IN AN UPROAR.

An Exciting Session of the House—Crisp and Reed in a Wrangle.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—An interpretation of the rules which brought forth the remarks from Mr. Reed and Mr. Crisp led to an exciting scene Thursday in the house. After the reception of the president's message a vote on the pending motion, the Joy-O'Neill contested election case was had, and resulted 154 to 11, fourteen short of a quorum. Of the eleven who voted against the motion (in effect against giving O'Neill the seat) ten were democrats.

Then came more filibustering, and Mr. Patterson offered a resolution to revoke the leave of absence and instruct the sergeant-at-arms to take the absentees into custody.

Mr. Reed took the floor and in a brief speech scored the democratic side, dwelling particularly upon the absurdity of a proceeding which aimed at procuring a quorum by duress and after one was secured left the house powerless to record its presence.

Something in what Mr. Reed said evidently stung Speaker Crisp, who was on the floor at the time, and when the ex-speaker sat down Speaker Crisp arose. The speaker said he only wanted to call attention to the persistence with which the leader of the minority (Mr. Reed) had called attention to the absolute iniquity of the practice of members in refusing to vote when their names were called. Mr. Reed, Speaker Crisp went on, had placed his party in a position when he made his quorum counting ruling where it either had to sustain that ruling or renounce him. But, continued Mr. Crisp, when Mr. Reed had once made the ruling his party was forced to sustain him. The speaker proceeded to picture the absolute power of the ex-speaker over his side of the house.

Mr. Reed expressed a desire to reply to the speaker but his time had expired and he was not permitted to do so. He then asked for a division of the resolution, but Mr. Stone (Ky.) in the chair ruled that the proposition was not divisible. Party feeling had been aroused by the remarks of Mr. Reed and Speaker Crisp and the republicans began filibustering with redoubled vigor, in the course of which Mr. Lacey appealed from a decision of the chair. The speaker refused to entertain the appeal. Mr. Reed, standing in the center aisle, insisted on knowing the grounds upon which the speaker declined to sustain the appeal, but the speaker only rapped with his gavel and declined emphatically to state the grounds. Mr. Payne moved to adjourn, and the speaker declined to entertain this motion.

By this time the members on both sides were wildly excited. Partisan blood was at fever heat, and for several minutes pandemonium reigned. From all parts of the floor members were shouting their defiance, and several personal collisions were narrowly averted. "I rise to a question of order," shouted Mr. Payne.

"And the chair refuses to recognize the gentleman for that purpose," returned the speaker. "The question is on the adoption of the resolution instructing the sergeant-at-arms to arrest absentees; as many as favor it will say aye, contrary, no."

In the midst of the chorus of voices that followed Messrs. Payne, Boutelle and Reed were on their feet clamoring for recognition. The speaker refused to recognize them. "Tellers!" shouted Mr. Payne. Pending that motion he moved to adjourn. The speaker declined to entertain the motion. Mr. Reed loudly insisted on his right to know why, but the speaker replied by ordering him to take his seat.

Mr. Patterson called for the ayes and noes, and Mr. Payne demanded tellers on the motion. The speaker appointed Mr. Patterson and Mr. Payne. The latter was still clamoring to be recognized on his point of order. The speaker ordered Mr. Payne to take his place as teller. Mr. Payne declined to serve.

"The chair then appoints the gentleman from Maine," said the speaker. Mr. Reed was wild with rage. "I decline to serve," said he.

"The gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. Patterson) will act alone." The democrats raised a cheer as the speaker said this, and moved rapidly past him in single file to be counted.

When a sufficient number had been counted by Mr. Patterson to order the ayes and noes the announcement was made. In a chorus the republicans were protesting against this irregularity and Mr. Reed in a loud voice declared that the chair knew the rules required two tellers.

"The house understands the circumstances," replied Speaker Crisp, firmly. "The chair takes all the consequences."

The scene reminded the old members of the Fifty-first congress. Mr. Payne was still talking loudly in the aisle as the clerk began calling the roll. He was ordered to take his seat and replied that he would do so when he got ready. The speaker met this retort by declaring that he was ready to entertain a motion to bring the gentleman to the bar of the house for contumely.

Mr. Outwaite and Mr. Boutelle, in the general confusion that followed, were engaged in a wordy duel, and Mr. Outwaite threatened to move that Mr. Boutelle be called to the bar for contempt. The speaker decided that such proceedings could not interrupt a roll call, but upon its completion they were not renewed. The resolution was adopted—164 to 8. The house adjourned.

A Narrow Escape

Took Poison by Mistake

Bad Effects Entirely Eliminated by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen—In April last, through the effects of a dose of strychnine taken in mistake for another drug, I was laid up in St. John, N. B., for ten days. After this I never seemed to regain my former health, and continually suffered from indigestion and heart palpitation, for which I could get no relief. I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla. After taking one bottle, I felt a little better, so continued using the remedy until I had consumed six bottles. I found myself gaining strength and flesh every day, and am now as healthy as I was before taking the poison.' F. V. WARMOLT, representing the Seely Perfumes, 30 Melbourne Avenue, Toronto, Ontario."

After severing his connection with that concern, he established the Chelsea Planing and Saw Mill, which he still continues to run. Mr. Lighthall is a democrat whose exertions have added strength to his party in this county. He has acceptably filled a number of village offices. Socially he is as pleasant as a bright June morning. Brides nowadays are sweet things, and "sweet to the sweet" is all right so far as it goes, but the girl ought to shut off her yearning for candy after the honeymoon at least. No man wants a wife who makes a mere candy-hopper of herself. She is bound to sour on the situation some time, particularly if the flow of taffy happens to run short. The wife with a sugar tooth is a perpetual menace in a household. So is the wife with a chewing-gum jaw.

Last Monday, (election day) was the day when a man's income could not be judged by the number of cigars that he smoked. In fact, constant use of the weed on that day, is a pretty good sign that a man using it has no income at all. But it gives the poor man, the stingy man, and the man who ordinarily smokes the clay pipe, the chance to put on all the airs of a millionaire and reasoning from a quantity standpoint, if not from the quality, he could make just as good appearance around the polls as the man who was furnishing the money to hold his favor.

It has become certain that fruit, even apples, cannot be grown without spraying to prevent destruction by insects, says the Jackson Patriot. To meet this new necessity it is suggested by some of the agricultural journals that in each fruit growing section some competent man should have charge of the matter of spraying the trees and vines, in order to destroy insect pests. This would not prevent any enterprising fruit grower from using other precautions or of spraying oftener, if he so desires, but it would be a safeguard against the negligent fruit-growers, who annually allow insects to be propagated to the injury of the crops of their neighbors.

The Democrats of Lyndon had it all their own way this spring, the Democrat ticket being the only one in the field. The following are the officers elected; Supervisor, Thomas Young, Jr.; Township Clerk, Charles W. Miller; Township Treasurer, George A. Runciman; Highway Commissioner, William J. Howlett; Justice of the Peace, full term, Edwin C. May; Justices of the Peace, fill vacancy, Henry V. Heatly and James Canfield; Drain Commissioner, Dick Clark, School Inspector, Delancy Cooper; Member Board Review, William E. Wessels; Constables, James Moran, William McIntee, Francis Beeman and Charles Staphish.

Died at his home in Lyndon, Washtenaw county, Mich., March 22, 1894, of pneumonia, Lewis S. Hadley, aged 43 years, 6 months and 22 days. The deceased was born in Lyndon, Aug. 30, 1850, and was the fourth in the order of birth of a family consisting of 13 children. He had been sick nearly all winter with the grippe and about two weeks ago pneumonia set in resulting in his death. Mr. Hadley has lived in Isoco, and Crawford county, Michigan, and lastly at Lyndon, Washtenaw county. He leaves a wife and 8 children to mourn their loss. The funeral was held in the M. E. church, Sunday, March 25, 1894 and the burial was at the Base Line Cemetery.—Stockbridge Sun.

Lima Beans.

Mrs. A. Beach's father, Mr. D. Dixon is quite low.

Mrs. L. Ward has been quite sick, but was better at last report.

The Lima Band came out and played election night to cheer up the defeated ones.

Election passed off quietly but there was lots of electioneering just the same. The Democrats succeeded in electing their Supervisor and 3 constables.

On account of the bad weather last Wednesday night, the Lima Band postponed their dance and will have a dance in the Town Hall, Friday night, April 6, 1894.

The Lima Band attended the wedding of Mr. Bahmiller and Miss Lindauer at the home of Geo. Lindauer last Thursday evening. While the band and guests were eating supper they were serenaded by a band (of horners) from outside who were treated to cake, etc., but this failed to satisfy them and when their leader or captain announced that they would all play "Home, Sweet Home," some were more in favor of "We Won't Go Home 'till Morning." Finally the captain waxed wrath, bit his tongue and embraced several of his party for disobeying his solemn commands.

North Lake Breezes.

Owners of sugar bushes will have another run of sap after this nip.

There is talk of a meeting soon to fix up the cemetery here, which is badly in need of repairs. All interested will be expected to come out at first call.

Mr. E. Brown is the Champion wood merchant in this vicinity. In fact, Chelsea would be a cold place without him. Mr. Geo. Webb is a close rival in the business.

March 24th your scribe rushed the season a little, and planted a patch of potatoes. Monday morning following the ground was froze solid enough to hold up a heavy team of horses. Now don't you think there will be a show for some early potatoes, if any.

B. H. Glenn presented your scribe's family with a lot of large fine flavored oranges, sent from Florida by Alfred Glenn. They were from his own trees and showed high cultivation. My! how happy he must be. Winter south, summer north, and not married.

After testing other points on the M. C. R. R. several have come to the conclusion that Chelsea is the best trading point, the business men more accommodating, and prices as good or better than most any other point on the road. If you try it you will be convinced, and thereafter deal at Chelsea.

The question often arises, "Is it cheaper to have wood cut by the old method of crosscut and bucksaw or by buzzsaw?" With crosscuts, run by one man, two men recently cut, split and piled 1 1/2 cords in one hour. That would be at the rate of 12 cords per day of 10 hours length for two men, or six cords per man. Now allowing five men and four horses at $1.00 each and $2.00 for use of saw, you have $11.00 or eleven days. Used the old way would, at 6 cords per day, per man, amount to sixty-six cords split and piled. Would the buzzsaw saw enough more to make up for the splitting and piling? Who will make an estimate and answer?

The manors aggregated more than 500,000 acres, and included some of the finest lands in Pennsylvania.

VETOED.

The President Refuses to Sign the Seigniorage Bill.

He Sends a Message to Congress Giving in Detail His Reasons for This Action—He Says the Bill is Neither Wise Nor Opportune—Full Text of the Veto.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The following is the full text of the president's message vetoing the Bland seigniorage bill:

To the House of Representatives: I return without my approval house bill numbered 4936, entitled "An act directing the coinage of the silver bullion held in the treasury and for other purposes."

My strong desire to avoid disagreement with those in both houses of congress who have supported this bill, would lead me to approve it if I could believe that the public good would not be thereby endangered and that such action on my part would be a proper discharge of official duty. Inasmuch, however, as I am unable to satisfy myself that the proposed legislation is either wise or opportune, my conception of the obligations and responsibilities attached to the great office I hold forbids the indulgence of my personal desire, and inexorably confines me to that course which is dictated by my reason and judgment, and pointed out by a sincere purpose to protect and promote the general interests of our people.

The financial disturbance which swept over the country during the last year was unparalleled in its severity and disastrous consequences.

There seemed to be almost an entire displacement of faith in our financial ability and a loss of confidence in our fiscal policy. Among those who attempted to assign causes for our distress it was very generally conceded that the operation of a provision of law then in force which required the government to purchase monthly a large amount of silver bullion and issue its notes in payments therefor, was either entirely, or to a large extent, responsible for our condition. This led to the repeal on the 1st day of November, 1893, of this statutory provision. We had, however, fallen so low in the depths of depression, and timidity and apprehension had so completely gained control in financial circles that our rapid recuperation could not be reasonably expected.

Our recovery has, nevertheless, steadily progressed, and though less than five months have elapsed since the repeal of the mischievous silver purchase requirement, a wholesome improvement is unmistakably apparent. Confidence in our absolute solvency is to such an extent reinstated and faith in our disposition to adhere to sound financial methods is so far restored as to produce the most encouraging results both at home and abroad. The wheels of domestic industry have been slowly set in motion and the tide of foreign investment has again started in our direction.

Our recovery being so well under way, nothing should be done to check our convalescence; nor should we forget that a relapse at this time would almost surely reduce us to a lower stage of financial distress than from which we are just emerging. I believe that if the bill under consideration should become a law it would be regarded as a retrogression from the financial intentions indicated by our recent repeal of the provision forcing silver bullion purchases; that it would weaken, if it did not destroy, returning faith and confidence in our sound financial tendencies and that as a consequence our progress to renewed business health would be unfortunately checked and a return to our recent distressing plight seriously threatened.

This proposed legislation is so related to the currency conditions growing out of the law compelling the purchase of silver by the government, that a glance at such conditions and a partial review of the law referred to, may not be unprofitable.

Between the 14th day of August, 1890, when the law became operative, and the 1st day of November, 1893, when the clause it contained directing the purchase of silver was repealed, there were purchased by the secretary of the treasury more than 168,000,000 ounces of silver bullion. In payment for this bullion the government issued its treasury notes of various denominations, amounting to nearly $156,000,000, which notes were immediately added to the currency in circulation among our people. Such notes were by the law made legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except when otherwise expressly stipulated, and were made receivable for customs, taxes and all public dues, and when so received might be reissued. They were also permitted to be held by the banking associations as a part of their lawful reserves.

On the demand of the holders these treasury notes were to be redeemed in gold or silver coin in the discretion of the secretary of the treasury; but it was declared as a part of this redemption provision that it was "the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be provided by law."

The money coined from such bullion was to be standard silver dollars, and after directing the immediate coinage of a little less than 28,000,000 ounces, the law provided that as much of the remaining bullion should be thereafter coined as might be necessary to provide for the redemption of the treasury notes issued on its purchase, and that "any gain or seigniorage arising from such coinage shall be accounted for and paid into the treasury."

This gain or seigniorage indicates so much of the bullion owned by the government as should remain after using a sufficient amount to coin as many standard silver dollars as should equal in number the dollars represented by the treasury notes issued in payment of the entire quantity of bullion. These treasury notes now outstanding and in circulation amount to $152,951,280, and although there has been thus far but a comparatively small amount of this bullion coined yet the so-called gain or seigniorage as above defined, which would arise from the coinage of the entire mass, has been been easily ascertained to be a quantity of bullion sufficient to make when coined fifty-five millions, one hundred and fifty-six thousand, six hundred and eighty-one standard dollars. Considering the present intrinsic relation between gold and silver, the maintenance of the parity between the two metals, as mentioned in this law, can mean nothing less than the maintenance of such a parity in the estimation and confidence of the people who use our money in their daily transactions.

Manifestly the maintenance of this parity can only be accomplished, so far as it is affected by these treasury notes, and in the estimation of the holders of the same, by giving to such holders, on their redemption, the coin, whether it is gold or silver, which they prefer. It follows that while in terms the law leaves the choice of coin to be paid on such redemption to the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, the exercise of this discretion, if opposed to the wish of the holder, is entirely inconsistent with the effective and beneficial maintenance of the parity between the two metals.

If both gold and silver are to serve us as money, and if they together are to supply our people a safe and stable currency, the necessity of preserving this parity is obvious. Such necessity has been repeatedly conceded in the platforms of both political parties and in our federal statutes. It is nowhere more emphatically recognized than in the recent law which repealed the provision under which the bullion now on hand was purchased. This law insists upon the "maintenance of the parity in value of the coins of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in the payment of debts."

The secretary of the treasury has, therefore, for the best of reasons not only promptly complied with every demand for the resumption of these treasury notes in gold, but the present situation, as well as the letter and spirit of the law, appear plainly to justify, if they do not enjoin upon him, a continuation of such redemption. The conditions I have endeavored to present may be thus summarized:

First—The government has purchased and now has on hand sufficient silver bullion to permit the coinage of all the silver dollars necessary to redeem, in such dollars, the treasury notes issued for the purchase of said silver bullion and enough besides to coin, as gain seigniorage, 55,156,681 additional standard silver dollars.

Second—There are outstanding and now in circulation treasury notes issued in payment of the bullion purchased amounting to $152,951,280. These notes are legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except when otherwise expressly stipulated, they are receivable for customs, taxes and all public dues; when held by banking associations they may be counted as part of their lawful reserves and they are redeemed by the government in gold at the option of the holders. These advantageous attributes were deliberately attached to these notes at the time of their issue; they are fully understood by our people to whom such notes have been distributed as currency and have inspired confidence in their safety and value and have undoubtedly thus induced their continued and contented use as money, instead of anxiety for their redemption.

Having referred to some incidents which I deem relevant to the subject, it remains for me to submit a specific statement of my objections to the bill now under consideration. This bill consists of two sections, excluding one which merely appropriates a sum sufficient to carry the act into effect. The first section provides for the immediate coinage of the silver bullion in the treasury which represents the so-called gain or seigniorage which would arise from the coinage of all the bullion on hand, which gain or seigniorage this section declares to be $55,156,681. It directs that the money so coined, or the certificates issued thereon, shall be used in the payment of public expenditures, and provides that if the needs of the treasury demand it, the secretary of the treasury may, in his discretion, issue silver certificates in excess of such coinage, not exceeding the amount of seigniorage in said section authorized to be coined.

The second section directs that as soon as possible after the coinage of this seigniorage the remainder of the bullion held by the government shall be coined into legal tender standard silver dollars and that they shall be held in the treasury for the redemption of the treasury notes issued in the purchase of said bullion. It provides that as fast as the bullion shall be coined for the redemption of said notes they shall not be reissued, but shall be canceled and destroyed in amounts equal to the coin held at any time in the treasury derived from the coinage provided for, and that silver certificates shall be issued on such coin in the manner now provided by law. It, however, especially declared in said section that the act shall not be construed to change existing laws relating to the legal tender character or mode of redemption of the treasury notes issued for the purchase of silver bullion to be coined.

The entire bill is most unfortunately constructed. Nearly every sentence presents uncertainty and invited controversy as to its meaning and intent. The first section is especially faulty in this respect, and it is extremely doubtful whether its language will permit the consummation of its supposed purposes. I am led to believe that the promoters of the bill intended in this section to provide for the coinage of the bullion constituting the gain or seigniorage as it is called, into standard silver dollars; and yet there is positively nothing in the section to prevent its coinage into any description of silver coins now authorized under any existing law. I suppose this section was also intended, in case the needs of the treasury called for money faster than the seigniorage bullion could actually be coined, to permit the issue of silver certificates in advance of such coinage; but its language would seem to permit the issuance of such certificates to double the amount seigniorage as stated, one-half of which would not represent an ounce of silver in the treasury.

The debate on this section in the congress developed an earnest and positive difference of opinions as to its object and meaning. In any event I am clear that the present perplexities and embarrassments of the secretary of the treasury ought not to be augmented by devolving upon him the execution of a law so uncertain and confused.

I am not willing, however, to rest my objection to this section solely on these grounds: in my judgment sound finance does not commend a further infusion of silver into our currency at this time unaccompanied by further adequate provision for the maintenance in our treasury of a safe gold reserve.

Whatever else may be said of the uncertainty of expression in this bill, they certainly ought not to be found in legislation affecting subjects so important and far-reaching as our finances and currency. In stating other and more important relations for my disapproval of this section, I shall, however, assume that under its provisions the treasury notes issued in payment for silver bullion will continue to be redeemed as heretofore, in silver or gold, at the option of the holders; and that if when they are presented for redemption, or reach the treasury in any other manner, there are in the treasury coined silver dollars equal in nominal value to such treasury notes, then and in that case, the notes will be destroyed and silver certificates to an equal amount be substituted. I am convinced that this scheme is ill-advised and dangerous.

We have now outstanding more than $338,000,000 in silver certificates issued under existing laws. They are serving the purpose of money usefully and without question. Our gold reserve, amounting to a little more than $100,000,000, is directly charged with the redemption of $346,000,000 of United States notes. When it is proposed to inflate our silver currency it is a time for strengthening our gold reserve instead of depleting it. I cannot conceive of a longer step toward silver monometallism; than we take when we spend our gold to buy silver certificates for circulation, especially in view of the practical difficulties surrounding the replenishment of our gold.

This leads me to earnestly present the desirability of granting to the secretary of the treasury a better power than now exists to issue bonds to protect our gold reserve when for any reason it should be necessary. Our currency is in such a confused condition and our financial affairs are apt to assume at any time so critical a position that it seems to me such a course is dictated by ordinary prudence.

I am not insensible to the arguments in favor of coining the bullion seigniorage now in the treasury and I believe it could be done safely and with advantage if the secretary of the treasury had the power to issue bonds at a low rate of interest under authority in substitution of that now existing and better suited to the protection of the treasury.

I hope a way will present itself in the near future for the adjustment of our monetary affairs in such a comprehensive and conservative manner as will accord to silver its proper place in our currency; but in the meantime I am extremely solicitous that whatever action we take on this subject may be such as to prevent loss and discouragement to our people at home and the destruction of confidence in our financial management abroad.

GROVER CLEVELAND.
EXECUTIVE MANSION, March 29, 1894.

It will, perhaps, require a little stretch of the imagination on the part of the reader to recognize the fact that the two portraits at the head of this article are of the same individual; and yet they are truthful sketches made from photographs, taken only a few months apart, of a very much esteemed citizen of Illinois—Mr. C. H. Harris, whose address is No. 1,622 Second Avenue, Rock Island, Ill. The following extract from a letter written by Mr. Harris explains the marvelous change in his personal appearance. He writes: "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery saved my life and has made me a man. My home physician says I am good for forty years yet. You will remember that I was just between life and death, and all of my friends were sure it was a case of death, until I commenced taking a second bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' when I became able to sit up and the cough was very much better, and before I had taken six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' my cough ceased and I was a new man and ready for business."

I now feel that it is a duty that I owe to my fellow-men to recommend to them the 'Golden Medical Discovery' which saved my life when doctors and all other medicines failed to do me any good.

I send to you with this letter two of my photographs; one taken a few weeks before I was taken down sick in bed, and the other was taken after I was well. These two photographs are faithfully re-produced at the head of this article.

Mr. Harris's experience in the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not an exceptional one. Thousands of eminent people in all parts of the world testify, in just as emphatic language, to its marvelous curative powers over all chronic bronchial, throat and lung diseases, chronic nasal catarrh, asthma, and kindred diseases.

Eminent physicians prescribe "Golden Medical Discovery" when any of their dear ones' lives are imperiled by that dread disease, Consumption. Under such circumstances only the most reliable remedy would be depended upon. The following letter is to the point. It is from an eminent physician of Stamps, Lafayette Co., Ark. He says: "Consumption is hereditary in my wife's family; some have already died with the disease. My wife has a sister, Mrs. E. A. Cleary, that was taken with consumption. She used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, to the surprise of her many friends, she got well. My wife has also had hemorrhages from the lungs, and her sister insisted on her using the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I consented to her using it, and it cured her. She has had no symptoms of consumption for the past six years. People having this disease can take no better remedy."

Yours very truly,
W. C. Rogers, M. D.

From the Buckeye State comes the following: "I was pronounced to have consumption by two of our best doctors. I spent nearly $300, and was no better. I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I bought and used eight bottles and I can now say with truth that I feel just as well to-day as I did at twenty-five, and can do just as good a day's work on the farm, although I had not done any work for several years."

Truly, your friend,
William Dulaney

Mr. Dulaney's address is Campbell, Ohio.

"I had catarrh in the head for years and trouble with my left lung at the same time. You put so much faith in your remedies that I concluded to try one bottle or two, and I derived much benefit therefrom. I used up three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, five bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and in four months I was myself again. I could not sleep on my left side, and now I can sleep and eat heartily. So long as I have your medicines on hand I have no need of a doctor; I do not think my house in order without them. Yours truly,

A. J. H. Sheard
Marlow, Baldwin Co., Ala.

If it would be any more convincing, we could easily fill the columns of this paper with letters testifying to the cure of the severest diseases of the throat, bronchia and lungs, by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." To build up solid flesh and strength after the grip, pneumonia, ("lung fever"), exhausting fevers, and other prostrating diseases, it has no equal. It does not make fat like cod liver oil and its nasty compounds, but solid, wholesome flesh.

A complete treatise on Throat, Bronchial, and Lung Diseases; also including Asthma, and Chronic Nasal Catarrh, and pointing out successful means of home treatment for these maladies, will be mailed to any address by the World's Dispensary Medical Association at Buffalo, N. TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

South Carolina's Governor Sends Troops to Darlington.

Martial Law Is Declared—Mutinous Militiamen Are Denounced as Cowards—A Censorship Over Telegrams Is Established.

THE SITUATION GRAY.
COLUMBIA, S. C., April 8.—Gov. Tillman has declared Darlington and Florence counties in a state of insurrection. He has also ordered the railroad authorities not to transport any bodies of men unless authorized by him. The railroads thus far refused compliance. The governor has ordered the telegraph companies not to transmit any news of a warlike tendency. This order has likewise been refused.

The city and state dispensaries were closed Saturday by order of the governor, and their contents are now being hauled to the penitentiary for safe keeping.

Tillman's Proclamation.
The governor's proclamation declaring Darlington and Florence counties in insurrection is as follows:

"Whereas, Certain persons have assembled in the counties of Darlington and Florence and are in open rebellion against the authorities of the government of this state, and it has become impracticable to enforce by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings the laws of the state within said counties, now, therefore, I, H. R. Tillman, governor of the state of South Carolina, do proclaim such persons so assembled to be in open rebellion against the laws of the state, and I do hereby command all such assemblages of insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within twenty-four hours."

Judge Watts, of the state courts, on request of Gov. Tillman has granted an injunction against the Western Union Telegraph company's manager, Gray, restraining him from accepting messages for transmission on the Darlington trouble unless sent by state authorities. Manager Gray has referred the matter to the New York authorities, which will probably instruct him to receive and send all messages. The governor, it is declared, will take possession of the office if the order of Judge Watts is not complied with.

Early Sunday morning Gov. Tillman established a telegraph censorship, placing several militiamen—the most intelligent that could be selected—in charge of both offices to supervise all messages offered. These gentlemen have simply carried out their instructions, and have refused only a few telegrams that were calculated to arouse bad feeling.

Early in the day the governor summoned the governor's guards to the executive mansion. Drawing them up in line he addressed them, saying that he was informed that their disbandment was not their fault, but that they had been overruled by a mob at their doors. He told them that they stood before the people of the state as disgraced, and that he now wished to give them the opportunity to wipe the stain from their brow and to restore them to honor. He asked for some indications as to whether they would obey his orders, in which event their arms would be given back to them. As he made this assertion five of the men threw down their bayonets and were quickly followed by several others. Their captain begged them to desist and wait until the governor had finished. Gov. Tillman, however, told them that their action was satisfactory, for he only wished to know exactly what their position was. He then said to those who remained that they could leave, but if they determined to obey orders to report to the state penitentiary. The remnant of the company marched to their armory and in five minutes thereafter they had disbanded.

At 5 o'clock marching orders were given to the troops stationed at the penitentiary. Gov. Tillman addressed them. Referring to the mutinous militia companies at Columbia, Florence, Sumpter and Charleston, Gov. Tillman denounced them as cowards. He concluded:

"You are going on a delicate and dangerous mission. You must remember that the Darlington people are our fellow-citizens, but they are in insurrection and it is necessary for you to go there to uphold the law. You go as an arm of the law and you must treat the Darlington people with consideration, but if you are ordered to shoot you must do it or anarchy will prevail in the state. I hope to restore you to your homes as early as possible, but the law must be upheld or the state government will be the laughing stock of the world."

The troops left for Darlington shortly afterward. There were twelve companies in all, comprising a total of 893 men. A number of boxes of cartridges were placed upon the train. What is to be done with them is a mystery. Gen. Reichberg, who is commander, would not say anything about his orders. The troops went away on a special train over the Atlantic Coast Line road.

LANGUAGE OF ANIMALS.

They Know How to Warn One Another of Danger.

While hunting with rifle for squirrels in the heavy timber, I have at different times noticed that both birds and mammals seem to have several ways of warning others, not only of their own kind, but also of different species, of the presence of a supposed common enemy. In fact, the practice might be called the warning system of animated nature.

As an illustration, suppose the hunter to be going stealthily through the woods or quietly seated upon a stump or fallen tree, and while there to be seen, as he is almost sure to be, by some of the sharp-eyed little wood folks. Now suppose the little thing has before been giving out some notes or sounds peculiar to its species.

All at once these sounds will be changed to others having a different cadence from those at first given, or, as the hunter has discovered, the sounds may quickly cease; or even, if the little thing was quiet before, some sharp note of danger will often take the place of its stillness, and other mammals and birds in the immediate vicinity will understand the warning and take up the signals, until nearly every animate thing for quite a distance around will be apprised of the danger.

Then for awhile they will act with the utmost discretion until confidence is restored, when the wood life will resume its normal ways until some movement of the hunter again produces the same phenomenon. How far beyond the commencing point these danger signals are kept up or extended one may be unable to discover, but I should judge by what I have observed that they extend in all directions beyond gunshot distance.

Among the causes that lead to the detection by animals of a person when still hunting there is one that he seldom or never thinks about, which is the effect the sight of his shadow has upon them, especially when the sun is low. No matter how stealthily one may be going along, or how carefully he may be concealed behind a tree, or even be seated, his long, telltale shadow when lightly moving may be a greater cause of the non-appearance of game than he is aware of.

Still another cause, which, of course, cannot be obviated much, is the appearance of the face and hands in contrast with the hands of the gunner or with surrounding objects. That often attracts the attention of animals, but more especially is their attention attracted by the movements of the hands while manipulating the gun.

One cannot help but notice, should he occasionally take a look behind him, when quiet in the woods, how near squirrels and other animals will come up to him from that direction, while in front he will see none of them, thus showing conclusively that the contrast made by the face and with surrounding objects has more to do with making the hunt other than a successful one than many gunners are aware of.—Forest and Stream.

Grain Exports From the Argentine.

No less than nine hundred and nine thousand tons of cereals were exported from the Argentine Republic during the first nine months of 1903. This is nearly double the exports in the year before and it is expected that there will be another increase during this year in the exportation of Argentine wheat, since the crop looked very promising—notably in the provinces of Santa Fe, Cordova and Entre Rios. It is to be noticed that an unusually large number of agricultural machines has been purchased in many parts of the republic. The single colony of Marcos Jaurez, province of Cordova, bought seventy wheat threshing machines during the last year.—N. Y. Tribune.

Farms for the Million.

The marvelous development of the States of Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Wyoming, within the last few years has attracted attention in all parts of the world. It is not necessary, however, to search far for the causes of this wonderful growth, for this entire region, which is penetrated by The North-Western Line, teems with golden opportunities for enterprising farmers, mechanics and laborers who desire to better their condition. Here are lands which combine all varieties of soil, climate and physical feature that render them most desirable for agriculture or commerce. Rich rolling prairies, capable of raising the finest quality of farm products in luxurious abundance, can still be secured at low prices and upon most liberal terms, and in many cases good prospective farms can be purchased for scarcely more than the yearly rental many eastern farmers are compelled to pay. Reaching the principal cities and towns and the richest and most productive farming districts of this favored region The North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) offers its patrons the advantages of ready markets, unexcelled train service, perfect equipment and all the comforts and conveniences known to strictly first-class railway travel. Maps, time tables and general information can be obtained of ticket agents of connecting lines, or by addressing W. A. Thrall, General Passenger and Ticket Agent Chicago & North-Western R'y, Chicago, Ill.

Here and There.

Call our day of worship "Sunday" not Sabbath, says the Ann Arbor Democrat. The seven day adventists have established Saturday as the "Sabbath." Sunday is the general day of rest and worship, and to avoid confusion should not be referred to as the Sabbath.

Several wise men are discussing the question of "greater freedom for the girls" says the Livingston Democrat. As they do pretty much as they please now and make men do what they want besides, what does this greater freedom mean? Are the ladies going to wear wider sleeves?

Those who kissed the alleged "Blarney Stone," in the production of Blarney Castle in Midway Plaisance, will be delighted to learn that they smacked a lime stone paving block, dug from the streets of Chicago, which was palmed off on the customs officers and public as the genuine article from Cork, Ireland.

The hard times are not without their compensations. The Italian Government advises its people against emigrating to the United States "on account of the economic conditions prevailing there." If the other European Governments should follow suit they would greatly oblige. The supply of emigrants for some time past has been in excess of the demand.

Selig Whitman, otherwise known as "Ajax, the Strong Man," has been appointed on the police force in New York. He told the commissioners that he could push a loaded freight car, weighing 27,000 pounds, fifty feet on a railroad track. He claimed that he could outlift any other man in the world. Other policemen may have a pull, but it is evident that Selig has a push.

Col. Albert A. Pope, of Boston, will soon issue a volume containing a list of all the errors in school books to which attention has been called through the publicity invited by Col. Pope. They number thousands, and it is said that some of the publishers who are hardest hit, are fighting hard to prevent and further publication of the facts. The list of errors which have been transmitted to one school book publishing house aggregates over 1,100.

Some people think women have not executive ability for public affairs, and yet in a Kansas town, where a woman was elected Police Judge, she solved the tramp problem quickly. The first tramp that was brought before her for judgment was sentenced to two baths a day for ten days, and to hard labor on the stone pile, with the order that he be fed if he worked and starved if he shirked. The prisoner survived the ordeal, but now the first question a tramp asks on approaching a town is whether the police judge is a man or woman.

The editor stood at the beautiful gate with all his sin and patches; not long did he wonder, nor did he wait, for they gave him a handful of matches; and tapped a big bell that answered in—well, in the place with the sulphurous crater; and next minute found himself in it—the fast-going elevator. And they landed him straightway in furnace 15, near a political briber; when lot in a halo of brimstone was seen the old delinquent subscriber. And vainly to hide his emotion he tried I would that his face I could show you—as he drew a huge cart to the editor's side saying: "Friend, here's the wood I owe you."—Ex

Hardwood ashes are worth from $22 to $40 per ton for use as fertilizers in the eastern states, yet you can find an ash pile in the rear of nearly every farm house in this country. They are worth just as much to the farmers here as they are in New York and Pennsylvania. If properly used they will return to you their value in an increase of crops. They are particularly rich in the elements that contribute to the growth of fruit. Many of these apparently trivial matters are the leaks that take away the profits of the farm and cause the farmer to announce that "farming don't pay." Poor farming don't pay nor never will.

A writer in the Cedar Springs Clipper has this to say about the road question, that we commend to our readers: "It is said that intemperance is at the root of all evil, but ignorance is responsible for a large amount of intemperance. I think it was Kate Field who said, 'All crime, all bad legislation are due to ignorance, the one unknown quantity which is impossible to overcome.' This condition is largely due to ignorance born of bad roads. 'As ye sow, so shall ye also reap.' By ignoring the farmer, by leaving him in his ignorance the churches of this country have a great deal to answer for. Their missionary work lies here, not in Japan and Africa. The beam needs to be cast out of our eyes before we see the mote in our brother's. Christianity begins at home, and Christianity begins with better roads. But farmers oppose them. They fear greater taxation. This is evident from the vote on the constitutional amendment last spring which showed plainly that the amount of

The Manly Attitude.

Every fellow's hands are in his pockets. All of the young men seemed to be making careful studies of walking about with their hands in their pockets. At another period the test of a manly attitude was to stand on the hearth rug before the fire, as at another to cross the leg and hold the foot which Grant-White assured the young men of America could be gracefully accomplished by English noblemen. It was Florio Ando, of the Duse company, that showed how impressively the attributes of manliness could be conveyed by walking and standing with the hands in the pockets especially in spirited domestic scenes, says the New York Evening Sun. The very act of thus imprisoning one's hands seems to imply that strength, those weapons of argument and defense that a man, conscious in his strength, does not condescend to use. There is some significance in the fact that in all the new tailor-made clothes for women side pockets are introduced, concealed beneath the front seams. The delight of the women in these pockets is most ingenious. "See my pockets, just like a man's" and they thrust in both hands and stand in the conscious pride of a small boy.

Avoid the heat and dust by traveling on the D. & C. floating palaces. The attractions of a trip to the Mackinac region are unsurpassed. The island itself is a grand romantic spot, its climate most invigorating. Two new steel passenger steamers have just been built for the upper lake route, costing $300,000 each. They are equipped with every modern convenience, annunciators, bath-rooms, etc., illuminated throughout by electricity, and are guaranteed to be the grandest, largest and safest steamers on fresh water.
