Fair Items.

The summer season of 1894 has passed into history; the hazy, mellow, golden days of autumn are upon us, once more. The Chelsea fair is only a few days distant, when we hope to realize the dream of our ambition, to give to the people one of the greatest fairs ever held in this section of the country. The harvests are over, the seeding completed, the people should rest from their weary toil, and take a days recreation and enjoy themselves most heartily.

We have promised many entertainments for our many expected guests, that will refresh and delight all who accept our invitation, and the circle of our range is large indeed. We have distributed 1,500 premium books, posted large and small advertising bills a diameter of forty miles, a circumference of one hundred and twenty. If you enjoy music come to our free entertainments in music hall.

If you wish to get a clear idea of the financial and political situation of our country, come, as we have engaged speakers of great ability and eloquence. If you wish to meet old acquaintances, neighbors and friends, then come.

I will not tire you with a lengthy article this time, as this is to be my last fair item. I will wish you many successes in life, a merry, happy time, and hoping to see your smiling faces at the fair, I remain,

Yours Ever,
M. A. LOWRY, Pres.

Catholic Service.

We copy the following from the Grass Lake News:

"Rev. Fr. Considine, of Chelsea, celebrated mass at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cullen, in this village, on Wednesday morning last. Although our Catholic friends are not numerically strong in Grass Lake, yet the parlor in which they were assembled was well filled, and all reverently united in the solemn and impressive worship, led by their spiritual father and guide. After mass Father Considine addressed to his little flock words of kindly consolation and comfort, enjoining them to unwearied fidelity to God, to not omit prayers in their families, to honor the Sabbath day and to keep the ten commandments, all these, in accordance with the requirements of their honored and holy faith.

In the course of his remarks the reverend father said that this was the first divine service ever held by the Catholics in Grass Lake village. In the township, however, Catholic service has been held, i. e. at the home of the late Michael Gibes, north of the village.

Hereafter, it was promised, as occasion presented divine worship should be held in this village, and an intimation dropped that the next visit will occur soon after the approaching Christmas holiday.

Home at Dark.

Too much discipline possibly there was in the old Puritan upbraiding of children; too little of it there certainly is in many modern households. Whoever has occasion to be out of doors in the evening, in most residence quarters of our towns, is made painfully aware that too many children are outside homes when they ought to be in their beds. Often these children are girls just at the entrance of womanhood; more often boys from twelve to fifteen years. An expert has expressed the opinion that if the police had power to keep the children off the streets after dark, it would diminish vice and crime by one half. Might not our pastors add to their usefulness by specifically and pointedly admonishing parents on this subject, if they are not now doing it? In some towns the evil is a large one.

Rio, it is reported, looks like a great military camp, soldiers patrolling the streets, cavalry encamped in public gardens, launches patrolling the harbor front. The number killed is stated to be 328, and 213 wounded have entered the hospitals. Many of the wounded were taken to their homes.

HER MAJESTY.

Her majesty comes when the sun goes down
And clambers up to her throne, my knee;
Her royal robe is a small white gown,
And this is her majesty's stern decree:
"Let me know when the Sandman passes by,
For we're going to speak to him, you and I."
"There was once a monarch of old," I say,
"Who sat where the beach and the breakers met."
"Roll back!" he said to the waves one day,
"For the royal feet must not be wet!"
But the waves rolled on. For things there be,
I tell her, "that mind, not majesty."
"And silent and shy is the Sandman old,
And never, I'm sure since the world began,
Has anyone seen the sands of gold,
Or spoken a word to the kind old man;
But perhaps, when the twilight's gold turns gray,
You may see the old Sandman pass this way."
"For your majesty's eyes are young and bright,
Though mine with the dust of time are dim—
And possibly queens have a clearer sight
Than subjects who away to a sovereign's whim."
But I'll watch for him, Sweetheart and Queen,"
I say,
"And speak if I see him pass this way."
But the Sandman came! for the young eyes drooped,
And the small mouth curved in a drowsy smile!
Then down to her majesty's lips I stooped,
And kissed her and whispered a prayer the while:
"O Thou that givest Thy loved ones sleep, This night her majesty safely keep!"
—Edgar W. Abbot, in N. Y. Independent.

TWO AMBITIONS.

A Brief Tale of Life at a Frontier Army Post.

The chief and first tendency of the army, individually and collectively, is to love all new arrivals; the second and lasting one is to pick them to pieces and to backbite them.

We loved Miss Rohan with true Christian spirit when she first came to the fort. It being the headquarters of the regiment, and we having a band at our disposal, we gave her a serenade upon the night of her entrance upon military soil. The style of the serenade was largely in what our colonel called "Q minor," being his way of expressing "ultra classic." The programme had been arranged before we had had the pleasure of seeing Miss Rohan, and when we realized how entirely it was unsuited to her style,
there was no time to change.

We called on her in a body the night of the day that she came, which is the delightfully barbarous custom at military posts, like a lot of savages crowding about a newly-arrived runner who brings news of the outside world. It is meant well. Most of the insane and annoying things that we do in the social body are meant well, which is their only excuse. Nobody stops to think that the travel-stained wanderer would like time to rid herself of the rubbed-in coal soot and the alkali powder of the plains that she would like the first impression to be a favorable one.

We sat within the tawdry little parlor while the band played symphonies and andantes under the window, and we watched the drop of new blood in our stagnant veins. It was not blue blood in the least; it was hearty and red and strong; but it was the better appreciated on that account.

We were four, the bachelor officers—
I mean in the room—and one of us was undoubtedly doomed to become the prey of this young person. Which of us heaven had set its mark upon was not then to be guessed. Miss Rohan smiled on all alike. It was a generous smile which showed too rows of teeth rather heavily upholstered in gold. They suggested that she had eaten a good deal of taffy and pickled limes in her very youthful days. As I see it now, in the light of cool reason, she would have made an ideal milkmaid, for she was plump and fair, her nose was crimson from exposure to the Arizona sun, her hair was an undecided blonde, and her eyes were blue—real Irish blue. Also, seen in the cool light of reason, her gown was more intricate than graceful; she had on a skirt ruffled quite to the waist—a fashion, it seems, among stout women—a very large flounce, if that is the name for it, falling from the shoulder and sleeves, which were simply huge. She was very much laced, too, which may have had something to do with her florid skin. One is pretty apt to notice a woman's feet;
hers were short and broad and cased in red slippers. As for her hands, they were dumpy, and the tips of her fingers were square. I learned afterward that her hands were her pride. She would sit on the front porch every morning at guard-mounting and manœuvre them. There was no hesitation in her manner nor in her voice; in fact, she spoke loudly and not always quite grammatically.

Then I looked at my three companions. There was Blake, who was tall, fair and handsome—the kind of man that women fall head over ears in love with, who stood and looked deep into their eyes as if he read therein the story of his life. He was the son of a New England farmer, of the kind called "good, plain people," and he was about as manly and whole-souled a fellow as the cavalry held.

Then there was Thomas, who was small and trim. He had enough conceit for a much bigger man, but, then, conceit is usually in inverse ratio to a man's proportions. He was of the cavalry, too, and he rode the largest horse in the garrison. As to his ancestors, they were Philadelphians, and

he led one to believe, of the good old Quaker stock.

Also there was Bayard. Now, he was what any man with his name should be—we all know the old mo-
to. And he was so blue-blooded;
his people were the very best that the United States affords. His mother —stern, refined, high-souled—old lady—was dead and had left to him her diamonds for his future wife. It did not even occur to her that he could marry beneath him, so she gave him no death-bed warnings. His father, a tall and stately old general, with huge white mustache and a fondness for good wines, still lived in Washington, where he sat in the war department all day and at the Army and Navy club all night.

Now Bayard had not much beauty of feature, but he was well-built and refined to the last degree. His ambition was something unbounded; he was regimental adjutant now, and could have had almost any detail or appointment he chose to ask for. There was for him one aim; to rise as high as an officer may. He would have graced any rank, too, better than a good many others.

For myself, I need no description.
For I was out of the race from the first.

We had a Welsh rarebit and some beer before we left. Miss Rohan liked beer, but I think she was disappointed in the rarebit.

She came upon the porch the next morning to see guard-mounting, and she brought her manœuvre set with her.
If you can get use to it, a woman really looks fascinating when she sits before the world in broad daylight and "does,"
her nails, more especially if you happen to be one of several lone bachelors who have not looked on the face of a young woman for six months.

After guard-mounting, she went for a ride with Blake and Bayard. She sat her horse splendidly, although she did hold the reins in both hands; but that was a habit she had picked up from riding hard-mouthed cart-horses, she sweetly explained. Blake and Bayard took luncheon with her. We sat by and betted on the outcome.

In honor of the young lady's arrival we had a hop that night. It was quite an affair—twenty couples in all, some of the best people from the neighboring railroad town having driven over.
We promptly discovered that Miss Rohan could not dance; at least, her way was not our way. She went around in a circle, which was enough to make even a soldier's head swim;
but then she took it so cheerfully and sweetly when she stepped on our patent-leather pumps, and informed us so honestly that she "guessed she never had been much at dancing," that we were only too anxious to assure her that she was a perfect fairy. In course of time she came to believe it.

She had one habit which was delicious. It was so old-fashioned and quaint, she said: "Yes'm" and "No'm."
"Yessir" and "Nosir," always. Capt.
Grant said it was like a servant girl, but then he had just been on leave and was engaged to an eastern girl.

We thought she was very good company, and so did the garrison children.
They took a violent fancy to her. She played tag and prisoner's base with them; she climbed fences and wood-piles; she sat on the top of the barns;
and she rode barebacked horses around the post. And then she was such a thoroughly good-hearted girl, generous to the last degree, and such a cook!

For a long time Bayard and Blake divided the honors. Miss Rohan and fate smiled on both equally. But Miss Rohan was a girl with considerable natural tendency to aim high; moreover, her married sister had an eye to the main chance. If there was one thing more than another that she hoped for, it was to see the girl Kate Bayard.

Here is the case stated plainly:
Given a lieutenant of twenty-six, who is born with a fondness for feminine society, who has not had any of it for at least a year—that is, not any young feminine society; given also two women, one of them married and determined, the other unmarried and not unattractive. It needs no great wit to see the natural outcome. Had Bayard, just then, had one redeeming, womanly influence, had he broken away for a month and gone back among his equals, or had one of his equals come to him he would have been satisfied. As it was, he was left alone with his ambition and this girl.

He fell in love; therefore he lost his reasoning powers, otherwise he would have been bound to see that this woman and ambition could not both be in his life. He fell in love, and he married her then and there. She wore the diamonds of the stately old mother, as she sat on the porch at guard-mounting with her manœuvre set.

The first intimation we had of the way the wind blew in that family was when the young Mrs. Bayard sat one day on the front steps and read a copy of "Don't," which she told us that her "husband" had bought for her.
She was very much pleased with the gift, and took much pleasure in reading it. We noticed after that that she was most careful about breaking, dabbing, and cutting her bread at dinner, breakfast and luncheon, but "Don't" evidently did not include any reference to manœuvre-sets. I think Bayard told her about them, though,
after a time, for she ceased making her appearance in public with it, but she bit her nails nervously.

I went away on leave about this time.
When I came back, there was a little

Bayard, which promised to look very like its mamma. There had been a great quarrel as to the naming of the child. There were a good many quarrels now, anyway. Mrs. Bayard had liked the name of Kathleen—she said it was her mother's name, and, for my part, it seemed that it was very musical and pretty—but the father was determined upon Beatrice, with the accent on the second syllable. The child was baptized Kathleen.

When I had gone east on my leave, Bayard had begged me to give my attention and what personal influence I had to his promotion as captain and commissary at Washington. He wanted it even worse than he did a foreign attaché-ship.

I saw the turf affairs had taken—
that madam was growing stouter, uglier, and untidier; that she neglected even the manœuvre-sets for the very noisy and unprepossessing baby; that poor Bayard's spick-and-span clothing and appearance were a thing of the past; that he looked worn and did not seem to feel at ease among his brother officers.
So I carried to him some encouraging news with regard to his erst-while desired appointment. I told him that I knew it to be a sure thing; that the enviable post in Washington would soon be his; that ere long he would again be in his native air.

An uneasy look came into his fine brown eyes. He shrank back as his wife and the baby came into the room.
For an instant his glance rested on them.

"Thank you, old fellow," he said.
"I think I shall be content to pass the rest of my life on the frontier, 'far from the maddening crowd,' you know," he added, with a choking laugh.

Poor Bayard! And this was the end,
But I knew he was right, and I went away, leaving him with his future and with his wife.—Gwendolen Overton, in San Francisco, Argonaut.

HOW OLD RASTUS WAS SOLD.

Incident of Life in the South Before the Slaves Were Made Free Men.

Herbert Putnam, unnoticed by anyone, elbowed his way through the crowd to his brother and touched him on the arm. Their eyes met. "Pardon me," said Herbert, "but I must speak to you," and George Putnam was drawn beyond the outskirts of the crowd. "I cannot keep quiet and see you cheated," faltered Herbert, with his eyes averted. "A long time ago, when you and I were boys, you stood up for me, and I cannot forget that we are brothers. Don't bid any more on Rastus; he is shamming; he is as sick as he can be, and is only pretending to be well to bring a high price."

The two men glared into each other's eyes. George Putnam was quivering all over and his face was softening. Impulsively he put out his hand as if to apologize for his lack of words. "Let's not be enemies any longer," went on Herbert, as he pressed the extended hand. "I am sick and tired of this estrangement. I am going away, and I may never come back. I can't keep up the old place as father thought I would, and you are welcome to it. Take it and care for it; mother's and father's graves are on it."

George Putnam's face was working;
he strove to reply, but his voice clogged. He looked toward his son and wife in his carriage, and then back into his brother's face. "God forgive me, Herb," he said: "I've treated you like a dog. Old Rastus has been truer to you than your own brother. You shall not give up the old place; you must keep it. Wait!" And with those words he hurried to the platform.

The auctioneer had been proclaiming Staley's reckless bid of thirteen-twenty-five and the crowd was eagerly taking in the unusual sight of the two Putnam brothers in close conversation.
Col. Putnam reached the platform and signed the auctioneer to be quiet.
Standing on the lower step, he was in the view of all.

"I want Rastus and I am going to have him," he said to the upturned faces. "I want him to give him back to my brother, who has been forced by my neglect to offer him for sale.
Twenty thousand dollars is my bid,
and Rastus is worth every cent of it."

No one spoke as Col. Putnam stepped back into the crowd. Old Rastus seemed the only one to thoroughly grasp the situation. "Bress de Lawd!"
he exclaimed, and he slapped Aunt Milly on the back. "Dem boys done made up, en I foted twenty thousand dollars! Whoose!"
"Twenty thousand dollars," said the auctioneer, awkwardly. "Twenty thousand dollars—do I hear—and sold to Col. Putnam. I reckon the an't no use puttin' no others."—Lippincott's Magazine.

When He Came from Heaven.

A little boy was looking at the stars
They seemed a long way off.

"Mamma," he said, "is Heaven up there?"

"Yes, dear."

"Did I come from Heaven?"

"Yes."

"The little boy looked up again at the stars."

"Mamma," he said, "did God let me down easy?"—N. Y. Sun.

DEL SARTO owed his reputation to his wife. She was very positive in character, and insisted that he should keep at work and make a living for his family. He did so, and, besides that, made his fame at the same time.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Sold His Wife.

Olive Heath, of Isabella township, just 16, was married to Henry Cornwell. In a week Cornwell was willing to give her up and she was willing to go. At this juncture a former friend of Olive's named Gates appeared at the hotel where they were staying. Gates was told he could have her for $10. He consulted Olive and an agreement was drawn up, which all signed, and the transfer was made. Olive went with Gates, but left him the next day and went back to Cornwell. Now Cornwell reports she has disappeared. He says he understands the contract was the same as a divorce.

His Romance Ended in Death.

The mystery surrounding the suicide
in Detroit of Corporal D. J. Morgan, United States army, was cleared away
by a blurred newspaper clipping found on his body. It told of the suicide in a house of ill-fame of a beautiful young woman who had deserted her wealthy husband for a life of shame.
The time was 1884 and the place
Texas. Capt. Hall says the woman was Morgan's wife. Morgan was once a wealthy stock raiser, but after his wife's desertion sold his property, gave the proceeds to relatives and enlisted in the army.

Attempt to Wreck a Circus Train.

The engineer of a special train with the first section of twelve cars loaded with Cook & Whiting's circus, which played at Alpena, when nearing the bridge over Au Sable river discovered a lot of ties laid across the track and covered with sand. The intention was evidently to throw the train into the river. It was supposed to have been the work of boys and men who lost about $500 at Au Sable the day before with the gamblers.

Health in Michigan.

During the week ended September 23 reports sent in by sixty-four observers in various portions of the state to the state board of health indicate that cholera infantum and inflammation of the bowels increased in area of prevalence. Typhoid fever was reported at sixty-four places, diphtheria at thirty, measles at four, scarlet fever at thirty-two, consumption at 237 and smallpox at Detroit and Rives township.

Michigan's Finances.

The report of State Treasurer Wilkinson for the last fiscal year is as follows:

Total receipts, $3,743,519; disbursements, $3-669,375. The balance at the close of the year was $79,143. The trust-fund debt aggregates $5,669,331, divided among the agricultural college, normal school, primary school and university fund. During the year a total of $1-196,239 of specific taxes were collected. The bulk of this sum was paid by railroad and insurance companies.

PULLMAN SCORED.

Gov. Altgeld Declares His Taxes to Be Ridiculously Low.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 27.—Gov.
Altgeld was present at Tuesday's meeting of the state board of equalization. The governor disclaimed any intention of interfering with the work of the board, but said he felt it his duty to lay before them some facts which he had recently collected.

Pullman's Palace Car company, according to the records in the secretary of state's office, has a capital stock of $50,000,000. Mr. Pullman had testified before a commission, among other things, that this capital stock was paid in cash and had been enlarged from time to time during the twenty-seven years of its existence.

Mr. Pullman had further declared under oath that the company had no bonded debt and had accumulated $25-000,000 in undivided profits, the governor continued. Adding this $25,000-000 to the capital stock makes $75,000-000 which the stock of the Pullman company represents. The market reports show this stock to be worth more than $91,000,000.

The governor continued to give facts and figures from the company's own reports and showed that the company's surplus had been upward of $5,000,000 a year for many years. If the stock of the Pullman company were assessed like other property it would make an assessment of from $12,300,000 to $15,000,000. Instead of this it was assessed at only $1,650,000 in the state, the company having represented that its property was assessed in other states, but failed to show where.

It appears that in sixteen states the company pays no taxes at all. In several other states and in Canada no assessments are shown, and in seventeen the total amount of tax paid by the Pullman company is only $21,425. In the remaining seven states the taxes paid are not given, but the total assessment is only $1,104,359. The calculation based upon the ruling per cent.
of taxation would place the total amount of taxes paid by the company at $40,751 outside of Illinois. This in Chicago would pay the taxes on less than $4,000,000 of property.

The governor estimates that the Pullman company pays taxes on only about $2,000,000 in America, and that nearly $60,000,000 entirely escapes taxation, and the company has now in its possession millions of dollars that should have been paid into the public treasury. The board could not, the governor said, reach back and compel the company to pay what it should have paid in the past; but it could assess the company as high in proportion to the market value of its property as others are assessed.

DOWNFALL OF LI HUNG CHANG.

Report That the Viceroy Is to Be Soon Superseded.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says Li Hung Chang will shortly be superseded as viceroy of China by Wu Ta Cheng, late governor of Hu Pei.

Lord Li, late Chinese minister to Japan, has been degraded. Yu Lu, the military governor of Moukden, will succeed Li Hung Chang as superintendent of northern trade.

Four imperial princes are watching events in the emperor's behalf at Tien Tsin.

A massacre of foreigners at Peking is regarded as not unlikely to occur, and the legations have asked that bluejackets be landed to protect them.

One hundred and eighty thousand men, partially armed cavalry, have assembled to defend Moukden. A battle is expected to take place before a fortnight has elapsed.

The Japanese warships are scouting in the gulf of Pechili. Naval experts say that the Chinese vessels will never again appear on the scene.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—In an imperial decree issued yesterday the dowager empress commands a curtailment of the festivities in celebration of her birthday. She will dispense with the grand ceremonial of congratula-tion, and everything will be on a reduced scale. The money thus saved is to be devoted to meeting war expenses.

ARE ACTUALLY STARVING.

The Wretched Condition of Many of Pulman's Residents.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—When 600 destitute men, women and children went to the headquarters of the Pullman relief committee Wednesday morning they found nothing there for them.
The provisions were all gone,
and when and from where more will come is a matter of speculation. That is the sad condition of affairs that confronts County Commissioners Kallis and Lundberg.
They were appointed a committee by the county board to go to Pullman and investigate the condition of the people and devise means for their immediate relief and for their support during the coming winter. They found things far worse than they had ever dreamed.

"There is no doubt," said Commissioner David Kallis, after the investigation was over, "that the people of Chicago will have to support the destitude in Pullman during the coming winter. It must be done. If they do not the people will starve to death,
and that condition of affairs cannot be permitted."

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hoag, of Detroit, were the guests of Chelsea relatives and friends the past week.

Mrs. R. H. Dunbar, of Parma, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stimson, of Garfield street, last week.

Miss Lizzie Maroney, night operator at this station, is on the sick list, and G. E. Alexander, of Delhi, is filling her place.

Save time and confusion by making entries for the fair Saturday or Monday. Secretary Gage can be found at the Town Hall those days.

C. W. Greenman, who has been acting as Relief Agent at this station during the absence of Wm. Martin, has returned to his home in Ann Arbor.

Owing to the failing health of her mother, Miss Lizzie Mast has resigned her clerkship in the Bazaar, and Miss Minnie Vogel has taken her place.

R. A. Snyder, the well-known dealer in meat and groceries, has a new "ad" in this issue of the HERALD. He offers some bargains that are hard to beat.

The Barbour Theater Co. is undeniably a strong combination, composed of thorough artists. Their repertoire new and pleasing. At the Town Hall next week.

Chelsea Tent, No. 281, K. O. T. M., will give a supper and entertainment, Friday, Oct. 19, 1894. Maccabees and their wives and Lady Maccabees and their husbands are all invited.

The ladies of Olive Chapter, O. E. S. will give a night-cap and neck-tie social at the home of Mrs. R. S. Armstrong Friday evening, Oct. 5th. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

At the Democratic Representative convention for the first district of Washtenaw county, held in Ann Arbor, last Thursday, Walter H. Dancer, of Lima, was nominated on the second ballot.

A. H. Schumacher, of South Main street, is struggling along under an added weight of responsibility, caused by the arrival of a fine baby girl at his home last Monday, Oct. 1, 1894.

The entertainments given by the Barbour Theater Co. were highly appreciated by our citizens, judging from the full houses that greeted them every night.—Dwight (Ills.) North Star. At the Town Hall next week.

Dr. K. Greiner, who has practiced medicine here for the past two years, removed to Lisbon, Kent county, last week, where he will locate and open an office. Mr. Greiner made many friends while here, who will regret his departure.

An error appeared in last week's HERALD in an article under the caption of "Prohibition Senatorial Convention." The last sentence of the last paragraph read: "His address was argumental and abusive." It should have read, "His address was argumental and not abusive."

According to a recent pamphlet by an Italian doctor a sure way of restoring life in cases of syncope is to hold the patient's tongue firmly. After two other doctors had worked for an hour without result over a young man who was apparently drowned, he thrust a spoon into the patient's mouth, seized the tongue, and worked it violently until the patient gave signs of life.

S. A. Mapes, who is well and favorably known here, will open a steam laundry in the Beisel building on North street, opposite the stove factory. The building is being put in shape for the machinery and Mr. Mapes expects to have everything in working order in about ten days.

A successful poultry raiser gives this advice: Get a barrel of lime and let it air slack; scatter occasionally about the fowl house and runs. It is a great absorbent of dampness, removes bad odors, keeps off vermin, tends to keep everything sweet and clean, and is very healthful for the fowl.

Wiggins, the weathwise, is to come to the United States. In a country with so little weather, comparatively speaking, as Canada, a man of the Wiggins caliber must feel cramped; but then, we hope Canada is not robbing herself. Really, we are not sure as we ought to deprive her of her prophet.

The Livingston Democrat says: "When a man hitches his horse at your gate, kisses the baby as he comes up the path, stops to shoot a marble out of the ring with your boy, pats your girl on the head and gives her a stick of gum, and gives the old gentleman a cigar; you may know before you open the door he is a candidate."

Among the greatest nuisances on many of our highways are the loose stones. There is a law making it the duty of the pathmaster to go over his district once a month and clear away such stones, which in many places are quite plenty. Some pathmasters seem to forget that the picking up of loose stones is a part of their duty.

Without doubt the Barbour Theater Co. is the best all around comedy company seen here in years. Their performances are neat and entirely devoid of vulgarity, and they have no difficulty in entertaining the better class of theater goers. It is a worthy combination—Bloomington (Ills.) Pantagraph. At the Town Hall next week.

The annual crop estimates issued by the Hungarian Minister of Agriculture were made public on September 1st, the delay in their issuance being due to the care bestowed upon the revision of the report. According to these estimates the wheat crop of the world will be 2,476,000,000 bushels for 1894, against 2,279,000,000 bushels for 1893.

Commanders may come, and commanders may go, but the heart of the G. A. R. veteran turns to Mrs. John A. Logan as it now turns to no other being, man or woman. Mrs. Logan's position in this respect is unique. The enthusiasm with which she is received at each encampment is an incense no doubt grateful to the talented woman.

The leading event of the coming week is the Fifth Annual Fair of the Chelsea Union Agricultural Society, and that Society are extremely busy in getting ready for the event. The indications are that the exhibits in all departments will be better than ever before, and if the weather keeps good a big crowd is bound to visit our town and fair.

Last Monday Theo. Buss, aged 22 years, of Freedom, fell from an apple tree, on the farm of M. Stierle, and dislocated his neck. He was about fifteen feet from the ground and stepped on a decayed limb, which broke, letting him fall head first. He still lives but the lower part of his body is paralyzed, and little hopes are entertained of his recovery.

People who are disposed to grumble about high prices should be thankful that they do not live in the town of Forty Mile Creek, on the Yukon river, Alaska. The town is the largest in the placer gold mining district, and flour sells for 17 cents a pound, while bacon brings 40 cents, beans are firm at 30 cents, butter is strong at 75 cents, and dried fruit is worth 25 cents a pound.

The annual fish product of Michigan is estimated by Statistical Agent Moore to be $1,100,000. The catch for 1893 was 20 per cent less than in 1892, and in the 1894 catch will be worse yet. Unless steps are taken to prevent the fouling of water with sawdust and the massacre by means of fishnets, Mr. Moore thinks it will only be a question of time when the great lakes will be practically stripped of fish. Nine thousand citizens of Michigan get their living by fishing.

The Ann Arbor Democrat's "Man About Town" says: "While sitting on the Grand stand at the Fair this week we heard some young ladies, who were elegantly dressed and gave every appearance of having had good advantages, call each other "Say" every time they wanted to call attention to anything. Very few people like to be called "Say." Young people should guard against using a localism that will go with them through life and give a stranger the impression that they have not been well-bred. Don't call your friend "Say." Call her by her name."

Report of school in District No. 7, Sylvan for the month ending Sept. 28th. Number enrolled 25, attending every day. Herman and Theodore Weber, Ethel Davidson, Edw. Laubengayer; standing 90, Edith Reed; standing 85, Herman Weber, Carrie Goodrich; standing 80, Chauncey Freeman Arthur Rockwell, Myrtle Weber, Alvin Kellam, Anna Gutekunst, Clara Merkle; not having misspelled a word in written spelling during the month, Arthur Rockwell, Emma Bohnet. Mrs. L. A. Stephens, teacher.

We clip the following from the Ann Arbor Courier: "For sheriff the republicans of Washtenaw county are asked to vote for Wm. Judson, of Sylvan. He is rightly called a hustler. No grass is ever allowed to accumulate under his feet when he sets out to accomplish anything, and he is now after the office of sheriff and proposes to capture it. It has been a great many years since Washtenaw county has had a republican sheriff. In fact some of the republicans have grown gray since that day, but their time of waiting is about over, for the handwriting is on the wall that "Billy" Judson, of Chelsea, will move down to Ann Arbor along the last of December, and for two years at least occupy the county jail residence as sheriff. We speak positively about this for we believe that the thing is settled now."

The Jumping Bean.

We clip the following regarding the "jumping bean" from the State Republican which will no doubt interest all our readers who have seen and wondered at the "jumping beans" which Armstrong & Co. have had in their show window for some days past:

"In the words of the botanist, it is of a seed Mexican euphorbiaceous plant infested by the larva of a small tortricid moth or carpocapsa, which is a genus of tortricid lepidopterous insect of the family Tortricidae, whose larvae are highly injurious to fruit.

"The little insect or moth thrives best in the seed of the euphorbia, which is a tree that is very abundant in the southern part of Mexico.

"In its nature state the carpocapsa, etc., is a winged insect. Early in the spring it finds a lodging place on the seed or nut of the tree, and after boring a hole in the nut it deposits its eggs. These tiny eggs hatch in about a month's time, and then the nut containing the little insect falls from the tree as if anxious to get away from the larger insects that infest the neighborhood of the plant and subsist on the little lives contained in the nut.

"These worms remain in the shell for about ten months, when they come out and develop into the flying moth, whose period of life covers from three to four months. These vegetable curiosities are very lively little things, a little more than a half inch in length, and, when placed on a plane surface, jump or roll about in the most erratic fashion. To the uninformed observer their antics are very mysterious, but is caused by the jumping and kicking of the nervous little worm inside of the bean.

"It is a novel sight to see a large number of these beans together. They can be seen to their best advantage on the ground directly after falling from the tree. The surface is a squirming, jumping mass.

Improve the Poor Spots.

If there are poor spots on the farm improve them. Do not let them lie idle. Sow to grass and plow under. The farm on which we were born had ten acres of poor soil. Nothing was done with it until a few years since, when it was improved by sowing orchard grass and turning it under. It was then sown to wheat and another crop of orchard grass turned under. In this way and by a free application of barnyard manure it was made a good field. The soil was sandy.—Farmers Voice.

A. ALLISON, Editor and Proprietor.

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN.

It is estimated that the agricultural earnings of the United States are $3,490,000,000; from manufacturers, $3,330,000,000; from mines, $480,000,000; from transportation, $1,155,000,000; from commerce $160,000,000; from shipping, $160,000,000 and from banking, $200,000,000.

FRANCE proposes to have a general exhibition of sports in connection with the exposition of 1900. The Bois de Vincennes will be set aside for them. The minister of commerce has appointed a commission to draw up a general programme, which is to include fencing, shooting, gymnastics, military exercises, boating, athletics, cycling and ballooning.

NINE-TENTHS of the traveling public accustomed to making the journey between Philadelphia and Baltimore in a little over two hours scarcely suspect that some folks still go from one city to the other by a route that makes it an all-night trip. Long, narrow, high, cigar-shaped steamboats ply between the two rivers by way of Delaware and Chesapeake bays and the connecting canal.

A NEW YORK girl while attending a funeral recently found herself in the same carriage with a discarded lover whom she had not seen for several years. They talked over old times, and were soon on the best of terms again. On the return from the funeral they found their carriage occupied by a minister, and, deciding to make the most of the opportunity, they were married on the spot.

A VIENNESE journalist has made a collection of aphorisms on love, women and marriage, uttered at the German parliamentary sessions. Bismarck is quoted as saying that "it is an extraordinary advantage to a man's career if he can make his journey through life without any feminine baggage." In another speech he contended that women were more addicted to smuggling than men.

THERE is a rattlesnake farm in Polk county, Mo. It is owned by Myron C. Childs, who has made the peculiar industry a profitable one. He has a colony of no less than six hundred snakes. He supplies museums, menageries, and zoological gardens with the living reptiles, and every year kills from sixty to one hundred for their oil, which is used medicinally. The skins and rattles he sells for relics.

A WATER TURKEY, one of those vicious, long necked and sharp billed birds that cry so weirdly along the waterways of Florida, was caught recently by a small boy, who exhibited it. A passer-by stooped down and peered between the slats at the bird, when, quick as a flash, the long stilet-shaped bill shot out and pierced the pupil of his eye, and, entering into the brain, caused his death a few hours later.

PRESIDENT CASIMIR-FERIER has a strongly developed jaw, a look of determination, and something of the aggressive appearance of a bull dog. A clever caricaturist took advantage of the resemblance in appearance and name to portray him as "M. Casimir-Terrier," and the caricature has "caught on." Far from lowering him in the public esteem, however, it has greatly increased his prestige as the uncompromising watchdog of the republic.

A RECENT fresh meat cargo delivered at London from Australia and New Zealand was said to be the largest single load of refrigerator meat ever handled. It consisted of 70,000 carcasses of sheep, 9,000 haunches and the same number of legs of mutton, 550 tons of beef, 150 bags of bullocks' hearts, 150 bags of oxtails and kidneys, 7 cases of oysters and 750 cases of butter. The shipment was the first of its kind from the Pacific where the ammonia machine was used for refrigerating purposes.

EVIDENCE of the fraudulent character of Herr Dowe's alleged bullet-proof cuirass continues to accumulate. The Hannoverische Courier, of Hanover, says that the uselessness of the armor was immediately proved as soon as it was given a trial at the military school of Spandau. When the invention was placed against a solid surface the projectiles pierced it without exception and at almost any distance. It claims that at the exhibition given in Berlin special cartridges were used with a light charge of powder.

A NEW YORK woman who was about to enter a carriage which made part of a funeral cortege caught the hand of a thief just as it was entering her pocket. Instead of screaming or losing her presence of mind she turned upon the wretch, grabbed him by the collar, and, with the remark, "I don't care if this is a funeral; it will have to wait for me," she boxed the thief's ears vigorously before a policeman came and took him away. Women are tender, emotional creatures, but in emergencies they rise superior even to generals.

FLORIDA'S LOSS.

Damage of Over $1,000,000 from Wind and Rain.

Sea Wall No Protection Against Raging Waters—Wharves and Piers Washed Away and Many Houses Flooded.

GREAT DAMAGE DONE.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 1.—Communications with southern Florida is being restored and dispatches are pouring in relating to the damage done by the West Indian cyclone which raged in the state Tuesday and Wednesday. They all tell the same story of houses wrecked and crops destroyed, but no loss of life is reported.

Buildings Wrecked.

At Tampa several large cigar factories were wrecked. The three-story brick factory of Heidenberg & Co. and the factory of C. A. Joyce were demolished, as were also the factories of Yabor & Manarara, Theodore Perez & Co., and O'Halloran. The First Presbyterian church and the palatial hotel, Tampa Bay, were badly damaged. Several smaller structures were also demolished. The loss on buildings at Tampa is estimated at $50,000.

Steamers Suffer.

During the storm at Fernandina the British steamships Boston City and Elmville collided and were badly damaged. The steamer Princess was sunk between Palatka and Ploclata. She was valued at $12,000. The steamer Edith was driven ashore. The steamer Debaray was driven against the drawbridge and wrecked. The steam yacht Maude was sunk near Crescent City.

St. Augustine Flooded.

Advices were received from St. Augustine which had been cut off since Tuesday. No lives were lost, but several houses were wrecked and the losses will run far into the thousands. Nearly all the windows in the city were blown in and the houses flooded with water. The Ponce de Leon hotel was damaged in this way. The loss on the hotel's furniture is heavy. The waves dashed over the sea wall and made rivers of the streets. Many wharves were blown away.

Orange Growers Lose.

Between Green Cove spring and Palatka, on the St. Johns, twelve wharves have disappeared. Between Jacksonville and St. Augustine not a telegraph pole was left standing. The damage to the orange growers is incalculable. In the large groves the ground is completely covered with green oranges. The loss is fully 20 per cent.

On the East Coast.

The east coast is still cut off from communication below St. Augustine and Palatka. Every effort is being made to hear from Jupiter and Key West, which are supposed to have been in the storm center. The storm was as severe in the interior of the state as on the coast.

DUN'S STATEMENT.

Review of the Past Week's Trade—Some Comparisons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Special inquiry has been made this week at all commercial centers regarding the state of retail trade. Wide diversity appears in different trades. The main facts disclosed are: First, marked improvement in the last month and a considerable excess over the business done a year ago, particularly in the necessities of life. But, second, it appears that the volume of trade at present is on the whole considerably less than in a normal year at most points, and in the more important trades is apparently about 20 per cent. smaller than in September, 1897.

Evidence of continued improvement in wholesale trade and manufacture does not appear this week. There is large distribution on orders given some time ago, but new business going to the manufacturers is everywhere slackening. The completion of orders for replenishment of stocks leaves a narrower demand and it is yet too early for consumption to provide further orders.

The depression in prices of farm products will have some influence. Unprecedented records have been made in cotton and wheat, though as to wheat only in contracts for future delivery in which the prices are the lowest ever made. The available stocks are about 15,000,000 bushels greater than a year ago, and western receipts for the week were 5,252,716 bushels, against 6,011,034 last year, and since August 1, 61,000,000 bushels, against 58,000,000 last year.

It is encouraging that the speculation in corn has broken and the price has fallen five cents, less gloomy estimates than those of the department having gained general acceptance. It is now supposed that the yield is not far from 1,500,000,000 bushels, which will compel much economy in feeding, but speculation in pork has also broken, and the price has fallen 75 cents, while lard has declined half a cent.

Failures are few and small for the week, liabilities amounting to $5,278,285, of which $2,282,313 were of manufacturing and $2,995,972 of trading concerns. The failures during the week have been 235 in the United States, against 334 last year, and 55 in Canada, against 53 last year.

MOVE OUT OF COREA.

Chinese Abandon the Contested Territory and Go to Chin Lieu Ching.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1.—It is reported that the Chinese troops have evacuated Corea and are now massed at Chin Lieu Ching, 30 miles westward of the Yalu river. It is stated that there have been numerous desertions from the Chinese army of late because of the faulty condition of the arms and ammunition supplied to the troops.

It is also reported that the emperor has granted Li Hung Chang's request to take the field in person and that Li Hung Chang will make his headquarters at Lui Tai, near Kai Ping, the present headquarters of the provincial commander in chief of Chihai Li.

SLAIN AND ROBBED.

Well-Known Railroad Man Murdered Mysteriously in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 27.—A horrible murder shrouded in mystery was committed in the very heart of the city some time during Monday night, and the police are completely baffled for lack of a clew. James B. Caven, general freight agent of the Valley railroad (Baltimore & Ohio), was shot and killed by some unknown assassin. Five bullets pierced his body, and when picked up shortly after he was stone dead. Parties living near the scene of the murder heard the shots and a woman's scream. No one was found near the body and the police so far have been unable to secure the slightest clew.

The body was removed to the morgue, where it was stripped of its clothing. Then it was discovered that the body had been robbed. A fine gold repeater which the dead man carried in life was missing. His money, of which he always carried a large amount, was also gone. The pockets had been turned inside out. The fact that a robbery had been committed was plainly evident, and a search was made for the wounds. They were found, five in number. Several hours must have elapsed since the shots were fired, as the blood had congealed and closed the wounds. Every inch of the yard where the body was found was gone carefully over by the detectives in the hope of finding a clew. Not a thing did they find to reward their search.

PENNANT WINNERS.

Baltimore Sure of National Championship—St. Louis Wins in Western League.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—By defeating the Cleveland club on Tuesday the Baltimore baseball team made sure of the National league championship, its percentage of .696 being such that the New York club, its closest rival, with a percentage of .664, cannot pass even should it win all of the remaining games of the schedule. New York, however, stands second in the race, Boston two defeats on Tuesday setting this position in her favor.

The season in the Western league closed yesterday with the Sioux City an easy winner of the pennant. The contest at no time has been as close between the clubs as it was in the Western association. Early in the season Sioux City placed herself at the head and Milwaukee at the foot of the list, and neither luck nor good playing could dislodge them.

The clubs ended the season in the following position:

CLUBS.	Won.	Lost.	Per Ct.
Sioux City	74	51	.592
Toledo	67	55	.549
Kansas City	69	58	.543
Minneapolis	63	62	.504
Grand Rapids	62	65	.488
Indianapolis	60	66	.478
Detroit	59	69	.448
Milwaukee	50	74	.403

About $650,000 was paid to pension examining surgeons and the balance of the total disbursements was for expenses of pension agents.

HILL IS CHOSEN.

New York Democrats in Convention Name Him for Governor.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—At 1:50 o'clock Chairman D. B. Hill rapped the convention to order. After the transaction of some routine business Galen R. Hitt proposed John Boyd Thatcher as nominee for the governorship. Senator Hill ordered the roll called. When Allegheny county was reached Delegate Reynolds arose and amidst intense silence said: "The united delegation from Allegheny county desire to place in nomination for governor their first and only choice, David Bennett Hill."

Union of All Churches Urged.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Oct. 1.—"The Mutual Relations of the Catholic and Protestant Churches" was the title of a paper read by Judge William D. Robinson, a Catholic layman of Connecticut, before the national conference of Unitarian and other Christian churches. Rev. Thomas J. Connerty, a Catholic clergyman of Worcester, Mass., spoke in favor of unity between the Catholic and Protestant churches in all good works, and more especially on the lines of temperance and morality.

Costly California Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Fire in the business portion of the town of Mission San Jose, Alameda county, early Friday morning destroyed $50,000 worth of property.

A Passenger Train on the Wabash Wrecked at Maumee, O.

Some Unknown Misanthropic Tamperers with a Switch and the Engine and Several Cars Are Derailed—Two Lives Lost.

AN OPEN SWITCH.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1.—The Wabash mail and express, due here at 7:30 a. m. Sunday, while running at the rate of 50 miles an hour plunged into an open switch, killing the engineer, F. N. Smith, instantly, and terribly mangling the fireman, A. N. Day, so that he has since died at the Toledo hospital. Several of the mail clerks were badly shaken up and somewhat injured, but none of them seriously.

The switch had been tampered with and was partially thrown, with the target placed to indicate that the track was clear for trains to pass. The dead men were not very well known here, both having recently come from Buffalo, N. Y., to take the places of men who were dropped during the recent strike. An effort is being made to discover who threw the switch. It is believed to have been the work of tamperers with the motive of robbery.

The wreck was planned to occur at the west end of a long siding, just beyond the Maumee station. The road at the lower part of the switch target had been removed and the switch was partly thrown. The target indicated a clear track, and Engineer Smith was probably not aware of the situation many minutes before his engine was bumping along on the ties.

As soon as the engine struck the switch it leaped into the air, fell toward the ditch and turned completely over. The trucks of the mail cars followed the engine, but the cars themselves went in an opposite direction. Under them were found later the dead body of Engineer Smith and Fireman Day, the latter suffering from a fracture of the skull from which he died soon after. The postal cars were torn entirely from the trucks and were lying side by side.

The express and baggage cars were literally reduced to splinters, yet the occupants escaped unhurt. There were several passengers in the combination smoker, which was wrecked beyond repair, yet not a scratch could be shown by any of them. The passengers in the Pullmans were made aware of the accident only by the severe jolting which they experienced.

GEN. A. M. WEST DEAD.

Close of the Career of a Prominent Mississippian.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Gen. A. M. West, candidate for vice president of the United States in 1894 on the greenback-labor ticket with Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, died at Holly Springs, Miss., Sunday. Gen. West was the first president of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railway (now the Illinois Central) and was the pioneer railroad-builder of the south.

Gen. West was born in Alabama in 1818. In 1837 he moved to Mississippi. In politics he was a whig and was elected to the legislature in 1845 and twice to the state senate. After the secession of the southern states he was appointed brigadier general and subsequently quartermaster and paymaster general and commissary general in the confederate army, holding all three of these offices at once. In 1864 he became president of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans railroad (now the southern division of the Illinois Central) and was its builder. Gen. West was elected to congress after the war, but congress refused to seat him and all others from the seceding states. In 1876 he was an elector from Mississippi for the Tilden and Hendricks ticket, but later in the year he identified himself with the greenback party and was nominated in 1884, without his knowledge, for vice president on the greenback ticket with Benjamin F. Butler. He at first declined on account of southern prejudices against Butler and for fear of a split in the democratic party furthering republican success in Mississippi, but upon being urged he consented upon condition that there were to be no elections from Mississippi. Gen. West was an extensive planter and a prominent member of the Methodist church and a member of the Farmer's Alliance.

SEVEN DROWNED.

Mrs. Scharf, Five Children and Her Sister Victims of a Drunken Husband.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 1.—Seven persons were drowned at Chaska, Minn., Saturday evening. Louis Scharf and family, who had attended the fair, started home at 7 o'clock. Scharf was intoxicated and was driving fast. When within a block of the river he was stopped by J. Kunz, of Minneapolis, who told him to drive slower. Scharf promised to do so, but no sooner was he released than he whipped his horses and furiously dashed down the river bank, over the ferry and into the river. His wife, five children and Miss Mary Roskus, Mrs. Scharf's sister, were drowned, as were the horses. Scharf clung to the wagon box and was rescued. The bodies of Mrs. Scharf and two of the children were recovered.

PERISHED BY FIRE.

Charred Remains of a Man Found in the Ruins of a Barn.

TURNER, Ill., Oct. 1.—The farm of James Pierce, 6 miles east of here, was the scene of a disastrous fire Saturday night. Mr. Pierce was awakened by the smell of smoke and discovered his barn on fire. He heard groans and cries coming from the haymow and after the fire had burned itself out the charred bones of a man were found among the debris. Friday night four tramps slept in the barn and it is supposed the bones are those of a tramp who went to sleep with a pipe in his mouth.

THE SEASON ENDS.

Close of the Baseball Year of 1894—Baltimore Wins.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—The National league games on Sunday brought the baseball year to a close. Contests for the Temple cup remain to be played, it is true, but only the first and second clubs in the race, Baltimore and New York, are concerned in these, and besides they cut no actual figure in the championship; they are merely a series for a trophy. The wind-up of the championship season brought only one unexpected change. That was the unexpected jump of St. Louis into ninth place, displacing Cincinnati at the very last moment.

The clubs stand as follows:

CLUBS.	Won.	Lost.	Per Ct.
Baltimore	89	20	.815
New York	88	41	.681
Boston	83	49	.625
Philadelphia	71	56	.558
Brooklyn	70	61	.534
Cleveland	68	61	.524
Pittsburgh	65	65	.500
Chicago	57	75	.432
St. Louis	57	75	.432
Cincinnati	56	76	.424
Washington	45	87	.341
Louisville	46	94	.327

Final arrangements for the series of seven games to be played for the Temple cup by the Baltimore and New York baseball teams were completed Saturday between Manager Hanlon of the Baltimore and Manager Ward of the New York at a meeting held at the Tremont house. The games will be played as follows: Thursday and Friday, October 4 and 5, at Baltimore; Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, October 6, 8 and 9, at New York; Wednesday, date open; Thursday, October 11, at Baltimore, and Saturday at some place to be decided upon by the two managers. In case they are unable to agree upon a place for playing the last game it is to be decided by the toss of a coin. Three umpires are to be used, two under the double umpire rule and a third as reserve. The names of the umpires are to be kept a secret until the teams appear upon the field.

KILLED FOR THEIR CAUSE.

Robbers Murder Two Inmates of the Dayton (O.) Soldiers' Home.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 1.—The dead bodies of Adolphus Burgan and John Barrett, inmates of the soldiers' home, were found at an early hour Sunday morning on the pike that skirts the home grounds and a short distance from the south gate. Both men had been murdered for the small amount of change each possessed. The back part of the skull of each was crushed in, showing that the crime was committed by the same bludgeon and the same person, with robbery as the motive.

The body of Burgan was discovered about 3 in the morning by a country boy, who stumbled over it. Later that of Barrett was discovered about an eighth of a mile distant. The bodies were cold and stiff, indicating that the murder had been committed early in the night. Burgan fell an easy victim to the murderer's blow. The ground where Barrett lay suggested that he had fought desperately for life. The back of his head was battered in and his face lacerated. Barrett borrowed a quarter when he left the home grounds in the evening. Burgan displayed a gold coin in a saloon about 9 o'clock at night, and it is supposed that this excited the cupidity of the murderer, who followed the two men from a saloon. A number of suspects have been arrested, but as yet there is no substantial clew to the criminal. Burgan was 50 years old and a member of the furlen region, Maryland. Barrett was 52 and was in the navy. His parents reside at Chester, Pa.

VALUE OF FOREIGN COINS.

The Director of the Mint Issues His Official Statement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The director of the mint has estimated and the secretary proclaimed the value of foreign coins as required by section 25 of the act of August 28, 1894. The changes made are as follows:

Peso of Central American states	0.457	0.494
Shanghai tael of China	0.578	0.571
Hankow tael of China	0.753	0.727
Tien-Tsin tael of China	0.497	0.471
Chefoo tael of China	0.457	0.484
Peso of Colombia	0.457	0.494

The estimate of the value of coins of countries having a single silver standard is made upon the average price of silver for the three months ending September 29, 1894, viz: $0.64-127. There has been added to the list the Tien-Tsin and Chefoo taels of China. These values are stated to govern in the settlement of customs duties.

SAY CHINA IS HELPLESS.

Her Army Mutinies and Is Thus Rendered Useless in Corea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says: "The Chinese army at Wi Ju on the Yalu river, which is opposing the advance of the main Japanese army in Corea, has mutinied. The men are throwing away their arms because they have no ammunition, being cut off from their base of supplies. The Chinese defenses have completely collapsed. There is a panic in Pekin and the very name Japan inspires terror everywhere. China is perfectly helpless."

PRETTY ROADSIDES.

A Wide-Awake Woman Offers Several Sensible Suggestions. Now that the newspapers are agitating the subject of good roads, would it not be advisable to say a word in regard to roadsides? The city people advocate good roads, especially the bicycle element which is rapidly increasing. What shall we do with those who clutter our roadsides by dumping all the refuse of their back yards and pantries, consisting of broken crockery, old tinware, tin cans, etc., by the roadside without leave or license? One of the beautiful mountain roads leading from the neighboring city, which has been widened and improved at considerable expense to the town, as it is a popular and pleasant drive, has been made such a dumping ground that, although the trees grow beautifully on either side, one can hardly find a spot of ground which is not covered with back yard refuse. If these people who consider the whole country free, would dig a hole and bury such refuse out of sight, or dump it in a hole and shovel a little earth over it, doubtless nature would soon conceal their broken treasure. But at present, it is not a pleasant sight for country people or anyone else, and this practice should be discontinued. There is very little to encourage country people to beautify their roadsides. For instance, there is a case very near home of a farmer having about half a mile of land fronting a public street, who has taken a certain amount of pride in picking up all the stones and smoothing off the land by the roadside so that it is green and level. Too level, in fact, so that people will turn down on to it and drive right straight up through past the front gate, cutting deep ruts, not only during the springtime when the roads are muddy, but in the warm weather if the roads are a trifle dusty. Of course, the people who do this have their own roadsides dug out in holes from which they cart soil to the barnyard, or covered with heaps of stone picked up from the farm. The road is always kept in good repair, but there is a certain lawlessness about such things in the country that is discouraging to improvements, and exasperating to would-be improvers.—Alice E. Finney, in Rural New Yorker.

ROADS IN EUROPE.

How They Impressed President Adams of Cornell University. To an American visiting Europe there is nothing more impressive than the general excellence of the roads. Their climate is more rainy than ours, and their roads, under the same conditions, would probably be even worse than those usually met with in America. But in England, in France, in Germany, and in Switzerland, everywhere one goes, the excellence of the roads is a constant source of surprise to one visiting those countries. During the last summer it was my fortune to take a long drive in the Alps. The party was made up of six persons. A coach was employed for the whole trip. We were thirty-three days in the coach, and during that time we went over four of the great passes and traveled nearly a thousand miles. But the matter of chief significance to those interested in good roads is the fact that, although we drove from twenty-five to fifty miles a day for more than a month in these mountainous regions, the whole trip was done with one team of horses. No change was made, and none was needed. More than that, it was our opinion that the horses were in better condition at the end of August than they had been at the beginning of the trip, a little after the middle of July. Could there be any more significant commentary on the quality of the roads? What would be the condition of a team of horses in midsummer in America which had been driven over mountain roads at the rate of twenty-five to fifty miles a day for six days in a week?—C. K. Adams, President of Cornell University.

More Enlightenment Needed. The roads and highways of many of the states of the union are in such a wretched condition that the general prosperity of the country is actually impeded thereby. The whole subject is one of which there is so much ignorance that any scheme for a more comprehensive knowledge leading ultimately to better roads and highways is welcome.—N. Y. Recorder.

FOR YOUR NOTEBOOK.

Experiments Prove That It Pays to Spray Plums for Rot. Horticulturist Gorman, of the Kentucky experiment station, says in a recent bulletin: On the Kentucky experiment station grounds several plum trees have always been badly affected with brown rot, which is a fungus parasite. Last spring it was decided to treat one of these with Bordeaux mixture, leaving another standing beside it as a check. The former was sprayed on June 9 with Bordeaux mixture, about 2 1/2 gallons being applied to the leaves and young fruit with a knapsack sprayer. On July 5 the tree was sprayed again, about the same quantity of the mixture being applied. The season was unfavorable for fruit of all sorts, and neither the sprayed nor the check tree bore as full crops of fruit as usual. Some rotting fruit was observed at the time of picking on both trees and a good many plums rotted and fell from both during the summer. On August 23 the plums were picked, and from the sprayed tree were removed 477 plums, weighing 11 1/2 pounds; the unsprayed check tree yielded 254 plums, weighing six pounds. The difference in favor of spraying is thus about 5 1/2 pounds in weight of fruit. Or we may say the spraying increased the yield about 48 per cent. The mixture was made of 22 gallons of water, 6 1/2 pounds bluestone, 3 1/4 pounds fresh lime. The bluestone is dissolved in 3 or 4 gallons of hot water. Slack the lime and make of it a paste about as thick as cream. Stir the latter into the bluestone solution and finally turn the whole into the remaining water.

FOR SORTING POTATOES.

How Small Tubers Are Easily Separated from Larger Ones. Sorting potatoes by hand is very tedious. With the illustration given below the smaller potatoes are easily and quickly separated from the larger ones suitable for market. It is a very simple and cheap apparatus that can be made by anyone. It consists of a slatted trough 5 or 6 feet long provided with legs or standards of proper length to keep it so inclined that when potatoes are shoveled upon it they will roll down. The slats may be of inch stuff attached to the two bottom cleats, their centers 1 1/2 inches apart, a little closer at the top and a trifle further separated at the bottom, so that the potatoes may not become wedged in the spaces. A suitable width for the sorter is 20 inches, with sideboards 8 inches high. When unloading potatoes from the wagon place the sorter at the side or rear and shovel them directly upon it. Those of suitable size will run into the basket, while the smaller ones, with the earth, little stones, etc., will fall upon the ground or into any receptacle placed to receive them.—Farm and Home.

FRESH DAIRY NOTES.

ONE cow to the acre is the old rule. A writer in the Epitomist deploras the two large pastures. He advises large fodder crops for winter feeding, and holds that as dairy products bring far better prices in winter, it would be better for farmers to plan for winter dairying. MANY dairymen finding that their milk is condemned by the health authorities of the cities, says the Farmer's Home, think that they can dispose of it at the cheese factory. "If this is possible, some change should be made at once in the management of the factory that sends poisonous food throughout the country." WHY not largely increase our export of cheese? Bearing on this question the Farmer's Home has this to say: "From the cheese already manufactured in different parts of the country it has been abundantly proven that we can produce as good fancy cheeses as any of the foreign product. Already we export enormous quantities of our finest cream cheese to European markets, and by keeping up the quality this market will be greatly enlarged." FROM the Maryland experiment station comes the statement that "corn fodder from one acre yields as much digestible matter as two tons of timothy hay," and "there is more digestible matter contained in the corn fodder from one acre than in the corn ears from one acre," and in summing up the report says: "There is enough digestible matter produced by the corn fodder in the southern states to winter all the live stock existing in those states, if it was properly preserved and prepared in a palatable form."

TAKE STEPS

In time, if you are a sufferer from that scourge of humanity known as consumption, and you can be cured. There is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its early stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 95 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness. Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering cough, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 150 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write to those who have been cured and profit by their experience. Address for Book, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance. Here and There.

A Brooklyn man who sued to recover a diamond engagement ring lost his suit. When a man loses his best girl he has to reckon girl, gifts and all as a total loss.

"A European prince doesn't amount to much," says an eastern contemporary, "until after he has been reported engaged to an American girl." His debts do, however, hence the engagement.

A large audience greeted the Barbour Theater Company last evening who evidenced their appreciation of the play by their loud applause—Ionia (Mich.) Daily Sentinel. At the Town Hall next week.

Perhaps the meanest man in all England has been found. He is a rural clergyman who brought suit to recover two shillings for damages to his new mown hay caused by a young girl walking on it on her way to her sister's grave. He did not persevere in his suit, but he talks of suing the newspapers who commented on it.

A Washington correspondent writes that the White House is becoming dilapidated, because it is getting its first coat of paint in two years. The paint which is put on the White House must be rather worse than the so-called paint commonly used for house-painting now-a-days if it will only look fresh for a single year.

The island of St. Helena, where Napoleon passed so many years of his life in banishment, is to become a health resort. Since the opening of the Suez canal the inhabitants have suffered severely from a money point of view, as fewer ships touch there than in former years. The people want some other source of income and have adopted this plan.

When it is remembered that there are cases in which the dress of a lady bicyclist has become entangled in the rear wheel of her machine and wound so tightly around the sprocket and chain as to throw her to the ground, some allowance will have to be made for bloomers. How is a feminine rider to put on another skirt in public? Besides, no young man has to marry a bloomer young woman if he does not wish to do so.

Suppose Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota were to pass laws and enforce them, compelling all settlements in the sylvan district to make and maintain extensive clearings about these settlements. Would not such clearings save the country from a record of such appalling disasters as have occurred within the past summer? A clearing of half a mile or a mile radius about these forest settlements would have saved them had their inhabitants been vigilant with a bucket brigade.

There has been at various times loud cries for wives heard coming from various parts of the country, and to the credit of the women it may be said that these appeals have never failed to receive prompt attention. To use a meteorological expression, the area of high pressure for wives has now moved to West Australia. The discovery of rich deposits of gold there has caused an influx of miners from other Australian colonies, and the matrimonial market is quite bare.

One of the biggest mistakes about food which people make is to forget that the true value of food to anybody is the measure of its digestibility. Half a pound of cheese is vastly more nourishing, as regards its mere composition, than half a pound of beef, but while the beef will be easily digested, and thus be of vast service to us, the cheese is put out of court altogether for ordinary folks by reason of its indigestibility. We should bear this rule in mind when we hear people comparing one food with another in respect of their chemical value.—Ex.

The penny-in-the-slot love-letter machine is the latest development. The letters are identical from beginning to end, but there are those who, never having received a real love missive, think a lithographed imitation of one cheap at a cent. Such people are like the woman who applied to a matrimonial agency for a husband, and was not particular about wealth or looks so long as he would agree to call her "darling." Love letters, the real kind, have often cost the recipient far more than a cent, without being a bit more valuable than those that come out of a machine.

New gloves should never be put on in a hurry, says the girl at the glove counter, as she coaxes each glove finger into its intended place. They should be pressed and pulled into position in a leisurely fashion. Before beginning operations a little powder should be dusted into the gloves, for this will permit them to slip on easily. The fingers should be carefully pulled on, with the seams straight, before the thumb is inserted into its pocket. Then the glove should be smoothed on gradually; the second button and those above the second should then be buttoned. The first ones should always be fastened last. When the hands are warm the gloves should be drawn wrong side out when they are removed; then they should be pulled carefully into shape and aired for an hour or two.

As even the best goods cannot advertise themselves until they are sold, they should themselves first be advertised in order to insure their sale.

A Philadelphia divorce case was called off a few days ago in a somewhat remarkable way. The couple had no trouble except that the husband was an inveterate snorer. His wife could not sleep, and this resulted in a nervous affection, which was ruining her health. It is doubtful whether the divorce would be granted, but all necessity for it was removed by the presentation of a cure for snoring which the husband successfully tried. It consists of six drops of olive oil taken with a pinch of mustard. The oil lubricates the throat and the mustard acts as an irritant. Probably others may find this receipt useful.

Some people claim that local option is a failure in Fentonville, but the Detroit Evening Journal says that is a great mistake. No person can get liquor there except on the most rigidly strict conditions. He must pay cash or get trusted. If his credit is not good and he don't give the right wink he must go dry or get some friend to vouch for him. Liquor is only sold for medicinal purposes. One must either be sick or know some one who is sick, or has been sick or expects to be, and no habitual drunkard can buy it on any excuse whatever unless he understands the back-door racket. If this does not make the thing a howling success, what would.

How came the symbol $ to be used as the dollar-mark? The question is puzzling the people who like to get at the derivation of everything. The most plausible reason is that the mark is a combination of "U. S.", the initials of the United States, while others think it is a modification of the figure 8, the dollar being formerly called a piece of eight. But intricate as the question is, it doesn't begin to compare with the trouble people take to get hold of the dollar itself, and pinch it and get 100 cents' worth out of it, whether of clothing, food or fun. "The dollar-mark may be delusive, but the dollar itself is elusive," said Marshal P. Wilder.

No small part of the failure of corn to make a good crop comes from poor seed. It operates in two ways. The farmer who doubts his seed is tempted to plant more in a hill, thinking that some may not germinate. If half the seed failed entirely the crop would be better. But poor seed does not operate that way. If its vitality is wholly destroyed the appearance of the seed shows it, and it is usually rejected. The consequence is that the hill has a number of feeble stalks crowding each other so that not one in the hill can set an ear. The poor seed ought not to have more than two stalks in a hill, and if the soil is poor also, thinning to one stalk would be better still.

I know a man who is over fifty years old and he looks thirty-five. His face is smooth, his eyes clear, and not a hair is white. It is true he lives a quiet life, and his pursuits are sedentary, but he attributes the continuation of youth to five minute naps. "I cultivated the habit of sleeping off-hand when I was a youngster," he says, "and have kept it up ever since. I don't go to bed or lie down when I want a nap, but as soon as I feel drowsy I put my elbow on the back of my chair, rest my head upon my hand, and go off sound for five minutes. When I wake up, I am in first-class trim again. I have got so used to that way of napping that if I lie down I am wide awake in an instant."

There is no accounting for tastes! A dentist died in a rural town in England a few days ago, after spending over fifty years in pulling the molars of his fellow-citizens. He had made it a hobby to keep all the teeth which he had drawn in the course of his professional career, and took great pride in the collection. When his will was opened it was found that he had ordered the collection of teeth to be placed with him in his coffin for burial. His heirs fulfilled his command, and almost 30,000 teeth were put into the coffin with the dead dentist. If some archaeologist of a future century shall happen to open that grave he will have "food for thought" and some difficulty perhaps, in explaining the presence of so many teeth.

It is estimated that by reason of the severe drought of last summer 10,000 farmers have left Nebraska, and the exodus is not over. Many of these people are penniless. The loss of a corn crop is a harder blow to the farmers and to general prosperity than is the failure of any other product. Dreading the winter that will follow the failure of their crops, these farmers are making their way south and east into a warmer climate or a more settled country. Notwithstanding ancient political prejudices, the south is steadily gaining bone and sinew from the north. Northerners who went there soon after the war were either office-seekers or speculators, and they are a nuisance wherever found, while those now migrating intend to work for a living and that they can get it easier from the land in a mild than in a cold climate is very certain.

Shrinkage of Hay.

There is no fixed or established amount of water in hay, but the quantity varies with circumstances. Farmers deciding according to their judgement differ in the amount of drying to which they would subject the drying grass. The more nearly the grass ripens the freer from water it commonly becomes. In a dry hot summer it is usually found drier than in a wet season. If made quite dry, it would not lose much if any in weight the next spring. Where weighing has been frequently practiced it has been found actually to increase in weight as the weather became more moist in autumn after a dry summer.

The amount of loss of water would vary with the mode of stowing it away. If in small and loose masses, it would dry or become heavier faster than when placed in a large and solid stack or if packed away in a large barn. As a general rule, it may be laid down that the same quantity of hay is lighter in April than in the previous August, and although the weight is subject to various fluctuations on the whole it becomes lighter in time, but less so than many farmers generally suppose.—Country Gentleman.

Hint From the Dressmaker.

A dress as well as a coat should be fastened from the bottom up, not from the top down. The constant tugging from the shoulders soon gives any waist a drag-down look that may be avoided if constantly pushed upward, as it is when the lower hooks or buttons are fastened first. Of course this cannot be done if the waist is too small, another name for what some people call a "good fit." But if the waist be properly fitted, no matter how closely, it can be as well fastened from the bottom up as vice versa.
