It is too early in the history of the new industry to tell of its comparative cost.

THERE has been a great yearly diminution during the last ten years in the number of soldiers in military or civil prisons in England and Wales. In 1884 there were 1,117 soldiers in English prisons; in 1891 there were 433; and on the 31st of last December there were but 44. Last year not one soldier was sentenced to penal servitude. The expulsions for misconduct have decreased since 1888 from 2,020 to 1,590.

THE number of deaths among millionaires during the past few months must have struck even the careless observer. Most of these dead millionaires, too, had not reached the Biblical age of threescore and ten. One would think that with great wealth would come the power to purchase such skillful cooks and doctors-we put cooks first advisedly-that millionaires' lives would be prolonged far beyond 70. Not so -- they do not live as long as MASSACHUSETTS can be depended upon to furnish attorney generals to order. Mr. Olney makes the sixth that the Bay state has contributed since the organization of the government. They are Theophilus Parsons, Levi Lincoln, Caleb Cushing, Ebenezer R. Hoar, Charles Devens and the present Mr. Olney. Pennsylvania has also furnished six, viz : William Bradford, Richard Rush, Henry D. Gilpin, Jeremiah S. Black, Wayne MacVeagh and Benjamin H. Brewster. Since the organization of the government there have been forty attorney generals.

A NEWSPAPER in Boston reports the result of a practical test with a chemical preparation to be sprayed over soft coal, which is then fed into the furnace in the usual manner. The coal becomes absolutely smokeless in the offensive sense of the term. Some white smoke passes out of the chimney, but it is a consequence of perfect combustion. It is said that the coal so treated burns better and lasts longer than without the use of the chemical, besides which it is a disinfectant, and the cost of treatment is very small. As it is the invention of a practical gas man, there may be something in it.

It is an acknowledged fact that a great age is attained by women oftener than by men. Tissot, with doubtful gallantry, accounts for this by declar-ing that the large amount of talking for which women are famous is a very healthy exercise and promotes the circulation of the blood without over-exerting the organs. Another reason given is the quieter and more regular life led by women, whose nervous system and brains are consequently not worn out so quickly as those of men. The talking theory, however, is a cheerful one to take, and may be lived up to with as little sacrifice as any.

IF luxury goes on increasing, fortunes will have to do likewise, for even now, in order to be in the swim, women, and men, also, must spend for their clothing alone sums which twenty-five years ago would have more than amply sufficed to keep a big family in comfort Glance at the increase of exfiture during the last few years on h dress. Not long ago $5,000 a year would have been considered fit pin for a countess, but now a smartly-dressed woman will not keep out of debt on such a dress allowance. And this is but an incidental, every-thing else being in keeping with it.

GROVER IN CHARGE.

President Cleveland Takes the Oath of Office.

The Ceremonies Marred by a Sawstor

—A Magnificent Parade and a Gorgeous Ball—Full Text of the Inaugural Address.

WASHINGTON, March & —Grover Cleveland, of New York, thrice nominated for president of the United States and twice elected, has again been inducted into that high office for his second term, with all appropriate ceremonies and the gathering of a mighty multitude, and with the accompaniment of a blinding snow-storm.

Many Did Not March.

Had the atmospheric conditions been any-ing like favorable, instead of being as bad as ild possibly be, there would probably have in 60,000 men and a number of ladies march or riding in the parade, against 25,000 in 5. They were all here waiting to fail in line by the vast attendance.
Scenes Along the Line of March.

The scene along the Line of March.

The scene along the line of march was such as no city but Washington and no street but the broad, well-paved Pennsylvania avenue could produce. The public and private stands erected along the line of march from the capitol to a point beyond the white house had an estimated scating capacity of 60,000 persons. Every foot of standing room along the route of the procession, fully 2 miles in length, was occupied: windows commanding a view of the parade brought fabulous prices, and advantageous scats on the ulous prices, and advantageous seats on the public stands commanded prices ranging from five dollars up and down.

The Reviewing Stand. The main stand from which President Cleve land reviewed the parade was erected immediately in front of the white house. It was deco rated with effective taste. In the center was an arch 42 feet high, handsomely draped and sur-mounted by the arms of the United States. On the extreme right was the coat of arms of New ident Stevenson's state), and between them were displayed the armorial bear-ings of the other members of the thirteen original states. Cushloned thirteen original states. Cushloned seats were provided for the president and his cabinet, who surrounded him: and folding chairs were supplied for the diplomatic corps, who were arranged immediately behind him. On both sides were seats for senators, mem-bers of the house of representatives and specially-invited guests.

Was an Imposing Parade. Capitol hill, far as the eye could reach from the eastern front of the capitol, was an un-dulating sea of humanity, assembled to witness the administering of the oath of office to the new president by the chief justice of the United States and to hear, as many of them as could get within ear shot, the inaugural address.

The parade was greater in numbers and more imposing in military and civic display than that of any previous inauguration. Gen. Martin F. McMahon, of New York, the grand marshal, in New York city last October so successful. He was ably assisted by his adjutant general, Col. N. C. Corbin, United States army. The Military.

GRAND MARSHAL M'MAHON. made his management of the Columbian parade

The escorting division, composed of artillery, cavalry and infantry of the regular army, assembled in the neighborhood of the white house and the war, state and navy buildings, and formed in columns of sections of twelve each, promptly at 10:30. They marched down the avenue, accompanying the presidential party from the white house to the capitol prior to the inauguration. All the rest of the parade assembled below the capitol and marched from the capitol 2 miles up the avenue after the inauguration ceremonies were over and disbanded at the Washington circle. Civil Organizations.

The civic procession, under the marshalship of Col. William Dickson, was in six divisions, and aggregated more than 20,000 men, and quite a noticeable dash of lady equestrians. Tammany, with its gorgeous new banners and badges, held the right of line. The second division was assigned to Pennsylvania; Massachusetts, New Jersey and Delaware had the third division: Maryland the fourth; the fifth was the western division, and the sixth was made up of the Incidents of the Parade. A detailed report of the great parade is, of course, impossible, when a mere enumeration of the various regiments, companies, posts and civic organizations participating occupies three newspaper columns. But some of the notes and incidents of the parade are here set down at

Among the magnificently mounted special aides who rode behind Grand Marshal Me-Mahon and Chief of Staff Gen. W. D. Whipple, were representatives from every state and territory in the union. The guard of honor of President Cleveland consisted of 10) members of the New York Business Men's Cleveland and of the New York Business Men's Cleveland and Stevenson association.

A feature distinctively novel was introduced into the parade by the engineering corps. This was the releasing of a number of carrier pigeons with messages relating to the success of the inauguration, destincd for Philadelphia, Baltimore, Annapolis and other points. Still another military feature and other points. Still another military feature was afforded by the military bicycle company, who, mounted upon their wheels, and at the same time handling their small arms with dex-terity, gave proof that this innovation in mili-tary tactics lacked nothing of success. White House to Capitol.

White House to Capitol.

At 10:30, at the sound of the long-roll beaten by drummers stationed in the little park in front of the white house, the presidential party of the second started on their journey from the white house to the capitol. There was a wild huzza from a thousand throats as the carriage bearing the president and president-elect came out going to the rooms reserved for them the president and president led the way on the aff. cheer greeted the appearance of Vice President-elect Stevenson. The members of President Harrison's cabinet, Major-Gen. Schofield, commanding the army, and the senior admiral of the navy followed in the order named, and the Second brigade of the Second division brought up the rear.

It was a splendid procession, too, with more than $0,000 democrats in line. Nothing like it has ever been seen in Washington, so the oldest inhabitant said. Not even the famous review of the returning victorious army of Grant exceeded the pageant. It was somewhat heteroneous, to be sure, but it was impressive of the American people than any merely mili-tary columns could have been. It included regi-

of regular United States troops cavalry, infantry and artillery, led by the veteran Scofield, commander-in-chief of the federal army. Then there came detachments of marines, companies of cadets from the naval school and embryo warriors from West Point. To these succeeded the armed forces of the sovereign states, from New York, New Jersey, Georgia, Massachu-setts, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Wisconsin and Louisiana, companies or regiments of the citizen soldiery, well named the national guard, Besides this pomp of war and glitter and gold braid and dazzle of gilded epaulets the black costumes of the civic organizations looked tame. But the political clubs were as truly representative of the nation as were the uniformed men, and their absence would have detracted from the character of the procession. There were hundreds of these clubs. They came from many states of the union and celebrate the culminat-

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland left the ball-room shortly before 10:30 o'clock. Must Be Watchful.

"While every American citizen must contemplate with the utmost pride and enthusiasm the growth and expansion of our country, the sufficiency of our institutions to stand against the rudest shocks of violence, the wonderful thrift and enterprise of our people, and the demonstrated superiority of our free government, it behooves us to constantly watch for every symptom of insidious infirmity that threatens our national vigor. The strong man who, in the confidence of sturdy health, courts the sternest activities of life and rejoices in the hardihood of constant labor, may still have lurking near his vitals the unheeded disease that dooms him to sudden collapse. It cannot be doubted that our stupendous achievements as a people and our country's robust strength have given rise to a heedlessness of those laws governing our national health which we can no more evade than human life can escape the laws of God and nature. Arriving at the capitol the soldiers and civilians formed in the streets radiating from the grounds and awaited the time of marching.

Will Maintain Our Credit.

"Manifestly nothing is more vital to our supremecy as a nation and to the beneficent purposes of our government, than a sound and stable currency. Its exposure to degradation should at once arouse to activity the most enlightened statesmanship: and the danger of depreciation in the purchasing power of the wages paid to toil should furnish the strongest incontive to prompt and conservative action.

"In dealing with our present embarrassing situation, as related to this subject, we will be wise if we temper our confidence and faith in our national strength and resources with the

The place which was assigned was on Delaware avenue directly in line with the platform on which stood President Cleveland when he took the oath of office. Patiently the troops and marching clubs waited. At last the inaugural ceremonies were over. The new president had finished his address, the senators, representatives and diplomates formed From the west side of the capitol a single gun thundered the welcome signal to start. The Retura.

There was clanking of swords and grasping of gune and hoisting of banners and general "dressing up" of the ranks. Slowly at first and then more swiftly the column of 50,000 men moved to the blare and rumble of bugle and drum from 100 bands Down the broad, long reach of Pennsyl vania avenue it swept and on and up the ascent o the white house, where it passed in review pefore the president, ex-president and the dignitaries of the nation and of foreign lands. few blocks further west, to Washingon circle, it moved and then disintegrated. All along this route, about a mile nd a half, the way was lined with humanity. At any available point stands had been erected and in these thousands of persons were seated. Other thousands stood on streets or sidewalk and watched the civic-military pageant sweep by. It was a splendid parade, well planned and efficiently accomplished. The Ball.

The inaugural ball was held at night in the spacious hall of the pension building. The decorations were the most elaborate in the history of affairs of its kind. Those in attendance umbered fully 10,000. The Marine band at

"I am confident that such an approach to the subject will result in prudent and effective remedial legislation. In the meantime, so far as the executive branch of the government can intervene, none of the powers with which it is invested will be withheld, when their exercise is deemed necessary to maintain our na-tional credit or avert financial disaster. Dangers of Paternalism.

"Closely related to the exaggerated confidence in our country's greatness which tends to a disregard of the rules of national safety, another danger confronts us not less serious. I refer to the prevalence of a popular disposition to expect from the operation of the government especial and direct individual advantages. The verdict of our voters, which condemned the injustice of maintaining protection for protection's aske, engines upon the neonle's servertice tion's aske, engines upon the neonle's servertice the servertice of the serv tection's sake, enjoins upon the people's serv-ants the duty of exposing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwholesome progeny of paternalism.

"This is the bane of republican institutions and the constant peril of our government by the people. It degrades to the purposes of wily craft the plan of rule our fathers established the people. It degrades to the purposes of wily craft the plan of rule our fathers established and bequeathed to us as an object of our love and veneration. It perverts the patriotic sentiment of our countrymen and tempts them to a pitiful calculation of the sordid gain to be derived from their government's maintenance. It undermines the self-reliance of our people and substitutes in its place dependence upon governmental favoritism. It stifles the spirit of true Americanism and stupelies every ennobiling trait of American citizenship.

"The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lesson taught that, while the people should patriotically and cheerfully support their government, its functions do not include the support of the people.

"The acceptance of this principle leads to a refusal of bounties and subsidies, which burden the labor and thrift of a portion of our citizens to aid ill-advised or languishing enterprises in which they have no concern. It leads also to a challenge of wild and reckless pension expenditure, which overleaps the bounds of grateful recognition of putriotic service and prostitutes to vicious uses the people's prompt and generous impulse to aid those disabled in their country's defense.

Economy and Frugality.

Economy and Frugality.

"Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking at its beginning any iendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virtues which we may safely outgrow. The toleration of this idea results in the waste of the people's money by their chosen servants and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen. Under our scheme of government the waste of public money is a crime against the citizen; and the contempt of our people for conomy and frugality in their personal affairs deplorably saps the strongth and sturdiness of our national character. Economy and Frugality.

deplorably saps the strength and sturdiness of our national character.

"It is a plain dictate of bonesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public accessity, and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy; and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guaranty of a contented and strong support of free institutions.

Civil Service Reform.

"These aggregations and combinations if quently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and in all their phases they are unnatural and opposed to our American sense of fairness. To the extent that they can be reached and restrained by federal power, the general government should relieve our citizens from their interference and exactions.

Equal Rights

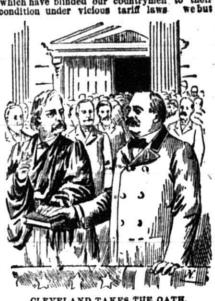

"Loyalty to the principles upon which our government rests positively demands that the equality before the law which it guarantees to every citizen should be justly and in good faith conceded in all parts of the land. The enjoyment of this right follows the badge of citizenship wherever found, and, unimpaired by race or color, it appeals for recognition to American manliness and fairness.

Tariff Reform.

"The people of the United States have decreed that en this day the control of their government in its legislative and executive branches shall be given to a political party pledged in the most positive terms to the accomplishment of tariff reform. They have thus determined in favor of a more just and equitable system of federal taxation. The agents they have chosen to carry out their purposes are bound by their promises not less than by the command of their masters, to devote themselves unremittingly to this service.

DEAR MR. CONGREVE:—As a rule I have no faith in advertised remedies; but it must now be some twenty-five years since first I saw in the person of one of my students the effects of your remedy. He seemed at death's door, but he lives now, a strong, hearty man. Since then I have seen in many, very many instances, the most happy results following your medicine. I do not go by hearsay, but I testify to what I have seen with my own eyes. I believe that you have saved numbers from Consumption. I have friends with coughs and weak lungs, who speak of your medicine with sincere gratitude. Personally, I find it most useful in the case of wearing cough. Very reductantly do I give testimonials for publication; but I send you this as your due. What I have seen of God's healing power through you, demands of me that I speak for the good of others. I have those around no whose health I value, and they are living witnesses that yours is a very beneficial preparation.

Both houses assembled last evening in joint session to do honor to the memories of ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes and ex-Gov. H. P. Baldwin. Lieut. Gov. Monday night $15,000 had been recovered, and Tuesday morning a pot containing $5,000 in gold was dug up in the cellar. It is not known whether the gold belonged to John or Tom. Another mystery was cleared up Tuesday. A certificate for the deposit of $7,500 on a Pontiae bank was found. It was the money received by the sale of John's farm. The relatives have not yet searched for the money which is believed to be hidden under a Pontiac crosswalk. Instead of the hopeful, energetic man I once was, I became a misanthrope, avoided the society of my fellow men and became a stranded hulk in Pauper alley.
