COLUMBUS, Ind., Aug. 17 .- A terrible wind and electrical storm swept over this county about 3 o'clock Saturday morning. There was one continued flash of lightning. At Elizabethtown, this county, the elements assumed the shape of a cyclone, and the black clouds hung apparantly near the ground, and whirled and twisted in a fearful manner. There were dazzling flashes of lightning and loud and instant reports from the electrical bolts, two of which struck the frame residence of Horace Trent and burned it to the ground. The entire upper story of the fine brick schoolhouse was torn away and the building rendered of little value. The brick residence of Charles Sisco had one end and one side blown into the street. His wife, hearing the storm, had just stepped into a frame addition when the crash came, and escaped uninjured. The 16-yearold son, Ezra, was asleep in a bed near the wall that gave way, and was buried some 3 feet in the debris and was fatally hurt about the head and breast. The father was also hurt, but not fatally. From the Sisco dwelling a good-sized mirror was carried some distance, and when found was not damaged. The stables of Mrs. Carter and James Burns were blown down and two horses in the former's barn were killed. The large grain elevator belonging to Ed Springer, the barn of Daniel Burns, R. C. Newsom's flouring-mill and the Christian church building were badly damaged, and a large number of fruit and forest trees were completely torn to pieces. A horse belonging to Ed Springer and a mule owned by Daniel Borns were killed by lightning. The damage done by the evclone in the town cannot be estimated. Some three hours later a very angry cloud appeared in the southwest and moved east very rapidly, with continual flashes of lightning and a continued roar of thunder. When first seen by parties in this city it was very low and rolling eastward, but gradually rose before reaching here. . In the center of this city there wasn't enough wind to lift one's hat off, while some shade and fruit trees were badly damaged in both the extreme northern and southern parts of the city. In East Columbus the house of Charles McCalla was struck by lightning and Mr. McCalla was so badly shocked as to paralyze his left side. About 300 yards north of the McCalla residence a cow belonging to George Monroe was struck by an electric bolt and instantly killed. STILL SOARING.

December Wheat Reaches $1.08 at Chicago, and $1.15 at New York-Big Advance in Rye-Exciting Days on 'Change. CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The local dealers in cereals completely lost all control over the wheat, corn and rye markets Saturday and many times they as clearly lost control over themselves. There has been seen no such wild, excited scrambles-and that is saying much since Hutchinson's famous wheat corner in the fall of 1888. Outside dealers were as much at sea as the Chicago specultors. The story is only barely indicated by the closing quotations, which show 6%e advance in wheat, 8c in rve and 2%c in corn. The excitement which characterized the trading in the wheat pit riday

ing bears at from $1.01% to $1.0314 the noment the bell tapped. Business for about one minute was done on an enormous scale at from $1.03 to $1.02%, and then for a matter of five minutes the crowd made a unanimous rush to sell and the price tumbled to $1.01%. Its stay at the latter point was short; the same unanimity which had for a few minutes been in favor of the seling side now changed and it rose to $1.02, at which point sellers entirely withdrew until the apparently crazy buyers had advanced their bids to $1.05. Some sales at that time were made as high as $1.0514 before it once more began to recede. The reaction following the latter bulge stopped when it got down to $1.03%. The market acted exceedingly firm, with an upward trend reaching to $1.041/4 and back again to $1.04 a few times, and then, as on the preceding bulge, the entire pit full of perspiring, haggard and excited brokers yelled their bids, and as nothing but higher and still higher prices could induce anyone to sell, bids of $1.05, $1.06, $1.07 and finally $1.08 were thundered simultaneously from 500 husky throats as the price

shot up. Succeeding the fluctuations

$1.051/4 and the close was $1.061/4.

It would have been an exciting day for speculators in grain if even wheat had remained stationary. Corn was only of secondary interest because as a rule the crowd trading in it is smaller than that in wheat. The flucations were frequent and of sufcient severity to be called sensational and, as in wheat the trend of prices was strongly upward. September, which at one peyoung man by the name of Carson, who riod of the session sold as low as 59%c. only reached its pinnacle when it touched 651/4c; and it stood at 621/4c at the close of the session, or 2%c his physician thinks his nervous sys above the point it stopped at Fritem has been shattered and his mind day. The advance was due for the most part to the excitement in the wheat market, and that was taken advantage of by those who are working the bull side of the deal. Oats hardly kept pace with other cereals, the net gain amounting to only %@%c. Rye | mansion has for the figure on and women, all jumped 8c, closing firm at $1.04 for of whom have, until declining health of the hos-September. This was the top price tess prevented, been entertained with the low. Trading was active and there was considerable fluctuation between Conservative traders pronounce the character of Friday's and Saturday's market a stampede. The shorts got badly scared after the experience of Ed Pardridge, who is said to have dropped nearly $1,000,000 on the bear side. At the same time there were unusually heavy buying orders from foreign countries, and every short trader rushed to cover at sacrifices ranging all the way from 15 cents to 20 cents a bushel. The sacrifice had to be made, and it was bravely met and manfully stood, because there was not even a rumor of the collapse of any firm.

Experienced brokers claim that they see nothing extraordinary in the rush, and they maintain also that it cannot last very long. At present the farmers deliver little or nothing. The spring wheat is not yet harvested, and the supply of winter wheat is exceedingly NEW YORK, Aug. 17.-On sales of 11,500,000 bushels in option, wheat prices in the short Saturday market of only one hour and a half rushed up over five points at the produce exchange. The bulls were in full control. Cables reported the foreign market booming on news of the American rise. At noon, when the market closed, wheat for September delivery was selling at $1.131/6, after a day of extraordinary nervousness. There was virtually no rye to be bought at any price. The wheat market opened with shorts panic-stricken. They rushed and climbed, getting in out of the wet at 21/4@3c advance from the close of Friday night. It was a short panie started by disappointing cables. The advance in the price of rye abroad had some effect, and it is now over the price of wheat. There is a corner here, not artificial but natural, and rye has risen 30 cents a bushel in ten days.

In the local markets September wheat opened with simultaneous sales ranging from $1.091/4 to $1.10, as against $1.07% at Friday's close, all of the other options being similarly strong. December started at $1.11 to $1.12, against $1.09%. Trading was enormous, and within an hour December touched $1.15, closing at $1.14%, while September closed at $1.1314.

MRS. POLK DEAD.

The Widow of the Ex-President Expires

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Sur-ounded by a few loving friends and relatives Mrs. James K. Polk Frelict of the eleventh president of the United States, departed this life at 7:30 a. m. Friday peacefully and quietly, in the full possession of her mental faculties. Mrs. Polk had? been in perfect's health until last 'III'l'

The bells cember, which was being traded in at throughout the city were mournfully tolled and sympathy and regret were 99% at 1:15 Friday, was wanted by hundreds of bellowing bulls and roarheard from the masses of people as they gaze upon the bulletin announcing the demise of this honored and beloved lady, who spent her years among the people she loved so well and who respected her as one of the noblest of her sex.

Mrs. Sarah Childress Polk was born Sep-tember 4, 1803, at Murfreesboro, Tenn. Her father, Joel Childress, was a wealthy, cultured and hospitable planter of Rutherford county, Tenn. Some of the pleasantest of her years of girlhood were spent at a seminary at Salem, N. C. She became acquainted with Mr. Polk while he was a rising young attorney at Columbia, S. C., in 1824, and shortly after her graduation while yet in her teens she became his wife. He was then serving his first term in the Tennessee legislature. From this time on her talented husband continued to rise, next year becoming a member of congress from Tennessee. For fourteen years he was in congress and was speaker of the house for five terms, only resigning in 18% when elected governor of Tennessee. In 1843 he received the presidential nomination by the democratic convention of Baltimore and was elected the next year, defeating Henry Clay by a small majority. During all these years Mrs. Polk was her susband's confidante and chief counselor and did much to add to his popularity and success As mistress of the white house Mrs. Polk showed the beauty and strength of her character. With true womanly dignity she presided over social Washington, s to-day acknowledged to have been the most talented and beautiful uncrowned already given there was a decline to queen of the United States. One of her first acts in this high station was to abolish the old time democratic but undignified custom of serving refreshments and giving dances at the presidential mansion and substitute in the place of these celebrations the present custom of holding weekly state recep tions. A woman of less tact and firmness could not have wrought this change, as all social Washington was arrayed against th change, and for a time political opponents of the administration sought to make capital out of what was deemed un-American pride an exclusiveness. In the end Mrs. Polk not only triumphed but succeeded by her example i converting the social world to her way of Mrs. Polk's was a rare type of beauty. Her olive complexion and dark, expressive eyes were set off by a wealth of raven hair. Her rare conversational powers, keen repartee easy grace and kindly hospitality won for her universal admiration. Of late years Mrs. Polk has been able to re ceive but few callers and has confined her out door activities to quiet drives about Nashville. Every New Year's morning for nearly half a century, in response to her invitation, the entire state legislature of Tennessee has been entertained at the Polk mansion, that body invariably adjourning for that purpose. This a rare example of old-time chivalry and an unmistakable evidence of the high honor in which this lady has been held. the time of his death, which was kept together tolerably well until the civil war, when nearly everything was destroyed or lost. until a half dozen years ago, when she found herself well-nigh penniless. When a bill was introduced in corgress to grant the widow of President Lincoln a pension of $5,000 a year, it lacked one vote in the senate to secure its passage. That was the vote of Senator Howell E. Jackson, of Tennessee. He offered to vote for the bill provided it was so amended to give annual pensions of $5,000 to Mrs. Polk and to the widow of President Tyler, as well as Mrs. Lincoln, and the bill became a law. Since that time Mrs. Polk had lived on this pension. President Polk left one of the queerest wills that was ever left to be probated by an intelligent man. Everything was given to his wife, and at her death to be turned over "to the . most deserving member of the family bearing the name of Polk," the decision to be made by the state legislature. The nearest relative until recently was State Treasurer Polk of Tennessee, to whom it was supposed the estate would go. It will be remembered that a few years ago he became a defaulter to a large amount and fled the country, finally dying in Mexico. His dishonesty cut him and his family off, and just how the matter will be settled is now a mystery. There are no other deserving members of the family bearing the Polk name, and now that Mrs. Polk is dead the courts will have to decide the matter. It is not believed that the document will stand a legal test.]

IT BROUGHT SHOWERS. Rain-Makers Successfully Bombard Texas

MIDLAND, Tex., Aug. 12.-The rainfall expedition sent out by the United States department of agriculture un-der the charge of R. G. Dyrenforth ar-rived at Midland last week and on Monday scored its first success. Last forms at Cold Spring grove Wednesday week was spent in conveying the supplies to the ranch of Nelson Morris, of Chicago, which is located 23 miles north of this place. Saturday and Monday part of the apparatus was set up and a test of it was made in which a number of blasts were fired. The explosions of "rackarock" bombs caused great concussions, and were heard and felt distinetly at a considerable distance from the field of operations. The explosives were all fired from the ground by means of electric batteries. The trial was made primarily to test the apparatus, and was not calculated to be on a scale extensive enough to secure rain. However, in about ten hours after the explosions clouds began to form and gather over the Morris ranch and surrounding country, and about seventeen hours after the operations the rain began to fall in copious quantities. The storm seemed to gather directly over the ranch and the fall of rain heaviest at that point. The storm extended over a space of 1,000 square miles and at the ranch six hours. About 2 inches fell at ity and is the best rain that has fallen on the Morris ranch for more than a year. All the apparatus will be in position in a few days when full trial will The theory of producing rain by the use of explosives was taken up by ex-Senator Farwell, of Illinois, some time ago. His idea was to blast the upper atmosphere with charges of explosives sent up in balloons. Congress was asked for an appropriation, and finally the senator was awarded $9,000. Plenie Barge Caught in a Squall on Long Island Sound-The Hurricane Deck Blown Down-Sixteen Persons Killed and Many Injure !.

New York, Aug. 13.—Sixteen people met death in one of its most horrible haps more, were injured, some of them fatally. They were members of an excursion party composed of the employes of Theodore Kayser, a dry goods merchant of Brooklyn, E. D., and their friends. They left Brooklyn in the morning on the steamer Sylvan Stream and the barge Republic. During the four hours' trip to the grove they danced and sang. They ate their lunches in the grove and had reembarked and were about to start on their return when a mighty squall of wind struck the barge, raising one portion of the roof and dashing it down on the other, crushing to death the people beneath it. On the steamer and barge were about 500 men and women and as many children. A panic ensued and there was a wild rush for the dock. All the reports of the catastrophe agree that it could not have occurred had the barge been a vessel of proper strength. Its timbers are reported to have been rotten, and they parted, where others would have withstood the force of the squall. About 4 o'clock the excursionists that point. This storm breaks a drought of long duration in this local-prepared to start home. There was a suspicious blackness in the heavens and the wind came in gusts which the weather-wise did not like. The steamer's pilot, fearing to be caught at the be made, which will be watched with dock by the storm, hurried the people aboard. Before the hawsers were thrown off the rain began to fall in torrents, and the wind had increased to a hurricane. The lightning became intense in its brilliancy and the thunder peals were deafening. Women became frightened and the boat's crew had difficulty in maintaining order. As soon as the barge was freed from its lashing the homeward journey began. The steamer had hardly begun to move when a blinding flash of lightning, accompanied by a crack of thunder, occurred. At the same instant the hurricane deck of the Republic collapsed. It lifted straight up in the air and fell with an awful crash. came with terrific force, crushing life and all semblance of humanity out of fore so full of happiness. Then the evelone was gone and nothing was left behind but the shrieks of the wounded

Almost the whole upper roof of the barge was blown off and the two poles crushed, were beseeching their feeble voices be released. The confusion was well nigh indescribable. So quickly had the cyclone swept over the barge that not a soul realized what had happened until the great mass of splintered wood came thundering down. One man in a white flannel suit was pinned down by a heavy timber which lav Andrew's, Edinburgh, Harvard across his chest. By a tremendous Bologna. From 1857 to 1863 effort he freed himself, and was crawling to a place that promised safety when he stumbled against a support and loosened it. The heavy piece of wood struck him on the head and he was thrown into the water. He sunk instantly. Almost at the same moment a 5-year-old child, a bright, flaxen-haired little thing, reached forward crying, "Papa, papa." She would have fallen overboard, too, but was seized by the skirts by a woman whose face was covered with blood. The little one was drawn back and saved. A dark-haired woman about 30 years of age was under a great load of debris. She was groaning feebly, but when face was shockingly disfigured and both arms were broken.

The work of clearing away the debris was begun at once. A horrible task it was, for in the mass of twisted iron and broken wood arms and legs were entangled. As soon as the bodies were extricated they were wrapped in canvas and placed on board the steamer. It was a sickening sight. Women, young girls and children seemed to be the principal victims. The pilot of the Crystal Stream, Robert Schuler, was instantly killed at his post of danger. A number of the summer boarders and yachtsmen from the craft in the harbor and a few brave men on the steamer rushed to the assistance of the stricken excursionists. When the injured were released they disappeared, and it was next to impossible to find them. Few escaped without cuts or bruises.

Coroner S. H. Rodman, of Huntington, held an inquest aboard the barge, and, while withholding a verdict, gave permission for the bodies to be repermission for the bodies to be 165 moved to Brooklyn. An examination of the two masts which practically did all the damage shows that they were rotten to the core. A child could have broken them with a good blow. Half broken them with a good blow with the ware sheathed with way up they were sheathed with brass, probably to hide their true features added to the publication of former years.

A Very Useful Book. "Health and Pleasure on America's Greatest Railroad" is the title of a charming little volume issued by the Passenger Department of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, with new and attractive features added to the publication of former years.

The frontispiece is a fine view of that noble structure, the Washington Bridge across the Harlem, but that is merely a hint of the beauties that follow. No one who glances over the book can fall to get a comprehensive idea of the wealth of scenery through which the road passes, not to mention the valuable information that is systematically arranged throughout the book in regard to the hotels and boarding houses, the prices of board, the fares, the distances, the possible excursion, and, in a word, all that that usually inquiring person, the Summer tourist, can possibly think of desiring to learn.

Copies of the book will be forwarded fresto any address upon receipt of ten cents postage by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York, or W. B. Jerome, General Western Passenger Agent, Chicago.

The smallest is the best in pills, other things being equal. But, with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, nothing else is equal. They're the best, not only because they're the smallest, and the easiest to take -but because they do more good. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels in a way the huge, old-fashioned pill doesn't dream of. Think of trying to regulate the system with the ordinary pill. It's only good for upsetting it.

These are mild and gentle-but thorough and effective, no pain-no griping. One little pellet for a laxative - three for a cathartic. The best Liver Pill known. Shaw and daughter, Over the entrance of a room in the Mame, spent Friday and Saturday second story of a brick building at the corner of Huron street and Fourth avenue hung for years a small sign: "J H. Morris, attorneyat-law." It was in this little room long friends of the Judge were wont to gather and do their "law and insurance business," as some of them where some of the great political Mr. M. B. Patterson and family, leaders of both parties were accuser came to Ann Arbor but that he to the rules of the Bank. honored his old friend, "Jud. Morris," with a visit first.

Alphens Felch, there was not a resident of our city during the last 40 years who had a better knowledge of ing and instructive to listen to the discourse of these old patriots on the men and the times when Felch was in Congress. These conversations often led to the "thirties and forties," the great era of American statesmanship and the days of forensic eloquence. It had been the good fortune of both to have heard Clay, Webster, Calhoun, and Benton in Congress and together they discussed the greatness, the power and the genius of these American champions, the wonders of their time. Mr. Morris considered Webster prepare an oration and memorize it. Clay, he contended, was always ready with an oration, no preparation was necessary. He was a leader of men heavy speaker, while Clay was easy, The deceased was a descendant of
