Young Latimer, the Jackson Murderer, Pines for Lenient Treatment.

R. Irving Latimer, the Jackson young man whose cold-blooded murder of his mother shook the state from one end to the other less than two years ago, is gradually weakening and pines for better treatment. A guard sits at his cell door every night, and the matricide porating Ironwood. The bill organizing Dickin begins to feel that he is to have no favors. "I want Warden Davis to understand that he will have no cause to complain of my conduct in the future," said Latimer to an official. "I have found out that monkeying in here don't pay, and henceforth I am going to obey the rules of the prison." The talk resulted from a remark about the dynamite plot of a year ago in which Latimer took a prominent part. "This is the first time Latimer has weakened or come down from his high horse," said the official.

ALL BADLY HURT.

A Party of Sixteen Precipitated Down the Mountain-Side at Georgetown, Col. GEORGETOWN, Col., March 19 .- A frightful accident occurred at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning directly opposite the famous Bridal Veil falls, above Georgetown. A party of sixteen young people had engaged a team and wagon belonging to A. B. Kinley, of this place, to bring them home from the St. Patrick's ball at Silver Plume. At the point named the team became unmanageable and turned the entire party down the mountainside upon the rocks below. Those that escaped injury from the fall suffered from the kicks and plunges of the horses, so that but one of the sixteen escaped injury. It is supposed the wagon came to some ice and was too heavy for the animals to hold.

A few words of pity passed Lavender's lips. She went on down the ward, leaving on each bed a lily and a message of cheer or comfort. She reached that indicated. She glanced at the patient-leaned forward, looked more searchingly. Her eyes dilated-darkened. Her whole face grew white as death. She trembled so violently the lilies she held fell to the floor. Suddenly, with a cry of the most piercing, delirious delight, she reeled forward, fell against the low bed, and flung her arms around him who lay thereon.

EASTER MONDAY. Some Quaint Sports in Olden Times_The

Tansy Cake. On Easter Monday in olden times the principal sport was ball playing, and even the clergy and women indulged in the pastime. In many instances it formed a part of the church service, bishops and deans taking a ball to church and at the beginning of the anthem, "Lavender," she said, "we are going while dancing to the music, threw it to to have a reception on Easter Monday, the choristers, who handed it back and forth to one another during the singing. After this service they all retired this year, you know. The florists for refreshments, which usually consisted of a dish of bacon and tansy pud-
