Freddy Glenn, of North Lake, is fast recovering from a severe attack of Scarlet fever.

G. A. Kirkland, of Losco, spent a few days last week with his sister, Mrs. J. C. Taylor.

Nearly all those whose subscription expired during Jan. have promptly renewed, and it is hoped that others will follow suit as their subscription expires.

The longer we run a newspaper and write about people and events the more we realize how impossible it is to scratch every man on the spot where he fits the most.

The number of students now attending the University at Ann Arbor, is as follows: Literary, 1,007; law, 579; medical, 282; dental, 189; pharmacy, 91; homeopathic, 77; total 2,460.

The Militaries are holding revival meetings in Laumotte and the excitement waxes so high that it is said the ghost of the departed members of the sect come around at night and help boom things.

We clip the following from the Jackson Star: "J. L. Newkirk, a gentleman who recently started a newspaper at Mouth, has graduated into theology and has become a minister. A newspaper office affords the necessary training for the pulpit."

Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky says: "A dude is simply the creation of peculiar conditions of society, and he may belong to any locality and be differently designated. For instance, I know places in Kentucky where a man who would put on a $10 suit of store cloths and a white shirt would be regarded as a howling dude."

Every year the pope chooses from among the Roman Catholic ladies of royal families one upon whom to bestow the golden rose. This year the empress of Austria will be the recipient. The golden rose sometimes takes the form of a rose-bud, and sometimes a single flower with leaves, but it is always of the precious metal.—A. A. Democrat.

A good deal of discussion is going on in the state papers relative to the Canfield murder trial and the speedy justice that was meted out to the scoundrel. That a murder was committed was clearly proven and when questioned the prisoner pleaded guilty to having committed the deed. Nothing more was necessary and he received the sentence to which he is undoubtedly justly entitled; no matter what may be hereafter proven as to accomplices or motives.

Now labor on the farm means just the same as labor in the shop. In either case it is a direct expense. The man who performs it must be paid for it and the man who hires it must do the paying. But in the case of the farmer the same man is often the employer and the employed. He works for himself and must look to himself for his pay. If he works faithfully and directs his work wisely he may secure large returns. If he idles away his time, or misdirects his work, he will receive but little. The labor is equivalent to money and it is as unwisely to waste, or poorly to treat the one as it is the other.

Whoever wrote the following got the whole truth down in a nutshell: "If you have a little farm or business, or study employment and are out of debt, do not fret and work yourself and wife into the grave for the sake of making money. You have but one life to live, and that is very brief at least. Take a little comfort and pleasure as you go along day by day, and try to do a little good to others. A morbid, insatiable desire to possess the earth and to grab everything in sight, is the foundation of more misery than almost any one thing. Wealth alone will never keep your memory green after you are gone."

A Witty Answer Brought Success.

A young newspaper man who last spring found himself in Whitman county, Washington, 500 miles from his base of supplies and "broke," fired out to a farmer. He was set to plowing with a pair of horses, but both men and beasts being new to the business, the furrows looked as though they were the result of an earthquake rather than of design, so crooked and zigzag were they. At the close of the day the farmer rather justly criticized the job. The newspaper man felt that "his doom" was sealed, but mustered courage to reply: "I know the rows are rather crooked, but the sun was exceedingly hot to-day, and it warped them." The answer turned away the farmer's wrath, and, instead of being discharged, the newcomer was given a much easier and pleasanter job, and is now the farmer's son-in-law.
