them, above all other places, are we moved to reflection on the blessings we enjoy, and in-spired to reverence and patriotism towards the government under which we live. At the tomb of the great, the American freeman draws his inspiration from the fountain head, for high resolve and mighty deed. There may he pledge his fealty to principles, without transmitting it through any representative.

"In this tomb lies one whose great qualities of head and heart, whose brayers, whose simplies.

head and heart, whose bravery, whose simplicity, whose magnanimity, whose patience, whose steadlastness of purpose, whose loyalty to every obligation, whose capacity for admin istration in the highest offices in the world, military and civic, have placed his name as among the most remarkable men who have ever lived. The theater of his careaver was a standard to the care ever lived. The theater of his career was only the United States of America; the most dra-matic episodes of his life, were in his character as leader of one of the armies of his divided people. Yet, even on that narrow field, and under those restricting conditions, he so bore himself that the whole world watched him, and when his work was finished, proclaimed him and be of the stamp of true greatness, rarely devel-oped; and of a greatness, blended with such qualities of manhood as entitled him to be held up as an example to the world.

'The man is surely great whose fame is worldwide. And such was Ulysses S. Grant. There is to-day an Arab stroking his steed under shady palms by the solitary fountain reflecting on the greatness of Grant. There are gentle Japanese reading in their own language the story of his life with wonder and admira-tion. There are American Indians crouching tion. There are American Indians crouching by desert fires picturing to themselves in rude imagination the sort of man he was There are Egyptians floating on the Nile dreaming of Grant and Vicksburg and the far off Mississippi. There are Russians with half illumined minds struggling to reconcile the strength and tenderness, the power and mercy, to them so strangely blended in his great character. There are Frenchmen learning pert nactiv. blended in his great character. There are Frenchmen learning pert nacity. There are Spaniards and Italians on whom his for are Spaniards and Italians on whom his for giveness and magnanimity will not be lost. His life and character are known to the farthest bounds of fame. Men will model their characters upon this ideal when we are dead and forgotten. By the memory of his indomitable pluck columns will surge forward to desperate assault in centuries to come. Mankind will be stronger by emulating his endurance and fortitude; war will be less brutal; victory and forgotten. By the memory of his indomit less arrogant; defeat less bitter; and human nature more gentle by the conspicuousness of his moderation, his magnanimity, this kindness freely denounced for a cowardly surrender to the United States. to his foes, and his yearning longing when war was past for fraternity and peace.

'Such was the man whose memory we com-memorate this day. We know his history and we know his worth. We were actors in the great passion play in which he emerged from obscurity to become the central figure of the greatest drama of our day. We saw him, man that he was, take sides in the hour of discord, and rise until he was chief partisan in sectional strife. We saw him, on the instant of restored peace, transformed, as it were, to become champion of forgetfulness, advocate of mutual forgiveness, and counselor of restored fraternity. We saw him in the hour of his strength. We watched and pitted him in the strength. We watched and pitted him in the hour of his weakness, until his patient, painful death. An i now we are standing by his tomb, after full time for reflection upon what he was. "Some of us were soldiers in his army. To such I would not venture to picture what they must feel beside his grave. Some of us were followers of his great antagonist. Time was sealing industry, will, wholly cease with perfect confidence that it is true. tween Grant and the confederate soldier, even in time of war, there was ever a feeling of mutual respect and much that was akin to kind ness. Towards Grant for gentleness and magnanimity which touched them inexpressibly, there went forth from the hearts of the soldiers of the army of northern Virginia, even at the hour of their surrender to him, a feeling which they entertained toward no other fed

Thenceforth, there sprung up and grew be tween them and him a kindn ess which grew and waxed stronger as the years rolled on, until when he died, his coffin bore as many flowers o the south as of the north; every state of the union stood around his bier; and the old confederat veteran had a feeling at his heart such as he had not known since he stacked arms at Ap pomattox, or wept at the tidings that Lee was dead. It is no disparagement of the other federal generals to say that, in this firm hold upon the affections of his old antagon sts, Grant was alone. That he knew it, and that it pleased him, is teyond doubt. I remember hearing from his own line after his election to his sec. from his own line, after his election to his see from his own tips, after his election to his sec-ond term, that the electoral vote of Virginia caused him as much genuine gratification as any incident of his presidential campaign. He delighted to display genuine friendship towards every southern soldier who would give him op-

"Politics took such shape, in the years succeeding the war, that Grant was opposed politically by the great mass of confederate soldiers. Other federal commanders were candidates to more or less enthusiasm. But at no time, an to no officer of the federal armies, has the hear of Lee's veterans ever warmed, for none have their tears been shed, as for him at whos tomb we stand assembled.

"Yes, my countrymen, strife and bitterness brethren, about Grant's tomb-members , reunited, prosperous country. How he did to bring about this fraternal and loyal feeling all men know. We come rejoicing at an opportunity to testify our respect for the at an opportunity to testify our respect for the memory of our great countryman. We have, it memory of our great countryman. We have, it is true, in many a southern cemetery an army of dead comrades to whose memory and to whose valor we delight to pay the tribute of loving hearts. In a quiet chapel under the shadow of the Blue Ridge sleeps one who, in days gone by, was to our love, to our hope, and to our idea of patriotic duty, all that Grant represents to you. Yet, our hearts are large enough for both, and when Grant sought them, he never asked us to forget our dead.

nough for both, and when Grant sought them, in never asked us to forget our dead.
"All that Grant contended for was estabrepublic now acquiesces cheerfully in the reult. It is certain that many thousan confederate veterans are to-day as affectionately loyal to the federal government as if the lamentable strife had never been. We come as men who feel that time has taught all citizens of this republic that they honor themselves in honoring this great American. Passion has sabsided sufficiently to let us see him as he was—greater than any part of our divided country; a patriot whose fame belongs to all his fellow citizens. As to our own beloved commander, it may be that the time will never come when the men who sustained will never come when the men who sustained the union cause can reconcile it to their sense of loyalty to do public honor to his memory. Far be it from me to urge that course upon you. We who followed him and loved him seek not to share our veneration for his memory with anyone who is unwilling. It may be that his name and fame will be left to us as all our own. Yet it will be strange-passing strange; it will reverse all history in the past; if with the American love of valor, of honor, self-sacrifice and humility your grandchilden. self-sacrifice and humility your grandchildren, when the bitterness of ur day has been forgotten, shall deny their sharein the name and fame of him whose sword so often and so gal-lantly crossed that of Grant and never lowered its point to any foe but him or yielded save to e power of overwhelming numbers and re sources—one who, when he ceased to fight, accepted the result in cheerfulness and displayed the same manhood, sincerity and humility which make us honor Grant as great.

Can we look up to them? With mortal vision, no. Yet, in imagination, yes, indeed! And this, my brethren of the north and south, is the vision which I saw of late! Through the open portals of the great beyond I saw the boundless plains of Walhalla—where, far as the eye could reach, were spread the snowy for b of ghostily legions ranged beneath the by er of eternal peace. I heard the boomh, of Heaven's artillery, the strain of celestial bands and the hoarse roar of shouting thousands. Here and there, out of the hurrying hosts, stood out the faces of the long ago, young and fresh, as we knew them when they volunteered, the cruel scars all gone—the blood stains washed away. Now and again, came forth clarion voices of command; voices rilent since we heard them on the beleagured line of Petersburg, or in the bloody angle of Spottsylvania; voices which startled the dotting memory, and make the old heart leap, if but for one throb, with the pulse of a long dead worth.

The last resting-place of the hero was completely covered with floral tributes, both interior and exterior presenting a remarkable sight in this respect. After preliminary exercises, which consisted in the observance of the ceremonies laid down in the G. A. R. ritual for Decoration day, Hon John S. Wise, of Virginia, was introduced as the orator of the occasion. He delivered a long and eloquent address on the life, character and services of the illustrious dead, extracts from which are as follows:

Arm in arm: no longer foes, but brethren in a reunited land; Sherman and Johnston this day rejoin us, with these glad tidings of great joy, more prized by us than any earthly-treasure. May it linger with the old soldiers of the north and south till they realize its true significance. May its contemplation fill their hearts with hope, faith aud charity; 'and the greatest of these is charity."

ANGRY SEALERS.

Opposition to England's Proposed Beh ring Sea Measure-Fishermen in British Columbia Threaten to Evade Any Law. LONDON, May 30 .- The bill prohibiting the capture of seals in Behring sea by British subjects, which has just been introduced by the government, has aroused a decided opposition and the government may have difficulty in enforcing its provisions, even if it succeeds in passing the bill. A dispatch from Victoria, B. C., says that the proposed action of the government has caused great excitement there, and that sealers openly propose to evade any law that may be passed on the subject. The feeling in London and Liverpool among merchants interested in the seal fisheries, outside of the American company, is very strong against the proposed measure, and the government is

EARL OF CLANCARTY DEAD. Belle Bilton's Husband Gets a Title

Through the Death of His Father. London, May 30 .- The right honorable, the Earl of Clancarty, whose title, although an Irish one, gives him a place among the peers of the United Kingdom, died Friday at the age tof 57. The deceased nobleman recently achieved a great deal of notoriety by reason of his attempt to break the marriage of his son, Viscount Dunlo, with the quondam music-hall singer, Belle Bilton, by inducing his son to bring an action for divorce against her. Lady Dunlo, who now succeeds to the title of Countess of Clancarty, was recently a member of a burlesque company playing "Venus," in which she appeared in the title role. The attitude of the family toward the actress continues hostile. Viscount Dunlo says that the late earl desired to be buried in England and that he will not be buried in the family vault at

They Wreck a Passenger Train Near Centralia, Ill., Causing the Death of an En-CENTRALIA, Ill., May 30.-The Illinois Central was the victim of a most daring attempt at train robbery 2 miles north of this city Thursday night. Tools were taken from a section house near by and the spikes drawn and rails disconnected. It is thought that the plan was to derail the Chicago & New Orleans limited, but the rail was slipped the wrong way to throw the train and it went over all right. The wreckers, not knowing that the north-bound No. 4 was two hours late, thought no more trains would pass before daylight and left the place. No. 4 came along a half hour later and went over the bank, the engine rolling over on its side, crushing and scalding Engineer Pat Quirk to death and badly injuring Fireman Todd. An express, mail and baggage car left the track and were smashed up. Two men have been arrested on suspicion, but as yet nothing definite has been learned as to the real perpetrators.

TORTURED BY ZULUS.

The Pate of Shipwrecked Sallors in Africa -Natives Kill Jeff Allen, of Decatur, Ill.-W. A. Kennan, of St. Joseph, Mo.,

Driven Insane. Sr. Louis, May 28.-A letter has been received here from Cape Town South Africa, giving an account of the capture and torture by Zulus of Jeff Allen, of Decatur, Ill., and W. A. Kennan, formerly of St. Jo-seph, Mo. The letter is dated March 21, and it is signed "Frank Short" It was inclosed in an envelope from the United States consulate at Cape Town. The letter says that the British ship Neptune, Capt. Saunders master, of London, was recently driven ashore off the coast of Natal, adjacent to the Free States, and all but five of the crew of fifty-eight perished. The escape of the five persons was in itself a miracle. They were the chief mate, named Adams; a Greek; A. B. Leaman, an Englishman, and W. A. Kennan and Jeff Allen, two young Americans. Allen was acting in the capacity of purser and had shipped from Calcutta, India, while Kennan shipped from Rangoon, Burmah.

When the ship was wrecked the crew took to the boats, which were capsized. Four of those named managed to swim ashore, while Kennan secured a life buoy and floated to the shore with a pet monkey in his arms, but the monkey perished before reaching land. The party stopped nine days at the scene of the wreck and interred all the bodies that floated ashore. During this time they suffered greatly, as they had to sleep in the open air and subsist on mussels and wild fruits. The five men started on foot to Natal, 170 miles distant. On the way they were captured by a band of Zulus, who stripped off their clothes and proseeded to torture them by tying them to a tree and beating them severely with the shambock-a jagged club made of rhinoceros hide. While the fiends were in the midst of this barbarous system they were surprised by a party of Boer hunters armed with muskets, who charged upon them and put them to flight. But three of the survivors of the shipwreck were already dead, the Zulus having butchered them with assagais. Those three were Jeff Allen, the Greek and Leaman. Kennan and Adams were the only ones who survived the torture. It is heart-sickening to hear Adams relate the way the poor men pleaded for mercy. It seems he became unconscious after the first two strokes from the shambock. Kennan, he says, received three strokes, and, from what Adams could understand, the chief wanted to spare his life and take him captive to his kraal, while the others he ordered killed. Kennan and Adams were safely con-reved to Natal and thence to Cape Town. Kennan is still insane from his

PERISHED BY FIRE.

The Charred Bodies of a Topeka Woman and Her Three Children Found in the Ruins of Their Burned Home-Indientions of a Triple Murder and Suicide-Ten Lives Lost in a Fire in France.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 28 .- The

Star's Topeka (Kan.) special says: A the corner of Buchanan avenue and Gordon street was burned Wednesday morning. In the ruins were found the charred remains of Mrs. W. A. Uptegroff, aged 25, and her three children, all girls, aged from 15 months to 5 years. All the surrounding circumstances point to a deliberate and carefully planned triple murder and suicide. The scene of the tragedy is in a sparsely settled portion of North Topeka, and among an ignorant class of day laborers. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock. The house was supposed, by the neighbors, to be uninhabited. It has been learned that the family moved into the house about a month ago. The father is a teamster and left home early in the morning to hunt work. He has not had any work since he moved here, and both he and his wife have been very despondent. He was found about 11 o'clock and told of the terrible fate of his family. He could only talk incoherently and could give no information whatever to throw light on the affair. Mrs. Updegraff had frequently talked to her neighbors about her husband's inability to find work and the large family to be supported. The only other theory that can be advanced is that the mother and children were asleep, and being suffocated by the smoke were unable to raise an outcry.

TEN PERSONS PERISHED. Paris, May 28.-A most destructive fire occurred in Dunquerque, a little town in the northwest of France, Tuesday. A petroleum refinery was destroyed, involving a loss of half a million francs, and a number of other similar establishments in the immediate vicinity were for some time in great danger. Ten lives were lost before the fire was finally extinguished on Wednesday, and some harrowing scenes were witnessed. One workman in endeavoring to escape from the building was cremated before the eyes of thousands of people, who were powerless to help him. The local fire department was unable to cope with the fire and the pompiers of Calais, Dieppe and Boulogne had to be brought on the ground before the fire was finally subdued. The soldiers rendered efficient help in saving eight large petroleum reservoirs, which are close to the

TRYING TO CORNER WHEAT. C. E. Pillsbury Buying Heavily, and Some

One May Get Squeezed MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 27.-Those who are on the inside in chamber of commerce circles in Minneapolis see the hand of C. E. Pillsbury deep in the wheat pit. The fact is that by the time Mr. Pillsbury's July contract wheat is in he will have possession of more than all of the dealers. Tuesday he bought three-fourths of all the wheat offered on the board, and he is buying every day. It is figured that there is about 9,400,000 bushels of wheat the producers and workers will realize in Minneapolis. Out of this amount there is about 6,000,000 contract grade and No. 1 northern. These two latter classes are the wheat Mr. Pillsbury has been so extensively buying. There are many men who have contracted for before the flames were extinguished July delivery to Mr. Pillsbury who are not able or will not be able to come up ing a loss of $150,000. FATALLY WHIPPED IN SCHOOL Miss Jennie Webb Tried for Causing the Death of One of Her Pupils. PONTIAC, Mich., May 28.—Last June Miss Jennie Webb, a school-teacher, whipped Frank Cook, one of her pupils. with a strap. The boy went home, his legs and body marked with great welts by the strap. He was shortly after taken with paralysis and died. The doctors said the whipping caused his death. The coroner's jury found that Miss Webb was to blame and the police magistrate held her for trial. The case has been on trial a week in blast without telling him and that he the circuit court before Judge J. B. was hurt, and wanted to know why Moore and was concluded Wednesday. The sympathy of the audience was with Miss Webb, who has changed under the trial from a brightfaced young woman to a prematurely old one. This evidently had its effect on the jury, for they returned a verdict of assault and battery after three hours in the jury room. TO RAISE REINDEER.

The state homoeopath convention The Government to Use the Fleet-Footed Madison, Wis., May 29.-The government has asked Capt. C. A. Curtis, of this city, a retired army officer, to go to St. Lawrence island, in the Behring sea, to take charge of a station about to be established there for a year. The interior department desires to establish a station on this island and begin the breeding of remdeer there to be used instead of dogs for hauling. It is the intention of the government to import reindeer from Siberia to the island, and a number of Siberians will be engaged to teach the natives how to raise and care for the animals. A reindeer park will be established, and as soon as the animals are obtained in sufficient numbers some of them will be taken to Alaska and distributed among the people in that country. St. Lawrence island is about 36 miles from the coast of Asia, and 50 from Alaska, in the Behring sea.

FOUR KILLED BY DYNAMITE. Fearful Explosion in the Atlantic & Pacific Tunnel in Colorado. GREENCASTLE, Col., June 1 .- A terrible accident is reported at the east end of the Atlantic-Pacific tunnel on Kelso mountain, about 8 miles from Silver Plume, by which four men lost their lives. The names of the dead men are Harry Taylor, William Goughlin, J. Richardson and John Mullholland.

They were employed at the breast of the tunnel in loading poles. The tunnel is very long and is worked by power drills, so they carried with them about seventy-five pounds of dynamite or giant powder to complete the loading. From the breast of the tunnel is a drift on one of the lodes, in which Moritz Fariton was working. It was customary for the men in the shaft to come back and warn Fariton of a coming blast, but a sudden and unusual explosion threw him off his feet, stunning him badly. After he recovered he started to the mouth of the tunnel, wondering why the shift had not notified him as usual. On getting to the engine-room he told the engineer that the men had set off the they were so careless, asking where they were. The engineer said they had not come out. A search party was organized and found all four men named had been literally blown to fragments by a premature explosion of nearly 100 pounds of dynamite. The accident was about 3,500 feet from the mouth of the tunnel. The force of the explosion tore a great hole in the wall of the tunnel and a great quantity of rock blocked the way of the rescuing party for a time. A majority of the stock of the Atlantic-Pacific tunnel is owned by 'Brick" Pomeroy.

BRIGGS MUST GO.

By a Vote of 440 Against 60 the Highest Body of the Presbyterian Church Rejects the Professor's Appointment.

DETROIT, Mich., May 30 .- In a voice that admits of no misunderstanding the general assembly of the Presbyterian church has vetoed the appointment of Dr. Charles A. Briggs, professor elect in Union theological seminary. The highest court in the church disapproves his appointment by a vote of 440 to 60, and in the terms of the now famous compact of 1870 "no such appointment of professor shall be considered as a complete election if disapproved by a majority vote of the assembly." Six hours of speech making on Friday preceded the vote, which was by roll call, and will form a part of the minutes of the assembly. The resolutions adopted formed the conclusions of Dr. Patton's report presented on Wednesday afternoon. NEW YORK, May 30.-When the vote of the general assembly was brought the stand that the directors of the seen that the vote is not a personal one, but against the seminary itself." LIQUOR CAUSED IT. Four Inmates of a Pennsylvania House Lose Their Lives in the Flames.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 1.-One of the most terrible accidents occurred at Taylorstown Saturday that have happened in this county for years. In the morning at 1 o'clock the house of Henry Phillips caught fire and before the four inmates could be gotten out they were all burned to death. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the victims came to their death by the burning of the Phillips house, which was caused by the excessive use of intoxicating liquors by the inmates. A Horrible Confession. SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 1 .- John Zwald, a man about 55 years old, has confessed that he had murdered two wives eleven years ago. ST. LOUIS.

Pretty strong reasons for trying Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. In the first place, it cures your catarrh no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing. It doesn't simply palliate - it cures. If you believe it, so much the better. There's nothing more to be said. You get it for 50 cents, from all druggists.

But perhaps you won't believe it. Then there's another reason for trying it. Show that you can't be cured, and you'll get $500. It's a plain business offer. The makers of Dr. Sage's Remedy will pay you that amount if they can't cure you. They know that they can - you think that they can't. If they're wrong, you get the cash. If you're wrong, you're rid of

WHEREAS, default has been made in the conditions of a certain indenture of mortgage, dated the First day of July, A. D 1883, made and executed by Lemon E. Sparks and D. Etta Sparks, his wife, to Emma J. Hatch, by which default the power of sale therein con-tained has become operative. Said mortgage was on the 4th day of August A. D. 1883 duly terror of the night. Hence the term "bugbear" and "bug" in this sense often occurs in Shakspere. In "coorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, in Liber 64 of mortgages, on page 174. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of Three Thousand Six Hundred and Seventy-Six and 26-100 dollars, ($1.676.26.) No proceedings have 100 dollars, Nicholson's Journal there is mention of a man who, far from disliking bed bugs, took them under his protecting care and would never suffer them to be disturbed, until in the end they swarmed to an incredible degree, and after his death millions were found in his bed and chamber to the Nicholson's Journal there is mention amount so due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Therefore notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the Statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises therein described at public auction or vendue, to the highest bidder, at the South front door of the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor in said County, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said County) on Friday the 3rd day of July A. D. 1891 at cleven o'clock in the forenoon of said day, to satisfy the amount due as aforesaid, and the costs of this proceeding, including an atvorney
