January begins the year and looks both ways—toward the year just past and that just coming. It was therefore named by the Romans for their god of war, Janus, called Janus Bifrons, which may be freely translated "Holy Two front." Originally four preceeding were named from Septem, Octo, Novem and Decem, as they then were the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth months. In 1880 there were 25,000 convicts in prisons and on ticket of leave in England, says the Boston Transcript; but now there are less than 12,000. This reduction, it is asserted, has been accomplished by shipment of criminals to this country, which are carried on through discharged prisoners' aid societies that purchase tickets and outfits for those to be deported, the government paying the expense. It is further stated that judges often suspend sentence on condition that the person convicted shall go at once to the United States. Here is a subject for the investigation of our government.

GRAVE CHARGES.

They Are Brought Against Archbishop Corrigan by Archbishop Ireland.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Formal charges of the gravest character have been pre-ferred against Archbishop Corrigan by a brother prelate. He is accused by Archbishop Ireland of having engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to weaken or undo the effect of the pope's decisions in respect to church matters in America, and of having had recourse to methods unbecoming a bishop, designed to discredit and disgrace Archbishop Ireland and Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to America. These charges, duly formulated, are now on their way to Rome, where they will be presented to the highest tribunal in the Catholic That tribunal has power to pass upon the accusations and to fix the punishment of the accused if they be sustained. The whole world will eagerly await the decision, for both prelates, the accuser and the accused, have long filled the most conspicuous positions in the American hierarchy. Their differences of opinion have been matter of public rumor for years. Each has very generally been considered as an object of the pope's favorable regard in respect of the new American cardinalate which it is said will be conferred at the approaching jubilee. If Archbishop Corrigan be found guilty as charged his fate as well as the future of the great province of New York, over which he has so long presided, will become the object of eager surmise. Should the charges fail, the consequences can scarcely be less serious to Archbishop Ireland. Nor will the consequences in either case be limited to the provinces of New York and St. Paul. The differences between Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop Corrigan are of long standing. They date back to the time when the prelate of St. Paul took active part with Cardinal Gibbons in antagonizing Archbishop Corrigan's representations to the vatican on the question of excommunicating the Knights of Labor. This was about five years ago, and since that time Archbishop Corrigan has scarcely made a pretense of perfect accord with either Cardinal Gibbons or Archbishop Ireland. Nor have these prelates taken pains to profess unreserved friendship for his grace of New York. Lat-P. Baldwin died at his home in Detroit, terly the difference has been accentuated by the disputes over Cahenslyism and more especially over Archbishop Ireland's famous "Faribault plan" of education. During this latter phase of the quarrel nearly the whole Roman Catholic church in America has been divided between the Corrigan camp and the Ireland camp.

The partners of Archbishop Corrigan in the conspiracy now alleged are priests of his immediate entourage, notably Father Michael Joseph Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's cathedral, who is expressly named in the charges as a conspirator, and possibly Father Gerardo Ferante, Archbishop Corrigan's Italian secretary. If the charges have been interpreted aright, Archbishop Corrigan's accusers will try to prove the existence of a conspiracy, of which New York is the center, and which extends Ex-Gov. Blair thus replied to the in numerous ramifications throughout America, France and Italy. At a meeting held in New York last October, at which Mgr. Satolli was present, peace was thought to have been established between Archbishops Corrigan and Ireland, but the apparent triumph of Archbishop Ireland is said to have rekindled the old bitterness between the two priests.

The secular press began to teem with letters containing damaging statements about Archbishop Ireland, which are said to have emanated from Archbishop Corrigan's friends. When Dr. McGlynn was restored by Mgr. Satolli a few days ago the storm of indignation reached its climax. The daily papers in all parts of the country gave circulation to the most unreserved criticisms and inuendoes bearing with no L. M. Hill, of Newaygo, prominent light touch upon Archbishop Ireland and Mgr. Satolli. Upon such evidence as this Archbishop Ireland arrived at the conclusion that he and Mgr. Satolli were the target of a secret, skillful and far-reaching propaganda.

Among the evidences of the supposed conspiracy was the discovery of an attempt made by Archbishop Corrigan to have published in carefully selected pa-The Iron Valley mine at Negaunee pers throughout the west an artian attempt was made to belittle Upwards of 1,000 pounds weight of the aims of Mgr. Satolli and the school question. There were such influences as they have to protest against the "unfortunate influence obtained by Archbishop Ireland at Rome" and against Mgr. Satolli's "interference in American Catholic affairs" which is described as "offensive and annoying."

Rome, Jan. 9.-The vatican has caused an inquiry to be made into the tion to the Satolli mission. The pope holds absolutely to his policy that ecclesiastical affairs in the United States shall develop themselves along moderate lines and in a spirit of harmony with the institutions of the United States. From official sources it is learned that all the archbishops who took part in the New York conference have affirmed the fourteen scholastic proposals which Mgr. Satolli placed before them in the name of the pope.

RIDING A BUFFALO.

by Getting Into Another.

Twenty-five years ago, in the fall of 1867, I was traveling on horseback over the plains, my objective point being a small mining camp near where the city of Deadwood now stands. I had been on a prospecting tour two hundred miles to the northwest, and was yet about one hundred miles from am about to relate occurred. It was a dreary November afternoon, and the clouds threatened a heavy fall of snow. It was about two o'clock, and I was making for an uninhabited hut fifteen miles away, where I knew I could find shelter for myself and horse for

I was riding along feeling perfectly sound broke upon my ears. I was not long in doubt, however, for on glancing back along the road I beheld about a Globe Democrat. mile away something fast approaching that looked like a black cloud moving rapidly along close to the ground. From what I had heard I knew at once that I was being pursued by a halffamished pack of black wolves, and that if I could not reach the cabin myself and horse would be torn to pieces by the ravenous creatures. I lost no time in putting spurs to my horse for a race to the death. The animal caught the alarm and needed no urging to make him do his best. For a few miles the brave horse did noble work and the merciless pursuers failed to gain upon us, but it soon became evident that the horse could not keep up the gait and that the wolves were sure to overtake us before we could arrive within five miles of the log hut.

On we went, but soon the speed of my horse began to slacken, and the wolves were slowly closing the gap. My mind was intensely busy with the problem of what was best to be done. It occurred to me that my only chance was to abandon the faithful animal and rush ahead on foot while the wolves chance of escape, and, like the drowning man, I caught at the only straw

My horse sank down on the roadside as soon as I ceased to spur him forward, and I dashed along on foot, seeing that my two pistols were ready for horse they pounced upon him, as I had anticipated, and snapped and snarled and fought like demons over the choicest portions of their feast. While Soon I heard the ominous sound that enough to kill four in as many shots. Then I rushed forward, and gained some distance before they devoured the dead, and again started in pursuit. Again I fully four miles to the longed-for hut, and I began to feel that the contest was too unequal, and that I might as well give up the struggle first as last. The running fight was kept up for a mile or two more, when I was suddenly relieved from all danger from the wolves, but threatened by another fully as horrible. I had halted and turned for the purpose of firing another fusillade at my releutless enemies, when the whole pack suddenly stopped and stood for fully a minute in a listening attitude. From the west came a sound resembling distant thunder, and great clouds of dust were rising not far away, obscuring the western view. The wolves appeared to thoroughly understand what caused the ominous sounds and clouds of dust, for they gave one frantic howl over being deprived of their expected prey, and then darted madly away to the northward. At first I felt as if I had been delivered by the hands of a special providence, but was not long in discovering that I was still in the greatest of peril, and had not one chance in a thousand of escaping a tender, etherealized the terrible death. That which caused the the gaming table no longer cudgels his lance of the plains as "a buffale stampede." No one has ever explained whatever caused a herd now and then to become suddenly frightened and in almost one solid mass rush madly away, never stopping until they were completely worn out. In these steeps with the grieved look about his sorrow and the little drops beading his completely worn out. In those stampedes the maddened animals would keep up a snorting and bellowing, creating a scene that could be compared to nothing but pandemonium. No living thing ever escaped being trampled into a shapeless mass that happened to be in front of them. Even the wolves that followed me with such dogged purpose understood the danger I had given myself up for lost, for I was near the center line of the apoaching herd, and it would have within a hundred yards of me when I sleep which has no dreams. Alice Macwithin a hundred yards of me when I sleep which has no dreams. Alice Macsleep which has no dreams. Alice Macgowan, in Short Stories denly saw one single chance for eacape and resolved upon making the attempt, although the odds were against me a thousand to one. Not far away there was a little mound some three or four feet high, and to this I ran and stood on top of it. The desire to live nerved me to almost superhuman ef-fort, and as the fleeing animals rushed upon me I riveted my eyes upon the shaggy shoulders of the monster bull and made the leap for life.

I landed square upon the spot I had selected on the animal's back, but would have fallen beneath his feet and been at once trampled to death had I not seized hold of the long hair of his shoulders and stendled myself until I could straddle his back. I held on to his mane for dear life, and no doubt I am the only man that ever rode or will ever ride such a race. On, on we dashed with the speed of the wind, and many miles were covered before the animals were exhausted. My unwilling steed attempted to shake me off, but I had no idea of being thrown after I had been so lucky in A Traveler Escapes One Danger mounting him. They came to a halt about sundown on the verge of a forest, and the animal I was riding stopped under a tree the limbs of which I could reach from my position upon his back. I climbed into the tree and there I spent the night. The next morning there were no buffaloes or wolves in sight and I started toward my destination on foot. During the day I met some prospectors who were my destination, when the adventure I going in the same direction as myself, and the next day I reached the camp safe and well. It was Thanksgiving day, and my friends in camp had killed several wild turkeys and were having a dinner, such as they were accustomed to back in the states. I can truly say that no one ever felt more thankful than I did that I was there to enjoy a feast instead of having been safe in that wilderness when a strange torn to pieces by the wolves or trampled to death beneath the feet of five thousand panic-stricken buffaloes .-

MICHIGAN LEGISLATURE.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 5.—Both branches of the legislature convened at noon yesterday and organized for business. W. A. Taterum, of Grand Rapids, was chosen speaker of the house. The only other business iransacted was the action of Senator Weiss in giving notice of the introduction at some future day of a bill to repeal the Miner electoral law.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 6.-In the senate yesterday Weiss introduced his bill for the repeal of the Miner election law. In the house notice was given of the introduction of a bill to prohibit the granting of free railroad passes to members of the legislature and to state officers. In joint session a resolution of condoleuce to Hon James (1988) Holling session a resolution of condoleuce to Hou. James G. Blaine was unanimously adopted. A concurrent resolution was adopted providing for an adjournment until Tuesday, January 10, to enable the presiding officers to arrange their committees.

The two houses met in joint convention in the afternoon to witness the inauguration of Gov. Rich and to listen to the mesages of the outgoing and incoming governors.

The republican senatorial caucus renominated F. B. Stockbridge for United States senator. The vote was: Francis B. Stockbridge, 46; Cyrus G. Luce, 20: Jay A. Hubbell, 9: William. Hartsuff, 4: John C. Fitzgerald, 1: Byron Mc-Cutcheon, 1; Jonathan G. Ramsdell, 2; O. L. Spaulding, 2; James O'Donnell, 1.

RESCUED.

After Being Imprisoned in a Russian Mine for Ten Days Eight Men Are Snatched from the Very Jaws of Death. St. Petersbure, Jan. 5.—Ten days ago a mine on the line of the Lonetz railway was flooded by the sudden ingress of a large volume of water. The miners had set off a blast and the explosion was followed by a rush of water that the pumps were not able to cope with. The miners fled for their lives, and all managed to reach the surface in safety, except eight men who, it was supposed, had been drowned in the workings. The pumps were kept going night and day, and after a week they began to work on the water. At 7 a. m. the mine was declared safe to enter and a party of miners went down to rescue the bodies of their comrades. They searched the main galleries, but found no trace of them. Finally in a steep working that had been abandoned a long time ago, they almost stumbled over the men, who, it appears, had made for this point when they found escape by means of the shaft cut off. They were still alive, but had their rescue been delayed for a few hours more, they would have died of starvation. For the entire ten days they had been without a morsel of food, and they were so weak that they could hardly speak. They were removed to the surface as quickly as possible. Medical aid was summoned and stimulants in very small quantities were given to them, after which they were allowed a little soup. The physicians state that with extreme care the eight men will re-

SANTA ROSALIE, Mex., Jan. 5 .- Elder John Stuart, of Salt Lake, who has obgovernment for the establishment of a Mormon colony here, has ing about 100 people. This is the first installment, as the colony is expected to comprise 3,000 persons. The concession is in the shape of land at a nominal cost and exemption of industries and manufactures from tax by the city, the state of Chihuahua and the national government for ten years. Despite reports to the contrary, nothing is stipulated in the concession with reference to the practice of polygamy. Mexico being a country of religious freedom the colonists will be allowed to practice their religion as they see fit.

WE TELL YOU

nothing new when we state that it pays to engage in a permanent, most healthy and pleasant business, that returns a profit for every day's work. Such is the business we offer the working class. We teach them how to make money rapidly, and guarantee every one who follows our instructions faithfully the making of $300.00 a month.

Every one who takes hold now and works will surely and speedily increase their earnings; there can be no question about it; others now at work are doing it, and you, reader, can do the same. This is the best paying business that you have ever had the chance to secure. You will make a grave mistake if you fall to give it a trial at once. If you grasp the situation, and act quickly, you will directly find yourself in a most prosperous business, at which you can surely make and save large sums of money. The results of only a few hours' work will often equal a week's wages. Whether you are old or young, man or woman, it makes no difference,—do as we tell you, and success will meet you at the very start. Neither experience or capital necessary. Those who work for us are rewarded. Why not write to-day for full particulars, free? E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
