An Enjoyable Anniversary.

The social given at St. Mary's rectory last Friday was the most delightful social event ever given in Chelsea.

The spacious and beautiful rectory, after the extensive improvements made in it during the summer, was an ideal place in which to hold a reception. The rooms were handsomely decorated, and the exquisite flowers, so artistically arranged in the drawing rooms and about the elegant mantel, elicited the admiration of all.

The entire house was thrown open for the reception of guests, and was crowded by our best people from 7 to 12 o'clock p. m.

An excellent vocal and instrumental program, which was greatly enjoyed by all, was a special feature of the evening's entertainment. The participants were the Misses Burns, Foster, Rose and Margaret Conway, and Messrs. Burg, Eisenman, Ward, Congdon, Freer, Daniel and Martin Conway, and Charles and Gustave Eisele. The songs were very appropriate and excellently rendered. Ex-Congressman Gorman, on behalf of St. Mary's congregation, in a witty and felicitous speech presented to the Rev. Father Considine a handsome sum of money, to which the recipient, who was greatly surprised, returned thanks in a touching and graceful manner. It evidenced the esteem in which the pastor is held after ten years of admirable service with St. Mary's people.

The large dining room was charming with beautifully decorated tables, over which the ladies of the Sodality gracefully presided. A room had been set apart for the smokers, and they appreciated the courtesy. Card playing and other games were indulged in. The social was delightfully informal. Every one seemed at home, and left with happy memories.

Miss Frances Neuburger, on behalf of the Sodality, presented a suitable offering. The donations in money amounted to $125. Father Considine is deeply grateful to all who attended and made the social such a grand and unqualified success.

SCHLATTER DISAPPEARS.

The Famous Healer's Work in Denver—Goes Away Mysteriously.

Denver, Col., Nov. 15.—Quite a sensation was created here by the announcement that Francis Schlatter had mysteriously disappeared. Thursday morning a member of the Fox family, with which family he had been staying, went about eight o'clock to call him for breakfast, but his room was found vacant.

Later in the morning a note from Schlatter was found reading: "Mr. Fox, my mission is finished. The Father takes me away. (Signed) F. Schlatter."

Denver, Col., Nov. 16.—The retreat of Francis Schlatter, the healer, has been well covered. It would seem that where he is so well known he could not move far without being discovered, but this man is not like ordinary men. He has suffered privations in the Arizona deserts so severe that a few days of fasting in the Colorado hills during comparatively mild weather is no hardship. Besides he is so respected by the general public that were he to request seclusion and privacy he would be granted it without a question. Hence he may be at Rooney's ranch near the Garden of the Angels at Morrison, or he may be quietly resting near the city.

All day long people wandered over to the Fox cottage to gaze upon the scene where for 58 days Francis Schlatter stood administering the healing touch. The trains Friday brought in several hundred persons who had not learned before starting upon their long journey that he had mysteriously disappeared during the night of November 13. One woman, who seemed of more than ordinary intelligence, asked to be shown the exact spot where Schlatter had stood. She then climbed over the fence, stood in the place and declared she had faith sufficient to believe that act would be the means of effecting a cure of her bodily ills.

The disappearance of Schlatter was the main topic of conversation all over the city. The federal officers say that the case against the handkerchief fakirs will be dropped and that Schlatter may return for all they care. Few think that he will return and his disciples are divided as to the meaning his last message conveys: "My mission is ended," reads the message, and some think that that ends his earthly career. Others say that he is not far off, and will reveal himself in a few days. Others hold to the more rational conclusion that he has tramped away to avoid the crowds which would undoubtedly have followed him had he gone publicly, and such believe they will hear of him later.

It is an undoubted fact that through all these weeks of excitement many persons have been benefitted, whether their ills were imaginative or not and that a spiritual growth has been manifested in those who sought him out, though many continue to believe that he is a harmless lunatic.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 16.—Gen. F. E. Test, a veteran newspaper man of this city, wrote from Denver Wednesday as follows:

"I have seen strange things to-day. Francis Schlatter is certainly a wonderful man. The crowd of people visiting him is remarkable. Yesterday he treated 2,700 people, to-day about 3,000. The quality of the crowd is what surprises me more than all. It is composed of every class, but what is remarkable in the intelligent people. Practical men are enthusiastic and say there is no doubt of the healer's power, sincerity and goodness.

"While standing in line about 9:45 my friend said: 'There is a man who has just been treated. He couldn't walk without crutches. Now he is walking without them. He is cured.' Sure enough, there he was, with a crowd around him. As soon as we were through we went over to see him. His hand had been disabled by disease and his leg was useless from the same cause. I saw him walk across the street carrying the crutches under his arm. What do you think of that? He is a respectable citizen of Ellsworth, Kan. I saw him again this afternoon. He was standing without crutches, talking to the people.

"All with whom I have talked say they have had relief. Dr. Keithley, of Weeping Water, has dispensed with his speaking trumpet. He does not need it any more. I hardly know how to express an opinion of this strange man. I merely state the facts. When he treats you nothing is said. He simply grasps your right hand, pauses a moment, releases you, and that is all.

"As to my own experience with him, it is this: I have written this letter without glasses. The sensation on leaving him was a slight tremor or quiver. Then the right hand got warm and the left cold. Frigidity sensations soon appeared in the right hand and the old aches and pains went away. As to the other benefits will appear time must determine, but I certainly heard better when he got through with me. I have been using glasses for several years. It is certainly a peculiar experience.

Losses 800,000 Acres.

There are knaves now and then met with who represent certain local bitters and potent stimulants as identical with or possessing properties akin to those of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. WISHES.

I would like to paint a storm-cloud,
With the sunlight glinting through;
Rimmed round with gold and silver,
With a touch of pink and blue;
Or spread upon the canvas,
With an artist's wealth of dyes,
In the anchorage of ether,
All the shipping of the skies.

I wish that I could capture
The perfume of the rose,
Turning it to objects living—
Into any form I chose;
Then seek the realms of beauty
For a model meet to mold;
I would name my fancy—woman,
And the challenge ever hold!

I would like to have the moonbeams,
Metamorphosed into spears,
That the haunting hosts of dreamland,
Whispering fables in our ears,
Might be driven to some cavern,
That their fancies would create,
And forever locked in dungeons
By the frigid force of fate!

I wish that I could analyze
The note of singing birds—
The sweetest pause in silence
That a mortal ear heard;
As the echoes mock around us,
In a trilling, willing song,
Making lighter all the burdens
Of the weary, tolling throng.

I would like to find the tulip,
Buried 'neath the winter snow,
And seek an introduction
From the hand that made it grow;
To coax the mystery of life
From the dormant little elf,
Then, with a knowledge ample,
Make a universe myself!

THE UNTURNED TRUMP.

BY BARNES MACGREGGOR.

HE ferry-boat, "Rappahannock," had an experience in the winter of 1873 that will never be forgotten by any of her passengers.

During one of her regular trips between New York and Brooklyn this boat suddenly quitted her respectable, though somewhat monotonous, career, and became a common tramp, without port or destination.

The day awoke in fog such as the oldest inhabitant had never seen. The East river was blocked with ice and soon became a shrieking bedlam of groping and bewildering craft, whose pilots could scarcely see their hands before their faces.

At half-past nine the "Rappahannock" left Brooklyn, well laden with passengers, and started on her customary trip almost directly across the river—a very short and unusually easy voyage. Before even reaching the middle of the stream, however, the ice and fog had thrown her completely out of her course. Back and forth, up and down stream, the pilot vainly groped, amid the shrieking whistles, ringing of fog bells and loud crash of ice boulders, until, in the confused clangor, he had entirely lost his bearings.

When, after long and perilous battling with ice jams and many hairbreadth escapes from collisions, he suddenly sighted the landing place on the New York side, he found it occupied by a sister boat, which had been driven there to avoid destruction. He backed out, only to be lost again, and for three hours this boat, now become a mere tramp, wandered aimlessly up and down the East river with its load of excited passengers, whose emotions ranged anywhere between the rage and impatience of the belated Wall street speculator, to whom the delay might mean a loss of $50,000, to the hysteria of a nervous little woman who had left her baby alone at home, and who begged the other helpless passengers for the love of heaven to help her set her feet once more on land. Between these two extremes of impatience and excitement was a small proportion of passengers who remained calm, even endeavoring to while away the time by exchanging pleasantries and making wagers as to the time of their deliverance. Among these was a group of men in the cabin who, after having read and reread the morning papers, were casting about for some other method of killing time. One suggested a game of cards.

"Here is a euchre deck which is at your service."

The speaker, evidently a globe-trotter, drew from under the bench a traveling bag, so much worn and embellished by tags, labels and hieroglyphics that it resembled some old veteran just returning from the wars and still covered with surgeons' plasters. From this he produced a pack of cards and tendered it to the man who had suggested the game.

"Certainly, if you will join us; but what shall we do for a table?"

"Here is a camp stool," said the man of the world. And in a moment four men were sitting around it, cutting for deal, which chanced to fall to the stranger.

The cards were distributed rapidly, and the dealer was about to turn the trump when a loud shriek pierced the air and a woman opposite suddenly sank fainting to the floor.

"Don't be alarmed, gentlemen; it is nothing serious," said the dealer, calmly. "The lady simply caught sight of her own frightened face in the mirror and the shock caused her to faint. It reminds me of a thrilling experience an American traveler had while bumping through Syria. But, pardon me, the game!"

Once more he made a movement to turn the trump, when one of the party exclaimed:

"There can't be a better time or place than this for telling a thrilling experience."

"Yes," said another; "do give us some other kind of bumping than we are having here. Let's have the story before we begin the game."

The stranger leaned back, passed his cigar case, and, having lighted a weed himself, began:

"It is an unwritten law among the wild Bedouins east of the Red sea that if an infidel traveler is attended on his journey by one of the faithful he is safe from the attacks of Mohammedan robbers. As long as the 'Frank,' as all foreigners are called, is under the protection of the Star and Crescent, the rascal's hand is stayed, and as they meet, the villain, who would otherwise show no quarter, salutes with the grave suavity of a courtier. But let that same traveler become separated from the Arab guard that he has bribed to give him safe conduct through his own bandit-infested country, and he becomes legitimate prey. He will be plundered and perhaps killed, or, worse, if the robber thinks that cruelty will extort any secrets of hidden spoil, tortured or held for ransom, with each day's delay losing a few fingers, which are forwarded to the captive's friends to signify that the rascals mean business.

"The party in which this American was traveling had been entering Syria from the south, and were progressed some twelve days from the sacred base of old Sinai. At a place called Bir-es-Sheba, on the regular caravan route to and from Mecca from the north, they heard of some interesting archeological treasures just unearthed some two days' journey to the east, and, having made the detour, the party snugly encamped by the side of a beautiful stream under the shadow of the Tubal chain of mountains.

"The treasures were vastly exaggerated, as is the custom with everything oriental, and they soon determined to turn back to the caravan route and 'bump' on up into Syria—'bumping' being the familiar term for camel riding, and a very expressive word at that. But on the afternoon of the first resting-day some one suggested a jaunt to a famous old well, where it was said were some very ancient tumuli. But, knowing the Bedouins to be conscientious liars, and sick of this unrewarded chase for phantom treasures the American begged to be left behind in charge of two tents, which were pitched side by side on the bank of the stream.

"This was at last agreed upon, the whole party except himself going off on their three days' trip, leaving their comrade stretched at full length on a rug, his narghili, or water pipe, lighted for company.

"This oriental atmosphere, gentlemen, is a powerful drug. Do what you will to fight against it, its subtle charm holds you captive. The man succumbed to its influences and went fast asleep.

"Out of this sweet, trance-like repose he suddenly bounded into the horrible consciousness of a torturing pain in one of his hands, as though some wild beast was crunching the bones. But, as he writhed to his knees to grapple with the foe, he saw instead three swarthy, evil-faced Bedouins bending over him with ghoulish glee. One had just cut off with a hideous dirk-knife the first three fingers of his left hand. In an instant it flashed upon him that these were to be sent to his friends with a demand for ransom. He was correct in this supposition, for no sooner had the bleeding hand been rudely bandaged than his two captors set out upon this mission, leaving him in the care of a third, who was heavily armed.

"No one knew better than the prisoner how impossible such a ransom would be. His fellow-travelers had brought as little money into Syria as would meet their actual necessities while there. He, therefore, began to cast desperately about in his mind for a loophole of escape before the fellows should return with these unsatisfactory tidings, which would result, no doubt, in further mutilations.

"As his gaze swept the tent for something suggesting a plan for deliverance, he saw it had been gutted of everything except two articles—his light silk coat, which hung upon the partition between the two tents, and the tourist's shaving mirror which it concealed. The coat had been overlooked because it was as grimy as the tent wall itself.

"In moments like this one grasps at straws. As it is said a drowning person reviews his past experiences perfectly in a brief moment, so to this man, facing desperate odds, came a desperate suggestion.

"He called loudly on a supposed protector in the adjoining tent to come to the 'window,' and prove to his captor that he was under the protection of a Moslem. As he spoke he slowly drew the coat from before the mirror in front of which the sheik was standing.

"No words can express the unutterable consternation pictured upon that blazing face livid with fright and wonder as for the first time it saw its own awful reflection, not knowing it was its own. One instant he stood stock-still, fascinated, horrified, overwhelmed; then collapsed, just as that lady did but a moment ago, and the American quickly possessed himself of his captor's arms and was master of the situation.

"And now, gentlemen," concluded the story teller, "we will have our game."

As he spoke he again reached forward to turn the trump. There was a quickly drawn breath of horror from those who observed him, for the first three fingers of his left hand were missing.

Before he could turn the card a savage lurch of the boat, accompanied by the creaking of timbers, announced the arrival of the Rappahannock at her New York slip—and the trump was never turned.—Black Cat.

THERE WAS A DISTINCTION.

And the Hitherto Moral Young Man Got the Heaviest Sentence.

When Lawyer Charles W. Brooke practiced at the bar in Philadelphia years ago he one day was called upon to defend a man in the United States district court before Justice Cadwallader for counterfeiting. Mr. Brooke's client was a young man who had never before been charged with crime. His companion was a well-known counterfeiter, who had served a term of imprisonment. Both men were convicted. When they were brought to the bar for sentence the old offender was the first to hear the judgment of the court. Justice Cadwallader, who was an old-school gentleman of punctilious politeness, said, in a mild tone: "Mr. Jones, you have been convicted, unfortunately for yourself, of the crime of counterfeiting. Very justly, Mr. Jones, the law prescribes a severe penalty for the offense for which you have so unfortunately been found guilty. It becomes my duty, Mr. Jones, under the law, to pass sentence upon you, and I therefore, under the circumstances and in consideration of your having upon a previous occasion been found guilty of a similar offense, sentence you to the term of 12 years' imprisonment."

Jones stepped back, and Mr. Brooke's client took his place at the bar. "Your honor," said Mr. Brooke, "I would like to call the attention of the court to the fact that this young man has never before been convicted of a crime, and has always, up to the present, borne a most excellent character." "Very good, Mr. Brooke, very good," said the justice. Then to the prisoner: "Young man, you have doubtless heard the remarks that I addressed to your partner in this offense. It is unnecessary that I should, therefore, repeat them to you. It becomes my painful duty to sentence you now, and I will likewise send you to prison for the term of 12 years." "But, your honor," protested Mr. Brooke, "my client has never been convicted before, and has an excellent reputation. There surely should be some distinction between his punishment and that of the other man, who is an old offender." "Ah, that is quite true, Mr. Brooke," said the justice. "I thank you for reminding me of it. There ought to be a difference surely, and there shall be. Mr. Clerk, make the sentence for Jones 16 years instead of 12. Thank you again, Mr. Brooke, for reminding me of what I overlooked."—N. Y. World.

Victims of Exploding Boilers.

Since January 1, 1883, there have been 102 boiler explosions in the state of Michigan, causing 172 deaths and injuring 209 people. This includes the Journal horror in Detroit. The total property loss is given at $266,000, not including the Journal loss, but as the loss has been given in only about one in every ten cases, the actual loss is much larger than this. The figures and facts are furnished by the Detroit Association of Stationary Engineers, and are correct.

Divorce Case Dropped.

In the circuit court at Ionia R. A. Hawley, the complainant's attorney, discontinued the divorce case of Shellenberger vs. Shellenberger. Early in October the defendant, Andrew J. Shellenberger, an Odessa farmer, eloped with the wife of Fred Russell, whose farm joins his. After a trip through the south, occupying about six weeks, the recreant husband tired of the Russell woman and returned to his family and has been forgiven.

Death of Col. White.

Col. Benjamin Waite, who was sentenced to be hanged for participation in the Canadian rebellion of 1837, had his sentence commuted to banishment to Van Diemen's Land, whence he escaped and came to the United States, died in Grand Rapids, aged 82 years. He established the Northwestern Lumberman there in 1872, later moved the publication to Muskegon, and then to Chicago, where he lost control of it, and died penniless.

Deserter Gives Himself Up.

Twelve years ago George Lavolt enlisted in the United States army at Buffalo, and was sent to Fort Davis, on the Mexican border. While drunk he deserted and returned to Michigan. He has been sailing on the lakes most of the time. Recently he gave himself up to the police at Grand Rapids and asked to be sent back to his regiment. Lavolt is less than 40 years old and unmarried.

New Starch Factory.

The plant of the Negaunee brewery will be removed to Duluth, where new buildings are in process of erection. The big buildings in the southern part of Negaunee will be fitted with machinery and turned into a starch factory and distillery. The potato crop of the upper peninsula is very heavy and will furnish material in abundance for the new enterprise.

Swindler Sentenced.

George Shaw, who swindled people by collecting money for the Delineator in Detroit and Kalamazoo, was given the limit under the new law by Judge Peck in the latter city—90 days in the Detroit house of correction.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Michigan Woman's Clubs.

The first annual convention of the Federated Woman's clubs met in Grand Rapids. The reports of the officers show that the state federation had grown during the year from an organization of 51 clubs to 62, and that the work was rapidly progressing. After selecting Detroit as the next place of meeting the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. N. B. Jones, Lansing; vice president, Mrs. Anna E. Palmer, Sarnow; recording secretary, Mrs. Kate E. Ward, Holly; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lucy Banker, Adrian; treasurer, Mrs. Martha E. Root, Bay City; board of directors, Mrs. J. M. Turner, of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Clara H. Raynor, of Adrian, and Mrs. S. L. Smith, of Detroit.

Crop Report.

The average condition of wheat in the state on November 1 was 78, which is 10 per cent. lower than one year ago. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in August, September and October was 2,922,715, or 698,013 bushels less than in the same months last year. The average yield of corn per acre is estimated at 61 bushels. The clover seed crop is less than half the usual acreage, and the yield is about one bushel per acre. The yield per acre of potatoes is estimated at 96 per cent. of an average in the state. Live stock is in usually good condition.

To Mandamus Counties.

The supreme court will be asked for writs of mandamus this week to compel the counties of Chippewa, Muskegon, Alpena and Iron to make provision for paying their indebtedness to the state for delinquent taxes at once, the supervisors at their recent sessions having given no attention to the auditor general's request that the matter be cared for. The counties owe $21,000, $37,000, $36,000 and $8,000 respectively.

Women Cannot Vote.

An investigation reveals the fact that with the beginning of the new year women will be debarred from voting in 48 Michigan cities, the change of a single word in the charter passed last winter for fourth-class cities accomplishing this result. The change was not made intentionally, and members of the commission which drafted the charter are greatly chagrined at the discovery.

Health in Michigan.

During the week ended November 9, reports sent in by 52 observers in various portions of the state indicated that pluriitis increased and remittent fever and dysentery increased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 186 places, typhoid fever at 100, diphtheria at 40, scarlet fever at 35, measles at 6, whooping cough at 8 and smallpox at Detroit and Rochester.

Must Dispose of Her Twins First.

Enos Larkins, the colored man who, with his wife, confessed to having murdered Mrs. Merrill July 5 last, was sentenced at Monroe to life imprisonment at Jackson. Judge Kinne postponed the sentence of Mrs. Larkins. She has twins a few months old. As soon as the question of disposing of them is settled the judge will sentence Mrs. Larkins.

Confess Their Awful Crime.

The murder of Mrs. Merrill at Monroe on July 5 last is about to be avenged. Mr. and Mrs. Enos Larkins, who were charged with the crime, were brought into court under indictment for murder in the first degree and Mrs. Celia Larkins entered a plea of guilty, while Enos Larkins pleaded not guilty, but finally pleaded guilty.

Death of a Banker.

James B. Sturgis, cashier of the National bank of Houghton and prominent in business, political and social circles, died suddenly while at breakfast. He was 50 years of age and a pioneer in the copper district. He had done much to develop the district, and leaves a large fortune to his wife, two sons and a daughter.

This place was struck by a cold wave from the northwest last Tuesday that chased the mercury down to near zero. About four inches of snow fell.

Women have worn their hats punched into so many extraordinary shapes that it seems more or less remarkable that they have never yet conceived the idea of wearing them inside out.

Next Sunday Dr. Thomas Holmes will be seventy-eight years old. In honor of the occasion he has been invited to preach in the Congregational church in the morning. In the evening the pastor will conclude his series of sermons to young women, speaking upon "Faith."

State Superintendent of Public Instruction H. R. Pattengill has originated a plan for a state spelling contest. Each school in the city and country will begin it by a carefully conducted test discovering its best three spellers; a township test is to follow, from which the best two will go to a county seat.

The Alice Raymond Concert Co., which appears at the Opera House next Monday evening, is composed of the following persons: Miss Alice Raymond, the greatest lady cornetist in the world; Miss Charlotte S. Tarrant, Chicago's gifted harpist; Miss Winifred Gale, the captivating young reader; Mr. John Reidy, the popular tenor.

Last Monday night the Chelsea Young Men's Lyceum was organized at the Reading Room by the election of the following officers: President, Andrus Goldy; vice-president, Geo. VanHusan; secretary, Howard Brooks; assistant secretary, Ben Bacon; treasurer, Fred Tomlinson; sergeant-at-arms, Roy Evans. There will be a debate next Monday evening on the question of a third term for President Cleveland. There will be debates and other literary exercises every alternate Monday evening, the other Monday evenings to be filled with short addresses on subjects of interest. Membership is open to members of the Gymnasium and Reading Room.

It speaks exceedingly well for our village that so many of our young men finally locate here. It seems to be an almost established precedent. The latest example of the above is that of N. E. Freer. After a preparatory course in the high schools of Chelsea and Jackson, he entered the law department in the University of Michigan. During his first year in attendance there he was engaged in the law office of Lehman Bros. & Cavanaugh, and during his second year in that of John F. Lawrence. He was admitted to the Bar of the Circuit Court of Washtenaw county, and also to the Bar of the Supreme Court of the State of Michigan. After graduating he entered the employ of the McCormick Harvesting Machine Company as traveling collector. In the fall of 1894 he entered the law office of Hon. Chas. R. Whitman, with whom he remained until a short time before he came here.

To the Teachers of Washtenaw County.

I am glad to announce that a meeting of the Teachers' Association of Washtenaw county will be held in Manchester on Saturday, Nov. 23. Prof. Evan Esvery, the president of the association, has done all in his power to arrange a good program. Papers will be read by Prof. A. D. De Witt, of Dexter; Prof. L. A. McDiarmid, of Chelsea, and Miss Grace Smith, of Saline. Other prominent educators are expected to be present and take part in the discussions.

I cannot urge too strongly upon all teachers the importance of attending the meetings of the association. They will prove of especial value to the teachers in the district schools, who have not the same advantages that teachers in the cities and villages possess. Accordingly, I trust that all district school teachers who can possibly attend will do so. But this must by no means be taken to convey the idea that only district school teachers are invited. On the contrary, all teachers are most earnestly requested to be present and take part in the discussions. Let us have a good, rousing meeting and become better acquainted with our work and with one another. Do not fail to be in Manchester on the 23d.

Yours, for the best interests of the association,

W. W. WEDEMEYER.

A Serious Question.

The question of what to do with the boys who are growing up to be criminals is a serious one. Their lawlessness begins with the stealing of fruit, and then the depredations continue until they maliciously destroy property and commit petty larceny. If the boy is under 10 years of age the law forbids that he be sent to the state industrial school at Lansing, so the young vagabond can commit all the small depredations he pleases and not suffer punishment for the same. These are the hardest cases to deal with. There is much responsibility resting upon the parents in some of these cases, as there has not been proper home training. There is one deterrent that the common council can enforce, and that is to adopt an ordinance prohibiting boys from loitering upon the streets nights. There is no habit like this to lead boys into lawlessness. As late as 10 o'clock at night, and even 11 o'clock, boys can be seen upon the main streets. No boy should be permitted upon the main streets after 8 o'clock unless accompanied by one of his parents.—Courier.

America One Hundred Years Ago.

There was not a public library in the United States.

An old copper mine in Connecticut was used as a prison.

Every gentleman wore a queue and powdered his hair.

There was only one hat factory, and that made cocked hats.

Crockery plates were objected to because they dulled the knives.

A day laborer considered himself well paid with two shillings a day.

A gentleman bowing to a lady always scraped his feet on the ground.

A man who jeered at the preacher or criticised the sermon was fined.

Two stage coaches bore all the travel between New York and Boston.

Virginia contained one-fifth of the whole population of the country.

The whipping post and pillory were still standing in Boston and New York.

Buttons were scarce and expensive, and the trousers were fastened with pegs or laces.

A new arrival in a jail was set upon by his fellow prisoners and robbed of every thing he had.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at F. P. Glazier & Co's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

A Kansas court has ruled that "a man takes her to entertainments occasionally, is legally engaged to marry her." Young men in that state cannot be too careful about paying attentions to their mothers.

The Michigan Central was by force of circumstances the only bidder on carrying the new fast mail through Canada, and the contract was awarded to that road yesterday. Michigan will get much better ser-matters relative to the customs remain to be settled, but no trouble is anticipated in this direction.

What shall be done with the potatoes of northern Michigan is the question of the most importance at the present time to the farmers of that section. Never in the history of that part of the state has such a crop of the tubers been raised, and there is absolutely no sale for them. Many of the farmers put every dollar they had into potatoes and now have them on hand, with no prospect of getting back even a small portion of the money expended.

Did you know that it is unlawful to hunt on a man's property without his permission? Section 2221 of Howell's Statutes is very positive on this point, viz: "The people of the state of Michigan enact, That it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to hunt for game with firearms or dogs or otherwise on any enclosed lands or premises of another in any county of this state without consent of the owner or lessee of such lands or premises." The penalty for violation of the above is not less than $5 nor more than $20 and costs.

"My doctor is a real joker," said a Lansing lady between shuffles at a card party the other evening. "I didn't know until yesterday that my talking bothered him when he was writing prescriptions. He never mentioned it, and I always asked him all sorts of questions while he was writing them out. Yesterday he examined me and set down to write something.
I kept talking. Suddenly he looked up and said: 'How has your stomach been?
Hold out your tongue.' I put out the member and he began to write. He wrote and I held out my tongue, and when he got through he said: 'That will do.'
'But,' said I, 'you haven't looked at it.'
'No,' said he, 'I didn't care to. I only wanted to keep it still while I wrote the prescription.'"

Scientific statisticians distribute the people of this earth and parcel them out among various religions as follows: The total population is placed at 1,500,000,000, giving to Europe 381,200,000; Africa,
127,000,000; Asia, 854,000,000; Australia,
4,732,000; America, 133,300,000; total, 1,500,000,000. The leading religions are represented by the following figures:
Protestant Christians, 300,000,000; Roman Catholic Christians, 195,000,000; Greek
Catholic Christians, 105,000,000; total
Christians, 500,000,000. Jews, 8,000,000;
Mohammedans, 180,000,000; heathens,
812,000,000; total non-Christians, 1,000,
000. Just why all the followers of Brahma, Buddha, Confucius and Zoroaster should be classed as heathens, and every infernal scoundrel in America and Europe as a Christian, is not founded on ethics, morals or profession, but is simply a way we have of putting ourselves on the top shelf and the rest of mankind on the lower shelves, so that we can look down on them to our own self-gratification.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

Any person who takes the paper regularly from the postoffice, whether directed to his name or whether he is a subscriber or not, is responsible for the pay. The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them unclaimed for a prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

The essay will remain the property of the author, but he must publish it within six months.

DIVERS in the lake of Nemi, near Albano, have found at the bottom of the lake, eighty feet from the shore, the pleasure galleys in which the Emperor Tiberius held his orgies. A curious engineering feat is about completed at Superior, Wis., the raising of one of the big grain warehouses of the Globe Elevator Co. clear of its pile foundation and letting it down upon a foundation built of masonry six inches higher than it formerly stood. The work was done by means of forty-eight five-ton jack-screws.

In Philadelphia the manager of a collection company will shortly be tried in the federal court for dunning debtors with circulars inclosed in a black envelope addressed in white letters. The district attorney claims that such envelopes reflect injuriously upon the character of the persons to whom they are sent, and are in violation of the federal statutes.

By the promotion of Thomas O. Selridge to a rear admiralship it happens for the first time in American history that a father and his son are both on the navy lists at the same time as rear admirals. The father, appointed a midshipman in 1818, is a hale and hearty veteran of ninety-four years, while the son graduated from the Naval academy in 1883.

A PARIS dealer in fine shoes for women says that the ladies of Madrid have the smallest feet, while the feet of the Swedes have the best shape. The empress of Austria requires a long, narrow shoe with a high instep. The fourteen-year-old Phil is to be educated, as his father was, at West Point.

The reports from the far northwest are to the effect that the Canadian government is pushing the survey of boundary lines between British possessions and Alaska and is emphasizing the correctness of the survey by establishing forts and depots for military supplies and is policing the territory. The well known British greed for land justifies the conclusion that the surveying chains will be found wonderfully elastic in case any gold mines are found on territory near the boundary and on territory known to belong to the United States.

FRIGHTFUL PLUNGE.

Trolley Car in Cleveland Goes Through an Open Draw.

It Drops 100 Feet Into the Cuyahoga River—Fifteen Bodies Have Been Recovered—Four Persons Are Missing.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—A south-bound Jennings avenue trolley car, packed with men, women and children, plunged through the open draw of the Central viaduct at 8 o'clock Saturday night. It shot into space with the rapidity of a bullet from a gun. For one brief moment it remained poised in the air. Then it turned over on its forward end and plunged headlong 100 feet down into the dark waters of the Cuyahoga river. One wild shriek came from the interior of the car, which was cut off as the car struck the upright piling below. There came a crash of splintering wood and shivering glass and then all was still as the shattered car, with its load of human freight, disappeared beneath the waters of the river.

Up to 6 o'clock Sunday evening 15 bodies had been recovered. This accounts for all but four of the passengers known to have been on the car at the time it made its dreadful plunge. The verified list of the dead and missing is as follows:

THE DEAD—James McLaughlin, baseball player, 77 Trowbridge avenue; Henry W. Mecklenburg, merchant tailor, 53 Mary street; Edward Hoffman, conductor, 121 East End avenue; Mrs. John A. Sauernheimer, 78 Professor street; Miss Bessie Davis, school-teacher in Sackett school, lived at 107 Noyes street; Harry W. Foster, clerk for Root & McBride Co., 51 Mentor avenue; Mrs. Minnie C. Brown, 10 Thurman street; Curt Clemens, pianist, 66 Jennings avenue; Mrs. A. W. Hoffman, 30 years old, 1508 Pearl street; Mrs. Martha Palmer, 44 Grant street; Marie Metgen, 21 years old, domestic, 10 Joseph street; Augusta Sarinski, 207 Central avenue; Gertie Hoffman, three years old, 1508 Pearl street; Louis F. Huletz, mail carrier, 33 years old.

THE MISSING—Lottie Voht, Branch avenue; Miss Martha Sauernheimer, 154 Merchants avenue; B. C. Page, residence unknown; Matthew Gallagher, Hamilton street.

Augustus Rodgers, the motorman in charge of the car, was arrested at his home and brought to the central station, where he was questioned by the coroner and police officials. He stated that Conductor Hoffman gave him the signal to go ahead. Asked as to how the conductor could have given him the "all right" signal, in the face of the fact that the red light signals, showing that the draw was open, were hung on the closed bridge gates, Rodgers replied that Hoffman probably thought that the draw was just closing instead of opening. Rodgers was released after giving bond for $5,000.

The bridge was open to allow the passage of the tug Ben Campbell and her tow, the lumber barge Abram Smith, through the draw. Danger signals were set, and the gates were down. The bridge had swung partly open when the car approached. There was no slackening of the speed until foot passengers on the bridge shouted a warning to the motorman. Then he seemed to make some slight effort to shut off the current, but there was no diminution of speed.

Capt. Charles F. Brenner, in charge of the bridge, saw the peril of the car. He also yelled to the motorman to stop, and at the same time interposed his feeble strength to check its flight by grasping the handrail. He was thrown violently to the bridge railing, and then, before he could realize what had happened, the car had disappeared down into the dark abyss.

The alarm was quickly spread. Battalion Chief Rebbeck, of the fire department, was crossing the bridge at the time of the accident. He sent out a call for ambulances, ordered out the fireboat, and notified the police. Assistance was soon at hand, and the work of rescue begun.

Meanwhile the report of the accident went through the city like wildfire. Hundreds rushed to the scene of disaster, and as the report gained wider circulation the hundreds swelled to thousands, until a great mass of humanity stood on the brink of the river gazing into the awful scene of chaos and confusion. As the dead were taken out and hurriedly conveyed to the morgue the ambulances and wagons were followed by crowds of persons, some curious, others with anxious faces, fearful lest they should identify some loving relative or friend.

A SCORE DROWNED.

Boat Swamped and Twenty Lives Lost in Italy.

Rome, Nov. 18.—A number of passengers from the stranded steamer Solferino, from Genoa and Naples for Rio de Janeiro, which ran ashore near Cetina, attempted to land Sunday in a small boat. The boat was swamped and 20 of its occupants were drowned. The others were rescued. The Solferino has about 1,200 emigrants on board.

Three Drowned.

Clayton, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Three men lost their lives here by drowning in the St. Lawrence. Frank Baker, accompanied by John Kinch and William Keen, left here with a skiff load of provisions for Murray Hill Park, at 6 o'clock Friday evening. Saturday evening the overturned skiff was found at Accident Island with the body of Kinch entangled in the sheet rope. It is supposed that the boat was swamped.

SOVEREIGN IS HEARD.

Annual Address of the Head Officer of the Knights of Labor.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The question of admitting certain delegates to the Knights of Labor assembly whose rights to seats were contested on the ground that under the constitution the proper apportionment had not been observed was disposed of Wednesday afternoon by the admission of Delegate De Leon, of New York assembly district No. 49, and O'Brien, of district assembly No. 30 of Massachusetts. Both of these men are said to be anti-administration delegates, and will aid in the fight to oust the administration now in power in the general assembly. Their admission was a compromise. It appears, however, that the administration people have a very comfortable majority of the votes in the assembly. The report of Grand Master Sovereign was endorsed as read. A synopsis is as follows:

After a lengthy denunciation of the acts of ex-officers of the organization, who, he says, in effect, found nothing too low to stoop to in order to further their own selfish ends and disrupt the order, Mr. Sovereign says:

"To-day, for the first time in many years, our order stands before the world a united whole with an unbroken front, battling for the brotherhood of man and the freedom of labor from the thralldom of greed and the so-called independent movement, which had its origin in selfishness and dishonor, has sunk behind the horizon in the industrial field to be mourned by monopolies of the country who fondly hoped it would crush forever the order of the Knights of Labor."

"Labor is now between the devil and a deep sea, with the devil running down the beach and the tide flowing in. Capital has monopolized the elements of production, and labor is in competition with itself for the right to live, and there can never be exact justice to labor and a final solution to the industrial question while the competitive and wage systems continue to pamper the passions of greed and grind the faces of the poor. A money oligarchy is fast wiping out the last vestige of individual liberty. Construction by judicial authority is already given to law, placing all labor organizations in the category of criminal conspiracies. Misdemeanors of the most trivial character have been raised to felony without sanction of law and used to imprison representatives of labor organizations, and injunctions followed by charges of contempt have been used to condemn labor leaders to the felon's cell without evidence of guilt or trial by jury. The associated banks have declared war on the money of the people, and the whole plutocratic fraternity has invaded the realm of free government and constitutional security. Year by year the laws become more exacting in their application to the poor and more liberal in their application to the corporations and the idle holders of idle capital. Year by year labor grows weaker and more dependent, and the possibilities of resuscitating more doubtful. The industrial masses are fast being reduced to circumstances that overshadow independence and manhood with the struggle for bread and shelter."

Mr. Sovereign expresses the belief that the constitution should be liberalized and that the greatest possible measure of home rule and local self-government compatible with the security of the order should be granted to local, state and district assemblies. Throwing additional safeguards around the test of membership, he says, by strengthening the obligation, and most of the differences and assemblies will pass away.

"I earnestly recommend that this general assembly inaugurate a movement looking to the organization of a national trade assembly composed entirely of farmers and farm laborers. A movement of this kind will enable us to successfully refute the arguments of the emissaries of the capitalistic classes in their efforts to convince the farmers that they have no interests in common with the wageworkers of the towns and cities, and will give to both farmers and wageworkers additional power and prestige."

Mr. Sovereign strongly denounces the organized bankers of the country. He says: "They have boycotted every kind of the people's money they were not forced by law to receive and boycotted every class of citizens their selfish purpose suggested, and at their session recently held at Atlanta, Ga., they turned their batteries against the greenbacks and treasury notes and demanded the destruction of all forms of government money not under their absolute supervision and control, and insisted on their right to issue and supply the people with the currency of the country—a proposition which, if put into effect, will force the industrial masses into absolute slavery to the money lending classes and will enable the associated banks to contract the currency at will, reduce prices, stagnate business, turn labor into the streets, foreclose mortgages and confiscate collaterals, until the liberties of the people are gone forever and labor so reduced in circumstances that organization, agitation and readjustment will be rendered impossible. This is no idle dream and no stretch of imagination."

"After carefully reviewing the wreck and ruin wrought by the money-power and the designs of the sound money clubs which propose bonds and Gating guns for a solution of the labor question, I issued a boycott on the notes of national banks, and if I were to die to-morrow I would declare it the most righteous act of my life. It exposed the unsound money of the sound money advocates, threw plutocracy on the defensive and forced the national banks into a humiliating confession of their profligate acts of bad faith with the people. And now I urge this general assembly to endorse that boycott and give it every possible force of official sanction. The conflict between the working people and the idle holders of idle capital is inevitable. The wealth of the many is gravitating to the few with increasing rapidity, and labor is drifting towards serfdom faster than ever before."

Missionary Work.

Denver, Col., Nov. 15.—The general missionary committee of the M. E. church began its annual session at Trinity church Thursday morning. Fourteen bishops of the M. E. church were present, four only being absent. Three of these are in Africa, China and India respectively. Bishop J. W. Joyce presided. The cash receipts for the year ending October 31, 1895, amounted to $1,174,554; expended for all purposes, $1,237,345. On motion of Bishop Foss, $1,000,000 was appropriated for the total work of the society for the coming year.

HE WROTE "AMERICA."

Rev. Samuel F. Smith, the Famous Author and Poet, Is Dead.

Boston, Nov. 18.—Dr. S. F. Smith, of Newton, the venerable author of "America," died in this city at 4:50 o'clock Saturday afternoon from heart failure. He was in the corridor of the New England depot and was awaiting the leaving of a train when he was seized with a fit. He sank to the floor in a semi-conscious condition and only spoke a few inarticulate words afterward. Gen. A. P. Martin, chairman of the Boston police commission, who had just arrived at the depot on the way to his home in Dorchester, was one of the first to notice Dr. Smith's condition. He did all he could to revive him, while others summoned an emergency hospital ambulance by telephone. Dr. Smith, however, was dead when the ambulance arrived at the hospital. He had evidently expired within five minutes after the attack. He had been very feeble for some time, but was able to appear out as usual.

Samuel Francis Smith was born in Boston on October 21, 1808. He was graduated at Harvard in 1829 and at Andover theological seminary in 1832. He was ordained to the ministry of the Baptist church at Waterville, Me., in 1834, occupied pastorates at Waterville in 1834-'42, and Newton, Mass., in 1842-'54, and was professor of modern languages in Waterville college (now Colby university) while residing in that city. He was editor of the Christian Review in Boston in 1842-'48, and editor of the various publications of the Baptist Missionary Union in 1854-'69. From 1875 to 1889 he visited foreign lands in company with his wife. He was received everywhere with notable tokens of regard. He made a careful tour of nearly all the missionary fields of the world.

His published volumes have been many and his articles for standard reviews without count. He became proficient in 15 languages, from which he absorbed the sentimental spirit of the best poets, as well as prose and literature. Mr. Smith did a large amount of literary work, mainly in the line of hymnology, his most noted composition being the American national hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," which was written when he was a theological student and first sung at a children's celebration in the Park street church, Boston, July 4, 1832. The missionary hymn, "The Morning Light Is Breaking," was written at the same time and place. His collections of original hymns and poetry and poetical translations have been published under the title "Lyric Gems," the "Psalmist," and "Rock of Ages." He also had published a "Life of Rev. Joseph Grafton," "Missionary Sketches," "History of Newton, Mass.," "Rambles in Mission Fields," and contributions to numerous periodicals.

WHY GOLD GOES ABROAD.

Balance of Trade Heavily Against Us—More to Be Shipped.

New York, Nov. 18.—L. Von Hoffman & Co. on Saturday withdrew $1,700,000, which they shipped by the steamer Etruria. Lyons & Co. withdrew $700,000, which was shipped on the Prince Wilhelm II. The shipments of gold last week aggregated $3,257,600. They exerted no weakening influence upon sterling exchange rates, and it is currently believed that an intermittent outward movement of the precious metal will now occur. The two larger shippers last week are known to have made their engagements reluctantly, but were compelled to send the gold to fulfill their mercantile obligations. The street expects that at least as much gold will be shipped this week.

Treasury officials admit that all present indications point to further exports from week to week. They expect that the amount of gold to go out will be comparatively light until after the Christmas holidays. The uncertainty as to the outcome has redirected attention to the condition of the foreign exchanges, and inquiry is again excited as to the cause of the gold exports. Without dwelling upon the interchange of railway securities incidental to the crisis in African mining shares, the gist of the matter is very simple. The American people owe money to Europe. On account of these debts the exports of merchandise are duly credited. If, however, these exports are insufficient in value to meet the requirements, gold must be sent in settlement of the balance.

THIRTEEN FOUND GUILTY.

Italians Who Drove Out Negroes at Spring Valley Must Go to Jail.

Princeton, Ill., Nov. 18.—In the criminal court here Saturday the cases of the men charged with driving the negroes out of Spring Valley during the race war at that place last summer were decided by the jury. Thirteen were found guilty, and will be sentenced to the penitentiary for various terms at the discretion of the court. One man pleaded guilty. He will probably be leniently dealt with.

MORE SLAUGHTER.

Eight Hundred Armenians Ruthlessly Killed at Kharput.

Constantinople, Nov. 18.—About 800 persons were massacred by the Muslims at Kharput, and eight out of 12 missions belonging to the American missionaries, however, escaped. The Mr. Terrell has notified the porte responsible for the lives of the missionaries.

The inhabitants around Kharput are in a state of great distress from hunger, and if the cold weather was to set in suddenly there would be much more suffering and considerable loss of life. From Guram, in the vilayat of Sivas, where the Kurds have been besieging 4,000 Armenians, it is reported that all the Armenians have been massacred.

In the district of Marjin, where there is a large Christian population of Chaldeans and Syrians, a number of villages have been burned to the ground. The people are destitute and suffering from sickness due to exposure and hunger.

It is estimated that 20,000 persons have been massacred since the acceptance by the sultan of the scheme of reform.

Constantinople, Nov. 18.—The London newspapers of November 11, containing the report of the speech made by Lord Salisbury on the occasion of the banquet given by the lord mayor of London, and the papers of November 12, containing comments on the speech, have been forbidden entry into Turkey by orders of the porte.

The American missionaries at Bitlis have telegraphed to the American minister asking him to procure from the porte an escort to take them and their families to Van.

Rome, Nov. 18.—A dispatch received here from Alexandretta, northern Syria, says that a massacre of Christians has occurred in the vicinity of that town and in the presence of 300 Turkish soldiers, who did not render any assistance.

It is added that the European residents of Alexandretta are in danger.

London, Nov. 18.—The Standard publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that official dispatches received during the past two days seem to point to order having been given to cease the massacres. The sultan fears joint European action and regards the concurrent concentration of the fleets of the powers in the Levant as a warning.

ITS BI-CENTENNIAL.

Church Where Washington Worshipped Celebrates Its 200th Anniversary.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—When the chimes in the belfry of Old Christ church pealed forth the hour of morning service Sunday that venerable parish recorded the entrance into the third century of its honored and historic existence. The church where George and Martha Washington worshipped, and where the family of William Penn attended divine services was fittingly decorated for the celebration of its 200th anniversary. The interior of the building has recently been restored and renovated, and the quaint colonial pulpit, towering above the high-backed pews in the body of the church, was draped with the stars and stripes. Behind the pulpit hung on one side a colonial flag, on the other the American emblem of to-day. The semichoral services incident to the occasion were of the most impressive character, and were read by Dr. Charles Ellis Stevens, rector of the church, assisted by several of the clergy. The sermon was preached by Dr. William J. Seabury, of New York.

ANOTHER HORROR.

Detroit Match Factory Burned and Three Lives Lost.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—Another fire, attended with terrible fatalities, occurred about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when the factory of the Improved Match company at Bellevue avenue and Frederick street was burned and three lives lost. The dead are:

Reuben Davis, night foreman, 24 years old; single.

John Wagner, night watchman; an elderly man; married.

Agnes Yettko, 17 years old. After destroying the main building and gutting the smaller one the fire burned itself out. The bodies of Davis and Miss Yettko were recovered, burned beyond recognition. The building, machinery and stock destroyed were valued at $60,000; insured for $60,000.

The Improved Match company is a new concern not in the trust, which was organized by a number of Detroit citizens and filed articles of incorporation last week.

HELD FOR MURDER.

Berry Detectives Sent to Jail to Await Trial for Killing Frank White.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The inquest over the remains of Frank White, who was killed Thursday night by detectives from Berry's agency, while assisting his brother Clarence to get out of town, was reopened by the coroner Saturday afternoon. The jury sat during the entire afternoon, and at the close of its session returned a verdict holding to the grand jury without bail for murder seven of the Berry men, and as accessories to murder Charles A. MacDonald, superintendent of the agency. Superintendent MacDonald was not present at the murder, but is held for sending his men to do murder.

European Powers May Find It Necessary to Discipline the Turk—Stories of Massacres Still Come—An Armenian Uprising.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from its correspondent in Constantinople says that all of the Christian and Armenian teachers between Erzeroum and Trebizonde have been massacred. It also states that the revolt in Zeitoun is spreading fast and that no Turkish reinforcements have yet arrived there.

London, Nov. 14.—The Daily News prints a letter from an European in Erzeroum, dated November 1, detailing the slaughter there. He estimates the number of victims at nearly 1,000, including some women, and records seeing bodies that had been skinned or otherwise mutilated. The villages in the vicinity, he says, suffered awfully. The massacre was evidently prearranged. A soldier, whom the writer knows, declares that orders for the slaughter were given by the porte.

A dispatch to the Standard from Constantinople says that every day brings news of fresh massacres. It is quite clear if the powers waste additional time in negotiations the need of these negotiations will be passed.

Constantinople, Nov. 14.—In reply to an inquiry from United States Minister Terrell regarding the situation of the missionaries at Harpoot, Commissioner Barnham has replied that while they are alive and well, their position is one of extreme danger.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—Five Russian war ships have been ordered to start immediately for the Mediterranean in view of the proposed naval demonstration there arising out of the Armenian question.

Athens, Nov. 15.—It is reported here that Greece has requested the powers which are acting conjointly in the Turkish matter to allow her to join in any naval manifestation that may be made against Turkey. The request is made on the ground that the large number of Greeks residing in Turkey should be protected by their own government.

Vienna, Nov. 15.—The Fremdenblatt publishes official confirmation of the statement that upon Austria's initiative negotiations are passing between the powers with the object of forming an agreement that no single power shall undertake anything in the east independent of the others, and that all steps shall be taken jointly after previous agreement. The Austrian government is preparing to send several war ships to the Levant.

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—The sultan apparently has not tired of snubbing Great Britain. Quite recently he decorated Bahri Pasha, who had been removed from a governorship at the instance of the British ambassador, Sir Philip Currie, for ill-treating Armenians, and it was said that he was to be appointed to the command of the Turkish troops operating against Zeitoun, where the Armenians have seized the barracks and strategic positions after capturing a battalion of Turkish troops. It is now announced that three prison officials of Moosh, who were dismissed some time ago upon the demand of the British ambassador, owing to their maltreatment of prisoners, have been reinstated. The British charge d'affaires, Hon. Michael Herbert, has demanded of the porte that the three prison officials be again dismissed.

London, Nov. 16.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that the police and gendarmes, acting under orders from the porte, are arresting every unemployed Armenian in the capital and shipping them daily to Asia Minor. The Armenians arrested are mostly innocent, and are not charged with any wrong doing.

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—Official dispatches received here contain additional accounts of Armenian lawlessness. It is reported that the Armenians have attacked the villages of Forak, Itehl and Brenansis near Zeitoun, firing 57 houses in all. They also burned the village of Kurbel and one Mohammedan was burned alive. Eighteen Muslims of both sexes were killed and 15 wounded by the rioters at Shoukourhisar. The town of Tehoukourhisar was totally destroyed by the rioters. Several Mussulmans villages have been sacked in the Azirion and Tehoukourhisar districts.

FACTS ABOUT FARMS.

Secretary of Agriculture Morton Makes His Annual Report.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Secretary Morton's third annual report is a briefer document than the two which preceded it. It discusses the work of the several bureaus of the department, asserting that expenditures have been reduced in some of them for the sake of economy and increased in others for the sake of efficiency. Much of the matter of the report has been anticipated in publications from time to time during the fiscal year and since its close. The more important information and recommendations not heretofore made public are summarized.

Over 1,360,000 animals, cattle and sheep, were inspected for foreign markets, of which 675,000 were shipped abroad. Over 45,000,000 pounds of pork was inspected microscopically and exported, against 35,000,000 in 1894 and 23,000,000 pounds in 1893. Of the amount exported last year nearly 25,000,000 pounds went to Germany and over 9,000,000 pounds went to France. The secretary says on the subject: "The protection of domestic health will be much improved when each purchaser of meats demands and insists upon that which has been governmentally inspected and certified."

Speaking of the export trade in dairy products of the United States, the report points out the fact that in cheese the United States, while a large shipper to British markets, holds the conspicuously unflattering place in the extreme rear as to quality and price, and as the only one of the competitors for this trade whose business shows a serious falling off. This he attributes to the deterioration in the quality of American cheeses by adulteration with oleo and other ingredients. In butter the United States is out of the race, supplying less than one per cent. of the British demand for foreign butters, notwithstanding the fact that Great Britain imported in eight months $46,000,000 worth of butter.

The work of the weather bureau for the year cost $78,433, and owing to reduced expenditures, which were accompanied by increased efficiency, $55,000 will ultimately be covered into the treasury from the amount appropriated. It is claimed that the warnings of cold waves alone secured from freezing more than $2,275,000 worth of perishable agricultural products which otherwise would have been lost.

Speaking of the work of the division of chemistry, Secretary Morton makes the following vigorous protest: "The people are frequently misled by perverted references to the analysis of this division of adulterated products of food, adulterations or other official work. In the hundreds of advertisements that have been noticed in which the work of this division has been referred to, there is scarcely a single case in which the facts were accurately set forth as officially published. There is therefore just reason for complaint. It seems to the secretary of agriculture that there should be some method adopted by means of which advertising misrepresentations of official analysis, intended originally to protect the people, could be prevented."

Improved road construction is progressing in many of the states, notably in Massachusetts, New Jersey, North Carolina and Kentucky. More than half the states have passed new road laws within the last year, and there is a general effort to ascertain the best methods of developing the county roads, for using the county prisoners or state convicts for this purpose and for organizing state commissions to look after these matters. It is proposed during the coming year to secure the cooperation of agricultural colleges and experiment stations in the object lesson method of disseminating information regarding improved roads. They will be taught to construct model roads on the farms of their experiment stations or on their college grounds, where they can be regularly used, and thus become a lesson to all the farmers who visit them.

The expenditures of the department for the year 1893-4 and 1894 were $1,211,706 less than the amount appropriated for that period. This sum, together with the $300,000 or $300,000 that could be secured from a sale of the property now occupied by the weather bureau, Secretary Morton recommends be invested in the construction of a suitable building for the department.

The report closes with a discussion of "The future of farms and farming in the United States," in which the secretary compares the indebtedness of the various classes of owners.

"These figures," he says, "show an enormous and constant indebtedness of the banks and bankers alongside of which the money in farm mortgages and the debts owed by farmers are relatively insignificant. The debts of railroads, bankers, manufacturers and merchants entitle them, and not the farmers, to be called the 'debtor class in America.'"

The average value of farms by the census of 1890 was $2,900. The value of implements, domestic animals and sundries will make a total farm plant of $4,000 for a family averaging six persons. These farms have fed the farmers and their families and 40,000,000 urban residents, besides supplying over $500,000,000 worth of products to foreign consumers.

The mortgage on farm values does not exceed 16 per cent.—a less incumbrance on capital invested than in any other line of industry.

He foretells, confidently, a steady increase in the value of farm lands as the population of the country increases.

LYNCHED.

Post Office Robber Shot to Death in Arkansas.

St. Louis, Nov. 18.—The federal authorities here have received information that Albert England, a post office robber, was lynched near Velonia, Faulkner county, Ark., last Wednesday. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Moore and was being taken to Velonia. The officer and his prisoner were suddenly confronted by a gang of nine men, who were armed with Winchester rifles. Seizing England, the mob fired 30 shots into his body and then hanged him in the presence of the officer and his assistants. The members of the lynching party, who were masked, are unknown. J. B. Wilson, ex-sheriff of Faulkner county, while en route to the scene of the lynching, was shot and killed from ambush by some unknown person or persons. It is supposed by the government officers who had been searching for England that his life had been taken by his confederates in order to prevent his telling all about a large number of robberies that for the past year have been committed in Faulkner county.

Life's Varied Sides.

There is a merry side to life; God put it in His plan. A long wry face is not a grace, So laugh whenever you can.

There is a happy side to life; Look for it, downcast man! Don't mope and sigh; brace up and try. For that's the wisest plan.

Perhaps there is a mournful side, Dark clouds we can't see through; But keep up heart, and do your part— Beyond the skies are blue.

SURPRISED HIS FRIENDS.

A Prominent Illinois Man Has a Remarkable Experience.

The Story of the Wonderful Change in Mr. Shepherd's Condition.

From the Pantagraph, Bloomington, Ill.

Mr. A. A. Shepherd, a prominent and responsible citizen of Lytleville, McLean county, Illinois, was taken down with rheumatism about five years ago. He suffered with terrible pains in his hips and at times, when he was able to walk, would fall down when taken with the severe pains. He also had very severe pains in the region of his heart and at times thought he surely would die. He tried a number of good physicians but could get no permanent relief. At times he was down in bed and could not turn himself without help. Was not able to work any more. But now his neighbors and friends are surprised to see him stout and hearty and able to work. In fact he has worked all the present season and worked hard and feels well. He has a number of men at work in the woods this summer getting out cooper material and he has not only overseen their work but has worked with them all the time. Some time last fall while he was suffering so his wife's attention was called to a wonderful cure of a case of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and while in Heyworth one day she stepped into the drug store of Mr. F. H. Hill and purchased two boxes of the pills. After he commenced taking them the pains left his limbs, all the pains disappeared from his heart and he began to improve at once. He can cheerfully recommend them to any one afflicted as he was. Mr. Hill, the druggist, said:

"I have several customers using the Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for the relief and cure of rheumatism, among whom is A. A. Shepherd, whose case has been one of unusual interest, and Pink Pills have surely performed a wonderful change in his condition. F. H. Hill, Druggist."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE CENTURY ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY MAGAZINE

"There are many magazines, but there is only one

CENTURY."

It is the leading magazine of the world—first in everything, in literature, art and patriotism. It is the greatest literary product of American soil. "Who reads an American book?" is no longer asked in England, where twenty thousand copies of THE CENTURY are being read every month. It costs 35 cents a number,—it is not a ten-cent magazine,—it cannot be made for that. If you will get a copy of the November number (on all news-stands) you will see why.

Dr. Maybe and Mustbe.

You choose the old doctor before the young one. Why? Because you don't want to entrust your life in inexperienced hands. True, the young doctor may be experienced. But the old doctor must be. You take no chances with Dr. Maybe, when Dr. Mustbe is in reach. Same with medicines as with medicine makers—the long-tried remedy has your confidence. You prefer experience to experiment—when you are concerned. The new remedy may be good—but let somebody else prove it. The old remedy must be good—judged on its record of cures. Just one more reason for choosing AYER'S Sarsaparilla in preference to any other. It has been the standard household sarsaparilla for half a century. Its record inspires confidence—50 years of cures. If others may be good, Ayer's Sarsaparilla must be. You take no chances when you take AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

State Horticultural Society.

At Adrian, on the 3rd, 4th and 5th of December next, will occur the annual meeting of the Michigan State Horticultural Society, for which has been prepared a program of unusual variety and interest. It gives promise of being one of the most notable gatherings of pomologists ever held in the state. The sessions will be held in the court-house. Reduced hotel rates have been obtained, placing attendance within the easy reach of all. Headquarters of the society will be at the Lawrence House, but the Gibson house will afford a low rate also. The sessions will begin Tuesday morning, Dec. 3, and continue each forenoon, afternoon and evening of the three days. Besides the papers and addresses scheduled here, several others are likely to be furnished, of which due announcement will be made.

Prof. L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University, perhaps the most eminent and learned pomologist in the United States, will have a paper, "Reflections upon Apple Growing," and an evening lecture upon "The Evolution of the Plant World."

Prof. F. M. Webster, of the Ohio experiment station, will give two papers, each of the highest importance to Michigan fruitgrowers, "The introduction, diffusion and suppression of foreign destructive insects in the United States," and "Some obstacles to profitable fruitgrowing in Michigan and adjacent states."

Mr. S. D. Willard, of Geneva, N. Y., one of the Empire state's most successful fruitgrowers and nurserymen, will speak of "Past, present and future of the fruit-grower." A paper akin to this, "The inducements to fruitgrowers, with conditions of success," will be given by Mr. C. P. Chidester, of Battle Creek.

Prof. W. W. Tracy, of Detroit, who has charge of all the seed farms and test grounds of D. M. Ferry & Co., will also present two papers, one upon "Gardens for town and country homes," and the other, "Culture of the tomato."

Dr. Denison C. Thomas, president of Adrian College, will give an address somewhat in the line of Mr. Tracy's paper, "The value of practical horticulture to the business man."

The subject of irrigation, which is receiving so much attention from Michigan fruitgrowers at present, will have extensive treatment, Prof. L. E. Taft, of Michigan Agricultural College, will lead, giving an account of the tests of irrigation made at the college the past season. The subject will be further treated by Mr. James W. Helme, of Adrian, in a paper, "Shall we irrigate, and how?" giving an account of his own work in this line. Similar papers by Mr. Mansford E. Williams, of Douglas, and J. N. Stearns, of Kalamazoo, will describe their experiments; another will be furnished by Mr. S. S. Bailey, of Grand Rapids, and the secretary will describe two other tests made in Allegan county this year.

"The neglected and dejected raspberry" is the quaint title of a paper by Mr. W. F. Bird, of Ann Arbor. The small fruits will receive further treatment by Mr. R. M. Kellogg, the Ionia specialist, in "Great crops of blackberries and how to grow them."

Prof. Barrows, entomologist at Michigan Agricultural College, will treat of "Birds in horticulture."

Mr. J. N. Stearns will introduce the inevitable peach question with a paper upon "Michigan peach orchards," treating various phases of the matter.

Two papers will relate to the setting and early cultivation of fruit orchards, one by President Morrill, "Care and culture of young orchards," and another by Mr. L. J. Post, of Lowell, "Starting a peach orchard."

A paper upon some subject connected with the nursery business is promised by Mr. Chas. E. Greening of Monroe.

Ex-President Lyon will give an account of his work at the horticultural experiment station at South Haven during the present season. As a considerable number of new fruits were productive this year, his report will be of special interest.

Hon. C. J. Monroe, of South Haven, will make a report of his trip to California last winter as a delegate from the society to the meeting of the American Pomological society.

Mr. Elmer Smith, of Adrian, secretary of the national society of chrysanthemum-growers of the United States, will have a paper upon the cultivation of this remarkable and beautiful flower. Another horticultural paper will be by Mr. John W. Davis, of Adrian, "Some winter-blooming house plants, old and new."

Hon. G. B. Horton, of Fruit Ridge, will treat of "Shade trees."

Mr. Artemus Sigler, of Adrian, has prepared a paper upon "Grapes under glass," with special reference to the possibilities of profit in this branch of horticulture.

Mr. Squire Johnson, of Adrian, will continue this subject of gardening under glass with a paper, "Relation of glass to commercial gardening."

Cold storage of fruits without use of ice will be treated by Mr. W. C. Smith, of Weston, and J. H. Billmeyer, of Holloway. Grape culture will be treated by Mr. H. C. Bradish, of Adrian, in a paper, "A few thoughts on the grape by a novice."

Odd and Ends.

The bloomer has not come to stay. It is not an awful fixture. It is not an eternal blessing. It is a fad of the faddiest kind, and already it is going the mournful way of "ruffs and cuffs and farthingales and things" which we sighed and burned for last year and care not a brass-headed pin for this. The day of the dress reform dog is not yet come. She must buy the moon yet awhile. The bloomer is evidently not her skirt cut to the millennium by many a weary miller's mile. It is not the short cut to anything, unless it be to the pantaloons—the which I peaceably offer as a modest joke. Who wants to follow an ugly fashion, no matter where it leads? Not you, not I. And not society, which loveth its whited sepulchers well graced with Beauty's daughters. And it must be confessed that lovely woman looks a little woody in bloomers.—San Francisco Examiner.

"The things that I learned when I was a child," said a dear old lady the other day, whose hair is snow-white, and who is a grandmother. "I have never, never forgotten. When I was about seven years old an aunt of mine, who was an invalid for many years, and in whose sickroom we children were allowed only as a great privilege when she was feeling unusually strong, asked me for a glass of water. I brought it to her, holding the glass in my hand with my forefinger bent over the rim. She took it and thanked me and then said: 'Now, dear, here is a lesson to remember all your life—never put your fingers over the edge of a drinking glass, either your own or one that you are passing to some one else; it is better not to hand the glass, but offer it on a plate or little tray, but if that is not possible, handle it very daintily and without letting your fingers touch the edge anywhere. You are a little girl and haven't learned this yet, but now you will never forget, will you?' I said I would not, and though that was many years ago, I think I have never offered a glass of water to any one without a quick thought of that first lesson of how to do it."—Ex.
