Two attempted criminal assaults in Ypsilanti last Sunday night, and both ruffians escaped. What's the matter with Ypsilanti?

Overcoat thieves have been working Ypsilanti hard and the officers are working to catch them, but thus far have had no success.

Recently the members of the Ypsilanti council, accompanied by officers, went on a tour of inspection, and, according to the Ypsilantian, they saw some queer sights.

The following story is told of a very pretty young school marm in a public school not a thousand miles from Chelsea, who saw a mouse run across the classroom floor one day last week. "Scholars" she said, "a mouse is in the room. Do not be frightened." The little girls all tightened their skirts around their legs, and the eyes of the little boys glistened with suppressed excitement. "Don't anybody be afraid," said the young school marm, but heaven's just then the mouse dashed across the floor toward her, and she made a frantic leap to the top of a bench. The mouse shot out of the door, and in time the trembling teacher descended and taught school again.

An Exchange says: "A Stockbridge man hitched his dog to his hen-coop to keep thieves from running away with his chickens. During the night the dog saw a cat and chased it. The coop was wrecked, nine chickens were killed in the runaway and the rest fled to the woods. The next time the man wants to hitch his dog to the chicken-coop he will first anchor the coop."

When people conspire to bring evil upon the heads of others, they are treading upon dangerous ground: for invariably they are caught in the intricacies of their diabolical schemes, and are, in the end, the greater sufferers, because their wounds are self-inflicted. Be not busy bodies in other people's matters, but attend well to your own, and see that the vices and follies of which you accuse others do not find an intensified expression in your own actions.—

GENERAL LONGSTREET is giving all his leisure time to his history of the war of the rebellion, with the expectation of finishing it before the year is out.

Dr. W. H. MILBURN, the blind Chaplain of the House of Representatives, is writing a book on the pioneers of the Mississippi valley. He has a collaborator.

About five hundred veterinary surgeons in Great Britain signed a paper condemning over the check-reins as painful to horses and productive of disease.

SEVENTEEN hundred of the Sioux are members of the Episcopal church, and Baptists, Catholics and Congregationalists are also well represented among them.

WITHIN sixty-two years Mexico has had fifty-four presidents, one regency and one empire, and nearly every change of government has been effected by violence.

A NEW HAMPSHIRE saloon-keeper was recently tried on one thousand distinct charges, and was convicted on seven hundred and fifteen. The aggregate of his fines was $8,000.

PROF. HARRIET COOKE, professor of history in Cornell, is the first woman ever honored with the chair and equal pay with the men professors. She has taught in Cornell twenty-three years.

PROF. WIGGINS is again in an active state of predilection. He says there will be no earthquakes around here until about August 17, 1904. This makes our safety from a shaking up, meanwhile, just a trifle dubious.

ONE result of the census inquiry in the South has been the disclosure of the fact that the ratio of increase among the blacks has been much overestimated. While the white population during the last decade has increased twenty-six per cent, it is shown that the negroes have not increased more than ten.

THE Supreme Court of Missouri has decided that the act extending the limits of Kansas City a year ago, so as to take in twenty-two miles of new territory, was illegal and invalid. The five aldermen elected from the new territory will lose their seats, and all ordinances passed since annexation are invalidated.

ALTOGETHER, it is evident that newspaper influence upon literature is to be an important one. As magazines have come to fill in part the place of books, so newspapers have come to fill to some extent the place of the magazines. What the final result of development in this direction will be is an extremely interesting question.

THE young Prince of Naples is the picture of a youthful English dandy—smooth-faced, with a fair sprinkling of down on his upper lip, an eye-glass, and a suit of clothes cut in the latest English style. But he is very clever, speaking four languages fluently, and because of his retentive memory regarded as a sort of royal encyclopedia.

MADAME BARRIOS, widow of the celebrated President of Guatemala, and a woman of surpassing beauty, is now residing in Washington. She was married at the age of fourteen, and is the mother of six children, yet she looks as fresh and as radiant as a young girl. She is very accomplished, speaking five languages with fluency. Her fortune is said, on good authority, to aggregate $6,000,000.

GENERAL F. E. SPINNER, writing a year ago of his school days, said: "The rod was never spared on me at home or in school—and now, with grown-up great-grandchildren, I can truthfully say I have never in all my long life struck a child a single blow. I was liked enough to last through the whole four generations of self and my posterity. I have found it safe, through life to practice the reverse of what was taught me to do."

THE Census Bureau has issued a bulletin on the anthracite coal industry of Pennsylvania which shows the production in 1899 of 40,000,000 tons, valued at $24,300,000, and an average annual shipment during the last five years of 34,300,000 tons, against an average of 31,511,301 for the preceding five years. Sixty-three per cent goes to the Middle States, 15 per cent to New England and 14 per cent to the West.

FIFTY-FIRST CONGRESS.

Second Session.

THURSDAY, Jan. 20.—A petition was presented in the Senate asking that General Banks be placed on the retired list of the army. A discussion of the elections bill occupied the remainder of the session. In the House a favorable report was made on the bill imposing a special tax upon all tea imported from countries east of the Cape of Good Hope. During the session Mr. Mills (Tex.) charged the Speaker with intentionally practicing a fraud upon the House, and for a few minutes the House was in great confusion.

THURSDAY, Jan. 21.—The time of the Senate was taken up in roll-calls, in obtaining the attendance of absent Senators and in the delivery of speeches against the elections bill, and at midnight the Senate adjourned, leaving the subject of the approval of Tuesday's subject to come up again. In the House no business was done, the time being occupied in a wrangle over the approval of the journal.

THURSDAY, Jan. 22.—In the Senate the debate on the journal came to an end and the cloture rule was discussed, but no action was taken. In the House the journal was approved, the district of Columbia appropriation bill was passed and the appropriation bill was considered. A bill was reported favorably amending the Interstate Commerce law so as to allow railroad companies to make reduced rates of transportation and to permit them to carry their own employees free. A bill was introduced appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Iowa, Mich.

FRIDAY, Jan. 23.—The time was passed in the Senate in discussing the cloture resolution. In the House the time was occupied in considering the charges made against the Commissioner of Pensions, and in discussing the naval appropriation bill. A bill for the relief of the heirs of Richard W. Meade, of Pennsylvania, was favorably reported. The claim has been pending since the Sixteenth Congress, and is for $375,879.

SHUT IN BY A STORM.

New York City Visited by the Worst Storm Since the Blizzard of 1888—Telephone Communication Cut Off for a Time—Traffic at a Standstill—Streets Blocked by Fallen Trees and Telegraph Poles and Tangled Wires.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The storm which set in at 11 o'clock Saturday night and continued until noon Sunday was the severest of the season thus far. About six inches of snow fell, and it was of the wet, clinging kind that fastened itself to every thing it touched, loading trees until they were bowed down by their weight, and fell across the streets, blocking all traffic.

At daylight Sunday morning the work of destruction had begun and it continued until the snow-fall ceased at noon, when the wrecks of trees and telegraph poles were to be found on every street. Irregular festoons of wire were hanging on every hand and detached lengths of wire were strung on every sidewalk. No such work of devastation has been known since the great blizzard of March, 1888, and it is a question if that memorable storm was more serious in its effects upon the telephone poles and wires of the city. Early in the morning the telegraphic and telephonic connections were broken, and while the snow did not offer poles and fallen wires prevented the running of cars on many streets, and even the elevated railroad trains were compelled to move cautiously and were often brought to a stop by the wires that had fallen across the tracks.

The police and fire departments were special sufferers. All wire connections between the various police stations and the central station were broken and recourse was had to messengers. The fire-department circuits were generally broken, and as no alarms could be sent out excepting on a very few circuits patrols of firemen were established throughout the city.

Early in the morning an immense tree that stood in front of 210 East Broadway fell into the street, narrowly escaping a car that was loaded with passengers. In its descent it struck a lot of telegraph wires and carried down a pole. All the telegraph poles on Seventh avenue from Fifth to Second street to Fifty-fifth were down, covering the avenue with wires and the fragments of poles. The heavy poles on Fifty-ninth street from Eighth avenue to Eleventh avenue suffered the same fate. At 7:30 o'clock in the morning a lot of Western Union eighty-foot poles fell with a crash, carrying no less than 150 single wires and two cables two inches thick, with from forty to seventy-five wires in them, to the ground. The cross-bars scraped the sides of the brownstone flats on the south side of the street as they fell and shook the buildings to their very foundations. The fall made a sound like thunder, startling people for blocks away. Many of the enormous poles were broken in three pieces and the cross-arms shattered. The houses were so blocked by the wreck that until midday ingress or egress was impossible. Several poles fell against the Union Square Hall. Fifteenth street and Fourth avenue, doing some little damage to the building. The entire line of poles on the west side of Park avenue from Fifty-ninth to Seventy-ninth street went down, including the street between First and Third avenues and between Ninth and Tenth avenues are down. The debris blocked the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street cable road for several hours. Early in the morning a telegraph wire broke in front of 115 Chambers street and fell across an electric-light wire and received its current. The wire fell on the horses of an Eighth avenue car, and the deadly current killed one of them instantly. The storm opened in the Gulf of Mexico on Friday.

It increased in severity until it reached Cape Hatteras. The visitation reached New York City at 10:45 with a rain which changed to snow at 11:45 p. m. The blinding snow continued to 10 a. m. Sunday and nine inches fell. It is thought that the young blizzard did not extend more than 100 miles inland. The Western Union is badly crippled by the storm, all wires being down but three, those being in the Western circuit connecting Albany, Rochester, Buffalo and Chicago.

The storm extended over the entire region from Boston through the lower Eastern States, Southern New York, New Jersey, Delaware and south of Maryland. At 8 o'clock Sunday morning there were but few fires running from the Western Union office, and at 9 o'clock nearly every wire was rendered useless. At one time communication to Philadelphia, Albany and Boston was entirely cut off.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Jan. 22.—The storm has made of Jersey City a buried town. There is not an effective wire to be found, either telegraphic, telephone or fire-alarm or electric light. New York and Brooklyn are isolated is complete. The same is true of Hoboken. Fallen poles and tangled wires cumber the streets in many places.

FATAL RAILWAY WRECK.

Ex-Congressman Lord, of Michigan, Killed and Several Other Persons Hurt in a Collision Near Butte, Mont.

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 22.—A collision occurred on the Northern Pacific near this city Sunday afternoon in which H. W. Lord, of Devils Lake, N. D., lost his life and eight others were badly injured. Mr. Lord was well known throughout the West and Northwest, having been a member of Congress from Michigan before going to Dakota, where he had been prominently mentioned for both Congress and Senate. He was register of the land office at Devils Lake.

GAGE TO RESIGN.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—President Lyman J. Gage of the World's Columbian Exposition will retire from his office on the first of next April. Mr. Gage is firmly determined to execute such a term, and expresses himself positively on his intention. He says his duties as president of the organization seriously interfere with other business interests.

DEATH OF EX-SENATOR WADSWORTH.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Bainbridge Wadsworth, a well-known Boston lawyer and ex-Senator from New Hampshire, died here of Bright's disease after a protracted illness.

WIDE AWAKE FOR JANUARY.

Taking up the January WIDE AWAKE one is led to reflect that this magazine is a particularly happy and kindly way of enlisting the interest and favor of its readers by its Prize Competitions. Its amusing "Nonsense Animals" were enjoyed by young and old and showed that the drawing-lessons at school had really trained young fingers to express ideas with the pencil; the "Lambkin, Prig or Hero" competition was not a bad "course" in Moral Philosophy. The "Prize Anagram" competition amused thousands of readers. For 1891 Miss Zimmer's Prize Art-series, "The Drawing of the Child Figure," bids fair to be of great interest to children, while the Prize "Problems in Horology," by E. H. Hawley, will call forth the efforts of the students in the Latin and High Schools.

The stories and articles of the January number are each excellent as Susan Kinsale, Mrs. Burton Harrison, Margaret Sidney, Elbridge S. Brooks, Ernest Ingersoll, Kirk Munroe, etc.

WIDE AWAKE is $2.40 a year; 20 cents a number; D. Lothrop Company, Boston, Mass.

The Night Stage.
Only a baby,
Kissed and caressed,
Gently held to a mother's breast.
Only a child,
Toddling alone,
Brightening now its happy home.
Only a boy,
Trudging to school,
Governed now by a sterner rule.
Only a youth,
Living in dreams,
Full of promise life now seems.
Only a man,
Battling with life,
Shared in now by a loving wife.
Only a father,
Burdened with care,
Silver threads in dark brown hair.
Only a graybeard,
Toddling again,
Growing old and full of pain.
Only a mound,
Overgrown with grass,
Dreams unrealized—rest at last.

He Condemns Dancing.
A gentleman who is evidently averse to the pleasures of the waltz enumerates the following facts concerning indulgence in the terpsichorean art. He is probably a sour old fellow through whose patriarchal whiskers the wind refuses to gyrate. This is what he says:
It is a fact that modern dancing, however well done, adds no worth to the character.
It is a fact that a trained monkey can excel the best taught lady or gentleman in the use of his heels.
It is a fact that it requires no intelligence to dance well.
It is a fact there is no more honor in dancing well, than there is in jumping, running or wrestling well.
Dancing matches are on a par with walking matches, etc.
It is a fact that mixed dancing becomes extremely fascinating.
It is a fact that much valuable time is lost by this species of reveling.
It is a fact that money is wasted on dancing.
It is a fact that people who cannot entertain themselves and each other in a rational way, and must employ their heels for this purpose, are to be pitied.
It is a fact that young ladies permit familiarities in the ball room which public sentiment universally condemns.
It is a fact that the best young men, even to those who dance, do not wish their sisters to attend balls, and they do not wish to marry dancing girls.
It is a fact that the whole spirit and tendency of dancing is worldly.
It is a fact that no one was ever noted for piety and dancing.
It is a fact that when a professor of religion follows dancing, his influence for doing good is lost.
It is a fact that men of the world think dancing inconsistent with Christian profession.
It is a fact that the best people in the world never dance.
It is a fact that a dancing church member is not worth anything much to the church. As the love of dancing comes in, the love of God goes out.
It is a fact that the most pious and considerate people in the denominations are opposed to dancing, and earnestly advise against it.

Do not smash your fingers by using a shoe hammer and flat-iron to crack nuts. Call on your hardware merchant and get the LITTLE GIANT NUT CRACKER. It cracks anything from a black walnut to a hazelnut. It is a gem of beauty and an engine of great power; with it a child can crack the hardest nut. Its construction is simple. It is easily worked, and does its work perfectly. Will never get out of order, nor bruise your fingers. If you do not want to crack a hard nut more than once a year, it will pay to have the LITTLE GIANT to do it with. It is put up in two styles, japanned at 50 cents, and nickel plated at 75 cents, is sufficiently strong in all its parts, and is warranted, if well used.

There is at least a perceptible ground for suspicion that when the money powers of the East and the West see that the country is not going to be turned completely topsy-turvy by the farmer in politics, there will be an immediate easing up in the financial world. But on the other hand there is no telling what they will do.

Unadilla Items.
The young people now have good times at the rink.
Martin Messenger visited in Howell the most of last week.
Mrs. L. Barton and Mrs. W. Lane visited at Jas. Barton's last Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dyer, of Stockbridge, visited at Mr. and Mrs. W. Hopkins first of the week.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Westfall, of Stockbridge, and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. May, of Lyndon, visited at Daniel Barton's first of the week.
Robert Brearly, an old resident of Unadilla, died at his home at Williamsville last Friday, Jan. 23rd, 1891, of pneumonia, after one week's sickness, aged 74 years. Rev. Englund, of Plainfield, performed the last rites Sunday morning, at the old Williamsville M. E. church.
The Plainfield Cor. of the Tidings and the Unadilla Cor. of the Sun, have been having a little tilt concerning an item which denominated certain ones, of Plainfield, as "loafers." In reply the Tidings intimated that Unadilla has some loafers of a worse kind. We admit, and with regret, too, that we have some, but they are not so bad as is usually reported. True, Brother Jamison was a much abused man, but no one can truthfully say that his horse was poisoned for an examination showed a wasted lung. Neither was a church deck ever distributed in the Bible or church. Evidently the Cor. is either not among Mr. North's converts or lacks grace, else he would forgive the Unadilla Cor. when his error was rightly understood. Mr. Peyer, who says he wrote the item in question, says it should have been printed "loafers" instead of "loafers," hence all this ado about a little typographical error. This place can congratulate itself that one of the most potent causes of evil being removed a cure for a large class of evils is the result, and it is becoming more and more apparent when we remember that not the slightest misdemeanor has been performed in this neighborhood since his departure. Some of our boys are addicted to the ardent, but strange to say, but none the less true, they have without a single exception, refrained from visiting places of vice since Rev. North preached his impressive sermon on good New Year resolutions. It is confidently expected that the coming revival will be one of wide-spread and permanent good. We have not a man in town who entertains young men at the card table and if Mr. North by the use of God's grace has done away with such miserable business at Plainfield, he can certainly do good here, and God knows there is need enough of it. Mr. North preached to the Y. P. S. C. E. last Sunday Eve, from 2nd Chron. 34 chapter 3rd verse, and a lady of much intelligence, comparatively a stranger, who sat in the well filled Presbyterian church remarked after, that she never saw a more attentive and gentlemanly behaved number of young men than was in that audience. This credit is due to F. Marshall, D. Taylor, A. J. and G. May, C. Barton, P. Noah, B. Glenn C. Webb, W. North, W. Mills, W. Clark, T. Budd, W. Birnie, H. DuBois and others, who all take much more interest in religious matters than at any past time and we hope the good people, of Plainfield, of whom there are many will come down next week and bring with you those not so good and we will unite in an effort to make them better.

The Best Return.
The true philosophy of advertising is to get the best possible returns for the money expended. The best way to do this is to keep the public attention constantly attracted to the advertisement. There are advertisements in New York papers, and papers of other large cities, which are read by everybody, while other advertisements in the same papers are only casually glanced at. Why is this? Because the advertisers give time and thought and attention to their advertisements, and make them veritable news items of business and trade. People turn naturally to them to see what is said that is fresh and interesting about those particular lines of business.
The truth is, the advertising columns of a newspaper should be made as interesting as the news columns; this requires more attention than the average advertiser seems disposed to devote to the important work.
