The Local Market.

The market on wheat continues to decline. It now brings 563 in this market and looks as if it would be down to 50c very soon. Free receipts and light demand are the cause of the decline. Rye 40c, oats 20c, barley is inclined to move now but the consumers are unusually slow to take hold of it. It will probably run from 75 to 80c per hundred. The low price of malt and all other grain indicates about those figures. New bears will be offered next week, but there is no intimation yet as to the price on the new crop. The crop is reported good in all the bean raising localities and it down some from last year's prices as nearly every thing else has. The first prices are likely to be the best before the holidays. The crop will not move freely at less than one dollar per bushel and yet it is probable that they will ing the delivery of the crop. Potatoes 25c, apples and pears 30c, peaches 40 to 75c, chickens 6c, eggs 10c, butter 14c. Offerings the pastweek have been light in grain but free in fruit vegetables

At the Stove Works.

The Glazier Stove Company is at last doing business in its new home. By Sep-Cleveland foundries. In a few days castings will be supplied at a rate that will afford material for construction in the greatest abundance. One of the noticeand would be pleased able features at the foundry is the mamoth 500 barrel tank situated on the roof. When this is filled, together with the new Worthington fire pump which is to be placed in position within a few days it will afford the best of fire protection. To the uninitiated the position of the tank looks precarious, but competent engineers of the Scientific American assure the company that the stability of the support is ample.

At the factory, proper, work is now also in progress. This building, 60x85, is two stories high. The ground floor is used as tin shop and mounting room. Partitioned from this is the japaning room, the polishing room, the plating room and buffing room. All these apartments are well lighted and airy.

At the power house are situated the the great presses that form the brass tanks for the stoves. These presses draw the sheet metal and shape it to appropriate dies. By this process the tanks are formed with the greatest neatness and avoiding the use of so many soldered seams that are apt to leak.

Besides these buildings there is the new storehouse. This is fire proof and will afford storage and protection to an enormous stock.

When I told my people that I was to pass my vacation at Onekama, they said they were none the wiser for that inwill be surprising if they do not go formation, for they could neither spell the name nor tell where the place was. I do not blame them for Onekama has been rendered famous neither by wealth, population, crimes, nor casualties. In spite of its obscurity however, I have wondered whether your readers would care to know something about it. There is many a be below that, more than above it dur- place famous in song and story that isn't half so pretty, nor dubbed with such a a musical name.

Take your map of Michigan and find Manistee on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, said to be the greatest lumber market in the world. About ten miles north of it, if the map is a good one, you will find a little lake, separated from Lake Michigan only by a very narrow band. It tember 1st everything will be running is one of a series of little lakes along the full blast. At present the finishing eastern shore of Lake Michigan, all septouches are being applied. The foundry arated from it in the same way. Once is turning out castings equal to any that they were only bays of the larger lake ithave heretofore been brought from the self. But the sands piled themselves up across the entrances till the bays were quite separated from the lake. If large rivers emptied into them the outflow was sufficient to keep a considerable channel open, as at Manistee and Ludington. When cities grew up there, and harbors were needed, a little dredging and some big piers to protect the channel were all that was necessary to form them. But Portage Lake on which I look out as I write, had no river empting into it, only clear cold brooks, and ere long its outlet was only a tortuous creek, and its surface was nine feet higher than that of Lake Michigan.

The lumberman came, and looked on the forests of pine that covered the shores of Portage Lake and stretched away in land, and said to himself "Go to now, let us build a mill and start a town." And it was done, down on the sandy neck beside the outlet of the lake. That was on the village of Portage. There the hum of the saw might be heard, and the logs that were cut from the shores of Portage Lake or hauled down to its shores and dumped in, were soon lying in piles of sweet scented lumber on the pier that stretched out into Lake Michigrn. Vessels were loaded with them, and spread their wings and sailed away with their burdens to Milwaukee and Chicago.

But in building the mill, a dam had been put across the outlet, whereby the water in Portage Lake had been some what raised. The few homesteaders All these buildings are now connected around its shores felt themselves with a narrow guage track which greatly aggrieved by this action, and failing to get the dam removed, commenced cutting a ditch across the belt of sand that separated Portage Lake from Lake Michigan It was only intended to open a small out let that should reduce the level of the little lake to what it was bofore the dan was built. The manager of the mill had them arrested for conspiracy. In some places the track has been laid over on the bank while the old road bed is being ballasted. North of Alma country is dreary. We are in the track of the all destroying lumberman and the forest fires. Where once were noble forests there are now only charred stumps and lonely bleached trunks, standing ainid masses of ferns, mullen, and golden rod. The wealth of the land has been remorselessly stripped off, and the sandy soil seems useless. The towns that flourished around lumber mills are dead-Boyond Cadillac,-a busy place of mills, its inverted funnel shaped slab winers constant pouring out smoke—the scenery grows in beauty, as the road follows the windlings of Manistee River, around the hills and over some deep ravines.

> The sun was going down in Lake Mich lgan at I caught my first glim pae of it Above the sun was a bank of clouds, their lower surfaces a cicle crimson. Portage Lake was laid off in bands of varying color, from gray to crimson. Beyond it was the bold sweep of the sand hills, with their lonely pines and leafless trunks etched against the glowing sky. All the hills that sweep around Portage Lake were dark with forest, or wild with the broken timber of the slashings, while banks of purple smoke rose here and there were the white tumbling waters of Lake Michigan, breaking in a line of foam against the piers that guard the entrance to the channel. A scene more gorgeous in color, more wildly beautiful. I have seld:

> om beheld. The lake wears well. Its beauty grows upon me. Its moods are so variable, now placid as a mirror, now rippling with a light breeze, now foaming with white caps. Its lines vary with every passing hour and shadowing cloud. The woodland is so wild and picturesque. And as I look off toward the west from my perch on the hillside, there is the little band of Lake Michigan, mysterious, inviting, boundless in its suggestion. There is generally schooner out there, just inside the harbor, the crew apparently resting up, or taring the ropes and pitching the decks.

There are dozens of brooks flowing into the lake, whose shady depths sugges trout even to my unsportsmanlike im agination. One of them comes down a glen. green and shadowy and mossy. Within it are some mineral springs, one in particular warranted to care all the ills that flesh is heir to. The memory of its refreshing waters has lingered over the four years since I was here before.

Lumbering in the immediate vicinity is playing out. Logs must be brought in on the railroad, and it costs more to saw the lumber than it will bring when sawed. The mill that has been the life of the place has long been shut down, though not permanently as yet, But the country is filling up. Washtenaw county farmers would see little promise in this sandy soil, but it raises fine fruit and potatoes. Corn looks very stumpy, but though the stalks are short, the ears are good. Rumor hath it that by means of a little irrigation $3000 worth of strawberries were shipped from one farm this summer. That is probably putting it too high, but it suggests the truth. But before the country is filled up. and fruit-raising in full swing, the village must pass through a critical period of transition. There are 800 people here, a Catholic, a Lutheran, and a Congregation church. In the last named had been no preaching service on Sunday in nearly a year. The problem is what to do with these people. I wish that some of the money spent in keeping up useless services in over-churched communities might be put into sadly-needed services in such towns as this. The laid out at the head of Portage Lake, Olney presidential boom has just been ublican as he is, has found many good traits in the Secretary of State. An array of reasons why Olney should be nominated are presented by his friends. It is asserted that he is not a partisan—is a strong man, is available from every point of view, is a friend of labor, is a student and a scholar, a genial and companionable host, always honest and courageous, an the "right arm of President Cleveland reliance." All this is very interesting and delightful. Now if Mr. Olney can only get under the shadow of the Cleveland mantle-but that is another thing. For, inless all the well-laid plans of the administration gang very much agley, the friends of the President will control the next Democratic national convention That is their object, and they are pursuin it with relentless vigor. Well, stranger things have happened.

men do not control the convention-That as Kipling would say, will be another story. The administration people are rather afraid of Gorman as a Presidential possibility. This fact makes another interesting chapter. Everybody remembers how, at the last Democratic national convention, the name of Senator Gorman was dragged into the fight. The anti-Cleveland men, looking around for some one upon whom they could unite, held out the tempting bait to Gorman. They disguised the hook with all sorts of nice things, but they could not get the shrewd Maryland Senator to bite. "This is not my time," said your uncle Arthur, and he went off to deeper waters without the hook in his mouth. The administration men who were at Chicago do not tell the story that way. They say that Gorman did all in his power to defeat Cleveland's nomination, and they will hold it against him to their dying days. Ex-Senator Matt Ransom has a real grievance. In response to a request made by this administration he accepted appointment as minister to Mexico, and now the administration refuses to pay him either salary or such expenses as he has officially incurred. It all arises out of a complication, under the law, resulting from his appointment to the Mexican mission before the expiration of his term as Senator. Senator Ransom's term did not expire until March 4 last, but he was nominated and confirmed minister to Mexico February 28. And now come the auditor of the Treasury for the State Department and the solicitor-general and acting attorney-general, who insist that Mr. Ransom is not and has not been minister to Mexico and cannot, therefore, be paid one cent for the services which he has rendered the United States since the day when he supposed he was taking the ministerial oath of office. Maybe it will take an act of Congress to pay the suspended salary and expenses up to date-appointment at this time would be unquestionably legal-but the chances are that the Secretary of State will find a compensated and reimbursed. At different times in the immediate past many statements have been current to the effect that friction has taken place between the United States and Japan owing to the latter's assertion of the right of search on the high seas during war. It is said that China succumbed just in time, for had the Japanese meddled with or searched for contraband of war any more vessels flying our flag we should have taken the Mikado by the throat at once. All this is very interesting and serves to enliven the summer mouths, but it is rubbish and nonsense, nevertheless, and it is harmful rubbish in that it gives the country a false idea of the facts. Japan, as a belligerent, has the right to search neutral vessels for contraband of war. Every other nation has the same right. The truth is that, so far from misunderstanding each other and verging upon hostile controversy, the United States and Japan have been upon the very friendlest and most cordial relations at all times. It is to be deplored that sensational canards in this matter should find currency among the people. They have no foundation in fact, and they serve an evil purpose in mistifying and misleading the

An appropriation of $2,500 was made by the last Congress of $2,500 was made by the last Congress for the purchase of the portrait and it will probably be hung on the walls of the Red Parlor near the portrait of President Cleveland, which was painted during his first term. Ex-President Harrison's portrait in the White House does very well for the present. But he has numerous admirers who are looking for something a good deal more tangible.

Bloody Feud in Arkansas-Flames Do Tremendous Damage in Milwaukee-Treasury Matters-Mr. Wickersham Feels Deeply Grieved Over His Suit.

To Beston and Buck for $10. Knights Templar rates to Boston from Chicago went to smash. Tickets were offered on the street Thursday as low as $10 for the round trip. All the Eastern roads throw restrictions of every kind to the wind and practically did all the sea-board business on the basis of one fare for the round trip over their own counters; but the brokers did much better for purchasers and sold tickets at whatever they could get for them. There could be no doubt about the acceptance of the tickets, because the roads did away with even the signature requirement and all tickets were good for bearer. It is hard to imagine how any traffic could be more demoralized. It was many times worse than it was dur-ing the Young People's Society of Chris-tian Endeavor gathering.

Big Fire in Milwaukee. Fire burned over a dozen blocks in Milwaukee Thursday and destroyed property worth $382,000. It started on the river front at the Water street bridge and before it was stopped it had burned a swath from one to three blocks wide to Sixth street. A stiff breeze served to fan the flames and sent them traveling west over the yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company with startling rapidity, destroying in their path the freight warehouses of railroad and steamship companies, valuable freight in storage and railway cars. For four hours all the fire apparatus, firemen and employes of the railroad company in the city fought the progress of the flames before they were under control. When the fighters finished work at night two companies of firemen were left to guard half a square mile of glowing embers. During the exciting scenes incident to fire-fighting a boy was run over by a fire engine and killed.

The Shoally Bend Vendetta. The Shoally Bend vendetta of Mont gomery County, Ark., is charged with having added another murder to its list. The body of a prominent doctor, J. H. Brooks was found partially eaten by hogs and riddled with buckshot. About one month ago a prominent farmer named Redwine was foully assassinated while at work in his field. Dr. Brooks, it is said, denounced the murder as a blot upon the community, and asserted that its perpetrator must be run down. He declared that he would see that the next grand jury thoroughly investigated it. It is supposed that he was assassinated to prevent him doing this.

At Pittsburg three lives were lost by storm Sunday night and a score of persons were injured, while the property loss will foot up $100,000. At least twenty were injured more or less seriously by being hit by flying debris. The storm struck the city about 16 o'clock and was over in about half an hour, but in that brief time death and widespread destruction was left in its track. The rain came down in torrents, and was accompanied by xivid lightning and terrific wind. Houses were unroofed, trees uprooted, and fences and outhouses demolished. So tremendous was the force of the tornado that the steamers Lud Keefer, Little Bill and Arlington were overturned, and many barges, coal boats and small craft torn from their moorings and sent adrift.

Crowding nine persons into a little pleasure craft hardly large enough for five caused the death of nearly all the party Sunday afternoon at Ocean City, Md. The drowned are: Lina Hall, aged 19; Lulu Hall, aged 14, sisters; Myrtle Stevens, aged 6; William Storr, aged 45; Laura Storr, aged 35, his wife; Ida Storr, aged 16, and May Storr, aged 14. Those who succeeded in reaching the shore were 12year-old Annie Hudson and Walter Hudson and William Hall, each about 20 years old. The weather was so threatening that several persons cautioned Hudson, the skipper of the boat, to look out for squalls and stay near the shore. He did not take the advice, but headed his craft for the fishing grounds of Read's Islands. The capsizing occurred within 200 yards of the shore, and in water seven feet deep. Mr. Storr had only one hand and was blind of an eye, but was an expert swimmer. He succeeded in getting his two daughters on the bottom of the boat and was getting his wife out when the girls became scared, slipped off of the boat, grappled, with their parents, and together the four perished.

An explosion at furnace H, of the Carnegie Steel Company, at Braddock, Pa., at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning killed six men, injured ten more and destroyed $30,-000 worth of property. Five of the injured will die. All of the killed and injured were Hungarians, except James Harrison, the foreman. The explosion was due to a "hang" in the furnace, which suddenly loosened and dropped into the molten metal below, generating an immense quantity of gas so suddenly that it could not escape by the ordinary means and the explosion followed. The terrible loss of life was due to a peculiar cause. A furnace, which he had forgotten to raise. This clogged the top of the furnace and sixteen men, in charge of James Harrison, was sent at once to the top to remove the obstruction. All were closely crowded around the bell of the furnace removing the material when there was a terrific explosion and men, barrow, tools and material were hurled in all directions. Flames, deadly gases and smoke belched from the furnace-top, and then men fell as if shot. Only one man was killed instantly.

He turned on the gas in his room and died by as-phyxiation. Most novel, indeed, was the prayer of the petitioner, Mrs. Minnie Merrill, an invalid, who asked the court to enjoin Mr. Merrill from making good his threat to marry Mary Beetich, and the gossips of the corridors of the County Building had scarcely ceased discussing the court's temporary restraining order granted on the petition when the news of the defendant's effective plan to escape service was brought to them.

Edward Clegg, Coleman Nockolds and Henry Cartenson, the young Englishmen who were arrested at Chadron, Neb., for fast riding and refused to pay their fines, after a couple of days spent in the county bastile, their spare time being employed by sitting on a rock pile with a ball and chain attachment, finally got tired of the affair and paid their fines. They have, however, had prepared a communication to the British Consul stating their version of the affair and asking for redress from the United States. The protest has not arrived at the State Department, and if it should be received it is probable they would be promptly informed that the department would take no action in a case where a municipality had punished any one for violating a police regulation.

American bicyclists frequently are arrested in England for violation of local police regulations.

Just before daylight Friday morning a double loghouse near Arlington, Tenn., occupied by Mrs. Callie Harrill, her two grown daughters and a son, was burned to the ground, and Mrs. Harrill and the girls perished in the flames. The son, who occupied a room in the rear of the building, barely escaped with his life. It is thought the women were drugged, as loghouses burn very slowly, and they should have awakened in time to escape.

The remains were burned to a crisp. John Wester Hardin, the terror of the Mexican border, was shot and killed in the Acme saloon in El Paso, Texas, by Constable John Sellman. Sellman's son, who is on the police force, arrested a fe-male friend of Hardin a few days ago, and Hardin threatened to run Sellman out of the town. Monday night Sellman walked into the saloon with a friend. Hardin was inside, and when he saw Sellman he threw his hand to his hip pocket. In an instant Sellman's gun was out and a ball went crashing through Hardin's brain. Hardin had in his lifetime killed nine men and served eighteen years in prison for one of his murders. While in prison at Hunterville, Texas, he studied law and was admitted to the bar on his release nearly two years ago. Several months ago he held up a faro game in El Paso. Sellman is the officer who killed the notorious Bass, outlaw, a year ago. While the mail train on the Pensacola and Atlantic Division of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad was bowling along between Bonifay and Carryville, Fla., Friday night, some heavy object struck the headlight, smashing the glass and knocking the banner off the lamp. The oil caught fire and in an instant the front of the engine was in flames. The engineer reversed the lever so suddenly that the cars bumped together with great force, injuring several passengers and derailing the engine. By hard work the flames were extinguished, and then the engine was examined. It was found that a buzzard had struck the headlight and caused the trouble. The bird was found wedged in the headlight with the feathers burned off and thoroughly cooked, and was only removed by using a crowbar. It is supposed the glare of the headlight at tracted the buzzard. The accident cost the road several hundred dollars, and traffic was delayed five hours.

The London Daily News has a dispatch from Vienna which says Trieste papers report an explosion destroyed the artillery barracks at Toula, Russia, and that 300 men were killed, including many officers. The barracks were found to be completely undermined. Many arrests have been made. Toula is the capital of the Govern-ment of Toula in European Russia. A London correspondent talked with several leading experts at the Baltic Exchange, the headquarters of the British corn trade, on the prospects of the British corn crop and the amount of American corn likely to be required. Some prominent brokers declared that the River Platte holds the key to the situation, and that reports from there promise a very large surplus crop of both maize and wheat. The Danube district also reports an immense crop, as against an abnormally small one last season, and the view generally expressed was that, however low the American prices may be, the Dan-ube will undersell them. The British crop is expected to be generally below the average, but brokers could not hazard an opinion on the probable amount of American corn that will be required. Last year the imports of American corn were only 25,-507,755 bushels. This year there ought to be four or five times as much.

IN GENERAL

R. G. Dun & Co. say in their Review of Trade: "It is a belated season; a frozen May set everything back. The heavy business which ought to have been done in May and June was pushed into July, so that the midsummer decline, due in July, comes in August. With this in mind, one is not surprised to find the shrinkage from July to August rather more conspicuous than usual. The disappointing crop reports Saturday, though evidently distrusted, lessen confidence in regard to the future of trade, even while some speculators gain by them. Back of all doubts is the fact that the industries are doing better than anybody could have expected."

A question of great interest to Canada was asked in the House of Commons by Mr. Price, who inquired if the Government was aware that the present exclusion of Canadian store cattle had caused the restriction can be removed. The president of the Board of Agriculture, Walter Long, replied, saying that as late as July 10 cases of cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia had been found among cargoes coming from Canada, and the Government in consequence must maintain the restriction placed upon such cattle. Mr. Long added that the Government was communicating with the Government of the Dominion of Canada on the sub-

Little Goes to Mora.

The "hottest" man in Washington is Nathaniel Paige, principal counsel for the claimants in the celebrated Mora case, just forced to a final settlement. As a part owner of the $1,500,000 claim it would seem that Mr. Paige should be wreathed in smiles instead of clouded with frowns, but he, nevertheless, has a grievance. The larger part of his contingent fee was dependent upon the payme the interest, amounting to something 350,000, and the waiving of that part of the claim shuts him out of over $100,000. No wonder he is angry, for he has been putting in most of his time for seven or eight years in the case. It transpires that the Mora family—father and children will not benefit largely by the payment of the claim, most of it having been assigned around among capitalists and lawyers.

Curzon Asked to Explain. The St. James Gazette of London publishes a scare article asking how Great Britain stands with the United States Government in the matter of the Nicaraguan Canal, and says that it will be well if the Right Honorable George N. Curzon, under secretary of state for foreign affairs, is asked to give some explanation on the subject in the House of Commons: Continuing, the St. James Gazette remarks: "As far as can be seen, we are heading you straight for a crisis, and there will be either a diplomatic deadlock between the two countries or the English will surrender important treaty rights. The deadlock can be avoided by discreet handling of the facts by the foreign office, and a surrender need never occur. Should a situation be brought about in which the United States finds it can ignore the United States of Central America, then good-by to any hope of retaining, much less extending, our commercial hold of the republics of the Spanish main, a market in which we already suffer from uncommonly sharp competition from the Americans and Germans."

Woman Makes It Lively for Her Recreant Husbaud-Kalamazoo Has a Mild Sensation-Double Drowning at Grand Haven.

Exciting Scene at a Picnic, Mrs. Bert Fair, with her child, met her lost husband the other day in Pine Grove Park, Port Huron, in the presence of thousands of Bay City grocer excursionists, and created a scene. Bert Fair is a molder from Bay City. He was sitting in the park chatting gayly with some Bay City girls, when suddenly a hand was over one thousand and six hundred! laid on his shoulder, and a woman's voice dramatically cried: "I want you; I've been looking for you for over two longyears." There stood Mrs. Bert Fair with her child, before the father, who had never seen his little son. Fair tried to run. Then followed a wild scene. The woman seized him by the coat and a hot chase ensued across the park, with the father ahead and the mother and child in close proximity to his heels. Over 1,000 excited people joined in the chase. The people trampled over lawns and flower gardens in their excitement, until one cool-headed man drove up in a wagon and took the entire family to Mrs. Fair's home. The molder's coat was torn off his back in the scuffle, and Mrs. Fair sat down in her little cottage and gave him a lecture. Fair soon afterward left and cannot be

TOPICS FOR FARMERS

A DEPARTMENT PREPARED FOR OUR RURAL FRIENDS.

Clover Hay, Pea and Cornmeal, and Bran Produce the Best Flavored Butter - Transplanting Weeds -About Soap-Making.

The Flavor of Butter.

The flavor and aroma of butter are caused partly by the direct influence of the feed and partly by ripening of the cream. To some extent, says Hoard's Dairyman, flavor may be secured by the feed. It would be difficult to produce fine-flavored butter from the cream of cows fed on straw alone. For fine flavor in butter, clover hay (properly cured), pea meal and cornme with bran and a few mangels, would, in my judgment, be best. Feed and proper ripening of the cream, together with the exclusion of all bad flavors, and careful handling of cream and butter, are needed to secure the proper flavor. The "sweet cream flavors" and the turnipy flavor, etc., are mainly produced by the feed. Butter fat from fresh cream has a flavor of the ripened cream butter. Proper ripening of cream will overcome the flavor produced by indigestion. My opinion is that the milk becomes tainted with the odor of the foods more by the inhalation than by direct absorption from the food. "Starters" are quite valuable in fine butter making, and especially so where poor or bad flavors exist in the cream, as they overcome these to a greater or less extent, and assist in improving the flavor of the butter, though they may not remedy it altogether.

Transplanted Weeds. Weeds should not be hoed during wet weather. The moisture on their leaves will prevent them from drying up, while the roots against the moist and loosened earth will get a hold and send out new fibers. A weed once or twice transplanted is almost as difficult to kill as a perennial. The only way to kill such a weed is to cover it while wet with moist soil. Then the sap in the weed will cause it to rot, and this will effectively check new growth of the root.

Leaching Ashes for Soap. There are still many country places where the housewife annually sets her leach tub to make the yearly quota of soap for household use. Generally it will pay better to use the unleached ashes as a fertilizer on the land and buy for soap making the concentrated potash that is now sold in every country store. There is a great variation in wood ashes, and the boughten potash is much more certain to make good soap than is the supply of potash in the ashes from the winter fires. The old-time soap grease was also a very ill-smelling and unsatisfactory product to handle. It was refuse scraps of fat and lard from all sources, kept with no regard for cleanliness, it being supposed that the ley would correct the smells and make into soap maggets with which the rotten mess usually abounded. All kinds of fats are now so much cheaper than they used to be that even those kept scrupulously clean are not very costly. With boughten potash and clean fats for it to work up the muchdreaded and disagreeable business of soap making will be so changed that those who remember the old times will be surprised at the difference. The gain to fruit crops from using the unleached ashes in the orchard will many times repay the cost of the boughten materials for soap, or, better still, will enable the farmer to buy his soap by the box already made, as many farmers now do.

Small Cucumbers. Small cucumbers, or "tiny Tims," are worth six times more per pound than are large ones, and the more you pick the more there will come. Many growers are only just now putting in the seeds, says the Philadelphia Ledger, and expect a larger and more profitable crop than is sown earlier. The worst than its pro rata share of 80 per cent. of of the bug pests, they say, are out of the way for the time being, and before a new lot comes the plants started now will be far advanced as to withstand their attacks. Pickles should be cut daily and at once be cared for. The smaller they are the better. If cucumber plants are to be reset, do it before the runners start, and in this way: Set a piece of stovepipe over the plant and press it into the soil to the depth of three or four inches. Run the spade under and remove all to the new bed. When set withdraw the stovepipe.

Digestibility Measures Nutrition. We can make no advice in scientific cattle feeding until we start on the basis of the equivalence of like food elements from whatever source obtained. As the Maine station puts it in one of their reports: "Science has given practice no safer or more useful conclusion than this: Cattle foods have nutritive value in proportion to the digestible dry matter they contain." In other words, a pound of digestible fat from one food is of just as much value as a pound of digestible fat from each and every other food, and the same of the digestible starch, cellulose and albuminoids. Moreover, the rule can be made wider, and include digestible dry matter as a whole, without reference to the proportion of its parts, i. e., the digestible dry matter of timothy hay, for instance, is just as valuable, pound for pound, as the digestible dry mafter of cornmeal, roots or any other Hand pump should allow the weight of the body to be used on the handle while at worl Vermorel nozzles give a better spray than the disk machines. For spraying potatoes and tomatoes a nozzle is need ed which can be lowered between the rows and directed so as to force the spray up through the vines. The agitator is needed to keep the poison in solution. The best forms work up and down in an upright tank, like the dash in an old churn. Where the pump piston has a packing, this should be often renewed. For killing cabbage werms and insects, so liquid has been found equal to dry paris green applied with a hand sifter. Powder guns are useful for applying dry powdered poisons. pyrethrum, tobacco dust and sulphur. Bamboo extensions should be used in spraying large trees.

Preserving the Stones of Fruits. During the season for peaches, plums and apricots, those who wish to can increase and improve their orchards by a careful selection of the best stones of these fruits. These stones may be sown immediately in 12-inch rows in good garden soil, or they may be preserved until fall or next spring by placing them in moist sand or earth in some shed or cellar. The best way is to mix stones and sand together and then place in low flat boxes, and put these boxes in the cellar in earth up to a level with the top of the box. They will keep excellently and without loss. The usual plan of wrapping the stones up in paper and keeping them dry until fall is a bad one, as the fruit kernel dries out and few will sprout when planted .-Baltimore American Cutworms.

While tobacco farmers are greatly annoyed by the cutworm, there are many other field and garden crops that are liable to be destroyed by the pest. A small number of plants in a garden may easily be protected by a simple device that could not be applied on a large scale without involving a good deal of labor. Take bands of any kind of tough paper, and place them around the plants when transplanting, so that the lower part of the band will be an inch or two below the surface soil, and the upper part an inch or so above. This will keep the worms away and never interfere with the plant.

Mixed Crops for Fodder. Dr. Goessman, of the Massachusetts station, advises growing mixed crops, say summer vetch and oats, as they produce larger yields than when grown singly. Sow together forty to forty-five pounds summer vetch to four bushels of oats, and seed early in June. The fodder is highly nutritious, and may be cut green and fed for two or three weeks, or cured for hay. Sow at various times; it will grow through the sea-

Notes. Those who ridicule the "razor-back" hog of the South are guilty of keeping cows that compare as unfavorably with the pure breeds as the razor-back hog does with the Berkshire or Chester White.

The striped cucumber beetle attacks cucumbers, melons, squashes and pumpkins, and is not easily destroyed. Spray the vines with a solution made by dissolving a gill or saltpeter in a gallon of water, and then apply fine tobacco dust around the base of the vines.

It is said that charcoal will absorb 90 per cent. of its bulk in ammoniacal gas, hence if used freely over compost heaps it not only prevents unpleasant odors, but renders the compost more valuable by retaining the ammonia which would otherwise pass off.

The quantity of corn fodder is almost unlimited, but it is criminal to waste any of it, as has been the woeful fashion. Cut up, shedded and baled, it keeps green and sweet, and is a rich, nutritious food; it, in this shape, promises to be an important item of food in the future.

Whale oil soap is something that should be kept in a convenient place for use on house plants. The wellknown mealy bug is destroyed by a solution of whale oil soap, if it is sprinkled on the plants, and it is also an excellent preventive of lice on animals. Being cheap as well as harmless to plants and animals, it should be used as often as desirable.

It looks as though the future offered excellent inducements for meat products, not only in the form of beef, but also as pork, mutton and poultry. It is an excellent opening for profit; and, as stock-raising provides a home market for much that is grown on the farm, there is something gained in that respect, while some manure and increased fertility of the soil will result from the keeping of stock.

The poorest farm can be made fertile without manure or fertilizer, if time is no objection, for nature slowly restores all soils, as has been demonstrated by the fallow system of resting the land. This can be done more speedily, however, by growing something to turn under. Of course, the true remedy is manure and fertilizers, but if they are insufficient, keep the land covered with something, if only of scant

Nearly all of the most successful farmers are those who make a specialty of milk production, and they are the only ones who get rid of mortgages and finally bring their farms up to the highest condition of fertility. The best dairymen are those who discard the scrub and use cows of the highest producing capacity. When the herds are improved so as to increase the mill

The Smoke of Death.

A careful chemist recently made an analysis of an ordinary cigarette. This is the result: "The tebacco was found to be strongly impregnated with opium, while the wrapper, which was warranted to be rice paper, was proved to be the most ordinary quality of paper whitened with arsenic. # CIACOLE INCE

In order to make our Clothing Department keep in the procession with our other departments, we shall turn over a NEW LEAF, We have decided to inaugurate a NEW POLICY, an entire revolution of things. We shall pursue the same policy that has made our Dry Goods. Carpet, and Shoe Departments so immensely successful this past summer. The prices that we have made on Dry Goods, Carpets, Shoes, etc., have brought us Bigger Crowds, Bigger Sales and Bigger Business. We shall now do the same in Clothing, lower prices and consequently bigger sales. Clothing will now be sold cheaper than any "one fourth off sale," in fact, cheaper than you ever saw clothing before. If we have any "odds and ends," or "jobs," we shall make ridiculously low prices (such prices as shall close them out at once) and not wait until we get a customer to work them off en. As a starter we offer (while the lots last).

MEN'S SUITS

Any $20, $18 or $16 suit in our stock for only

This gives you the choice of ANY SUIT in our stock. And we have as good suits as you can get anywhere. It is a low price for the BEST clothing made. We buy of the best makers and guarantee every suit in every way at this price.

Any $15, $14, $13.50, $12.50 or $12 suit for only $10

These are tailor made all wool suits, as good as you could buy heretofore of us or any other dealer at above prices, and they are well worth what we have been selling them for. You can have your choice now for $10.

We shall make the profits serve the sales, that is, Lower profits and Bigger sales.

"A quick penny is better than a slow shilling."

Any 11.50, 11, 10 or 8.50 suit for only $8.

We also add at this price, one lot of 360 odd sults that we have been selling at from $10 to $15. If you can please yourself from among this lot, you will never get the value again. They are all wool and some of them are worth double our present price. You must come at once if you expect to get one of these.

BOY'S KNEE SUITS (For boys from 4 to 15 years of age.)

All of our celebrated Mrs. Jane Hopkins all wool suits (and others) that we have been selling all last season for $4, and $4 50, "Just as a Flyer" we offer entire lot at $2.65. A good suit for a boy for $1.00. Better suits for 1.25, 1.50 and 2.00.

If you wear pants, we can interest you. We have just received a large lot of Flint Pants, (Did you receive our samples by mall?) that we are going PANTS to use as an advertisement (while they last.) We shall sell a Flint all wool $3.50 pant, new fall goods just arrived for $1.98. We shall sell a Flint all wool $4 pant, new fall goods just received (better than you can get elsewhere for $4) while they last at $2.65. One lot of fine all wool blackand blue, odd pants, taken from $15, to $20 suits we give you your choice for $1.50 and $2.00. These are sold regardless of value and will be sold in less than a week.

Boys' cotton knee pants worth 50c for 25c. Boy's wool knee pants, double knee and seats worth $1.00 for 50c.

It can be easily managed; there are no servants in the London house who know anything of the sorrow we have suffered, or its cause. Those with us will think that, as I have been absent the greater part of the day, I have been to fetch their lady home."

"It is so sudden," said Mrs. Massey; "our house will have lost its sunshine." "Think how long mine has been in darkness," replied Lord Bayneham. "I must take Hilda and Lionel with me. The Ohio Democratic State convention nominated James E. Campbell for Governor by accessmantion. It was done with ernor by acciamation. It was done with a whoop and a yell and while Mr. Camp-bell was on his feet trying to persuade the body to select Judge Peck, of Cincinnati. The convention also, by a vote of 525 to 270, reaffirmed the financial plank of the Democratic national convention of 1892 and indorsed the administration of President Cleveland and the course in the Senate of Calvin S. Brice. The nomination of Campbell was made in spite of his most C. S. BRICE. earnest protests. He had the floor when he was interrupted by Dr. James A. Norton, who presented a motion to suspend the rules and nominate James E. Campbell by acclamation. Mr. Campbell protested and raised points of order amid the wildest scenes of cheering and yelling for Campbell. Campbell said he had run for Congress three times in a Republican district and twice for Governor in a Republican State, till he was depleted financially and otherwise unable to make the race. He insisted on the nomination of Judge Peck or some other good Democrat who could make a good race and afford to make it motion of Dr. Norton to suspend the rules and nominate Mr. Campbell was in order. M. E. Ingalls, who had previously op posed Campbell, made a strong plea for him as the winner. The motion of Dr. Norton was put and carried with a great whirl of enthusiasm and Chairman Brice declared Mr. Campbell the nominee for Governor. The ticket was completed as above by acclamation.

Platform Adopted. The Democratic party of Ohio, in convention assembled, points with satisfaction and pride to the wisdom of the action of that party in the last two years and the results accomplished according to its promses, to-wit:

The repeal of the Republican legislation known as the Sherman law, the un-American Federal election law, and the McKinley law, from which repeals has resulted returning prosperity to the country to such an extent that even the Republicans are obliged to recognize the same.

We congratulate President Cleveland that his efforts in favor of the repeal of these vicious laws and the upholding of the credit of the country have been excepted.

of the country have been successful,
We congratulate our Senator, the Hon.
Calvin S. Brice, for the earnest and effective support he has given to the President in these matters.

When we consider the fact that the Dem cratic party received from the Republicans in 1892 a bankrupt treasury, that it inherited from them the vicious currency and tariff laws which had prepared and finally produced the panic of 1893, we insist that it is entitled to the thanks of the precedent. entitled to the thanks of the people for the courage with which it has attacked and re courage with which it has attacked and repealed these laws.

We reaffirm the following portion of the seventh plank of the platform of the last National Democratic Convention.

"We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination sgainst either metal or charge for mintage; but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted by international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure justed by international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the payment of debts; and we demand that the paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of farmers and the laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and fluctuating currency."

defenseless victims of unstable money and fluctuating currency."

We call the attention of the people to the methods and practices of bossism by which the Republican party in this State has been managed in the last few years, and for examples point to its history in Hamilton county and to the final culmination of the same in the Zanesville convention, and we ask the people by their votes this fall to put their condemnation on such practices.

We denounce the last Legislature as corrupt and unworthy of the confidence of the people, and we submit to the voters whether they wish to perpetuate this condition of affairs by placing the Republicans again in power.

We view with alarm the large increase of indebtedness throughout the State by counties and municipalities, as authorized by the last Legislature, and the increase in the last few years in the tax rate, and we demand economy in expenditure and conservatism in the increase of debt.

POE'S EARLIEST EFFORTS A Poem Not Included in His Works

Recently Discovered. The "Greek Letter Societies" of the Iniversity of Virginia, called "Corks and Curls," which has just been issued, contains a never-before-published poem by Edgar Allan Poe. We regret that we cannot reproduce the lithograp facsimile of the last verse and the signature "E. A. Poe," which is clearly shown in "Corks and Curls." The story of its discovery is thus told: The poem was discovered by H. Dalton Dillard Feb. 23, 1895, in volume 1 of Rollins' Historie Ancienne, in the University of Virginia library. A search of the records by the librarian, F. W. Page, showd that the book had been borrowed by Poe while a student here in 1826, and had not been taken out since his time.

In this poem the peculiar genius of Poe may be seen at first glance, and traces of the philosophy that marks "The Raven," "Dreamland," and other productions of his "lonesome latter years," are clearly apparent. As the poem must have been written when the boy poet was only 17 years old, it is interesting in that it disproves the statement of his biographers that there was nothing cynical in the tendency of any of his earlier poems. The manuscript is not particularly neat; in the third stanza especially, several alterations and erasures occur. The verses are as fol-

MY SOUL. Sailing over seas abysmal, From a world of shame; Once a vessel, strange and dismal--Phantom vessel-came Toward a fairly isle and olden, Where ill angels embeholden, Tenanted Fate's ghostly golden Fane of Doom and Fame.

Fane of Fame! by scraphs builded, In the days of yore. Here a temple chas'd and gilded From the earthly shore: Up to heaven rose it gleaming, All with Hope and Beauty beaming-(Like a dream of Aidenn seeming-Had it seem'd no more!)

But the pilot nearing, steering For that temple bright, Ever found the island veering From his aching sight. Till, from mighty shores appalling Came the solemn darkness talling-In his hungry clasp enthralling Land and sea and light.

Then, the vessel, sinking, lifting Over hopes sublime (Perished hopes!) came drifting, drifting To a wild, weird clime; Here a visitor undaunted. In that desert land enchanted. Still is seen the vessel haunted, Out of Space and Time.

Paper Sails for Ships. An innovation in yachting circles is now being talked of, nothing less than sails made of compressed paper, the sheets being cemented and riveted together in such a way as to form a smooth and strong seam. It appears that the first process of manufacturing consists in preparing the pulp in the regular way, to a ton of which is added one pound of bichromate of potash, 25 pounds of glue, 32 pounds of alum, 11/2 pounds of soluble glass and 40 pounds of prime tallow, these ingredients being thoroughly mixed with the pulp. Next the pulp is made into sheets by regular paper-making machinery, and two sheets are pressed together with a glutinous compound between, so as to retain the pieces firmly, making the whole practically homogeneous. The next operation is quite important and requires a specially built machine of great power, which is used in compressing the paper from a thick, sticky sheet to a very thin, tough one. The now solid sheet is run through a bath of sulphuric acid, to which 10 per cent, of distilled water has been added, from which it emerges to pass between glass rollers, then through a bath of ammonia, then clear water, and finally through felt rollers, after which it is dried and polished between heated metal cylinders. The paper resulting from this process is in sheets of ordinary width and thickness of cotton duck, It is elastic, air tight, durable, light and possessed of other needed qualifications to make it available for light sailmak-

The mode of putting the sheets together is by having a split on the edges of the sheet, or cloth, so as to admit the edge of the other sheet. When the split is closed, cemented and riveted or sewed, it closes completely and firmly. Marine Record.

Americans Fond of Lawsuits. A man of figures has been calculating as to the number of lawsuits which are brought in the various countries of the civilized world in a year, and he has come to the conclusion that the United States stands at the head. He has ascertained that, taking the figures for the last ten years as a fair average, there are 1,250,000 lawsuits brought in England every year, 750,000 in France, 1,400,000 in Italy, 3,300,000 in Germany and 5,500,000 in the United States. It is not to be inferred from this that the people of this country are much more prone to litigation than are the people of another, but the explanation is to be found in the fact that the conditions of litigation vary exceedingly.

A Legal Phrase, The words "smart money" mean exemplary or vindictive damages in excess of the injury done. Courts allow such damages only when a defendant's conduct has been peculiarly outrageous. The term has appeared frequently of late, used as though it were synonymous with "indemnity," which is by no means the case.

The hotel structure, for 100 feet along the alley and extending 75 feet toward the front, is a mass of debris. Brick and plaster piled in heaps twenty feet high, and from this mass of wreckage could be heard the moans of the injured and dying.

Minute atoms of powdered brick and mortar descended like gentle snow. At 12:50 the ruins began burning fiercely and the firemen were obliged to retreat from the work of rescue. Every engine in the city was pouring streams into the mass, but the flames could not be possibly got under control before the injured were cremated. As their chances of escape lessened the cries of the imprisoned people were increased, heartrending shricks rising from every portion of the great mass of wreck-

During the height of the excitement team ran away on 18th street, stampeding the great crowd of spectators. number of people were more or less injured by being trampled upon and falling in the broken glass which covered the streets and sidewalks in every direction.

Electric-light wires dangling from broken poles in the alley added fresh peril to the firemen. One horse was burned by coming in contact with a live wire. Two injured women had been almost extricated from the ruins when the flames approached so close that the rescuers had to abandon them for safety. The bodies of three women were also to be seen in the back part of the building, but could not be reached. Hardly had the firemen got fairly at work when they were forced to retreat.

Proprietors of the Hotel Killed. Among the dead are Peter Gumry and R. C. Grenier, the proprietors of the hotel, the day clerk and the night clerk, none of whose bodies have been found. Immediately after the explosion occurred a baby was heard wailing in the corner of a room which had nearly all fallen away. Its parents had gone down with the first crash. Afterward the little one's cries became weaker and weaker, and when the flames shot up into the skeleton of the building it became silenced. The firemen made a brave effort to save a woman quight in the debris of the north corner of the hotel, but were forced to abandon the attempt.

The Gumry Hotel was a five-story brick with stone front, and was built about six years ago. It was of the better kind of second-class hotels, catering largely to transient family patronage. Thus many women and children were among the guests. The building was put up as the Eden Musee by the widow of Gen. Tom Thumb, and was so occupied for several years, later being remodeled for use as a hotel. Gumry and Grenier have owned the hotel for several years. Mr. Gumry was a prominent contractor and had done much of the work during the building of the State capitol. Mr. Grenier acted in the capacity of manager.

Lesson for Sept. 1. Golden Text—By faith the walls Jericho fell down, after they were assed about seven days.—Heb. 11: 50. The Fall of Jericho is the subject of il son this week-Joshua 6: 8-20 icho represents entrenched worldiness and wickedness, human might at its strongest and best. Here on the one hand was the citadel of sin, the seat of idolatr, the center of usurpation. It was strongly the center of usurpation arrangly manned. buttressed, atrongly manned, apparent Joshua and Israel—and God. Jericho fell, It always falls when thus confronted The time of patient trumpet-blowing may be long, but the end is sure. Jericho was strong, in order that she might show the woakness of human strength before God "Make it sure," said Pilate. "Make it as sure as yo cau." He was doing it unwittingly to the honor of God. "And they went and made the sepulchre sure, seal. ing the stone and setting a watch." Then the carthquake and the angel and the resurrection, and man's assurance proven presumptuous. Trust God. His weak. ness is stronger than men's might.

The secret of this mighty victory at Jes. icho is in verse fourteeu of the preceding chapter when Joshua recognizing the "Captain of the host of the Lord," "fell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What saith my lord unto his servant?" Prayer, surrender. That put Joshua virtually at the head of two hosts. The Lord had given Joshua as it were his note of hand. "See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valor." Joshua simply went ahead according to the conditions ("ye shall compass the city.") He collected, so to speak, on the note. But he took it all. He did not go part way, as some of us do, and win a partial conquest, leaving the king. perhaps, still on the throne and some of his mighty men saved up. That Saul tried; not Joshua.

"The rearward came after the ark" Keep the right order. In other processions for victory it is a great thing to keep the rearward in the rear and the foreward in the fore. Keep in your place, men! Dress right; mark time. Stay behind the ark. "The priests going on and blowing with the trumpets." Keep it up, brethren—"as ye go preach." It stands very sententiously in the original: Going and blowing. Sometimes, we go without blowing. Sometimes, vice versa, we blow without going. If you blow a quick step, let your own feet keep time to it. If you sound the onset with your lips, speak it also with your swift step. Let lip and life make martial music together about the walis of our Jerichos. Ah me, that

"Then shall ye shout." Not until "then." Often we shout before the time, "Amen," before the conditions have been fulfilled, hallelujahs on the lip when there are no hallelujahs in the heart. "And they came into the camp and lodged in the camp." It is the best place to lodge in days of siege. Do not think to go over into Jericho after the first day round. A strange thing we see to-day, people besieging Jericho and lodging in it at the same time, or close up to the gates. Christian brother or sister, young soldier of the cross, the best place for you in this naughty world is in the church and hard by the cross in the midst. But when the walls fell flat, then that was the time for going straight into Jericho, straight at it, straight through it. Why not make thorough work of it? Let every man draw his sword and hew straight before him. This is the day of battles. Fight not for gold, but for God. And if gold come into the hand, count it as "consecrated unto the Lord," and so devote it.

Illustrations.

Faith is the victory. "This is the victory that overcometh the world even your faith." The Targum says that Jericho had gates of iron and bars of brass. What is stronger than iron gates? Faith. What can break brazen bars? Faith. "By faith the walls of Jericho fell down." We used to have a school-boy game, where a ring of sturdy urchins formed, hands tightly clasped, arms tant and rigid. "What is this?" said the one confined in the center. "This is iron," one would say; "This is brass," another. Then the strong lunge and the bold break for liberty. "What is this?" said Joshua to Jericho. And Jericho, stout-armed, defiant, gave answer: "This is iron." "This is brass." "And this," quoth Joshua, "is faith God," as he strode straight through to victory. Faith is as mighty as ever, and God's arm is not shortened.

Faith uses means. Faith has its conlitions, or rather its means of exercise. It lways goes along with implicit obedie to God's direction. Faith is not blind, in this sense; faith is open-eyed. It does as the Lord bids and then trustfully watches for the results. In fact, there is a kind of faith, and just as in reference to other laws you obey the conditions and you occure the fruits, so here. To obey find in faith is to link ourselves with the munitions of heaven and to call to our aid the cohorts of Jehovah. There were more than a few Israelites marching around the walls of Jericho. The hosts of God acompanied them. There at Atlantic City hen the Casino went down, we were looking at it the other day; they said it was the rhythmic tramp of men's feet in anciful applause that started the beams. We all know that soldiers break step when they cross a bridge. The rhythm of their united tread calls down, as it were, the weight and swing of the planets and scarcely anything can withstand it. So with faith. Israel locked step with the nvisible powers of God, and swept all be Next Lesson-"Caleb's Reward." Joshus 14: 5-14.

God Is Doing the Best.
Is not God doing the best He can for us? Can any Christian disciple have a doubt on this point? And if God is loing His best for us why should we complain at any ordering of His? Sick ness and bereavement, disappointment and sorrow, as well as health and hap diness and joy, are all ordered or per nitted by Him in wisdom and in love

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERS

HOLD-UP ON THE CHICAGO AND WEST MICHIGAN.

Train Was Running Light and the Villains Were Badly Fooled-Got $7.50 and Two Watches-Passengers Badly Scared but Not Molested.

Bandita Near New Richmond. Five desperate bandits dynamited the express car on the Chicago and West Michigan passenger train, due at Grand Rapids from Chicago at 10:30 p. m., near New Richmond, Tuesday night. The robbers secured only two watches and $7.50 in money, but their intentions were good.

The Allegan County officers were noti-ted, and with daybrenk the woods in the vicinity of the hold-up were thoroughly scoured, and liberal rewards offered for the apprehension of the robbers. Not only the Allegan County, but also the sheriffs of Ottawa, Van Buren, Kent, and Kalamazoo Counties have been notified, and the officers say that, unless the robbers have a boat and escaped across Lake Michigan, they will be caught. The train was bowling along at a rapid rate. When rounding a curve at a place in the road that is lined with forest growth Engineer Debble caught the gleam of a white light waved across the track. He saw by the reflection that the track was obstructed and brought the train to a

As the train was stopped a volley was fired into the cab, one shot narrowly missing the fireman, and the two men were erdered to come down. They refused to comply with the demand, and the robbers, only two of them in sight, did not insist upon it. The rear brakeman, Timothy Murphy, jumped off the train and ran back to flag any train that might be following. The robbers saw him jump and fired at him, inflicting a flesh wound in the thigh. Conductor E. E. Rice stepped out upon the platfor.n to inquire what was the matter and was fired upon, but not touched. The passengers were not molested, but were dreadfully afraid they would be. Women were in hysterics. The men looked for places to hide their valuables. Even if the robbers had decided to work the train they would not have found much without a careful search. The passengers were mostly tourists bound for the northern resorts. James Cannon, of Rock Island, and Herman Pew, of Chicago, were on board, and they gave vivid descriptions of the wild scramble for places to hide valuables.

Conductor Rice thinks the robbers were amateurs, as they were not disguised nor masked and made no effort at concealment. The leader was a middle-aged man about five feet six inches, with a full beard. The other three were younger, and all were roughly dressed.

Brakeman Murphy was taken to Grand Rapids and had his wounds dressed. He is not seriously hurt. The passengers were in a desperate panic. The women crawled in behind seat backs and the men got in as inaccessible places as they could. The brakeman hastily returned to the coaches and locked the door after him. With the decks clear for action, the robbers turned their attention to the baggage and express car.

Dynamite Is Used. The firing had alarmed Baggageman

V. N. Vannetta and he had locked his door against the intruders. The robbers ordered him to open up. He refused. Then they applied a stick of dynamite to the side door and blew the bottom of the car open. Mr. Vannetta concluded that he had done all that valor demanded and opened the door. The robbers Inmediately demanded the key to the strong box, and when Mr. Vannetta declared he did not have it they used up another dynamite cartridge and burst it open. The strong box was empty and did not even contain a cent. The train did not carry uny express. The robbers left the car in disgust and held a heated argument whether or not to go through the passengers. They finally concluded not to do so, Conductor Rice representing that the passengers were mostly poor people who could not afford to lose what little morrey they had. The robbers relieved Mr. Rice of what small change he had, about $7.50, missing the well-lined pocket-book which Rice had thrown into the wood box. They also relieved the fireman and engineer of their watches and then with a pleasant farewell to the conductor they gave him permission to move on and disappeared in the woods. This train is patronized every day by wealthy citizens of Grand Rapids and Northern and Western Michigan, whose business calls them frequently to Chi-

The express messenger went out with a "feint" car in the afternoon and was returning on a "dead" trip. There were forty-two passengers. To make sure of a halt ties had been piled on the track half a length ahead of where the engine stopped. The baggage car was not disabled and the train proceeded, arriving at Grand Rapids half an hour late.

RAVAGES OF THE CHOLERA.

Europe and Asia Have Suffered-America Has Been Free.

Through the energetic efforts of the health authorities in New York the cholera has not entered this country this summer and, as the season is so far advanced, it probably will not do so. Though we have been free from it in Europe Russia, Arabia, India, China, and Japan the disease raged. It is unfortunate that trustworthy statistics concerning it cannot be obtained from Russia, or from any of the other countries in which it exists, with the exception of Japan. It ravaged several of the western Russian provinces last summer; it did not entirely disappear last winter, and it has been epidemic since the early spring season.

The cholera appeared in Arabia, on the border of the Red Sea, early in the spring, brought there, as in other years, by the Mohammedan pilgrims from India to Mecca. Alarming accounts of its fatality were sent out in the spring

In China the extent to which the cho era has prevailed can only be guessed at, but it is believed that the disease has een widespread. From the trustworth; statistics kept by the Japanese authorities it is learned that up to the close of July there had been 9,500 cases of the disease in Japan, more than one-half of which had proved fatal. This fatality may be ed as part of the price paid by pan for her victory over the Chinese but that price was greater yet, for many of the Japanese soldiers who are yet in China have fallen under the disease. It has recently been epidemic over a large part of the Japanese empire.

In some other countries besides those here mentioned, including Mexico and Cuba, there have been cases of cholera during the year, but it has not been epidemic in any of them.

It has been estimated by good authorities that the average yearly number of deaths from cholera the world over is close upon a quarter of a million. It is not known that in Russin alone last year there were nearly 100,000 cases of the disease, about 45 per cent, of which proved fatal; but the ravages of the disease among the Russians are light as compared with that among Asiatics. Very likely it has been as widely prevalent in Western Russia, Eastern Austria and Turkey this year as it was last year.

CONDITIONS IN NEBRASKA.

Corn Promises a Large Yield, Except in the State's Garden Spot. A McCook, Neb., correspondent says: On crossing the Missouri River running to Lincoln, the Burlington land agents party found a prospect which, from an agricultural standpoint, could not be excelled. Corn is luxuriant and sturdy and every stalk shows large-sized cars sticking out from it. It is so far advanced that the uninitiated could be made to believe very readily that it is past all harm from any source. Notwithstanding its fine appearance, however, it is not yet out of danger of frost, and will not be for at least two weeks.

A fine crop of oats has been reaped in this section. Much of it is still in the shock and a good deal of it has been stacked. It is thrashing out from thirty to fifty bushels to the acre and will average about forty. The wheat crop has all been harvested, and farmers are now busy plowing their land preparatory to putting in another crop of winter wheat.

Leaving Lincoln the outlook is much ess promising. Between Waverly and Fairmont, a distance of sixty miles, is a stretch of country which has usually been described as the garden spot of Nebraska. Crops have always been abundant here, however poorly they may have been in other parts of the State. Last year and this year have been the only known excepsuffered severely this year. It has rained copiously on all sides of it and all around thrashing out from thirty-five to forty bushels an acre. Heavy rains fell over this section at the end of last week. They came too late, however, to save the bulk of the corn. Very much of it is wilted beyond redemption and a good deal of it has already been cut for fodder. Wheat in this section is thrashing out fifteen bushels to the acre. West of Fairmont the scene again changes and an ocean of waving corn, strong and luxuriant, is to be seen as far as the eye can reach in every direction. The crop from Hastings to the western boundary of the State is practically made, and nothing but a killing frost can now blight it. It will average not less than sixty bushels to the acre, and very many large fields will yield fifty bushels. Alfalfa is a new crop here with which the people are delighted. All kinds of live stock eat it with relish, and it is proving to be fattening fodder. The first year it yields one ton to the acre, but after the third year it yields three crops a year, which foot up seven and one-half tons to the acre. It is worth in the market $5 per ton, but to feed cattle the results have shown it to be worth $70 per acre. It is the coming crop all along the flats of the Republican valley.

THE CUBAN WAR.

The Insurgents Making Headway In the Struggle for Freedom.

Recent reports from Cuba indicate that the insurgent army is gradually encroaching on Havana. It is now on the outskirts of the great sugar district and is increasing its ranks daily. According to a letter from the Marquis de Santa Lucia, who some time ago joined the insurgents, the two divisions of the army number 25,-000 men and 10,000 of these are well armed and splendidly equipped. One division is under Gen. Antonio Maceo in Campos who, when he reached Cuba, announced that he would have the rebellion crushed in a couple of months has utterly failed to make any inpression on the insurgents, although nearly 20,000 troops more than he asked for have been sent him. The cry is still for more troops—a proof in itself that the rebellion is serious and that the Spanish SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Pennsylvania Steel Company Re-

The Pennsylvania Steel Company (reorganized) has determined to issue, shortly, separate certificates for the ew issue of preferred and common stocks separately in exchange for the full-paid rights to subscribe for the new preferred stock, the total issue of which amounts to $1,500,000. This, it is believed, will bring'a measure of relief to many who were compelled to subscribe to the preferred stock under penalty of forfeiture of their holding of the old common stock. The new preferred stock, full paid, bears interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum until October 15th, after which date it will share in the earnings of the company up to 7 per cent. Each share of the preferred rights carries a bonus of two and one-half shares of common stock. An arrangement has been made with the reorganization committee by which the transfers of the new issue of common and preferred stock will be made at the office of the Pennsylvania Steel Company. The installments yet due on the partly paid rights will continue to be paid to the Girard Trust Company, as heretofore.
