The Bike.

Bicycling has grown with inconceivable rapidity from a habit to a fashion, from a fashion to a fad, and from a fad to a craze. Now it has settled back to an almost universal custom, with none of the unpleasant attendants of a craze or fad excepting the bloomers. The laboring man and the typewriter, the minister and the millionaire, the working girl and the heiress—these are all devotees of the almighty wheel. It might be said, with no attempt at pleasantry, that the wheel has effected a revolution in locomotion. Already the horse is being slaughtered for food and being packed in cans like sardines. The wheel has cut into the profits of street railways and buggy makers, and despite the melancholy admonitions we sometimes hear, it is more than probable that the doctors are not making quite so much as they used to. It has tapped more tills than one. Social life has been very materially changed since the advent of the wheel, and the new woman, if she yields to the weakness of a crest, should select some design wherein a wheel occupies a conspicuous place. The custom has taken liberties with the human form, and evolution has succeeded the revolution. We have the bicycle face and the bicycle hump and the bicycle legs. It is only a question of time when we shall have the bicycle corn and the bicycle cramp. The wheel has even precipitated ecclesiastical schisms, and the preachers have inveighed against it as a substitute for Charon's skiff and defended it as a substitute for Elijah's chariot. We have been warned that thousands of us are going straight to the other place on bicycles, and assured that we are headed in the opposite direction. With it all, great is the bicycle, but the bloomer girl is not its prophetess.

Bulls and Bears.

The following may stop the uninitiated asking so many questions, and enable them to read market reports understandingly:

In speculation of any kind, a "bull" is a person (or "operator") who believes that prices are going up; a "bear" believes they are going down.

A bear sells "short;" that is, he sells at a high price stock that he hasn't got, hoping to buy it at a lower rate and so make money.

A bull likes to be "long" of a stock. (to have plenty of it) if he thinks it is going up in price; then he will sell at an advance.

A "margin" is a certain amount of money put up by a speculator in the hands of his broker, generally a small percentage of the value of a certain stock. The broker buys the stock "on a margin" and holds it "for a rise." If the price goes up he sells and the speculator makes the money, getting back his "margin" and the advanced price. If it falls in price the speculator loses his margin and his stock, unless he increases his margin.

A "lamb" is a greenhorn who tries to speculate. He is apt to be "shorn."

A "corner" is where an operator secures control of all the shares of a certain stock; the object is to make the bears who have sold "short" pay higher prices for the stock, which they must buy to cover their shortage.

Bits of Musing Thought.

The standard typewriter of the best make has big sleeves.

Society is continually surging with the conflict of dollars and sense.

Fishermen will dream of fish lying about them, but in reality it's the other way.

No man can learn to play a cornet and teach Christianity in the same neighborhood.

There is one consolation with the new woman craze—the coming chaperon will be a man.

The more a man looks at the purchase of a lawn mower the less the mower seems to be.

The fisherman who lies in wait for a trout and finally gets it is apt to lie in wait for many moons.

The corn crop is very successful in the west, nevertheless chiropodists make no complaint about the east.

CANDIDATES NAMED.

Ohio's Democracy Puts Its Ticket in the Field.

Ex-Gov. Campbell Will Again Run for Governor—The State Platform—Convention Rejects Free Silver Amendment.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 23.—The democratic state convention was called to order in the city hall at 10:25 a. m. Wednesday by State Chairman M. A. Smalley. Senator Calvin S. Brice was chosen to preside.

After the report of the committee on credentials and permanent organization had been made, the temporary organization being continued, Hon.

EX-GOV. CAMPBELL.

Frank Hurd presented the report of the committee on resolutions, which was as follows:

The Platform.

"The democratic party of Ohio in convention assembled points with satisfaction and pride to the wisdom of the action of that party in the last two years and the results accomplished according to its promises, to-wit:

"The repeal of the republican legislation known as the Sherman law, the McKinley law, from which repeal has resulted returning prosperity to the country to such an extent that even the republicans are obliged to recognize the same.

"We congratulate President Cleveland that his efforts in favor of repeal of these vicious laws and the upholding of credit of the country have been successful.

"We congratulate our senator, Hon. Calvin S. Brice, for the earnest and effective support he has given to the president in these matters.

"When we consider the facts that the democratic party received from the republicans in 1892 a bankrupt treasury that it inherited from the vicious currency and tariff laws which had prepared and finally produced the panic of 1893, we insist that it is entitled to the thanks of the people for the courage with which it has attacked and repealed these laws.

"We reaffirm the following portion of the seventh plank of the first national democratic convention:

"We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard of money of the country and to coin both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, to be adjusted by international agreement, or by such safe legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the payment of debts, and we demand that the paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin.

"We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of farmers and laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and fluctuating currency."

The rest of the platform dealt with state affairs of local interest and importance.

The platform was signed by nineteen out of twenty-one members of the committee, the dissenters being A. W. Patrick, of Tuscarawas, and J. M. Lewis, of Champaign. These submitted the following minority report to the financial plank:

"We demand the immediate restoration of the law providing for the free coinage and legal tender of both gold and silver coins without discrimination against either metal, as provided in the constitution, and without awaiting the assent of England or any other foreign nation."

The vote for the silver amendment to the platform stood: Aye, 270; nay, 625; majority for "sound money" 255.

The Nominees.

At 2:10 p. m. nominations were in order. Ex-Gov. Campbell was nominated by acclamation for governor. The ex-governor accepted the nomination in a few words, saying that a good soldier should neither falter nor fall. He would promise them that he would not falter; it was for them to say whether he should fall.

The balance of the ticket will read as follows:

For Lieutenant Governor—B. Peaslee, of Hamilton county.

For Supreme Judge—William T. Mooney, of Auglaize.

For State Auditor—James W. Knott, of Mansfield.

For State Treasurer—W. T. Slobor, of Gallia.

For Attorney General—George A. Fairbanks, of Franklin.

The convention adopted the rooster as an emblem and at 2:40 adjourned sine die.

And though I miss the milder joys of life,
Teach me to find my heart for noble strife.
While I was still a wayward, fretful child,
How didst thou lure me to thy bosom mild;
With what quaint quips and with what jocund ways
Thou didst beguile me in those far off days,
Holding a mask before thy solemn face,
And hiding years beneath a youthful grace.
Now drop thy mask: I know thee as thou art,
Grave and severe, teaching the harder part.
With worn and knotted hands, and weary eyes,
Yet thou alone canst teach where Heaven lies.
—Katharine Pyle, in N. Y. Independent.

A HOLIDAY TRAGEDY.

All my life I have been—well, not exactly a woman hater, but a firm believer in the idea that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is not an absolute necessity. For many years it was my proud boast that I was able to live with feminine aid and yet live a very enjoyable life, as, with clockwork regularity, I went from my bachelor lodgings to business each morning, returning in the afternoon, and spending the evening at the club or some place of amusement. The idea of having a lady companion in my rambles never entered my head.

True, my landlady (good old soul!) prepared my meals and cleaned my rooms, but that was because I had not time to do it myself, and a man-servant was beyond my means. But in all else I dispensed with woman's aid. Root cleaning, sewing buttons on, lighting the fire, etc., were all done with my own hands—nay, at a pinch, I have even washed a pocket handkerchief.

I desired to stand forth as a living example of the original Adam, and a proof of the superfluity of the modern Eve. But my misguided companions refused to profit by my teachings or to follow my example. One by one they fell under female influence, one by one they married, and then—I cut them dead. Ah, me! Those free Bohemian days were happy ones, as year after year I pursued my adopted course, in spite of the continual falling off of my comrades. Then came a time when my circle of acquaintances had decreased so considerably that I began to feel lonely. Bachelor chums were more difficult to find than ever. To loneliness succeeded melancholy, and I grew miserable and pessimistic.

One friend, to whom I laid bare my woes, said:
"You keep to yourself too much. What you ought to do is to lodge with some family where there are two or three grown-up daughters. They would wake you up a bit."

This, to me, the hitherto ideal advocate of an Eveless Eden! And yet, after the advice had been tendered several times, I began to think that such a change might be beneficial. Such a course need not involve the rendering up of my tenets; but, as woman still formed a part of the world, she might at least contribute to my amusement. So, after very serious consideration, I decided to seek fresh apartments, with light society thrown in.

Now my troubles commenced. I could not make the direct inquiry: "Have you any grown-up daughters?" So I generally viewed the rooms, listening to the landlady's verbiage, settled the rent, and then casually asked: "Have you any children?" and the reply would be: "Yes, 'four,' 'five' or 'six' (as the case might be); 'the oldest is ten years old and the youngest two months. But they are as good as gold, and never make a bit of noise.'"

The numberless journeys I made and the many desultory conversations I listened to were all to no purpose. So one appeared to possess grown-up daughters—the eldest was always ten. Just when I was about to abandon my search fortune—or was it fate?—led me to Myrtle Villa, Paradise Gardens, Upper Dulwich. The door was opened by a vision of loveliness, faultlessly dressed, and with bright blue eyes and golden hair. "Newly married," thought I. "Well, here at least, the oldest won't be ten!" She invited me in and then disappeared; a middle-aged lady entering directly after, we proceeded to discuss terms. Then came the inevitable inquiry as to children.

"I have two grown-up daughters, the younger of whom opened the door to you."

"At last! Need I say that within a week I was installed in Myrtle Villa? The landlady (a widow) was a genial, homely woman, and the youngest daughter, Annie, aged twenty-five, I have already described, but the other daughter, Julia, did not impress me favorably. She was neither good looking nor pleasing, and, without being exactly bad-tempered, always insisted upon having her own way.

I now seemed to be in a new world. My boots bore a brilliant luster each morning without my aid, and my slippers were laid ready for me in the evening, and, as for lending me a needle and cotton—the ideal—if I would only leave them outside they would be too happy.

I no longer needed to seek relaxation at the club after the labors of the day. Julia played the piano well (her only accomplishment), while Annie sang divinely, and thus the evenings passed altogether too quickly. Male acquaintances they did not seem to possess—yet, stay, there was one—Mr. Malcolm, whose name I frequently heard mentioned, but as his calls were always made in the daytime I never saw him. I had rapidly passed into that condition of mind which raised a feeling of jealousy on his account, so one day I questioned my landlady on the subject.

"Oh, he's a very old friend of ours. Once we thought he would have proposed to Julia, but nothing came of it."

What a relief! Only Julia! So time went pleasantly on, and then—how can I confess it?—my lifelong creed was thrown to the winds, my proud ambition humbled in the dust, and I became a willing slave to the sex I had so long despised and ignored. My only thought now was how and in what words I should beseech my darling Annie to become my wife. Time after time I was on the point of speaking, but Julia always turned up at the critical moment.

One evening Julia announced that a week thence she had an engagement to play at a concert. Then burst upon me a brilliant inspiration. I purchased two stall tickets for the Lyceum for that same evening; and, making pretense that I had them given to me, I persuaded Annie to promise to accompany me. This time Julia would not be able to intrude, and I should know my fate. In two months' time I should be taking my summer holiday, which would fit in just nicely for the honeymoon.

On the eventful day I hastened homeward with a queer fluttering in my heart and a flower-spray for Annie in my hat. Julia opened the door, and hardly permitted me to enter before she informed me that Annie had been out in the hot sun and had been obliged to go to bed with a very bad sick headache. My fluttering heart gave one huge bound and then seemed to stand still. However, to disguise my feelings I said:

"I am sorry; and you have to play at the concert?"

"No," she replied, "the concert has been postponed."

"Then may I beg the pleasure of your company? I did not ask you before because of the concert engagement."

"Thanks. I shall enjoy it immensely."

What a miserable failure that evening proved to be. I do not even know what the play was called. I was thinking all the time of my poor sick darling, and not of the acting or the woman who sat by my side wearing the flower-spray that was meant for Annie.

The words were still unspoken when my holidays arrived, and tearing myself away from the two sisters, who stood at the gate and waved their handkerchiefs as long as I remained in sight, it was with no feelings of joyful anticipation that I betook myself to Hastings for rest and recreation.

Rest! Where could I find it? Not on the parade or pier, amid hundreds of couples promenading, as I had pictured Annie and myself doing; not on the beach, where the Ethiopian musicians were eternally playing "Annie Laurie," "Sweet Annie Rooney" and "Annie, Dear, I'm Called Away."

For a whole week I wandered aimlessly hither and thither. Then I could stand it no longer. So I wrote a long letter commencing "Darling," and pouring out the impassioned, pent-up love that comes but once in a man's lifetime. I besought and beseeched her to take pity upon me, or my lifeless body should surge in the billows that beat relentlessly on the rocks of Beachy Head.

When I had finished I happened to catch sight of a photograph which I had purchased the previous day, representing one of the yachts preparing to start on her morning trip, with my own figure in a prominent position in the bows.

"Ah!" thought I, "I'll send that to Julia."

If it were possible I had now less rest than before, night or day, while waiting for the answer. Rising in the morning with haggard looks and burning brow, the other boarders would remark that the sea air did not seem to agree with me, while under the mask of assumed indifference there raged within me the fiercest volcano that ever burned in the heart of man.

At last the reply came, and "bounding up to the privacy of my own room with trembling fingers I tore open the envelope which hid from me—life or death?"

"Dearest, I am yours forever. I cannot say your proposal was unexpected, for I have felt that you could mean nothing less, ever since that evening when you so openly expressed your preference by taking me to the theater."

What! where! where! I looked at the signature—"Julia." Oh, heavens! I saw it all. I had placed them in the wrong envelopes, and sent the letter to Julia and the photograph to Annie! How I raged and fumed and tore my hair, until at last, in sheer exhaustion, I sank into a chair and endeavored to finish reading the letter.

"Annie thanks you very much for the photo, and she desires me to tell you that yesterday Mr. Malcolm proposed to her and was accepted. We will have the two weddings on the same day. Won't that be nice, dear?"

Nice? This was the last straw. Nice, indeed, for me to be married to a woman I did not care for, and at the same time to see the one I loved given to another man. I cannot remember what I did for the next hour or two beyond cursing my foolishness, and swearing I wouldn't marry Julia. Then, when I became calmer, I saw an action for breach of promise looming. I thought of all my hard-earned savings of years being swept away by a sympathetic jury to heal Julia's broken heart. There was no escape for me.

She had my letter which simply commenced: "Darling," and as no name was mentioned in it from beginning to end, was it possible that any body of intelligent men could be brought to believe that I intended it for Annie when I addressed the envelope to Julia? No, no. I must go through with it—I would marry Julia. Yes, and I would teach her that man is the lord of creation, and that woman is but a helpmate but not an equal, and so, in my married life, triumphantly assert those principles which I had held so long.

Julia married me at the same time and place as Annie became Mrs. Malcolm. I now spend my evenings endeavoring to solve a difficult problem, and that is—why do they call woman the weaker sex?—Tit-Bits.

GIANT CORN OF PERU.

Efforts to Introduce the Grain Into This Country.

Samples of corn of a giant species have been obtained from Peru by the department of agriculture. The grains are four times the size of those of ordinary maize, and Secretary Morton believes that the plant may be turned to most valuable account in this country. It is very prolific and bears ears of huge dimensions. The species is quite distinct from any known in North America, and the name "zea amyloacea" has been given to it. All of our corn comes under the head of "zea mais." Prof. E. L. Sturtevant is now making a study of this remarkable Peruvian cereal, with a view to finding out how it may be cultivated most advantageously.

The grains are extraordinarily starchy, even for corn, hence the name "amyloacea." Already ten distinct varieties of the species have been ascertained. One of them would probably be excellent for canning, inasmuch as it contains an unusual percentage of sugar. It has been named "zea amyloacea saccharata." Undoubtedly the species is derived from the same source as the maize of the United States.

Hope of the discovery of a new and valuable cereal has been raised by the fruiting this season of the common cane of the southern canebreaks. This is an extraordinary event. Only very rarely does the cane produce seed, its ordinary method of propagation being like that of the sugarcane—by underground root stalks. This year farmers in the south have gathered thousands of bushels of the seed for fodder. It is likely that they would serve excellently for human food, if the plant could be induced to bear annually. Whether or not it could be persuaded by cultivation to alter its habits in this regard is an open question. The farmers claim that the seed will not germinate, but experiments made by the department of agriculture prove that they do sprout, though they are very slow about it. The root sent out by the seed is enormously long compared with the little green shoot. —Washington Star.

The Japanese Hotel Bill.

The final reckoning with our host was to me a most amusing illustration of the national courtesies. Mr. Kanaya acted as though the production of his bill were the most painful effort, and at length he reluctantly brought it forth, consisting of a number of Chinese scrawls on scraps of tissue paper. On bended knees with forehead touching the mat did my friend push it forward. I, bowing as well as my stiff western back would permit me, placed the proper sum, wrapped in thin white paper, before him, for nothing is more ill bred than to hand coin without it being wrapped in paper. Again it was received with bowing, low, lower, lowest, but it is also the rule of politeness to pay something more than the bill—in fact, to pay a hotel bill net would be considered an insult, or at least a mark of great dissatisfaction. Therefore, wrapping a yen (dollar) in white paper, I added it with low bows. It was returned with lower, and finally pressed upon the host with still more profound inclinations, and was at length duly and gratefully received. The bright little waiting maid received her yen with the same show of modest reluctance.

Overhead Baggage Handling.

A traveling crane has been utilized in the Victoria station, at Manchester, to facilitate the movement of passengers' luggage, and has been very successful in relieving the congestion of traffic on the platforms. A tramway has been suspended from the roof of the station, and on this runs a light car fitted with an electric motor and a seat for an attendant. Chains passing over a winch barrel, also operated by electricity, permit the basket truck to be raised or lowered, and in this way it is possible to transfer a load of parcels from one platform to another, over the heads of the passengers, who are thus free from the usual inconveniences to which they are subjected by the movement of the baggage at large stations. The motor was designed and built at the Horwich works of the company, and it is proposed to extend the system to other stations.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Shot by a Son-in-Law.

Michael Krieg was shot and probably fatally wounded in Detroit by a son-in-law, William Haas, a carpenter. Haas' wife had left him a week ago and returned with her three children to her father's home. Haas went into Krieg's house and fired a revolver at his wife, but failed to hit her. Krieg grappled with the would-be murderer and was shot three times. A son of the wounded man rushed in and overpowered Haas by using a baseball bat and tying his feet before he regained his senses.

Nine Buildings Burned.

Fire destroyed between $30,000 and $40,000 worth of business property in Montgomery. Nine buildings were burned, including Alward's drug store, Jones & Sons' dry goods store, Perego & Sons' shoe store, the odd fellows', masonic and G. A. R. halls, Spalding & Ritchie's meat market, Kimmel's restaurant and G. Headley's harness shop. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. The insurance aggregates $13,300.

Not an Acre Sold.

Over 100,000 acres of agricultural college lands which were restored to the market were offered for sale at auction at the state land office in Lansing, and, although a number of would-be-purchasers were present, not an acre was sold. The minimum price put upon the lands by the state board of agriculture was more than anyone would bid. The lands for the most part are covered with hardwood.

State Board of Health.

Reports to the state board of health by sixty-one observers in different parts of the state during the week ended August 17 show that typhoid fever increased and influenza and intermittent fever decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 180 places, scarlet fever at nineteen, typhoid fever at forty-three, diphtheria at twenty, measles at eight, and smallpox at Detroit and Battle Creek.

Michigan Mine in Trouble.

Foreclosure proceedings were begun at Houghton against the Crystal Mining company and the property will be sold September 3 to pay bonded indebtedness with accrued interest and taxes amounting to $165,000. This mine has sunk just $1,500,000, and as its stock is non-assessable the holders probably cannot save the property, although they are endeavoring to do so.

In Trouble Again.

Nelson Addis, the Williamston farmer who had to pay $2,500 to the husband of Mrs. J. R. Wilson for alienating her alleged affection, is again in trouble. Mrs. Wilson caused his arrest on a charge of illegal parentage. The wife of Addis died of grief and shame a month after his first arrest at Grand Rapids last September.

John Statterson died in Detroit as the result of a blow on the head which fractured his skull. He was drunk and made some insulting remark to an unknown man who was passing with a woman. KILLED IN HIS TRACKS.

One of the Supposed Michigan Train Robbers Slain.

McBAIN, Mich., Aug. 26.—A man supposed to have been one of the Chicago & West Michigan train robbers, and the murderer of Detective Powers, was shot dead Saturday night. He came here from Clare Saturday night. He was known here as John Smalley. His description tallies closely with that of the murderer of Powers, and his actions were such as to arouse suspicion.

About 8 o'clock Gillis McBain, of McBain, and Bert Spafford, of Cadillac, stepped to the open door of the house of Chip Brown, brother of Smalley's wife. Smalley was sitting in a rocking chair slightly behind and at the right of the doorway. McBain and Spafford called upon Smalley to throw up his hands. Instead of complying he threw his hands toward his hips and at the same time slammed the door shut with his feet. McBain and Spafford each shot through the door with their Winchester rifles. The man rose from his chair, took half a dozen steps toward the rear of the house and fell dead into the kitchen.

It was found one of the bullets went clear through his body, entering the left breast. The other entered his neck. On his person were found two big revolvers with all the chambers loaded. He had been arrested once before on a charge of train robbery, but was discharged for lack of evidence. It is known that Smalley was a member of the Cook gang in the Indian territory and while there his place was a rendezvous for the desperadoes of that section.

Detective Way, who was with Detective Powers at the time he was killed, has identified the remains of Smalley as those of the man who murdered Powers.

BRUTAL SCENES.

Bull Fights at Gillette, Col., Disgust the Spectators.

GILLETTE, Col., Aug. 26.—Three sleek Hereford bulls were slaughtered in the arena Saturday and Sunday afternoons before a large audience that had assembled to witness a programme of sports. They saw a genuine bull fight, the first ever given in the United States—but they were not very highly edified, nor were they pleased with the spectacle. They probably admired more the nerve of Manager Wolfe, who pulled off the fight in the face of the sheriff and the adjutant general of Colorado, who were to prevent a fight.

After the performances a constable arrested Wolfe and his assistants and escorted them over to Cripple Creek to be tried before a justice of the peace, but really to prevent Sheriff Bowers from making an arrest and carrying them off to Colorado Springs. Adjutant General Moses made a vigorous protest, and was active enough in urging the sheriff to take a stand, but Sheriff Bowers did not care to arouse the anger of the miners.

The sight of an ordinary Hereford bull, accustomed to quiet scenes, being badgered and tormented, his sides pierced by the cruel darts and by the goads of the picadores, and finally the disgusting brutality of the final stabbing and the death throes of the tortured animal, was a spectacle revolting to American ideas of fair play. The Cripple Creek miners want the public to understand that they do not endorse the show. Had the civil authorities used their proper power to stop it no protest from the miners would have been made.

FIVE FATALLY HURT.

Result of a Collision Between Vessels Off Presque Isle.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 26.—Saturday evening the steamer City of Toledo, with 800 excursionists on board, 400 from Ada, O., and 400 from Bucyrus, was in collision with a schooner. The City of Toledo was returning from her regular trip to Put-in-Bay and encountered the schooner Magdalen Dowling in tow of the tug Butler in the straight channel just off Presque Isle. She met the Dowling, but her signals were misunderstood, and a collision followed, by which about 50 feet of the steamer's upper works were carried away. A panic ensued among the passengers, but was quelled within a few minutes. It was then found that seven persons had been severely injured by the force of the collision, and it is feared that five of them will die. The steamer was towed to the dock, and the injured ones were taken to a hospital. The damage to the City of Toledo will amount to about $3,000. The Dowling is not damaged to any great extent. Following is the list of the wounded, the first five of whom may die:

Grace Garwood, Nellie Garwood, sisters of Ada, O.; Jessie Jackson, Ada, O.; Annie Zimmerman, Ada, O.; Mrs. John E. Miller, Bucyrus, O.; James Farley, Bucyrus, O.; Mrs. John Sanderson, Ada, O.

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 For each dollar invested can be made by our originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by a systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

Value of a Becoming Bonnet.

The value of a becoming bonnet cannot be calculated, writes Isabel A. Mallon in an attractive article on "The Early Winter Bonnets," in the September Ladies' Home Journal. One's gown may be simple, may have been made over a number of times, may indeed be almost shabby, but if the bonnet is becoming all else is forgotten.

One's bonnet has much to do with bringing out the virtues or otherwise, not only of one's eyes and hair, but of one's skin and the shape of one's head. The round-faced, plump beauty must give up her ties unless they are of the narrowest and looped with so much care that the idea of framing the full moon is not suggested. She whose face is slender (poiteness gives that name to thinness), then there must be a soft, full framing and broad loops that will tone down all angles. She who is shallow must admire rose, pale blue and heliotrope on other women, choosing golden brown, that most charitable of tones, deep crimson, and if a light evening color is required, a delicate shrimp to make the yellow of her skin white. The pale woman chooses rose, dark blue, all reds, dark green, glowing purple and black to gain color, while she of the rosy cheeks selects pale blue, heliotrope, olive, cream white and crimson, if she wishes them not to look like roses. If your eyes are dull do not make them seem more so by putting sparkling jet or brilliant Rhinestones near them.

Mrs. J. D. Van Duyn, an old resident of Manchester, was killed by a Lake Shore train Sunday night, a short distance north of that place. Mrs. Van Duyn had been in ill health for some time and had become deranged. She had wandered away from home and was not missed until Monday morning, when her remains were found.

The parents who permit their boys to loiter aimlessly about on the streets and in stores every night are training them to habits of idleness, if not vice, that will some day return to plague them sorely. The parents should find employment and amusements for these boys at home, and not for one night, but every night in the week. The home and nowhere else is the place for young boys.

An exchange says: Two Bridgewater boys played a mean trick on Sheriff Judson, of Washtenaw county. They blacked their faces and caused a report to be circulated that they were going to raid a lot of Saline melon patches and chicken coops. The sheriff's posse surrounded the house where they retreated, then rushed in with guns drawn to compel the surrender of the desperadoes. Meanwhile the boys washed their faces, and the sheriff saw the joke.

The new law to prevent the introduction and spread of communicable diseases goes into effect August 30, after which time the body of a person dying with such disease cannot be taken into any township, village or city without the special permit of the board of health or health officer of said township, village or city. A severe penalty is provided for a violation of this statute. The diseases intended to be covered by the new law are consumption, pneumonia, influenza, diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough and small-pox.

The last great bicycle race event in Michigan will be the tri state meet to be held at the fair grounds in Jackson on Wednesday, September 4. The races are nearly all for class A men, and the prizes that have been hung up by those having the arrangements in charge include a lot of rich diamonds and gold and silver trophies. The program is a fine one—championship races being arranged, with fast men to start. Some of the fastest men on the track will be present. Perfect arrangements for the reception and entertainment of bicycle men have been made. Jackson will do herself honor in the eyes of Michigan bicyclists.

When the women all wear bloomers and their skirts are laid away; when their limbs no more are rumors, coyly hid from light of day; when the petticoat's forgotten with its swishing, whisking swirls, and there's less cotton, I'll be sorry for the girls. I'll be sorry for the lassies who in school are at their books—at the head or foot of classes—I'll be sorry for their looks; for their good heads will make their trousers, and, good heavens! don't we know who were boys, but not now, sirs, that they will make a holy show? It is bad enough when Willie wearth pants his mamma made, and it often knocks you silly just to see the youthful blade wearing pants which no man knoweth which is front or which is back—if he cometh or he goeth there is quite an equal "slack." But your Susie! Oh, 'tis galling; scalding tears will downward glance, when you hear the urchins calling: "Say, where did you get them pants?" You will see her youthful growing, but by no dead certain rule can you tell if she is going or is coming home from school. There'll be trouble, you'll allow, sirs, there'll be anguish for your pa's when their daughters all wear pants that are revamped from ma's. So I'm weeping as I'm writing, and my great tears fall like pearls, since I know what I'm inditing, for I'm sorry for the girls.

Cuyler Barton in Custody.

There has been a great deal of excitement in the northeastern part of this county over the peculiar burning of several barns, and in view of these facts the following from the Livingston Herald, relative to one upon whom suspicion has rested, will be of interest:

"The circumstances of the firing of the former residence of the late Gilbert May in Unadilla village were such that, upon investigation, Prosecuting Attorney John Cummiskey thought it proper to place Cuyler Barton, of Unadilla, under arrest, and at this writing he is incarcerated in the county jail. The fact that the party who lately moved into this house is one of the important witnesses against Barton in an arson case to be tried in the Washtenaw circuit court at Ann Arbor, and the methods made use of to burn the building, are among the things that led to the arrest of Barton. The party who arranged things for the fire entered the building before the present occupants moved in, and while the house was vacant entered the garret through a mantle, two of the bricks were removed from the chimney and some marsh hay thrust in to kindle a blaze with, then a quantity of the hay was piled under the roof boards and moistened with kerosene oil; a bottle filled with oil was also laid thereon to be broken by the flames and thus aid the very element in its work. After the fire was extinguished the broken bottle was found, and the oil was wrung out of the unburned hay. The numerous incendiary fires of Unadilla demand that the perpetrator of these destructive acts be found. Strong suspicions have long laid these charges at the door of Cuyler Barton, and several times he has been placed under arrest and stood the tests of examinations and a trial for arson, but has so far secured an acquittal. If he is guilty, as many believe him to be, public safety and the safety of property demand that he be apprehended, for he is, if guilty, one gifted with a cunning and skill in the line of arson that stands without a parallel in a career of crime ever run to earth within the area of Livingston county. If he is guilty we hope he has come to the end of his dastardly work; if innocent, his is truly a case of pitiless persecution. Be it as it may, we hope the right will prevail."

III. Suddenly he stopped. An ashen pallor spread over his face. He saw something in the sand.

IV. It was the print of a bare foot.

He cried aloud: "I fled from the world because of it! It haunted me there! God knows I was innocent."

V. Long years passed. Sailors, seeking water, found on the beach the skeletons of a man and a dog and a footprint which grimly told that Tribly had passed that way.

WASHINGTON now enjoys the distinction of being the first American city to put into successful operation an underground electric trolley street railway, on the system developed in Budapest, Hungary. A RECENT compilation of New England vital statistics shows that in 1893 twenty-one marriages in every thousand of population occurred in towns of more than 10,000 population, while in the villages and in the country the marriage rate was five less in the thousand. The city birth rate is higher in the same proportion, but the death rates is also higher.

THERE is a steady increase in the number of cigars and cigarettes smoked in this country, and notably in the consumption of cigarettes, according to a tobacco trade journal. During the fiscal year just closed there were sold in the United States 3,333,845,560 cigarettes and 4,130,440,370 cigars. The increase in the consumption of cigars over the previous year was 63,522,938.

A GOOD and easy way to discover the presence of ozone in a place is to wear silver trinkets. If they grow black, as if near hot sulphur springs, you have it in a large proportion. Silver jewelry keeps white in the low-lying towns of Norway, but gets black in the hillside pine woods. If one walks in a meadow after a thunderstorm, one will find the silver money in one's purse discolored.

UTAH, when definitely admitted, will be the forty-fifth of the states. It will probably be a closely contested state, too, and there is no way of telling how it is likely to go in the first presidential election in which its votes will be recorded in the electoral college. In the contest for territorial delegates in 1892 the democrats carried Utah by a plurality of 2,806. In the election of last November the republican plurality was 1,818.

ALUMINUM neckties are now being introduced. They are really made of the cosmopolitan metal, and frosted or otherwise ornamented in various shapes imitating the ordinary silk or satin article. They are fastened to the collar button or by a band around the neck, and are particularly recommended for summer wear, since they can be easily cleaned when soiled, while they are not perceptibly heavier than cotton, cambric or silk.

THE latest plea made for the bicycle with a pneumatic tire is that it is a perfect insulator, and makes the rider free from the danger of being struck by lightning. As the chances of a man on a bicycle being struck by lightning have been carefully calculated to be about one in a billion, the Wheel adds, there will, of course, be some pessimists who will deny that this newly discovered virtue of the pneumatic as a lightning insulator amounts to very much.

A NEW process for the preservation of green fruit during railway transit has been invented by a Californian. It consists in sterilizing the air in the car containing the fruit, and is said to be more economical than the present refrigerating system and much more successful. Ordinary cars can be fitted with the apparatus for the process at small expense, while the expense of the process itself is said to be comparatively nothing compared with the refrigerating process.

A FATAL COMPACT.

A Man and His Wife Agree to Commit Suicide.

They Quit Life Together in a Boston Hotel—Letters Left Givg the Cause and Detail Accounts of the Awful Deed.

Boston, Aug. 26.—Louis Hammond and his bride Kathryn, of Des Moines, Ia., came from New York Monday with the avowed intention of dying together by their own hands. Saturday afternoon their bodies were found in a room at the American house, death having resulted from morphine poisoning.

It was clearly a case of double suicide and one of the most remarkable ever recorded, characterized by coolness and premeditation, and has a unique feature, for before attempting to end their lives they signed their names to a letter addressed to the coroner, telling him what they contemplated and why they sought self-destruction.

On Tuesday they took chloral, but neither died. It is supposed that they took an overdose, which occasioned nausea and saved their lives. The day following they made a second attempt, and on this failing Mrs. Hammond swallowed morphine, while her husband stood by and waited the result. She died at 10 that morning. Then Hammond endeavored to kill himself. He took morphine, but this agent failed to do its work. Then he drove a hat-pin several inches long into his heart, but this too, failed. Then he took morphine and chloral again, and thinking, after waiting several hours, that this agent had again failed to do its work, he locked his dead wife in the room while he went to purchase a revolver. He died some time Thursday night. It was probably the chloral and morphine which caused his death, as the revolver was found with all its chambers filled.

From Wednesday morning until Thursday night by ingenious planning he managed to keep hotel employees out of the room and remained with the body of his wife without anyone suspecting that a crime had taken place. Just before he died he wrote a complete account of how he and his wife had taken their lives, not omitting the slightest detail.

A letter to the coroner signed by both says, among other things:

"In reference to our reason for committing the deed, we can only say that our money is low and we are tired of the grind. We have no friends who need be notified or who would respond if notified. We have but one request to make, and that is that we be not separated. We are man and wife and wish to take our rest together. If the sale of our belongings will suffice we should be glad to have you see that we escape the pauper graveyard. No doubt some undertaker will take charge of us for the advertisement, and if a grass plot can be purchased we will do the rest."

Hammond, after his wife's death, wrote a letter which told the entire story of the suicide. He detailed the death of his wife on Wednesday morning and told of his consuming forty-five grains of morphine after that occurrence, but said it had little effect on him. Continuing he wrote:

"About 2:30 Wednesday night I got my wife's hat pin, with a white head, and drove its full length into my heart and lung between the fifth and sixth ribs—I think just to the left of the breastbone. My nerves being somewhat numbed, the pain was not severe, but beyond causing a strain in breathing I had little result. I could move my heart about by pushing or pulling on the head of the pin. It was driven in fully five inches, and as it began to hurt I drove half an hour. I removed the same. It was not hard to push in, but it took all my strength to get it out. I was much surprised that this did not end matters."

The letter is ended by telling how he went out on the street Thursday morning and bought a revolver, but on returning to his room found he was too ill from the effect of the morphine to use the weapon.

Hammond was about 35 years old. He was formerly in the perfume business at 68 Maiden lane, New York, the firm being Hammond & Brittner. In New York he met and wooed Miss Kathryn Sawyer. After his business partnership was dissolved in July he went on the road for G. M. Dittner, of Des Moines. He has a sister at St. Paul, Ia. Nothing is known as to the woman's antecedents.

AN OLD GRUDGE.

It Causes a Fight with the Loss of Three Lives in Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 26.—News has just reached here of a terrible shooting affray growing out of an old grudge between the Cox's and Thomas's, residing in the vicinity of Looney's creek in the Cumberland mountains. The battle lasted for an hour, in which three men, William Cox, John Boyd and Jack Thomas lost their lives, and Samuel Cox was mortally wounded, being shot twice through the body. John Boyd runs an illicit still, and the Cox's and Thomas's met there by chance, members of both factions being drunk, so it is said. One of the Cox boys fired the first shot, which struck Jack Thomas, inflicting a slight wound in his arm. Then the battle began in earnest. Besides John Boyd there were two Cox boys and three of the Thomas boys. They were armed with pistols, and shot from behind trees and stumps with fatal effect. John Boyd tried to act as peacemaker but was killed for his trouble by a bullet from one of the warring factions. Jack Thomas and William Cox were killed instantly.

BOMB FOR A ROTHSCHILD.

Internal Machine Opened by a Clerk Who Is Terribly Injured.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A serious attempt has been made upon the life of Baron Alphonse de Rothschild. A large and heavy envelope was received at the bank Saturday, addressed to the baron, and was opened by M. Zadkowitz, the confidential clerk of the banker. Just as the clerk opened the envelope it exploded with great force. It tore out his right eye and blew off some of his fingers. The police were summoned hastily and an investigation was commenced. The remains of the strange envelope were picked up and examined. The police expressed the opinion that the envelope was an infernal machine. It consisted of pieces of cardboard, tightly bound together, and was quite bulky. But there was nothing strange in its looks, as peculiarly constructed packages of similar appearance are frequently received at banks, and are found to contain money or securities, or valuable papers of various descriptions. The cardboard envelope of this package, it is presumed, contained fulminate of mercury so arranged that when the outer covering was torn open an explosion occurred.

Upon one point the police seem to be unanimous, and that is that the outrage was the work of anarchists. The bank itself was not damaged and very little damage was done to the private office in which the explosion occurred. The police are of the opinion that the construction of the infernal machine and the material employed resemble in many respects those sent to the French deputies in 1891, in boxes made to appear like packages of books. The police are using every effort to discover where the letter received at the bank was posted, if it was posted at all.

HARDIN IS FIRM.

Kentucky Democrats Hold an Important Conference.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 26.—The conference between the democratic state central committee and Gen. Hardin and the other democratic nominees Saturday resulted in the last named deciding to go ahead under the policy of the head of the ticket.

Gen. Hardin and all of the other candidates on the democratic ticket were present at the conference. Gen. Hardin made a speech full of vigor. He did not recede one iota from the position he has taken on the financial question. He contended that he was standing on the platform and was not in conflict with the party. He said he would submit to a caucus of the party, but he would not yield to dictation. He asserted his ability to construe the platform and said he stood by his utterances which have been published.

All of the candidates with the exception of Mr. Tyler, candidate for lieutenant governor, agree to stand by Mr. Hardin in his construction of the platform. Mr. Tyler announces his purpose of continuing to speak for sound money, no matter what the utterances of the head of the ticket might be on the currency question.

A committee of five, consisting of three silver men and two gold men, was appointed to draft an address to the democratic voters of the state. The voters will be called upon to support Gen. Hardin as well as the remainder of the ticket. The address will also urge democrats to drop the currency issue.

NEGROES TO BLAME.

Report to Gov. Altgeld on the Riots at Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 26.—George Schilling, secretary of the state bureau of labor statistics, who was sent to Springfield by order of Gov. Altgeld to investigate the trouble between the Italian and negro miners there, will state in his report to the governor that the imported colored miners were the cause of the trouble entirely. The town had been peaceful until negroes were brought from the southern fields by the company. Colored women were allowed to carry on orgies and dance indecently in saloons, houses, and people were robbed and frequent assaults were committed after the negroes came to town. All citizens sided with the Italians. The report concludes with the recommendation that the disturbing negroes be removed from the valley or more trouble will break out.

WAR UPON SALOONS.

Methodists of Ohio to Take an Active Part in Politics.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—An important circular signed by every presiding elder of the Methodist church in Ohio has been sent to the members of the denomination throughout the state. It calls for united political action on the part of all Methodists in an effort to elect to the next legislature as many members as possible who will fight the saloons. The circular states that "special services will be called for by the elders in this connection in every Methodist church in Ohio."

Cincinnati Policeman Killed.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—Henry Ziemer, one of the best-known policemen in the city, was killed Sunday evening. He was standing on the outer guard of an open car, expecting to step off and arrest parties who were fighting. He was struck by a car running in the opposite direction and killed in a horrible manner.

BUTCHERED.

Atrocious Deed of a Spanish Guerrilla and His Men.

KEY WEST, Fla., Aug. 24.—Reliable advices from Cuba via steamer Mascotte indicate that the Spaniards, in their efforts to suppress the rebellion, are perpetrating atrocities as horrible as those attributed to the Kurds in Armenia. A few days ago Capt. Garrido, a Spanish guerrilla operating with a company of 200 men in the Santiago de Cuba district, discovered a hospital where nearly 100 wounded insurgents had taken refuge. Garrido ordered the helpless men put to death in the most cruel manner. He refused to allow them to be shot, but made his soldiers chop up the victims with swords. The wounded insurgents were literally dismembered by the Spanish butchers.

When Gen. Jose Maceo was apprised of this atrocity he immediately dispatched several detachments of insurgents to seek Garrido out and capture him alive or dead. Capt. Rafael Gonzales came across him on the outskirts of Santiago, but as the guerrilla's force was overwhelmingly superior to his own, he kept watch on the enemy's movements and sent to Maceo for reinforcements. Maceo himself came to his support with a strong force. Garrido's troop was surrounded, and after a short encounter, during which thirty-four Spaniards were killed, he surrendered. Garrido was seized and sentenced to death by Maceo and shot without more ado.

HIS OWN MEDICINE.

A Socialistic Journalist Is Treated to a Dose of It.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Aug. 25.—Julius A. Wayland, editor of the Coming Nation, a socialist paper, is $20,000 wiser now than he was a year ago. About fourteen months ago he moved the plant from this city to what he termed his grand model colony at Ruskin, Tenn. The circulation then amounted to 75,000 and was rapidly increasing. Wayland sought to impress on the colony that all property would be held in common, but had no intention of surrendering the Coming Nation plant. The papers were carefully drawn up and signed by every member of the colony, including Wayland. When too late he discovered his mistake. The board of commissioners demanded an equal sharing of the profits. Wayland refused, and the courts have compelled him to turn the plant, valued at $20,000, over to the colony.

WILL LOWER THE LAKE LEVEL.

No Fear, However, That Government Will Stop Drainage Canal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The reports of the board of army engineers appointed by the secretary of war to examine and report upon the effect the Chicago drainage canal would have upon the waters of Lake Michigan has been received at the war department.

Very little can be learned as to the contents of the report, although it is understood that the board finds that the canal probably would reduce the average level of Lake Michigan about 6 inches and possibly Lake Huron the same. This lower level no doubt would be objectionable to the shipping interests, but from the fact that the lake has varied from one cause or another, such as a lack of rainfall or unusual evaporation, more than one foot in different years, ships have been built with a view to accommodating themselves to this reduced level.

SLAIN BY CHINESE.

Converts Butchered by a Mob at Foo Chow.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A special dispatch received here from Shanghai says that many Chinese converts were butchered when the American mission outside Foo Chow was attacked and the chapel and school wrecked by an infuriated mob.

The dispatch adds that the Chinese officials are jubilant over the defeat of the efforts of the American and British consuls to obtain an open inquiry into the massacres. It is also said that the delay is giving the Chinese time to prepare a defense for the prisoners.

All Free But Debs.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—According to the testimony of the American Railway union officials, who were on Thursday liberated from the Woodstock jail, their imprisonment not only furnished them with a much needed rest, but has been the means of inspiring the union with new life. The six directors who were imprisoned with President Debs at Woodstock were liberated Thursday morning, having served their three months sentences. George W. Howard, who, at his own request, was sent to Will County jail at Joliet, was liberated Friday morning. Debs has yet three months to serve.

Two Great Men Pass Away.

LAKE MINNEWASKA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Ex-Associate Justice Strong, of the United States supreme court, died here at 2:10 o'clock Monday afternoon.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—News reached here Monday of the death at Osceola, Wis., of Leonard W. Volk, the sculptor. Mr. Volk was born in Wellsburg, N. Y., in 1828, and came to Chicago in 1857. He was one of the best known of American sculptors, his bust of Lincoln being conceded to be the best in existence.

THE DENVER DISASTER.

Fourteen Victims Taken from the Ruins—Ten More Missing.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 22.—The awful horror of Monday's terrible catastrophe increases as the time goes on. At 7 o'clock Tuesday morning the body of Myron E. Hawley was taken from the still burning debris. It was a sickening sight, burned, disfigured and doubled by the weight of tons of ruins. Four hours earlier the body of James Murphy was recovered. But a short distance from the spot where Hawley met his awful end the corpse of Gen. Charles Adams is known to lie and to its rescue the workers are now directing their energies. About 20 feet from Gen. Adams there are known to be four bodies. They are those of Lizzie Lager, Louise Reinhardt, Emma Millethaler and A. S. Blake.

The bodies recovered are: Fred Houboldt, E. F. McCloskey, Robert G. Greiner, Mrs. Robert G. Greiner, Will Richards, George Burt, Mrs. G. R. Wolfe and child, Bela L. Morah, F. French, James Murphy, Peter Gurney, Myron E. Hawley, E. W. Edwards.

The missing at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning number twelve additional to the above.

The latest obtainable information regarding the most terrible catastrophe that is recorded in Denver's history, clearly shows that a 17-year-old boy, Elmer Pierce, who was temporarily placed in charge of the boiler, was directly responsible for the accident. With the boiler almost at a red heat he injected cold water into the tubular affair, causing an immediate explosion.

LOST IN A GALE.

Crew of Eighteen Men Goes Down with Ill-Fated Vessel.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 23.—Capt. Higgins, of the steamer Excelsior, which arrived Wednesday direct from St. Michaels and Unalaska, brings news of the wreck of the sealing schooner Walter Earle, of Victoria.

The Earle was capsized on or about April 14 during a terrific gale off Kodiak island and though a number of craft and steamers were reported to have gone in search of her, none of them found her until the Cutting ran across her drifting with the swells and tides.

Not until the wreck was towed into Kodiak and she was righted did the full story of the catastrophe break on the finders. In the fore-castle were found the corpses of eleven Indian sailors, unrecognizable. They were removed ashore and interred on the island. No white man's remains were found in the vessel, and the story of the struggle and drowning of Capt. Louis Magnuson, her skipper and seven or eight other white men, will never be told. They occupied the cabin and are believed to have been swept from the deck of the schooner and drowned in the gale while the Indian sailors were huddled helplessly in the fore-castle until she went over.

EIGHT ARE SLAIN.

Awful Fate of Workmen in Steel Works at Braddock, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 22.—An explosion at furnace H of the Carnegie Steel company at Braddock, at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, killed six men, fatally injured five more, seriously burned fifteen others and destroyed $30,000 worth of property.

The names of the killed are: Steve Havrela, cut in twain, 32 years old, leaves wife and two children; Joseph Tuckay, 38 years old, burned, leaves wife and four children; Joseph Copp, burned, 32 years old, single; John Meka, burned, 25 years old, single; John Pookopovec, burned, 25 years old, single; John Grucha, burned, 31 years old, single; Michael Koperos, aged 26, and Andrew Drobne, aged 36 years, among the injured at the explosion at the Carnegie steel works at Braddock, died while being brought to the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh. Nearly all of the victims were Slavs.

July Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The returns of internal revenue receipts for July, the first month of the current fiscal year, have been compiled. Total receipts were $13,579,066, a decrease as compared with July, 1894, of $11,979,231. This large difference is accounted for by the fact that in July, 1894, great quantities of whisky were taken out of bond to escape payment of the increased tax on whisky imposed by the new tariff bill.

For Free Silver.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 23.—The democratic state convention here Thursday nominated for associate justice of the supreme court Charles J. Phelps, of Colfax county, and for regents of the state university A. T. Blackburn, of Holt county, and Robert Kettle, of Dodge county. A free coinage resolution offered by ex-Congressman W. J. Bryan, chairman of the committee on resolutions, was adopted by an overwhelming majority, but six votes being cast against it.

Another Mission Sacked.

HONG KONG, Aug. 23.—Another outrage has been committed near Foo Chow. The American mission has been attacked by a large and infuriated mob armed with various weapons. The chapel and school were wrecked and four native scholars were fatally wounded, while the foreign teacher escaped. There is a strong anti-foreign feeling in Foo Chow, which is spreading among the populace who are parading with cries of "Drive out the foreign devils."

EXTREMES IN PIGEONS.

Pouters and Fantails Are Two Hobbies of Scotch Fanciers.

It would require a large volume to enumerate all the varieties of pigeons, and a wonderfully interesting work it would be if it could carry us through all the experiments and changes that have been used in producing the variations from the original Blue Rock pigeon. It is difficult to understand how all these changes have been brought about, how even the most thoughtful breeding and selection could produce so many wide differences. We have over one hundred varieties, as different in outward appearance as so many kinds of wild birds, yet all so quick to revert to the original stock if allowed to breed indiscriminately. In the illustration are seen two favorite hobbies of the Scotch pigeon fanciers, each brought to its highest state of perfection in Scotland. Long before the days of poultry and pigeon shows these two extremes were bred to these astonishing forms, and now that the fanciers of Great Britain have the stimulus of keen competition and liberal cash premiums at the exhibitions of their country, still further development may be looked for. The stately pouter cock in the engraving was sketched from a winning bird shown in England by the well-known Scotchman and writer on pigeons, Robert Fulton. These birds have in their show cages a pedestal on which to stand that they may pose erect, this being the ideal carriage for pouters, as the length of their tails prevents the bird from standing straight when shown on the floor of the show cage. Length and slenderness of girth are properties quite as much looked for in these birds as is the large, roundly-inflated crop. The fullness in the back of the crop in this pouter was a point to which Mr. Fulton especially called my attention as being much coveted and prized by fanciers. These birds measure from 18 to 20 inches from top of beak to tip of tail. The legs, also, should be long—6 to 7 inches being expected on a good bird—and to stand well up a bird requires good length of limb. It was my good fortune to see the model of the portrait of the fantail, in the lofts of his breeder, not long before the exportation to this country. The precaution which the owner took in handling this specimen while showing it to me was only a sample of the great care taken by British fanciers in rearing the birds and training them for show purposes. The way in which the show fantail is picked up means almost as much for the development of a well-formed and well-carried tail as does the bird's very breeding. Not a feather must be twisted or displaced, not a movement of the head restrained—for the carriage of these birds' heads is a valued point if correct, and very offensive to a judge of them if the bird is deficient in this respect. I have seen these birds so proud and strutting; so high on tiptoe, that their gait, if so it might be called, was but dancing, and apparently as many steps were taken backward as forward, while scarcely a half-dozen in succession were performed either way. Their motion was whirling and turning, backward and forward, all the while sticking the head and neck forward and backward in a nervous, strutting fashion, the very picture of self-consciousness and pride. Such is the fantail as seen at our best exhibitions of pigeons and poultry. The sight of a group is not unlike that of a bed of large white lilies or tulips shaken by the wind.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Hints About Marketing Honey.

There are a few things to learn about marketing honey. The first thing necessary is to see that the honey is carefully sorted. Then it should be thoroughly cleaned and put into neat, white crates. Another very important thing is, the crates should be the same all through; that is, the honey should all be just what it appears to be on the face of it. There is a great deal of talk nowadays about low prices and slow sales, but the man who has an honest, clean, first-class article of any kind need not go begging for customers, even in these times.

It is not a good plan to kill or sell the largest, handsomest or best of the fowls, either of ducks, geese, chickens or turkeys. Select them out and keep them for breeders next winter. This is the most economical plan of improving.

MANAGEMENT OF PIGS.

It Is a Serious Mistake to Use Only One Kind of Feed.

A pig is not a gentlemanly animal, says Farming World. The term pig-headed has come to be looked upon as expressing the very lowest form of stupidity and selfishness. Much as we might wish to defend him, we have to admit that there appears to be rolled into one carcass a greater amount of "pure cussedness" than is found in any other domestic animal, the mule excepted. The pig is a cannibal of the most revolting order, often devouring its own young. It is a gormandizer of the first water, scarcely anything coming amiss from a luscious grape to an old boot. As for generously yielding anything for the good of others—pooh, not to be thought of, if he can hold it. There is just one trait in his character that makes us almost ashamed of having said that he never considers another's comfort—he will never eat raw onions; they would make his breath offensive. "But with all his faults, we love (part of him) still!" If you banish him from the farming world you will create a blank that nothing else can fill. If we thus vilify the hog, he may, with perfect fairness, turn upon us and say: "You lords of creation expect me to perform impossibilities. For ages you have made me the scavenger of your farms and your homes. You feed me often with food that all other animals refuse; my home is anywhere and anyhow. No care is taken as to the laws of sanitation. I am lodged in the vilest hovels, often only partially covered me; unable to get away from filthy surroundings, I unavoidably become defiled, and then you call me a dirty pig. You fancy, because I happen to choose to wallow in the mud during a hot day, that my tastes are low. Well, it is often the only bath you allow me, and since you have robbed me of most of my natural protection against the stinging, tickling flies, I do this in self-defense. Give me a chance of being clean, feed me with wholesome food, give me good shelter and a dry bed and I will repay you a hundred fold for your care."

Piggy has good ground for his complaint. It has been too long the notion that anything was good enough for a hog. This has been the cause of untold loss. Many a poor cottager might save one-fourth to one-third of his outlay in producing his annual supply of bacon if only his pig was kept warm and clean, and had his food been given in a more wholesome form and with greater regularity. If growing is the object, give as much exercise as is convenient to obtain, with an occasional, if not a regular, bite of grass, a little salt and wood ashes within reach, failing wood ashes, ordinary cinders and ashes. If rapid fattening is the object, a mixture of meats with boiled potatoes and house scraps, together with perfect quiet. It is a serious mistake to use only one meal, no matter what kind. A mixture is infinitely better.

This treatment applies with equal force to one or five hundred.

A GREAT CONVENIENCE.

Handy Arrangement for Hanging Wagon-Beds and Hay-Riggings.

After a lengthy experience, no system of ropes and pulleys to directly raise a wagon-box or rigging is satisfactory unless the coil is sufficiently high to permit the suspension out of reach of the heads of men and horses, and usually of top carriages. A better plan, requiring less tackling, is a pair of heavy brackets on the side of the shed or haymow, with a rope and single pulley in the side wall of barn frame above where the box or rigging will reach when turned on edge upon the bracket. On removing the rigging, etc., drive close beside the brackets and attach the rope to its opposite side. Having caught one edge on the brackets, draw up on the pulley and turn the awkward thing up out of the way. A short rope or chain will hold it where it is put. The brackets can be made of two-inch plank, as shown, or natural knees may be cut in the woods and hewed into shape.—Farm Journal.

Carrots as Feed for Horses.

Carrots are highly relished by horses. A few carrots, fed raw, after being sliced, will prove a delicacy to cows, and fed once a day they will promote the appetite and keep the animals in good condition when other foods may not be acceptable. Carrots are used by some dairymen as regular food for cows, in order to give a deeper color to the butter, and are highly esteemed by them for that purpose. Cooked and thickened with bran they make an excellent mess when fed warm on a cold day.

A Vesper Prayer.

From all its little bells the brook
Shakes out a silver peal,
And faintly from the forest nook
Their elfin echoes steal.
The shadows lengthen on the sward:
The light dies in the west:
Now through the dewy twilight, Lord,
Send down the balm of rest.

The glimmering kine upon the grass
Lie crouched in dumb content,
And wandering breaths of blossoms pass,
In one rich perfume blent;
The braided gnats in sweet accord
Wall where the willows weep;
Now through the solemn night, dear Lord,
Send down the gift of sleep.

RENEWING THEIR YOUTH

A Strange Story from a Nebraska Village.

The Villagers Excited Over the Increased Health and Vigor of the Older Inhabitants—The Experience of Two "Vets."

From the World-Herald, Omaha, Neb.

A World-Herald reporter was attracted by the evidence of renewed activity of some of the older inhabitants of the village of Bruce, a suburb of Omaha, Neb., and enquired the cause. Mr. Andrew Finkenkel, who was a member of Company B of the First Iowa Volunteers during the war, made the following explanation so far as he himself is concerned:

"In July, 1866, while my company was on the march through to Austin, Texas, I was attacked with rheumatism of the worst kind in one leg at Alexander, La. Being weak I was sunstruck and remained unconscious for several hours. Every summer since I have been unable to stand the heat of the sun, and have been compelled to give up my work. There was in my head a bearing-down feeling which increased until it seemed my head would burst, and it caused a ringing in my ears, and palpitation of the heart set in, so that the slightest noise would set my heart thumping. Several times it has rendered me unconscious for from seven to ten hours at a time. In addition to this the rheumatism extended up my entire side until it drew my head down on my shoulder. I lost my strength and flesh and was totally unfit for work."

"For twenty-eight years I have consulted physicians and taken their prescriptions without deriving any material benefit. My ailments increased in intensity until I was assured that there was no hope for me. During last year I went into the butcher business, but the dampness from the ice used increased my rheumatic pains to such an extent that I was not only compelled to quit the business, but was confined to my house and bed for nearly six months."

"In November last I read in the World-Herald a case of a man who had been entirely cured from the ailments from which I was suffering, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. On November 26, I purchased a box. In a week I was astonished to know that I felt better than I had for six months past, and before I had used half a box. The ringing in my ears began to lessen in volume and finally left me. The pain from the rheumatism gradually left me, so that within one week from the time I took my first pill I was able to sit up in bed. On January 1st, I was able to go out and walk around a little. The palpitations of my heart entirely ceased. On February 9, I was so thoroughly cured that I accepted a position as night watchman in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, remaining out of doors from 6 P. M. until 6 A. M. I have gained in weight from 144 pounds which I weighed in November last, to 173 pounds which I weigh now."

For nerve building and for enriching the blood Pink Pills are unexcelled. They may be had of druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Dorset Sheep.

From that excellent Toronto paper, the Canadian Live Stock Journal, we glean some important facts concerning the Dorset sheep, which are recommended as superior to any other breed for raising winter lambs. It is said to be the only pure bred in this country that drops lambs in the autumn. This enables the farmer to have them ready for market when they bring the highest price. An experiment with Shropshires and Dorsets proved that lambs of the latter not only grew the fastest, but the Dorset ewes were the most successful in rearing lambs; and the general statement is also made that they bred earlier and fattened the lambs better than the Shropshires. The Journal refers to the fact that in the United States the practice is common to use Merino grades on the side of the dam, crossing them with Dorset or other mutton breeds. In Canada they have no Merino stock, and this is an advantage, as they are not first-class breeders and are generally indifferent nurses, and so Canadian farmers get a better quality of winter lambs by crossing the Dorsets with their long-wool breeds of mutton sheep. A decided advantage of the Dorsets is said to be that their lambs are ready for market as soon as holiday poultry is out of the way in January.

Character in Faces.

A prominent nose and bold chin are the most favorable combination known to the physiognomist.

A well-arched forehead, with one slight perpendicular wrinkle, belongs to a wise and discreet character.

Indulgence in bad tempers may stamp them on the face so indelibly that they appear natural characteristics.

Noses that wrinkle on the sides, which never entirely disappear, generally appear to money-getting natures.

A forehead which in the upper part projects and in the lower sinks in toward the eyes shows mental weakness.

The upper part of the countenance is the seat of thought, labor and resolution; the lower half indicates action.

Long foreheads, with close drawn skin which shows no wrinkles, are the characteristics of cold, selfish natures.

Turned up noses under high, arched foreheads are found only in men of despotic temperament and bad disposition.

Horizontal eyebrows, full and regular, show great understanding, deliberation, and capacity for planning and execution.

When the corners of the mouth turn downward the indication is of a scornful, contemptuous, opinionative man or woman.

Regular wrinkles of the forehead parallel with the eyebrows are generally found in very intelligent and deliberate persons.

Spend your Outing on the Great Lakes

Visit picturesque Mackinac Island. It will only cost you about $12.50 from Detroit; $15 from Toledo; $18 from Cleveland, for the round trip, including meals and berths. Avoid the heat and dust by traveling on the D. & C. floating palaces. The attractions of a trip to the Mackinac region are unsurpassed. The island itself is a grand romantic spot, its climate most invigorating. Two new steel passenger steamers have just been built for the upper lake route, costing $300,000 each. They are equipped with every modern convenience, annunciators, bath-rooms, etc., illuminated throughout by electricity, and are guaranteed to be the grandest, largest and safest steamers on fresh water. These steamers favorably compare with the great ocean liners in construction and speed. Four trips per week between Toledo, Detroit, Alpena, Mackinac, St. Ignace, Petoskey, Chicago, "Soo" Marquette and Duluth. Daily between Cleveland and Detroit. Daily between Cleveland and Put in Bay. The cabins, parlors and staterooms of these steamers are designed for the complete entertainment of humanity under home conditions; the palatial equipment, the luxury of the appointment makes traveling on these steamers thoroughly enjoyable. Send for illustrated descriptive pamphlet. Address A. A. SCHANTZ, G. P. & T. A. D. & C. Detroit, Mich.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for nines about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it. Get a free trial at F. P. Glazier & Co's Drug Store."

Odds and Ends.

An exchange says: It may not be generally known that the safest course to pursue if caught in a thunder storm is to allow oneself to become thoroughly soaked. The chances of safety from lightning are ten to one in favor of the wet person.

No appetite? Then do not try to force food down, but use the most scientific means for restoring tone to the stomach. How? Why, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla; and in a surprisingly short time your appetite will come again, and come to stay.

An exchange says: "If a doctor makes a mistake he buries it; if a merchant makes a mistake he never tells it; if a lawyer makes a mistake he crawls out of it; but if an editor makes a mistake he puts it down on a sheet of paper for the world to look at, and in every community there are cranks who think they are models of wisdom because they occasionally discover one."

A correspondent of Practical Farmer gives the following method of relieving choked cattle. Take of fine cut chewing tobacco enough to make a ball the size of a hen's egg. Dampen with molasses so it adheres closely. Elevate the animal's head, pull out the tongue, and crowd the ball as far down the throat as possible. In 15 minutes it will cause sickness and vomiting, relaxing the muscles, so that whatever object may be in the throat will be thrown up.

The following is an extract from a small boy's essay on "Heds": "There is a lot of kinds of heds, red heds, wooden heds, soft heds, big heds, cabbage heds, levil heds, lite heds, bull heds, bawled heds and so 4th. Pa he's got one. Its bawled. Ma she's long-heded and Pa he's bull-heded, but I'm red-heded and levil too. The smart end of a boy is his hed except when he gets spanked, but the smart end of a bee is not there. O, no. Pa says if a feller has a hed, he will get ahead in this world, but I don't want no hed like he gets on when he goes out with the boys."

An exchange tells that a good story was heard the other day of a father and mother who were trying to find names for their twin babies, who, by the way, were girls. It was decided that the father must name them. After casting about and finding no names that exactly suited him, he determined to end the strain on his mind and named them Kate and Duplicate. In the course of time another pair of twins came and they were boys. This was the husband's opportunity to get even, and he wanted his wife to christen the boys. Imagine his feelings when the mother one day told him she had named them Pete and Repeat. But when the third pair came the father grew frightened and named them Max and Climax.

Edward Eggleston originated the Christian Endeavor Society in his popular story, "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," which he wrote in 1872 in a small house in Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn. It is in this fiction also that may be found "The Church of the Good Licks." In 1877, when Mr. Eggleston became the pastor of the Lee Avenue Congregational Church (now the Lee Avenue Theater), he organized for the young people a Society of Christian Endeavor, in imitation of the one in his book. The weekly meetings in the church drew together such a company of bright young men and women as that town never witnessed in similar gatherings before or since. All the professions were represented, and the object was chiefly social culture. It was from the success of this small company in making one evening in the week agreeable and profitable that the great gathering in Boston has come to pass.

New York Recorder: There is an art in getting one's self snugly into a hammock, and that must be learned. You swing yourself between the sheets, the canvas promptly caves down delightfully, putting you into a cozy pocket. Now you must roll to one side and tuck the overhanging clothes under, then roll the other way and tuck the other side under you. Now, up with your feet, and down with them again, with the clothes well under them, and there you are as snug as a pair of bugs under a rug. The extra comforter pulls up in the night if needed and may hang loose. After you have learned these hammock tricks you will never be willing to sleep in a big, uncomfortable bed again, and nothing will seem more delicious than the sway that comes in the night time when you turn over. By day the clothes can be hung on a nail behind the door, and the hammock may swing with both ends from one hook. Try it.

A dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral taken in time has prevented many a fit of sickness and saved numerous lives. This proves the necessity of keeping this incomparable medicine where it can be readily reached at all hours of the day and night.
