Several Cruisers Ordered to Set Sail for Chili-Admiral Gherardi to Have Comm nd of the Fleet, Which Will Be Under Way in About Ten Days. WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 .- Action is better than talk. That was the pith of Secretary Blaine's remark Thursday when he asked Secretary Tracy how soon the navy department could have the cruisers Philadelphia and Newark afloat for Chilian waters. At Friday's cabinet meeting the secretary of the navy gave the answer. Orders have been sent to Boston to have the Newark fitted out with a year's supply of provisions and to complete its crew with two-year service men. The ship, it is now believed, can be got under way within ten days. The Newark will sail to Chili. The Philadelphia will get under way about the same time, or perhaps a few days earlier than the Newark, and the Atlanta will follow as soon as it is ready. These three vessels, with the Boston and Yorktown now under way, and the Baltimore and San Francisco already in the Pacific, would give a fleet of seven of the best vessels now available, and would make quite a respectable showing for the purpose intended-that is, as an aid to diplomacy in securing reparation. One object in selecting the Philadelphia for service in Chili, it is understood, is to place Admiral Gherardi in command of the forces in those waters pending the reparation which will be required. The president and Secretary Blaine look favorably upon his detail for this The full text of Minister Egan's dis-

after the president and Secretary Blaine had stated the policy to be followed there was nothing to do on the part of the other members but agree that the stand taken was right. The full text of the minister's cable showed that the reply of the junta was even more deliberately insulting than the paraphrase of it which was made public. There was also an addition from Mr. Egan, in which he in effect said that unless otherwise instructed he would not consider it advisable to make any further demands to the junta at present. The meaning of this is that he awaits the ultimatum of the United States and in the interim will hold only the most formal relations with the junta, because nothing more can be looked for from it. Whether the ultimatum will be delivered to the funta or whether there will be a regularly organized government to be held responsible, the events of the next few days may determine. It is true that the electors who choose a president have been selected and are to meet in November. but this does not insure a president and regular government at once.

MONTT COUNSELS CONCILIATION. SANTIAGO, Oct. 31.-The Chilian authorities show no disposition to recede from the defiant attitude they assumed in the answer to the communieation from the state department at Washington in regard to the assault on the members of the crew of the United States cruiser Baltimore. Senor Montt, the representative of the provisional government at Washington, sent a cable dispatch which was received Friday urging the junta to adopt a conciliatory policy and to move with great caution, but his advice has apparently had no effect. Up to date there has been no sign of an apology for the assault on the Baltimore's men and no reply has been made to Minister Egan's request for an immediate investigation of the affair.

Capt. Schley, of the Baltimore, has applied to the intendente of Valparaiso to protect the officers and men of his ship who are obliged to go ashore on necessary business. The intende replied that he was unable to give any advice relative to the Baltimore men coming ashore. He evades the question of protection altogether. Capt. Schley does not intend to cease attending to his necessary shore work, even if he has to arm and protect his own

It has just become known that there is another feature of the Valparaiso outrage which demands explanation. The municipal and government officers of Valparaiso who made an investigation of the attack upon the sailors of the Baltimore compelled the United States manof-war's men who were confined in the prison to sign a statement written in Spanish exonerating the police from all responsibility as to their arrest. As these papers had to be signed as one of the stipulations for the release of the blue jackets the men naturally did

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.-In the event of hostilities with Chili the American government can, inside of sixty days, assemble on its coasts a naval force consisting of fifteen modern built ships, armed with 115 formidable rifled guns and nine wooden cruisers, armed with sixty-eight guns, making a grand total of twenty-four ships and 183 guns. The modern ships are capable of dealing a crushing blow to the Chilian navy under any condition. The ten wooden cruisers will make effective blockades and, acting in conjunction with the firstclass vessels, could bombard and lay many of the Chilian ports under contribution. In fact, we could close every port in the republic inside of forty days.

Further Reports Showing Their Atrociou Fury Toward the Baltimore's Sallors. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 - The only Chilian news received Sunday was in the form of a cipher dispatch dated Valparaiso Saturday. The dispatch reads as follows:

"VALPARAISO, Oct. 31 -SECRETARY OF TRI NAVY:-Petty Officer Johnson, in whose arms Riggen was killed, declares that the act was done by the police guard. Apprentice Williams reports that he was arrested by a mounted policeman, who placed cat-gut nippers around his wrists and started his horse into a gallop, throwing him down. After that the policeman walked his horse. Cosheaver McWilliams was arrested and taken to prison with a lasso around his neck. He was bitten in the arm after arrest, Coalheaver Quigley, while trying to effect his escape from the mob, was struck with a sword by a police officer. Apprentice Talbo was arrested, and on the way to prison he was struck repeatedly by the police. Petty Officer Hamilton, dangerously wounded and unconscious, was dragged to prison. One of my people, trying to make him comfortable, was threatened with the butt of a musket and made to desist. My men in prison were examined secretly, although I sent an officer to the court to request authority to allow his presence. The request was denied his presence. The request was denied on account of the proceedings being secret. Before discharge my men were required to sign a paper, and before doing so Rinehart asket a court official the meaning of the paper. He was informed that it was a mere form stating that the signer was not engaged in the trouble. Two men are dead, three are danger ously wounded and about fifteen are slightly injured. Surgeons believe the wounded out danger. "Schley." Secretary Tracy will call the attention of naval officers to the fact that they should maintain a discreet silence as to the ability of the United States navy to wipe out Chili. Ever since the Chilian trouble began naval officers have been expressing their views freely as to our ability to bombard Valparaiso, land a marine force and take Santiago, and various other moves. But Secretary Tracy is of the opinion that such expressions are in very bad taste. They are cabled to England and to Chili and have *the effect of placing this country in a bombastic attitude which the secretary does not wish us to occupy. SANTIAGO, Nov. 2 .- The political atmosphere remains about the same. There is no change in the strained diplomatic relations existing between the United States and Chili. The junta still contends that the police of Valparaiso were in no way to blame for taking the sailors of the Baltimore into custody nor for their subsequent treatment The members of the American col-

of an ultimatum from the United States to the junta. Even in official circles it is evident that some such step is expected, and there is consequently great excitement in that and other circles. The United States legation has again been placed under police espionage. The reason for it is not known. but the police are keeping as strict a watch over it as they did when the question of the legation's right to afford asylum to political refuges was under discussion. The only reason that can be given for this action is that the Chilian officials are desirous of keeping fully posted with regard to persons leaving or visit-here continue to express the strongest feeling against the United States. A prominent member of the new government who holds a position in cabinet, in an interview regard to the dispute between the two countries, spoke in a most unfriendly manner concerning America and Americans. He was particularly severe on United States Minister Egan, whom he bluntly accused of trying to provoke a war between the United States and Chili in order to secure glory for himself. On the other hand, it is asserted by persons conversant with the particulars of the difficulty between the two countries, that Minister Egan has done nothing whatever in the matter on his own responsibility, all his actions being guided by orders which had been sent to him from the state department at Washington.

VALPARAISO, Nov. 2.—Senor Arlegui, the intendente of this city, has given Capt. Schley, of the Balmore, his positive assurances that the officers and sailors of that United States warship will be afforded all possible protection in case they should come ashore. At the same time, in view of the present state of affairs, he will not offer advice in regard to the advisability of permitting any of the Baltimore's crew to land While Arlegui will not commit himself by an expression of opinion on the subject, it seems clear that he deems it best that no such attempt should be made for the present. The intendente has asked American Consul McCreery to request Capt. Schley to furnish Judge Foster, who is conducting a secret inquiry into the outrage, with a copy of any testimony obtained by him, so that it may be used by the court. Many Americans be lieve that the authorities desire to proceed in good faith.

So far the United States government has been acting only on ex parte cable versions. It is only just and right to await the evidence taken by the Chilian court of inquiry before proceeding to extreme measures. There is a strong belief that the better men in the Chilian congress will vote in favor of reparation as soon as that body meets this month.

of Tennessee Prisons Freed by a

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 2.—It is now stimated that 300 Tennessee convicts employed in the coal mines at Briceville and Coal Creek, 30 miles north of Knoxville, were liberated Friday night by the mob of free miners, who blew up and burned the stockade. Shortly before 9 o'clock signal fires were lighted on the mountain tops for miles surrounding Briceville. Soon after the signals were answered by reports of guns in every direction. People who did not understand the signals supposed that another meeting of miners was to be held to pass resolutions of indignation against the Tennessee supreme court, which a few days ago de-cided the convict lease adversely to the free miners.

About 9:30 the dozen guards at the stockade of the Tennessee Mining Company's coal mines discovered that they were surrounded by a mob of more than 1,000 men armed with Winchester rifles, double-barreled shotguns, pistols and guns of all descriptions, axes, crowbars and picks. Almost immediately a terrific explosion rent the air and one whole side of the stockade was demolished. The powder or dynamite had been placed under the wall early in the night by a trusty committee of miners. The stockade was soon swept with flames and the mob ordered the convicts to fly to the mountains. The guards attempted to prevent their escape, but were overawed by the miners, who leveled their rifles and threatened instant death to any guard who should interfere. By the light of the burning stockade the convicts filed out in good order, and as they went were supplied with citizens' clothes. Many of the miners had brought extra clothes with them and many pulled off their own coats and gave them to the convicts. A few convicts who were not supplied were furnished with clothes at Briceville. Threats were made to hang several of the obnoxious guards, but no one was An incessant firing of guns was kept up from the beginning of the attack until the last of the 141 convicts had disappeared, but the firing was in the air. Several guards escaped, but the road to Coal Creek was so well guarded that none were able to carry information to guards at the mines. The telegraph wires between Briceville and Coal Creek had been cut before the attack began. After the Briceville stockade had been completely consumed and every convict had disappeared in the mountains mobs of miners set out for Coal Creek, 6 miles distant, carrying several guards as prisoners. The mob was nearly 2,000 strong at Goal Creek. There an attack was made upon the stockades of the Knoxville Iron Company, where over 150 convicts were em ployed in the coal mines. The guards saw that resistance was useless. The now excited mob of miners kept up an incessant firing and the mountains echoed with their midnight yells. The stockades were soon in flames and the convicts were ordered to march out. All escaped except two, were sick. Many could who not be supplied with citizens' clothes. Some were supplied in the town of Coal Creek, while many fled to the mountains in convict garb. When the convicts secured their liberty they offered to help their liberators in an attack on the Chumley's stockade at Thistle Creek. The guards at the latter place anticipated an attack and bonfires were lighted and a continual shooting of rifles was kept up in order to intimidate the mimers. After the work of destruction was completed at Coal Creek a large part of the mob proposed to go to Oliver's. 15 miles distant, where about 150 convicts are employed in the mines, but the night was nearly spent, railroad transportation could not had and the march across the mountain was too difficult. The proposed attack on Oliver's was abandoned, though many swore that the convicts there should be liberated within twenty-four hours. Before daylight the mob of miners had dispersed and not a convict was to be seen. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 2.-Gov. Buchanan arrived in the city Sunday to confer with Attorney General Pickle on the outbreak at Briceville. He has issued two proclamations, one offerng a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the leaders of the Briceville riot, and the other offering a reward of $25 each for the capture of the escaped convicts. The governor will not call out the militia at present. He will depend upon the civil authorities to rearrest the convicts and until that is done and they are placed back in the mines there will be no occasion for using militia at Coal Creek.

WHAT A WASTE.

Fifty million bushels of wheat in Dakota have been ruined by exposure to the cold rains because help could not be obtained to thresh it. What other country can show such a record as this. But after all this is only a small thing compared to the waste that comes to every community from the number of men who are forced to lose time every year by reason of sickness. Most of this loss comes upon those who can ill afford it and in the great majority of instances it comes from neglected colds. Workingmen in particular are apt to neglect themselves until Sunday thinking that on that day they will stay in doors and doctor themselves well. They allow their malady to run on until it develops into pneumonia or pleurisy or some thing equally serious and then they have to stop. If they would only keep a bottle of REID'S GERMAN COUGH AND KIDNEY CURE in the house they could drive away their malady before it became serious. This great remedy is for sale by all druggists.

I rowed to the farther pebbly ahore,
My face to the sinking sun,
The clouds followed close when he shone And said: "The day is done."

Then a light wind came from over the land And sent us toward the sky,
Where lay the clouds with golden band,
My little boat and I.
The cars lay idle, I drifted on,

Unheeding where I went;
To a page in a book my thoughts were gone,
My boat, where the breezes sent.

We passed through a clump of rushes tall,
And my thoughts came back to note
How quickly our course was changed, and all
By a reed at the bow of the boat.
I said to my boat: "If strong the force
That sends you drifting along,
A thing so slight could not change your course
And make the whole way wrong.

"But if you cannot safely float
Into our port alone,
Then I must guide you, little boat,
And bring you safely home."
So we drift no more in the crimson light,
With face to the sunset sky. But I know that our course is true and right.

—Evelyn Noble, in Detroit Free Press. STORY OF A LETTER.

It Won a Mother Back to Health and Happiness.

"Off work so early?" James stopped in passing a boy who, like himself, was one of the workers ished letter. "Shag hasn't been at on a large ranch. Caleb's stumpy figure was bending over a large table in as if-as if-he'd got a letter off himthe rough back porch and his face was self." drawn into a pucker which told that James could not help joining in the his task was no easy one.

"Yes, it's early I know, but it's mail day to-morrow—and I thought I'd send said. a letter."

"Folks back east?" asked James. "Well, I haven't got many folks. Ain't so well off as you are. It's my makes you feel half so good as doing stepmother, but she's a good woman something you think you ought to do." and likes to hear from me and I think I ought to."

No one ever thought of taking Caleb for an exemplar in anything. He was slow and clumsy in his movements and never dreamed of presuming to make a suggestion of duty to anyone. But it enough to sleep for a week." had come to be observed that Caleb was to be relied on.

"If you look for him where he be longs he is sure to be there," his employer had been heard to say. And some of the boys had noticed that Ca- a cold chill of fear that she might leb's quiet: "I think I ought to" always never stand there or anywhere else referred to something he was sure to do. again. James had intended calling upon

Caleb for assistance in the turning of water into the irrigating ditch upon which the crops so largely depended, but he now turned away and went by himself, with a weight at his heart and a shadow upon his brow. If asked the reason for it he might have been slow to admit to anyone else that it was called there by a consciousness of neglect of duty, but the fact was very plain to himself. "Just a stepmother. If Caleb thinks it's a matter of 'ought to' write to her he'd do if he had a mother and a father and a sister. Heigho! I didn't expect to be gone three years when I got mad and quit."

In the early springtime James had been seized with a spasm of remorse at his long, cruel neglect of those who loved him, to whom he was so much and to whom he realized he owed it to be such comfort.

"I'll write. And some day I'll go back and do my best by 'em." He did write, his letter carrying all the joy which may be imagined into the old farmhouse. Father and mother had answered, the sight of their poor cramped handwriting bringing tears to the eyes of the wandering son. And Susan had written:

"Father says he'll never miss driving in to the post office on the days that a letter could get here after your mail day. And mother stands at the gate watching for him to come back."

It had reached his heart and spurred him up to writing quite regularly for awhile. Then the intervals between his letters had grown longer, and now for weeks he had not written. Passing later again near Caleb's rough library he paused with half a Susy. smile. The sun-tanned, freckled face was now, in the throes of an effort to accomplish a fine-looking address to his letter, drawn into a series of knots and wrinkles astonishing to behold. All of a sudden they relaxed into a smile of pride and delight as he held up and contemplated the scraggy result of his efforts. "I'd rather plow all day," he said, meeting James' gaze with a beaming eye. "Yes, I would. I always feel as father and Susy, why, all you can do is to send though I'd tackled a big job and got me away again."

"Yes, and I remember exactly how she looked when she whipped me, and how she would come to me ten minutes afterwards crying and begging me never to make her do it again. Poor mother," with a remorseful smile, "she didn't give it to me half hard enough."

"I wonder how she looks now." The thought came with a sharp pang. It had never before occurred to him to wonder whether his mother had changed in these years in which he had not seen her. The line of thought once struck seemed to lead on without his own volition. It must be that the anguish of his abrupt leave-taking, the anxiety for his welfare and the longing for a sight of him during this weary time had written deep lines upon the patient face.

"There's Caleb back." James sprang up as if in glad escape from the heavy thoughts as the distant beat of hoofs in him, I believe."

there is nothing more heroic than the persistent standing by the duties, small | three places. or great, of every day life.

plexed at the utter lack of result to all his applied remedies. "There isn't so much the matter with her-only a lack of vitality. Nothing seems to touch it."

He sat with a helpless, baffled look, During the latter weeks Susan had stolen out on Tuesday for a little season of wistful watching for the longedfor letter which had never come. But to-day she sat still, weighed down by the burden of dread of what might be, scarcely hearing the slow rumble of the wagon as father drove along the lane. A few moments later he appeared at the door and held up a letter before Susan's eyes. She forgot her caution in a glad spring towards him.

"A letter! A letter from James!" She controlled her voice to a whisper, but mother had been stirred from her half-stupor, and had opened her eyes. The doctor was watching her. "Read it," he said, motioning Susan to the seat at her mother's side. "DEAR MOTHER: I've been thinking to-night how long it is since I left home. I never thought it would be so long, really I didn't, when I got into a pet and came off. And if I've won-dered once why I did it I've wondered a thousand times, for I haven't in all these three years seen any place that was quite up to nome. When the people once thoroughly undertand that in securing good roads they are adding to their wealth, comfort, and happiness there will be an era of roadmaking in the United States such as has never been witnessed on so immense a scale since the days of the Romans. The national government once undertook this work, and had it not been for the invention of the railroads the country roads of the United States would now probably be among the best in the world. But the railroads can never supply the place of good wagon roads, and the development of a system of good roads in any state will demonstrate that fact so clearly that the example would soon be followed by other states.
