Council Proceedings.
Council Room, March 18th, 1895.
Special meeting under regular call of the president.

Present, Geo. W. Beckwith president, and Trustees Pierce, Schenk, Riemenschneider, Glazier, and Foster, absent Mensing.

John H. Beissel presented his bond as treasurer of said village with F. P. Glazier and James S. Gorman as sureties. On motion the bond was approved and the clerk ordered to file and record the same.

The proposition of the Chelsea Electric Light Company in writing received, and considered by the council in open session and after due deliberation it was moved by George P. Glazier, and seconded by A. C. Pierce that the following resolutions be adopted:

Resolved, That, whereas the Chelsea Electric Light Company have submitted the following proposition to the village council viz:

Chelsea, March 18, 1895,
To the President and Trustees of the Village of Chelsea:

We herewith present for your consideration the following proposition for lighting the streets of the Village of Chelsea:

We will furnish you with 20,000 C. P. Arc lights, to be hung in the middle of the street from 45 foot poles, at the rate of $7.00 per light per month; or with 28 1-200 C. P. Arc lights to be hung from poles the same height at the rate of $5.00 per light per month; same schedule of time as heretofore to govern running of lights.

We would respectfully request that our proposition for lighting the streets be submitted to a vote of the people of Chelsea at the earliest possible date.

Respectfully,
CHELSEA ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY.
FRED WRDEMEYER Sec'y.

Resolved that the question of lighting the village with Arc lights be submitted to a vote of the electors of said village at a special election to be held on Thursday March 28, 1895, it being understood that if the electors vote in favor of lighting with arc lights that the village council shall determine which candle power will be contracted for.

Be it further resolved that the clerk of said village is hereby required to give notice of said special election by causing these resolutions to be published in the Chelsea Herald at least eight days preceding said election and by posting notices of said special election in six of the most public places in said village at least eight days prior to said special election. The manner of voting shall conform to the provisions of Act 194 of the Public Acts of Michigan for 1891, approved July 3, 1891. The ballots to be used at such special election to have printed there on the following words: Shall the village council accept the proposition of the Chelsea Electric Light Company and contract for Arc lights?

And below the same upon the ballot shall be placed in separate lines the word "Yes" or the word "No."

The above resolutions were then voted upon and carried by the following yeas and nays vote.

Yeas, Pierce, Schenk, Riemenschneider, Glazier & Foster.
Nays, none.

Moved and carried that William P. Schenk, W. F. Riemenschneider and George P. Glazier shall be the Board of Election Commissioners.

Moved and carried that the chair appoint two trustees to act on the board of Registration. Whereupon, the president appointed Trustees Foster and Pierce on said Board of Registration.

Moved and carried that the president, clerk and Trustees Pierce and Foster be inspectors of election at such special election.

Moved and carried that the clerk be required to give bonds of $500.00, with two sureties to be approved by the Board, for the faithful performance of the duties of his office.

Moved and supported that the minutes of this meeting be now read and approved. Carried unanimously.

On motion the council then adjourned.
Geo. W. Beckwith, President.
Fred Roedel, Clerk.

The Way to Vote.

The question of whether the Village Council shall accept the proposition of the Chelsea Electric Light Co. will be submitted to the voters of Chelsea at a special election called for Thursday, March 28th, and ballots will read as follows: "Shall the Village Council accept the proposition of the Chelsea Electric Light Co. and contract for Arc Lights?"

[] Yes.
[] No.

The electors that want to vote to have the Council accept the proposition of the Chelsea Electric Light Co. will make a cross [x] in the square in front of "Yes", those opposed to Council accepting proposition will make a cross [x] in the square before the "No"

Captured by the Lady Maccabees.

On Friday night March 15th Chelsea Tent, 281 was busily engaged in its routine work, and was preparing to confer the Oriental degree upon some of its members who were anxiously waiting to enter into the mysteries of this solemn order. A shrill and blood curdling war whoop came from the lonely picket, that strangers had entered the out-post of our camp; reinforcements were necessary or the whole camp would be captured.

The commander marshalled his whole available forces but to no purpose; the opposing forces were too strong and the smell of hot coffee too tempting to their stomachs. A consultation was held and all agreed to surrender the whole camp to the enemy which was done. Commander, Lady Boyd being absent the emblem of authority was handed to Lady Martin who marshalled her forces with a masterly hand. The first in order was the initiating of a lady into the Oriental mysteries of the Lady Maccabees, which was well rendered and brought forth great applause from all present.

Next came the hot coffee, sandwiches and fried-cakes which vanished like frost in a noonday sun. The ladies then favored us with their grand march which was an honor to themselves, and to the order of which they belong. One of Carleton's poems was then recited by Sir Knight T. G. Speer which was well rendered. This concluded the evenings entertainment. All went from the lodge-room to their homes with pleasant thoughts of the evening, and wishing that more of the same kind would come in the future.

The only regret of the writer is that Rev. Huston, the fanatic preacher of Napoleon could not have been with us, for I sincerely think he would be more charitable and christian-like in his remarks on the coming Sunday.

The Old Council.

The last meeting of the old council was held Thursday evening last. There was not much business on hand, and the meeting was a short one.

The following bills were allowed: L. T. Freeman, $15, G. Martin $4, B. Hawley $4, J. VanOrden $10, A. C. Pierce $4, W. F. Riemenschneider $6, J. Cole $7.25, J. D. Schnaitman $4, J. Schumacher & Son 25 cents, J. Schumacher $3, A. Allison $4, Electric Light Co. $120, C. E. Whitaker, 25 cents, Kempf & Co. $49.11, G. W. Turnbull, $53, P. J. Lehman, $10.90.

The result of the charter election was announced, and a motion was made and carried that the candidates named be declared elected.

This ended the business before the meeting, and the old council was a thing of the past.

Silence

Never, never will little Henry's father forget that day—a lovely April day, half storm, half sunshine, toward evening wholly sunshine. And that mad bird, that loud-voiced mavis, singing incessantly in the sycamore tree—he covered his ears to deaden the sound. All the sound he cared to hear—and his very soul seemed concentrated in listening—was the moving of feet in that room up stairs, where the terrible battle for life was going on, and during which he seemed himself to be dying a hundred deaths.

He did nothing, absolutely nothing, hour after hour; what was there for him to do? Once, catching sight of the pile of letters—those happy letters, which nobody had thought of posting—he rose mechanically, in order to put them away somewhere, and in looking about found his wife's work-basket, just as she had left it; the needle still sticking into the unfinished frill. Would it ever be finished? With a gasp and a wild stare round, as if to call to her—to appeal to her—she, who had never before forsaken him thus, been missing when he wanted her, or silent when he caressed her and kissed her. Then he put everything in its place again, including her garden shawl, which he folded up with his helpless hands as tenderly as if it had been a living thing, and sat down again in the same chair, with his head dropped on his hands.

Presently he had to arouse himself, and speak a few common-place words to Sir John, who came to fetch Lady Symington home to dinner; people must dine, and the dear old lady looked exhausted. She went up to Roderick and kissed him—bade him hope still—while there was life there was hope; but nevertheless urged upon him that last solemn prayer, which often seems to bring back the very blessing it resigns—"Thy will be done."

"I can't say it—I can't!" he answered—the young man to whom anguish—such anguish as this—was utterly unknown. But after she had left, promising to come again before midnight, he fell down on his knees, and in an agony such as he had not believed any man could pass through and live, he said it.

After that he seemed to grow quieter, and ready to accept everything.

By and by the Doctor came down to him for a minute, with an anxious face but a cheery voice.

"Take heart, my dear fellow. As I said, while there's life there's hope. Do not go near her. By and by I'll fetch you, should there come a change."

"A change? For the better?"

"Yes. Or what they call a lightning before death."

Death and her! The two ideas seemed impossible—irreconcilable. Shuddering, Roderick turned away from the old man, who did not mean to be cruel, who even put his hand kindly on the young fellow's shoulder and again bade him "keep up," that all was being done that could be done; that he had seen many a worse case; and so on, and so on. But Roderick heard it all as one in a dream, and directly afterward, hearing the sound of a carriage, and believing it was only Black—who always meant well, but the sight of whom would almost madden him just then, he bolted out of the long window, and went and hid himself in the darkest depths of the den.

When he ventured back into the house the fire had died out—only a solitary candle was left burning on the table. He stole upstairs and listened at his wife's door. All was quiet. There was not even the sound of the doctor's quick, resolute voice; he must have gone away.

Then all hope died out of Roderick's heart. Groping his way back to the parlor, he sat down in his old seat, waiting in a sort of stupefaction for the final blow, and repeating to himself over and over again a line which seemed persistently to "beat time to nothing" in his overstrained brain—Othello's piteous moan.

"My wife! What wife? I have no wife!" Perhaps even now he, too, had no wife. All the sweet days were over, her brief happiness was ended, her young life done. And he?

Such a loss is a common story. Many a young man had lived through it—living long after it—perhaps won another wife, and had many other children, and been very happy, apparently; but I question if he was ever quite the man he was before, and I think he would hardly be a true man if some little bit of his heart was not forever buried in his dead wife's grave.

The candle burned itself out, and the moonlight, creeping in between the un-drawn curtain, was beginning to fill the room with a pale, ghostly light, when Roderick heard the door open, and some one enter very gently and hesitatingly.

"Well?" he said, not lifting his head, not doubting it was the summons of doom. No answer; but the intruder came close to him—touched him.

"Who's that?" he said, almost fiercely; "who's that?"

"It's me, Rody; it's your mother."

"Oh, mother, mother!"

For one moment her arms were round his neck and his head on her shoulder. Then he thrust her violently away.

God! Oh, Rody, my son, my son!"

Once more she opened to him those fond mother-arms which no man can resist—no man ought to resist—and let him sob his heart out there, patting him, kissing him, treating him almost as if he had been a little child, and sobbing herself the while with undisguised, uncontrollable emotion.

"How did you come, mother? Since when have you been here?"

"Ever so long, my dear."

"I was never told."

"No; I went straight up to her. It did not matter; she knew nobody. The doctor is a friend of mine; he let me be with her. He knew I understood. I nearly died myself when you were born. Oh, Rody, what you must have suffered this day! Let me look at you, my boy—my dearest boy!"

It was a sorrowful gaze for both mother and son. Gradually Roderick's manner hardened, and he loosed himself from her clinging hands.

"Never mind me; it is my wife we must think about. I beg your pardon, mother, but I must go and see her—my wife whom you hate, whom you were so cruel to. But I love her. She is more to me than anything or anybody in this world. I don't know why you come here. I never asked you to come. Still, I thank you for coming. But there is not the least occasion for you to stay."

He rose up, with his cold, proud manner, so like his father's. His mother, half frightened, as if she thought he hardly knew what he was about—perhaps he did not, poor fellow!—stood before him silently wringing her hands.

"I repeat there is no need for you to trouble yourself about us in any way. If my wife lives, and you say she will live, she and I are quite sufficient to one another. Will you sit down? Can I get you anything? Or shall I order a carriage, that you may go home at once?"

"Oh, Rody, Rody! Me—your mother!"

She burst into tears, such tears as it is terrible to see an old woman shed.

And Mrs. Jardine was an old woman now. The struggle between her heart—and it was a good honest heart, after all—and her fierce indomitable will had told upon her severely. Could her son have seen her face he might have traced there the wrinkles of many added years. As it was, he felt that the hand which grasped him shook as with palsy.

"Rody, I wish you to say one word."

Could a son expect his mother to beg his pardon? Would he not have been an unworthy son to have let her do any such thing? Was it not far better for him, under any circumstances—to have done just what he did?

He dropped on his knees beside her, and laid his head in her lap, exactly as when he was her little boy.

"Mother, mother, forgive me! Let us forgive one another."

"Oh, yes, yes! Come back to me, my son, my only son!"

"And now," said Roderick, anxiously, "tell me about my wife."

"Poor lamb! poor lamb! I have been with her these two hours. She thought it was her own mother, for she spoke a few words in French and called me 'maumma.' Tell her, Rody, that—"

Mrs. Jardine turned away, and again burst into honest, irreplaceable tears.

"But still, mother, how did you come? How did you hear?"

She could not speak, but she put into his hand a little note, dated two days before, written in pencil, and in a hand very feeble, very shaky, but neat and clear.

"Dear Mr. Black: If you should hear I am likely to die, will you go at once to Richerden and fetch Mrs. Jardine? You know her. No one will comfort my husband like his mother. Yours truly,

"SILENCE JARDINE."

"And now," said Mrs. Jardine, smiling through her tears, the brightest, sweetest smile, Roderick thought, that he had ever seen on her face, "go to your wife, and let me go to my grandson. My son will not now want his mother to comfort him, thank the Lord!"

CONCLUSION.

A warm, honest heart and a generous nature will cover a multitude of sins—or let us say errors—especially in a grand-mamma. Over that baby's cradle the hearts of the two women, young Mrs. Jardine and old Mrs. Jardine, soon came to meet in the most wonderful way; as they met, too, over another thing, or rather person—often an endless "bone of contention" between mother-in-law and daughter-in-law when they happen to be weak, selfish or jealous women, which these were not—the man whom each loved best of all the world.

Roderick's wife and mother, however opposite their characters, had certain points in common, out of which grew an unmistakable sympathy, namely, strength of will and thoroughness of purpose, great sincerity and affectionateness, the power of self-devotion and an entire absence of that petty egotism which is always on the watch to guard its own rights, and has no vision for anybody's rights except its own. Besides, meeting her son afresh, as it were, with that great grief of sorrow between, which had sorely changed both him and her, and finding him now a man—a husband and a father—in many ways very different from the "boy" she had been accustomed to think him, Mrs. Jardine had the sense to accept the position and make the best of it.

For her son's wife—the "poor lamb," as she had called her, and whom, as Roderick afterward found out, her good sense, firmness and devoted care, coming in at the last ebb of hope, had greatly contributed to save from death—Mrs. Jardine took to loving her, as strong natures are prone to love those whom they have saved and who depend upon them, as for many days Silence had to depend upon her practical mother-in-law, in that total, sweet helplessness which was the very best thing to win the old woman's heart.

She was an old woman now—no doubt about it—and years ripen and sweeten many women to an almost incredible degree. Besides, as Silence often whispered to her husband when little things jarred upon him and irritated him; she was his mother, and she loved him, in her own odd way, perhaps, but with a love of which there could be no doubt and no denial. Still, even love can work no miracles, nor blend together opposing natures, characters and lives into sudden and everlasting harmony; and when, having nursed her "child," as she called Silence, into comparative health, and given her grand-child his grandfather's name, Mrs. Jardine proposed to go home, earnestly begging her son to leave Blackhall and come and settle in Richerden. Roderick gently but steadily declined. He did not say so, even to his own wife, but he felt it would be far better that they two should continue to live at Blackhall and his mother and sisters at Richerden.

All, and especially Bella, were quite "well and happy." Mrs. Jardine said. How much she knew of the events of last Christmas, or the differences between Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Thomson, did not transpire. At all events, she never talked about these troubles; it was not "respectable."

But despite their diverse way of viewing things, there was a straightforwardness and right-heartedness about Roderick's mother which, when her son saw it through fresh, clear eyes, and especially through his wife's eyes, sufficed to blind him wholesomely to her faults. No fear of any more "difficulties" to the end of their days. And when, the last Sunday she was with him, he went, a little against his will, but just to please her, to the ugly Presbyterian Church six miles off, and sitting between his wife and his mother, listened to the singing, rather nasal and drawing, but not unweet, of the 23d Psalm.

"My table Thou hast furnished In presence of my foes; My head with oil Thou dost anoint, And my cup overflows."

His heart melted, for he felt his cup did indeed "overflow."

His "table," too, was likely to be "furnished"—better than he had once had any hope of. When his mother spoke of business matters, and insisted on his giving up his work at the mill, and living as a "gentleman," he had refused point-blank, declaring his determination to carve out his own fortune, and make his own independent way in the world. But when, on the day of baby's christening, he found that Mrs. Jardine, who never did things by halves, and was as generous in her loves as ungenerous in her dislikes, had settled upon baby's mother—not father—a sum of several thousand pounds, sufficient to remove all fear of the future from the parents' hearts, Roderick was deeply moved.

"She is a good woman—my mother! My father was right to respect her and love her, as he did to the very last. God bless them! I have need to be proud of both my parents."

"Yes," said Silence, gently, as she stooped and kissed her son, who lay fast asleep on her lap. But her own life taught her to understand other lives; what were, and what they might have been.

And her life is all before her still, for she is yet comparatively a young woman, though her boys—and she has not one, but several—begin to measure heights with her, and to reckon how soon they will be "up to mother's shoulder." "Father" is a standard which none of them hope to arrive at, either physically, mentally, or morally. To be so tall, so clever, or so good as he—none of these lads could ever imagine such a thing. They do not merely love him, they adore him. And they are right, or at least two people, their mother and their grandmother, believe so.

Roderick Jardine lives still at Blackhall, keeping up the old family home in comfort, but yet in great simplicity, as is wisest, with his increasing family. Besides, his early experiences have given him a horror of luxury, of that wealth which is mere wealth and nothing more. The Jardines of Blackhall hold themselves to be truly "rich" people, because they always have a little more than they spend; they use their money without abusing it, and therefore enjoy it to the uttermost, and cause others besides themselves to enjoy it, too. But their sons are all brought up to abhor extravagance, waste, or self-indulgence, aware that each will have to make his own way in the world, as is best for every man, and woman, too, perhaps. Sometimes Roderick says if he had many girls he would bring them up, like the boys, to earn their own living—as their mother once did—so that they might taste the sweetness of independent bread, and never be tempted for aught but love. But he has only one girl, his little "Tacita"—her right name is Silence, but he will not have her called so—one of "papa's odd ways," as he grows older.

He may never be, strictly speaking, a "great" man, but everybody recognizes him as a cultivated man of very considerable talent—"known in the gates," as his wife delightedly sees, every year more and more. But it is more by his pen than his personality, for he seldom goes from home, except once a year to Richerden to see his mother and the family. A not too attractive family, but he is very kind to them, even to Mrs. Alexander Thomson and her numerous brood of sickly, ill-tempered children, whom she brings with her sometimes to get a breath of wholesome life, within and without, in the happy atmosphere of Blackhall.

"Young Mrs. Jardine," as she continues to be called, for old Mrs. Jardine may live to be ninety, still looks so young, so fair, her peaceful, contented heart shining through her "heavenly" eyes. The world has never heard of her, never will hear, except through her husband and her sons. She does not "shine in society," though she is well able to keep up the dignity of the family wherever she goes. But of her own dignity, her own praise, she thinks very little, having, indeed, far too many other and more important things to think about. As wife, as mother, as mistress, her burdens are often pretty heavy, but never more than she can bear. And he helps her, as she helps him—the husband of her youth, who will, please God, be the faithfullest, fondest lover of her old age.

(The End.)

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE LESSON.

Reflections of an Elevating Character—Wholesome Food for Thought—Studying the Scriptural Lesson Intelligently and Profitably.

Lesson for March 24.

Golden Text.—"Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest."—Luke 10: 2.

The Mission of the Seventy is the subject this week—Luke 10: 1-9. The mission of the seventy was the mission of the swift-flying evangel. They were not to tarry, but to go, and as ye go preach, preach on the go.

"Thurs not to reason why, Theirs but to do and die."

To these seventy, "forward movement" men, the sole inquiry was, "What are the marching orders?" They halted not to be stimulated by results. They spoke their message and passed on, Christ-impelled. If we can but gather inspiration for simple, daily testimony, much of its fruitage unseen, from this, it will be well: Two Christian women in Baltimore, going forth on mission errands, approached a poor, sick man, who much needed their help, but evidently resented it. They left a little leaflet with him as they went away, which he tossed aside. But it lodged where, some time after, as he thrashed in his pain, his eye lighted upon it. "Do you want a friend?" it said. "If anybody needs a friend," he groaned, "it is I." He picked up the little tract and read of the "Friend that sticketh closer than a brother." He must now have the Bible, which his wife brought at his anxious solicitation—and he presently had Christ and his great salvation. So he passed. Brother, sister, speak the message. Speak it in faith, in hope, in love; and then leave it with God. He knows how to bring to pass. Only sow the seed, diligently, prayerfully; God will take care of it.

"There's only one thing that should concern us, To find just the task that is ours; And then, having found it, to do it With all our God-given powers."

Points in the Lesson.

"After these things," The time for an aggressive evangelism had come. The disciples had been instructed. The kingdom was prepared. Is not this the time for us? "The Lord appointed other seventy, also." Appointed means to designate or set apart openly. For such pioneer work the Lord gives an open designation. There are certain men in every generation whom God seems to specially ordain for advance work in the kingdom. It is so, in a degree, also, in every community. God has his picked men for picked work.

"Two and two." There is wisdom in it—divine wisdom. And much of human comfort. Two souls in sympathy not only help and strengthen each other, but make, as it were, the burner-tips between whose points the light plays. It was "before his face," and only into those cities and places "whither he himself would come." There is no work where such care is needed as in pioneering. Here let there be ceaseless prayer. For unless it be before his face and according to the Spirit's direction it will come to naught. We speak thus because we have known of rash movements into hazardous ground where the disciple has not been prepared and there was no clear voice, saying "Go."

The dismal sequel has proven it to have been of man rather than of God—perhaps of Satan. It is indeed to God we must look both for the labor and the laborers.

Hints and Illustrations.

A lesson in aggressive evangelism. Certainly we need it—both the lesson and the evangelism. At Thessalonica on the day the cry was raised, "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also." (Acts xvii., 6.) Lord send them down this way, we need ourselves turning upside down—upside down in order to be right side up. Europe was dead and needed to be brought to life, and it is worth noting that the word for "upside down" here is anastasis, meaning resurrection. These men were God's resurrectionists, sent to a dead world. And their power lay in this, that they themselves had been raised, as it were, from the dead, to walk in newness of life. Overturned in order that they might overturn, overpowered of God in order that they might be empowered. May the Lord grant us more of their sort. We need them.

What kind of men are needed for this pioneer work? Evidently they should be men who are intimate with Jesus. The Wesleys were such. Whitefield was of this sort. Here is the secret of aggressive evangelism—faith in God. O, for more men of faith, downright faith! There, in the teeth of a howling gale on the creaking deck of a crazy vessel, given up by the Mediterranean sailors for lost, a man stood up and said: "I believe God!" Just one man, but he saved the ship. Lading gone, tackling gone, anchors gone, at last all hope gone, a shipload of impotence and despair—and one man saved them all, one man who believed God. Have you got another like him? Another man like Paul? Brother, he can save the ship. Give him leave. Luther did it once when he lifted the word "The just shall live by faith." If there is one thing more needed than any other to-day it is some soul, newly, deeply born of God, that will rise upon the world's disdain to the church's cold indifference and say it to the saving of our storm-tossed ship and the glory of the omnipotent Christ, I believe God.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adopting the world's best products, find the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its pleasant taste, the refreshing and beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers, and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will accept any substitute if offered.

Spring Medicine

so important that you should be sure to get THE BEST. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven its unequalled merit by thousands of remarkable cures, and the fact that it has a larger sale than any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier shows the great confidence the people have in it. In fact, it is the only medicine that cures all blood diseases, builds up the nerves, and gives such strength to the whole system that, as one lady puts it, "it seemed to make me anew."

If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for your Spring Medicine, do not buy any substitute. Be sure to get

"I was all broken down in health, so weak and nervous I was hardly able to be up. I had severe pains in my side and headache. I would often have to stop when going up-stairs on account of palpitation of the heart. I had no appetite and a distressed feeling in my stomach. I resolved to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles and have not had a spell of sick headache for four months, feel well, work all day, and eat heartily. My friends remark how well I am looking. I think all nervous, run-down people ought to take it, especially nursing mothers." Mrs. S. ASHWORTH, Eaton, O.

Chicago the World's Porkopolis.

Chicago is the porkopolis of the world. Last year the packers of that place handled over 5,000,000 hogs, an increase of 1,100,000 head over the previous year, and the porkers cost $58,000,000. What became of all these hogs, the American Cultivator explains thus:

"Exclusive of the 8 or 10 per cent. of the hogs used for dressed meat and local trade, the manufactured product was 720,000,000 pounds, of which 364,000,000 were pork and sides, 130,000,000 hams, 96,000,000 shoulders and 112,000,000 lard. To produce all this required the work of 20,000 men at the packing houses. In addition to many late and perfected labor-saving machines."

Hoar and Phillips.

The late Judge E. Rockwood Hoar was always an earnest opponent of General Butler, and because of this opposition, Wendell Phillips at one time made a bitter attack upon the judge. Out of this feeling came what is, perhaps, Judge Hoar's best-known remark. After Phillips' death, some one met Judge Hoar and asked him if he intended to go to the funeral. "No," answered the judge, "I don't; but I approve of it." Another remark ascribed to Judge Hoar in regard to Phillips' death—that, if he had joined the majority, it was for the first time—the judge denied making.

SERVED IN TWO WARS

THE GRIP ALMOST WON WHERE THE BULLETS FAILED.

Our Sympathies Always Enlisted in the Infirmities of the Veteran.
(From the Herald, Woodstock, Va.)

There is an old soldier in Woodstock, Va., who served in the war with Mexico, and in the war of the rebellion, Mr. Levi McInturf. He passed through both these wars without a serious wound. The hardships, however, told seriously on him, for when the grip attacked him four years ago it nearly killed him. Who can look on the infirmities of a veteran without a feeling of the deepest sympathy? His townspeople saw him confined to his house so prostrated with great nervousness that he could not hold a knife and fork at the table, scarcely able to walk, too, and as he attempted it, he often stumbled and fell. They saw him treated by the best talent to be had—but still he suffered on for four years, and gave up finally in despair. One day, however, he was struck by the account of a cure which had been effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He immediately ordered a box and commenced taking them. He says he was greatly relieved within three days' time. The blood found its way to his fingers and his hands which had been palsied assumed a natural color, and he was soon enabled to use his knife and fork at the table. He has recovered his strength to such an extent that he is able to chop wood, stack corn and do his regular work about his home. He now says he can not only walk to Woodstock, but can walk across the mountains. He is able to lift up a fifty-two pound weight with one hand and says he does not know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for others, but knows that they have done a great work for him.

He was in town last Monday, court day, and was loud in his praises of the medicine that had given him so great relief. He purchased another box and took it home with him. Mr. McInturf is willing to make affidavit to these facts.

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not patent medicine but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with weakness curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure. In all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50)—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Tit for Tat.

Henry Mackenzie, the author of "The Man of Feeling," was a lawyer by profession. During a visit to the Highlands of Scotland for grouse-shooting, he made the acquaintance of a general who also was of the company. One day after dinner, there was some talk at table about poisons—ratsbane and laurel especially. Quoth the General to Mackenzie: "We say in England that ratsbane will not kill a lawyer." "Indeed," replied the man of law, "that is odd, for in Scotland we say some generals are in no danger from laurel."

Mount Kineo, which rises precipitously seven hundred feet out of Moosehead Lake, is wholly composed of hornstone, and is the largest mass of that material in the known world. There is no true flint in the United States, but hornstone so closely resembles it that it takes an expert to tell the difference. This rock supplied arrow head to Indians hundreds and thousands of miles away. According to an Indian tradition, the mountain is the body of a monster moose that was slain by a giant.

Not a Woman Nor a Cat.

There is a mining camp called "Bachelor's Rest," about sixty miles north of Tucson, Ariz., and the population now numbers upward of 800. There is not a woman nor a cat in the camp, and 200 of the men have advertised for wives in a Tucson paper. They must be of good character, and understand the duties of a household. The richest miner offers a dowry of $10,000.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AS TO ICEBERGS.

Wrong Impressions Regarding the White Mountains of the Ocean.

The only two varieties that are worthy of consideration, owing to their importance, are icebergs and ice floes, says Home and Country.

The icebergs are originally simple in form—just huge hunks of ice. They are entitled to the name of "berg," or mountain, only because they appear as such on the flat surface of the open sea. When seen close to the mountainous, rock-bound coast of Greenland, close to where they have been thrown off by the glaciers, they look remarkably small and insignificant. Roughly speaking, they are about as large as a house, and vary in size about as much as houses do. To be more accurate, few are over 150 to 200 feet in height, and icebergs reaching a height of 300 feet are exceptions.

The bergs of northern seas are not so broad and long as these of the Antarctic ocean, the latter not infrequently covering a surface of over a square mile. The former therefore look like huge blocks, rather than the huge fragments of ice plateaus of the Southern polar seas. Furthermore, the southern icebergs appear to be composed of two or more strata or layers of ice, and are far clearer than their northern sisters, on account of their freedom from foreign matter and the purity of the ice which composes them. These distinctive features are not so prominent in the old bergs which have been partly melted and broken away by the water.

The porous glacial ice of the bergs is about one-seventh lighter than seawater, and only one-seventh of its bulk juts above the surface of the water. It must not be imagined, however, that an iceberg 100 feet high reaches 600 feet below the surface. This would be the case if the berg were an exact geometrical figure, which it is not. It is one-seventh of its bulk which appears above the surface, and not of its height. The part under the water—the remaining six-sevenths—may be made up in width and breadth, rather than depth, as indeed is generally the case.

An Empress Copies an Amer. can.

And the latest excitement at the Berlin court is this: Some few weeks ago the Empress, at a reception, noticed the unusually becoming way in which Mrs. John B. Jackson, the handsome and particularly engaging wife of the first secretary of the American embassy, wore her hair. Inquiries as to who was her hairdresser were set afoot, and a few days later the hairdresser in question was bidden to the Empress' boudoir in the new palace at Potsdam to "do" her hair. Since then he "does" it regularly. He receives five marks each time and he has been enabled to put "Purveyor to H. I. M. the Empress," on his sign over the little shop.

But the honor is rinting him. He has been forced to give up all his trade, his regular round of high-priced customers, because he must hold himself in readiness, night and day, to take the first train for Potsdam and attend to the wants of the Empress. He has become a melancholy man, broken in health and fortune. Such is the reward of royalty.

According to Withof, an area of a quarter of an inch contains 298 hairs on the head, thirty-nine on the chin, twenty-three on the forehead, nineteen on the back of the hand.

Briareus Had a Hundred Arms.

Nervousness has as many queer symptoms. But whatever these may be, they are all in part in consequence of the irritating, invigorating influence of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which tones the system through the medium of thorough digestion and assimilation. Tremulous nerves soon acquire steadiness by its use. It promotes sleep and appetite, and fortifies the system against disease. Malaria, constipation, rheumatism and kidney troubles are relieved by it.

WOMEN'S FACES

—like flowers, fade and wither with time; the bloom of the rose is only known to the healthy woman's cheeks. The nervous strain caused by the arguments and pains peculiar to the sex, and the labor and worry of rearing a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sallow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for the change. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, in the diseases of women, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure the chronic inflammation of the lining membranes which cause such exhausting drains upon the system. It cures nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faintness, nervous debility and all disorders arising from derangement of the female organs and functions.

Mrs. JENNIE WILLIAMS, of Mohawk Lane Co., Oregon, writes: "I was sick for over three years with blind dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, pain in the back and head, and at times would have such a weak tired feeling when I first got up in the morning, and at times nervous chills. The physicians differed as to what my disease was, but some of them did me any good. As soon as I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I began to get better, could sleep well nights, and that bad, nervous feeling; and the pain in my back soon left me. I can walk several miles without getting tired. I took in all three bottles of 'Prescription' and two of 'Discovery'."

We would not have expended HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS doing advertising, for which we made no extra charge, had there not been merit in it. Galvanizing consists in coating the strong but most perishable (in thin sheets) metal, steel, iron and aluminum. Health and Strength are guaranteed by its use. Large bottles only fifty cents at F. P. Glazier & Co.

"Perhaps you would not think so, but a very large proportion of diseases in New York comes from carelessness about catching cold," says Dr. Cyrus Edson. "It is such a simple thing and so common that very few people, unless it is a case of pneumonia, pay any attention to a cold. There are a great many cases of catarrh and consumption which have their origin in this neglect of the simplest precaution of every day life. The most sensible advice is, when you have one, get rid of it as soon as possible. By all means do not neglect it." Dr. Edson does not tell you how to cure a cold but we will. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will relieve the lungs, aid expectoration, open the secretions and soon effect a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. P. Probate Order.
STATE OF MICHIGAN, COUNTY OF WASH- tenaw, s. s. At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Washtenaw, holden at the Probate Office in the city of Ann Arbor, on Thursday, the 7th day of March in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five. Present, J. Willard Babbitt, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Jacob Stabler, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Anna M. Stabler praying that a certain instrument now on file in this court purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased may be admitted to probate and that administration of said estate may be granted to Jacob Richardson, the executor in said will named or to some other suitable person.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 8th of April next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and the devisees, legatees, and heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Probate Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the City of Ann Arbor, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

Mr. Sellers is a highly respected young man, and a member of the Baptist church, at Lyndon. Miss Richison is an estimable young lady. The gifts which they received are too numerous to mention.—Stockbridge Sun.

A Napoleon dispatch to the Detroit News: The village has been all agog over a recent sermon by Rev. B. Ashton, the Baptist pastor, in which he vigorously attacked secret societies in general and the Maccabees in particular. He concluded by saying that members of his church must leave the Maccabees or find a new pastor. The Maccabees of Napoleon include many prominent church members, as well as the Methodist pastor and Mr. Ashton's remarks are resented by many.

The year 1895 will be a remarkable one, both from the astronomical and religious point of view. On Good Friday, April 12, the heavenly bodies which gravitate around the sun will be in exactly the same position they occupied in the firmament the day Christ died on the cross. It will be the first time such a thing has occurred since that great day, just 1862 years ago. That was the thirty-third year of the Christian era, which dates from the birth of Jesus Christ. At 4:30 in the morning, Paris time, (about 11:20 p. m. on April 11, New York time), the moon will pass before Virginia Spica and hide that constellation for more than an hour.

The fifth annual convention of the Epworth League of Michigan will meet in the Central M. E. church, Detroit March 26, 27 and 28. The program promises a rare treat. Among the distinguished speakers we note Rev. S. A. Steel, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn., Rev. Geo. Whitaker, D. D., of Detroit, and Bishop Cyrus D. Foss, D. D. L. L. of Philadelphia. Mrs. C. L. Adams furnishes a paper for one of the department meetings on "Our Reading Courses.—How selected." Several delegates have been appointed from Epworth League of this place.

The market the past week has been active and strong receipts free until a weak spot came on Tuesday: Wheat is weak now at 55c for white and 54c for red. Rye 51c, oats 30c, barley probably all in but would bring $1 per hundred, clover seed scarce at $5.50, potatoes 45c, eggs plenty at 10c, and butter 14c. Hogs and fat are scarce and some higher, $1.50 being offered. Some think that wheat is nearly all in and will advance very much before harvest, but it will be found that there will be wheat in the elevators and some in farmers' hands untaken in July at much less than 75c per bushel.

The literary and musical entertainment given at the opera house last Monday evening in honor of St. Patrick was a most delightful affair. The music was splendidly rendered, and Father Hallisey's address was most eloquent and masterly. Miss Dunn of Detroit was in fine voice, and sang most artistically several beautiful Irish ballads. She was repeatedly encored. Miss Edith Foster sang a tender Irish song in a pleasing manner. The male quintette composed of Messrs. Archie Bacon, Herbert McKune, August Eisele, Daniel and Martin Conway, delighted the audience by their rendition of comic and serious songs. A spirited duett by the Misses Katherine Staffan and Tressa Bacon was excellently given. It was the unanimous verdict of those present that a better St. Patrick's day celebration had never been given in Chelsea.

LABOR LAW IS DEAD.

AN ILLINOIS STATUTE IS PRO- NOUNCED VOID.

Smallpox Attacks Horses and Men in Halifax—Chinese Loan May Be a Menace to Our Treasury Reserve—Blue Laws Extinct.

Eight-Hour Law Falls. The Supreme Court of Illinois gave a decision at Mount Vernon Thursday, declaring that the eight-hour law, or as it is generally known, the sweat-shop law, is unconstitutional. The law prohibited the employment of women for more than eight hours a day, or more than forty-eight hours a week, in any factory within the borders of Illinois. In deciding the case the judges also pronounced illegal section 10 of the bill, which provided an annual appropriation of $20,000 for factory inspectors, whose chief duty was to see that the eight-hour clause was enforced. The burden of the decision is that women in respect to contracts are on the same footing with men, and that an act which abridges the freedom of contract between workman and employer in a lawful occupation is unconstitutional. While the law related exclusively to the employment of women, it was understood at the time of its passage that a similar measure regulating the number of hours men could be hired to work would follow on its heels. Probably 40,000 women in Illinois who work in factories are affected by the decision, 32,000 of whom live in Chicago. They are employed in the main in shoe factories, cloak and clothing houses, candy factories, paper-box shops and various other manufacturing establishments.

Serious Financial Trouble. A new menace to the financial system of the United States has suddenly come into being. The price of silver has advanced 1 1/2 cents an ounce, following a similar advance in London, due to the beginning of hoarding here and abroad in anticipation of immense financial transactions when China begins to pay the war indemnity demanded by Japan of $250,000,000 or $300,000,000. Will China have to pay in silver or in gold? In whatever coin, the effect upon the United States will be immediate. If gold is demanded it is feared that the rate of exchange on London will suddenly shoot up, and the treasury will be subject to a new and greater drain than any in its history—a drain that Morgan and Belmont will be powerless to stop. Long-headed financiers in Wall street see the possibility of some very important results when this big war debt to Japan comes to be paid.

A Strange Disease. An alarming epidemic is raging among horses in Halifax, N. S., and the disease is easily contracted by human beings who come in contact with the infected animals. Veterinarians pronounce the affection equine smallpox, and many of the horsemen in Halifax are victims. The Government Veterinary Surgeon has the disease in his right hand. Another man more seriously affected will have to have his arm amputated to prevent blood poisoning, and still another horseman is believed to be fatally ill as the result of handling diseased horses. The Government Veterinary Surgeon says the disease is atmospheric and any animal is liable to contract it.

BREVITIES.

Leroy Fernald, awaiting trial at Alfred, Me., for murdering his mother at East Lebanon, starved himself to death. G. A. Budd & Co., who recently failed at Elyria, Ohio, have liabilities of $500,000, while the assets are only $20,000. Standard Oil magnates are said to be trying to consolidate the great electrical manufacturing interests of the country into a gigantic trust. Leroy Fernald, the East Lebanon, Me., murderer, awaiting trial for the killing of his mother, died in the county jail. He literally starved himself to death. Associate Judge Stern, of Condersport, Pa., died at his home from the effects of poison taken with suicidal intent. He had been a grip sufferer for some time. Receiver Failey, of the Iron Hall, brought suit in Indianapolis to quit title in the receiver of the real estate valued at $30,000 to $50,000. The defendants are the old trustees. The famous Irvine divorce case at Salt Lake, growing out of the murder of Banker Montgomery, of Lincoln, Neb., has resulted in Mrs. Irvine securing her decree and $10,000 alimony. Witnesses in the trial of A. R. U. strikers at San Francisco claim that Superintendent White, of Sacramento, sent telegrams to Southern Pacific agents ordering them to ditch a train run by strikers. The Midway Society, whose mission it is to perpetuate the historical associations of the old Midway Church in Liberty County, Ga., met in that structure Wednesday. The church was built in 1752. Miss Pouchett, sister of Richard Demady, charged with the murder of Lena Tapper at Denver, has become violently crazy. Some believe her mind has been unbalanced by the terrible secrets known to her regarding the Market street murders. The Connecticut Senate has repealed the last of the blue laws. It gave a justice of the peace power to convict a person on his personal knowledge, without corroborative testimony, of the offenses of Sabbath breaking, swearing, blasphemy and drunkenness.

EASTERN.

The New York Central is building a theater car, on which performances will be given on night trains between New York and Buffalo. Richard Mansfield has leased Harrigan's Theater, at New York, for ten years and will change its name to the "Garlick." He will open with a stock company in the fall. During a heavy gale Monday morning the oyster dredging schooner Ida V. Seward, of Oxford, Md., was capsized in Broad Creek, Talbot County, and it is supposed all hands, seven men, were drowned. The New York post office averages 57,000 letters sent to the dead-letter office each quarter. In the last three months 7,500 German, 4,000 Italian, 3,000 Russian, 1,000 French and 400 Spanish letters could not be delivered. H. L. Christy of Pittsburg has been appointed to take testimony there which will decide whether "Corinne," the actress, has violated the revenue laws and whether she is entitled to retain possession of a gift of a $1,200 watch from Canadian admirers. A committee from the Massachusetts Legislature has arrived in Atlanta for the purpose of investigating the industrial situation in the South and inquiring into the special inducements held out by Georgia for New England cotton mills to do business in that State. At Baltimore, Md., Judge Dennis in the Circuit Court decided the Maryland oleomargarine law unconstitutional so far as the sale of original packages imported from other States is concerned. The decision may be taken to the Court of Appeals for review. The constitutionality of the law in other respects is not affected by this decision. After being in session all night, the managers of the Kinnickinnick, Glens Falls and Farnum mines and their employes arrived at a settlement and 600 men returned to work. The operators granted the rate of 35 cents per ton, which is the price asked by the men for machine mining. Other differences were compromised. The demand for coal has greatly increased of late. The cordage works of William Wall & Sons in Williamsburg, N. Y., have been shut down and all the employes discharged. The plant during the last few years has been controlled by the cordage trust. It gave employment to nearly 1,000 men and was started more than fifty years ago. It was said that the large area of ground occupied by the factory will be cut up into building lots.

WESTERN.

It is reported that the Oregon train from San Francisco was held up between Sacramento and Stockton. Albert E. Kieth, an Ann Arbor letter carrier, killed himself because his sweetheart gave him the mitten. The fire in the Old Abe mine near White Oaks, N. M., was brought under control Sunday night, when the eight imprisoned miners were brought to the surface. Five were dead. Congressman Henderson, of Iowa whose left foot was amputated at Shiloh, will soon submit to another operation. He has used his leg too freely, and it will have to be amputated at the thigh. Charles Boulter, a retired cattleman of Cheyenne, has been convicted of manslaughter for killing Thomas O'Neill. Boulter has killed three men in the last ten years, but has heretofore escaped punishment. Harry T. Hayward, of Minneapolis, convicted of the murder of Catherine Ging, has three months to live. Sentence was passed on him by Judge Seagrave Smith, after a motion for an arrest of sentence by Mr. Erwin had been denied. Benjamin Harrison felt much stronger Tuesday morning and would have left his room to breakfast, but his family thought he should remain in his room on account of the damp weather. Dr. Jameson reports that Mr. Harrison is entirely out of danger. The people of Dungannon, Ohio, have been terrorizing with a saloon which has been run in violation of the law. Mrs. T. Miles armed herself with a revolver and an ax and knocked softly on the door. When Gus Wagner, the proprietor, answered the call the plucky woman pointed the revolver at him and demanded that he hand over his stock. Wagner lost no time in complying and in a short time the irate woman was in possession of more than a dozen jugs and demijohns. Mrs. Miles then brought her ax into use and broke the vessels into a thousand pieces, the contents flowing down the street in a stream. Ex-President Harrison is down with an attack of the grip at Indianapolis, and owing to the tenacious character of the malady the attending physician is somewhat disturbed at the possible outcome of the disease. Gen. Harrison was taken ill Sunday, but did not regard his case serious. He is said to have exposed himself for two or three days, until Friday there was a marked development, which caused the physician to take alarm. It is reported from Mr. Harrison's residence that he is doing as well as could be expected, and hopes are entertained that his strong constitution will enable him to successfully combat the attack. At Minneapolis, Minn., warrants were sworn out Friday night against two of the witnesses for the defense in the Hayward murder trial, charging them with perjury. They are Maggie Wachtler and George A. Grindell. The former is charged with perjuring herself in that part of her testimony in which she swore Claus Blixt, in his statement to Mr. Odell before the trial, began to relate a story in which he charged Adry Hayward with conspiring with him to murder Catherine Ging. Grindell is charged with swearing falsely that he saw Catherine Ging stop her buggy at a corner near the West Hotel just after leaving the hotel the night of the murder and hold a conversation with a "third" man. The Federal grand jury at Chicago Tuesday indicted, on charges of embezzlement, Henry Wells, E. Hill, John Austin and E. T. Paul, the first three officers and the last one director of the defunct Evanston, Ill., National Bank. Paul is the only one in the vicinity at the present time. He lives at Wilmette, and is now in the real estate business. Wells is said to be in Pennsylvania, Hill in Missouri and Austin in California. No warrants for the arrest of the men have been issued as yet. The aggregate amount alleged to have been embezzled is $44,500. The bank was capitalized at $100,000, and when it failed in May, 1893, the liabilities were $120,000, and the assets were supposed to equal that amount; but afterward it was found the assets were far less than this. The receiver declared dividends to the amount of only $60,000. The rail mill at Boone, Ia., has long been a resort for tramps, who would congregate there and spend the night. Saturday night fifteen or twenty gathered; they got a couple of gallons of alcohol and held a drunken carouse. Charles Elliott, the night foreman of the mill, was struck over the head when he tried to protect the company's property and knocked senseless. The tramps drove off the railroad men and the police were called upon for assistance. The three policemen on night duty attempted to arrest the fellows. The tramps attacked the officers. Officer Campbell shot Jas. Freeman through the heart, killing him instantly; Tim Lallian through the back, wounding him so seriously that it is believed he will die within twenty-four hours, and a third through the hand. After the shooting the officers captured twelve of the gang and took them to the city jail. Alarming riots, disgraceful bickerings among the managers, and cruelty to the inmates have aroused the authorities at Springfield, and the State Home for Juvenile Female Offenders at No. 3111 Indiana avenue, Chicago, where the mutinous outbreak of Sunday night was renewed Monday morning, will be investigated by the House Committee to Visit Penal Institutions. A number of prominent members of the House will accompany the committee, and the investigation promises to reveal some astonishing things. The result will have an important bearing on the continuance of appropriations for the home. It is now costing the State the unreasonable sum of $1,000 for each girl who is being "reclaimed" there, and a continuance of a similar appropriation of $32,000 per year is asked of the House. The request of the Board of Trustees for an investigation by the State Board of Charities and Correction will be held in abeyance until the legislative committee gets through. Thirty-three girls confined in the State Home for Juvenile Offenders at No. 3111 Indiana avenue, Chicago, revolted Sunday night, overawed the attendants, broke half the windows in the establishment, smashed all the crockery they could lay hands on, demolished furniture galore, and as a result a posse of police from the Stanton avenue station had to take possession of the institution before order could be restored. Five of the girls were arrested. The girls claim the insurrection was the direct result of the treatment to which they have been subjected for a week, alleging they have been fed on bread and water, beaten, and chained to the floor for infractions of rules. Mrs. Dayton, the superintendent, and one of the other matrons say the girls were unruly and that discipline was necessary. It was also stated that the trouble is a result of disagreement in the Board of Directors over the selection of matrons. The riot caused a big sensation in the vicinity, and a crowd of over 1,000 people blocked the streets for hours. The fight over the possession of St. Paul's Catholic Church, Omaha, which has been in progress for six months, took a decidedly interesting turn Tuesday morning immediately after mass. The Rev. Steven Karminski, the priest in charge, had just finished the service and the congregation had left the sacred edifice for their homes, when thirty-five men approached the building, and after a brief parley, ten of the number entered the church and demanded that the priest deliver the keys to them. He refused and ordered them to leave the place. They attacked him. Only the fact that the priest was unaccustomed to the use of firearms interfered with the coroner's having a wholesale inquest. As it is, F. Dargaczewski has been permanently disabled by a bullet fired by the priest, and John Kozicka badly wounded by another. Joseph Inda, who defended the priest, is so badly beaten about the head that he will die, while the list of those who suffer minor injuries reads like the muster roll of Kosciuszko's army.

SOUTHERN.

Advices received at Jacksonville, Fla., via Tampa, announce the arrest of W. W. Taylor, ex-State treasurer of South Dakota, who absconded with thousands of dollars. His capture was effected Sunday in Mexico by Pinkerton agents. At 10:30 o'clock Monday morning a large body of white men appeared on the New Orleans levee at the head of St. Andrews street and by threats and violence drove off the colored men. The police then came forward and drove away the white men, firing a number of shots, but nobody was hurt. The district along the New Orleans river front was the scene of rioting and murder early Tuesday morning. At 7 o'clock, while a gang of negro screwmen were marching to the dock of the Harrison Cromwell line of steamers, they were fired on by a gang of striking white screwmen, and six or seven of the negroes are reported killed. Several weeks ago Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago received an order from a man in Alabama for a package of gold wash. The other day the firm had an opportunity of noting the admirable quality of the wash in the receipt from the man of Alabama of a silver dollar made golden by the wash. The word one on the coin had been cut away and a clumsy attempt at carving filled up the space with the word "twenty." The correspondent requested that an overcoat be sent to him for the "inclosed twenty dollars." The firm turned the coin over to Captain Porter of the secret service, and the man from Alabama is in imminent peril of finding himself in the penitentiary for "raising" the coin. POLITICAL. George L. Shoup has been re-elected United States Senator from Idaho. Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry was summarily ejected from the New York legislative floor for lobbying for a whipping post. Chicago Democrats nominated Frank Wenter for Mayor; J. S. Cooke for Treasurer; Wm. Mangler for clerk, and Geo. A. Trade for attorney. The Indiana Legislature adjourned at midnight Monday, at Indianapolis, in the midst of a rough and tumble fight, in which at least seventy-five men took part, punching, kicking, scratching and slugging with mad desperation. Private Secretary King, who had two bills in his pocket from the Governor and which had been held till the last moment, at one time was on the floor with at least thirty members piled in a heap on top, clawing and fighting like dogs in a pit. Custodian Timothy Griffin of the State House had the life nearly crushed out of him at King's side, and a score of heads were pounded and cracked till they looked as if they had come from a prize fight. Representative Adams, from Park County, was badly mauled in the face and will be unrepresentable for days. Representative Allen, of Washington County, chairman of the Ways and Means, was hammered until it was a question whether he could be resuscitated. No such scene of wild uproar was ever witnessed in the Indiana Legislature before. The trouble arose out of a well-planned scheme to balk Governor Matthews, who had determined to prevent the Assembly passing over his veto a bill to secure control of the State House. FOREIGN. The reported killing of Manuel Garcia, the Cuban rebel, is denied. Japan has been notified that China accepts her conditions for a settlement of the war. Admiral Da Gama is reported to have re-entered Brazil at the head of 3,000 revolutionists. Catarina Garza, the Mexican bandit and revolutionist, was killed in an attack on Bocas del Toro, Colombia. During a debate in the British House of Commons it was charged that diseased meat is packed in Chicago for shipment to Europe. The volcano of Orizaba, in the State of Vera Cruz, Mexico, is in violent eruption, and the earth for one hundred miles around is periodically shaken with subterranean vibrations. It is stated at London that Lord Rosebery, owing nominally to the present state of his health, has determined to place his resignation in the queen's hands immediately after the Easter recess. Worth, the famous man milliner, is dead. The great dressmaker, among whose patrons were the queens of the earth, succumbed to a severe attack of influenza, which until a short time before his death bade fair to pass away. IN GENERAL. The president of the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens has sent a buffalo bull and cow to Prince Bismarck as a birthday gift. Mexican bankers are becoming apprehensive of the currency situation in the United States, and several important houses refuse to purchase drafts on New York when not made expressly payable in gold. This rule is enforced on sixty-day drafts. R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "Congressional adjournment and proof that though the rate of exchange rises to and even above the shipping point gold does not go out have produced a much better feeling. Prices do not improve, and there is on the whole no gain but some loss in wages. White strikes of 15,000 coal miners near Pittsburgh and several thousand building workers, besides strikes in ten or twelve textile and iron establishments, further lessen purchasing power for the time. But there is anticipation of improved demand for goods in general, and many are manufactured, and there is buying beyond present needs on the strength of it." MARKET REPORTS. KANSAS CITY BLAZE.

TYPE AND PRESSES GO DOWN IN RUINS.

Big Spanish Warship Missing—Two More Italians Killed—New Orleans May Have to Foot a Big Bill for Damages.

Big Printing Plant Burns. Fire destroyed between $300,000 and $350,000 worth of Kansas City property at Fourth and Broadway Wednesday evening. Flames burst out of the windows of the big four-story building at 410 West Fifth street, occupied by the English Supply Company, dealers in engine supplies and wrought iron materials, and spread with almost incredible rapidity. The Western Newspaper Union and the Great Western Type Foundry building was destroyed. The Western Newspaper Company supplied ready-prints for 200 Western weekly newspapers and employed a big force. The loss in this building alone will exceed $175,000. The English Supply Company carried an insurance of $60,000.

Compensation Likely. The international feature of the New Orleans riot through the shooting of Purser Bain of the British steamship Engineer, has resulted in the exchange of notes between Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, and the State Department, and of telegrams between the State Department and the Governor of Louisiana. Under the circumstances, it is not likely that the British Government will ask the United States to compensate the wounded Englishman. Although, following precedent in such cases, it is not improbable that some indemnity may be paid to him, more as a matter of international comity than because of any just claim he may have against the Government.

Shot in Their Cells. The enraged miners of Walsenburg, Colo., not satisfied with the slaughter Tuesday of four of the Italian murderers of A. J. Hixon, at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning broke into the jail, overpowered the guard and shot to death two other Italians charged with complicity in the crime. Their bodies were riddled with bullets. The sheriff released the other Italians as soon as he learned of the first attack, knowing that he could not defend them, and they are now in hiding.

Lost with All Hands. The Spanish cruiser Reina Regente is believed to have foundered off Tangier, Morocco, during the recent gale. She had a crew of 420 officers and men. Pieces of one of her boats and semaphore flags are reported to have been picked up along the shore near Ceuta and Tarifa.

No plan has yet been formulated for the readjustment of the debt.

MOB SHOTS TO KILL.

SIX DEAD THE RESULT OF NEW ORLEANS RIOTS.

City Terrorized by Hundreds of Armed Men Who Attack Negro Wharf Laborers, Firing Recklessly Into the Crowds—Police Were Cowardly.

Authorities Dotted.

Not since the day of the memorable attack on the Parish prison and the lynching of the Italians four years ago has New Orleans been wrought up as it was Tuesday by a bloody labor riot on the river front, resulting in the killing of six men and the wounding of at least a dozen others. The riot was far more serious than the loss of life indicated, for it showed the mob to be in complete control and able to defy and override the police and hold the commerce of the city completely at its mercy. It marched along the entire city front, some eight or ten miles, in two armies equipped with rifles, shot-guns and pistols, dispersing all companies of negroes at work there and shooting all who opposed it without the slightest check or hindrance or the least attempt at resistance on the part of the laborers or police. The mob was completely master of the situation, firing right and left at all who got in the way and at many points even the vessels lying at the wharf received showers of bullets.

The riot produced the greatest excitement, arousing the commercial classes and rendering probable a suppression of the rioting which has continued more or less since October, culminating in Tuesday's affair. Appeals have been made to the police, to the Mayor, to the Governor, to the United States and finally to the British ambassador at Washington, the British ship agents appealing through him to the home Government for protection, as a British vessel at the wharf was fired on by the mob and the purser of the steamer Engineer of the Harrison line fatally wounded. The captain barely escaped with his life.

Cause of the Trouble.

The white screwmen engaged in loading vessels with cotton at that port have been attempting for four months past to drive negro labor from the levees. Several serious riots have already occurred from this cause, but these not succeeding in getting rid of the negroes, the white laborers determined upon a display that would show their strength, overawe the authorities, overwhelm the police and cause panic among the negroes. There is no reason to doubt the charge of the police that Tuesday's rioting was prearranged in every detail in order to strike terror to those who opposed the demands of the white laborers. It was well understood that there would be a serious disturbance. The Mayor and authorities were warned, but no provision was made to meet the mob, which had the field to itself, killed the negroes or ran them off the levee, overawed the police and held complete control. The white screwmen made no attempt at concealment. They marched in three companies of from 250 to 500 each along the entire city front, attacking the negroes at three points and firing indiscriminately at all persons whom they saw at work on the ships or the levee.

The first of these mobs, which consisted of two parties, each 300 strong, appeared at about 7 o'clock in the morning at the French market, near which the British steamer Engineer of the Harrison line was loading. The men were mainly armed with Winchester rifles, shotguns and pistols, but some carried the long pikes famous in the French revolution. They marched in semi-military order, quietly and with few words, and the morning being very foggy, they were not seen until they fled into the French market. Here some of them stationed themselves behind the massive pillars of the market, while others scattered among the freight with which the levee was covered.

Fired Upon the Negroes.

Just as the negro overseer called upon his men to go to work some one in the mob shouted: "Fire." There was a single shot, followed by a general fusillade. A panic prevailed in the market, where hundreds of women were marketing, and the crowd scattered in every direction, rushing for places of safety. The negroes aboard the steamer, at whom the principal fire was directed, scattered, some of them jumping overboard in their fright, but most of them seeking refuge in the cabin. The mob began firing not only at the negroes at work on the Engineer, but at any they could see passing and becoming frenzied, fired at all, white and black alike. On board the Engineer the purser, John Baur, was shot three times in the face and arm and fatally wounded. Three or four of the laborers were seriously, if not fatally, wounded. The crowd on the wharf, fared worse, however. The negroes and others who happened to be there fled in every direction when the firing began and every one of those killed or wounded was shot while in flight.

FIRES ON THE FLAG.

Spanish Man-of-War Attacks American Steamer on the High Seas.

The American mail ship Alliance, while proceeding from Colon to New York, sighted a barkentine-rigged steamer under the land off Cape May, the eastern edge of Cuba, which headed directly toward her. When about two and one-half miles distant she hoisted the Spanish flag, which was saluted by hoisting the American ensign and dipping it, which act of courtesy was answered by the Spaniard. Shortly after she fired a blank cartridge to leeward, which was soon followed by another. The American ensign was again hoisted and dipped, but the course and the speed of the ship was not changed, as no hostile demonstrations were anticipated, the Alliance being more than six miles off the land at the time. The Spanish man-of-war was not satisfied, however, with even the double salute to her flag, but proceeded to chase the American at full speed, judging from the smoke that came out of her funnel and, seeing that the Alliance was drawing away, she fired to bring her guns to bear, and fired a solid shot, which struck the water less than an eighth of a mile from the ship and directly in line. This was followed by two more shots, which fortunately did not reach their mark, though they struck the water in plain sight of the ship. This outrage has been reported to the Secretary of State by Capt. Crossman, and no doubt a prompt demand will be made on the Spanish Government for an explanation for the insult and a reason required for the attempt made to stop an American mail steamer on the high seas in time of peace.

BIG FLURRY IN WHEAT.

Government Report Causes a Stir on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The bulls had a great time on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday. May wheat jumped up nearly 3 cents from the opening price, and dissatisfaction and uncertainty marked the operations in the wheat pit throughout the day. The bulls seemed to have the best of it most of the time, but the bears would not respond to the challenges and the market closed at 56 1/2, a fall of 1 cent from the highest notch reached during the day. The flurry was caused by the Government report which reached the Board of Trade after closing hour Monday afternoon. The report was to the effect that the entire quantity of wheat in the farmers' hands amounted to only 25,000,000 bushels. It had been supposed by the brokers that the quantity on the farms reached at least 138,000,000 bushels. When it was learned that the estimate was far above the actual quantity of wheat in the farmers' hands, the faces of the bears became gloomy and the bulls belloyed with joy.

On the New York Board the excitement was intense. Very few traders had been expecting less than 125,000,000 bushels farmers' reserves, and the statement therefore came like a thunderbolt. Transactions up to noon were over 5,000,000 bushels, a larger total than is reached in many entire days. May advanced nearly 2c a bushel, selling at 62c soon after the opening, and the improvement was sustained throughout the forenoon, with very little trouble. Corn also had an active opening and a sharp advance on the Government's statement that there were only 475,000,000 bushels of farm reserves, against 539,000,000 bushels a year ago.

TAYLOR ARRESTED IN MEXICO.

Man Who Robbed South Dakota of Half a Million Said to Be Caught.

Advices announce the arrest of W. W. Taylor, the ex-State Treasurer of South Dakota, who absconded with thousands of dollars. Details of the arrest are meager. Detectives employed by the State of South Dakota have been pursuing Taylor, their last trace of him being gained at Memphis, where, for some reason not yet explained, the chief of police, after having Taylor in custody, released him before officers could arrive with extradition papers.

His capture was effected last Sunday in Mexico by Pinkerton agents. Taylor, under the name of Mason, and a companion, calling himself Phelps, went to Havana several weeks ago, and the chief of police of that city was paid $2,000 to locate Taylor, which he did on a steamer bound for Vera Cruz, Mexico. This information was wired to the detectives and they arranged to intercept the boat when it reached Mexican soil. All the necessary arrangements were made meanwhile, and when Taylor stepped ashore he was promptly placed under arrest.

Walter W. Taylor was State Treasurer of South Dakota and resided at Pierre. Jan. 8, 1894, he disappeared, and it was discovered that his accounts were $350,000 short. He was traced to Chicago, where it was learned that he had dealings with his attorney, D. K. Tenney. Jan. 10 the Senate and House of South Dakota passed an appropriation of $2,000 to be offered as a reward for the arrest of the absconder. This sum was increased by the bondsmen of Taylor, who made good his losses to the State.

FIVE MEN LYNNED.

Italians Who Killed a Colorado Deputy Sheriff Riddled with Bullets.

A few days ago Deputy Sheriff Hixon was brutally murdered at Walsenburg, Colo., by several Italian coal miners. After pounding the deputy's head into a pulp the body was hidden and was not found until Tuesday morning, when a general alarm was given and bloodhounds put upon the murderers' trail.

In a short time the well-trained dogs succeeded in running down four men, who acknowledged having committed the crime, and each endeavored to lay it on the other. Late in the afternoon an inquest was held, at which the guilt of the four Italians was plainly proved. Hixon being a very popular man, the feeling among other miners and citizens in general grew to fever heat, and at the close of the coroner's inquest, as the prisoners were being marched to jail, a mob made a rush for them, and before the sheriff and his deputies could raise a hand to protect them the bodies of the four Italians and another man were riddled with bullets.

At this juncture a general riot started. One hundred or more Italians, seeing their countrymen lying around dead, became frenzied, swearing they would have vengeance before morning. Both factions began arming themselves and at last accounts were expected to come together at any moment. The telegraph operator at Walsenburg abandoned his post, leaving no way to secure further information except as it is brought into surrounding towns by people who are fleeing from the scene of trouble, or deputy sheriffs seeking assistance.

The Secretary of the Interior has refused to reopen the case questioning the title of the Portage Lake and Lake Superior Ship Canal Company to 68,000 acres of land valued at from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

DOINGS AT LANSING.

WORK OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

An Impartial Record of the Work Accomplished by Those Who Make Our Laws—How the Time Has Been Occupied During the Past Week.

The Law-Makers.

After a brisk contest, the Senate Thursday afternoon passed the bill to perfect the factory inspection laws of the State. The inspection will cost the taxpayers $8,000 annually, and is under the control of the State Labor Commissioner. The present measure corrects the defects in the former law, and gives the State a system of inspection that is nearly perfect. The bill passed by the Senate prevents the employment of males under 15 and females under 21 for more than sixty hours in each week, and prescribes strict regulations for the construction of factories. A bill for the appraisal of the swamp lands of the State was given a vicious blow in the House, from which it will probably not be able to rally. The House passed bills giving the authorities of the Soldiers' Home at Grand Rapids power to restrain those inmates of the home who are in the habit of becoming drunk on every possible occasion.

There was a lively discussion in the Senate Friday afternoon over the Kilpatrick bill, which make corporations accepting a bonus of any nature as a consideration for locating in a city or village liable for the full amount of cash or other property received in the event that they remove from such locations. An attempt was made to exempt corporations already located from the operations of the bill, and also to void the forfeiture in case the municipality makes any misrepresentation in its efforts to secure the industry, but both were unsuccessful. Several Michigan cities have suffered severely from the operation of the by-night concern bill is intended to reach, and it is believed it will become a law. Favorable reports were made on bills providing local option by townships, villages, cities, or counties in the matter of prohibiting the liquor traffic; appropriating $126,000 for additional buildings at the Home for the Feeble Minded, and $178,000 for the current expenses of the Soldiers' Home. An adverse report was made on the joint resolution providing for the submission at the April election of an amendment to increase the salaries of several State officers. In the House the Campbell bill providing before any corporation can do business in Michigan the entire amount of the authorized capital must be subscribed and 25 per cent. thereof actually paid in was opposed by the Upper Peninsula delegation, who asserted that it would drive vast numbers of Michigan corporations into other States. No conclusion was reached and the bill will come up again.

In the Legislature Monday the bill making an appropriation of $4,000 for the recompilation of field notes in the office of the Adjutant General was passed by the House. Alarm because of the numerous bills to cripple the homeopathic college at the State University by reducing a number of its chairs brought a swarm of the disciples of Hahnemann to Lansing. There has been considerable trouble at the university on account of the homeopathic school, which recently resulted in the resignation of all the professors being called for. The decapitated professors are nearly all of them in favor of removing the school to Detroit, while Dean Obetz and other influential doctors are in favor of amalgamating the school with the allopathic branch, reserving to the school a chair in materia medica. The homeopathic physicians decided to ask the Legislature and the Board of Regents to amalgamate the two schools of medicine at the university after the plan suggested by Dean Obetz, giving the homeopaths four chairs in the college of medicine.

The joint resolution to submit to the voters, the question of increased salaries, which passed the House and received an unfavorable report from the Senate committee, was taken up Tuesday afternoon, and, much to the surprise of nearly everyone, received the necessary two-thirds majority. The proposition will be voted on April 1. Should the amendment be carried, the only officers who will receive increased salaries are the Secretary of State, State Treasurer, State Land Commissioner, Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Attorney General. The latter will receive $3,500 per annum, and the others $2,500 each. The Senate passed a bill prohibiting circuit judges from practicing law in their own circuits.

The Senate Wednesday passed a bill compelling manufacturers who exact bonuses from cities, if they afterward leave the city or suffer their plant to be impaired so that the value to the town is diminished, to refund the bonus paid. In the House the Committee on State Affairs favorably reported a bill to provide for a normal school at Mount Pleasant and another in the upper peninsula. The anti-fusion bill preventing any candidate for office from having his name appear more than once upon the official ballot has passed both branches of the Legislature. Committees reported in favor of a special appropriation of $262,000 for the new insane asylum at Newberry, in the upper peninsula, and $97,000 for the regular and special needs of the Industrial Home for Girls at Adrian for the years 1895 and 1896.

New Use for Aluminum.

In perforating postage stamps a die-plate is placed below the needles. As about one hundred and eighty million holes are punched per day, the wear on the die-plate is excessive; brass plates wear out in a day, and even steel plates are rapidly destroyed. The use of aluminum bronze has caused the die-plates to last for months without renewal.

The Americans' Paradise.

It is an old saying, that "Good Americans, when they die, go to Paris;" but the majority of Americans, good and alike, in these days of rapid ocean-transit, don't wait until they have passed from this mundane sphere, but embrace the first favorable opportunity of visiting la belle France, and many and ludicrous are the episodes resulting from the lack of knowledge of the French language and customs. In a most amusing and handsomely illustrated article, "An American's Mistakes in Paris," published in Demorest's Magazine for April, the trials and blunders of one American are told in a highly entertaining style. "In the Land of Lilliput" is most profusely illustrated with portraits of midgets who have been prominent in public since the time of Tom Thumb, and the accompanying narrative is specially interesting. The story matter is very attractive, and every department is filled with bright and helpful suggestions. This is an especially good number of that excellent family magazine, published by W. Jennings Demorest, at 15 East 14th Street, New York, for $2 a year.

WHAT YOUR THUMB TELLS.

The thumb is an unfailing index of character. The Square Type indicates a strong will, great energy and firmness. Cleverly attractive and spirited. The thumb of those of advanced ideas and business ability. Both of these types belong to the busy man or woman; and Demorest's Family Magazine presents especially for such persons a whole volume of new ideas, condensed in a small space, so that the record of the whole world's work for a month may be read in half an hour. The Conical Type indicates refinement, culture, and a love of music, poetry, and fiction. A person with this type of thumb will thoroughly enjoy the literary attractions of Demorest's Magazine. The Artistic Type indicates a love of beauty and art, which will find rare pleasure in the magnificent oil-pictures of roses, 16 1/2 x 24 inches, reproduced from the original painting by De Longpre, the most celebrated of living flower-painters, which will be given to every subscriber to Demorest's Magazine for 1895. The cost of this superb work of art was $350.00; and the reproduction cannot be distinguished from the original. Besides this, an exquisite oil or water-color picture is published in each number of the Magazine, and the articles are so profusely and superbly illustrated that the Magazine is, in reality, a portfolio of art works of the highest order. The Philosophic Type is the thumb of the thinker and inventor of ideas, who will be deeply interested in those developed monthly in Demorest's Magazine, in every one of its numerous departments, which cover the entire artistic and scientific field, chronicling every fact, fancy, and tid of the day. Demorest's is simply a perfect Family Magazine, and was long ago crowned Queen of the Monthlies. Send in your subscription; it will cost only $3.00, and you will have a dozen Magazines in one. Address W. JENNINGS DEMOREST, Publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York. Though not a fashion magazine, its perfect fashion pages, and its articles on family and domestic matters, will be of superlative interest to those possessing the Feminine Type of Thumb, which indicates in its small size, slenderness, soft nail, and smooth, rounded tip, those traits which belong essentially to the gentler sex, every one of whom should subscribe to Demorest's Magazine. If you are unacquainted with its merits, send for a specimen copy (free), and you will admit that seeing these THUMBS has put you in the way of saving money by finding in one Magazine everything to satisfy the literary wants of the whole family.
