Louis Betz Disappears.

Ann Argus Argus: Louis Betz mysteriously disappeared on Tuesday last. He had gone to Whitmore Lake, the day before to secure a place for his family to spend a week there and stopped with Mrs. Widdeman. About four o'clock Tuesday morning he took a pair of oars and went down to the lake. He did not return for breakfast and upon search being made for him, his hat was found in the boat, but he was not to be seen.

It is not definitely ascertained what has become of him. One of the Whitmore Lake stores sold a felt hat to a man, whom they said answered the description of Mr. Betz, who asked about the Grand Trunk trains, and the station agent at Hamburg Junction sold a ticket to Jackson to such a man. Sheriff Brenner went to Jackson, but after diligent search, in which he was aided by the entire police department, was unable to get trace of him, although a man who might answer the description took dinner at Bender's restaurant, Tuesday, at eleven o'clock. A party of Betz's friends propose searching Whitmore Lake to-day. In the meantime, attachments on his saloon and stock amounting to over $1,000 have been taken out by Rauschenberger & Lutz, Andrew Reule, Koch & Henne, Charles Kayser and the Ann Arbor Brewing Company.

Mr. Betz had about $25 with him at the time of his disappearance. He was an honest, hard working man but had been ill for some months and during this time his business had run down. His friends believe that his mind must have been weakened by his illness.

Corsets for Warmth.

"Every now and then," said a gentleman "fun is derived from reference to men who wear corsets. It is taken for granted that these individuals wear these articles in order to compress their waists and assume an aristocratic carriage. This is entirely erroneous. The idea of wearing a waist-band so as to promote warmth in the stomach is an old Southern idea, sworn by and proved to be good by thousands of people. Keeping the digestive organs at a uniformly warm temperature makes digestion easy and provides against half the ills of humanity."

Still Doing Business at the Old Stand.

I would say that I am selling as cheap as ever, but for the next ninety days I will give special bargains in everything in my line. If you are in need of a heavy or light double harness, bring your cash and see what a bargain you can secure. I have just received a splendid lot of whips and fly nets. I have some of those all whale-bone whips—bone from handle to tip. Call and see them.

Adulterated Wine.

Is injurious, but nothing gives strength, and tones up the stomach like a pure old port wine. "Royal Ruby Port," so called for its royal taste and ruby color, is on account of its purity, age and strength, particularly adapted for invalids, convalescents and the aged. Sold only in bottles (never in bulk) while cheap wine is sold by the gallon and gives a larger profit to the seller but less to the user. The wine is absolutely pure, and has the age without which no wine is fit to use. Be sure you get "Royal Ruby," quart bottles $1.00, 60 cts. Sold by R. S. Armstrong & Co., Druggists.

Notwithstanding the fact that there is plenty of work in all parts of Michigan in the hay and harvest fields, the tramp nuisance does not seem to abate a single jot. In fact it seems to be growing worse every day.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jensen, of Jackson, were called to the bedside of Mr. Jensen's sister, Mrs. Knoll, of Sylvan. Mr. Knoll's family is sorely afflicted, his wife and five children being confined to their beds with bilious fever.

The Grass Lake News lays down the following rules: For "typewriting" say "typing." For "typewriter" (the machine) say "typer." For "typewriter" (the operator) say "typist." For "typewritten" say "typed." For "to typewrite" say "to type."

The Glazier Stove Co., have added to their already extensive line of machinery, a 10 ton E. W. Bliss Toggle Drawing Press. This Press is used in the manufacture of Oil Stove Tanks, Wash Bowls, Milk and Pudding Pans, Milk Kettle Breads, Tea Kettle Bodies, Sauce Pans, Bucket and Pot Covers, Scoops, Cuspidors, Coal Hod Bottoms, Trays, Dust Pans, Brass and Copper Goods, etc. This press covers a floor space over all of 80x80 inches. An exchange says: If the overhanging part of that straw stack is not cut down it may fall down and smother or crush the pigs or a calf. If you have not use for the part cut down as feed, use it liberally for bedding. That is a very good way to sell straw.

If the cholera scare breaks out again this summer as it possibly may any day, any man may successfully quarantine himself by simply keeping clean and living clean and living in clean and wholesome surroundings. But this should not lead the quarantine officers to abate a jot in their endeavors to keep the cholera out.

There is a class of thinkers who believe that the time is coming when the world will become too small for the race. But if the navy gets its new submarine boats in order and our New England inventor succeeds with his flying machine, we need not greatly worry. There will be plenty of room for us all between the bottom of the ocean and the top of the sky.

It is said that dancing makes girl's feet large. It is also said that ice cream produces freckles. Doctors are of the opinion that hanging on the gate produces rheumatism. The chewing of gum distorts their mouth. Playing the piano destroys the beauty of the hand, and washing dishes causes chaps to come—to propose. There you have it girls, take your choice.—Manchester Enterprise.

While the engine at the stove works was shut down for noon to-day, gas accumulated around the boiler, and when engineer started up again at one o'clock an explosion took place which shattered the brick work around the boiler, and broke nearly every window glass in the building. Fred Clark one of the hands at the works, was near the boiler when the explosion took place and was quite badly cut about the head by falling bricks.

I don't know of any one thing that impresses me more with the idea of the brotherhood of man, said a humorous writer recently, than the universality of the observance of Monday as washday. No matter where a man may live, on that day he sees the washing waving: if in the city, in his own back-yard or from pulley lines from back windows or on roofs; if in the suburbs and his work be in the city, in many yards as the train flashes by. We may differ on questions of church or state, but we all agree on Monday as wash-day.

The cigarette manufacturers have hit upon a new advertising dodge. Thus far it flourishes only in New York, but there is some danger of its spreading. They hire pretty girls to parade the parks and the principal avenues and display cigarette signs. It has reached such proportions that the police have been called upon to drive them out of Central park, and no more young women representing any brand of cigarettes will be allowed to promenade ride or sit there. It seems to be a pretty good scheme to suppress before it spreads beyond its present confines.

A very pleasant wedding was solemnized on Tuesday, August 1st, 1893, at 12 o'clock at the Runciman homestead in Sylvan, the contracting parties being Mr. C. T. Conklin and Miss Sarah L. Runciman, both of Sylvan, Rev. Schwank, of Waterloo, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Conklin left on the afternoon train for Detroit, where they took the boat for a trip up the lakes, also taking in the world's fair, after which they will reside in Chelsea. The HERALD, with hosts of others extends its congratulations to the newly wedded pair and wishes them many happy years of wedded life.

The new so-called neglige shirt with its front as stiff as a cement sidewalk and its collars and cuffs as hard as a curbstone, feels about as comfortable on a hot man as would a barrel, two sizes too small, bound about a fat man. There is positively no comfort in it, and a man caught wearing one publicly acknowledges that he is fashion's slave. The independent, devil-may-care sort of a gentleman who spurns this new whim, and sticks to the pretty soft wool or silk shirt, will have a better appetite through the sultry days of July and August, will sleep better at night, and finally enjoy a green old age when the slave is prematurely and perforce of circumstances sitting in genuine neglige costume among the angels.

There is a general idea that the president's salary of $50,000 a year is all that he receives. This is a mistake. In addition to his salary, the president receives $36,064 to pay the salaries of his clerks and subordinates. His private secretary has $3,250 his assistant secretary $2,250, the stenographer gets $1,800, each of the five messengers $1,200, the steward $1,800, each of the two doorkeepers $1,200, while other employees are paid in proportion, down to the man who takes care of the fires who receives $984. In addition $8,000 is allowed for incidentals, such as stationery and carpets, $12,500 for repairs and refurbishing, $2,500 for fuel, $4,000 for the greenhouse, and $15,000 for the stable, gas and incidentals. In all the president and his home cost the country over $125,000.

THE CHELSEA HERALD.

A. ALLISON, Editor and Proprietor.

CHELSEA, : : MICHIGAN.

THERE were thirty-two failures in the iron trade in this country during the first six months of this year, which is the most disastrous record in that industry in our history.

THE Navy department buys annually about 125,000 pounds pure natural leaf tobacco for Jack Tar. It is bought under contract, and accepted only after it has been fully tested for purity and strength.

CHULALONGKORN, the King of Siam, is said to be the most enterprising man in his kingdom. He has 100 wives, 1,000 elephants and an income of $10,000,000. His trouble with France is over the boundaries between Siam and French possessions.

QUEEN VICTORIA made her will in 1876. It is engrossed on vellum, quarto size, and it is bound as a volume, secured with a private lock. Several blank pages have been left at the end of the book for codicils, some of which have already been added.

TWENTY thousand watermelons are to be cut in one day at the World's fair when the state of Washington's building is opened, in September. It is estimated that the melons, which are to be of Washington growth, will make one million good-sized slices.

Mrs. CROOK, widow of the Indian fighting general, has attracted more attention recently than most other feminine visitors to the World's fair. She is a very fine looking woman, with snowy white hair that is in striking contrast to her youthful spirits.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made for excursions of colored people from the South to the World's fair, and it is expected that 250,000 will thus be added to the attendance. The first excursion will be August 21, from Nashville and intermediate points in Tennessee and Kentucky.

THE famous whaleback steamer, Charles W. Wetmore, of which such great expectations were entertained as a new success in marine architecture, was sold at auction in San Francisco the other day for $250 and her cargo of 3,000 tons of coal for $6. Ship and cargo now lie buried in the sand near Coos bay, on the coast of Oregon.

Of every one thousand clergymen between the ages of forty-five and sixty-five it is found that only 15.93 die annually. But of every one thousand doctors between the ages of forty-five and sixty-five no fewer than 28.02 die every year. That is to say, the mortality of medical men is almost double that of clergymen, and the rate is increasing.

THE kingdom of Siam forms the chief territorial division of the Indo-Chinese peninsula, the southeast point of Alsia, and with its dependencies of Laos, Cambodia and Malacca, has an area of 250,000 square miles—about five times the size of Ohio—and a population of about 12,000,000. It has an extensive coast line and several good harbors, of which that below Bangkok is the chief.

A DEPARTURE from old ways has been made by Marietta (O.) college. The trustees announce that a college for women will be opened in September. The qualifications for entrance, and the course of instruction provided, are the same as for men in the classical course. In modern languages and literature the changes made are to meet the special requirements of women in general.

THE Pamunkey Indians, who dwell on a reservation about twenty-five miles from Richmond, Va., which they hold on condition of paying a certain annual tribute to the state, have sent a delegation to the World's fair to invite other civilized Indians to come and settle on their reservation and amalgamate with their tribe. The Pamunkies have fine lands, and are in prosperous circumstances, but they have intermarried so long that the tribe is in danger of extinction.

BANGKOK is a very curious and interesting city of 500,000 inhabitants, 100,000 of whom live in houseboats on the river. The larger part of the city is uninhabitable by Europeans on account of filth, especially during the dry season. The tide sets back far enough to make the river menial brackish, and it is sluggish at all times, and for months together rotting carcases and vegetables almost choke the current. The natives drink it without clearing, and when a cholera season comes they die by tens of thousands.

PHILADELPHIA is to have something to wake her up soon. It is a trial as to the possession of the body of a dead wife. The disputants in the case are the newly-made widower and an undertaker. It seems the undertaker had presented a bill for services as embalmer and payment was refused. At once he took a lien on the corpse and the widower sued to replevy. The issue will be decided on the 7th of August. Meantime a great deal of Philadelphia legal talent is to be retained for both sides, while the corpse in dispute calmly reposes in the possession of the undertaker.

STATESMEN FIGHT.

An Unprecedented Scene in the House of Commons During Final Discussion of the Home Rule Bill—A Free Fight Participated in by Members, from Which Many Emerge with Sore Heads.

LONDON, July 28.—There was a riot in the house of commons Thursday night, and as a result several members are nursing bruised faces and lacerated scalps. It was brought about by an attack on the Irish by Joseph Chamberlain, to which T. P. O'Connor made reply by calling Mr. Chamberlain "Judas." It was not until Speaker Peel was summoned that the disorder was ended. Then final action was taken on the home rule bill by the house sitting as a committee of the whole, all the clauses being adopted. Never since the days of Parnell has there been such a scene in the house as occurred Thursday night.

The debate had continued with Mr. Mellor as chairman until 9:45, when Joseph Chamberlain rose to deliver the final argument for the U. position. After a few scornful and biting words as to the conduct of the ministers he began giving his opinion of the closure as applied by the government.

"The prime minister calls 'black,' and his adherents say it is good. The prime minister calls 'white,' and they say it is better. (Unionist laughter.) It is always the voice of God. Never, since the time of Herod, has there been such."

Mr. Chamberlain got no further. Immediately resuming his speech he had been warned by mutterings from the Irish benches that a storm was gathering. He could hardly have expected the suddenness with which it broke, for with his half-finished reference to Herod there came from the nationalists such a roar of indignation as has not been heard in the house since the days of Parnell.

T. P. O'Connor sprang to his feet, and leaning towards Mr. Chamberlain shouted "Judas" so loudly that the epithet could be heard throughout the house. The rest of the Irishmen took up the cry and for half a minute shouted "Judas" in chorus. Meantime the clock struck 10. The chairman tried to put the closure but his voice could not be heard amid the shouts of the Irish and the unionists.

Then came a scene unprecedented in parliamentary history. Mr. Mellor gave in a weak voice the customary directions. The conservatives, however, flatly refused to quit the house. Vicary Gibbs, Gibson Bowles and William Hanbury shouted to the chairman that he must first call Mr. O'Connor to order for having called Mr. Chamberlain names. Mr. Mellor protested that he had not heard the epithets in question.

Meantime half of the unionists had climbed to the benches and were shouting "Gag!" "Gag!" Others were struggling in the aisles or between the benches with radical, liberal or Irish antagonists. Curses, yells of pain and gross insults were heard on every side.

Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat down over his eyes. Healy tore off the hat and sprang into the aisle in full fighting posture just as Mr. Hanbury, still shouting that the chairman must name Mr. O'Connor, was trying to get by. Mr. Hanbury was knocked over a bench by the force of the collision before Mr. Healy got in a blow.

A free fight then broke out at the gangway. The center of it was William Redmond, Parnellite, who had taken advantage of the general license to push over Col. Sanderson, the champion of the men of Ulster. Sanderson was rescued and led an attack on the Parnellites. Blows were struck right and left. Members fell and were picked up by their friends to fight again. The whole space between the front benches was filled with a struggling, cursing mass of members, striking, clawing and upsetting each other. Manful efforts were made to separate the combatants. Both sergeants-at-arms forced their way through the thick of the fight, but as fast as one group was pacified another came to blows.

Eventually Mr. Gladstone begged Edward Majoribanks, a sturdy young liberal, to do something to stop the fighting. Mr. Majoribanks dug his way through the tangled mass of beligerents, and by repeated appeals in the name of the premier succeeded in stemming the conflict. Col. Sanderson emerged first from the crowd of fighters. He was holding a bunch of keys to his black eye. Others followed in more or less damaged condition.

Chairman Mellor sent for Speaker Peel as soon as order was restored. When the speaker entered several conservatives rose, and, pointing to Mr. Gladstone, exclaimed: "There sits the author of it all."

The hum of voices died out as Speaker Peel, stern and dignified, took the chair. A slight cheer was given for him and then Mr. Mellor as chairman of the committee reported to Mr. Peel as speaker of the house what had occurred. Mr. Mellor spoke in a low, sorrowful voice, but the members had become so quiet that every word was audible. In response to the speaker's request several members gave their versions of the trouble. Mr. Mellor repeated that he had not heard the offensive expression, but had ordered that it be taken down and then had summoned the speaker. Mr. Peel then announced that from all accounts he felt positive that the expression used was the original cause of the disorder. He requested Mr. O'Connor to apologize and the latter gentleman did so.

SHE SUES FOR PEACE.

Siam Informs France of Her Unconditional Acceptance of the Latter's Ultimatum—Peace Assured.

LONDON, July 31.—The Siamese legation in this city has received a dispatch from Bangkok stating in effect that the Siamese government, learning that France regarded its reply to the ultimatum as a refusal to grant the French demands, and being most desirous of maintaining peace, has telegraphed instructions to the Siamese minister at Paris to inform M. Develle, the French foreign minister, that Siam accepts the ultimatum in its entirety. The dispatch adds that the Siamese government hopes that the blockade will cease, that the diplomatic negotiations will be resumed, and that an early settlement of the troubles will be effected.

The cabinet council at which the decision to grant all demands of France's ultimatum was made was called at the royal palace Saturday morning. The king presided. His two brothers and all the ministers were present. After sitting several hours the council approved the views of the peace party. Instructions were then telegraphed to Prince Vadhana, Siamese minister in Paris, that the government accepted the ultimatum regardless of all reservations previously formulated.

The substance of the ultimatum was as follows:

1. A recognition of the rights of Anam and Cambodia on the left or eastern bank of the Mekong river as far north as the twenty-third parallel of latitude.

2. The evacuation within a month of the forts held by the Siamese on the east bank of the river.

3. Full satisfaction for various Siamese aggressions against French ships and French sailors on the Menam river.

4. Punishment of the culprits and provision for the pecuniary indemnity of the victims.

5. An indemnity of 2,000,000 francs for various damages sustained by French subjects.

6. The immediate deposit of 3,000,000 francs to guarantee the payment of the fourth and fifth claims or the assignment of the taxes in certain districts in lieu of the deposit of 3,000,000 francs.

With the acceptance of the ultimatum by the Siamese government the war cloud in the east will of course pass over.

PARIS, July 31.—The meeting of ministers to consider Siam's unreserved acceptance of France's ultimatum was held at the Elysee between 5 and 7 o'clock Sunday evening. President Carnot came from Marly-le-Roi to preside.

After deciding to accept Siam's concession of the French demands the ministers deferred further definite action until measures should have been taken to guarantee Siam's fulfillment of the French demands. They took steps, however, to inform M. Pavie, French minister resident, now at Koh-Si-Chang, of Siam's acceptance of the ultimatum.

The conference of the ministers was prolonged by a discussion of the steps which might be necessary in settling the boundary question between France and Great Britain. A certain amount of difficulty is expected to embarrass this part of the negotiations. Another cabinet meeting will be held on Tuesday, when an effort will be made to have all the ministers present.

BANGKOK, July 31.—While the government of Siam accepted without reservation France's ultimatum, it received previously the assurance that the kingdom would not be dismembered until after the consideration by all powers concerned of France's demand for the territory between the 18th and 23d parallels.

The blockade is still maintained by the Forfar, Lutin, Inconstante, Comete and Lion. The British warships Pallas and Swift remain at the Menam bar, inside the blockade limits. The British warship Linnet and the German warship Wolf are at anchor in the river off Bangkok. The British government mail has been allowed to pass but mercantile correspondence with Siamese firms has been cut off. An effort is making, therefore, to render efficient an overland postal service via Tavoy and Rangoon.

The French have seized the Siamese mail steamer Shantaborn and the Hong Kong steamer Phra Chula with 400 Chinese aboard her. The Phra Chula eventually was allowed to land her passengers and cargo here.

PARIS, July 31.—The Figaro says that England has suffered a moral if not a material check. Her influence in the far east is diminished to the extent that French influence is increased. The Estafette thinks that Great Britain, as well as Siam, built false hopes early in the dispute on the supposition that France would show hesitation and weakness.

LONDON, July 31.—The Daily Graphic says editorially:

"Siam acted with undoubted wisdom. Between the paths of Great Britain and the hostility of France she had no choice. On the surface it looks as if Great Britain arranged a check to her prestige in only arranging effectually to safeguard British commercial interests. Now a protectorate over the whole of Siam west of the Mekong is necessary to restore this prestige. Anything short of this would be a humiliating defeat for England."

"The Morning Post says editorially: 'The imbroglio cannot be regarded as abolished by the acceptance of the ultimatum. It seems merely to have entered a fresh stage of development. Great Britain and possibly China being substituted for Siam in the final settlement.'"

The Daily News understands that a meeting of the cabinet will be held today to consider the questions arising from the Siamese difficulties. "Siam's acceptance of France's ultimatum, of course, has done a good deal to diminish anxiety," says the News, "but it has by no means settled the difficulty between France and this country."

IMPALED ON A LEVER.

Horrible Injuries Received by a Lady in Chicago Result in Her Death.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A peculiar accident which resulted in the death of a woman and serious injury to three others occurred at the east end of the Harrison street bridge Saturday afternoon. An open car approached the bridge at a good rate of speed. As the car struck the east end of the bridge the latter shook and swayed up and down for a moment. The heavy pointed hardwood tightening lever, the east end of the bridge fell from its fastenings and swung around directly against the right side of the car.

Miss Nellie Riordan, of 14 Selden street, sat near the right hand end of a seat near the middle of the car, and the pointed end of the lever struck her in the groin, passed through her body, and made a hole in the back of the seat in which she was sitting. The lever extended 20 inches through the body of the woman, pinning her to the fragment of the seat left unbroken by the fearful crash. The driver had at this time obtained control of his horse and brought the car to a stop. Witnesses of the accident ran up and were horrified by the fearful sight presented by the impaled woman. Blood was pouring from the wound in her side and flowing on the floor of the car. A physician who was summoned from a house near by said the woman would bleed to death if the lever was withdrawn from her body. A saw was procured and the lever was sawed off two feet from Miss Riordan's body.

The woman with a portion of the lever still penetrating her body, was conveyed to the county hospital. The attending physician said she would probably bleed to death as soon as the piece of lever was removed. A priest and her friends were sent for, and restoratives were applied. Miss Riordan regained consciousness and was told that she would probably soon die. She took a farewell of her friends after the priest had given her absolution. The hospital surgeons then removed the piece of lever from her body, after which she sank rapidly and in a few minutes died from loss of blood.

The flying splinters made by the bridge lever as it crashed through the seats of the car endangered many lives. Along, sharp splinter struck Miss Maggie Casey, Miss Annie Dexter and Mrs. Maggie Ashcroft, who were seriously injured but will probably recover.

John Stanton, an inventor of a device for holding bridges, was arrested and taken to the Harrison street station charged with causing the accident. It is asserted that he was preparing to try his device on the bridge and had left the lever in an unsafe position.

STOLE $10,000.

How a Thieving Bank Teller in Paterson, N. J., Feathered His Nest.

PATERSON, N. J., July 31.—A defalcation of $10,650 has been discovered in the cash of the First national bank of this city. The money has been abstracted since July 1. The loss was discovered by United States Bank Examiner George W. Stone in an official examination last Friday. He informed the officers of the bank and went before Alfred Van Hovenberg, commissioner of the circuit court of New Jersey, and made a complaint against Abraham Fardon, the paying teller. The latter was arrested Saturday evening and committed to the county jail. The money was taken from four packages containing $5,000 each. Ten-dollar bills were abstracted from them and replaced with one-dollar bills. The bank is insured with the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York for $10,000, leaving a loss to the bank of only $650, which on Saturday was charged to profit and loss by the directors. The defaulter, teller is 50 years old and unmarried. He has been connected with the bank for twenty-five years and some years ago was cashier of it. He has always been considered an upright man and had the confidence of the officers and depositors of the bank. He admitted that he was responsible for the loss of the money and asked that he be committed to prison.

GOLD IS COMING BACK.

Export Movement of Breadstuffs and Securities Begun Which Can Only Result in Good to the Country.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A great deal of encouragement is to be derived from the fact that securities and staple products are now going out from the country in large quantities and have already brought about a return movement of the gold which Europe has acquired from us during the last two years. In the opinion of bankers most competent to judge of the absolute requirements of Europe and also of the temper of its investors, an export movement of breadstuffs and securities has begun, which is likely to result in the return to this country of $50,000,000 or more of the gold taken from it during the last two or three years. Imports of specie on Saturday were $260,000, and it is learned that $1,250,000 more was secured in London for shipment to this city.

Caught in His Own Trap.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 31.—The mysterious death of H. J. Hedland, the anarchist, who was burned in his house, has been explained by his wife. She confessed he burned the house in order to obtain the $1,100 insurance on it, and before he could escape was cremated.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

CONVENIENT BARN.

Adapted for the Keeping of Sheep and Dairy Cows.

The accompanying illustrations are of a farm barn that gives the most room for the storage of hay and fodder to be found in any that could be devised. The square construction and flat roof give the entire floor free for the storage of stock, while the cellar underneath can be utilized for the storing of feed. The entire floor can be used for the storage of the feed consumed by the stock, and for the storage of the manure, the root cellar being, of course,

Such a barn is excellently adapted for the keeping of sheep, three sides of which are devoted to the pens for these, the feeding of all the sheep can be done from the main floor; or it can be very well made to serve the purpose of a dairy barn, with a silo in one corner, extending from a cemented floor in the cellar to the hay and fodder floor. When arranged for sheep, the pen can be advantageously arranged, as shown in Fig. 2, each pen having communication with the neighboring pen, and also with the feeding floor.

An inside feeding rack may be used, in which hay and other fodder can be placed directly from the feeding floor, and this in some respects, is the best plan to pursue, for it permits a tight ward fence between the feeding floor and the pens, to a height of three feet, thus keeping the lambs from coming through from the pens to the feeding floor and soiling the floor and feed. But if the flocks are fed directly from this floor, let a perpendicular opening be provided for each sheep to feed through, rather than the long horizontal opening provided by the removal of one board from the partition, which is so commonly seen, but which necessitates the wearing off of all the wool above the sheep's necks, to the loss of the wool and to the sheep's manifest discomfort. These upright openings can be made by removing at least two boards from the partition, and using slats, or rounds just far enough apart to admit a sheep's head and neck with the greatest comfort. If the barn is to be used for dairy purposes, an interior arrangement, such as is seen in Fig. 3, will be found convenient. In either case hay and fodder is placed in the second story by driving the hay carts into the central feeding floor and raising their contents through a central well, or large opening in the center of the second story floor by means of a fork, this well being properly protected by a tight wall around it four feet or more in height. To make it impossible for children to fall through such an opening, even though protected by a high wall, the opening may be covered, when not in use, by a hinged door. —D. Worcester, in Agriculturalist.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

When a sheep dies it leaves enough to pay its debts.

Keep the horse collars kept off and free from dirt or sore shoulders will be sure to result.

Keep lambs growing well during the first year by giving them the choicest pasture with some grain.

Give the work horses plenty of grain and with enough protein or muscle forming food to keep them in condition.

Give sheep a handy shelter into which they can go in case of storms. A wet fleece is one of the sheep's worst enemies.

Give calves milk which has been brought to blood heat. Cold milk, sour milk and too large quantities of it at a time are some of the fruitful causes of scours.

It is possible to give the bull the range of good sized pasture. If this is impractical, at least build a large paddock for him to exercise in and supply him with succulent food. —Orange Judd Farmer.

Use of the Harrow.

When wheat is to follow corn, potatoes or beans the breaking plow may often be dispensed with provided the soil is in good condition. A disk harrow will cut from four to six inches deep and make a fine, loose soil, which may be easily compacted by the roller. This will reduce the cost of preparation very materially and sometimes save many valuable days.

VENTILATING HIVES.

There Is Really Little Danger of Chilling the Brood in Summer.

I have always had more or less trouble every season with combs melting down and causing the bees to leave the hive. Swarms that are hived on empty combs and extracting supers often break down, especially if they are set in the sun. In the majority of my frames the combs are not wired in, but built from "starters." I am not sure but that it is more economical in the end to have combs built from full sheets of foundation that have been firmly braced by line wire. I have never had any trouble with such combs, but the cost is considerably more than when built from "starters."

Some of my hives are exposed to the sun, and when large swarms are placed on unwired combs they are very apt to break down unless well ventilated or shaded. Extracting supers are still worse, for when the combs are nearly filled with honey and break it makes a very nasty, sticky mess. By giving thorough ventilation we can overcome this trouble to a great extent. I often raise the hive about one-half inch from the bottom board, and also raise the cover. This gives a direct draft clear through the hive. Generally, it will be sufficient to raise the cover daily. Sometimes, during heavy wind storms, they will blow off unless a weight is put on them. I have had colonies get quite a drenching by the cover getting blown off; but never could see that it did them any injury, as they can quickly dry themselves.

On a warm day we can always see quite a number of bees at the entrance, rapidly moving their wings; evidently they are trying to create a current of air through the hive, perhaps, for two purposes—to ripen newly gathered honey, and to keep the hive at the proper temperature.

I have seen statements where the writer thought they were young bees testing their wings. It may be, but I think the main object is to ripen honey and ventilate the hive. They are much more noticeable in strong colonies than in weak ones, and the strong ones generate much more heat. I have my bees in the shade when convenient, and also ventilate them.

There is no danger in chilling the brood, or making the wax too cool for them to work unless the weather is very cool. This applies to the honey season only, or when the weather is pretty warm, and not for spring or fall treatment. —E. S. Mead, in Ohio Farmer.

DRINKING FOUNTAIN.

How One Poultryman Utilized an Old Quart Bottle.

An inexpensive drinking fountain may be made by fastening an ordinary quart bottle to a board, as shown in the illustration. A being the board and B the clamps which hold the bottle in place. A hook or loop at the top of the board will serve to hang the bottle to the wall of the poultry house. A piece of wire should be attached to the mouth of the bottle to prevent the bottle from resting on the bottom of the drinking pan underneath. Fill the bottle with water, turn it upside down in the pan, and the pressure of the atmosphere will prevent the water from flowing out of the bottle, only as it is lowered by the drinking of the water by the fowls. If preferred, the clamps (B B) may be attached to a post or to the wall, and the bottle removed from the clamps when filled. —Farm and Fireside.

How to Introduce Queens.

The following directions are given for introducing queens: After removing the cover, note the condition of the queen, and if she is all right, proceed to introduce her. First remove the slip of card from the end of the cage containing the candy. Lay the cage on the frames directly over the cluster, wire-cloth down, so the bees can become acquainted with the queen; cover the cage with the enameled cloth, or quilt, put on the cover, and do not molest the hive under any circumstances for five days, at which time you will likely find her out and laying. If you have a flat cover on your hive, just tack a thin strip of wood across the back of the cage, spread the frames, and hang the cage, face down, between the frames. Before introducing, be sure your colony is queenless.

After the wheat is harvested, sow a small patch of buckwheat for the bees, plowing under the stubble and putting on broadcast.

The Cool, Cool Rain.

O, the cool, cool rain on the dusty street,
With scents of the valley and plain,
And the freshened breeze in the thankful trees
Whose wet leaves laugh in the rain!
How the panting lilies lean their lips
And quench their thirst as it beats and drips!

O, the cool, cool rain as it rushes down
From the broken heart of the cloud!
How it bathes the roofs in the blazing town
To the peal of the thunder loud!
How its rapid rivulets leap and play
And cool the steps of the burning day!

O, the cool, cool rain, with its brightening drops
On the hill and the fervid vale!
Its welcome fall on the thirsty crops,
Its balm in the breathing gale!
Rejoice, O, city, and sing, O, plain,
In the fall and call of the cooling rain!

Wide Awake.

The August number of this delightful magazine is much larger than usual—containing 150 pages of reading matter. Perhaps the "Story of WIDE AWAKE" may be considered the leading article of the number. It is a graphic account of the magazine, from its very beginning to the present time. A fine frontispiece portrait of the late Daniel Lothrop, the founder of WIDE AWAKE, most fitly opens this farewell number.

Among the more notable stories and articles may be mentioned "A Race for Life," by John Willis Hays, a thrilling Indian tale; "The North Chamber," by Louisa T. Craiglin, and "The Thrilling Story of Capt. Noman," by Charles R. Talbot; "Concord Dramatics," by George B. Bartlett, will interest all lovers of Louisa Alcott's "Little Women" stories.

With this great Midsummer issue, WIDE AWAKE ceases to be a separate publication, and bids farewell to its thousands of readers.

This new departure is explained in the article "The Story of WIDE AWAKE." The D. Lothrop Company have made arrangements to merge WIDE AWAKE into St. Nicholas.

The price of this number is 20 cents. For sale at news stands; or mailed by D. Lothrop Company, Boston, on receipt of price.

Nothing but ultimate injury can be reasonably expected from such medicines, and yet, upon the smallest occasion, many unwise people use them repeatedly. If the bowels are constipated, the most efficacious laxative is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which never convulses and gripes the intestines, while it thoroughly regulates them and insures healthful action of the liver, stomach and kidneys. At Chicago Royal Leads All.

As the result of my tests, I find the ROYAL BAKING POWDER superior to all the others in every respect. It is entirely free from all adulteration and unwholesome impurity, and in baking it gives off a greater volume of leavening gas than any other powder. It is therefore not only the purest, but also the strongest powder with which I am acquainted.

Pure and Wholesome Quality
Commends to public approval the California liquid laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs. It is pleasant to the taste and by acting gently on the kidneys, liver and bowels to cleanse the system effectually. It promotes the health and comfort of all who use it, and with millions it is the best and only remedy.

Dairy Items.

Good calves can be raised cheaper than they can be bought.

A person known to always make a good quality of butter has no trouble in selling it at the best figures.

If a person who milks with dirty hands would reflect a little he would, or at least should be ashamed of himself.

When there is a regular market for butter at a good price it will pay to feed the cow bran, etc., during the summer.

No matter how good a milker the cow may be, she will become a poor milker unless she is fed and cared for properly.

To have good milk it must be properly cared for in its early stages. It will soon sour unless quickly cooled after milking.

A man after establishing a reputation as a grower of good dairy cows ought to make it pay raising cows to sell to dairymen.

"Royal Ruby" Port Wine.

If you are reduced in vitality or strength by illness or any other cause, we recommend the use of this Old Port Wine, the very blood of the grape. A grand tonic for nursing mothers, and those reduced by wasting disease. It creates strength; improves the appetite; nature's own remedy, much preferable to drugs, guaranteed absolutely pure and over five years of age. Young wine ordinarily sold is not fit to use. Insist on having this standard brand, it costs no more. $1 in quart bottles, pints 60 cents. Royal Wine Co. For sale by R. S. Armstrong & Co., Druggists.

Strength of Ice.

The necessities of war have not infrequently led to valuable discoveries of a practical scientific character. Of late the French minister of war has been studying the subject of ice from the point of view of its capacity to maintain weights.

He has found that when the ice has become about an inch and three-fifths (four centimeters) thick, it begins to bear the weight of a man who is marching alone. At a thickness of something over three and one-half inches (nine centimeters) it will bear files of infantry. When it has become twelve centimeters, or nearly four and three-quarter inches thick, it sustains light artillery or carriages, and at twenty-nine centimeters, or about eleven and four-tenths inches, it bears the heaviest weight that the transporting of an army requires.

These conclusions of the French military authorities may have some interest for skaters, but it should be remarked that they apply only to young ice. Successions of colder and warmer weather, in the course of a few weeks, produce a change in the structure of ice which greatly weakens its power of resistance to pressure. Accordingly, the measurements and estimates given above should not be trusted in the case of ice of recent formation.

Work for Clever Girls.

What can the clever country girls do to make a living for themselves and fee independent? Not long ago I was over in Eastern North Carolina and I found the question answered in some places I found some nice well educated girls cultivating small fruits and vegetables for market. They didn't plow the ground but they planted and hoed and weeded and gathered the crop. I saw an acre of strawberries that two sisters had planted and they made a fortune of it, that is, they went at it with a will and took a lively happy interest in it, and they gathered four thousand quarts and said they would get a thousand more, and they packed them in the little baskets and the baskets into crates and sent them North, and their average averaged thirty cents a quart. Their total expenses for hire of help and cost of baskets and freight to market was two hundred dollars, and this left a thousand for their work and watching and constant care. Well, those girls are proud and independent. Their father had five acres and he was making money—a good deal of money. I never saw a nicer business, nor one so simple and sure. The land was poor and sandy. The rows three feet apart. When the plants get well set a plow opens a furrow close by on each side and this furrow is nearly filled with cotton seed, and then the earth is thrown back on the cotton seed. After that the vines are mulched with fine straw and that is all. I never saw vines as small or berries as numerous. I counted two hundred and forty on one plant. They laid on one another. This vine had been picked three times and there were two hundred and forty left. They frequently picked a quart from three plants and left many not ripe. They pick till eight o'clock in the morning and the girls averaged fifteen quarts by that time. They begin again at four in the afternoon and get fifteen quarts more. When they hire pickers they pay two and a half cents a quart to girls and two cents to boys, for the girls are more careful and do not mash the berries nor spill them and do not eat every big nice one they come across.

But this is not all. These girls have got a crop of raspberries just behind and they will make two or three hundred dollars off of them, and they are growing currants and gooseberries and talk about going into potatoes and beans and grapes and all that; well, why not. Fruit growing is a nice business for girls and so is raising vegetables. Those girls have the advantage of ours for the market is nearer, but I have never seen the time that nice strawberries couldn't be sold at home for twenty cents, and that will make lots of money. And then again the exercise is so good for their health, and the occupation so cleanly and delicate and suits their nimble and delicate fingers so well. Woman was the first gardener we read about, that is to say she was the first to pick the fruit, and I have always thought she ought to have been forgiven, for her first thought when she found the fruit good was to give her husband some. But he, like an old rascal, went and laid the blame on her and tried to get out of the scrape. Now, there is a chance for our girls to make some money. Let them try a small patch, say one-fourth of an acre. Plant out in August and have a good crop of fruit next spring. It can be done. I heard a Nashville man say that two years ago there was no such business around Nashville as growing berries for Northern markets, but now there was one hundred and fifty bushels shipped a day from one town, the town of Franklin, and they netted twenty cents a quart or six dollars a bushel, and the girls did most of the work. I wish the dear creatures were all rich enough to live without work and only had to work when they felt like it, and I never see ladies of culture and refinement doing drudgery but what it shocks my humanity, and I want a society established for the prevention of cruelty to angels. But work is the common lot for man, and for woman too, and I reckon they are happier for it.—Bill Arp, in Atlanta Constitution.

Dog Teams in Idaho.

During the day of my arrival I saw a few men sweating under the labor of pulling two sacks of flour on a toboggan, and several dog teams. These dog teams are amusing, if not admirable, as a means of transporting freight. They are made up of Indian dogs, collies, mongrels, scrub yelpers, Newfoundland and mastiffs, with now and then a bull-dog. The driver goes behind and urges them on with snow-balls, now and then finding it necessary to go forward and make a lazy cow work up to his collar by giving him the bight of a packing rope. Poor brute! Probably it is his only bight of any kind for many hours. I asked one dog team man what he fed his dogs, and he said:

"Tallow and Indian meal."

"Are they trained?"

"No; we pick up all sorts of dogs and work them in very soon by putting a good dog on the lead."

"Do they ever balk?"

"No; dogs is the blindest fools in the world, while they is the sagaciousest animals. Why, them dogs near about pull their toe-nails off comin' up a steep hill, they bark out their delight when I go up and pat them on the head and call them 'good dogs.' Horses or no other animals won't be fed on such taffy. Why, these dogs will stand it to be cussed for miles and then be tickled to death at a pat on the head."

The merchants say the dog teams spoil goods like the mischief. They are all the time tipping them over and rolling them around.—Cor. Philadelphia

He and several other chaps heard a poor woman in a miserable shanty praying for bread, and it was suggested that they procure a dozen loaves and throw them down the chimney. This was done, and after awhile the boys knocked at the door and asked: "Well, auntie, did the Lord send you any bread?" "Yes, indeed," was the reply, "and he made the devil's children bring it!"—Oil City Derrick.

With heart aching and eyes ablaze He drew much nearer than before, When, to his horror and amazement, He saw "To Let" upon the door.
