Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2, 1896.—There has been a marked increase in the confidence of the Bryan men since the conference this week, which was participated in by most of the campaign managers and Messrs. Bryan and Sewall. Whatever the foundation for the assurances made at that conference, there is no doubt they have carried cheerfulness into the silver camp. Among these assurances was one from Senator Gorman that Maryland would be carried for Bryan, notwithstanding claims to the contrary by republicans and gold democrats: one from Senator Blackburn that all the efforts of Senator Carlisle and the republicans could not prevent Kentucky casting its electoral vote for Bryan, and one from Senator Faulkner, saying that the visit of Mr. Bryan to West Virginia would give him a hold upon its electoral vote that it would be impossible to break. If they believe that those assurances can be made good it is not surprising that the Bryan men feel confident, as, according to an estimate of the Washington Post, a gold paper, with Maryland and West Virginia in the Bryan column, Bryan will only lack five electoral votes of having enough to elect him, with the following states to get them out of: Illinois, Oregon, California, Delaware, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa. The republicans profess to be amused at this revival of confidence among the Bryan supporters, and say it is merely a bluff for effect, but it is noticed that they are increasing their efforts, especially in those states which are by general consent placed in the doubtful column.

Mr. Bryan passed through Washington again this week, on his way to West Virginia. He gave orders when he went to bed on the sleeping car that he should not be awakened until he reached Harper's Ferry, W. Va., so nobody saw him in Washington during the few minutes his train remained.

Senator Blackburn may discover that his sneering reference to the Hebrews in his speech in New York this week was not good politics, as the McKinley managers will see that the attention of every Hebrew voter in the doubtful States will be called to it, and there are no more sensitive people in the world than the Hebrews.

The relation between Tom Watson and Senator Butler, chairman of the populist national committee, and between the latter gentleman and the democratic national committee is puzzling lots of people. Since the closing of the Washington branch of the democratic national committee headquarters, Senator Butler's only participation in the campaign has been to help along the negotiations for fusion, between the democrats and populists and to arrange dates for the populist stump speakers. Tom Watson has publicly stated his opposition to fusion in any state unless Sewall is withdrawn, yet Senator Butler leaves no doubt in the minds of those he talks with that he is in sympathy with Watson's attempt to supplant Sewall, and he is now arranging dates for Watson to stump several states after the Georgia election. Senator Butler says he will shortly issue an address to the populists. That may clear up some things which are now somewhat hazy.

Neither of the Congressional committees have given out any figures on the political complexion of the next House, but individual republicans are claiming that they will have a majority of not less than fifty in the House, regardless of how the Presidential election goes.

The Bryan men are putting up some stiff claims on carrying Michigan, and most republicans admit that the state is doubtful, although few of them will go so far as to admit that it will be carried for Bryan. Senator Butler has made public a report received by him from the Michigan state committee, which says: "In the Presidential election the democratic vote in Michigan was 202,296, and the republican vote was 222,708, showing a republican plurality of 20,412. The prohibition vote was 20,857, and that of the people's party 19,931, showing that on the whole vote the republican party was in a minority of 20,376. In the present campaign there has been a thorough combination and fusion between the democrats, populists and a silver republican organization, and the leaders and rank and file of the broad-gauge prohibitionists are for free silver and Bryan, although they have not yet withdrawn their ticket."

There is much talk of election bets in Washington, but up to this time very little money has been put up.

OUR BANKS.

Investigation by Comptroller Eckels Presents Interesting Statistics.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Comptroller of the Currency Eckels has issued a statement of an investigation made by him of the amount of money held by the banks of the country. From the statement the following extracts are taken:

The number of banking houses and trust companies inquired of were 12,562 and 77 clearing houses, covering all in the country. Replies were received from 5,723 banks and trust companies and 66 clearing house associations. The information, however, is of such a character as to enable a fair and correct result from all to be approximated. Of the 5,723 reports received 3,515 were of national banks, 1,494 state banks; 457 savings banks; 230 of private banks and 84 of loan and trust companies.

The total amount of cash in the 5,723 institutions reporting was $413,124,849. It is divided as follows: Gold coin, $131,077,093; gold certificates, $55,481,329; silver dollars, $8,254,612; fractional silver, $7,339,073; silver certificates, $29,063,596; treasury notes, $180, $13,126,018; United States notes, $110,469,375; currency certificates, $20,858,000; national bank notes, $23,795,534; of this total cash the 3,515 national banks reporting held $335,174,516 and the 2,208 state, etc., $77,950,333. The amount of gold coin and gold certificates held by these national banks was $155,073,604. By these state, etc., $48,484,757. In this connection it may be stated that the total number of national banks, viz.: 3,689 held on July 14, the date of the last official call, $3,611,658,485 cash, of which amount there was in gold coin and gold certificates, $161,863,560.

The returns from 66 of the 78 clearing house associations of the country show that on July 1 the total clearings amounted to $227,935,964. The balances of these total clearings settled in cash or cash exchanges was but $18,152,834, or but little more than 8 per cent. of the whole.

The total number of depositors in the national banks reporting on July 1 were 2,315,333, with individual deposits aggregating $1,586,085,193. On July 14, the total individual deposits of all the national banks were $1,608,415,568, and the estimated number of depositors, 2,435,625. The total number of depositors in reporting banks, other than national banks, were 3,614,630, with deposits aggregating $1,998,352,673. In 1894, an investigation showed the number of bank depositors to be about 5,000,000. A conservative estimate, in view of the fact that the number of depositors in national banks shows an increase of about half a million would make the total number now at between 70,000,000 and 11,000,000, with total deposits aggregating over $5,000,000,000.

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN

The Russian and German governments are attempting to bring about an international agreement for dealing with anarchist plots and plotters.

Among the many campaign buttons which have made their appearance of late, not a few have had suggestive or even indecent inscriptions. So common has this become in Kansas City that the police have taken steps for suppressing the sale of such devices, some arrests having already been made.

The allowance of lawyers to population in this country is rather more liberal than that of preachers. There are 89,432 men and 208 women engaged in the legal profession, and, supposing each to have an average of ten suits on hand, the litigation going on at one time in the United States would foot up $90,300 cases.

The Westminster clock, "Big Ben," reports itself each day automatically at Greenwich, where a record is kept of its accuracy. During 1893 its error exceeded four seconds on five days, in 72 per cent. of the days of observation the error was under two seconds, and on 21 per cent. of the days the clock was right within half a second.

The English language of to-day is quite different in many respects from the English spoken only 100 years ago; on the other hand, the Dutch spoken by the Boers of South Africa does not differ greatly from the same language spoken 200 years ago, the Boers during that time having had very little intercourse with the mother country, and their language remains almost unchanged.

FRENCHMEN consume more alcohol than other Europeans, according to figures put before the Basle congress on alcoholism. In the computation the amount of alcohol in light wines and beer is included. The average annual consumption of alcohol per head of population is 13 quarts in France, 10 in Switzerland, Belgium and Italy, 9 in Germany and England, 4 in Sweden, 3 in Norway and 2 in Canada.

SUPERSTITIOUS people who would rather do anything else than break a mirror have cause for rejoicing. A German scientist has invented a mirror of celluloid, which accurately reflects every object. Great care is taken to select celluloid without a flaw, and with a backing of quicksilver it is as perfect as a mirror of glass. The celluloid mirror is unbreakable, is cheaper than glass and lighter.

The latest and most novel theory that has been advanced in explanation of sun spots is that they are produced by downward currents in the sun's atmosphere. According to this theory a downward rush through the sun's atmosphere (which is estimated to be of depth of not less than 72,000 miles) causes an exposure of the body of the sun. This, seen through its luminous envelope, appears as a dark spot.

ONLY 906 persons in 1,000,000, according to medical authority, die from old age, while 1,200 succumb to gout, 18,000 to measles, 2,700 to apoplexy, 7,000 to erysipelas, 7,500 to consumption, 48,000 to scarlet fever, 25,000 to whooping cough, 30,000 to typhoid and typhus, 17,000 to rheumatism. The averages vary according to locality, but these are considered pretty accurate as regards the population of the globe as a whole.

In the northern part of Madagascar the most remarkable natural fort in the world. It is occupied by a tribe, who call themselves the people of the rocks. The fortress is a steep and precipitous rock of enormous size, 1,000 feet high and eight square miles in area. Its sides are so steep that it can not be climbed without aerial means. Within it is hollow and only entrance is by a subterranean passage.

In the present day pun-making is not regarded as a crime worthy of capital punishment, but there is on record in London a case where a man was sentenced to death because he made a pun. The man was an innkeeper and his pun was called "The Crown." He related on the birth of a son that he would make him "heir to the Crown." A speech coming to the ears of the king, who then reigned, the innkeeper was sentenced to the death meted out to high treason—he was hung, drawn and quartered.

Certain parts of the world, most notably that portion of the ocean west of the Cape Verde islands, mariners, for hundreds of miles from land, often encounter what is known as "dry weather." While sailing through these which are usually of such density as to obscure every thing and navigation quite dangerous, the decks, sails and rigging become covered with a fine, brick-colored dust. It falls in such a way that it is red by sailors as "dry mist." The quantity is sometimes sufficient to fill the deck to the depth of several

A NEW HOME.

Where Neglected and Orphan Boys Will Be Taught Industry.

Next spring will see the foundation of the industrial home for neglected and parentless boys on the upper peninsula. This has been made possible by the generosity of Thomas Mason, the octogenarian president of the Quincy Mining company, next to the Calumet & Hecla, the richest copper mine in this state. He has set apart 160 acres of land at Portage lake, Houghton county, on which the boys are to be taught all branches of agriculture, horticulture and forestry, and the produce will supply markets of the rich copper country cities, which at present have but limited resources of local supply. Ultimately training schools in all mechanical arts with complete equipments of tools and machinery will be added.

H. W. Richardson, doing business in Detroit as the Mammoth Dry Goods company, filed chattel mortgages aggregating $20,000 for the benefit of his creditors.

BUY YOUR COAT-OF-ARMS.

How This Interesting Proceeding Is Accomplished in Great Britain.

The practice of granting arms, is still in vogue in England, Ireland, Scotland, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Germany and so forth, and that at times the pope, as sovereign pontiff, exercises the power is witnessed by Leo XIII. granting arms to the Catholic see of Westminster by a decree dated the 30th of June, 1894.

Indeed, it is by patent or grant alone that a new family can legitimately acquire a coat-of-arms.

The modus operandi in England, for example, is as follows: The applicant for a patent of arms (from the crown) may employ any member he pleases of the heralds' college and through him present a memorial of the earl marshal of England (who acts for the crown in these matters), setting forth that he, the memorialist, is not entitled to arms or cannot prove his right to such and praying that his grace the earl marshal will issue his warrant to the kings of arms authorizing them to grant and confirm to him due and proper armorial ensigns, to be borne according to the laws of heraldry by him and his descendants. This memorial is presented and a warrant is issued by the earl marshal, under which a patent of arms is made out, exhibiting a painting of the armorial ensigns granted, the royal arms of England, the arms of the earl marshal and those of the college, and describing in official terms the proceedings that have taken place and a correct blazon of the arms. This patent is registered in the books of the heralds' college and receives the signatures of the garter and one or both of the provincial kings of arms.

A grant or patent of arms is made to a man and his male descendants; this gives him a fee simple of them, that is to say to him and to his male descendants equally and altogether and to his female descendants in a qualified manner—i. e., for life, to bear the arms in a lozenge or impaled with their husbands' arms (if the husbands have arms, as arms can only be brought in by arms), or, if they be heiresses or coheiresses, on an escutcheon of pretense upon their husbands' shield, and in the last case their descendants inherit such maternal arms, but only as a quartering.—Nineteenth Century.

THE YOUNGEST METAL.

Aluminum Was First Produced Near Pittsburgh in 1855.

Aluminum, the youngest of all metals, is rapidly coming into general use. It was discovered by Frederick Wohler, a German professor, in 1827, but to St. Clair Deville, a Frenchman, belongs the honor of being the founder of the aluminum industry.

The first article made of this metal was in compliment to Louis Napoleon, who had helped Deville—a baby rattle for the infant prince imperial.

In 1855, when the first aluminum company was formed, the cost of a pound of the metal was about $200. In 1889 Charles M. Hall, of Oberlin, O., patented an electrolytic process. He, with a few of his friends, then started a small plant on the bank of the Allegheny river, 18 miles above Pittsburgh. The first year the company produced 75 pounds of aluminum a day, which was sold for $4.50 a pound. In 1895 a company built a large plant at Niagara Falls, and this year it is building additional works. When these are completed they will have an output of 11,000 pounds daily. This will put the United States in front as the largest aluminum-producing country in the world.

Aluminum weight is about a third that of iron, and only steel of the highest quality and the best aluminum bronze will give a greater strength for a given weight than aluminum. It stands high in the list of malleable metals, and can be drawn into wire 1-25th of an inch in thickness. It is an excellent conductor of electricity, and would, at 20 cents a pound, take the place of copper for all electrical purposes.

In shipbuilding, where lightness is demanded, aluminum meets every requirement. Corrosion and galvanic action are easily overcome by properly painting the part subject to the action of the water and by using aluminum rivets. France and Germany have several torpedo boats made of aluminum, and pleasure yachts every year are being constructed of this metal.—N. Y. Sun.

Early Days of a Great Chinaman.

Li Hung Chang's career is strikingly interesting to young people. Not of distinguished parents, he first leaps into prominence by carrying off honors at an examination where there are 20,000 competitors. The subjects are not, as with us, mathematics, geography, arts and sciences, but the teachings of Confucius, theory of government, and Chinese poetry and history. Passing this examination promotes Li into official circles, and he becomes a compiler in the imperial printing office. But the T'ai-p'ing rebellion breaks out, and the student is soon called upon to become a soldier. He raises a regiment of home militia, and enters upon the field of war. In less than five years he achieves honor and distinction, and then Imperial Generalissimo Tseng Kwo-Fan appoints him on his staff.—Harper's Round Table.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Pastors Go Hungry.

One of the presiding elders reported to the Michigan Methodist conference while it was in session in Lansing that some of his ministers had reported that during the last year they often have left their tables with their hunger unsatisfied in order that their children might have enough to eat. The reports generally show that the ministers have been great sufferers because of the financial depression, scores of salaries being in arrears. All other collections averaged well with those of previous years.

Saved by a Spectacle Case.

A mysterious attempt was made at Iron Mountain to murder Douglas Dawson, secretary of the McKinley and Hobart club. Members in returning from a torchlight parade found his unconscious form. He had been stabbed near the heart, but a spectacle case defeated the knife and it only made a slight wound. Dawson says he was stabbed and kicked by a stranger who had been shadowing him for several days.

A Deserted Village.

In 1893 the village of Dodge, Clare county, was a prosperous settlement of 300 inhabitants, but now there is just one family there. In 1893 the big plant of the Lansing Lumber company, the mainstay of the village, was burned, and never having been rebuilt, all the people moved to other fields to find employment.

Bad Fire at Cadillac.

Fire destroyed nine business houses at Cadillac, among them the Telephone exchange, causing a loss of $29,000, which is partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. The heaviest losers are L. E. Finn & Co. and O. L. Davis, druggists; Harry Drabin, dry goods; C. A. Olsen & Co., boots and shoes.

Heavy Mortgage Filed.

The Solvay Process company filed a trust mortgage in Detroit covering all the property of the company located in this state and in the state of New York. It secured the sum of $2,000,000 and named the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company as the trustee.

ARE YOU LEFT-HANDED?

Were the Aborigines Ambidextrous in Their Practice of Art?

Dr. Daniel G. Brinton discusses the question of left-handedness in North American aboriginal art. If hands worked in the past as they do to-day, then in primitive times the left-handed, it would be supposed, were not many. Take 100 Americans, and from two to four per cent. only are left-handed. This two or four percent may do general work better or more easily with the left than with the right hand. In the 96 per cent. of right-handed people there may be some few who are ambidextrous. "Has this proportion always been the same in the human species, and does it obtain to-day among savage tribes?" Dr. John Evans, as quoted by Sir Daniel Wilson, believes that there was a "manifest predominance of right-handedness among the paleolithic flint-workers of southern England." On the other side, Dr. Mortillet, after a careful study of 354 stone-scrappers coming from France and Switzerland, arrives at the contrary opinion. In the University of Pennsylvania, among a collection of flints of the very earliest types, found on the Libyan plateau, near Abydos, there are two, both of which, Dr. Brinton writes, are made for a left-handed man. It is difficult to describe, without giving great space to the subject, how the archaeologist can exactly determine whether a tool was to be used in the right or the left hand. Studying 200 stone or flint blades coming from various parts of the United States, the largest proportion was made for the right-handed. But, nevertheless, there was "33 per cent. for" probably left-handed persons, or, as Dr. Brinton writes it, "for persons, as I prefer to believe, * * * who were ambidextrous." That there must have been left-handed artists becomes more clear in this way. Ask anyone to draw a profile, and almost invariably the right-handed person makes the face looking to the left, while the left-handed person's sketch is to the right. In examining, then, a collection of American aboriginal rock drawings there is a predominance of profiles looking to the left, but not infrequent occurrences of profiles in the opposite direction. Dr. Brinton comes to the conclusion that Dr. Mortillet was correct, also that there were more left-handed or ambidextrous American aborigines than Europeans. Perhaps, as Dr. Brinton indicates it, the specialization of hands came with a more recent culture.—American Anthropologist.

German Device to Save the Pines.

Circling the trunks of trees with sticky substance to prevent noxious insects from ascending to the leaves is a familiar method of protection which has been applied on a large scale in the pine forests of Germany. Formerly the pine moth was a most destructive and dreaded enemy of these valuable forests, but now it is no longer feared. The caterpillars of the pine moth, being born at the end of August, do very little damage before the autumn frosts set in and compel them to go into winter quarters in the moss-covered ground at the foot of the trees. But in the spring, unless interfered with, they ascend the trunks and fall upon the green needles with ravenous appetite. It is estimated that a single caterpillar consumes, on the average, 1,000 pine needles. By scraping a smooth band in the rough bark around each tree trunk, and then smearing the band with a mixture of tar, grease and glue, an insurmountable barrier is presented to the caterpillars, and in this simple manner the great pine forests of middle and northern Germany have been securely fortified against their insect enemies.—Youth's Companion.

Miss Margaret Cassidy, an estimable lady of Lyndon, departed this life on Monday, Oct. 5, 1896, at one o'clock a. m. Miss Cassidy had been ill for some time with mental and heart trouble, and her sufferings were terrible, but she bore them with Christian fortitude and her end was in peace. The funeral was held from St. Mary's church on Wednesday, Oct. 7, 1896, at 10:30 a. m. The high mass of Requiem was chanted by the pastor, the Rev. William P. Considine, and the sermon, which was beautiful and eloquent, was delivered by the Rev. Charles Reilly, D. D., of Adrian, Mich. The remains were buried in St. Mary's cemetery, Sylvan.

Burglars entered the drug store of R. S. Armstrong, Saturday night, by prying open a window in the rear of the building. The front of the store is occupied by L. & A. E. Winans, jewelers, who have been in the habit of concealing their stock of jewelry in a place supposed to be known to none but themselves. Not even the other occupants of the store knew of this hiding place. Sunday morning, upon examination, jewelry to the extent of four hundred dollars' worth was found to have been taken. The work had evidently been carried on without the aid of a light, as several valuable pieces had been overlooked. The thieves made their escape by unlocking the back door and walking out. No clew as to the whereabouts of the burglars has yet been found.

The services at St. Mary's church last Sunday were very beautiful and impressive. Father Rosswinkel, of Detroit, celebrated high mass and preached a most beautiful sermon on the "Holy Rosary." In the evening the distinguished Jesuit officiated at Vespers and preached to a very large congregation—a most eloquent sermon on "Devotion to the Blessed Virgin." The magnificent banner in honor of the Sacred Heart, which was the work of Mrs. James P. Bacon, was blessed, and forty candidates were admitted into the Sodality of the Mother of God. The ceremony was especially beautiful, and the sermon was full of unction and eloquence. The music was excellent, the Tantum Ergo, a tenor solo, by Mr. Louis Burg, being deserving of high commendation for its exquisite rendition.

Martin Manz.

Martin Manz was born August 2, 1830, at Kolbach, county Calw, in the Black Forest, Wurtemberg, Germany. He came to this country in the year 1851, and worked for farmers in Freedom, Lodi and Lima, spending also one year lumbering in the "pineries," for about fourteen years. In 1865, or about that time, he married Mrs. Christine Shaver, with whom he lived until her death, four years later. In 1872 he was married to Mrs. Barbara Geier, whose maiden name was Haab. From that time he worked his wife's farm in Freedom until 1895, when her sons took the farm and the parents took up their residence in Chelsea.

Mr. Manz was brought up a Lutheran, but for the last five years he has been a worthy member of the Congregational church. His health has been failing gradually for almost eight years, and he died on the 2d of October, 1896, aged 66 years and 2 months.

The funeral services were held at the Congregational church on Monday, October 5th, when an able and appropriate discourse was delivered in German, by Rev. Gottlieb Eisen, pastor of the Lutheran church, from Job 18:25-26; after which a very large concourse of both German and American friends showed their esteem for him by following his remains to their beautiful and peaceful resting place in Oak Grove cemetery.

Mr. Manz had no children, and no relatives in this country except one sister, Mrs. John Wink of Freedom, who, with his widow, are all the kindred who remain to mourn his departure.

Another victim of the cigarette habit.
Little Eddie Lee of Saginaw, aged 12 years, has committed suicide in a fit of despendency.

The young woman in Columbus, O., who was knocked down by a street car and escaped injury on account of her Psyche knot certainly had a hair-breadth escape.

The pug, however, was not in the least

A youth from Utah came here to enter the University a few days ago. When he gave his age as under 16 years, he was informed that he could not be entered, as he was under the required age, and although a graduate of a well known high school he had to return home to await his sixteenth birthday.—Argus.

The following is told of a young man who is addicted to the cigarette habit. He had smoked 1,200 packages and wrote to the manufacturers to know what they would give him for the 1,200 pictures that had come with the cigarettes. The answer of the manufacturers was right to the point—"smoke 1,200 packs more and we will send on a coffin."

A lady asked a naughty editor how to make "not enough" out of the word
"enough," and he told her that it is done by transposing the letters into words like this: Take the third, second and first of
of the word "enough" for the first word, and the sixth, fourth and fifth for the second word and you have two words that signify something that is not enough for any young lady.

Students who go to Ann Arbor to enter the School of Music sometimes experience considerable difficulty in finding rooms.
People who have rooms to rent are not so enraptured with the music produced in the course of a student's practice that they will listen to it from five to ten hours a day for two hundred consecutive days.
And besides the admission of a musician increases the difficulty of renting other rooms.

Joseph Clark, superintendent of the University Hospital, is very low, and is liable to pass away at any moment. The trouble with him is Bright's disease, and it is in such an advanced stage that there is no hope for his recovery. This will be sad news to many people who know and who like Mr. Clark for his many noble qualities of mind and heart. He will leave a vacant place here in Ann Arbor that will be hard to fill.—Courier.

If you have a home and are out of debt, don't fret and worry yourself and good wife into the grave for the sake of making money, sensibly says an exchange. You have but one life to live, and it is brief at best. Take a little pleasure and comforts as you go day by day, and to do a little good to others. A morbid, insatiable desire to possess the earth, to grab every thing in sight, is at the foundation of more misery than any one thing. Wealth alone will never keep your memory green after you are gone; a good life and kind actions will.

World's Fair visitors will remember the magnificent Montana silver statue with its fortune in the precious metals invested in it. Since the fair it has been exhibited in all the great cities and through the enterprise of E. F. Mills & Co. comes next week to Ann Arbor. It will be an absolutely free exhibition at their store all next week, and of course everybody will want to see it. As there is $64,800 in silver and $224,000 in gold in the statue, it is well there is an armed guard with it, or some impecunious individual might be seized with a desire to become suddenly rich.—

Why don't the fire company stir around and do something? They ought to hold socials, bring out the engine and convince folks that they are alive. At the same time they should teach the foreman the difference between the tones of the fire bell and those of the Baptist bell, and by their aggressive spirit bluff all confagrations, incipient or able bodied, that come their way. Great Scot! What's the use of a fire department unless it bangs through the streets, causes a runaway or two, and thunders into mankind the roaring fact that it is on earth with both feet.—Grass

Friday night thieves broke into the

the entire communion service, consisting of several solid pieces of silver and some plated ware. They were even so mean as

The Chelsea Fair.

Wednesday, the first day of the fair, was unusually cold and dreary, but notwithstanding these drawbacks, the exhibitors began to bring in their displays, more entries having been made than in any former year. One family alone made over two hundred entries.

Floral hall is quite well filled and tastefully arranged, but as exhibitors are allowed to make entries until noon of today, we cannot give justice to this department.

Not so many of our merchants have displayed their goods as was desired, but a good showing is made. The entire north wing of the hall is occupied by Charles Steinbach, who has a fine display of musical instruments and carriages.

W. P. Schenk & Co occupy the northern half of the east wing, with a beautiful exhibition of dry goods, cloaks and clothing arranged in the tasteful manner always shown by that firm.

The center of the hall is filled with beautiful plants and cut flowers.

The south wing is filled with fruit, grain and vegetables. The center of this wing is made very attractive by the products of the busy housewife's work, such as pies, cakes, cookies, pickles and canned fruit.

The west wing, as usual, is filled with different displays. One case of stones and shells, beautifully arranged by Roy Evans, attracted general attention. E. E.
Shayer's gallery is represented by a case of nicely finished photographs. The collection of hand-painted china by Mrs. F.
P. Glazier occupies a portion of this wing, and is much admired by all. The usual amount of fancy work is also exhibited in this wing.

The entries in the cattle, horse, sheep, swine and poultry departments are ahead
of those in former years.

To-day it is still cold, but the sun has come out, and the prospects are that this will be the largest fair ever held here.

the tired out nervous system to a healthy vigor is Electric Bitters. This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to

The Storm in Georgia.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 1.—The fatalities by Tuesday's storm, so far foot up 11. The body of Capt. Charles E. Murray, of the ill-fated tug Robert Turner, which was blown ashore in the Savannah river, was found wedged in a training wall. It was brought to the city by a rescue tug. Later the body of one of the deckhands was picked up by the United States revenue steamer Tybee, which has been on relief duty since the storm subsided. James McClure, a passenger on the Turner, and two deckhands are still missing. Fanny Jackson (colored) who was injured by a falling roof in Southville, died Wednesday. Riley Williams (colored), 75 years of age, crushed under a roof, died Wednesday night. The injured have all been removed to the hospital or their homes. Three are fatally injured and will die.

The fatalities on the sea islands were numerous. The actual loss of life is not known, but it is feared it will reach 100. Twenty negroes were killed on the rice plantations by falling timbers. The names could not be secured. The sea island cotton crop is badly damaged, the cotton being beaten down and off the stalk. A house to house canvass places the total of destruction to property here at $267,000. This is regarded as a low estimate, the general belief of those who have figured on it being that $400,000 is a conservative estimate.

Damage in the Capital.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The West Indian tornado which struck Washington between 11 p. m. and midnight Tuesday night, respected neither official nor diplomatic properties. It ripped off some of the coping of the white house and laid low most of the historic trees in the white house grounds, including the elm tree which Lincoln planted. It carried away part of the roof of the state department where the official documents are stored, but fortunately left them uninjured. The costly roof of the patent office, constructed after the fire there some years ago, was rolled up and distributed all around the neighborhood, and skylights half an inch thick were remorselessly beaten in. The naval observatory and, in fact, pretty well every other public building was more or less damaged.

Diplomatic residences were not spared. That of the French minister was left roofless, and even the substantially-built embassy of Great Britain suffered the loss of the portico, under which the British ambassador was accustomed to sit in the summer evenings and receive his friends.

The devastation wrought among the beautiful trees of the capitol was heart-rending.

President Cleveland a Loser.

President Cleveland's suburban home at Woodley, near the city, which has been left in charge of servants since the president and his family went away to Massachusetts, caught the full fury of the gale. Roof and rafters were carried away and landed 500 yards distant, where they were intermingled with the ruins of a windmill which had supplied water to the country seat of John R. McLean, adjoining the president's property. Portions of Mr. McLean's stables which stood on a slight bluff adjoining the president's grounds, and which from their exposed position, were quite a feature in the landscape, were intermingled in the general mix up.

In the Keystone State.

Huntingdon, Pa., Oct. 1.—The Juniata valley is experiencing a destructive flood, scarcely less in extent than the great flood of 1889. During the past 24 hours the rain-fall has been unprecedented and the climax was reached at two o'clock Wednesday morning by a cloudburst just west of this city. This volume of water swept through the western end of the town, washing out streets, flooding houses, carrying away out-buildings, and drowning several head of cattle. Many families were obliged to flee from their homes. Traffic on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad has been wholly suspended, all through eastern trains going around by way of Lockhaven, on the Northern Central. The Pennsylvania tracks, five miles east of here, have been washed out, and a slide on Jack's mountain, ten miles east, has covered the tracks for a distance of 200 yards.

Gettysburg Cemetery Suffers.

Gettysburg, Pa., Oct. 1.—The storm in Adams county did tremendous damage to houses, barns, timber and fence, ing, but no casualties are reported. On the battlefield the national cemetery suffered severely. Round Top and Culp's hill are a mass of broken trees and the new iron observatory on Cemetery ridge was injured. The monument of the Sixty-sixth Ohio regiment was completely overturned.

Flood at Staunton, Va.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 1.—The Shenandoah valley near Staunton, Va., was visited by a terrific flood Wednesday. Many lives were lost and great damage done to property. The storm of Tuesday caused the lake to rise. All the water courses in the valley became raging torrents and swept over their banks, carrying destruction in their path. Houses were swept from their foundations. In several cases persons were with difficulty rescued from the roofs and upper stories. It is impossible at this hour to ascertain the extent of the loss of life or the extent of property damaged. The latter will exceed half a million dollars. Heroic attempts are being made to rescue those in danger.

Four Killed at Alexandria

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 2.—Four people were killed and three injured by Wednesday's storm. All the churches suffered severely. The First Baptist, a handsome structure, was completely demolished; the St. Elmo Baptist was badly wrecked, and Roberts chapel, M. E. South, had its spire blown away. Nearly every business block in town suffered some damage, and hundreds of private houses were unroofed. The loss in and around Alexandria will probably reach $400,000.

Lake Shipping Suffers.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—One of the most severe windstorms known for years raged over the lake region Tuesday night and part of Wednesday. It seemed to have expended most of its fury over the upper half of Lake Michigan. The loss of life so far reported is small—four men having been drowned by the sinking of the steam barge Sumatra at Milwaukee. Much minor damage was done to shipping in Milwaukee, Grand Haven, Chicago and other harbors, and the masters of such steamers as were out in the lake during the night report one of the roughest passages they ever experienced. Owing to the lateness of the season and threatening conditions which prevailed for 24 hours before the storm broke, most of the sailing fleet was tied up in different ports—Chicago harbor especially, being crowded.

Florida Swept.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 3.—Reports received from Cedar Keys tell a story of great damage to property and loss of life there from fire and flood.

Entire towns in the interior of the state were demolished.

Early rumors spoke of Cedar Keys having been wiped out but, fortunately, later and more authentic reports show this was an exaggeration. As it is, however, 15 persons are reported drowned. In Mrs. Weidley's house alone five persons perished by the flood, including three of Mrs. Weidley's children and her niece and the latter's child.

Bodies are being recovered from along the coast, and many fishermen who went out Monday night have not been heard from since they left.

Appalling Loss of Life.

Exclusive of the hundreds of spongers supposed to have been drowned off Cedar Keys, the death list in the state proper bids fair to reach 100 and the property loss will run into the millions. The people seem to be paralyzed by the calamity that has overcome them, and this is reflected in the accounts sent in of the storm's work. In the majority of cases nothing like a detailed description is attempted, and in but few instances are the names of the dead given.

It is inferred from this that a majority of those killed outside of Cedar Keys and the points at which school children were victims were negroes employed on the turpentine farms.

BALLOONIST FALLS.

Parachute Falls to Open and He Drops 3,000 Feet.

Paola, Kan., Oct. 2.—George B. Anderson, alias Snyder, on Thursday attempted to make a parachute drop from a balloon. When about 3,000 feet in the air he attempted the feat, but the parachute did not open readily, and when it did open the rope tied to Anderson's wrist broke and he fell to the ground dead. Where he struck the ground the force of the fall made a hole 14 inches deep. Anderson was from Fort Smith, Ark., in the employ of the Bozart Balloon company of Bozart, Mo. He was 22 years of age and unmarried.

Football Season Opens.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The football season was opened at Yale Wednesday afternoon with Amherst as a visiting attraction. The Massachusetts team gave Yale a hard argument, allowing the blue only two touchdowns the first half and none the second, the final score being: Yale, 12; Amherst, nothing. Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—Pennsylvania played its second football game of the season Wednesday afternoon and easily defeated the Gettysburg college team by the score of 32 to 0.

"Prison Sunday."

Milwaukee, Sept. 30.—The prison reform congress on Tuesday passed a resolution calling on all clergymen in the United States and Canada to observe "Prison Sunday," October 15, by holding services and preaching sermons on or near that day in the interest of prison reform and the prevention of crime.

AN ILL-FATED TRAIN.

Locomotive Boiler Explodes—Seven Persons Are Killed.

Osage City, Kan., Oct. 5.—A frightful railroad wreck, attended by serious loss of life, and made more terrible by the self-murder of one of the passengers, occurred at five o'clock Sunday morning on the Santa Fe road, two miles north of this station. Seven bodies have been recovered from the wreck, and it is feared other victims are buried beneath the debris. The wrecked train was the east-bound passenger No. 2, the same that had such a thrilling experience with bandits in New Mexico on Friday night last. The wreck was caused by the explosion of the boiler of the locomotive. The engineer should have stopped for water at Osage City, but, being behind time, he endeavored to run to the next tank. Though it is not positively known, the engineer and fireman having both met death in the wreck, it is surmised that their neglect was the cause of the disaster. The train had proceeded but two miles beyond this place, about to the Peterson coal chutes, when two terrific explosions were heard, one following close upon the other.

The locomotive was completely shattered. The express, baggage and passenger cars came crashing upon the wrecked engine and the coaches that were ahead were piled up in one heap of wreckage. Those in the rear were all derailed, but the passengers riding in the rear escaped serious injury.

The wreck was marked by scenes of the wildest confusion among the terrified passengers. The nerves of many were at a high pitch as a result of their experience with the road-agents of New Mexico, and when the crash came the first impression of nearly every one was that the train had been attacked again by robbers. One passenger, William Becker, of Los Angeles, en route to Chicago, lost his reason entirely. When the crash came he drew a single-barreled pistol from his pocket, and, in the presence of a car full of terrified passengers, took his own life, sending a bullet into his brain. Becker had been drinking heavily. He was about 55 years of age. Owing to the excitement and confusion little could be done to rescue the injured and remove the dead bodies until the sun appeared. Seven bodies were finally recovered. The dead are: William Becker, Los Angeles, Cal.; Engineer Strump, Topeka, Kan.; Fireman Harry Hollister, Topeka; William McAdams, tramp, riding on baggage car and supposed to be from Chillicothe, Ia.; three tramps, names unknown, all of whom were riding on the baggage car. Three persons were injured.

STUDENTS DIE BY FIRE.

Four Lives Lost by the Burning of an Indian Territory College.

Antlers, I. T., Oct. 5.—At 11 o'clock Saturday night Spencer academy, located ten miles west of Antlers, burned to ashes, together with all furniture. Four Choctaw boys were burned up. Their names are: John Smith, Daniel James, Thomas Kuntubbie and William Wilson. Four others were badly hurt. The origin of the fire is supposed to be incendiary, as no one was occupying the room in which the fire broke out, and there had been no fire in it this season. Superintendent J. B. Jeter, who is in charge of the school, heard the flames, awakened all the boys and barely saved his own life. The boys threw their beds out of the windows and jumped to the ground on them. One of the boys who was burned to death was a cripple and the other three were in rooms where there were no windows. It is said their moans and groans were heart-sickening in the extreme. The academy was built by the Choctaw nation, and 102 boys were there when it burned. Everything is a total loss, as the nation did not carry any insurance.

LAND OFFICE REPORT.

Commissioner Lamoreaux Presents Figures Relating to the Public Domain.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Commissioner Lamoreaux, of the general land office, has made his annual report to the secretary of the interior for the past fiscal year. A synopsis of the report is as follows:

The total land selections during the year were 13,200,000 acres, of which 4,830,915 were homestead entries and 8,369,085 railroad selections. The increase in selections over the previous year was 4,802,673 acres. The cash receipts were $2,106,361, an increase of $72,907.

Lands patented to railroads in satisfaction of grants, 15,527,844 acres, an increase of 7,343,508 acres over last year; agricultural patents, 5,470,400, an increase of 2,028,480 acres. The total number of acres patented was 22,000,999. The total vacant public land in the United States is 600,040,671 acres, of which 316,651,861 are surveyed and 283,388,810 unsurveyed. The amount of land surveyed during the year was 9,908,808 acres.

Considerable attention has been given during the year to correct surveying and in nearly every public land state surveys have been ordered upon reports of the examiners.

Extent of the Florida Disaster.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 5.—No important additions to the list of deaths in Florida from the hurricane are reported. In 91 towns the killed number 70 and the injured 104. The destruction of property is beyond the estimates. The belt of the country that was devastated, extending across the state from Cedar Keys, on the Gulf of Mexico, to the St. Mary's river, is about 115 miles long by 20 miles wide on the gulf and 60 miles wide on the Georgia boundary.

TRADE REVIEW.

Much Hope Expressed in the Future of Business.

New York, Oct. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: "The westward movement of money continues, and for the quarter has exceeded interior receipts by $31,000,000. The gold ordered for importation amounts to $43,250,000, and arrivals thus far to $40,544,550, besides $2,000,000 expected from Australia, which will raise the treasury reserve above $150,000,000. Relief has been welcome in commercial loan markets, where 7 per cent. is done more freely on west paper than 8 per cent. recently, but October settlements cause monetary hardening. Merchants and manufacturers are waiting, but there are no wanting signs that many have the confidence to invest and push forward as though the dawn of prosperity were close at hand. The quarter that has passed has been most trying, but things would be worse than they are but for the general belief that better times are near.

"The complete report of failures for the quarter which ended with Wednesday shows an increase which would be surprising if political causes were not obvious. In number, 6½ per cent. less than in the panic quarter of 1893, failures for this quarter show liabilities 11.1 per cent. less, amounting to $73,283,349, against $79,869,632 in the previous half year.

"The continued advance in wheat may prove of the utmost importance. It has been 1½ cents for the week and 10 cents since September 2 and is mainly due to short crops abroad and unusual foreign demand. Cotton has weakened after its sudden rise, because the demand for goods has relaxed into hand-to-mouth buying, and print cloths are lower at 2½ cents. Some injury has been done by recent storms, but the market seems not now in the humor to magnify them.

"There are unmistakably encouraging signs in the great industries, although the actual gain in working force employed or in new orders received is slight. But the strong demand for materials, for pig iron, hides and wool, as for cotton, does not diminish, and has already gone far enough to stiffen prices. In wool quotations are scarcely stronger, but represent actual sales more nearly than in past weeks, when buyers with cash almost made their own prices.

"Buying of bessemer pig again lifts Pittsburgh's quotations to $11.75 without any general gain in the demand for finished products, and steel bars for the first time are sold at 1 cent against 1½ asked by the association for iron bars. Plates and rails are in less demand, but there is heavy buying of sheets at the west. Confidence that reviving business must bring a greater demand than all the works can meet induces the various associations to make no change in their prices."

SLAIN BY CUBANS.

Spanish Forces Lose 1,000 Men—Maceo Captures the Trocha.

New Orleans, Oct. 3.—The Times-Democrat's Key West special says: Advices received here from Havana state that Antonio Maceo in a recent attack on the trocha inflicted terrible losses on the Spaniards, more than 1,000 being killed and wounded. The attack was made at night and was carefully planned. The fighting was general all along the line, but was fiercest near Artemisa, where Antonio Maceo led a picked force of insurgents against the Spanish column commanded by Gen. Aralas. The Spaniards were taken completely by surprise. They were aroused from sleep to find a hail of insurgent bullets falling upon them. Gen. Aralas and his staff, half clad, rushed from their headquarters and tried to rally the Spanish troops, who were panic-stricken by the insurgents' attack. It was half an hour before even a semblance of order could be restored to the Spanish column, and during that time the troops remained huddled together, an easy mark for the bullets of the Cubans. It was during this period of the panic that so many of the Spanish troops were killed.

It is said many Spanish officers were killed and that Gen. Aralas himself was slightly injured. After Gen. Aralas succeeded in rallying his men he made a retreat and the Spaniards fell back four miles or more, leaving the trocha in the hands of the insurgents. Antonio Maceo did not pursue the Spaniards, but held possession of Artemisa until morning, when he retreated to his stronghold. Before the insurgents retreated they demolished the section of the trocha near Artemisa, blowing up the fortifications with dynamite.

The attack raged from Bahia Honda on the north to Makanda on the south, and at all points the strong line was demolished. Maceo could easily have crossed with his entire force, but it seems that he had not such purpose in view. His object was simply to demolish the trocha so that it could not impede his eastward march when he desires to advance to meet Gomez.

A Murderer at the Age of Seven.

Wooster, O., Oct. 2.—The coroner of Wayne county rendered his verdict on the tragedy at Dalton last Sunday, holding that Thomas Kidd, aged 14 years, was deliberately murdered by Carl McIlhinney, aged seven years. McIlhinney's age will exempt him from the charge of murder in the first degree and the authorities are in a quandary as to what to do with the boy.

To Determine the Boundary Line.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The president Monday appointed William P. Coleman, of Rich Hill, Mo., and Ivan Applegate, of Klamath Falls, Ore., to be commissioners to investigate and determine the correct location of the boundary line of the Klamath Indian reservation in Oregon. Provision for this work was made in the Indian appropriation bill of June last.

Prof. Garber Dead.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 29.—Davis Garber, professor of mathematics and astronomy of Muhlenberg college, died here Sunday of bowel troubles. Prof. Garber was 57 years of age. He graduated from Pennsylvania college, Gettysburg, in 1863.

—Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt, who has been appointed to fill the chair of Semitic languages at Cornell university, was born in Sweden, of German parents, and educated in Stockholm, Berlin, and New York. He is familiar with the Ethiopian, Assyrian, Arabic and many other languages.

—Princeton university will celebrate its sesqui-centennial anniversary with elaborate ceremonies, ending October 22, just 150 years from the day the charter was signed in 1746. President Patton will figure prominently in the exercises. A celebration committee has sent out a budget of pamphlets bearing on this and other Princeton matters.

—Vertical penmanship, which has long been required in many county clerks' offices and came into vogue in the fashionable schools in New York a couple of years ago, superseding the English style, has just been adopted by the Kansas City board of education as the system which must hereafter be taught in the public schools.

—Most Rev. Sebastian Martinelli, prior provincial of the Order of Hermit Fathers of St. Augustine, who is now said to have been chosen as the successor of Cardinal Satolli, visited the Augustinian monastery at Villa Nova, Pa., in 1894. He is about five feet five inches in height, has dark eyes and dark hair, and intellectual countenance. He has a high reputation for learning, speaks English fluently, has been in close touch with the Irish Augustinians in Rome, and is said to be fond of Americans. He lives in the Augustinian convent of St. Monica, which is not far from St. Peter's in Rome.

PICTURESQUE RONDA.

A Spanish City on a Crag Where the People Are as Savage as Their Home.

Then 'twas to Ronda, which is a dream of picturesqueness. There is incongruity in the thought that you can make the journey thither as simply as if you were going from New York to Philadelphia. The town, as J. walked through it, seemed commonplace at first—commonplace that is, for a southern town, where one accepts marvels of color and light as matters of course. His impression was one of awful glaring heat; of donkeys, and donkeys, and more donkeys everywhere; of little low houses so white that one could hardly look at them; of glimpses into long, cool entries, where people were forever standing waiting for an inner door to open. And then, suddenly, there before him was the bridge flung across that wonderful chasm—the bridge that joins old to new Ronda; the bridge that so many artists, since the days of David Roberts, have tried to draw or paint, despairing even while they sought to record the strange, almost exaggerated, picturesqueness of the wild mountain gorge, with the little white town looking down so fearlessly from its dizzy post.

There is something in the contrast that seems to suggest—but with a difference—the gay villages that nestle so confidently at the base of Vesuvius. The strangest part of it is that until one comes to the bridge one does not know except from the guide book, that the gorge is there at all. Who could suppose that the river, apparently at least, would force its way through the very highest part of the mountain? There is a little Alameda, where one can stand, leaning against the railing, and gaze down for I do not know how many thousands of feet. It is here, of all places, that one realizes the awful height of the precipice; but it is from below that one sees the marvel best and most comprehensively—from far below, where one can follow the windings of the white road along the very edge of the cliff, and under stately white gateways, and look to the bridges hanging in the air, as it were, across the roaring stream, as fantastic and unreal and entrancing as any Arabian Nights picture.

It is only as it should be to find the people as fantastic as their high-built town—so grisly and ghoulish, indeed, that it is hard to talk about them; so savage in their manners that they might drive the more timid traveler quickly away and back to civilization. When anyone comes to draw the great bridge from the appropriate point beneath, the sport of the leading citizens is to gather in crowds upon it, and throw stones upon the rocky hillsides, starting an avalanche which makes the artist who has been foolish enough to go there drop his work and run for his life. Still, I suppose, one must pay somehow for the privilege of visiting the most sensational place in Spain. Its wonderful position, its magnificent bridges, its beautiful little valley, where the finest fruit in Spain is grown, its encircling crown of sierra, make up to a certain extent for the discomfort of staying in its horrible boarding house, among the savage brutes of its population.—Elizabeth Robins Pennell, in Century.

A Blasted Reputation.

"See here, why do you pass that man by with scorn? You used to say that he had one of the biggest minds you ever knew of."

"Yes; but I was mistaken. He's a numskull who doesn't know enough to water-a donkey."

"What has caused you to form this opinion of him?"

"He was accepted as a juror last week."—Cleveland Leader.

THE FARMING WORLD.

IDEAL ROAD HORSE.

The Kind of Animal That Will Always Bring a Good Price.

Dr. G. M. Twitchell before the Maine board of agriculture said: The 13½ to 16-hand horse of solid color, with broad forehead, ears of good size and well-proportioned, good length from base of ear to eye, eyes full and expressive, with lids free from meanness, face straight, nostrils well rounded, full, large and thin lips, not thick, well closed, neck of good length, shapely, clean cut at jaw, and fitting well at shoulders, which can hardly be too sloping, the point of the withers being well back of the saddle, chest of good width, forearm long and heavily muscled, knees firm, broad, straight and strong, cannons short, flat, broad and flinty, pasterns good length, muscular and nery, free from meanness, the ankles from toe to ankle joint being about 35 degrees, feet round, of size proportionate to the animal, free from contracted heels, of good material and with elastic frog, barrel-shaped like an inverted egg, deep at girth as well as waist, allowing full use of lungs without infringing upon other organs, back short, the point of the coupling on a line with that of hip, thus allowing for the extension of the muscles of attachment well forward over the kidneys, giving greater strength to the weakest spot in the animal's anatomy, as well as in man, quarters of good length, not too sloping, thus affording room for that free stifle action so necessary in the ideal driver. Stiffles and gaskins long, of good width, abounding in muscular attachments, hocks free from meanness, sound, strong, neither straight nor having a decided angle, and not cut under too sharply at base.

Such a horse, going smooth and true, neither padding nor toeing in forward, nor, as we say, straddling behind, will always command a top price in the market, provided he has been educated, and abounds in nervous energy. Form, size, color, symmetry and substance are essentials, but these do not insure the road horse. To these must be added individuality, the result of breeding. It manifests itself in what we term nervous energy, the up and get there power. It is the power of heredity, so desirable, so necessary. To secure this, there must be a high ideal and a fixed determination in breeding.

PROTECTING THE PIGS.

It Can Be Done by Placing Two Troughs in the Feeding Pen.

To give the little pigs a show at the slop trough is out of the question if they have to scramble for it among the other swine. But it is easily managed by having two troughs in the feeding pen, with stakes driven down between them at such distances apart as will let the pigs through, but keep the big fellows out. The accompanying diagram makes everything plain at a glance.

It is often desirable to leave a gate open, so that cattle or a team and wagon can pass through, but without allowing hogs to get out. My plan is to drive down a row of stakes across the gateway, six inches apart, 16 inches high, and slanting at about 45 degrees towards the hogs. Try it, and you will find it a success.

Never let a growing pig creep through a crack, least of all one under a gate or board fence. It will kill him, or make him crooked in the back.—C. A. Coy, in Journal of Agriculture.

SHEEP ON THE FARM.

So Stock So Well Adapted to Hill-sides and Rough Pastures.

It does not require a large farm to keep a small flock of sheep, which everything considered is the best, says the Missouri Farmer. It should be well fenced so that they can be kept where wanted. Many a rough, worn-out farm might be brought up and made valuable by raising sheep. There is no stock so well adapted to rugged hill-sides or rough pastures, or to prevent the growth of weeds and bushes. Where sheep have the range of a field very few seeds will go to seed, and bushes will be so thoroughly cropped that they will either die or be kept back. When a farmer can thus easily turn the weeds and bushes of a farm into excellent manure, and at the same time have them converted into mutton and wool, it is certainly a good thing. Sheep will thrive in a pasture and get fat where cattle would almost starve. They also gather their droppings over the field and never fail to enrich lands, where they feed them extra, for this additional food works to the profit of the user in two ways—it not only insures good growth of flesh and wool, but makes the manure richer and more valuable.

To make the most profit out of sheep they should be well fed and cared for. Sheep must be fed to make the best wool, but few conceive that a well-cared-for sheep produces more wool than one poorly cared for. Wool is a product of feeding, the same as fat, and many farmers lose half the profit from neglect to feed properly. Sheep should have, besides good feed, dry, clean quarters, sheltered from rain and storms.

CELLAR FOR POTATOES.

One Seen in Colorado Answers All Ordinary Requirements.

I have just returned from a trip through the irrigation districts of the west, and while in Colorado, at Greeley, where potato growing is so large an industry, and where they do know how to raise potatoes, my attention was called to their potato cellars of which there are large numbers. The cheaper forms of simplest construction are, usually, holes in the ground, preferably, although not always, on a slope facing south or east. They are long, narrow and, usually, three-fourths or more below the general level of the ground, but often they are built so much above ground that a wagon may be backed into them when it is desired to remove the potatoes.

The cut gives a general idea of their construction and interior arrangement, as seen in a simple cross-section. Usually these cellars are without walls of masonry, and are provided with a roof made of poles covered with a layer of hay or straw upon which are six to twelve inches of earth. A row of chutes arranged along each side serves to fill the bins easily from the wagon; these are made of inch lumber, and are about one foot square in cross-section, projecting six to eight inches above the roof. In the crest of the roof there are, usually, two or more ventilators constructed in the manner of the chutes. The entrance to the cellar, especially when constructed so as to be entered with a wagon, is provided with double doors separated by a hallway having a length of six or eight feet, and has for its object the shutting out of the frost from in front. When necessary, potatoes are stored in the driveway as well as in the bins, the rear of the drive being filled first.—F. H. King, in Rural New Yorker.

VALUE IN DIVERSITY.

It Pays to Have Something to Sell All the Year Round.

The farmer that grows a variety of stock has a decided advantage in one respect, in that, with good management, he can have something to sell every month in the year, or nearly so, and having an income in this way he can use it to a better advantage than is possible when all of his income comes from one source. Then he runs less risk of failure and is in a much better condition to take advantage of the market and in many cases the difference in price means that much difference in the profits.

Having something to sell so that a steady increase is had, affords a decided advantage in buying. Under present conditions the farmer buys considerable of what is used in his family and having ready money gives him a great advantage.

Too many farmers that depend upon wheat or hogs or cattle for their money with which to pay running expenses are obliged to go in debt, and the farmer that buys on credit is not only at a disadvantage in buying what he needs, but in selling what he produces, and this is so much the case that it makes a very considerable difference in the farm profits.

Then growing a variety of products affords a better opportunity for lessening the cost of feeding the stock, while keeping a variety of stock gives a better chance to use all of the products to the best advantage.

There are cases where the conditions are such that the specialist is able to realize a handsome profit, but this is the exception rather than the rule. Generally the farmers who plan to have something to sell at all times work not only on the safest, but the most profitable plan.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

Extend the scope of the agricultural societies.

Weeds tend to prevent one man from owning too much land. Generally the larger the animal the greater the cost of keeping.

Denser farming communities will give more educational facilities.

Remember that the pasture is a principal part of the farm, and treat it accordingly.

All fallen fruit should be destroyed in some manner. Many insect pests will be killed by so doing.

Nature abhors an uncovered patch of ground. Therefore she has the weeds to carpet it if the farmer does not care.

Good pastures can be made from stumpage, if the stumps are cut off close to the soil and the ground seeded down.

In fighting weeds, remember that "weeds take possession of waste places." Therefore cover the waste places with something.

DR. WILLIAMS' MEDICINE COMPANY, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—I feel that I should write you of the benefit I have received from your Pink Pills for Pale People. I have been a great sufferer, and for nearly twenty years cannot truly say I have seen a well day until after I used Pink Pills. I was an invalid for fourteen years, seven of which I was almost helpless, and had to be carried when moved from place to place. I was troubled with serious stomach troubles, and was constantly growing worse. My feet became paralyzed, then my ankles and afterwards my knees became paralyzed. We became convinced that creeping paralysis had fastened itself upon me, and my death was thought to be a matter of only a short time. My husband had procured some Pink Pills, and as they were helping him, greatly I tried them, and can truly say of them that they are an extraordinary medicine. I have experienced relief beyond my fondest hope almost. My paralysis is a thing of the past, and though I am a woman of sixty-three years, I now do all my housework, and am enjoying good health. Thanks to Dr. Williams and his medicines.

The Pill that Will.

"The pill that will," implies the pills that won't. Their name is legion. The name of "the pill that will" is Ayer's Cathartic Pill. It is a pill to rely on. Properly used it will cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and the other ills that result from torpid liver. Ayer's pills are not designed to spur the liver into a momentary activity, leaving it in yet more incapable condition after the immediate effect is past. They are compounded with the purpose of toning up the entire system, removing the obstructing conditions, and putting the liver into proper relations with the rest of the organs for natural co-operation. The record of Ayer's Pills during the half century they have been in public use establishes their great and permanent value in all liver affections.
