A Long Service.

In our saunterings through our village on Saturday we dropped into the office of the American Express Company and found the genial agent, W. F. Hatch, at his post of duty, and learned from him that it was the anniversary of his employment with the Company; he being constantly employed by the Company since the fifth day of October, 1859, up to the present time—a period of 36 years—and also with the assurance from the Company that he will be retained in the same position as long as he may desire to serve. He also assured us the Company never lost one cent by his mismanagement. The business has undergone several changes—one item like this: At first currency used to be sent largely by express, however small the sum; now in larger amounts by the banks. Express money orders, good throughout the world, largely take the place of smaller amounts. Freight of a miscellaneous nature, such as dolls, baby jumpers, wedding rings, divorce papers, threshing machines—in fact almost everything one could conceive of—come by express. The agent also taught the first school in Chelsea, and named over some of his old pupils who are still running around: One, James P. Wood and another. He has been engaged in active business life until within a few years past, and now only attends to the duties of the office, assisted by his efficient clerk, A. E. Winans. Verily a long stretch of time—more than half his life. Few can say as much.

Death of James Clark.

James Clark was born in Seneca county, New York, Nov. 6, 1804, and died in Grass Lake, Mich., Oct. 6, 1895, having reached the advanced age of 91 years, lacking one month. He was the oldest son of John and Mercy Swick Clark, and was of Irish-Dutch descent.

The educational advantages of his day were meager, compared with those of the present time, but such as they were he made a good use of them. His early life was spent with his father on the farm. March 16, 1826, he was joined in marriage with Miss Mary Swick. To them were born 14 children, of whom four daughters and three sons still survive, to wit: George V. Clark and Mrs. Nancy T. Flagler, of Chelsea; Mrs. Mary J. Greenwood, of Napoleon; Mrs. Amelia Y. Hines and Mrs. Caroline Hines, of Grass Lake; James G. Clark, living on the homestead near Grass Lake, and O. S. Clark, of Battle Creek, the present prosecuting attorney of Calhoun county. There are also living 30 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

The deceased resided in the state of New York until the summer of 1856, when he came to Michigan and located in Sylvan, Washtenaw county, where he purchased an improved farm upon which he lived until his removal to Grass Lake township, in October, 1867, 28 years ago. He purchased the Ira Watkins farm, just south of the village, and has been recognized in this community ever since as a citizen worthy of respect, and capable in the line of business which he marked out to follow. He was an earnest politician, having an opinion of his own on the various political questions of the different periods of his long life, which was continued through the terms of office of all the 23 presidents except the first two, and has so nearly spanned the century. He died of old age, the physical machinery being worn out by the use of 91 years.

The wife of the deceased died in 1886, aged 80 years and 9 months.—Grass Lake News.

DURRANT'S STORY.

The Accused Man Takes the Stand in His Own Behalf.

Minutely Describes His Movements on April 3 in Order to Establish an Alibi—Strongly Denies His Murder of Miss Lamont.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The sensation of the defense in the Durrant case was introduced Wednesday, when Theodore Durrant took the stand. He walked to it with a firm step and related his story of what transpired on the 3d of April with characteristic coolness. He was permitted to trace his movements from the time he left his home in the morning until he retired at night. He said that he started from his home to visit that of Organist King, but on the way met Blanche Lamont, who was standing on a corner waiting for a car, as she said she was late for school. Durrant at her suggestion, accompanied her as far as the school while he himself went to Cooper college, where he remained until noon.

At the intermission he left the college for half an hour. On returning he learned that the early afternoon lecture had been postponed. He then walked a few blocks with another student remaining away from the college about an hour. He mentioned two students with whom he conversed at the college after noon. One of these, Student Diggins, has already testified that he had a conversation, as stated by Durrant, but he did not remember the date. Durrant said he attended the lecture of Dr. Cheney that afternoon, which began at 3:30 and lasted forty-five minutes. He said he remained at the lecture until its close and took notes, which were produced and put in evidence. These notes, as introduced, were made by him at the lecture.

After the lecture Durrant said he left the college and went by car to within a block of the church, and thence walked to it, entering it by the rear door. He went to the library room, there left his coat and then went to the auditorium floor. His purpose in going to the church was to fix the vibrator on the electric apparatus connected with one of the sunburners, and he intended to first reach this by going up to the attic in the rear part of the church. He did start up that way, but changed his mind and went up to the gallery in front, leaving a door in the rear open. In the gallery he turned the gas partly on and then ascended to the space occupied by the sunburners by means of a ladder. He repaired the electric vibrator on one of the burners, then tried all the jets to see that they would light from the electric spark, and finding everything satisfactory descended to the gallery and turned off the gas. While working on the vibrator the odor of gas nauseated him and made him feel faint. From the gallery where he turned off the gas there was a staircase in front by which he could have descended to the library room on the lower floor where his coat was, but instead of taking it, he passed through the auditorium of the church and went down a rear staircase to the floor below where Organist King was practicing on a piano. His reason for going this way was that he desired to close the rear door he had left open when he changed his mind about the way he should go to the sunburners. Durrant said he heard King playing on the piano while he was at work on the sunburner, and knew King was in the Sunday school room below when he went thither. Had he desired to do so he might have gone down the front staircase, got his coat and left the church unknown to King, who did not have a view of the front part of the edifice.

Durrant's description of what occurred when he came into the room where King was, agreed with what King had testified to. While King was absent to get him some bromo seltzer, Durrant said he lay down on a platform with his hands under his head and rested till King returned. Durrant said that when he took off his coat in the library he looked at his watch and saw it was 4:55, or thirty-five minutes later than the witnesses for the prosecution testified they saw him near the church with Blanche Lamont. Durrant said he never saw the girl for whose murder he stands charged after he left her at school on the morning of April 3.

The most dramatic of the incidents of the day was when his counsel came to ask him directly about the murder. Every ear in the crowded court room was bent to hear his answers, which were delivered in a clear, calm voice, without feeling of any kind. He denied that he was at the normal school, where two witnesses swore they saw him, or on the car with Blanche Lamont, where three witnesses claimed to have seen him. Lastly, he said he did not accompany Blanche Lamont or anyone else to the church. Then his counsel solemnly asked him:

"Did you ever participate, directly or indirectly, in any violence on the person of Blanche Lamont?"

"Never," replied the accused man.

"Did you kill or participate in the killing of Blanche Lamont, in this city and county, on the 3d of April, or at any other place at any time?" he was then asked.

He replied: "I did not."

A QUANDARY.

In the true poet's eyes, the maid he loves
Has not a peer in beauty or in grace;
He falls in raptures o'er her tiny gloves,
And anxious sonnets writes to clinging lace.
I know full well that fairer maids there are
Than she who holds my heart in Cupid's thrall;
I wear I love her by no shining star,
Her gloves and slippers charm me not at all.
And, therefore, I'm in great perplexity:
In doubt my mind between two thoughts
Doth move—
That one of them is true seems plain to me—
I am no poet, or else I do not love.

A DOUBLE PUNISHMENT.

A LONG, narrow room, dimly lighted by rows of smoking, flickering lamps, rough benches bordering the bare adobe walls. At one end of the room two Mexicans with fiddle and guitar are playing something which evidently passes for music. The air is close and foul with the exertions and breath of the motley crowd that fills the benches and floor. And this is the "ball room" attached to the Legal Tender saloon at Phoenix, N. M.

In the doorway stands a tall, fair-haired young fellow, well tanned yet seeming light skinned among the Mexicans and cow punchers by whom he is surrounded. He lounges in the doorway watching the dancers with an expression partly of languid interest. A year ago the man would have laughed in your face had you told him that he, Harry Woodhall, leader of cotillions and of the distinctly eligible young fellows of London, would in a year's time be taking a passive part in the festivities of a New Mexican dance hall.

It had all come so suddenly that it had seemed like some weird nightmare from which he woke to find himself fighting for health in the arid region of the new world. The recollection of it flashed across him now as he stood by the bar of the Legal Tender. First, that bad cold caught at the Wellbrookes' ball, when he had taken Lady Grace to her carriage in a pouring rain without so much as a cap to cover his head. Then the long siege of pneumonia and after that, like a thunder-bolt out of a clear sky, had come the warning of his physician: "It's Egypt or western America, old man, if you don't want to shuffle off the coil. You can't stay in England and live."

Then had come the partings, the voyage, the few aimless weeks in Denver, and then a letter from Bob McQueen asking him to come down and help raise pigs and alfalfa in the Pecos valley. He had found a jolly, congenial lot of young Englishmen there, and after some months of ranch life he had just decided to put some money into the ranch and settle down. There is a saying that Englishmen come west on account of one of three things: "Busted health, wealth or reputation."

None of this crowd, at least, was in the Pecos valley on account of the last cause, and the two former were certainly no disgrace.

This resolution to settle down had not been an easy one to make. A man may flatter himself that he has torn up every root that binds him to the old life, but when the time comes to put aside the last hope of return he will find that there is one root still drawing life from that hope; and then, perhaps, comes the hardest wrench of all. At any rate, Woodhall had that very day ridden into Eddy with McQueen, and had drawn from the bank the money which was to buy his share of the ranch outfit. On their way back they had stopped at Phoenix, a collection of saloons, dance houses and Mexican huts just outside the limits of the town. Their Mexican foreman, Gongorez, had met them there with the ranch wagon, relieved their horses of the supplies and gone on ahead of them.

Although Woodhall had been in the valley seven months, he had never before seen Phoenix in full blast. This interesting condition occurred every Saturday night and lasted until Monday morning. The roulette wheel and faro layout, together with the Mexican games, were operated in the barroom, which opened directly into the dance hall. By this simple arrangement the Mexicans could lose their money in the barroom while the cow punchers obtained their "load," and then worked it off in the quadrille.

"Bob," said Woodhall, lazily turning to McQueen, who was watching the faro, "do they ever have any good-looking girls here?"
"Sometimes a pretty Mexican girl shows up, but good looks don't last long at Phoenix," was the reply.
"They say that Gongorez, our foreman, has—by Jove, old chap, did you see the dealer hold out the nine-spot just then?"
"No; but everybody is too full to notice those little things, I suppose. Come, I've enough of this. Let's move on."

The truth was that Harry Woodhall had just been undergoing that last and worst wrench. He had been tearing up the root that had been feeding on hope, and the process had left him in a reckless state of mind, when nothing seemed to matter. The money, which he carried in a belt around his waist, seemed a weight that was dragging him down, away from everything, and the thought nearly maddened him.

McQueen had gone for his horse, leaving Woodhall alone on the steps of the Legal Tender. A low voice at his elbow startled him.

"Is it Senor Woodhall?"
He turned sharply and faced the questioner. A tall, slim, dark-haired Mexican girl stood before him. Over her shoulders she had thrown a many-colored serape which only half-concealed the well curved and graceful lines of her figure. Her coal-black hair hung in a long plait, and her eyes seemed almost luminous as she stood in the shadow beside him. She was beautiful, there could be no doubt of that, and as Woodhall stood there staring at her, a wild, half-formed resolution took possession of him, borne of his recent fierce struggle with the last hope.

"Yes, I am Woodhall," he answered her; "what is it?"

"Will the senor come with me a little?"

Without a word Woodhall sprang on his horse. The girl quickly mounted a cow pony tied near by, and together they dashed off into the darkness. Within the Legal Tender the dance and the games went on. Not a soul had seen their quick disappearance. McQueen hunted about a little, saw that McQueen's horse was gone, cursed him for an unsociable brute, and started back to the ranch alone.

It was a dark, forbidding looking abode at which Woodhall and the girl dismounted. As near as he could judge they had ridden two or three miles southeast across the track. The mystery and novelty of the affair struck him as he was tying his horse, yet he was hardly prepared for what followed. As he entered the doorway of the hut, a pair of warm, plump arms closed about his neck and he felt the pressure of the rich, red lips of the Mexican girl upon his own. And Woodhall was very human.

At last a soft little hand within his led him—for it was quite dark—through a passage-way into a small room lighted by a single tallow candle and containing only a rough table and a bed.

"Will the senor rest?" and then after a moment's pause: "I will return soon." She was gone before he could prevent it.

Woodhall sat down on the edge of the bed to think, and as he did so he felt the weight of the money belt which he carried about his waist. In a moment all his English caution and mistrust returned.

"It may be all right," he muttered, "but a little search won't hurt anything."

The only possible place of concealment was under the bed. Revolver in hand he dropped on his knees and peered into the darkness. Nothing. Slowly he raised himself until his eyes were on a level with the counterpane, and as he reached this position he noticed a small lump in its surface. Was he deceived, or did the lump move? More from curiosity than any other motive he grasped a corner of the bed clothes and jerked them back. Great heaven! There in the very center of the bed, with its cruel claws working, lay a full-sized tarantula, one of the most poisonous creatures alive. A slight noise at the door caused him to turn. There stood the girl, her eyes, big with fear and horror, fixed on the deadly spider. Without a word Woodhall raised his arm and pointed an accusing finger at it. For a moment the girl tried to speak, but could not. Then slowly and painfully she whispered: "You thought I did it?"

Woodhall bowed his head in grim assent.

On the instant, before he could stop her or even realize her purpose, she had sprung to the bed, grasped the horrible thing and placed it in the bosom of her dress. As it stung her she stretched out her arms toward Woodhall, uttered a piercing cry, and fell across the bed. At the same moment he became aware of an evil face at the doorway—the face of Gongorez, the ranch foreman. In an instant Woodhall had him covered and commanded him to enter, which he did in a sullen, half-scared way. At last Woodhall saw the whole plot.

"Gongorez," he said, in a strange, harsh voice, "this is your daughter?"

A nod.

"Did she bring me here at your command?"

"Yes, but it was easy. She had seen the senor and loved him."

"Did she know of that—stand back, you hound!" for suddenly Gongorez had seemed galvanized into activity and had started toward the bed muttering: "Corpo di Dios, no!"

"Then," said Woodhall, in a voice that seemed to him hollow and far away, "we will watch her die together." And standing there, these two, the fair one with revolver in one hand, the other clasping the girl's, the dark one crouching like a coyote at bay, yet livid with horror, watched the girl until the last spark of life was gone. A moment later a sharp report rang through the hut and then Woodhall galloped away—alone.

Next morning he appeared at breakfast, pale and very quiet.

"Fellows," he said finally, "I've been thinking it over, and I'm afraid I'm not suited to this sort of life. I don't think that I could ever be contented here and—in short, I'm going to start for California this afternoon."

And he did, in spite of all they could say or do.

The last thing he said to McQueen as the train pulled out was: "You had better get another foreman, Mac, for I don't think Gongorez is coming back." Detroit Free Press.

Next Time.

At the trial of the celebrated Theodore Parker for complicity in the attempt to rescue Anthony Burns, the fugitive slave, an amusing little incident occurred. Mr. Hallett, who was district attorney at the time, drew up the indictment under which Theodore Parker and several others were brought to trial. The indictment proved defective, and Mr. Hallett was greatly irritated at the consequent dismissal of the case by Judge Curtis. As Mr. Parker turned to leave the courtroom, he encountered Mr. Hallett, who said to him in a very gruff voice: "Well, Mr. Parker, you have crept through a knot hole this time!" To which Mr. Parker returned, in a voice much gruffer than Mr. Hallett could possibly make his: "I will knock a bigger hole next time!" It is said that Mr. Parker's ordinary manner was unusually gentle, and his voice almost as soft as a woman's. No man was better able than he to encounter and put down the arrogance of those engaged in the slavery propaganda of that day when an opportunity offered.—Youth's Companion.

He Knew His Lung.

An eminent Scotch surgeon and professor in the University of Edinburgh was entirely devoted to his profession. A quaint incident in his practice will show this. The poet Tennyson had at one time consulted him about some affection of the lungs. Years afterward he returned on the same errand. On being announced he was nettled to observe that Mr. Syme had neither any recollection of his face nor still more galling, acquaintance with his name. Tennyson thereupon mentioned the fact of his former visit. Still Syme failed to remember him. But when the professor put his ear to the poet's chest and heard the peculiar sound which the old ailment had made chronic he at once exclaimed: "Ah, I remember you now! I know you by your lung." Can you imagine a greater humiliation for a poet than to be known, not by his lyre, but by his lung?—Montreal Star.

A Successful Lecture.

All lecturers like to have their efforts appreciated, and some want all the world to realize how great was the satisfaction of their audience. The American tells of an instance where this inclination showed the lecturer in an amusing light.

Brown—I say, James, the boy from the newspaper office has called for the report of that lecture. Is it finished?

James (a novice)—All but a short sentence in the middle of it; and I can't for the life of me make out from my notes what it is.

"Oh, just put in 'Great applause,' and let it go."

James acts on the suggestion, and the lecture is sent for publication with the doctored part reading:

"Friends, I will detain you but a few moments longer." [Great applause.]—Youth's Companion.

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Head of the Church Will Be Known as the "Primate."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 12.—The chairman at the opening session of the Episcopal convention Thursday morning announced the appointment of various committees.

Buchanan Winthrop was elected treasurer. The sum of $400 was voted to the presiding bishop. The salary of the house of bishops was fixed at $500 for the first year $300 for each subsequent year. The salary of the secretary of the house of deputies was fixed at $1,200 for the first and $500 for each subsequent year.

The house refused to strike out section 3 of the revision committee's report, thus fixing the title of him who may be chosen as head of the church by reason of seniority as "primate." The house refused to concur in that clause of the revision which reduces the representation in the house of deputies from four clergymen and four deputies to three of each.

The house adopted resolutions of sympathy with the Armenians, and requesting the authorities of the Church of England to take such action as will fitly commend the cause of the Armenian church to the whole English speaking world.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 14.—It was after 10 o'clock before the house of deputies was open for business. The chair announced several special committees, after which the house proceeded to routine business.

Dr. Jones, of Pennsylvania, offered a resolution, which was referred to the committee on unfinished business, that the convention for 1895 adjourn on Friday, October 18.

Dr. Fairbanks, of Florida, offered an amendment providing for four instead of three delegates from all dioceses in the house of deputies as recommended by the house of bishops. Adopted.

Both houses spent the day upon the revised constitution. A resolution was submitted calling for a full report from the commission on revision on Monday, and which brought out the statement from Dean Hoffman, the spokesman of the commission on the floor, that the body did not expect to have a constitution adopted at this convention.

Section 1 of article 2 was adopted, providing that future conventions shall assemble on the first Wednesday of every October of every third year at a place to be fixed by the preceding convention, such convention, however, being given the right in the exercise of its discretion to fix a different time than that of the constitution.

The upper house sent down the report of the committee of conference concerning the place of holding the next convention, and recommending that Washington, D. C., be selected. The house concurred by a unanimous vote.

The bishops followed the example of the lower house by laying on the table the solemn declaration of faith which served as a preface to the revised constitution. Concurrence was voted with the house of deputies in creating northern Michigan a new diocese under the name of Marquette. In opposition to the report of a special committee it was also decided to elect a second bishop for Japan with the designation of bishop of Kyoto.

At 8 o'clock the two houses again assembled as the general missionary board for a further consideration of the Alaskan question. The pending business of the session was the resolution of Bishop Gilbert, of Minnesota, that the house of bishops be requested to choose a bishop of Alaska. The resolution was adopted.

ARMES RELEASED.

His Arrest Characterized as Unlawful and Tyrannical.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Judge Bradley, of the district supreme court, Thursday ordered the discharge from custody of Capt. George A. Armes, who was arrested on the order of Lieut. Gen. Schofield, just prior to the latter's retirement from command of the army, for having written him an insulting letter. Judge Bradley scored the action of the late general of the army, characterizing it as unlawful, tyrannical and capricious.

In discharging Capt. Armes, whose arrest and confinement Gen. Schofield had ordered by virtue of his position as acting secretary of war, Judge Bradley said: "The arrest and taking away of Armes into custody, carrying him away from his home to barracks and holding him in close arrest without any antecedent charge of crime preferred in any way against him, was and is unjust, unlawful, arbitrary, tyrannical and capricious on the part of Gen. Schofield in whatever capacity he acted, whether acting as lieutenant general or acting secretary of war. The petitioner is discharged."

The grain crop of the United States is immense. In one year 2,500,000 bushels of wheat, 750,000,000 of oats, 33,000,000 of rye, and 70,000,000 of barley have been raised. No other country in the world has ever in one year produced in the aggregate such an immense quantity of grain.

The house of George Hull, of Hamburg, was partly blown up with dynamite last Friday night. The family were all badly stunned, one boy being severely hurt and the whole house damaged. Hull has no suspicion as to the offender and knows no motive. As he is regarded as rather close, he has some enemies. The case has been placed in the hands of detectives.

Frank J. Dean and his dramatic company are holding down the boards at the Opera House this week. The company is composed of ladies and gentlemen of acknowledged ability, making the strongest repertoire company on the road, and it deserves liberal patronage. The company also contains some of the best dancers and finest singers. All those who attended their performances so far this week are loud in their praise. Don't fail to attend the balance of the week.

The expensive and cumbersome system of canvassing the vote of the counties at general elections will be done away with in 1896, when it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors to elect a canvassing board of three, not necessarily from the membership of the boards. The law provides that $4 per day shall be the limit of the compensation of members of the board, and that the returning sheets be sent to the county clerk by registered mail or delivered in person without delay. The new law will save time and money.

Don't dodge a bicycle rider, either male or female. Stand still and the rider will get along all right. Posts, trees, stones, etc., never dodge, and only beginners ever run into them. If you see a "bike" coming straight at you, don't dodge; if you do you will confuse the rider. If you stand still in the middle of the road, or wherever you happen to be, the rider will take care to give you plenty of room; but if you go dodging to get out of the way, the chances are there will be a collision and you will be the worse hurt of the two. Therefore, don't dodge.

The woman on the wheel is provoking a good deal of discussion among the medical writers. Some of them contend that she is certain to be injured by such exercise, but the prevailing opinion seems to be that she will derive benefit from it. One of them calls attention particularly to the fact that women are not by nature weaker than men, but that they dress with such disregard of natural laws that their strength is impaired, and the bicycle forces them to correct this fault by adopting a costume that is calculated to promote health and general vigor.

From the present prospects it is very likely that the number of students in the University of Michigan will this year reach, if not pass, the 3,000 mark. There will be a great many faculty changes this year, chief among which will be those in the homeopathic department. Dr. R. S. Copeland will be one of the members of this department. He graduated from the university in 1889. The law department will be under the charge of Prof. Harry B. Hutchins, recently from Cornell. A new department, that of engineering, has been added to the university, and will be under the direction of Prof. Charles A. Greene.

Village Taxes.

There is a misunderstanding throughout the state relative to the collection of village taxes under the new village incorporation act, and the following brief explanation may be of value to those interested. The new act—Act No. 3 of 1895—provides for the return of village taxes to the county treasurers "in the same manner and with like effect as returns by township treasurers." This return must be made "within one week after the time to which said warrant may have been recorded or extended."

As the limit of the warrant cannot be later than the third Monday of October and may be several weeks earlier, there have been numerous calls for the construction of the act so far as it relates to the return of delinquent taxes on lands. The act is clear enough as to the time of the return to the county treasurer, but the course to be pursued thereafter is not defined except that "the taxes thus returned shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes returned to such county treasurer are collected under the provisions of the general tax laws of the state, and the same rate of interest and amount of charges shall be collected thereon."

The auditor-general and attorney-general argue that the evident intent of the act is shown by the words last quoted, although a subsequent section appears to conflict with this view, as it provides that "descriptions returned shall be 'bid to the village.'" In a letter of instructions, signed by the auditor-general and indorsed by the attorney-general, county treasurers are advised that "after village taxes have been returned to the county treasurer, and before sale thereof, they may be paid to the county treasurer. A four per cent collection fee will be added, and if not paid before March 1, after they are returned, interest is to be added from that date at 8 per cent per annum."

County treasurers are instructed to return a transcript of lands returned for village taxes with their transcript of land returned to township treasurers. This leaves an interim of about six months, during which village taxes can only be paid to the county treasurer, but after they are returned to the auditor-general they may be paid to either office. If not paid the lands will be sold at the same time and in the same manner as lands returned for other taxes, and if not purchased by individuals will be bid to the state. The section of the village incorporation act which provides that they be bid to the village is held to be in conflict with the other provisions of the act.

It will be seen that while the village treasurer's return is made not later than the last of October, interest can not be charged on delinquent village taxes if paid before March 1 following. Blanks for the assessment and return of village taxes have been prepared by the auditor-general and will be furnished to village officers through the county treasurers—Livingston Democrat.

COTTON is being rushed to market in South Georgia to get the benefit of the present prices, and the compress at Thomasville is being worked night and day to get the staple ready for shipment.

MISS MARY R. HARRIS, of Warner, N. H., has one of the largest and most valuable collections of autographs in the United States. There are over 1,000 in all, including all the Presidents of the United States.

It has been asserted on trustworthy authority that 35,000 persons die annually in the United States from typhoid fever alone. This is equivalent to one in each 2,000 of estimated population. The great majority of these lives could be saved by proper attention to the water supply of cities.

EUSTACE C. FITZ, who recently died in Boston, left an estate of $750,000, of which $5,000 each goes to Brown university and Colby university and $10,000 each to Wellesley college, American Baptist Missionary union, Boston, and the American Baptist Home Missionary society, New York.

The defalcations on the part of men and boys occupying positions of trust in 1894 in this country amounted, according to the reports of the fidelity insurance companies, to $85,000,000, and this is said to have been an increase of about $7,000,000 over the aggregate defalcations of the year before.

A DRY GOODS firm in New York recently applied at the sub-treasury in that city for $5,000 in pennies. The call was promptly met by the treasury officials, the pennies placed in bags, each containing 5,000, and it took 100 bags of pennies to meet the order. The total weight was one and one-half tons.

THE "girdle worm" has made its appearance in Chautauqua county, Kan. It first deposits its eggs in the sap of the branches, and later girdles them so that the wind breaks them and they fall. Then the eggs hatch, and the young find refuge in the earth until the following spring, when they climb the tree and do business again.

The general convention of the Episcopal church in Minneapolis developed the fact that, excepting the Lutherans, recruited principally by immigration, and the Disciples of Christ, the Episcopalian communicants in this country between the years 1880 and 1890 increased at a greater ratio than any other Protestant denomination.

It will cost $5,703,579 to maintain the public schools of New York city in 1896. Of this amount $3,733,327 is for salaries of teachers in grammar and primary schools. The kindergartens will be continued. For the enforced attendance of chronic truants and the maintenance of truancy schools the sum of $25,600 will be expended.

A MONSTER radial drill for the United States arsenal at Watertown has just been completed at a machine shop in Holyoke. It is the largest ever made in this country and it weighs twenty-two tons, but so carefully are the bearings made that the arm, which weighs seven tons, can be moved about by the pressure of a man's little finger.

SAN FRANCISCO declares that it will soon have the largest store in the world. A big department store to be called the Emporium is now being built there which will cover 6,000 feet more space than the noted Bon Marche in Paris. It is to contain, besides the multitudinous departments found in the big stores of most cities, a cycling school, a barber shop, a bank and a candy factory.

It is estimated that there are at present 1,500 cases of typhoid fever in Chicago, of which nearly 400 are in the hospitals. Analyses by the city bacteriologist have proved that the water supply from the Hyde Park and Lake View pumping stations contains germs of the disease. The health board attributes the outbreak to the improper dumping of garbage, and has taken steps to correct the evil.

ONE of the curiosities of the cable code method of sending information is shown in a recent message announcing the loss by fire of a ship at sea. The message was conveyed in three words of Scott's cable code: "Smouldered, hurrah! hallelujah!" "Smouldered" stands for "the ship has been destroyed by fire," "hurrah" for "crew saved by boats," and "hallelujah" for "all hands saved—infirm wives and sweethearts."

THE homes of few of the world's great men have been as carefully preserved as Goethe's at Weimar. Nothing has been disturbed, and in his sleeping room, where he died, the same spread covers the bed, and his drinking cup, sponge and wash basin are in the same position in which he left them. The old man who once in the poet's lifetime repaired his coach still visits it periodically to see if it needs attention.

SOUND CURRENCY.

Secretary Carlisle Tells What Is Needed to Insure It.

Government Demand Notes Must Be Retired—Says the Administration's Policy of Redemption Will Continue—Address at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 14.—The meeting of the Massachusetts Reform club at the Vendome Saturday night was an ovation to Secretary Carlisle and his speech on the finances of the government under the present administration was listened to with great interest. Secretary Carlisle spoke, in part, as follows:

"One of the most important questions people have now to consider is whether they can afford to adhere longer to a system which periodically augments the public debt for the purpose of securing gold to be exchanged for notes, which when redeemed are not retired and canceled, but are reissued and put in circulation to be over and over again presented for redemption. So far as the merits of this single question are affected it is immaterial whether our standard value is to be gold or silver, because the coin for redemption purposes, whether it be gold coin or silver coin, must be provided by the government, and it can be procured only by the sale of bonds. And we continue to maintain the gold standard of value or debase our currency to the silver standard the obligation of the government to redeem its notes in coin on presentation will remain, and, consequently, the question whether the notes when redeemed shall be retired and canceled, or reissued, is one which cannot be avoided or settled by a change in our coinage laws. It must be settled by legislation in another direction.

"When bonds are sold in our market, experience has shown that a large part of the gold to pay for them is taken from the treasury reserve in the first instance, or withdrawn in a short time after the bonds have been paid for and delivered. A regular banking institution can easily provide a proper reserve and can easily replenish it when reduced; but the treasury department can do none of these things. "My contention is that the notes ought to be kept outstanding, but should be retired and canceled as speedily as sound and safe currency can be provided to take their places. There can be no financial repose in this country as long as these notes continue a part of our currency, because the fact that they exist compels the government to provide a large gold reserve which, in the very nature of things, cannot be permanently maintained by any fixed amount; and whenever it begins to diminish, distrust and apprehension arise in the public mind, values are unsettled, business is disturbed, and more or less loss is entailed upon the people. The losses already sustained on this account are almost beyond computation, and there is no good reason to believe that the country can escape further injury in the future if the policy of the government is unchanged in this respect. The fact that the soundness of our currency depends, or is supposed to depend, upon the maintenance of a certain fixed reserve in the treasury, which keeps the business of the country in an almost constant state of agitation and alarm, is from every point of view detrimental to the interests of the people.

"My only purpose now is to assist in directing public attention to the subject, and to express the decided opinion that this element of weakness must be eliminated from our system before we can have any positive assurance of permanent safety. After the experience of the last three years, it seems almost incredible that a proposition to retire these notes should encounter opposition, though there is, of course, room for wide difference of opinion as to the manner in which it shall be accomplished and as to the character of the currency that shall be substituted for them. "The responsibility is upon the people and their representatives in congress to determine whether the public debt shall be increased from time to time in order to redeem and reissue this paper, which, to say the least, is of doubtful constitutionality, and is no more convenient for use than other forms of currency. The executive authorities must obey the laws as they stand, whether they be good or bad, but all the powers conferred upon them by the statutes will be faithfully and fearlessly exercised whenever necessary for the preservation of the public credit and the maintenance of a sound and stable currency for the use of the people in the transaction of their business. "If our financial and currency conditions are such that these results cannot be accomplished without increasing the public debt let the system be changed, but it is scarcely fair to impose unpleasant duties upon us, and then criticize us for discharging them in the only way they can be discharged. "There is more than one way in which an adequate and safe currency can be secured for the use of the people without obstructing the powers of the government, or subjecting its credit to the vicissitudes of either legitimate trade or reckless speculation, and I most sincerely hope the subject will receive the careful consideration of all who feel an interest in the adoption of a sound policy, and that a plan may be formulated which will meet the approval of congress. "In the meantime the government will continue to redeem its obligations on presentation according to the requirements of the existing laws and public policy. Those who want gold will get it, and those who want silver will get it. The parity of the two metals will be maintained, and the whole volume of our currency, paper and coin alike, will be kept equal to the highest standard recognized by the commercial nations of the world."

FOUR DROWNED.

A Yawl Boat Capsizes on the Patapsco River in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 14.—A ferryman's yawlboat in which six persons were crossing the eastern branch of the Patapsco river Sunday was capsized and four of its occupants were drowned. The accident was witnessed by hundreds of people who lined either side of Spring gardens, and several boats immediately put off to the rescue. One of the unfortunates was found clinging to the overturned boat, and another had managed to keep himself afloat by the aid of an oar. The other four had sunk. The bodies were recovered.

SENTENCE CUT DOWN.

Ex-State Treasurer Taylor Will Have to Serve But Two Years.

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 14.—The supreme court handed down its decision Saturday morning in the writ of error in the case of ex-State Treasurer Taylor. The supreme court modifies the decision of the lower court and reduces the term of imprisonment to two years. The sentence begins August 14.

OLNEY'S NOTICE TO SPAIN.

Depriving Williams of Diplomatic Powers Violates Our Treaty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A special to the World from Washington says the recent excited dispatches from Madrid are explained by facts revealed in Washington. What this government has done has been to formally notify the Spanish government that action recently taken by it in Havana is in violation of the treaty rights of this country, and that for any damage to American citizens or American dignity arising therefrom Spain will be held responsible. The circumstances are as follows:

Since Consul General Williams compelled Capt. Gen. Calleja, while governor general of Cuba, to recognize the treaty of 1877 in the case of Julio Sanguilly, and by so doing prevented the trial of the latter by a military court in Havana last February, the Spanish government has been restive over the question of Mr. Williams' diplomatic authority. Senor Canovas, the Spanish prime minister, after the subject was fully considered at a meeting of the Spanish ministry at which he presided, decided to deprive Mr. Williams of all diplomatic authority and confine him strictly to the purely commercial or consular privileges of his office. Accordingly the Spanish minister of the colonies instructed Gen. Campos to inform Mr. Williams that henceforth he would not be recognized as possessing any authority to transact business with the governor general of Cuba upon other than commercial matters. Gen. Campos sent for Mr. Williams recently and communicated to him the instruction from Spain.

Secretary Olney straightway prepared a state paper in which he disagreed entirely with the conclusion of the Spanish minister. The action of the latter was based on the consular treaty existing between Spain and the United States. From this treaty, signed in 1879, consular officers did not receive authority to cover any diplomatic questions. The treaty with Spain, however, specifies that United States consular officers shall have all the rights and privileges of "the most favored nation." This affords the basis for Secretary Olney's demand. The German government has a consular treaty with Spain in which consuls and consul generals may act as diplomats if circumstances demand.

Secretary Olney informs Senor Canovas that the United States demands that his government concede the same privileges to the United States consul general that are given to the consul general of Germany. The language of Secretary Olney's dispatch is said to be peremptory. Should an American citizen be arrested at Havana and subjected to trial by court martial, or should any case arise that calls for prompt action by the consul general, the refusal of the local government to recognize him might lead to disastrous results.

LEAPS INTO NIAGARA FALLS.

Veteran of the Rebellion Ends His Life in a Tragic Manner.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Saturday, in full view of a dozen or more people, Lebbins B. King, a Lockport painter, deliberately took off his overcoat, mounted the rail of Goat Island bridge, about 300 feet above the American falls, and deliberately turned a somersault backward into the rushing torrent, which at that point is the deepest and most furious of any part of the rapids. He struck on his back and floated downward in that position, and a few seconds later, before the eyes of the horror-stricken spectators, was swept over the brink. He was about 53 years old, a veteran of the late war, married and had two children. He is supposed to have been mentally unbalanced. The body has not been recovered. He left a note in his overcoat pocket saying: "Everybody has been kind to me."

DEATH BY FIRE.

Blazing Prairies in Manitoba Destroy Several Lives.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 14.—There was loss of life and great damage to property Saturday night in the Winnipeg district by prairie fires. The fire started about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and spread with cyclonic rapidity, destroying hay stacks and dwellings. At Elm Creek station Foreman Thomas Hannah and Ed Luby, well-known young men, were burned to death while fighting the flames. At St. Vital Arthur St. Germain, aged 12, was burned to a crisp and his brother fatally injured while endeavoring to save hay stacks on their father's farm. At Headingly D. Tait, a young farmer, was caught by the flames while driving home and badly burned. Other fatalities will doubtless be reported. Telegraphic communication is interrupted by the fire.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 14.—The official cholera returns for the two weeks ended September 28 show that there were 4,249 new cases and 1,702 deaths in the government of Volhynia, 57 new cases and 21 deaths in the Berditcheff district, and 37 new cases and 18 deaths in the government of Podolia.

CUBAN CITY BLOWN UP.

Baracoa Said to Have Been Destroyed by the Insurgents.

HAVANA, Oct. 14.—It is reported in this city with a persistence which indicates reliability that the sea coast town of Baracoa has been blown up by Cuban rebels. A number of the residents are said to have been killed outright and many fatally injured, but the numbers are not known.

HIS CAREER ENDS.

Death at Washington of Gen. William Mahone, of Virginia.

He Was a Picturesque Figure at the Capital, and a Stubborn Fighter Both as a Confederate General and United States Senator.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Gen. William Mahone died at Chamberlin's hotel at 1 o'clock Tuesday from the effects of a paralytic stroke sustained last Monday, September 30. He had been totally unconscious for more than forty-eight hours previous to death and passed away seemingly without pain. Mrs. Mahone, Butler and William Mahone,

EX-SENATOR WILLIAM MAHONE.

Jr., his sons; Mrs. O. M. McGill, his daughter; L. L. Manry, of Southampton county, Va., a nephew, and Capt. Rogers, secretary of Virginia state republican committee and former secretary to Gen. Mahone, were at the bedside when the end came.

Sketch of His Life.

The country will long remember Gen. William Mahone as one of the most picturesque figures and characters in public life during the last thirty years. Exceptionally slight in stature and frame, he has been a marked man in great assemblies. His peculiar style of dress, and especially his hat, attracted attention to him. This broad-brimmed, soft-felt headgear seemed out of proportion to the tiny form beneath it. But beneath this shade sparkled a pair of the keenest eyes ever possessed by man.

Gen. Mahone marks an epoch in the history of the United States since the late war. He has been, during the last quarter of a century, the central figure in Virginia politics, and at one time his slight figure was the nucleus of one of the most violent political storms ever waged in congress. He was in his 60th year. His favorite sobriquet was "Hero of the Crater," won by his wonderful courage in the attack on Petersburg when the federal forces sprung a mine beneath the confederate defense. He fought like a tiger, and later historians give to him almost alone the credit of keeping Petersburg from the union hands by repairing before sunset the shattered confederate lines. He had joined the confederate army at once after the secession, participated in the capture of the Norfolk navy yard in 1861 and commanded the Sixth regiment of Virginia. He was commissioned a brigadier general in March, 1864, and six months later became a major general. At the close of the war he returned to his original work of engineering and became president of the Norfolk and Tennessee railroad.

His Political Career. A spirit of leadership led him into the political arena and he at once assumed a foremost position in the internal affairs of Virginia, which was at that time laden with an enormous debt that soon became the issue of vital importance between the political parties. He was elected to the United States senate in 1879. He was like a firebrand cast into a mass of dry tinder, and from the peculiar attitude that he at once assumed he caused one of the most bitter controversies and stubborn deadlocks ever known in the history of that body.

Mahone at last acted with the republicans and gave them the organization of the senate. His course brought down upon his head the wrath of the democrats, but the republicans received him with open arms and the federal patronage in Virginia was turned over to him. Since that time he has been pre-eminence the republican leader in Virginia. He served in the senate until 1887, when he was defeated. Although he has since resided almost constantly in this city he retained the republican leadership in Virginia and in 1890 was a candidate for governor.

He was best known here of late years by his efforts to secure the purchase by the government, for a printing office site, a square of ground owned by him. The quaint figure of his owner was always seen in the lobbies of both house and senate at the close of every session and he was considered a great power in the third house.

Will Be Exhausted in Five Years.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Oct. 12.—Sailing vessels and revenue cutters from Behring sea report a greater scarcity of seals this season than usual. Around the rookeries where thousands of seals formerly rendezvoused not a seal can be found. Herds in the open sea are greatly diminished likewise, and practical and scientific sealers aver that in five years the seals will be wholly exterminated.

Great Reservoir Bursts.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 12.—A storage reservoir containing 2,500,000 gallons of water and owned by the Lackawanna Iron & Steel company burst Thursday night. It filled the repair yards of the Delaware Lackawanna & Western railroad with wreckage and washed away a portion of Maltes street. A girl was carried a quarter of a mile, but was rescued. Street car traffic was blocked.

Gompers Will Run Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—For the first time in ten years the annual convention of the Federation of Labor will be held in New York this year, beginning on December 12. President McBride will not try for a reelection and there is a strong movement, not alone here but all over the eastern states, to elect ex-President Samuel Gompers. Two hundred delegates will attend the convention, representing over 1,000,000 workers.

ILLINOIS TRADE UNIONISTS.

The State Federation of Labor Elects Officers—Resolutions Adopted.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 12.—There was a great deal of business, including the election of officers, transacted at the third day's session of the annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor. Resolutions were adopted asking a law that convict labor goods shall bear a label reading "convict made." Officers were chosen President Riedler being reelected. East St. Louis was chosen as the next place of meeting. A resolution expressing sympathy with the Cuban revolutionists and demanding that the government recognize them as belligerents was adopted, with a recommendation that all trade unionists work to that end.

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 13.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor adjourned at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. At night a banquet and ball was tendered the visitors by the local committee. It was decided to hold the next convention November 14, after the election.

The Debs matter came up shortly after the convention met, and was followed by a discussion lasting for fully two hours. At Thursday's session Secretary Groves presented a resolution expressing sympathy with Eugene V. Debs, but not indorsing his utterances against trades unions and railway brotherhoods since his incarceration in the Woodstock jail. The resolution committee reported back the resolution without recommendation, and after a long debate a substitute was adopted denying Debs' assertion that the railway brotherhoods had been repudiated by organized labor, and extending to the brotherhoods the approval of the federation. The platform demands the abolition of the land monopoly and calls for a state constitutional convention.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

Congregationalists Define Their Position on Temperance.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 14.—In the national conference of Congregationalists on Saturday the doctrine of the church on temperance was laid down in the following extract from the report of the committee adopted with great enthusiasm:

"Temperance, in the vocabulary of our church, must not mean a mild and lavender moderation or deceptive self-control, but total abstinence."

The committee on the Armenian troubles, reported strong resolutions, which were adopted with a vim. They were to the effect that the time had come when the government of the United States should take such measures, in cooperation with the other great powers, as will not only effectually protect all American subjects, missionaries and others, in Turkish domains, but in the name of common humanity will present a determined protest against these barbarities, and that the United States should give moral support to the movement of European powers to cause these outrages to cease to the extent, if necessary, of the abolition of the Turkish government. A copy of the resolutions will be forwarded to the secretary of state at Washington.

THEATER IN ASHES.

Property Worth $100,000 Destroyed in Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 14.—At 12:15 Sunday morning, an hour after the engagement of Daniel Sully's company had been concluded, there was an explosion in the basement of the Temple opera house, one of the finest theatres in the northwest. In a few minutes the whole interior was a seething mass of flames, which shot 100 feet above the roof as soon as they obtained an outlet. In half an hour the rear wall fell. The building was part of the Masonic temple, but a wall separated them. The doors between were closed and the Masonic temple was saved. However, the beautiful rooms of the Scottish Rite consistory, which were in the upper part of the theater portion, were destroyed, together with the valuable records and library. The insurance on the double building was $110,000 and its value $300,000. The burned portion was valued at $90,000. Nothing but three walls are left.

SOFT GLOVES.

It Is Said They Will Be Used by the Principals in the Big Fight.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 14.—The great athletic exhibition to occur here October 31 in which James J. Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons are to be the principal attraction, is the one absorbing theme of conversation here. Joseph H. Vendig and W. A. Brady are here and have been in conference with the local committees. Both wear a satisfied air. Sheriff Reb Houpt returned from Little Rock Sunday. He says he will do his duty and carry out the provisions of the law. At the conference Sunday evening at which Messrs. Vendig and Brady were present, it was decided that in order to comply strictly with the requirements of the laws of Arkansas to change the articles of agreement from a finish contest to one of a limited number of rounds, the referee being vested with full power to stop the exhibition if in his opinion it becomes brutal. The men will box with soft gloves.

DOWN HILL TO DEATH.

Runaway Car Plunges Over a High Bank—Four Killed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 14.—Three persons were killed outright and ten others injured in a runaway trolley car on the West End electric line jumping the track and going over an embankment at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. The victims are:

KILLED—George Rothman, aged 40, furniture dealer, Carnegie, Pa.; Fred Hesel, aged 35, glass worker, Carnegie, Pa.; unknown woman, about 30 years of age, body taken to morgue.

INJURED—Mrs. Michael Foley, Pittsburgh, had scalp wound and internal injuries, may be dead; Conductor Albert McGuire, aged 35, of Pittsburgh, scalp wound and internal injuries; Fred W. Delid, motorman, aged 30, Pittsburgh, shoulder dislocated; Michael Foley, Pittsburgh, had scalp wound; James Foley, aged 7, son of Michael, slightly injured; Mrs. Leach, son of Michael, slight injuries; Henry Silts, aged Pittsburgh, leg broken; Prof. Alex. Phil. Pittsburgh, right knee lacerated and may have to be amputated; Katie Foley, young girl, slightly bruised; — Baldwin, skull fractured.

The disaster occurred on the Carnegie branch of the West End electric line, and the car left Carnegie at 6:04 o'clock. Just before the city limit is reached there is a sharp curve and hill along the track for about a quarter of a mile. When the car reached this point, the brake rod broke and the motorman lost control. The car dashed down the hill until it reached McCartney street, where there is a sharp curve. Here it jumped the track and turned completely over, landing in a ravine alongside of the road. The car was broken into splinters and the three persons killed were horribly mangled.

Just before the car jumped the track Conductor McGuire yelled at the passengers to all fall down to the bottom of the car. Before they obeyed this order Mrs. Foley dropped her young daughter Katie out of a car window and probably saved the child's life. As soon as he could extricate himself from the wreck Conductor McGuire, who was badly injured himself, rushed to the houses of several residents in the vicinity and secured several axes and other assistance. As soon as possible the city ambulances were called and all care possible rendered the injured passengers.

MINERS PERISH.

Four Are Suffocated in a Colliery Near Story City, Ia.

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., Oct. 14.—Four men were suffocated by gas and smoke in a coal mine 2½ miles from Story City Saturday night at 6 o'clock. The dead are: Albert Peterson, Alexander Eastman, Ine Ingesson and George Payne.

The men were in the mine just at closing time. The engineer had built a big fire in the furnace which hoists the cage and left for his supper. While he was gone the timber adjacent to the furnace caught fire, and the flames reached the cable attached to the cage. When the engineer returned he attempted to hoist the cage with the men, but the cable broke and they fell to the bottom of the shaft. The fall was not over 3 feet and they were uninjured. The mine was filling with smoke from the burning wood, and there was no other mode of egress for them.

George Payne was foreman of the little gang of miners, and they followed him to one of the cells thinking they would bank themselves in and prevent the smoke from entering. The cell was only 100 feet from where the wood was burning, but before they could enter and build up the barricade they were suffocated. The first news of the accident was brought to Story City about 7 o'clock. Immediately a rescuing band was formed, and at the mine they found the panic-stricken friends of the imprisoned men standing at the opening of the shaft, from which dense volumes of smoke were pouring. As soon as the smoke cleared away a cage was rigged up and volunteers went into the mine to learn the fate of the four men. They were found almost in a heap, one body lying across the three others. The indications were that death ensued within a half hour after they entered the cell. Great rocks and chunks of coal had been moved to stop up the passageway that showed how hard the imprisoned men had worked to save their lives.

MURDER OF COREA'S QUEEN.

With Four Others She Is Slain by Japanese—The Bodies Burned.

COREA, Oct. 14.—The palace was broken into Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock by a body of Korean troops and a band of the Japanese soshi in civilian dress. The colonel in command of the troops, on refusing to enter the palace, was killed, and a number of the palace guards were slain. The Japanese entered the queen's room and killed the queen, the minister of the household and three women. The bodies were taken outside and burned. The Japanese troops were at the palace, but took no part in the proceedings.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald has a dispatch from Seoul, the capital of Korea, confirming the reports that the queen was murdered while the Japanese troops were at the palace gates. There is nothing to show, the dispatch adds, that the Japanese minister was aware of the plot. The king is now a prisoner, and his father, the Tai-Won-Tun, the leader of the reactionary element, has been proclaimed dictator.

VOLUME IS BIG.

Trade in Several Branches Surpasses Any Previous Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade says:

"The price barometer gives indications that are not entirely favorable. Cotton goods go up with increasing evidence that the crop of cotton is short. Prices of other manufactured products of wool, hides and leather, all show some decline, a general abatement in all orders being the principal cause. With an immense volume of business, not much exceeded in the largest month of the exceptional year 1902, and with evidence that in several branches the volume has surpassed that of any previous year, there is a growing uncertainty about the near future of industries. Money markets are neither strained nor threatening, foreign exchange no longer raises apprehension, and all fears about the great northern crops are past. There have been few advances in wages of labor within the past month and only a few works have been closed by strikes for an advance.

"The main cause of decreased orders has been repeatedly pointed out by this journal during the past half year. When business began to revive a million traders were in haste to order not only the goods each expected to sell within a given time but enough more to replenish stocks which had been cut down almost to bare shelves by two years of prostration. Thus the buying was much in excess of real consumption within the given time. Also, as prices rose, many hastened to buy in advance of visible needs, hoping that every purchase would mean a gain, while multitudes hurried to get in their orders before competitors could buy as cheaply. Under such conditions buying continued for six months and still continues in cotton goods, which have risen less than the material. But in most manufactured products buying for the same reason can no longer be expected, and the steady and regular consumption is not yet known.

"It is too early for cotton movements to cast much light on the probable yield; port receipts thus far 23 per cent. smaller than last year, do not indicate as small a crop as many fear, in view of the known lateness of picking. Widely circulated advice to hold back cotton have some influence also.

"In woolen manufactures a demand for dress goods and some specialties keeps many fully employed, but most of the works making men's wools, for which new orders are scant, find not enough to keep them running. To pile goods up in advance wholly in the dark as to future foreign competition involves such risk that some concerns may close for a time.

"Failures for the week have included two banks and several concerns of some size, and have been 208 in the United States against 231 last year, and 82 in Canada against 43 last year."

DEMOCRATS WIN.

Those of Indianapolis Elect Their Entire City Ticket.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 10.—The republicans of Indianapolis suffered the heaviest defeat in the history of the city in the municipal election Tuesday. Fairly complete returns at midnight show that Thomas Taggart (dem.), is elected mayor by about 4,000 plurality and the rest of the democratic ticket by about 1,200. Two years ago the republicans carried the city by 2,100, and last year the city went republican by 2,479 on the state ticket. This change of 6,500 in the ticket.

Taggart's plurality is the largest ever received by a candidate for mayor in Indianapolis. About 30,000 votes, 80 per cent. of the total in the city, were cast.

Latest unofficial returns indicate that the republicans have possibly elected seven councilmen out of the twenty-one. While there was some local issues involved in the contest, it has been regarded as a political one.

CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Their Triennial Council Goes Into Session at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The triennial council of the Congregational church, in session here, decided to send a delegation to attend the dedication of the John Robinson memorial church, at Gainsborough, England. Personnel of the various standing committees was announced. Delegates discussed the question of the training of ministers.

The report of the committee on union with the Free Baptists was read by Rev. William H. Ward. The report says that there are two ways in which the union of separate denominations can be made visible in the world. One is by actual corporate union, the other by confederation, each denomination maintaining its separate existence, but meeting and conferring together at stated times for their mutual advantage and the prosecution of their common work. Where corporate union cannot be secured confederation may partly serve the purpose of exhibiting the unity of believers.

That New State.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—In accordance with a resolution introduced by Senator Mills, of Superior, and adopted at the last session of the legislature, Gov. Upham has appointed James Barndon and John T. Murphy, of Superior, and ex-Lieut. Gov. S. S. Field, of Ashland, a committee to confer with the Minnesota committee concerning the proposition to form a new state out of portions of northern Wisconsin and Minnesota with the capital at Superior, Duluth.

"You ask me to marry you, George?" she said, slowly. "Do you know that I am rich?" "Yes." "In my own right?" "Yes." "And that you will have to come to me for money?" "Yes." "Even for a cab fare?" "Yes." "And that you will have to walk in pleasant weather?" "Yes." "And you are willing to marry me and take the chances?" "Yes." "Then I am yours, George, and I hope you may be happy." —Household Words.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

germ-life

The doctors tell us, now-a-days, that disease germs are everywhere; in the air, in the water, in our food, clothes, money; that they get into our bodies, live there, thrive and grow, if they find anything to thrive on.

Consumption is the destruction of lung-tissue by germs where the lung is too weak to conquer them. The remedy is strength—vital force.

Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, means the adjustment of lung strength to overcome germ-life. It is fighting the germ with the odds in our favor. These tiny little drops of fat-food make their way into the system and re-fresh and re-invigorate it. Whether you succeed with it or not depends on how good a start the germs had, and how carefully you can live. The shortest way to health is the patient one. The gain is often slow.

Michigan Crop Report.

Reports at hand form the basis for the following statements: Acres of wheat harvested in 1895, 1,262,307; bushels, 16,782,637; average yield per acre, 13.30.

The acres here given are as shown by the farm statistics of the state taken by supervisors last spring; the average per acre is taken from records kept by threshers, and the total yield is obtained by multiplying the number of acres in each county by the average per acre and footling the products.

The total yield as estimated is 4,065,718 bushels less, and the average per acre 3.56 bushels less, than the crop of 1894. The total yield in 1894 as now compiled from supervisors' returns was 179,234 bushels less, and the average per acre 7-100 more, than estimated by this department in October of that year.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the September report was published is 1,095,469, and in the two months, August-September, 1,798,468. This is 677,606 bushels less than reported marketed in the same months last year.

Oats are estimated to yield 21 bushels per acre; barley, 15.78, and corn 61 bushels of ears. Compared with average crops potatoes are estimated to yield 82 per cent, beans 78 per cent, winter apples 25 per cent, and late peaches 83 per cent. Oats are estimated to yield 7 bushels less, corn 21 bushels more, and potatoes 38 per cent more, than the crops of 1894 as estimated in October, 1894.

The mean temperature of the state for September was 64.2 degrees, an excess of 2.4 degrees compared with the normal, and of 1.5 degrees compared with September, 1894. The mean temperature was above the normal in each of the four sections of the state as follows: Southern four tiers of counties 4.8, central counties 3.8, northern counties 3.2, and upper peninsula 2.7 degrees.

The average rainfall in the state in September was 2.82 inches, a deficiency of 0.18 inches compared with the normal. The rainfall in the southern four tiers of counties amounted to 1.58 inches, which is 0.82 inches less than the normal for this section. There was, compared with the normal, an excess of rainfall in the central and northern counties and upper peninsula, as follows: Central counties 0.79, northern counties 0.78, and upper peninsula 3.44 inches. The rainfall in the upper peninsula was excessive, amounting to 6.31 inches. Compared with the rainfall in September, 1894, there is a deficiency of 0.60 inches in the state, and of more than two inches in the southern four tiers of counties.

WASHINGTON GARDNER, Secretary of State.

Gayeties and Gravities.

Bachelors are going to be mighty lonely in heaven.

A home without children is like a garden without flowers. Soain, in crushing truth to earth in Cuba, forgot to look out for the rebound.

Now it is the bicycle woman who has to wait while her husband completes his toilet.

One of the few sights more mournful than an old woman trying to appear young is a very young man trying to look old.

This world would be a paradise for each of us and a hell for all others if each of us had all he thinks he ought to have.

We have a feeling of warm regard for the bloomer girl, because she doesn't care whether her cap is on straight or not.

Regular examinations for all grades, at Ann Arbor, the third Thursday of August 1895, and the last Thursday of March, 1896.

Regular examination for second and third grades, at Ann Arbor, the third Thursday of October, 1895, and the third Thursday of June, 1896.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, which has outlived and superseded hundreds of similar preparations, is undoubtedly the most fashionable as well as economical hair dressing in the market. By its use the poorest head of hair soon becomes luxuriant and beautiful.

Odd and Ends.

A glass of water should always be taken the first thing in the morning. It exercises a twofold advantage. First of all, when sipped slowly it acts as a stimulant to the excretory organs. Secondly, during sleep a great deal of mucous is secreted by the membrane lining the mouth and other organs of the alimentary canal, and this morning drink removes it. Many a morning headache will be cured if this habit is carefully and systematically carried out.

There are a few things to learn about marketing honey. The first thing necessary is to see that the honey is carefully sorted. Then it should be thoroughly cleaned and put into neat, white crates. Another very important thing is, the crates should be the same all through; that is, the honey should all be just what it appears to be on the face of it. There is a great deal of talk nowadays about low prices and slow sales, but the man who has an honest, clean, first-class article of any kind need not go begging for customers, even in these times.

Human life is held too cheaply when the individual who needs a tonic for his system seeks to cover his wants by purchasing every new mixture that is recommended to him. Remember that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a well-earned reputation of fifty years' standing.

The hump-backed position when riding is gradually dying out in America. There are still a few specimens about, however, but they meet with nothing but contemptuous looks even from brother cyclists, says the Cyclist, London. The foregoing is good; very good in fact, but it might be ever so much better if it were true. As a matter of fact the stooped-over scorchers are still numerous; too, too numerous, and the time when we shall enjoy his entire and permanent absence cannot at present be indicated. We believe, however, that the bicycle stoop so transgresses all the rules of symmetrical art and natural beauty, it must because of its ugliness pass away.
