QUIT BY THOUSANDS.

The Great Strike of Coal Miners Is Inaugurated.

The Leaders Apparently Pleased with the Situation-They Claim That More Than 128,000 Men Have Laid Down Their Tools.

MANY STATES AFFECTED.

COLUMBUS, O., April 24 -- President John McBride, of the United Mine-Workers, has watched the newspaper reports of the big coal miners' strike, which began at noon Saturday, very carefully and made comparisons with the information received by him. He estimates the number on strike at 128,-100, as follows:

 Ohio.
 26,000 Kentucky
 4,000

 Pennylvatia
 50,000 Iowa
 1,200

 Illinois
 24,000 Missouri
 1,200

 Indiana
 6,000 West Virginia
 2,000

 Alabama
 8,000 Indian Territory
 1,700

 Tennessee

This estimate does not include Colorado, from which state contradictory reports have been received. A few days ago word was received from northern Colorado that the miners in that state would join the strike. There are about 3,000 miners there. Since that time no definite information has been received.

The strike, so far as Ohio and Pennsyivania are concerned, seems to have been a complete success. The results in Illinois also have been much more encouraging than was anticipated. President McBride's first estimate of the number of men who would suspend work in that state was 15,000 out of a total 35,000, but his figures show that there are fully 24,000 men out. In the northern section of Illinois he estimates that there are 16,000 miners out at Spring Valley, La Salle, Oglesby, Peru, Streator, Braceville, Braidwood, Coal City, Diamond, Gardner, Carbon Hill. At the Danville and Grape Creek mines there are also 800 men out.

President McBride has received additional information from State President J. A. Crawford of the Illinois miners, who is also a member of the national executive board, that fully 2,600 men in the Springfield district have quit work. At Duquoin and St. John there are also 1,000 idle men.

The advices from the southern Illinois mining region are rather meager up to this time. P. H. Penna, national dwelling houses, a hotel, one church vice president of the United Mine Workers, is at Pana, one of the largest mining centers in that section of the state, and the latest information from him was to the effect that a majority of the men there had voted to strike. President McBride is hopeful that by May 1 the strike will have spread over the entire state of Illinois. He claims that the operators there are now trying to make it appear that they had not expected to force a reduction of twenty cents on May 1, but that the notices posted by the operators refute their statements.

ness, bilious headache, poor digestion, gout, It now seems that Illinois and West Virginia will be the battle ground in the competitive district. President McBride estimates that in West Virginia out of about 9,000 miners 2,000 have suspended work.

dispatch was received from the miners at Moundsville, W. Va., stating that the miners had been offered the seventy-cent rate demanded, and asking whether they should accept it and return to work. President McBride wired them not to accept under any conditions until further advised. He says that this will be one of the greatest things to be overcome in the present strike, as no doubt in many places offers will be made to pay the prices demanded and the miners will be inclined to accept.

In Onio there has not been a single report of a refusal on the part of the miners to join the movement. President McBride says that so far as he can determine there is only one place in Pennsylvania outside of the anthracite and coke regions where the miners have not quit work and that is at Tuttle Creek, where about 1,500 men are employed.

The press dispatches indicate that in western Pennsylvania 6,000 river miners and 6,000 railroad miners are idle. There are really about 12,000 railroad miners in western Pennsylvania and about 9,000 river miners, all of whom, it is claimed, are idle.

In the Laurel and New Pittsburgh regions, on the Kentucky Central railroad in Kentucky, President McBride claims 2,000 miners have suspended work, and in the Jellico and Newcombe districts in Tennessee about the same number. In the latter state this represents about all of the free miners. The men there have to contend against the employment of about 4,000 convicts in the mines, who, of course, cannot be brought in:o the movement.

Press dispatches from Iowa indicate that none of the miners there have struck, but President McBride has a telegram from Julius Froh stating that all the southern part of that state is out. There are about 3,000 miners in the section indicated. In Alabama President McBride says there are about 8,000 miners idle, having quit work two weeks ago. There, as in Tennessee, they have to contend against the employment of convicts in the mines.

The miners are striking for the restoration of the inter-state wage agreement which was abandoned during the summer, first voluntarily by a small number of miners in the Pittsburg district. and thus forced a reduction in every competitive district in the United

He was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, and it made little difference if the governor had cast him off when he left college to go on the stage, for he knew his luck would come back to him in time. He was always thinking of her. He saw her fresh oval face in the blue-gray rings of his cigarette smoke; the smell of roses was like the perfume of her breath; her eyes looked at him from the pansies on every corner flowerstand Perhaps this was because she was one of the band of wood nymphs who came out in pink and white to strew flowers for the feet of the prima doma to crush. She should have been s prima donna herself; he had heard hersing, and he knew. Wait till his fortune came back to him.

They were both stopping at the same wetched actors' boarding-house, on a side street that ran from Broadway to the Bowery, and at dinner she sat opposite him at the long table around which gathered nightly a rare collection of chorus girls, ballet dancers, song and dance artists, variety performers, and broken-down and hard-up people of the "legit." He knew that curly shock of yellow hair was not its natural color, and her eyelids were penciled, but she had teeth like ivory and her laugh thrilled him away down into his shoes. It was only when the professional ventriloquist, desiring the butter, made the chandelier squeak, "Shove the grease, Coots," that he became aware he was staring at her and not eating a mouthful. He hated the ventriloquist; for that manipulator of recalization was the one who had given him the nickname of "Coots," and now every body in the house called him that-even she called him that.

The "Johnnies" gathered thickly about the stage door every night to see the chorus girls come out; but he knew she hated the insipid fops, for he had heard her say so, and she never paid any attention to them. She usually got off first, and left the theater as soon as possible, and he had not yet commanded sufficient courage to tell her he would take her safely to the boarding house if she would wait. But one night she was delayed, and he was close behind her when she left the theater.

But she was divine!

There was the usual throng outside the stage door, and one of them spoke to her. He had been drinking, and he placed himself in her path, offering his arm and proposing to call a cab. She

Twelve dollars a week is rocky, but I have to do it or get off the earth.'

"Wait till my luck comes back to me!" cried Coots. "I'll back you then. I'll have a piece written for you."
"You dear boy!" she laughed.

They did not take a car. She said she had as lief walk, as it would save the fare; and Coots was sure he had much rather walk as long as she was at his side.

"Tell me, Coots-how did you ever happen to get down to this?" she asked.

Then he told her all about it, and she called him a foolish fellow, but he did not agree with her.

"Mother sends me money every now and then, without the governor knowing it," he said. "I'll get along all right until I find an opening and do something to give me a foothold."

Coots never forgot that walk down Broadway and the warm pressure given his fingers by her plump little hand when they reached the boarding-house. That night she was in all his dreams.

Sidney Temple belonged to the "legit," but he was in hard luck; the Bowery Flower" company, in which he had played the heavy villain, having stranded in Oshkosh, where they were deserted by their manager and left to get back to New York as best they could. Temple had come in on his uppers, and he was staying at the secondrate actors' boarding house until he struck another engagement. How he obtained money to pay his board was something of a mystery, but it was noticed that he had become very friendly with Coots, the two being together a great deal. Daisy was the first to suspect the truth, and, one day, she accused Temple.

"You are playing Coots for a sucker, Temple!" she declared, her brown eyes flashing. "I know he has money from his mother, and you are beating him out of it at cards! You are encouraging him to drink, too.'

Temple laughed. "Well, what of it, Little Spitfire? He'll blow himself some way and I've got to live till I get on the road again.' "It's a shame!" cried Daisy, warmly.

"You are a scoundrel and he is nothing but a boy!" "It seems to me you take a remarkable interest in the kid. I believe you're stuck on his bang.'

"I don't care what you believe. I'm not going to see him beaten out of his money."

"How will you help it?"

"I know a way. There's a man on Twenty-third street who would give something to know where to find you, and he says he is willing to pay your board at Ludlow street jail for awhile. If you don't let up on Coots, that man is pretty sure to find you."

"I pass!" said Temple, ruefully. "You hold high cards and the pot is

He saw the sympathy in her eyes, and he went on, before she could

"Of course you will do that," she said. "You'd be crazy if you didn't!"

"Yes, I shall give it up. 1 don't know as I was cut out for an actor, after all. I told you my luck would come back to me, and I would not forget you then. There is nothing in the will to prevent me from marrying an actress and backing her, if I want to do it. If you'll marry me, Daisy, I'll put you out in a new piece and at the head of a first-class

Halled with Delight.

The Burtis sawmill at Marquette began their 1894 cut, starting with a gang of sixty men. This is the earliest saws have begun running in many years, and almost a month sooner than last year. A new way to pay old debts developed at Kalamazoo. M. B. Shears, a farmer, owed $193 on a note which he had executed to W. C. Edsell, the Otsego banker. After some parleying the bit of paper was surrendered.

ROYAL NUPTIALS.

The Gorgeous Wedding of Duke of Hesse and Princess Victoria.

COBURG, April 21 .- With all the magnificent pomp and display and august ceremonial of royalty the marriage of the grand duke of Hasse and Princess Victoria of Coburg was solemnized here at noon in the presence of Queen Victoria, Emperor William, the prince of Wales, ex-Empress Frederick, and many other members of the royal families of England, Germany and Russia.

According to the ceremonial decided upon by Queen Victoria (all arrangements having been submitted to her in Florence), the marriage took place at noon in the private chapel of the ducal schloss, with full state, in the Lutheran style. Following German precedents, there were no bridesmaids, but the bride was supported by hor younger sisters. The private chapel of the schloss was thoroughly redecorated for the occasion, and as the wedding took place on Primrose day, primroses entered largely into the interior decorations, these flowers having been sent from England for the occasion. Queen Victoria was accompanied to the chapel by the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotna (the duke of Edinburgh), father of the bride, and was escorted to an armchair in the front row of the distinguished guests and next to Emperor William of Germany, by whose side was the duchess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha (Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, sister of the czar).

There was some delay in the proceedings and consequently it was 12:30 p. m. before the ceremony commenced, but it was a most brilliant and impressive one. In the wedding procession Emperor William escorted the duchess of Coburg and ex-Empress Frederick followed alone. Prince of Wales and the czarowitz came next, walking together. The bridegroom, the grand duke of Hesse, entered with his supporters, his uncle, Prince Henry of Hesse, and his brother-in-law, Prince Henry of Prussia. The bride, Princess Victoria, came in last, supported by her father and brother and accompanied by her sisters. The prince of Wales sat beside ex-Empress Frederick of Germany (eldest daughter of Queen Victoria), then came the czarowitz. These distinguished guests occupied front seats on the other side of the aisle, corresponding with those of Queen Victoria, Emperor William and the duchess of Coburg.

ribbon of the Order of the Garter and of boarders and I superintend all the work upon her head sparkled a magnificent crown of diamonds. Her majesty remained seated throughout, her age and infirmities preventing her from standing. The general superintendent of the Lutheran church, Pastor Mueller, officiated and was assisted by the court chaplain of the Grand Duchy of Hesse and by five local clergymen.

After the address had been delivered the bride and bridegroom plighted their troths and the wedding rings were exchanged. Then came the benediction, after which Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was grandly played and the ceremony was at an end. The newly married couple kissed their relatives in turn and the procession left the chapel at I o'clock amid the booming of cannon. The bride is the offspring of the union of Queen Victoria's second son, duke of Edinburgh, with Princess Marie of Russia, while the groom is the son of the late Princess Alice, first daughter of the queen and Louis IV, grand duke of Hesse. The bride was born on November 25, 1876, and has consequently just passed her 17th year, while the groom, strangely enough, was also born on a November 25, but in 1868, and is eight years the senior of his bride.

TILLMAN LOSES.

His Pet Measure, the Liquor Law, Unconstitutional.

COLUMBUS, S. C., April 21. - The Tillman state dispensary liquor law has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of South Carolina, two justices concurring and one (Tillmanite) member of the supreme bench dissenting from the opinion.

This is the law the attempted enforcement of which caused the recent fatal riots in this state. The decision was rendered in a composite case originating in Darlington and appealed to the supreme court by the state authorities and of several minor cases, likewise appealed by the state. The ground on which the law is declared unconstitutional is that it creates a monopoly for the state. The decision declares the law unconstitutional in nearly every respect, and holds that it cannot be upheld on any vital point. The profit to the state feature is declared vicious.

Gov. Tillman says he is not talking that it is time only for action. Several district courts of the state have in effect given similar decisions against the law, but Gov. Tillman has never paid any attention to them; but this decision of the supreme court effectually wipes out the obnoxious law, and will States supreme court for the registration as a trade mark of the dispensary whisky label. The dispensing law, which went into effect July 1, 1893, prohibited the sale of intextcating liquors by any private individual, and provided for the appointment by the governor of a comin this country, disappeared from Grand Rapids, leaving his wife without knowlturers and brewers doing business within the state, and to furnish them to duly appointed dispensers in each county of the state, who in turn supplied them to purchasers for consumption. An exception was made in favor of druggists, who were permitted to buy liquor for compounding medicines.

AN ILLINOIS MIRACLE.

A Case of Deep Interest to Women Everywhere.

Saved Through a Casual Glance at a Newspaper-Weak, Pale and in a Deplorable Condition When Relief Came-A Remarkable Narrative Carefully Investigated by a Dubuque Times Reporter.

[Dubuque, Iowa, Times.]

Among the peculiar conditions with which the people of the present age are endowed is a remarkable capacity for doubting. The Times determined upon a thorough investigation into a medical case out in Savannah, Ill., as a matter of news, with the result that the case was even more remarkable than the public had been given to understand.

Mrs. Kenyon was a good talker and told the story in a terse way as follows: "I was born in Warren county, New York, thirty-three years ago. I was married when I was nineteen and came to Savannah seven years ago. With the exception of being at times subject to violent sick headaches, I considered myself a healthy woman up to five years ago. At that time I was very much run dewn and an easy prey to the ever present malaria in and about the Mississippi bottom lands. I was taken violently ill. The local physicians said I was affected by malaria and intermittent fever. I continually grew weaker and finally went to see Dr. McVey, of Clinton, Iowa, who is reputed to be one of the ablest physicians in the Mississippi valley. He treated me for a time without beneficial effects. I then consulted a prominent doctor of Savannah. My stomach would not retain the medicine he gave me and he came to the conclusion that my stomach was badly diseased. Occasionally I would choke down and nearly suffocate. I then went to Dr. Maloney and he pronounced it a case of heart trouble. He helped me only temporarily. All this time I had grown weaker and paler until I was in a deplorable condition. I had a continual feeling of tiredness, my muscular power was nearly gone, and I could not go up half a dozen steps without resting, and often that much exercise would cause me to have a terrible pain in my side. Seemingly the blood had left my veins. I was pale as death; my lips were blue and cold and I had given up all hope of ever getting better. My husband insisted that I should take some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When these had been used I was somewhat improved in health. I continued their use and felt I was growing stronger, my sleep refreshed me and it seemed as if I could feel new blood coursing through my veins. I kept on taking Pink Pills until a short time ago and now I consider myself a Queen Victoria wore the broad blue healthy, rugged woman. My house is full myself. In other words, I work all the time and am happy all the time. I am positive that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved my life, and I believe there are thousands of women who could find great relief if they used them. The sick headaches I was subject to from girlhood have disappeared, and I have not had a single attack since I commenced taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

One of her neighbors said: "Mrs. Kenyon's recovery is something marvelous. She was reduced to a mere shadow, and was the palest and most ghost-like person I had ever seen. If miracles are not performed in these days I would be pleased to know how to describe a case of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, it seems, contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont., and are sold in boxes at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk.

Strange Mistakes Made by Various Persous of No Particular Nationality.

Pat isn't the only creature in the world who makes those absurd remarks we call bulls. Frenchmen, Englishmen and all others make them with equal frequency. Even Americans make them, as witness the statement made by a writer in one of New York's best evening newspapers, apropos of the death of a great American statesman, some months ago. "Mr. Soandso," wrote this strange individual, "spoke no last words."

A French bull, all the worse for having been written and not spoken hastily, was made by a certain Parisian, Callon by name:

"My dear --, 1 left my knife at your lodgings yesterday. Pray send is to me if you find it. Yours, "CALLON.

"P. S. -Never mind sending me the knife; I have found it."

There is also in existence a note written by Callon to his wife, which he sent home with a basket of provisions, the postscript to which read:

"You will find this letter at the bottom of the basket. If you should fail end the suit pending in the United to do so, let me know as soon as possible." A Scotch lady once made an amusing remark which comes very aptly under the head of bulls. It appears that she was conversing with a friend upon the smoking habit, which she declared to be vile and destructive of health.

"I don't know about that," said he. "There is my dear old father; he smokes, and has smoked every day for years, and he is seventy years old."

"That may be," she retorted. "But if he had never smoked he might have been eighty."-Harper's Young People.

Speaking of standard time, isn't it as important in marking the years as the hours of the day? The Celestials seem to have begun the year with the first awakening of vegetation from its wintersleep, but it would be difficult to assign any reason in the nature of things why the Christian new year should begin where it does now. In fact, the date has varied greatly since the beginning of the era, A more invariable, if not more ration, standard would be to date the new year from the starting of the sun on his annual journey northward. And while we are about it let us still further reform the calendar by taking a day each from January and March and adding both to February, thus making all three months the same length. Why not?

The remedy for potato scab recommended by Professor Taft of the Michigan station and Professor Bolley of the North Dakota, as well as other station authorities, is treating the seed to a solution of corrosive sublimate. The seed is readily treated by taking one ounce of corrosive sublimate and after dissolving it in a quart of hot water placing it in a barrel containing 15 gallons and then immersing the potatoes, either whole or cut for planting, in it for 90 minutes. By placing about three pecks of seed in a sack or basket they can be shaken about so as to bring them all in contact with the water. After immersion they can be taken out and planted at once or spread out to dry. Corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison and should be carefully

With the advent of the first warm days a great many people will take down their stoves and put them away for the summer, leaving no way to warm the house on damp, rainy mornings says the Livingston Democrat. The inevitable result will be sore throat, pleurisy, pneumonia and all kindred diseases, and if one of the family dies Providence will at once be accused of having visited a special affliction upon the household. Providence has nothing what ever to do with the fires of the average citizen. In the summer time it is usually the women folks who will not let the stoves remain in their proper places because they "spoil the looks of everything." The most cheerful sight imaginable on a damp, cold rainy morning is a wood stove with a crackling good fire in it, and in this changeable climate, where it is summer one day and winter the next, means for a proved useless should we venture upon the fire in the living room is an absolute necessity.

TO KELLY'S AID.

Thousands of Omaha Workmen Join in a Demonstration.

They Demand of the Railways Transpor tation for the Army-Refused, They Capture a Train, But Kelly Declines to Make Use of It.

A DAY OF GREAT EXCITEMENT. OMAHA, Neb., April 23.-Three thousand laboring men marched out of Omaha Friday with banners flying, bound for thes camp of Gen. Kelly's commonwealers at Weston, la., 14 miles east of Council Bluffs.

The column had been preceded to Council Bluffs by a committee of prominent citizens appointed at Thursday night's meeting of the Central Labor union, including Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Duryea, pastor of the First Congregational church; Rev. Dr. Hamerson, of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. Frank Crane, of the First Methodist church. The committee was to call on Gov. Jackson and the managers of the railroads and urge that the commonwealers be at once started on Arrival in Council Bluffs.

A strange sight was witnessed on the march from the bridge to Council Bluffs. Men and boys seemed to spring up from the ground and the column which crossed the bridge had grown to over 6,000 men by the time it reached the heart of the city. In response to a request from Chief of Police Scanlan a committee was appointed to present the demands of the men to the railroad officials, who were found in the office of John Y. Stone. While the committee was in the office the men lined up along the sides of the square, warming their toes by stamping on the pavement and cheering impromptu speakers.

Governor Confers with Kelly. Gen. Kelly came over to Council Bluffs with the intention of catching a train for Weston, being very desirous of getting out of the city before the outpouring from Omaha, as he said he was in no way responsible for the demonstration and did not want to be even a party to it.

In some way Gov. Jackson learned of Kelly's presence and sent for him. headquarters where were gathered several citizens, besides the attorney gen eral. The interview was a long one.

Gov. Jackson took occasion to review at length and in detail all the actions get the army on its way, and that the resulted in nothing so far as the Northwestern, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Burlington were concerned, they refusing to do anything. The Rock Island at first suggested that it might take half the army to Davenport to be paid a fair rate, as might governor had agreed to recompense the roads, although there was no authority for him to put his hand into the state treasury for that purpose. This proposition to take the men across the state had been recalled later, and now the railways would do nothing but transport them as other passengers, at full rates. He notified Kelly that the citizens of Council Bluffs had arranged to furnish boats to take the army to Kansas City and to provide them with shelter and ample provisions while the preparations for this trip were being made.

Kelly replied that he preferred to go east, but he would take the proposition he would wire back his answer.

More Reinforcements

At 2 o'clock word was received that a detachment of Union Pacific shopmen were on the way across the bridge and a Council Bluffs escort went down to meet them. They found over 1,000 men in line with flags waving and blue ribbons, the badge of the army, in nearly every buttonhole. They marched to Bayliss park. The streets of Council Bluffs by this time were black with a yelling, cheering crowd. Travel in every direction was suspended.

Seized a Train. At 8 p. m. word was received that railway officials remained firm in their refusal to furnish a train. When Crounse has called the Nebraska troops Chairman Tichenor announced the re- to this city. sult of the conference it was greeted by a roar of jeers and hisses. the crowd jumped aboard and startto South Omaha and Albright, Neb., to capture a Rock Island engine. While the crowd was waiting for the return of the men another Union Pacific engine came into the yards. The men were angry, being outwitted by the railways, and with a rush took possession of this engine. Engineer Nick Wicks and his son, the fireman, were in charge of the locomotive. Another son of the engineer, George Wicks, jumped on the engine and drove his father and brother off. With the assistance of other men he then pulled the throttle and started the engine up the track, took water, and prepared to make up a train. About an hour afterwards he had hitched onto eleven freight cars, run the gantlet through the yards, and ran the train out over the Rock Island track to the camp.

Refuse to Use the Train.

The news that a train was coming aroused the men at Weston to intense excitement, but any premature demonstration was stopped by Kelly. It was seen that he did not approve of this method of securing transportation, and when the "special" steamed into Weston after its run of 14 miles from Council Bluffs, which was made in the same number of minutes, it was received in silence. The general called his leaders about him and explained that the law must not be violated and that the commonwealers could not afford to be regarded as a riotous mob. He said if the impression became general through the country that they failed to regard the property rights of others it would arouse continuous and perhaps armed opposition to their progress.

It was finally decided in this open meeting that the army would not use the train to move forward. There were several expressions of dissent at this, but the general showed his command over the men by refusing to even permit them to sleep in the cars.

Used to Transport the Sick. The next move of the leader of the industrials was to make another attempt to come to terms with the Rock Island people to move the men and train forward. An urgent message was sent to President Cable at Chicago asking him to permit the use of his road. For answer came the one word "No." Then Kelly and his leaders held another council and it was decided to put He had taken it and it had cured him. them back to Council Bluffs, where they could receive attendance.

The twenty men, who are in a dangerous condition owing to their exposure, were carried from the sheds and barns in which they had been housed. Some of the unruly members of the army tried to climb on board. Kelly sent a dozen of his trusted lieutenants through the train and walk. Then he wrote a telegram to an attorney in Council Bluffs asking him if he had the right to use the train to send able-bodied men back into the if the St. Paul would take the other city. The answer was in the negative, half to the river, the railways and at 9:59 the train with its sick aboard backed out of Weston and started for Council Bluffs, which it reached forty minutes later.

Kelly's Appeal. With the departure of the train Kelly found himself and followers facing a gloomy situation. The commander had voluntarily refused the only chance offered him to ride free. The men were loyal to him, however, and when he read the following appeal sent by him to the Omaha Bee, he was repeatedly

"Desiring to move eastward as fast as possible, and desiring also to abide by the laws of the land, I am forced to ask, on behalf of the industrial army, for aid in obtaining horses and wagons sufficient to help us across the country, all other means of locomotion having been denied us, save those of nature. I will make this my appeal to the citizens of Iowa to his camp, let the boys decide, and and Nebraska. Will you assist us in obtaining GEN. CHARLES T. KELLY."

Orders were issued for the men to assemble at 7:30 this morning, when the return march to Council Bluffs will be taken up.

If the following letters had been written by your best known and most esteemed neighbors they could be no more worthy of your confidence than they now are, coming, as they do, from well known, intelligent, and trustworthy citizens, who, in their several neighborhoods, enjoy the fullest confidence and respect of all who know them. The subject of the above portrait is a well known and much respected lady, Mrs. John G. Foster, residing at No. 33 Chapin Street, Canandaigua, N. Y. She writes to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., as follows: "I was troubled with eczema, or salt-rheum, seven years. I doctored with a number of our home physicians and received no benefit whatever. I also took treatment from physicians in Rochester, New York, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Binghamton, and received no benefit from them. In fact have paid out hundreds of dollars to the doctors without benefit. My brother came to visit us from the West and he told me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. the sick on board the train and send have taken ten bottles of the 'Discovery,' and am entirely cured, and if there should be any one wishing any information I would gladly correspond with them, if they enclose return stamped envelope.

Not less remarkable is the following from Mr. J. A. Buxton, a prominent merchant of Jackson, N. C., who says: "I had been troubled with skin disease all my life. As I grew older the disease seemed to be taking a stronger hold upon me. I tried many advertised remedies with no benefit, until I was led to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When I began taking ejected every man who was able to it my health was very poor ; in fact, several persons have since told me that they thought had the consumption. I weighed only about 125 pounds. The eruption on my skin was accompanied by severe itching. It was first confined to my face, but afterwards spread over the neck and head, and the itching became simply unbearable. This was my condition when I began taking the 'Discovery. When I would rub the parts affected a kind of branny scale would fall off.

For a while I saw no change or benefit from taking the 'Discovery,' but I persisted in its use, keeping my bowels open by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and taking as much outdoor exercise as was possible, until I began to gain in flesh, and gradually the disease released its hold. I took during the year somewhere from fifteen to eighteen bottles of the 'Discovery.' It has now been four years since I first used it, and though not using scarcely any since the first year, my health continues good. My average weight being 155 to 160 pounds, instead of 125, as it was when I began the use of the 'Discovery.' Many persons have reminded me of my improved appearance. Some say I look younger than I did six years ago when I was married. I am now fortyeight years old, and stronger, and enjoy better health than I have ever done before in my life."

THE TARIFF BILL lefts of the Measure Discussed by the 14th Senator Quay (rep., Pa.) said on the lain been hoped, and with apparent reafor the hope, that when this bill entered be senate it would be broadened out of its secm, divorced from its narrow partisanin and from the mysterious recesses of the tort of the so-called subcommittees of the theated furnace of a party caucus and om the seething caldron of the full responsimajority of the committee on finance it would at last emerge purified of its dross and so freed from all defects and dangers as to stand before us a measure which could be stand with practical unanimity because be stand before us a measure which could be sdopted with practical unanimity, because it would give the business interests of this counwould give the taking for at least an appreclable period the tariff out of politics.

The senator said that that would be an ideal The senator said that that would be an ideal solution of this great question, which would insugarate an era of peace and herald the turn of prolonged prosperity. He said that these intenecine raids upon domestic industries, which were so closely associated with political changes, have cost this country more than all the military wars for which every generation since the revolution has paid so dearty. He daracterized the measure as sectional, particharacterized the included in a sectional, partiperitable result the paralysis of business. the halting of trade, the suspension of purases, the stoppage of production, the deprivato thousands of their usual means of helihood and an incredible shrinkage of value. "The McKinley act," he said, "was not a daciple; it was an experimental application of a theory. The McKinley bill was designed as an exemplification of the republican idea o that fostering encouragement was due to American capital and American labor. It was not perfect nor considered by its authors to be perfect" Mr. Quay continued at length, reviewing the history of tariff legislation in the country and showing the effects of high tariffs and low tariffs on the industries of the country. He spoke with emphasis on the ruin which the passage of the Wilson bill would bring to the

On the 17th Senator McLaurin, of Mississippi, made his maiden speech in the senate, orting the turiff bill. Senator Smith, of New Jersey, followed in a speech devoted entrely to an attack on the income tax. He touched upon the charge of treason by Minne-sots democrats, when he said: "Party ties grow weak when they make disregard of one's own convictions and disloyalty to one's own people the test of fealty. And I do not hesitate to add that even the misrule of the republican party is to be preferred to the communism of the populists and socialists. If that be treason hen self-appointed censors of Minnesota do right to lay the charge at my door."

On the 18th Senator Morrill (rep., Vt.) expressed his regret that the financial and industrial crisis had to be continued by a vainglorious and clumsy attempt to carry out the democratic platform. He made some rather biting references to the trouble in which the democrats found themselves over the bill, and pointed out some of the items in which he thought they had compromised with their principles and provided for a protective tariff on such articles s would win votes for the bill.

Concerning the rates of duties reported in the tariff bill," he said, "it is no violation of the confidential relations of the senate commit tee on finance to state how they were all fixed and determined without the votes of the republican members and against even the votes of any hesitating or divergent minority of the democratic members. Thus many of the most important questions may have been determined by the small fraction of three or four of a committee of eleven. But while the process of evolution was a great novelty it will not be controverted that all the rates of duty are of the purest democratic origin. Tariffs for revenue only prove to be only political tariffs, valid only after the next election." He pointed out in detail what he considered the special evils of the bill, the first being the obsolete ad valorem system. The purpose of the bill, he thought, was especially destructive toward the production of the farmer. Reciprocity arrangements which benefit the farmer are to be abrogated. The income tax he called an unusual blunder for even a democratic ad ministration to make.

Senator Turpie (dem., Ind.) spoke in support of the tariff bill. He discussed the effect of a high tariff bill on the agricultural interests, introducing the topic by the assertion that agriculture was America's natural monopoly from the cheapness of the land, and it was from those engaged in agriculture that the demand for the repeal of the existing law was loudest "The opponents of the pending bill opposed the putting of wool on the free list on the plea that it would check the development of high grades of sheep, but prefer that the people of the country should have cheap brankets and cheap clothing than that they should have fine Southdown mutton to eat. It is not to be forgotten that the bill now before the senate is the official act and deed of the democratic party, and as such is entitled to the support of every member of the party. Justice may be delayed, baffled, even betrayed and wounded by the way, but it will arrive at last."

Senator Cameron (rep., Pa.) took the floor in opposition to the bill. Following Senator Cameron, his colleague, Senator Quay, delivered a second installment of his speech, discussing the production of iron.

On the 19th Senator Perkins (rep., Cal.) made speech against the pending tariff bill, mainly evoted to a discussion of the articles which directly affected California wool, fruits, quicksilver, beet sugar, etc., although he considered other features in the bill in which his state was not interested, but which were opposed to re publican principles and which he accordingly

On the 20th Senator Gallinger (rep., N. H.) said the anomaly is presented to the senate of a bill that it is asked to enact into law which hobody thus far has ventured to unqualifiedly adorse or approve with the exception of the senator from Mississippi (Mr. McLaurin) and the junior senator from Indiana (Mr. Turple). its distinguished author in the other house (Mr. Wilson) felt called the measure. He pointed out the likelibood of a future invasion of American markets by foreign cotton. The proposed legislation, he said, threatened the transfer of the lumber trade to Canada; it would drive farmers from the soil of the state of New Hampshire; it would close up the woolen mills. He pointed out the importation of hosiery factories into Rhode Island as a result of the McKipley law, and asserted that the industry was doomed if the Wilson bill is passed. Senator Gallinger took up in turn cotton manufactures, cutlery, granite, and other New England industries, and pointed out the harm that would come to them if the bill ses. The increased tax on spirits would benefit the whisky trust alone. Free wool, he said, would ruin sheep husbandry in this country, and the income tax proposition he de aced as sectional, inequitable and unjust The laboring masses of the industrial north have set their seal of condemnation upon the Wilson bill. Factories are idle, homes comfortless, and wives and childre necessaries of life. Senator Gallinger was followed by Senator McMillan (rep., Mich.), who said: "A comparison between the Wilson bill as it comes from the house and the new Canadian tariff shows how close an understanding must have a very how close an understanding must have existed between the framers of the two measures. No American can doubt that the ultimate destination of Canada is to become a part of the United States. That day will be a welcome one to the people of Michigan, who are now hemmed in on the east by territory with which there are fair exchanges. To the people of the dominion also a union with the United States would be advantageous in the highest degree. To the tories in their extremity the Wilson bill comes—as it comes to every foreign nation-bringing joy in the prospect of larger markets and greater profits; while to our own people its portion is smaller wages and restricted activities."

Senator Dolph (rep., Ore.) followed in a speech against the bill. Mr. Dolph went over the history of progress under protection for the last thirty years. The free list of the Wilson bill was the object of sarcastic remarks by the senator. He argued at length also to show the superiority of specific over ad valorem Auties. Various provisions of the bill he jeclared would be disastrous to the Pacific coast, among others hops, prunes, lead, lumper and coal. Mr. Dolph quoted from President Cleveland's tariff message of 1887 estimating the loss to the wool grower on a flock of fifty sheep to be only $36 a year and on 100 sheep 172, and said that the president, living in a mansion provided by the government, surrounded by servants and by all that wealth could purchase for his comfort and enjoyment and drawing a salary of $60,000 a year, forgot that 136 or 172 a year might represent all that many families could afford to expend for clothing. Mr. Dolph pointed to the rejoicing in England over President Cleveland's free-trade message, the Mills bill and the Wilson bill. He said the question to be determined by this congress is whether it shall legislate in the interest of the people of England, Europe and Asia, or for those of this country.

PITIFUL SCENE IN COURT.

An Aged Man Kneels Before the Woman He Had Widowed.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 18.-William H. Griffiths, a farmer of Tonawanda, this county, was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of Charles Emerson last September, and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Erie county penitentiary. Emerson was removing hay from Griffiths' barn in defiance of the latter's protests, whereupon Griffiths procured a gun and threatened to shoot. Emerson advanced on Griffith's with a pitchfork, and the latter fired with fatal result.

A pitiful scene was enacted when Griffiths was brought in for sentence. Judge Ward sentenced Griffiths to five years in the penitentiary at hard

The elderly culprit bowed respectfully to the court, then turned, and with tottering steps threaded his way to a woman garbed in widow's weeds her face covered with a veil of crape, who sat within the railing. She was Mrs. Emerson, widow of the man who lost his life at the prisoner's hands. Down upon h's knees before her he dropped, and, with a voice trembling with suppressed emotion,

"Mrs. Emerson, God knows I am sorry I killed him."

The courtroom was as still as a churchyard as this singular scene was enacted. Mr. Griffiths' word and manner seemed to indicate the sincerity of his repentance. His white hair fell about his face, and altogether he was a picturesque figure as he kneeled before the woman who was bereaved by his ill-considered act. The widow burst into tears and her sobs were heard in every part of the room. Rising from his knees Griffiths returned to his place and took his seat. Immediately the court adjourned and the prisoner was led back to the jail to enter at once upon serving his term unless his attorneys succeed in getting a stay. Griffiths is 57 years

AGREED TO DIE TOGETHER.

An Aged Couple of Maryland Cut Each Other's Wrists.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 20. - John Benkert and wife, an aged couple residing at Rosedale, Baltimore county, agreed to die together. With a keenedged razor he severed the arteries of her wrists, and she then took the weapon and performed a like deed for him. The wife is dead and the husband's life hangs by a thread. The couple had had trouble with some neighbors, and a warrant was out for their arrest. When a policeman went to the house to serve the warrant he found Benkert lying on the bed apparently dead, while his wife, wearing only one garment, crouched by the bedside with her head in the covers, one knee on the floor and one arm resting on a chair. She was dead. He said: "I cut my wife's wrist so that she died. She cut mine first. I would rather be dead than be called a thief, and when my wife found I was going to kill myself she wanted to die, too. We arranged that she should kill me and I should kill her."

A modern treatment for nervous prostration requires that the patient be put to bed in a quiet room and fed for weeks on enormous quantities of milk. He must take exercise, however, and this he does by proxy through the device of massage. He must do absolutely nothing for himself and if his nose itches the nurse must scratch it. Patients under such treatment sometimes gain four or five pounds of flesh per week. It is, of course, a luxury for the rich.

You have often noticed the many-tinted burning in the grate, but, ten chances to York World. one, you never thought to figure on the cause. To bring the matter quickly to the point, it may be said that the many colors are the result of combustion among the different elements of the wood. The light blue is from the hydrogen and the white from carbon. The violet is from manganese, the red from magnesia, and the yellow from soda.

The story is going the rounds that a certain deaf man who is too stingy to buy an ear trumpet or much of any thing else and is notorious for his niggardly traits, the other day went into a meat market and wanted to know how much he could buy a certain soup bone for. The proprietor is generous fellow and replied, "Oh, I'll give you this." Then the old man with his hand on his ear exclaimed "Can't you take a little off from that?" Poor fellow, he hadn't heard, and the dealer, taking pity on him, said, "Yes call it 10 cents."

The reason why anything of a red color excites and infuriated animals of the ox family is because red is the complimentary color of green, and the eyes of cattle being long fixed on the green herbage while feeding, when they espy anything red it impresses their sight with a greatly increased intensity. No doubt the same effect is produced upon all grazing animals by being suddenly confronted with the color red, but oxen and bulls, being more pugnacious, show greater excitement, and will even attack that which surprises them.

An exchange says a man who goes to see a girl twice a week, and takes her to places is legally engaged to her, according to a recent decision, whether he says anything lence, annunciators, bath-rooms, etc. to her about marriage or not, and she could recover suit for breach of promise. We hope the girls will take advantage of this decision and force the young men to marry them. Young men have a habit of loafing about a girl's house for years, and then drifting off without saying a word about marriage. While a young man is loafing around a girl's house he probably keeps some one away who would talk

Every well appointed kitchen should contain at least one office stool, such as are use by clerks who write at high desks It allows mistress or maid to work as readily sitting or standing at various employments without that wearisome gesture of stretching up the arm to a level with a table or ironing-board. Another important advantage is that the feet rest upon its rounds and thus remove the weight of the body from them. This in itself is more comfortable and refreshing than women are accustomed to consider, and the ease with which one may turn about on a revolving seat is a wonderful convenience.

Stub Ends of Thought.

A woman never loses her head until she oses her heart.

Love is the common center of converging sympathies.

If there were but one man and one woman on earth, the woman would be the fir st to be jealous.
