The Army Worm. suffered considerably this season from a raid on meadows and grain fields by the army worm. It came too late to do much harm to wheat, rye and barley; but oats, corn and timothy fed the armies wherever found. Potatoes were untouched, peas sown with oats were left while the oats were eaten, and clover and timothy was left. The true army worm, seldom, if ever, touches the foliage of trees of shrubs. There are many invasions of insects known as the army worm, but this is the only real army worm, and is known scientifically as Leucania unipuncia. It may be recognized by the general dingy black color with the following longitudinal stripes: On the back is a broad dusky stripe with a narrow white line in the center; below this is a narrow black line, yellowish stripe, and an obscure white line; the belly is a dirty green,

The army worms change but little in color through their entire growth. When fully grown they are about one and onehalf inches long. They then bury themselves in the ground, when they finish feeding, and a few days later transform to a chrysalis, or pupa. They will remain in this condition until the last of August or first of September, when they will appear as a reddish brown moth, similar to the dingy moths flying around the lights at night. These moths do not feed on the plants, but mate; and a tew days later the female will commence laying eggs on the grass in meadows, pastures and especially waste places. such as marshes and "cat holes." The moths soon die. The eggs remain over winter, and the next spring hatch out into small army worms that feed and grow just as their predecessors did. The army worm caterpillars and moths may be found in limited numbers almost any season, but it is only an occasional season when they march out from their usual feeding ground. the marshes, and strip the surrounding fields of their growing crops. A dry season, such as that of last year, is very favorable for them to increase rapidly and soon spread outside of the marshes on surrounding grass, when tender food becomes scarce. If people with marshes on or near their farms would take the trouble to burn the marshes property, or stocks of goods, stocks, hotels, mills, etc., call on or fall. they would burn most of the eggs, and so prevent what might result in an army worm invasion the next year.

The prospects are that there will be no general invasion next year. There are a great many parasites, such as the "blow flies" and slender bee-like parasites that lay their eggs on the army worms. The egg hatches into a maggot that feeds on the army worm, destroys it, and later changes into a parasite like its parent. If the parasites have done as good work in all the state as in the regions visited by myself, and we do not have a dry autumn, there will be little danger of an attack next year, as nearly every caterpillar collected has been killed by some parasite.

When an army worm invasion occurs, the best thing that can be done is to trap the caterpillars in ditches. When they some certain direction, and few obstructions stop them or change their course. If they come to a building, they clirub up over it, down on the other side, and continue on their journey. If it is a brook they bridge it with their numbers and pass on, or perish in the attempt. When they come to a ditch, they drop into it and JOHN attempt to climb up the other side, but if it is properly constructed, they will keep dropping back because of the loose soil near the top. When the ditch is well covered, kerosene may be poured along in it and ignited, or straw put in the ditch and burned. Another method is to plow or cut another ditch in front of the first ditch, and bury the ones in the first ditch, and so continue ditching ahead of them, When the army is once in a field, dittle can be done to stop their ravages, except

WAR DECLARED.

LONDON, Aug. 2 .- War was formally declared between China and Japan at noon. This news was first received by the Exchange Telegraph company, and was confirmed at 2 o'clock p. m. when the Japanese minister here informed the earl of Kimberly, the secretary of state for foreign affairs, that a state of war existed between the two countries. Further confirmation is contained in a press dispatch from Tokio saying that the Japanese government has informed the representatives of the foreign powers here that a state of war exists between Japan and China.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.-At 11 o'clock in the morning of July 27, the day after the attack on the Chinese transports which resulted in the sinking of the Kow Shung, the Japanese warships Takachiho and Hiyei made an attack upon the Chinese ironclad Chen Yuen. After a long and desperate fight the Japanese vessels were beaten off, the Hiyei being disabled and rendered helpless. The Chen Yuen, though badly damaged, succeeded in reaching port in safety, in company with two gunboats which also took part in the engagement, and immediately went into dry dock for repairs after her two days' fighting.

Li Hung Chang Punished.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6 -Dispatches have been received confirming the report that the emperor has divested Viceroy Li Hung Chang of the order of the Yellow Riding Coat, which is the highest order in China, allowing the wearer privileges next to the emperor. The emperor, the dispatches say, has freely expressed his anger at the viceroy's having allowed Japan to get ahead of China in preparing for war. The act of the emperor in divesting the viceroy of this order does not necessarily imply his deposition from office.

The action of the emperor in divesting Viceroy Li Hung Chang of the order of the Yellow Jacket has fallen like a thunderbolt here, as it is feared that the incident will lead to his complete overthrow. He is regarded here as the only leader capable of coping with Japan in the inevitable long war. Emperor Issues an Edict.

LONDON, Aug. 6. SEMILLANTE'S WRECK.

A Thrilling Story of the Sardinian Sea.

night has thrown us on the Corsican of the sea, of which the fishermen of the place often speak at eventide, and about which chance has enabled me

we were flying before the tempest, our ressel came for refuge to the mouth of the Straits of Bonifacio, among some little islands. Their aspect was not alluring. They were great, bald rocks, covered with birds, some bushes of lentisk, a few tufts of absinthe, and here and there. in the slime, decaying pieces of wood. But, my soul! it was better to pass the night among these sinister rocks than to be on a frail old bark, half decked, where the blast came in as though it were quite at home; so we contented ourselves.

No sooner had we disembarked than ing to a little inclosure surrounded by a white wall almost lost in the mist at the end of the island. "Will you come to the cemetery?" said he.

with that fog, that noon was worth no more than a night as black as the jaws of a wolf. A life-saver of the coast told me that the sameday toward halfpast eleven, having gone out of his eabin to fasten his shutters, the wind whirled away his cap, and at the risk of being carried off himself by the blast he commenced to crawl-along the beach on all fours after it. You see the douaniers aren't rich, and a cap costs. Well, it seems that our man, lifting his head, saw right near him, through the fog a great ship scudding along under bare poles toward the Lavezzi islands.

"This ship went very fast, so fast that he had hardly time for a good look. Everything points to the belief that it was the Semillante, because a half hour later the shepherds of the islands heard-why, here comes the shepherd himself, he will tell you. Bonjour, Palombo. Come, warm thyself. Have no fear."

A muffled man, whom I had seen for some minutes prowling around our fire, and whom I had taken for one of the crew, because I did not know that there was a shepherd on the island, approached us timidly. He was an old leper, three-quarters of an idiot and a prey to I know not what other scorbutic evil, which made his lips horrible to behold, so swollen were they. They explained to him at length what we were talking about; then lifting his dreadful lips coast, let me tell you a terrible story with his finger, the old man said that on the day in question, about noon, he heard from his hut a frightful crash on the rocks, but as the island was covered with water he could not get out to see. It was not until the next morning that on opening his door he had seen the beach covered with driftwood and corpses, left did not have one good day through there by the waves. Insane with fear he had fled to his boat to go to Bonifacio for help.

> Tired with having said so much, the shepherd sat down and the captain went on with his story:

"Yes, monsieur, it was this poor old fellow who came to warn us. He was crazy with fright, and ever since his brain has been off the track. To tell the truth, there was cause enough for it. Imagine six hundred corpses in heaps on the sand, mixed with great timbers and strips of sail. Poor Semillante! The sea had crushed her into crumbs with one blow. Palombo with difficulty got enough wood to build a fence around his hut. As for the men, The contrast between them is very the sailors lighted a fire for the fish | figured and mutilated. It was pitiful soup, and the captain called me, point- to see them clinging together in bunches. We found the captain in gala uniform; the chaplain with his stole. In a corner, between two rocks, there was a little cabin boy, with his eyes open. One might have thought him alive; but, no, it had been decreed that not one should escape." Here he stopped.

Suddenly a crash! What is it? What can it be?

"The helm is gone," cries a dripping sailor, who goes running between decks. "Bon voyage!" shouts that madman, the brigadier-but no one laughs now. A great tumult on the bridge. The fog prevents their seeing one another. The sailors go and come, groping along frightened. The helm is gone. It is impossible to guide the ship. The Semillante adrift, fliés be fore the wind.

It is at this moment that the douanier sees her pass. It is half-after eleven. Just ahead, they hear, like the roar of a cannon, the breakers! The breakers! It is finished. There is no hope. They are going straight on the rocks. The captain goes down to his cabin. He comes up in a moment to take his place on the bridge in his full uniform. He wishes to meet death in brave attire.

Between decks, the soldiers, in mortal terror, gaze at one another without a word. The sick try to sit up, the little brigadier laughs no longer. Then the door opens, and the chaplain with his stole appears on the threshold.

"To your knees, my children!" All obey. In a ringing voice the priest begins the prayer for the dying.

Suddenly a fearful shock, a great cry, upstretched arms, clinging hands, wild eyes, before which the vision of death has flashed. Miserere!

It was thus that I passed the night dreaming, bringing back through ten years the souls who had perished in the poor ship whose debris surrounded me. Far away in the strait the tempest raged. The flame of the fire bent under the blast, and I heard our bark thrashing and straining at her moorings at the foot of the rocks.-Alphonse Daudet, in Romance.

THE ARAB AND THE JEW.

An Oriental Critic's View of Two of the Weekly Papers of the City.

A Jewish professor, who is versed in the Oriental languages, looked over two weekly papers printed in this city, one of them in the Hebrew language. with Hebrew characters, and the other in the Arabic language, with Arabic characters. "Look," he said, as he placed the two pretty sheets together, "at the peculiarities of the type used in each of them. Take notice of the power, breadth, depth, rectangularity and solidarity of the Hebrew type. Take notice of the Saracenic delicacy, the ornateness, the subtlety, ingenusuggestive. Again, the reader who studies the style of the literary compositions in the two papers will notice that Hebrew thought is broad, strong and upright, like the Hebrew characters, while the Arabic thought is sinuous, tenuous and ornate, as the Arabic characters. The differentiation of the Hebrew from the Arabic, both in the forms of the type and in the expressions of the mind, will strike every critic who places the two papers together, looks at them closely and 154-156 West Van Buren street: makes a study of their contents. Yet both the Hebrews and the Arabs belong to the Semitic race and are monotheists. History and circumstances must be taken into account when tracing the characteristic differences between the two branches of the family." -N. Y. Sun.

BIG FIRES.

Destructive and Fatal Work of the Flames at Various Points.

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.-Fire swept through 800 , acres of the lumber district between Blue Island avenue and the river and Roby street and Ashland avenue Wednesday night, destroying over 90,000,000 feet of lumber, the new plant of the Siemans-Halske company, two foundries of the Wells-French company, the new foundry of the Chicago stove works, the plant of the Barber Asphalt company and the Farnum foundry

The following lives were lost during the fire:

William Wollenfell, 683 Union avenue, struck by a cap blown off engine No. 25 at the foot of Paulina street, knocked into the river and drowned; Lieut. John McGinn, of fireboat Geyser, burned about face, body and hands, died at the county hospital; unknown boy, drowned in slip A, pushed into the water by the crowd.

Four thremen and four other persons were severely injured

A revised list of the losses by Wednesday night's fire in the lumber district show a total of $1,473,500; insurance, $781,900. The cause of the fire is still unknown. It is generally believed that a spark from a Chicago Burlington & Quincy engine, which was working in the vicinity of the place where the fire started, fell into the shavings and was fanned to a blaze by the wind.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 4.-One fireman was killed and six were injured Thursday afternoon 'in a fire which destroyed the planing-mill and lumber yards of E. G. Richards & Co. and Hunton, Myles & Weeks. The property loss will amount to $60,000. The plants were located at Franklin and River streets, adjoining the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee tracks. The blaze was discovered shortly after 3 o'clock. The water supply was so poor that the firemen were hampered. They succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to adjoining factories, but several frieght cars, with their contents; were destroyed before they could be removed. The Richards planing mill was of brick, three stories high.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 .-- Two firemen were killed and five injured in a fire Thursday which destroyed the mill building at kandolph and Jefferson streets. The building was 200 feetlong and four stories in height and was situated in the heart of the mill district. It was owned by David Cochran, who occupied the third and fourth floors for spinning cotton yarns. A part of the second floor was used by McCloskey & O'Hara as a carpet cleaning establishment. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark struck by a nail in the picking machine on the second floor.

FAILED TO ACT.

R. U. Convention Refuses to De-The A. clare the Strike Off.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 .- The convention of Américan Railway union Friday by a unanimous vote decided to conform to. the laws of the organization and take no action in the way of declaring the strike off. The action of the convention leaves the strike situation in exactly the same position that was before the delegates asit sembled Thursday morning. Under the laws of the organization a strike can only be ordered by a threefourths vote of the men on a system. This was the procedure that brought on the recent great tie-up. Under the same law the strike can only be declared off by the men themselves, and this is the way such action will have to be taken, if it is taken at all.

The most important action that the present convention has taken during the present session was taken Friday night at a meeting held in Uhlich's hall. At that meeting the committee on resolutions, consisting of Charles Dahl and James Bruce submitted a lengthy report, which proposed to settle the trouble of the railroad men at the ballot box. The resolutions submitted by the committee called upon the railroad men particularly, and workingmen generally, to support the political party, "bearing the sovereign name of the people." This is taken to mean that the American Railway union has gone on record for the people's party, and that they will do all that lies in their power to secure the election of the candidate of that party.

SENATORS ARE INNOCENT.

Result of the Work of the Sugar Investigating Committee.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.-Senator Gray, chairman, presented the report of the sugar investigating committee to the senate and asked that the committee be discharged. The main report is signed by all the members of the committee, but Senators Lodge and Davis present a supplemental report, and Senator, Allen also presents his own views on some features of the case. The report, which has the approval of the full committee, recites the causes which led up to the investigation and quotes the article from the Philadelphia Press on which the charge against senators was based. Secretary Carlisle is exonerated, and the parts of the article reflecting on him are declared to be without foundation, "except that it is a fact, according to Secretary Carlisle's testimony, that he did, at the request of Senator Jones, of the finance committee, draft an amendment to the sugar schedule, a copy of which as described by Mr. Carlisle is attached as an exhibit to the testimony." The conduct of Mr. Edwards, says the report, in publishing specific charges against public men without having personal knowledge of the facts calls for the serious reprobation of the senate.

As the violent storm of the other to learn strange particulars.

It was three years ago. I was sailing the Sardinian sea with seven or eight sailors of the coast survey. It was a rough voyage for a novice; we March. The wind was furious and the waves never calmed. One evening, as "A cemetery, captain! where are we?

"On the Lavezzi islands, monsieur. The six hundred men of the frigate Semillante are buried here at the spot where she was lost ten years ago. Poor fellows! As they don't receive many visits, the least we can do is to go and say: Bonjour to them so long as we are here.'

"With all my heart, captain."

How sad it was, the cemetery of the Semillante! I see it still, with its little, low wall; its open door, rusty and hard to open; its silent chapel; the hundreds of black crosses hidden by the weeds. Not one wreath of immortelles, not one souvenir-nothing! Ah, the poor, abandoned dead! How cold they must be in their chance tombs! We stayed a moment kneeling. The captain prayed aloud. Enormous gulls, the only guardians of the cemetery, circled over our heads, mingling their hoarse cries with the wailing of the sea. The prayer finished, we came sadly back to the corner of the island where the bark was anchored. No time had been lost during our absence. We found a great fire flaming in the shelter of a rock, and the soup smoking. Sitting down in a circle, with our feet to the flames, soon each had onhis knees a bowl of red pottery, in which were two slices of black bread, covered plentifully with the broth. The repast was a silent one. We were wet, we were hungry, and then, the nearness of the graveyard!

However, when the bowls were emptied we lighted our pipes and talked a little-naturally of the Semillante.

"Tell me, how did it happen?" I asked the captain, who, with his head on his hands, stared at the flames with a thoughtful air.

"How did it happen?" said the good Lionetti with a heavy sigh. "Alas, no human being can tell. All we know is that the Semillante, laden with troops, left Toulon the evening before in bad weather. During the night it grew worse-wind, rain, and a terrible sea, the like of which was never seen before. In the morning the wind fell a little, but the sea was worse, if possible, and with it the devil's own fog, so that one could not have distinguished a beacon light four feet away. The ship pitches horr bly. It is impos-Those fogs, monsieur! You have no sible to stand up. Sitting on the floor, idea how deceitful they are! But I talking in groups, they cling to the also have an idea that the Semillante benches. It is necessary to shout to must have lost her helm in the morn- be heard. Some begin to be frighting, for the captain, even in a heavy ened. Listen then: wrecks are frefog, could hardly have made such a mistake. He was a well-tried mariner. Here to say so, and what they say is We all known in the say so, and what they say is

"Careful Nardi," said he, "the fire is going out."

Nardi threw two or three tarred logs on the embers, which quickly blazed again.

Lionetti continued: "The saddest part of the story is yet to come. Three weeks before the disaster a little cutter, which was going to the Crimea like the Semillante, was wrecked in the same way, nearly in the same place, only this time we managed to save the crew and twenty soldiers who were on board. We took them to Bonifacio, and kept them there at the station with us for two days. Once thoroughly dry and on foot again, it was good-by, good luck. They returned to Toulon, from which port they embarked again several days later for the Crimea. And imagine on what ship! On the Semillante. We found them all-twenty, lying among the dead just where we are now. I picked up myself a handsome brigadier, with s long mustache, a strapling from Paris, whom I had taken to my own house, and who made us laugh all the time with his stories. To see him there crushed me. Oh, Holy Mother!"

Thereupon the good Lionetti, much moved, shook the cinders from his pipe, and rolling himself in his cape, wished me good-night.

Still under the influence of the lugubrious tale which I had heard, I tried to rebuild in my fancy the poor, deloses sight of the port. The sea is bad, the wind high. The captain is a valundisturbed. In the morning a mist blooms."-Youth's Companion. rises from the sea. They commence to be uneasy. All the crew are on deck. The captain does not leave the bridge. Between decks, where the soldiers are shut up, it is dark, the air is close. Some are ill, lying on their knapsacks.

Association of Ideas.

Mr. Barker, who claims to be at home in all that pertains to good cooking, was sitting on the hotel piazza one evening lately, explaining to his friends, Lawyer Thompson and Col. Robb, the manner of preparing the latest fad in delicacies-the snail-for the breakfast table.

Thompson was interested, but Robb was quiet and seemed drowsy. Suddenly he brightened up.

"I saw three of them playing marbles in front of the post office this morning," he remarked.

"Why, what's the matter with you, colonel?" asked Mr. Barker. "I'm talking about snails."

"Well, I'm talking about messenger boys," said the colonel. "Go on with your conversation."-Golden Days.

Optimistic.

The turn of mind which makes one see beauty in everything is a happy possession. A gentleman of poetic disposition in passing with a friend parted ship, and the story of this agony through a garden where cherry trees of which the seagulls were the only were in bloom, said: "Look at those witnesses. Several details which had trees! Aren't they beautiful? They struck me, the captain in gala dress, look as if they were covered with the chaplain's stole, the twenty sol- snow." A few days later a spring diers, helped me to imagine all the storm loaded those trees heavily with scenes of the drama. I saw the frigate snow. The same gentleman went past leaving Toulon in the night. She them with the same friend, and this time he exclaimed: "Look at those trees. Aren't they beautiful? They iant officer, and everyone on board is look as if they were covered with

DISASTROUS FIRE IN IOWA.

Business Portion of the City of Marion Swept by the Flames.

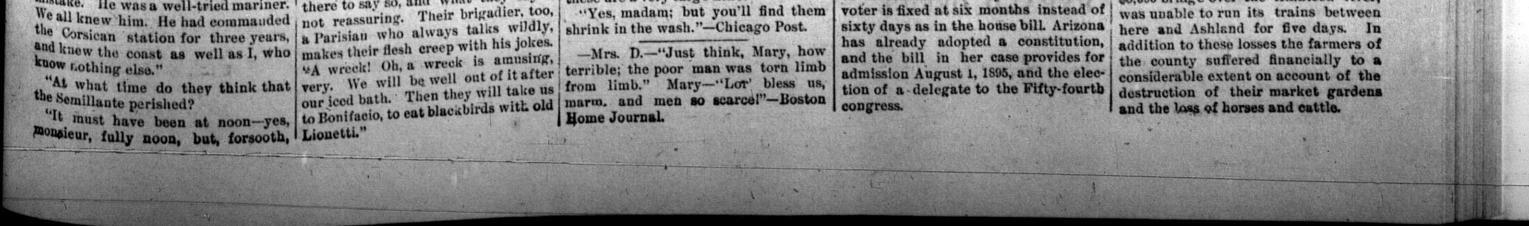

MARION, Ia., Aug. 6.-Shortly after 4 o'clock Friday morning fire broke out in a lumber pile adjoining the electric light plant and rapidly spread to adjoining buildings. In two hours all but two of the buildings of one entire block were in ruins. Twice the fire was under control before it reached the business blocks, but the water failed at the critical moment owing to the trouble with the waterworks machinery. Assistance came from Cedar Rapids and the fire was then brought under control. The principal losses are as follows:

Electric light and gas plant $30,000, no insurance; Daniels estate, buildings, $10,000. insurance $3.500; H. I. Elliott, photographer, $2.800, insurance $1,000; Keyes estate, building, $5,000, insurance $2,200; Lillis & Wilson, drugs, $6,000, insurance $3,500; B. H. Numerous other small losses with small insurance swell the total loss to $115,000, with aggregate insurance less than one-third that amount.

LOSSES BY FOREST FIRES.

Damage in the Vicinity of Superior, Wis,. Is More Than $100,000.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 4.-To estimate the loss caused by the late forest fires in this county would be difficult, but, it is safe to say that $100,000 worth of pine timber alone was consumed, beside the hundreds of cords of cedar, thousands of cords of fuel wood and large piles of valuable cedar posts. Twelve homesteaders lost their places of abode and many others lost large crops of hay. About $10,000 worth of railroad bridges were burned and the railroads were obliged to suspend traffic over the burned districts at different times. The Northern Pacific road, which lost its $8,000 bridge over the Amnicon river,

The Care of Lamps.

It is unnecessary to wash and boil the burners of lamps more than once a year if they have been rightly cared for. Keep a small, stiff brush (an old tooth-brush will do), and when cleaning the lamps brush the burners off with this, wiping afterward Dr. with a soft flannel cloth. This will keep Dr. them bright and free from dust. To trim the wick turn it up, and holding the burner so that the charred portions will not drop on it simply brush it off, thus allowing it to trim itself. It is almost impossible to trim a wick evenly with scissors. To polish metal 1 mps rub them off with a soft cloth on which has been polish the chimneys, saturate a small cloth with a little alcohol and wash off the grime and smoke inside. Wash the brushes and cloths used in the care of lamps often.

Tests for Pure Butter.

It is said that it is an almost certain test PALMER & TWITCHELL. of pure butter to melt it and note the color and odor. A German chemist gives the following directions: "Pure fresh butter, when melted, is perfectly clear, or only very slightly cloudy, usually dark yellow, and has the familiar odor of pure butter fat. Pure stale butter may be very cloudy and even opaque when melted, is usually of a dark-yellow color, and has the odor Minnie Kantlehner, who have been spend of rancid butter. Proceedings of the State Convention at Grand Rapids.

John T. Rich Repominated for Governor -Names of the Other Candidates Selected and the Platform Adopted.

WORK OF THE CONVENTION. GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 1.-The republican state convention was called to order by W. R. Bates, secretary of the state central committee, at 10:25 a. m. yesterday. After the call of the convention had been read Mayor Fisher made an address of welcome. Secretary Bates introduced Phillip T. Colgrove, of Hastings, as temporary chairman. In accepting the honor Mr. Colgrove made address, reviewing the efforts of a democratic congress to W. Smith, of Adrian, was elected temporary secretary. At 11:30 a recess was taken till 2 o'clock.

The Ticket.

When the convention reassembled the temporary officers were made permanent. As the committee on resolutions was not ready to report, nominations for the state ticket were proceeded with and the following were nominated:

For governor, John T. Rich, of Lansing. For lieutenant governor, Alfred Milnes, of Coldwater. For secretary of state, Rev. Washington

Gardner, of Albion. For treasurer, James M. Wilkinson, of Mar-

For auditor general, Stanley W. Turner, of Roscommon. For attorney general, Fred

We believe in the protection and elevation of the standard of American citizenship, and that the safety of this republic depends upon the intelligence and loyalty of ts supporters: that it should be sustained for the welfare and happiness of its people, and that for the preserva-tion thereof the right of suffrage should be limited to those who have fully acquired American citizenship.

We believe that the security of life, the free exercise of personal rights, and the enjoyment of equal opportunities before the law are the essence of liberty, and should be the first care of all governments. That, as there can be no liberty without free speech and the free exercise of the personal and political rights of the citizen, we denounce the action of the democratic party in the repeal of the election laws, and such action is an invitation to falsify by fraud and violence the will of the people. And we demand the enactment and enforcement of laws that shall protect the citizen of the republic at home as well as abroad.

Greetings to Hawaii.

The following was submitted as an independent resolution and adopted:

Whereas, Intelligence from authentic sources and through authentic channels having reached this country that the people of the Hawalian islands, after a peaceful revolution, did on the 4th day of last July, the natal day of this great republic, issue through their constituted authorities their proclamation of independence and announced to the nations of the earth their establishment as a free and independent republic among nations, therefore be it

Resolved. That we, the delegates of the republican state convention, send a hearty greeting and welcome to our young sister republic of the seas. and assure her of our most earnest sympathy and best wishes for a glorious future.

Resolved. That we recognize the republican press of the state as one of the most important and influential factors in the success of the republican party, and urge a closer relationship between the party organizations of the state and counties and the republican press to the end that the latter may receive the recognition to which it is entitled in the conduct and management of the campaign. We believe in the honesty and integrity of the republican press of Michigan and desire to take advantage of this occasion to give formal expression of our high appreciation of the invaluable services rendered the party in the past and to be rendered n the future.

Hon. Thomas McMillan was reelected chairman of the state central committee and the convention adjourned.

FOUGHT WITH ROBBERS.

One Man Killed and Another Fatally Wounded at Chandler, O. T.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Aug. 1.-Five men attempted on fuesday to rob the bank at Chandler, near here. As a result one citizen, J. M. Mitchell, a barber, is dead, and one of the outlaws, who gives his name as Ernest Lucas, is dying. Lucas is 21 years of age and said his comrades were the members of the notorious Cook gang, that has recently given territory officials so much trouble. Soon after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning five armed men rode into Chandler from the east and dismounted back of the Lincoln county bank, and three rushed inside, while two stood guard at the doors with Winchesters. Two men covered the president, Harvey Lee, and his brother, the cashier, demanded that they turn and the cash, while the third over rushed into the private office, where Teller Hoyt was seriously sick, compelled him to walk to the safe and attempt to open it. Although a Winchester was pointed in his face he could not stand long enough, but fell to the floor and the robber kicked him and shot at him but missed fire. The men on guard called out that it was time to go and the three men seized between $200 and $300 lying on the counter and ran out to the horses. In the meantime the guard at the front door had shot and killed J. M. Mitchell, a barber who attempted to give the warning. The bandits had scarcely passed out of the city when posse started in pursuit. Twice were the horses shot from under the fleeing men, but they compelled farmers coming to town to give up their mounts and went on. Finally a battle was fought for nearly fifteen minutes, when one of the robbers was shot through the hip and the others scattered and disappeared in the hills of the Creek country.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Health in Michigan.

During the week ended July 28 reports sent in by fifty-four observers in various portions of the state to the state board of health indicated that neuralgia and remittent fever decreased in area of prevalence. Typhoid fever was reported at twentythree places and diphtheria at eighteen, measles at fourteen, and scarlet fever at thirty-one, consumption at two hundred and twenty-nine, and smallpox at Grand Rapids, Detroit, Sturgis, Frenchtown, Berlin, Pontiac and Macomb.

Timber Land Purchased.

Nine thousand acres of timber land in Delta and Alger counties have been purchased by the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company, the consideration being $20,000. The company has commenced the construction of a $250,000 furnace at Gladstone for the manufacture of coke and charccal iron, and the timber from the lands they have purchased will be used as fuel. When the land is cleared it will be disposed of at a nominal figure to prospective farmers.

All four men were from Detroit, and some of them leave families.

Population of Michigan.

Footings of the state census taken in June show a total population for the state of 2,241,000. This is a gain of 147,000 over 1890 and of 387,000 over 1884. The seventy incorporated cities show a population of 821,023 or 37 per cent. of the total for the state. Since 1884 the rate of increase in the cities has been four times that of the balance of the state.

A Curiosity.

A curiosity was run across in a Reading sawmill in the shape of a log of wood about 10 feet in diameter, in the center of which was embedded a stone weighing about four pounds. The stone was grown into the wood, there being no knot hole or other opening stration in Asiatic waters. The entire

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Bumors of Another Battle- Uncle Sam's Attitude.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.-The rumor current to the effect that the Japanese fleet had captured three men-of-war has not yet been confirmed. It is believed here-that the report is possibly a rehash of the reports of the prior engagements of the fleet.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 .- A strong denial is entered at the state department of the story that the United States has entered or will enter into a treaty with European powers to forcibly occupy and keep open the treaty ports of China. It is also denied that any overtures to that end have come to us from other countries. When the conditions were such that war was only threatened the United States did use its good offices to avert the evil. It did so to carry out a solenn obligation imposed upon us by the treaty with Corea, whereby we bound ourselves to protect Corea.

It is said at the state department that the attitude of the United States toward the belligerents in the present war will be patterned upon our course at Rio. We will side with neither China nor Japan, but, as was indicated by Mr. Bayard, our ambassador to Great Britain, who is fully aware of what is going on, the attitude of the United States will be one of "benevolent neutrality." This plan is in keeping with our traditions, and its prudence and safety has been amply demonstrated in the past.

As far as our own commerce is concerned we will accord it such measure of protection and immunity from interference as may be justly claimed as our rights, but the present disposition at the state department is to do this individually or not in concert with other European nations. In other words, while we may act as the other powers on this point, we will not be a party to any joint treaty or combination the object of which is forcible interference in China or Japan. Doubtless it will develop that in many points we may act in accord with other commercial powers, but as it remained for us at Rio to adopt a bold and radical course single-handed, so it may be in China or Japan that we shall act independently upon a certain condition of affairs.

At present we are scarcely in a position to make much of a naval demonby which it could have been placed in- United States fleet there consists of two-vessels-the Baltimore and the Monocacy. About a week ago orders were sent to Behring sea to have the Concord and the Petrel sent over to join the station, and that is all that has been done in that direction so far.

It is officially stated by the Russian embassy at Washington that the trans-Siberian railway when completed in 1900 will be 6,700 miles long. More than 25,000 men are at work on the enterprise now, and 1,500 miles have been completed. If trains run at an average rate of thirty miles an hour over this route it will require about nine and a half days to go from St. Petersburg to Vladivostock on the Pacific.

A PECULIAR incident happened recently in connection with the rifle practice of a New York regiment at the New Jersey state camp at Sea Girt. While one of the officers was firing at a target, three hundred yards away, three black birds flew across the range, and at the crack of the rifle one of thbirds fell. Upon examination it was found that the bullet had gone through the body of the bird, and, without deviation, had buried itself in the center of the target.

HANNIBAL BOBBLESCHMIDT, an ingenious inventor, of Little Hardserabble, O., has devised what he calls a "portable boarding-house." It consists of a stout strap, which may be placed around a man's chest and under his arms. There is a hook on the back, and with this he hangs himself upon any convenient nail, staple or turnbuckle that may present itself, and sleeps calmly without fear of kicking off the covers. The "portable boardinghouse" is for summer use only.

WHEN Nathan Strauss, the New York philanthropist, established his so-called sterilized milk stations in that city and declared his intention of selling milk at a cent a glass it was predicted that he would lose money through the venture. As he had no desire to make any money out of the project, he was not deterred by the predictions of its failure. The sales at those stations, however, have now reached the large

The Platform.

The platform adopted by the convention is as follows:

We, the representatives of the republican party of Michigan in convention assembled hereby affirm and renew our faith and hope in the cardinal principles and purposes of the republican party-the principles which have made our country great and prosperous and the purposes which will it from present most unthe happy and demoralized era of democratic misrule out again through night to light into an era of hope and happiness and prosperity for our country and our state.

We heartily approve of the administration of the duties of his office by Gov. John T. Rich, and unreservedly commend his attention to public interests and his prompt and fearless performance of every duty devolving upon him.

We reaffirm our adherence and increased devotion to the American doctrine of protection. THOUSANDS OF HOGS.

Shortage of Food Causes Farmers to Send Them to Market.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.- Records for the midsummer months were broken by the enormous arrivals of cattle and hogs at the stock yards Monday. Only once in the history of the trade have Monday's receipts of 27,000 cattle been exceeded even during the heavy spring and autumn shipments. During the last ten years less than a half-dozen days have seen the arrivals of hogs numbering more than 60,000 head. Monday's run was estimated at 61,000 head.

The great rush is accounted for by the combination of circumstances and conditions. Pastures in the states of Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa have been scorched. Corn fields that two weeks ago gave promise of a fair crop are withered and burned so that no quantity of rain would now be a benefit. "There is no hope of a corn crop now," say the shippers. "We cut less than a ton of hay to three acres and our pastures are as barren as the beaten road. Cattle are losing flesh every day and they must be shipped to stop loss."

DEATH OF AUSTIN BLAIR.

The Famous War Governor of Michigan Passes Away-His Career.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 6.-Ex-Gov. Austin Blair, Michigan's "war governor," passed away at his home in this city at 1:20 o'clock this morning. His death was peaceful. . At 11 o'clock Sunday night the attending physician said the ex-governor could not live two hours and summoned the members of his family to his bedside. They were with him when he died. He has been unconscious since last Friday strength was exhausted. His ailment was inflammation of the bladder and bothered him for years, but this was not considered dangerous until complications of the kidneys arose, from which he has been gradually sinking for some time, having been confined to his bed for two months. During the last three weeks he has failed rapidly. A year ago he announced that he would write a book on "Recollections of a War Governor." He was busily engaged on this for some time, and it is believed this had something to do with hastening his end.

With the exception of Gov. Felch. who still survives, Gov. Blair was the oldest governor living. Of his successors Gov. Jerome, Gov. Begole, Gov. Alger and Gov. Luce are living, while Gov. Wiman died a month ago.

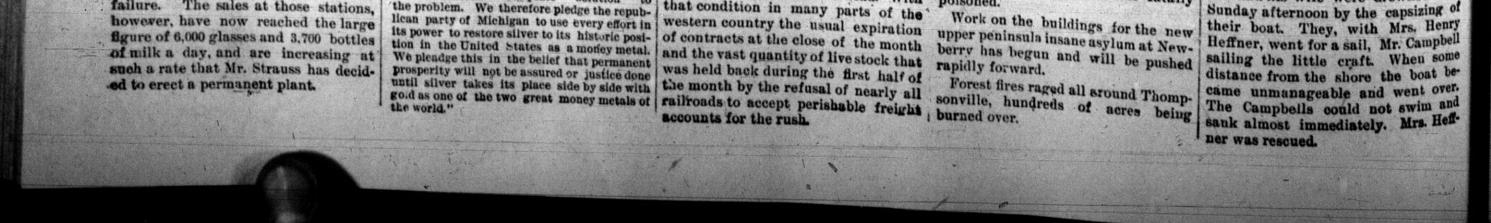

Austin Blair was born in Caroline, Tompkins county, N. Y., February 8, 1818, and was in his 7th year. He came to Michigan in 1831, and settled in Jackson in 1841, beginning his politlcal career when elected county clerk the same year. He held several other minor of fices before being elected governor in 1860 and again in 1862. He was a prominent factor in the formation of the republican party under the oaks in Jackson in 1834. In 1858 he was defeated for the nomination for congress. but in 1860 he headed the Michigan delegation to the Chicago convention that nominated Lincoln, being elected himself the same year a governor. He was elected to congress in 1800. 1868 and 1870.

During his last term he became somewhat antagonized toward the administration, and in 1872 took the stump for Horace Greeley. He was the democratic candidate for governor in 1874, but was defeated, and a few years later returned to the party which he helped to organize. In 1883 he was elected on the republican ticket as regent of the state university. From 1885 to 1887 he was prose cuting attorney of Jackson county and was nominated for justice of the supreme court, but suffered defeat.

these of the Santa Fe and Eastern Illinois Roads to Continue the Fight-Synopsis of the Appeal of the A. E. U. Couvention.

DECLARED OFF.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 .- With the exception of the unions on the Santa Fe and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroads the local organization of the American Railway union, through their delegates in Uhlich's hall Sunday afternoon, declared the strike off so far as Chicago is concerned. This action will not necessarily affect the condition of the strike at other points, the unions of those places being free to take whatever action they may deem fit.

The striking employes of the Stock Tards company decided Sunday night to return to work.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 6 .- A mass meeting of miners was held near here and it was unimously decided to continue the strike for last year's scale. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 6 .- At a meeting Sunday night of the local lodge of the American Railway union the men on a strike voted conditionally to declare the strike off. A committee was appointed to make an appeal to the railway officials to reinnot be learned if the demand would be made to take back all or none of the strikers. Two of the roads have deelared that no agitator could secure work under any condition.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.-The report of the special committee on resolutions of the American Railway union which was submitted to the convention last Friday, and which was referred to the board of directors and the lawyers of the organization for revision, was completed Saturday evening and given to the public. Synopsis follows:

It explains the cause which brought the organization into existence to be the protection of raflroad employes from the aggressions and impositions of their employers, the rafiway corporations of the country. It denies that an effort was made to destroy the older brotherhood, but the only intention was to bring about a more perfect union, in which the will of the members should at all times rule. and to this end no strike was ordered except upon a majority vote of the local unions themselves. It says the employes of the Pullman Palace Car company were taken into the union at their own request.

Here follows a description of the town of

TWO WAYS. 和影響的 5.3 The Wastefulness of Mankind in Regard to Natural Resources. Mankind is almost invariably wasteful with natural resources, and is especially destructive of wild animals which yield valuable commercial products. The skin of the buffalo was so extremely useful that in the space of fifty years the millions upon millions of buffaloes which roamed the plains west of the Mississippi were exterminated. What we have done with our buffaloes the inhabitants of French Algeria and the wilder races to the southward of them, have done with their ostriches. In taking them for their plumes they have either exterminated them, or else driven them completely away to the southward out of their reach. Thus they have deprived themselves, as the hunters of the western prairies did, of a considerable source of income.

This is what the Arabs and other tribes of western Asia had already done. Ostriches were once abundant in Asia, but now are found only in small numbers in some almost inaccessible spots in Arabia and Persia.

A different policy has been pursued by the thrifty Dutch and English farmers of South Africa. They, too, hunted the ostrich until he ceased to be found in a wild state within the limits of Cape Colony, and then they set at work to domesticate him. In this they succeeded as admirably as the keepers of the Yellowstone National park state the men now out, but it could have succeeded in domesticating the buffalo.

Ostrich farming is now a lucrative business in South Africa. Eggs are procurred and artificially or naturally hatched and are worth twenty-five dollars apiece. Young birds are worth one hundred and fifty dollars apiecemore than a good horse in many parts of the United States-and a fine mature male ostrich is worth three hundred and fifty dollars. Yet not many years ago birds of this sort were pursued and killed merely to get three or four feathers out of their tails.

To some extent the negroes of Senegal shame their French neighbors, who have permitted the extermination of the ostrich farther to the northward and eastward. They have domesticated many of the birds without difficulty. They are, however, curiously afraid of them. All ostriches are exceedingly fond of picking up bright articles of every kind-jewels, trinkets, bracelets tening eyes of the Senegal babies. It strings to one's bow. is necessary to keep the children rigidly guarded from the gigantic birds; for the Senegal natives have not yet learned to construct pens or yards for the ostriches. At the last advices, there were in Cape Colony eighty thousand ostriches kept for their plumes; and the market for feathers has not become seriously overstocked. Ostriches have been profitably kept in the southern countries of South America and in California, although as yet on no such scale as in South Africa. The time is evidently near when all manner of wild creatures, which have heretofore yielded valuable productsexcept those which live in the seamust be kept in some sort of captivity or domestication in order to keep up the supply of their products. Not all wild creatures will yield their products once a year, as the ostrich and the angora and Cashmere goat, the llama, the alpaca or guanaco, which have all been domesticated, do. But it has been found profitable to raise certain animals for the value of the skin, which they can yield but once, and that upon their death. The skuuk, which yields the really valuable "black martin" fur of commerce, is being maintained on several "skunk farms" in the United States for the sake of his skin; and it is believed by many that in certain parts of the west buffalo raising, for the fur, beef and other products from the carcass, could be made profitable .- Youth's Companion.

Pullman and the conditions under which the workmen are said to be employed. It is said that while wages were reduced the price of rents remained the same, and that at the time the strike of the Pullman employes began they were indebted to the company in the sum of $0.000 for rents. "Thus the workingmen," says the resolutions, "found themselves in worse condition than did the workingmen in chattel davery, inasmuch as they did not receive their board and clothes for their labor, but found themselves in debt to their employer after faithfully laboring for him." Continuing, the report says that the General

Managers' association was formed in 1893 and prior to the organization of the American Railway union, supposedly as a social organization. but in reality for the purpose of crushing out the organizations among the railroad men.

It is said that the association promptly came to the assistance of the Pullman company and violated the interstate commerce law and interfered with the movement of the mails by refusing to carry passengers or express or mails unless also carrying the cars of the Pullman company. The excuse of the roads is said to have been that they had contracts with the Pullman company, and that if they did not carry its cars they would be liable for damages, and the claim is made that in most of the states the company could not have recovered damages because of the laws which excuse the breaking of contracts when their performance is made impossible by general strikes.

On the subject of violence the report says that it is the belief of the railroad men that these acts were committed by persons mentally irresponsible or else at the dictation of those who were the enemies of the workingmen. It is said that the only ones who could profit by such acts were the railroad com-

Frottiness and Beauty.

Prettiness is always coupled with simplicity, says an authority; it is incompatible with that which is large; a tall woman with masculine features cannot be pretty. Beauty is peculiarly a female p rfection; in the male sex it is rather a defect; a man can scarcely be beautiful without losing his manly characteristics-boldness, energy of mind, strength and robustness of limb; but, though a man may not be pretty or beautiful, he may be handsome or fine. A woman is fine who, with striking figure, unites shape and symmetry; a woman is handsome who has good features, and pretty if, with symmetry of features there is delicacy .- New York Evening Sun.
