, after preparing at the Newcastle, Monmouth, Farmington and Gorham academies. Going to Philadelphia, he studied law in the office of William T. Dwight, son of President Dwight, of Yale College; but when this patron entered the ministry Mr. Drummond finished his studies in the omce of Thomas Bradford, Jr., and was admitted to practice at the Philadelphia bar in March, 1833. Foreseeing the future importance of the West, he moved to Galena, Ill., in 1885, and took a prominent position from the first. As a staunch Whig he was elected to the Illinois State Legislature in 1840, and served out the first and last elective office he ever held. Later he

BYNUM'S BITTERNESS.

It Causes His Censure by the House of Representatives—The Indiana Congress-man Intimates That Mr. Bayne (Pa.) Is a "Liar and Perjurer," and Is Rebuked by the Speaker, Authorized by a Vote of

WASHINGTON, May 19 .- The words "liar and perjuref" were used in the House of Representatives Saturday afternoon; deliberately and with a full knowledge of their significance. The tariff debate in the early part of the day was very dull and uninteresting, but shortly before 4 o'clock it became lively enough to atone for the preceding dullness and the scene which followed was one of the most extraordiary which has ever been witnessed in the House. In point of excitement and noise it exceeded some of the stirring times when the new rules were being debated.

Last Wednesday Mr. Bayne (Pa.) introduced a letter from James Campbell, head of the Glassblowers' Association of Pittsburgh, in which Campbell charged that Mr. Bynum (Ind.) and Mr. Wilson (W. Va.) had both stated that $15 per month was wages enough for any working-man. This letter was sworn to and accompanied by affidavits. Mr. Bynum characterized Campbell as a liar and perjurer.

Saturday Mr. Bayne read another letter from Campbell in which he re-The deceased was a widower, his wife peated his former allegations respecting Messrs. Bynum and Wilson. When the father of four children, one of whom | the letter was read, Mr. Breckinridge (Ky.), moved that Mr. Bayne be called The funeral will be held in this city | to order for having introduced matter which was a reflection on the character

Finally Mr. McKinley (O.) moved that Mr. Bynum be given unlimited time in which to make a statement, and after the House was quieted down somewhat in by saying: "Since the gentleman from Pennsylvania is the sewer thought which-" Here he was interrupted by Mr. Cheadle (Ind.) calling him to order and objecting to the use of the word sewer. Mr. Bynum said he would withdraw the sewer and substitute for it "conduit pipe," and continued:

"I desire to say, as I did the other day, knowing full well the meaning of the words, and that I am responsible for them, that Mr. Campbell is a liar and a perjurer. I want to say also that I have as great confidence in the character of Mr. Campbell as I have in the character of the gentleman who makes this attack upon

Mr. Bynnm said this deliberately and without a shade of excitement in his voice. He looked straight at Mr. Bayne all the time while he was talking. Instantly there was an uproar . A lozen members were on their feet crying "Order," but above the din could be heard the voice of Mr. Cutcheon (Mich.), who demanded that the words be "taken down." This was done, and, was associated politically and professionally with Lincoln, Douglas, Judge Trumbull, Judge Treat, Chief-Justice David Davis, W. W. Hamilton, O. P. Field, Joseph P. Hoyne, and many The motion was agreed to, and Mr Grosvenor (O.), who was presiding as chairman of the committee of the whole, reported the words to Speaker Reed ..

Mr. Cutcheon then offered a resolution to censure Mr. Bynum, but before it could be voted upon the Democrats made innumerable points of order, on which they were overruled by the Speaker, and from which appeals were taken so as to consume time. This state of things lasted for several hours, during all of which time the House was in a perfect uproar, but at last Mr. Cutcheon's resolution was put and carried by a party-vote. Mr. Springer (Ill.) demanded a division of the resolutions, and the first resolution, declaring that Mr. Bynum merited the censure of the House, was adopted-yeas, 126; nays, 103. The second resolution; providing for the presence of Mr. Bynum before the bar of the House, was also adopted-yeas, 126; nays, 103-Mr. McKenna (Cal.) voting in the negative. Then Mr. Bynum leaning on the arm of Mr. Holman (Ind.), appeared at the bar, accompanied by all of his Democratic associates who could find room in the limited space, and who were loud in their applause.

The Speaker obtained order and requested the gentlemen to take their seats. Mr. Springer, acting as spokesman for his party, declined to do so. Sergeant-at-Arms Holmes then said:

"Mr. Bynum, by resolution of the House of Representatives you are required to appear before the bar of the House to receive the censure of that body through its Speaker." The Speaker again requested members to take their seats, and the Democrats again refused to comply. The Speaker then said,

"The House of Representatives perceives that it is impossible for the chair to enforce or der on account of the action of certain members. The chair will therefore proceed to do its duty under the present condition of disorder. William D. Bynum, you are arraigned at the bar of the House for having transgressed its rules by your remarks. For this offense the House desires that you should be censured at its bar. In the name of the House, therefore, I prono upon you its censure. The Sergeant-at-Arms will now release you.' Mr. Bynum-Under such circumstances I accept the censure of the House as a decoration of honor. [Democratic applause.] There was some disposition manifest-

BURIED ALIVE.

Conneyivania Coal Mine Caves in-rwenty-Seven Miners at Work When the Calamity Occurred-Eighteen of om Rescued, Some Fatally Injured-

Little Hope for the Others. WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 16.—The long ories of awful mine disasters that have visited this valley within the last year reached a climax Monday moring in the entombing of twenty-seven men in the Hardford mine of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company at Ashley, three miles from this city. At 9 o'clock the com-munity was thrown into a state of wild excitement by the news that an extensive cave-in had occurred in No. 6 collery, covering an area of more than ten cres, and that twenty-seven men who had gone down into the pit in the morning were in all probability lost.

Rescuing parties were at once organized, and all day long the men toiled at the stubborn rock, while the weeping wives and children of the buried men stood around the opening. At 6:15 p. there was a commotion at the mouth of the dark opening and the foreman crawled out on his hands and knees and announced that they had found one of the victims. He was lying at the bottom of a fifty-foot plane, and in order to rescue him it became necessary to lower a miner with a rope. This was done and the charred and blackened form of Anthony Froyne, the first of the victims, was hoisted to surface. He is still alive, his injuries are considered fatal. It is supposed that Froyne wandered away from the rest of the men and in his efforts to find a way out fired the gas in an old chamber. If this explosion reached the other men their chances of escape are very slight. The man rescued recovered consciousness and told of the horror. He said when the cave-in came the men all threw down their tools and made for the main gangway. They found it was blocked with debris. Some of the men then fainted and sunk to the ground. Others got down on their knees annd prayed for deliverance. Others rummaged among the abandoned workings all the afternoon. When the cave-in occurred there was a slight explosion in one of the breaks. which burned several men. He says the air is bad, and unless the other men are reached within the next ten hours they must perish. Wreck and ruin was wrought on the surface. Nearly a score of houses were shattered and the families compelled to flee for their lives. A late report from the scene of the disaster is to the effect that the rescuing party had penetrated to within sight of two dead bodies, but that the gas was so thick that they were driven bact at the sineface. Twelve men were afterward taken out bac.', and six fatally injured. Nine still remain imprisoned in the mine.

M'CALLA FOUND GUILTY. He Is Suspended from Rank and Duty for

Three Years. Washington, May 16.—The action of the Secretary of the Navy in the case of Bowman H. McCalla, late Commander of the United States steamer Enterprise, was made public Thursday. McCalla was tried by court-martial on five charges, as follows: charges, as follows:

Striking another person in the navy (Fireman John E. Walker); violation of the twenty-fourth article of the articles for the government of the navy (inflicting improper punishments); maltreatment of persons subject to his orders; conduct unbecoming an officer of the navy, and violation of the tenth clause of the twentieth article of the articles for the government of the navy, in failing to read to the ship's company the articles for the government of the navy.

The court found him guilty of all the charges and sentenced him "to be suspended from rank and duty for a period of three years and to retain his present number on the list of Commanders while so suspended." The action of the de-partment is embodied in a general order issued by the Secretary approving the sentence. FLOUR MILLS BURNED.
