That ancient rumor that the Michigan Central will tunnel the St. Clair river between St. Clair and Courtright is again on the rounds.

A new street lamp has been placed at the corner of South and Garfield, and another at the corner of Summit and Garfield streets. Correct.

The comparative registration for October, 1890, and 1889, at the University of Michigan, shows the total of 2,271 as against 2,002 for last year.

A high official of the Michigan Central railroad is reported to have said that within eighteen months from now the Michigan Central would be doubled tracked from Detroit to Chicago via the main line.

A general meeting of the citizen of Sylvan Center, and all interested, will be held next Monday evening at the church in Sylvan Center, Oct. 27th, at 7 o'clock to take into consideration what disposition to make of the building, as it is not fit to hold services in at present.

All watches are said to be compasses, and the matter is explained in this way: Point the hour hand to the sun and the south is exactly half way between the hour and the figure XII on the watch. For instance, supposing that it is 4 o'clock. Point the hand indicating 4 to the sun and II on the watch is exactly south. This is a good thing for woodman and hunters to remember.

An exchange says: "Some go to church to weep, while others go to sleep. Some go their wives to please, their conscience others go to ease. Some go to tell their woes, others go to show their clothes. Some go to hear the preacher, others like the solo singer. Boys go to reconnoiter, girls go because they oughter. Many go for sage reflections, precious few to help collections."

The Patrons of Industry held a county convention in Dexter last Saturday, and put the following ticket in the field. Sheriff, Charles D. Johnson, of Dexter; clerk, G. W. Merrill, of Webster; treasurer, R. P. Chase, of Sylvan; register of deeds, J. N. Merchant, of Lima; prosecuting attorney, George R. Williams, of Milan; circuit court commissioners, Warren E. Walker, of Ann Arbor, and James T. Honey, of Scio; coroners, Horace Baldwin, of Lima, and W. D. Smith, of Dexter; surveyor, John K. Yocum, of Sylvan.

Every member of St. Mary's parish is interested in the success of the coming Bazaar, which begins Tuesday evening Oct. 28. Following is the program: First evening, a brief speech by Hon. James S. Gorman, welcoming and introducing Bishop Foley, who will address those present, after which a song of greeting by the children, and other exercises. The second and third nights, songs and tableaux. One of the attractions of the Bazaar will be the art gallery where some fine works of art will be on exhibition and each visitor will receive a program. There will be five booths, the Sodality, Rosary and Sacred Heart, which will be presided over by the officers of the respective societies, assisted by a number of young ladies. Supper will be served each night at any time after five o'clock.

Thanksgiving day will soon be here. Halloween one week from to-morrow night.

Burglars broke into S. H. Dodge's Jewelry store, in Ypsilanti, Tuesday night, of last week, and stole about $700. worth of goods.

William Steward, a Ypsilanti boy, attempted to steal a ride on a Michigan Central train Friday. He missed his footing and fell under the cars and as a result lost one foot and may lose the other.

Unless the signs of the times are entirely misleading the end of the agricultural depression is close at hand; and those who have labored hopefully, in the midst of continued discouragement, looking for the dawn, are even now seeing it.

The increase in the price of silver has had the effect of raising the price of wheat in India, the supply of which from that source has been one of the most important factors in keeping down the price of wheat below a fair margin above the cost of production. The predictions that the law would result in this country becoming the dumping ground for the silver of the world has not proven true.

The habit which some people have of putting coins in their mouth or between their teeth is a very common one, and people of refinement are addicted to it as well as others. Singularly enough, this habit is confined almost wholly to women, who do it for convenience sake while looking for change or buttoning up a glove. If they knew the danger of infection they run by so doing, the evil might in a measure be abated.

In some cities classes have been organized to teach the young men and women to read the New Testament in the Greek language. A united effort to get them to read it in English, and do it understandingly, would be more to the point. There is a growing movement toward the aesthetic in religious circles. An effort, as it were, to build up exclusive circles inside the one that should be broad enough to take in "all sorts and conditions of men."

An English newspaper charged a shire councillor with having "tiddly winked the shire funds." The law was invoked and, after consulting all available dictionaries without finding any definition of the term, the Court decided that the phrase was not necessarily libelous. The game of tiddlywinks, which is now in vogue in this country, is one of skill, and an expert tiddlywinker must be gifted with slight of hand.

Financial tiddlywinking is a suggestive phrase, and is now introduced for the first time.

One of the prettiest weddings ever solemnized in St. Mary's church, took place last Tuesday morning, when Mr. Gottfried Weick, and Miss Carrie Lusty were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Rev. Father Considine officiated at the impressive service, after which a nuptial mass was celebrated. A large number of relatives and friends were present.

The attendants were Mr. Louis Eisenman and Miss Maggie Lusty. Mr. and Mrs. Weick left for Detroit on their wedding tour, accompanied by the best wishes of many friends for a happy wedded life.

There is no question that fruit growing hereafter must be left mainly, if not wholly to those who will make a business of growing it and do all that is needed to insure its success. If good fruit crops can be assured every year, as we believe possible, nothing else can pay so well. Left as fruit orchard are now to bear only when they will with little care they only cumber the ground on which they stand. So great is the natural productiveness of most kinds of fruits that fruit must be generally thinned to enable it to reach perfection, if insect depredators are destroyed.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Health in Michigan.

Reports to the State Board of Health by seventy-six observers in different parts of the State for the week ended October 11 indicated that inflammation of the lungs, pneumonia, whooping cough, pleurisy, diphtheria, inflammation of the bowels and typhoid fever and measles decreased in area of prevalence. Diphtheria was reported at twenty-six places, scarlet fever at thirty-four, typhoid fever at forty-seven and measles at six places.

Michigan's Crops.

The winter apple crop in Michigan is little more than a quarter of an average crop. The October crop report shows that apples will yield only 23 per cent. of an average crop in the southern counties, 30 per cent. in the central, and 37 per cent. for the State as a whole. Potatoes will yield 55 per cent. of an average crop, corn 55 bushels per acre, oats 25.61, and barley 18.70 bushels per acre. The report shows the yield of wheat in the State to be 23,070,300 bushels.

Panic on a Lake Steamer.

The steamer Romona, for Port Huron, with about fifty passengers aboard, was discovered on fire when about six miles from St. Clair Falls. The passengers were panic-stricken and were all driven to the upper deck by the flames and smoke. The fire was fought ineffectually by the crew until the tug Jessie came alongside and poured water into the hold, subduing the flames. After examination it was found that the hold was uninjured, and the vessel proceeded.

A Cow Club.

Iron Mountain has a cow club. On joining each cow owner pays into the treasury seventy-five cents for each cow in his possession, and when a member's cow dies an assessment is made and $40 is paid to the loser. After the initiation fee the assessments are all the members pay into the club, and as the membership already exceeds 130 a comparatively insignificant sum is levied upon each. Three claims have already been paid.

A Terrible Mistake.

Nelson Ross and Henry McKelvie went hunting at Alpena. Ross shot a bird and while in the thick brush looking for him McKelvie mistook him for a deer and shot him dead. Coroner Shannon held an inquest, the jury bringing in a verdict of accidental shooting. Ross was about 30 years of age, unmarried, and his parents live in Canada.

To Bridge the Detroit River.

President Ledyard of the Michigan Central road says that the recent sounding and surveys of the river opposite the depot in Detroit were for the purpose of procuring estimates for a high bridge across the Detroit river. A tunnel, besides being costly, would, he says, be unpopular, and few people would travel by such a route.

Explosion of Mill Bolters.

The boilers in the saw-mill of the Deery Lumber Company at North Muskegon exploded, demolishing the mill and fatally injuring William Yeager, the fireman, who died soon after. Several laborers about the mill had arms and legs broken. The loss to the mill was $12,000, with no insurance.

Drowned in Trying to Save Her Child.

Mrs. William Wellhausen and her 7-year-old son were drowned in a well at their home near Marine City. The boy fell into the well by accident and the mother hearing his cries grew frantic, plunged into the water, and was also drowned before help came. Mrs. Wellhausen was 46 years old.

Consumptives Barred.

MANY PERISHED.

The Leland Hotel at Syracuse, N. Y., Destroyed by Fire—Guests Awake to Find Theirselves Surrounded by Flames—Many Leap from the Windows to a Horrible Death on the Pavement Below—Twenty-Five or More Lives Lost.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 16.—What proved to be the most disastrous fire that has visited Syracuse for many years was discovered in the Leland Hotel at 12:30 o'clock this morning. At 1:30 a. m. the hotel was still burning, but the fire department had the flames under control. There were four dead bodies at different establishments and one dead at St. Joseph's Hospital. These bodies have as yet been unidentified. It will be utterly impossible to learn definitely how many were burned to death whose bodies will never be found.

Among those injured is Cora Tanager, the actress, who was severely burned about the head and feet. She was playing an engagement at the Grand Opera House and had a room in the hotel. Every physician in Syracuse is on the ground. Most of those killed were on the fourth and fifth floors. Frank Carey, of Glens Falls, N. Y., has been identified as one of those that were burned to death.

A eyewitness of the fire says it is certain that at least twenty-five persons have lost their lives, and many more have been more or less injured. One woman was being lowered from a window by the aid of a rope. She had reached a point opposite the third story when the rope became ignited from the burning sill, the rope parted and the woman fell to the pavement—her brains dashed out and her body flattened into a shapeless mass.

Many people crazed with fright lost their lives by jumping from windows. One man says he saw six people jump from different windows on the Fayette street side of the building within a space of four minutes, and the sight sickened him with his horror and he was compelled to leave the spot. The building was provided with both iron fire-escapes on the outside and ropes on the inside, which were the means of saving many lives.

A man and his wife were seen locked in each other's arms in a window on the fifth floor at the northeast corner of the building. Below them was a perfect sea of flames. No possibility of escape except by the window was open to them, and that seemed inevitable death. No assistance could reach them. The woman seemed to be anxious to jump, but her husband was earnestly entreating her to desist. The crowd below aided with bated breath. The woman made one last effort to jump, was restrained by her husband, and the cry of the crowd signaled the awful end that must have befallen them as they fell backward into the room into a mass of flames.

At a window on the fourth floor, almost directly under this, stood a woman surrounded on all sides by fierce flames. She seemed irresolute as to whether to jump to the pavement or to wait for help that was fast approaching on the sill of the window and placed her hands above her head. People in the street below shuddered and turned their faces to shut out the horrible sight that must meet their gaze should the woman jump to the ground. The woman did not jump, but seemed to be withheld either by fear or a feeling that escape would come from some other source. She stepped down from the sill into the room and remained at the window but an instant, when the whole room became enveloped in flames and she sunk back from view.

One of the most frightful incidents of the fire was the terrible death of a woman who jumped from the fifth story of the building. Several policemen stood on the sidewalk as she jumped, ready to catch her as she fell. She was hurled to the ground, and a woman jumped into one of the nets almost at the same moment and escaped with broken limbs. One woman lay on the ground where she had fallen, tearing the hair from her head. Her hair had caught fire and it was with difficulty that the flames were quenched. She, together with the others, had jumped from the rear windows, was picked up and carried on a stretcher to a saloon in the neighborhood. The fire is said to have started in a kitchen. The building will be a total loss. It was built two years ago at a cost of $150,000. It is impossible to learn how many guests were at the hotel at the time the fire broke out. The total loss will not fall short of $500,000, and the building is partially covered by insurance.

The hotel was one of the finest in Central New York. It stood on one of the most prominent corners of the city and was well known to the traveling public of the United States. There were 400 rooms in the house, and owing to its convenient location it had always been filled with guests. The New York Central railroad's station adjoined the hotel. Recently the rooms and parlors of the house were redecorated and in the elegant furniture was put in and the entire hotel given a practically new appearance. It was a six-story structure built of stone, brick and iron. There was an entrance on each corner. Running along the roof was a number of the restaurant was attached to the hotel. All the rooms were steam heated.

The Remains of the Late Justice Miller Interred at Kokuk with Impressive Ceremonies—The Town City Pays a Marked Tribute to the Memory of Her Honored Son.

KOKUK, Ia., Oct. 30.—A special car left this city at 5 o'clock a. m., Saturday conveying a committee of citizens who went to Burlington to meet the family and friends accompanying the remains of the late Justice Miller and to act as an escort to the body to this city. The train arrived here shortly after 9. It was met at the depot by the pall-bearers, the various committees having in charge the funeral arrangements. The body was borne to the Federal building, which had been elaborately draped in mourning. The casket was deposited in the court-room in which the dead Justice had frequently presided, upon a handsome catafalque. The face of the beloved jurist was exposed, and during the few hours the body lay in state it was viewed by several thousand people.

The city had donned the garb of mourning out of respect to the memory of the honored dead. Public and private buildings were covered with black and a high wind during the early morning destroyed many decorations. All along the line of march over which the funeral procession moved flags were displayed at half-mast. Besides the distinguished gentlemen who accompanied the remains from Washington the Supreme Court of the State was represented, and there were large delegations of attorneys from all the States included in the circuit that was presided over by the dead Justice.

At 2 o'clock the funeral services were held at the Unitarian Church, of which the deceased had been a member. The church was entirely inadequate to accommodate even a small portion of the people who crowded about it long before the doors were opened. The services were opened with an organ voluntary, an antiphony by Schubert, after which the burial service was read by Rev. R. Hassall, pastor of the church. A prayer by Rev. Mr. Melvin, of the Episcopal church, followed, and then a male quartette sang the anthem "Consolation." The funeral address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Hassall, who spoke feelingly of the many virtues, the noble qualities and the great ability of the man whose body was laid in death before him. The quartette then sang "Lead, Kindly Light," and Rev. Hassall pronounced the benediction. While Mr. Schaefer, the organist, played Beethoven's funeral march, the casket was removed.

The funeral car, which had been toward Oakland Cemetery, where interment was made in the family lot. The funeral cortege was the most imposing demonstration ever seen here. At the cemetery the services were of the simplest description.

Little Booth Kills Dan Price, Her Betrayer and Defamer, at Quincy, Ill.—She Receives a Mortal Wound by an Accidental Shot from Her Own Revolver.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 30.—A double shooting in a crowded street startled the whole city Saturday. About 9 o'clock, while Dan Price was walking north on Sixth street, a woman who proved to be Little Booth crept up behind him, and pointing a revolver at his neck fired. The man rushed into a store adjoining, pulled out a revolver and returning to the street placed the weapon within two feet of the woman's body and fired, but missed her. The plucky woman was ready to give her assailant another round when he fled into the store and fell to the floor. The revolver in the woman's hand was wrested from her by her victim's brother. It exploded during the struggle and the bullet passed through her body. She was hurried to a surgeon's, where her wound was dressed.

Price was quickly taken to the hospital, but died late in the afternoon. Miss Booth lingered until 6:30 a. m. Sunday, when she died. The cause for the shooting is traced back to a suit of an unusually sensational character. Price was engaged to Miss Booth, and a year ago last June suddenly left her, going to Salina, Kan. Price was sued in Kansas, the girl claiming that he had betrayed her. Every effort had been made to induce Price to marry his victim, but he refused, claiming that he had been deceived by her. He finally signed an agreement to the effect that if her child was born after March 1 he would acknowledge its paternity. On February 28, six hours before the date mentioned in the agreement, the babe was born. Price refused to assume it as his own. The suit was then brought. It ended in defeat for Miss Booth, the jury deciding that according to the terms of the contract Price could not be held. The latter returned to this city some weeks ago and began to circulate scandalous stories about Miss Booth. The shooting followed. Both parties were highly incensed.

It now develops that Miss Booth had contemplated killing Price for some time. Shortly after the ending of the suit at Salina Price received an anonymous letter telling him that his time on earth was short, that he would never live to see the snow fly again. He afterward received two or three others of the same import. Price expected something of the kind, for just before coming to Quincy he armed himself and made a will.

The Total Population of the United States Believed to Be 63,450,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—It is now believed that the total population of the United States will be shown by the census to be about 63,450,000. The estimate of the country has now been completed with the exception of nine superfluous districts, whose returns are in progress. The work will not be completed before Superintendent Porter's return, which is expected by the latter part of the week. As soon as he returns a bulletin will be prepared showing the population of the country by States and counties. This will be published by about November 1.

Why Convent Girl Didn't Elope.

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 30.—William Glick, a life convict at the penitentiary, and a "trusty," who for the last year has been allowed to drive out around Joliet in citizen's clothes, became infatuated with a Joliet girl, who seemed to reciprocate and arrangements were made to elope Friday night. Glick became so elated over his conquest that he got drunk and before going went to the prison to bid good-bye to some of his confidential fellow prisoners. He was put in the solitary over night and on Saturday was consigned to the shoe department.

PRECIOUS JEWELS.

The Danish King's crown is worth $135,000, the Queen's crown $17,500 and sword of state $15,000.

LUIS DE DESENDO, a Rio Janeiro jeweler, has bought from Dom Pedro for $60,000 the jewels of the deceased Emperor.

Among the valuable jewels of which Mme. Wyse Bonaparte de Ruto was recently robbed was a pearl valued at $12,500, which had been presented to Prince Lucien Bonaparte by the Queen of Spain, at whose court he was Ambassador.

The English crown is made up of diamonds, rubies, sapphires, pearls and emeralds, set in silver and gold bands; it weighs 39 ounces and 5 pennyweights, tray; in it there are 3,493 diamonds, 273 pearls, 9 rubies, 17 sapphires and 11 emeralds.

It is said that the Grand Duchess of Saxe-Weimar owns the most perfect collection of jewels in the world. The finest emeralds belong to the House of Austria. The finest and largest turquoise and pearls are among the crown jewels of Russia, and the finest sapphires known are among the crown jewels of England. Among the crown jewels of Bavaria is a pair of pink diamonds that would command a fabulous sum.

McVICKER'S THEATRE, Chicago, is to be rebuilt on the most approved methods of fireproof construction. The audience room will be spanned by six heavy steel trusses, and over these trusses will be built two stories of offices, connected with the business building in front. Each of the six trusses are supported at the ends by latticed wrought steel columns rising directly from the foundations, and independent of the walls. Thus no weight will be thrown upon the old rear walls, which are retained solely for shelter. It is an axiom of modern architecture that no building can be called fireproof, in the full sense of the term, in which any structural iron or steel work is left exposed to the action of flames. Every individual piece therefore of the steel construction surrounding the audience room will be encased in porous terra cotta tile, and the floors, ceilings, roofs and partitions will be built of the same material. Twenty-four offices will be included within this new construction, and an additional elevator will be placed in the front building to serve them. These offices will be very well lighted, and will be fitted with all modern conveniences. In the redesigning of the interior of the theater the main floor, balcony and gallery will be kept substantially as before in shape, but all shall also be of a new and improved design. The roof of the theater, lighting and ventilating will be very complete, and an opera chair of novel style and mechanism will be used.

This machine, which has taken the high awards in all competitions with other machines since 1885 (including the New Orleans Exposition, 1885; Richmond, Va., 1886; American Institute, New York, 1887; London, 1888; Paris Exposition, 1889; and the recent "New York Mercury" Contest of Typewriters, open to all machines and of any size, was awarded the gold medal, and has now been fitted with the UNIVERSAL keyboard, which enables all typewriters to interchangeably type in English and French, and is a great convenience to those who use the Hammond with foreign letters. It is a machine of great portability, greater ease of operation and learning, etc., etc.

The speed of the Hammond has never been reached within twelve per cent.

On September 12 Mr. Edward J. Manning, Champion Typewriter of the World, gave a public exhibition to the press of Chicago (in the office of the Hammond Company, 125 E. Lake street), at which he wrote, in five minutes, a letter of one hundred business lines, 180 words of memorized matter per minute on the Hammond. This company has a standing challenge open to all typewriters for the past two years which is still unaccepted. They make no extravagant boasts, but are prepared to verify every claim made in their catalogue. Trial furnished on application.

The United States Government has just forwarded checks for $7,270.40 for seventy-five Hammond Typewriters, the largest check ever given for writing machines of any make.

A LEVEL HEAD.

The Advantage of Presence of Mind in an Emergency.

During the late strike on the New York Central Railroad, the militia were ordered to be in readiness in case of a riot, but they were not called out. In an interview, Gov. Hill said the troops were not to be called upon except in case of an emergency. The emergency had not arisen, therefore they would not be ordered out. He remarked that this was the first great strike with which he had had experience, and he did not propose to lose his head; the only point at which there had been serious trouble was at Syracuse, and there a deputy-sheriff had lost his head and precipitated an encounter.

The strike continued several weeks, and there was riotous action at various points along the route, but the civil authorities were able to cope with it without calling on the militia.

The test of a man's real ability comes when an emergency arises which makes a hasty call on his good judgment and discretion. The man who retains his presence of mind, maintains his equanimity and exercises sound discretion at such critical junctures, is to be relied on and will be put to the front.

Men with level heads have the staying qualities which do not falter in the face of danger. One A. Gold, of Kingston, O., June 10, 1890, writes: "In the fall of 1889 I was feeling very ill. I consulted a doctor and he said I had Bright's disease of the kidneys and that he would not stand in my shoes for the state of Ohio. But he did not lose courage or give up; he says: 'I saw the testimonial of Mr. John Coleman, 100 Gregory St., New Haven, Conn., and I wrote him in. In due time I received an answer, stating that the testimonial he gave was genuine and not overdrawn in any particular. I took a good many bottles of Warner's Safe Cure; have not taken any for one year.'

Gov. Hill is accounted a very successful man; he is cool and calculating and belongs to the class that do not lose their heads when emergencies arise.

SOCIETY dinners, horse-races, human events and love are all matters of course.—Binghamton Leader.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—A remarkable case has occurred in our territory. J. N. Berry, a man about thirty years of age, was going down rapidly. He tried physician after physician, but without success. He was a noted athlete and returned no better. He at last thought he was dying, and only a few weeks of life were left for him.

He commenced "Golden Medical Discovery," and at the same time commenced to mend. He used about two dozen bottles, and is now a healthy, robust man, with color and strength, and is able to do light work. It is just such a case as we should have wanted to rather multiply, but we will see it to our mutual benefit.

We see it to our mutual benefit. It has troubled our sales of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Odds and Ends.
Certainly women endure a great deal to be beautiful—some women. Some women would rather have a new bonnet than an edition of the 'Encyclopedia Britannica.' Some women lace themselves until their waists are so small that you conclude their brains are situated there. Some men waste all their intelligence arranging a scarf and then wonder that the world does not appreciate it. Some women think that dowdiness and artistic effect are synonymous and then are surprised that men call them guys. Some women will wear an untidy boot and believe that their skirt will hide it; they never made a greater mistake in their lives. Some men have their shoulders padded, hoping to look like athletes, whereas they simply look like base imitations of men of weight. Some men will spend one hour parting their hair to conceal a bald spot which nature intends to be seen, and nature is always a long way ahead of art. Some women put rouge on in such thick layers that the impression is given that their intention was to paint the town red and they began on their own faces. Some men will love a woman even if she wears her hair on curl papers, sleeps with cold cream all over her face, forgets that three buttons are gone off her boots, that her gloves are disreputable and that their frock needs mending; but these men are few and far between and are usually what the darkeys call "lacking." What kind of stockings do you wear? I don't mean in color, for, of course, they are black, but I mean in length. The proper caper in stockings is to have them just as long as you possibly can—in fact, excepting they not being joined together, they, they are exactly like tights. This is something that sounds very beautiful, and the average young woman when she gets them wants to insist upon having her sister woman go and do likewise. You see she does not know yet what small little imp was woven in with the silk. When they are put on she gleefully announces she will hold them up by suspenders, and the first time she goes out to walk in them she feels so nervous that the stocking grow nervous likewise, the suspender comes undone, they slide down—that insidious silk, and she grasps to the woman with whom she is walk: "They have reached my knees and will be on the ground the next thing I know." The fitting into a doorway is then attempted, and the stocking is tied up until some shop can be reached where the suspenders can be straightened again, and the wearer of the beautiful long stockings may walk forth feeling like a different woman. That is to say, she ought to feel this way, but she does not. She has gotten nervous, and she manages her legs as if they were not her own for fear that a slight mis-step would cause the hook to break and the beastly thing to come down again. Experience has taught that nothing is reliable but safety-pins—safety-pins fastening the stockings to a belt. Everybody has to learn this by experience, and if you should chance to see a girl looking as nervous as possible, and clutching in a way the upper part of her skirt as if she wanted to keep it from falling down, you can make up your mind that she has on her first long stockings, and that she is very uncertain as to how they are going to stay by

A Chelsea Boy's Success.
We copy the following from Person's Monthly Stenographer: "Nothing gives us greater pleasure than to help on and note the success of our students. And few have had a better record at so early a stage in their career than Harry Morton, a boy of 17 years, who came to Pernin Institute a few months since from Chelsea, a small town in the interior part of the State. He first began the study of shorthand by mail, and later entered here for two months to work up greater speed, learn typewriting, and also to obtain a practical knowledge of the art, which is made a prominent feature of the Pernin Shorthand School. At the end of the above mentioned time, he was taken into the Pernin office as assistant stenographer, doing excellent work from the start. After a brief training here, he became stenographer to Traugott Schmitt, Wholesale Wool Dealer, Detroit. But not having sufficient work for practice, and being desirous of further promotion, he was recommended by the Pernin Institute to Scotten & Co., the millionaire tobaccoist of Detroit, who had just sent in a request for a stenographer. Mr. Morton was successful in obtaining the appointment although the services of an expert were called for, and he is now enjoying a salary of $12.00 a week. His duties are somewhat arduous, but he has been found equal to the emergency, and has, on occasions, turned off as many as forty letters in two hours, in addition to copying them. In addition to being a rapid stenographer and typewriter, Mr. Morton is very accurate and painstaking, and his transcripts are always perfect. He possesses all the qualifications that go to make up a first-class stenographer, and we hope his present success will spur him on to renewed efforts for the future."

What We Saw At The Fair.
The Down That Downs 'Em All.
There's down on the peach on the orchard wall,
And down on the young man's lip;
There's "down at the heel" of the men who fall,
Because they are too flip.
There's down in the waves, when they down the ship,
And there's down in the pull of the vest;
There's "down at the heel" of the men who slip,
In the striff to down the rest.
There's "down on the Swance river" song,
And there's "down at the bottom of the sea";
There's "down on your luck" when things go wrong,
And there's down in Glazier's Coffee and Tea.
There's down on your knees when you fall in love,
And "down in the heart" when she won't;
There's "down in prices" when Glazier says low,
And down with the man that don't.
There's down in a diving bell, and down on the prickly thistle too;
There's down on the train of a lady's gown
And that lady's down on you.
There's down on the Yankee eagle's breast,
And down on the foreign flag;
If it hoisted over the eagle's nest;
And down with the red, red rag.
Glazier's prices went down and some were down on him.
But the down that downs 'em all
Is the down in our prices where we skin
The profits from them all.
See our prices on first page.

GEO. W. OLES
The Wonderful

VIOLINIST
Will Give

TWO GRAND CONCERTS
At the Town Hall, Chelsea,
Friday & Saturday Evenings, Oct. 24th & 25th.
Read what the Press and Prominent People say:

Mr. Oles is a genius on the Ole Bull and Paganini order, executing all the weird and wonderful harmonic effects peculiar to the Paganini school.—Cleveland Sunday world.
Mr. Geo. W. Oles is comparatively new to our people, but to alter a well known quotation to suit the circumstances, "he came, he played, he conquered." The audience went into raptures over his execution of the most difficult studies in harmonics. His entrance into popular favor was instantaneous and complete.—Morning Herald, Titusville, Pa.
There is that language of genius in his strains which appeal to the finer sensibilities of every person in his audience. Paganini's weird effects, Ole Bull's wailing melodies and Beethoven's profound harmonics seem alike at the command of his bow.—Daily Free Press, Wellsville, N. Y.
Mr. Oles has a great future before him. Many of the great violinists of the world might well envy this rising young musician.—Journal, Meadville, Pa.
Sturgis, Mich., Oct. 17, 1890.
Mr. Geo. W. Oles has just given me one of the greatest musical treats of my life. His violin playing is simply entrancing. I sincerely hope that my friend of mine who may chance to read these lines will not miss the opportunity of hearing him play.
R. P. Shaw, Pastor Presb'y Church.
From the Musical Faculty of Albion College, Michigan.
We can most heartily recommend Mr. Geo. W. Oles as a musician of most excellent talent and ability and one who will please not only lovers of the violin, but all who are in the least interested in good music.
Jennie Worthington,
Mattie A. Reynolds.
Union City, Michigan, Nov. 30th, 1890.
To whom it may concern—Mr. Geo. W. Oles was with us last evening in a concert under the direction of our Young People's Society. To say that Mr. Oles gave us complete satisfaction, does not half express it. His like we have never heard.
J. R. Knodell, Pastor Cong'l Church.
