Memorial Day.

The observance of Memorial Day in Chelsea was attended with unusually appropriate and interesting services, and never have the preparations for the occasion been more judiciously arranged and followed out.

The occasion is one from which now much of the element of sadness has been eliminated, but there is still manifested a hearty appreciation of the illustrious services rendered by the soldier dead; a never flagging inclination to pay, each successive year, a tribute to the memory of those whose lives were given to their country and its causes, but the keen edge of grievous sorrow has been worn by time, that healer of all wounds, and there enters now only the more subdued feeling of grateful honor and reverent memory.

Like the wind from the different points of the compass the public days come and go. In the morning the national flags are raised to announce the incoming of some festive day and at night it goes down to await the coming of another. And so life moves on, on in about the same plane with its varying shades of sorrow, disappointments and sufferings, and the joys and happiness with occasional brilliant episodes of life. Thus we find ourselves rising and falling, like the tides of the Ocean.

Tuesday dawned bright and pleasant, an ideal Memorial Day. The recent rains had laid the dust and enlivened the verdure until all nature appeared attired in her best garb. The temperature of the atmosphere was just right, neither too warm nor too cool.

Before the hour appointed for the services of the day a large number of people from the village and outlying districts had assembled on our streets.

About two o'clock the line of march was formed on West Middle street in the order noted heretofore in the HERALD, and the procession moved east on Middle street to Oak Grove Cemetery, where the Memorial services were held.

Rev. Washington Gardner's oration was one of the finest literary productions ever given here on a similar occasion, being filled, from beginning to end, with noble and patriotic thoughts, in fact just such an address as the people had a right to expect from a man of the character and ability of Washington Gardner. After Mr. Gardner had concluded his address, Rev. B. I. Ives, of York State, followed with a few remarks, which were very fitting for the occasion.

After the address then followed the strewing of flowers, after which the benediction was pronounced and a salute to the dead was fired by the detachment from the post.

The Day We Celebrate.

Memorial Day is a day of tender and tragic memories. Tears and triumph, rejoicings and regrets are strangely blended in our thought and feeling. The garlanded graves of our heroic dead stir within us both gratitude and grief. Memorial day is the nation's festival of patriotism. In this respect it has largely taken the place of the Fourth of July, and will never cease to be observed and celebrated so long as American patriotism survives. Its heroic traditions have entered into the national consciousness. They are embalmed in song, story and drama. They are immortalized by poetry, romance and eloquence, and have enriched and ennobled our national literature and life.

The ranks of the Union Veterans as they march through our streets each year will grow thinner. While "of the dead no heaps are forming," still the "silent majority" is being steadily reinforced from the straggling survivors, whose diminishing numbers can never be increased. Their annual march to the graves of their dead comrades appeals to us with an ever increasing pathos.

Makes Life More Enjoyable.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Gentlemen—It affords me pleasure to give you a recommendation for Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root of which I have taken 3 small bottles. It has nearly removed the effect of the Rheumatism of about 7 years standing, also a severe weakness of my back and kidneys of about 10 years standing, and has helped a severe attack of inflammation of the bladder, which I am sure Swamp-Root will entirely cure me of in a short time.

I purchased the medicine of S. G. Stone the Druggist here in Butler, Ind. March, 7, '93.

RHEUMATISM! RHEUMATISM! Swamp-Root Cures.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. For the past twenty years I have been troubled with Rheumatism and doctored a great deal without realizing any benefit.

Two years ago my attention was called to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which was highly recommended to me. I thought I would try a bottle and I used fourteen bottles and it has done me more good than all the Doctors and all the other medicines I had ever taken in the past twenty years. The past year has been one of comfort in place of suffering. A great many are using your Swamp-Root in Van Wert.

Yours respectfully, Mrs. CALVIN FARLEY, Van Wert, Ohio.

AUNT JEMIMA'S QUILT.

A miracle of gleaming dyes,
Blue, scarlet, buff and green;
One'er before by mortal eyes
Such gorgeous hues were seen
So grandly was its plan designed,
So cunningly 'twas built,
The whole proclaimed a master mind—
My Aunt Jemima's quilt.

Each friendly household far and wide Contributed its share;
It clothed the country side
In colors quaint and rare.
From belles and brides came rich brocade
Enwrought with threads of gilt;
Even busom widows lent their aid
To Aunt Jemima's quilt.

No tapestry from days of yore,
No web from Orient loom,
But piled in beautiful tints before
This strange expanse of bloom.
Here glittering stars and comets shone
O'er flowers that never wilt;
Here fluttered birds from worlds unknown
On Aunt Jemima's quilt.

O, merry was the quilting bee,
When this great quilt was done;
The rafters rang with merriment,
And hearts were lost and won.
Ne'er did a throng of braver men
In war clash blit to hit,
Than sought the smiles of beauty then Round Aunt Jemima's quilt.

This work of art my aunt esteemed
The glory of the age;
No poet's eyes have ever beamed
More proudly o'er his page.
Her other quilts to this compared,
Her nose would upward tilt;
Such impudence was seldom dared O'er Aunt Jemima's quilt.

Her dear old hands have gone to dust,
That once were lithe and light;
Her needles keen are thick with rust,
That flashed so nimbly bright.
And here it lies by her behest,
Stained with the tears we split,
Safe folded in this cedar chest—
My Aunt Jemima's quilt.

A SNAKE BITE CURE.

The Old Settler Tells of Its Wonderful Effects.

"Great spooks!" exclaimed the squire, looking up from the paper he was reading and keeping his finger on the place. "Twenty thousand! What do you think of that, major? Twenty thousand folks dyin' from snakes in one year!"

"What do I think on it?" said the Old Settler. "Well, I think them folks must 'a' took their applejack pooty durn new, 'b'gosh, an' a leetle too often!"

"Applejack!" said the squire, glancing at the Old Settler. "Applejack hain't got nuthin' to do with it! These folks was bit."

"Bit, was they?" responded the Old Settler. "Well, tha hain't nuthin' that kin bite wus th'n new applejack, squire. I've know'd it to be sharper'n a serpent's tooth. But who were tellin' ye 'bout all them folks dyin' from snake bites? That's a good many folks, squire. It over a leetle keeful of yer fingers when ye set out to peddle facts."

"Why, consarn it!" exclaimed the squire, "here it is, right here in the paper! The paper says that last year tha was twenty thousand folks died in Injy from snake bites!"

"In Injy, hay?" said the Old Settler. "Why, I didn't hev no kind an idee that the serpent had got ez much of a foothold on Injy's coral strand ez all that! Humph! I must tell M'riar 'bout that, an' tha'll be a special meetin' of the Clothers o' Them that's Naked an' Feeders o' Them that Hungers called to look inter it. This here won't never do! M'riar must call a meetin' of the Clothers an' Feeders, and the sistern must line the nex' cargo o' red flannel shirts an' secon'-han' pants with leather. I've seen speetin' they was a little too thin to pectect them heathens on Injy's coral strand. An' w'at is the news from Greenlan's icy mountains, squire? How many folks is missin', 'long o' snakes, up there? An' does Afric's sunny fountains send in any returns? Gosh't'mighty! This'll make trouble for my yaller-leg chickens ag'in, w'en this news gits around, fer the Clothers and Feeders alluz stays to supper. W'at's the returns from Afric's sunny fountains, squire?"

The squire folded up his paper, put it in his pocket and gave the Old Settler a withering look, but said nothing. This was plainly disappointing to the Old Settler, but after awhile he resumed the subject.

"Twenty thousand, hay?" said he. "I wisht I know'd the directions o' some leadin' heathen over there an' I'd send him a letter tellin' him 'bout the never-failin' Sugar Swamp cure for snake pison, an' tha wouldn't be no use o' snakes bitin' anybody in that pleasin' kentry any more, fer they'd only waste their pison. If anything ever were a cotion to snakes that Sugar Swamp pison cure were! Gosh't'mighty, how it could draw! An' that were just the trouble with it. It had so much heft to its drawin' powers that the danger were that if it got its hooks onto a feller that had snake pison in him it were liable to kill him while it were curin' him. Pervidin', o' course, that ye wa'n't keeful in usin' on it. The injerpts o' that Sugar Swamp snake pison cure is a secret ez nobody kin ever hev outside o' our family. The perscription were think up by an ancestor o' mine who kin inter Sugar Swamp w'en things was skeerce.

Er'rythin' but b'ar an' snakes. Tha wa'n't but two bar'l' o' apple juice in the hull settlement w'en this ancestor o' mine sot down there, an' folks was comin' in ev'ry day all bit up by snakes, and conselently havin' to be filled up with that juice in a way that were alarmin', that bein' the only snake pison cure ez were reco'nized 'mongst the 'arly settlers o' Sugar Swamp. So this ancestor o' mine he got all worked up over it, seein' the way things was goin' the future were goin' to be very short, ez fur ez life bein' pleasant had anything to do with it, snakes bein so plenty, folks bein' so willin' to be bit an' apple juice bein' so skeerce. So he up an' says:

"It's a durn shame," says he, "to be a wastin' good apples, jist cause folks won't git outen the way o' snakes! This here's got to be stopped. A feller can't hev no show at a toothful of that apple no more, 'less he goes an' gits bit by a snake. Them two bar'l' won't last more'n a month, an' then w'at a we gointer do? I'll think up a snake pison cure, b'gosh, and save the kentry!"

"An' so my ancestor went off an' thunk up a snake pison cure, an' it's main pints was its heft o' drawin' power. It wa'n't a cure ye took in'ardly, but it was clapped onto the place where the snake had socked the pison in, an' that pison mowt better had a millstun 'bout its neck an' jumped inter the sea than ben foolin' round inside o' folks w'en that cure got arter it.

"From all I kin learn, tha were an orful hellabaloo in Sugar Swamp the first time that snake pison cure were used. Sim Jannikin kin a tearin' in one day, and floppin' down in the tavern ez usual, he hollers out:

"'Spooks a spinnin'!" says he. "I'm bit ag'in! Fill me up!"

"Now, this were the third time hand-runnin' that Sim had been bit that mornin', an' it took a pint ev'ry time to skeer the pison outen him. So w'en he kin in this time an' flopped down an' waited for Uncle Noar Tidfit to come a-rushin' out with a bottle an' a tumbler, my ancestor were there, all ready with the snake pison cure he had thunk up, an' he run up to Sim an' says:

"Where'd it bite ye?"

"'Calf o' my leg!" says Sim.

"My ancestor slides Sim's trousers up, an' slaps a handful o' his snake pison cure on the calf o' Sim's leg.

"'Hol' on!" says Sim. "Tha hain't no use of a snake bitin' ye if ye can't hev the Simon-pure cure fer the pison! If I can't be cured reg'lar," says he, "w'at's the use o' runnin' the risk o' snakes?"

"But my ancestor know'd his business, and clapped on the cure he'd thunk up. But he didn't know his business as good as he orter, fer he kep' the pison cure onto Sim a leetle too long, and when he thort the time were up fer it to yank all the pison out o' b'gosh he found that Sim wa'n't no better'n a pig that'd ben stuck, fer the cure had drawed ev'ry durn drop o' blood outen him ez well ez the pison, an' w'at were left o' Sim wa'n't wuth nothin' 'cept to the coroner.

"'Gosh't'mighty!" says my ancestor. "The heft o' this snake pison cure is more amazin' than red eels!" says he.

"But he know'd a thing or two yit an' he clapped another hunk o' the cure onto the back o' Sim's neck, an' in less'n ten seconds it draw'd the hull o' that blood back into Sim ag'in, an' pooty soon Sim got up, an' shakin' his fist at Noar Tidfit, he says:

"I hain't ben treated reg'lar!" says he. "I've ben sot down on in this here tavern! Noar," says he, "if this is to be the upshot o' things, a feller mowt jist ez well go to Ireland," says he, "where tha hain't no snakes!"

"An' then Sim scuffed out o' the tavern, lookin' disap'inted an' down in the mouth. An' the consequences o' that p'scription my ancestor thunk up was, that ez folks got to know it things changed. Where they usety come in more'n a dozen a week to git cured in the ol' fashioned, reg'lar way for snake bites, they fell off so that by an' by tha wa'n't one a month kin in, an' folks took to killin' off snakes ez useless hangers on, an' a 'eumbrance o' the soil. I wonder if we could find any way to interduce that Sugar Swamp snake pison cure over inter Injy, squire?"

"Dunno, major," said the squire. "Seems to me, though, ez if some o' the ol' fashioned, reg'lar cure mowt be interduce a leetle closer by. W'at do ye think about it? Wanter interduce some?"

"Well, sence ye mention it," said the Old Settler, smiling, "I don't keer if I do."—N. Y. Sun.

Not Looking for a Ladie.

Not many years ago, before the "boom" struck southern California, Mr. L., an old New Yorker, had a large ranch near Los Angeles. He was fond of good company and a good dinner, and frequently entertained house parties at the comfortable old-fashioned Mexican hacienda. Among others who made a stay with one of the New York parties was Miss M., although a woman of "uncertain age," she retained much charm of manner, and her quick wit was respected by everyone who came in contact with it. Mr. L. was a jolly bachelor of perhaps forty summers, who had seen much of the world and had a magnetic personality. He was a man of enormous proportions; to some of them, no doubt, encouraged to their growth through his fondness for good things to eat and good wines to cheer the bachelor.

The party was at dinner at the ranch one day. The host, the bachelor, sat at one end of the table and Miss M. was on his left. He had been chatting with her for some time when she asked for a spoon. Mr. L. rose at this, and bowing in his most suave and polite way, said:

"My dear Miss M., won't you take me?"

"Mr. L.," retorted the lady, "I did not ask for a ladie."—N. Y. Tribune.

THE TORNADO.

It Scatters Death and Destruction in Several States—A Number of Lives Lost in Ohio.

CLEVELAND, O., May 24.—A terrible windstorm struck this city at 9 o'clock a. m. Four men were instantly killed and many injured in the numerous casualties. A portion of the plate department of the Cleveland Rolling Mill company, undergoing construction, gave way to the storm with fatal results. There were a number employed on the structure, two of whom were killed instantly, another received injuries which will doubtless prove fatal, and several more were badly injured.

Another casualty caused by the severity of the storm was the destruction of a two-story frame house at the corner of Doan and Superior streets. It was blown down and John Cole buried beneath the debris. When taken out the man was in a terrible condition and death soon followed, after intense suffering.

A scaffold blown from its fastenings by the high wind, seriously and in one case fatally injured four men employed by the Cleveland Gaslight and Coke company.

Dispatches indicate that the entire northwestern portion of the state was swept by the storm. At Findlay the brick building of the Bell Pottery company was partially wrecked, the roof being carried away and one wall crushed in. Two hundred employees had a narrow escape. The Model glass factory and the Salem wire nail works were unroofed.

In Lima the gas works were unroofed and the smokestacks of several factories blown down. Daniel Miller, a farmer living several miles east of Lima, was caught beneath the timber of his barn as it was going down and crushed to death. At Hume, a small town near Lima, the Methodist church was blown down, as were several dwellings, and a number of people injured. In the oil fields thousands of derricks were blown down, the loss to the Standard Oil company alone amounting to thousands of dollars. The little town of Fort Recovery was almost leveled by the storm and a large number injured. The duration of the storm was not over ten seconds and the total damage in the country about Lima will amount to at least $1,000,000.

At Fremont the spire of the Lutheran church was blown over, falling on the residence of Mrs. Corry, entirely destroying the east part of it. Och's carriage works were struck and completely demolished. Ten men were in the three-story frame structure, and with the exception of Conrad Busold escaped with slight injuries. Busold had both legs broken and is in a critical condition.

In Mercer county great damage was done to farm buildings, fences and forests.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 24.—A windstorm passed over Indiana about 4 o'clock a. m. and did much damage. In the eastern and southern portions of the state the wind blew with the greatest force. At Jeffersonville many houses were unroofed and trees were blown down. John Slem was blown over an embankment and severely injured. At Elwood the roof of the American tin plate works was blown off and the building otherwise damaged. This is the third time the great plant has been damaged by storm. At Marion the roaster building of the Columbia zinc works was blown over; also the smokestack, which fell on the main building, crushing the walls and damaging the machinery.

DETROIT, Mich., May 24.—A tornado came down from the northeast at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. It struck the northern edge of the city, leveling trees, fences, frame buildings and wire-laden poles. Its greatest force was exploded within the limits of half a mile wide. Soon after reports came in from many points in Wayne, Monroe and Lenawee counties telling of destruction to property, but no loss of life. At Romulus the big factory of the Romulus Manufacturing company was totally wrecked. At Holland the roof of the three-story brick opera-house block was lifted into the street; the heavy rain which accompanied the storm drenched the interior of the building and ruined the opera house. The April cyclone wrecked every building in Rea. The rebuilt elevator and Overmeyer's big store were demolished. At Weston Holden's warehouse was overturned and a score of barns in the vicinity wrecked.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 24.—Again the wind has worked its will upon Louisville. Dwellings are ruined, streets are filled with the wreckage of roofs, with broken and uprooted trees, with remnants, walls and twisted wires. No lives, however, are known to be lost, and few of the injuries received are serious. When the storm struck the city eight workmen under the charge of James Daddigan, night foreman at the big Louisville & Nashville roundhouse, were busy about the engines. The heavy engines were overturned like toys, but the men escaped almost miraculously from death. The damage to the building will not exceed $5,000. The damage to the engines will be less than half that amount. Andrew Humble (colored), who lives on Shelby street, between Market and Jefferson, was struck by flying debris and seriously hurt about the body besides receiving bad wounds on hands and arms. The damage will reach $40,000.

Just listen to this from the Grass Lake News: "Hank Brown, who lives across the town line in Washtenaw, weighs 311 pounds and always cats with his coat off. A few days ago while at dinner he reached along down the table for another hunk of ham. The strain on his galluses snapped off a rear button which shot up against the ceiling, then whizzed down against his wife's nose and glancing off struck a plate whence it rebounded popping Hank in the eye. The sting on the nose gave Mrs. Hank such a spasm that she whacked the teapot over scalding her husband's arm; then he with a lurch, to swing up out of his chair, caught his bay window under the leaf and upset the table. White and speechless he waded through the ruins and went out and sat down on the stoop. Now his suspenders are sewed to his trousers with a double waxed-end, but he keeps right on being mad."

THE CHELSEA HERALD.

A. ALLISON, Editor and Proprietor.

CHELSEA, : : MICHIGAN.

THE sale of Mr. Ruskin's works, it is said, is his only income; and a great part of that goes to an army of pensioners to whom, in the days of his wealth, he pledged himself—needy relatives and friends, discharged servants, and institutions in which he took an interest at some time or other.

THE most eloquent preacher in Canada is Dr. George Douglas, who is stone blind and partly paralyzed; he has entirely lost the use of his hands and arms, and they fall helplessly in front of him. When he is in the pulpit he stands perfectly still, and, to a stranger, would appear to be half dead.

THE world will watch with keen interest the outcome of an undertaking backed by a company of quick-witted women in St. Louis to establish a line of steamers between that city and the West Indies. The steamers are to be of the flat-bottomed river pattern and to be equipped with adjustable keels for ocean navigation.

DR. HOLMES says the lamp of a man's life has three wicks—brain, blood and breath—and to turn down any one of them makes the other two go out. Breathe pure air, eat considerably and give the mind its quantum of recreation. And that's the best prescription the genial doctor ever gave, though it is "free gratis for nothing."

SOME notion of the vastness of the western forests may be had from the fact that a new logging camp just established at the headwaters of the Skagit river in Washington, is under contract to turn out an average of about a million feet every month. Five camps on the Skagit will turn out 25,000,000 feet of fir logs alone this year.

THE plume of the prince of Wales, worn on state occasions, is said to be worth $50,000. The feathers, an English writer says, are pulled from the tail of the feriwah, one of the rarest and most beautiful birds of India. Great expense and trouble is necessary to capture the bird, which is found only in the wildest jungles. The feathers are torn from the live cock.

AMONG the workers at the Harvard college observatory who have shown special scientific ability is Miss Maury. She is a granddaughter of Lieut. Maury whose meteorological and other scientific work has been of great value to seamen on the Atlantic, and a niece of Dr. Henry Draper. Before beginning her work at Cambridge she was a graduate of Vassar.

ONE of the strangest things at the World's fair is the Association of Interpreters employed on the grounds. Its president, Charles A. Barry, is a graduate of the University of Michigan in the class of 1880. He speaks sixteen languages, and has some acquaintance with half a dozen others. No other member has command of so many languages, but among them all thirty or forty tongues are represented. There are at present twenty-four members.

THE system of nomenclature in the United States navy is very simple. The great battle ships are named after states, and the first-class cruisers after large cities. The latter are represented by the Philadelphia, the Chicago, the Newark, the Atlanta, the Baltimore and the San Francisco. The gunboats are christened after smaller towns, where celebrated battles have been fought. The Bennington and the Concord are the instances of the naming of this class of vessels.

THIRTY-FIVE fire engine companies held a quick-hitching contest in San Francisco recently. A driver, with two horses under the harness, hooked up, mounted the seat and pulled clear in six seconds. He then went to bed and turned out, dressed, ran down stairs, hitched, climbed in his seat, pulled clear and rolled forty-six feet ten inches in twenty-five and one-half seconds. With horses in their stalls he hitched, was in his seat and clear in thirteen and three-quarter seconds.

THE chief of the senate stationery room, Charles N. Richards, is one of the veterans among the attaches, but the strangest part of his position is its title. Charles Sumner secured his appointment to be "Mender of Quill Pens," and Mr. Richards remains on the pay roll with the same title to this day, although there is but one senator who uses a quill. A part of Mr. Richards' official duties is the making of pens, but the quills kept for Senator Morrill's exclusive use are bought already made.

CONGRESSMAN THOS. J. GEARY, of California, the author of the Chinese registration law, has always employed Chinese servants in his California home, because they are practically the only good ones to be obtained in that part of the country. Since the law bearing his name was enacted, it is said that his wife has been unable to keep her Chinese servants or to hire others, as a boycott has been declared against the Geary household. The peddlers of fruit and other articles, who are principally Chinese, also refuse to sell any of their goods there.

A FURIOUS BATTLE.

Hundreds Slain in Nicaragua—Government Troops Defeated.

GRENADA, May 24.—Additional details of the decisive battle of Barranca pass, near Masaya, show it was even more disastrous than at first supposed. The government losses were 155 killed and 265 wounded. The half-paid and undisciplined government soldiers were no match for the well-fed and well-paid troops which have joined the revolution. The battle continued throughout May 19 and 20.

Scores of men fell on the battlefield. Gen. Barranca's revolutionary army was left in possession of the Tisna road. The fleeing government troops were hotly pursued and some of them were captured. Occasional firing was continued until the middle of the afternoon, when the entire government army fell back in confusion and greatly demoralized, plundering the village of Nindirí as they fled. Although the revolutionists lost only twelve killed and eight wounded, nearly all of them were officers, one of them being Julio Gomez, a leading revolutionist, who belongs to a prominent family. The loss was small, however, compared with 155 government soldiers killed and 265 wounded, in addition to the large number of prisoners captured. Two of the government generals were killed.

The result of the fight has left the government in a distressing position. Its decrees are ineffective, because it is now practically without the power to enforce them. Disorganization and demoralization prevail in the government ranks. In Monaga it is reported 200 government soldiers were about to desert and go over to the revolutionists, when their plans were revealed and the men imprisoned. President Sacaca is reported to have fled to Corinto and is ready to go on board a steamer and leave the country at the moment he is convinced he cannot win. His government is in a desperate situation and has little chance to regain what he has lost.

The presence of a United States warship in Nicaraguan waters is needed for the protection of American interests.

A COWARD'S DEED.

An Iowa Farmer and His Wife Shot While at Supper by an Unknown Man—No Apparent Motive for the Crime.

MASON CITY, Ia., May 25.—Charles Towne, a farmer, and his young wife were shot while eating supper at their home near Plymouth Tuesday night. They were just seated when the wife exclaimed that there was a man at the window. A stranger had been hanging around the place all the afternoon, so Towne reached for his revolver to scare him off. Before he could reach it the man began firing through the window, firing five shots. The first lodged in the woman's left side, the second struck Towne just above the forehead, the remaining shots were fired at a young boy who lives with them, but they failed of their mark. Towne rushed after the man, but could find no one, and then, with the boy and his wounded wife, he started across the fields to his father's house. The wound on the man's head is an ugly one. The ball glanced on the skull and cut a gash 3 inches deep. He may recover, however. The wife is still alive, but her recovery is virtually impossible. No reason is known for the crime. The man who did the shooting is about 6 feet tall, rather slender and well dressed. He had prominent cheek bones, rather peaked chin and dark hair. The whole county is excited over the crime, and if the fellow is caught there will be no need of a lawsuit.

LOOTED A TRAIN.

Robbers Secure About $1,500 from an Express Car on a Train in Missouri.

WASHINGTON, Mo., May 25.—Passenger train No. 3 on the Missouri Pacific, due at this place at 10:10 p. m., was stopped and robbed about 1½ miles this side of Pacific, Mo. The train was in charge of Conductor King. The express car was robbed, admittance being secured by the use of dynamite. There were four to six robbers. One of them got on at Pacific on the front end of the mail car, and when he reached the place of robbery he got on to the engine by climbing over the tender and ordered the engineer to stop at the point of the pistol. When the engineer arrived here nothing could be learned from him, as he was so frightened when he reached the place that he neglected to register. The robbers were all unmasked and were very bold in their work. The robbers secured $1,250 in cash, $430 in checks and one valuable package. Gov. Stone, who was aboard, stopped off here and returned to Pacific. An effort was made here to raise a posse but failed. Gov. Stone offered a reward of $300 for the capture of each guilty man. Gov. Stone and the passengers were not disturbed and many did not know the cause of the delay.

End of the Music Trouble.

CHICAGO, May 25.—Theodore Thomas will retain his position as musical director of the Columbian exposition. The board of reference and control has unanimously adopted a resolution instructing Director General Davis to recall the demand for Mr. Thomas' resignation; making that gentleman responsible to Mr. Davis for the conduct of his department, and instructing the director general to protect the rights of exhibitors of musical instruments in Musical and Festival halls.

OVER A SCORE KILLED.

Terrible Work of a Cyclone in Central Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 26.—Dispatches received from several towns in Missouri and from one point in Kansas report the occurrence Thursday afternoon of a severe windstorm of almost cyclonic proportions. The storm was accompanied in every instance by either hail or a downpour of water amounting to almost a cloudburst.

Meager reports from Ladonia, 50 miles east, report twenty killed and the town, a place of 1,200, demolished. No wire can be obtained there, although every effort is still being made to that end.

Moberly, Mo., reports three killed, but only one name, George Robinson, a Wabash engineer, can be secured.

At Mexico, Mo., the earth is completely covered with water, crops are damaged to an alarming extent, and buildings have been unroofed and lifted from their foundations. At a point 8 miles north the residence of Henry McCue, a farmer, blew in upon him and crushed him to death.

At Sedalia, Mo., the wind attained a terrific velocity. It surged under the tent of Ringling Bros.' circus and snapped five poles supporting it like pipestems. The tent came down with a crash, burying 2,000 people beneath it. They screamed and struggled and several women fainted, but all were finally safely removed from beneath the canvas. Several received severe bruises but no injury to life or limb resulted.

MARTINSBURG, Mo., May 26.—About 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon a severe windstorm struck this place, leveling trees, fences and outbuildings and doing much other damage. Nineteen loaded freight cars were blown off the Wabash track and their contents scattered about the fields.

SHOT BY HIS PARTNER.

Ex-Mayor Dimond, of Arcola, Ill., Killed in His Office After a Desperate Struggle with David Miller.

ARCOLA, Ill., May 26.—Ex-Mayor A. B. Dimond was shot and almost instantly killed by his partner, David Miller, Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock in their office in this city. Dimond and Miller have been partners in the insurance business for some time. They had trouble over a settlement, and, after some threats, both drew revolvers and commenced firing. Dimond was shot twice through the breast by Miller and Miller was shot through the hand. They then clinched, when G. W. Dimond, brother of the ex-mayor, sprang forward and separated them. Miller immediately left the room, but made no attempt to escape, and was soon after arrested and locked up. Dimond was laid on the floor and a physician summoned, but all efforts to save him were fruitless and he died in about ten minutes. He was one of the leading men of the town, and up to the spring election was mayor. He was an old soldier and an ex-commander of the G. A. R. post of this city. Miller is also a prominent citizen. He has a wife and three children. Dimond leaves a large family, several of the children being grown.

BIG LEATHER HOUSE FAILS.

Richardson & Dennie, of Boston, Forced to Assign—Other Firms in Trouble.

BOSTON, May 26.—Richardson & Dennie, dealers in hides, have failed. The firm was rated at $200,000. It is not believed the liabilities will exceed $300,000. The assignees are the bookkeeper and Lawyer Coolidge. It is said by those who are active in the leather trade that the cause of the failure of Richardson & Dennie may be traced to the sole leather combine. The firm has been a large importer of hides, and, as one man put it, "the combine knocked the feet out from under them."

The following firms and individuals are involved and have failed: Phelps & Lombard, dealers in light leather, 79 High street, with factory at 1490 Tremont street; William S. Richardson, dealer in upper leather, 61 High street; John A. Lord, carrier, of Salem. As soon as statements can be prepared the creditors will be called together to take action.

James Dugan, tanner and currier, of Salem, who recently assigned, has liabilities of $168,000, of which $118,000 is direct and $45,000 contingent. His assets are appraised at $101,000.

THREE BOYS DROWNED.

Upset from a Boat with Four Others Who Were Rescued.

NEW YORK, May 26.—A sad drowning accident happened in the East river near the navy yard Thursday. Three little Brooklyn boys were drowned. Four others were rescued in an exhausted condition. The drowned are: Fred McGibney, aged 14; Thomas O'Brien, aged 9; Thomas Kilisky, aged 9. Their bodies were not recovered and it is believed that they were swept away by the tide. A tugboat having several canalboats in tow was passing up the river and a rowboat in which were the seven boys got between the tug and the tow. The hawser which connected the tug and tow had been slack, but it was suddenly made taut. The hawser caught the rowboat in such a way as to capsize it, throwing the boys into the water.

COMMISSIONERS ACT.

They Fail to Modify the Rule Adopted by the World's Fair Directory in Favor of Sunday Opening and Thus Pave the Way for a Seven-Day Fair—Courts May Be Appealed To.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Sunday opening of the world's fair won a victory Tuesday before the national commission, and unless legal process restraining the directors from acting otherwise is resorted to the gates of the fair will be thrown open next Sunday to visitors. After the action of the commission Tuesday it was generally understood that so far as its authority is concerned it had interposed no obstacle to prevent the directors from carrying out their Sunday-opening rule, and world's fair directors do not hesitate to let it be known that their Sunday-opening policy will be pursued according to their action of last week.

By a vote of 31 to 27, the commission adopted the minority report of its judiciary committee. This minority report was submitted by Commissioners J. W. St. Clair and J. R. Burton and favored the rule adopted by the local directory which provided for the opening of the gates every day in the week on and after May 21. The majority report was against such adoption and was supported by Commissioners Massey, Garvin and Hundley.

At the conclusion of Col. St. Clair's argument the minority report, approving of the rule of the directors to open the gates Sunday on and after May 21 was adopted by a vote of 31 to 27 as follows:

Yeas—Commissioners De Young, California; Goodell, Colorado; Stearns, Idaho; Ewing, Illinois; Eiboeck, Iowa; Burton, Kansas; Myers, Kentucky; Lane, Michigan; Barbour, Michigan; Sanders, Mississippi; Bullene, Missouri; Haines, Nebraska; Smith, New Jersey; Ryan, North Dakota; Groener, Virginia; Butt, West Virginia; St. Clair, West Virginia; Coburn, Wisconsin; Coats, Arizona; White, New Mexico; Beeson, Oklahoma; Kiesel, Utah. Alternates—Werth, Alabama; Funk, Illinois; Le Duc, Louisiana; Kurtz, Minnesota; Fish, New Jersey; Breslin, New York; Bullard, South Dakota; Cummins, Washington—31.

Nays—Commissioners McDonald, California; Allen, New York; Hundley, Alabama; Clendenen, Arkansas; Massey, Delaware; Garvin, Indiana; W. F. King, Iowa; Holliday, Kansas; Bixby, Maine; Toustey, Minnesota; Bynum, Mississippi; Hershfield, Montana; Mitchell, Montana; Scott, Nebraska; Russell, Nevada; Rucker, North Dakota; Ritchie, Ohio; Woodsie, Pennsylvania; Gutierrez, New Mexico; Gammon, Oklahoma; Lannan, Utah. Alternates—Ingalls, Maine; Bernard, Florida; Sanders, Georgia; McMahon, Louisiana; Edwards, Maine; Hurt, Tennessee—27.

Then after the modification of the report had been approved it in its entirety received 29 votes for its adoption as against 28 opposing it. Then came this announcement from Acting President De Young:

"Inasmuch as it requires a majority of fifty-five members of the commission to modify a rule submitted by the local directory the chair decides that the Sunday opening rule of the local board, not having received sufficient votes to modify it, remains operative and unchanged."

Commissioner Lannan at once said: "I object to this statement from the chairman. Does he mean to say that the directors can make a rule which will go in effect without the approval of the national commission? If so, I appeal from his statement."

"I desire to state again," said the chairman, "that in accordance with the act of congress which says that the directory may make rules and the commission modify them this rule has not been modified and must stand."

After more objections from other members President De Young eliminated his remarks as to the effect of the vote and the commission adjourned.

To make clear just how the Sunday opening question stands this statement is made: Last week the Chicago directory adopted a rule providing for the opening of the gates on Sunday. This it submitted to the national commission. According to the original act of congress creating both bodies it was provided that all the rules and regulations should originate with the Chicago directory, "subject, however, to such modification, if any, as may be imposed by a majority of said commissioners." A majority of the commission consists of fifty-five members. There were fifty-eight members in attendance Tuesday. Thirty-one voted for a slight modification of some features of the Sunday opening rule, while twenty-seven voted against the entire proposition. Inasmuch as the necessary majority of fifty-five did not vote either for or against the modification of the rule of the directory, it stands operative until fifty-five members can be induced either to vote for it or against it. Consequently until such majority is obtained the Sunday opening rule will be in force and effect, unless the courts shall be successfully invoked to close the gates.

LYNCHING IN MICHIGAN.

Mob Hangs William Sullivan, the Confessed Slayer of Leetch.

CORUNNA, Mich., May 24.—William Sullivan, the farm hand who brutally murdered his employer, Layton Leetch, and murderously assaulted the latter's wife near Durand last January, was taken from jail by an immense mob at 9:20 o'clock Tuesday evening and lynched. Sullivan was captured in Detroit Sunday and was brought here under guard and placed in jail. When arraigned Tuesday on the charge of murder Sullivan acknowledged that he was the man wanted. At 8 o'clock p. m. more than 2,000 infuriated citizens congregated around the jail with the intention of taking justice into their own hands. They secured the prisoner and strung him up, afterwards shooting his body full of holes.

SHE VISITS NEW YORK.

Eulalie Bids Farewell to Washington—Greeted Cordially in New York and Presented with the Freedom of the City.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Eulalie, the Spanish infanta, is the guest of the metropolis. Promptly at 10 o'clock Thursday morning the special train on the Pennsylvania road pulled out of the Washington station and Secretary Gresham, who represented the government, grasped the hand of Princess Eulalie, shook it heartily, tipped his hat and jumped to the platform as the train pulled out. The princess appeared on the platform for a moment and smiled sweetly in response to the loud huzzas of the crowd.

The princess remained standing, accompanied by her husband and Commander Davis, until the people, prominent among whom were the Spanish legation, passed out of sight, when she entered the car and began chatting with her suite. The journey to New York was without special incident.

Despite a short delay, owing to a hot box, the train pulled into Jersey City on time at 3 o'clock and the princess alighted, showing in nowise the effects of the journey. She expressed herself as delighted with the trip and the completeness of the arrangements looking especially to her comfort and convenience.

As the princess stepped from the palace car she was met by Gen. Porter, who escorted her to a carriage, which she entered, followed by her husband, Commander Davis and Gen. Porter. Other members of the suite got into a second carriage, and then both carriages were driven down to the wharf where the steamboat General Slocum was moored.

When the infanta's party and the members of the committee had boarded the Slocum the Spanish warship Infanta Isabel, that had anchored north of the pier early in the day, began firing a national salute of twenty-one guns, at the same time manning her yards and parading marines on the quarter deck. As the Slocum left the pier the entire party took seats on the forward deck.

During the sail up the river the party received an ovation, salutes being exchanged with hundreds of river craft. Off Thirty-fourth street, as the Brazilian men-of-war Republica and Aquideban were passed, both vessels were seen to be beautifully dressed with flags, and as the Slocum steamed by the yards of the two big warships were manned. A short distance up lay the Newark and Philadelphia of the American navy. As the Slocum came abreast of the Newark both ships manned the yards and paraded their crews, while each fired a salute of twenty-one guns.

The Slocum continued on to Fifth street, where she turned and passed around the Italian warship Eribana. As the Slocum turned the guns of the Miantonomoh, lying a mile further up the river, fired a salute.

On the pier was troop A, the crack cavalry regiment of New York, which was to act as a guard of honor to the infanta. The princess, her husband, Gen. Porter and Commander Davis entered the first carriage. In the second carriage were the Marchioness Hermosa, the duke of Tamames, Gen. Varnum and Comptroller Myers. In the third were Whitelaw Reid, Joseph J. O'Donoghue and Dom Pedro, the secretary to the princess. The officers in the suite of the infanta, Spanish Consul General Baldasano and the members of the committee followed in other carriages. A detail of fifteen men of the mounted police formed an advance guard. The troop divided into three sections, one in advance, another in the rear and the third upon either side of the party. Then the procession, headed by the mounted band, marched along Thirty-fourth street to the Hotel Savor.

Along the entire route the princess received a most enthusiastic reception, which she most gracefully acknowledged. The streets were lined with people, and from the windows of many of the houses the Spanish and American flags were flying. Outside of the hotel and for a dozen or more blocks down Fifth avenue the sidewalks were crowded with people and the streets were filled with fashionable toilets. Mayor Gilroy and George B. McClellan, president of the board of aldermen, were at the entrance to receive the city's guest. As the carriage stopped Gen. Porter introduced Mayor Gilroy to the infanta, and the mayor introduced Mr. McClellan as the president of the municipal council. Then the mayor offered the princess his right arm and led the way up the steps and through the hall to the elevator, followed by the prince and Mr. McClellan. The carpet laid down beneath the canopy was strewn with lilacs, peonies, roses and carnations, and the moment the last of the party had crossed it the crowd grabbed every petal of broken flower that the gracious lady had crushed beneath her pretty shoes.

When the party had reached the reception room Mayor Gilroy advanced to the infanta and her husband and extended to them the freedom of the city. The princess replied very quietly and with a marked accent:

"I am very pleased at the graciousness of the reception and can find nothing to say except to thank you."

The infanta expressed herself as charmed with "beautiful Washington" and her treatment thus far in America. The party then went to the apartments that had been reserved for them.

A FEW FACTS.

A remedy has been found which cures chronic diseases; not in every case, but a large percentage of them. And in cases too far gone for cure; it affords relief and prolongs life. Many who have been given over by physicians have been prevailed upon by friends to try this remedy, the Compound Oxygen Treatment of Drs. Starkey and Palen, of Philadelphia, and are now living to testify to its wonderful curative powers. It has been successful in curing many cases of catarrh, malarial diseases, hay fever, asthma, bronchitis, neuralgia, nervous prostration and other chronic diseases. In these diseases physicians have had little success, as the name they have given to this class of disorders indicates, but Compound Oxygen has worked wonders.

There is only one genuine Compound Oxygen, and any made elsewhere or by others than Drs. Starkey and Palen, is spurious. Avoid imitations.

If you wish to learn more of this wonderful remedy, send for our book of 200 pages, sent free, with numerous testimonials and records of surprising cures. 49

Odd and Ends.

Here is an argument in favor of learning something. The number of prisoners locked up in fourteen of the Western and Middle states is 110,538, and of this vast number of offenders but one-sixth know how to read.

The two largest apple trees in the state of New York are both near the town of Wilson. The largest was planted in 1815, and thirty-three full barrels of apples were once picked from its branches in a single season. The other is on the farm of J. G.
 O. Brown, and yielded twenty barrels of "choice" fruit and five barrels of "culle" in the season of 1891.

People are warned to look out for a new $5 silver certificate. It is issued under the act of August 4th, 1886. The principal defects are in the portrait of Grant, which is poorly engraved. The nose is too large and flat and the right ear is larger than the genuine. The portrait has a moth-eaten appearance. The bill bears the signature of W. S. Rosenkrans.

There is still a widespread belief in the South that the meat of hogs killed during the decrease of the moon will shrink in the cooking more than the meat of animals killed when the moon is crescent, and there are hundreds of persons south of Mason's and Dixon's line who are careful to plant potatoes when the moon is right, lest the increase be small or none.

It pays to take good care of your poultry as the following clipping will show: At a recent poultry convention held in Wisconsin statistics given show that poultry raising is one of the most profitable industries of the country. The value of the egg product in the United States for the year 1892 was $2,000,000 and that of poultry sold by farmers to shippers was $1,000,000.

It is a year in which Americans may well be glad to live. They may assist to celebrate their country as they have never done before; it is the American year. There may be other countries with some admirable and enviable possessions and characteristics which ours does not have, but this year we shall not care for them—that is our own; we love it and rejoice over it.

When the county newspapers find foreigners invading the field of home merchandise and selling goods to the farmers, they arise and whack the intruders, and advise the farmers to buy his goods of the home merchant. And when foreign printing houses send their representatives among the merchants and business men, many of these same business men give them their printing and get inferior work.

A story is going around about a man whose wife had gone visiting and would not listen to his appeal to come home before her visit was out. Taking a copy of his home paper and carefully clipping out just one item, he sent the paper to her.
 The scheme worked admirably and in less than a week she was at home to find out what had happened that her husband did not want her to know.

Cyclones have now taken their place in mortuary records as regularly as has pneumonia or measles. The monster is as sure of havoc every year in America as is yellow jack in Cuba or cholera in India. Last year his total harvest in this country amounted to sixty-two souls. This year, with but four months of it done, and with the cyclone season but scarcely begun, the harvest is nearly double the entire amount of 1892.

An editor, who probably speaks from experience, gets off the following, which is very appropriate for this time of the year:
 "Father, dear father, come home with me now, for ma has some carpets to beat; she's got all the furniture out in the yard from the front porch clear down to the street.
 The stove must come down and be put in the shed, and the yard must be cleaned of the dead grass for it's time to clean house and the devil's to pay and the front windows need some new glass. Father, dear father, come home with me now, and bring me some bologna and cheese; it's most twelve o'clock and there's nothing to eat—I'm so hungry I'm weak in the knees. All the dinner we'll have will be cold scraps and such, and we'll have to eat standing up, too, for the tables and chairs are all out in the yard—oh, I wish house cleaning was through! Father, dear father; come home with me now, for ma is as mad as a Turk;
 she says that you are a lazy old thing and that she proposes to put you to work.
 There's painting to do and paper to hang, and windows and casings to scrub, for it's house cleaning time and you've got to come home and revel in suds and cold grub."

Some astronomically inclined ink slinger has been studying up the almanac, and evolves this: "The day of the month and week are always the same in March and November, and in April and July. That is, if March comes in on Monday, Novem- ber will do likewise, the same rule apply- ing to the other above named months. In leap year January is with March and November. The last day of February and the fourth day of July always occur on the same day of the week. The same is true of the 24th of April and Christmas.

For a year everybody is absorbed in the hot pursuit of living. Then there is a flash of red and the rattle of drums up the street, a woman and now a girl go by with a basket of flowers; then men dressed alike in blue gather on the street. They are grizzled and bowed, but there is rhythm in their step. The meaning of it all flashes out in a living picture. There were days when the roll of drums and the echo of feet in step sent the people wild in street with beating hearts. The march of a regiment bore with it hope, anguish, love and prayers. These were the men, then young and straight, with everything to lose and all to gain. With Minnie may cry out: "Oh, the days that was, the days that was!"
