In Memoriam.

John C. Taylor died at his residence in this village on Sunday afternoon, October 25, 1896, of heart failure brought on by asthma and nervous prostration. He had only been confined to the house one week, and his death was unexpected and a great surprise to his relatives and friends.

Mr. Taylor was born at Barkisland, in Yorkshire, England, Dec. 23, 1834. He came to this state with his parents in 1842 and settled with them on a farm in Unadilla, Livingston county, Mich., where he spent his boyhood and youth. He obtained a fair education attending and teaching the district schools and at the State Normal School. He came to Chelsea in 1859, where he has resided for the most part to the time of his death. He married Miss Hannah Kirkland May 15, 1865, who survives him. Four boys and one girl have been born to them, only three of whom (Lorenzo K. and George Taylor, of Detroit, and Harry Taylor, of Chelsea) survive him.

Deceased was a man of decided convictions on all questions, and he never would deny or conceal them for the sake of popularity or public favor. Whether teacher, farmer, citizen, business man or friend, he was always true to the right as he understood it, and never shrank from any duty because it was unpleasant. He did his part to make the produce market of Chelsea what it has been, and that has been the main factor in calling trade and money here and in building up Chelsea beyond its neighbors.

He had the confidence of all who knew him and had business with him, and he will be sadly missed, not only by the stricken family, but by an appreciative community and the church to which he had belonged so long. The sympathy of many friends goes out to the faithful wife and children, in whose home there is a vacant chair that can never be filled. The dark cloud that has fallen upon them is lightened only by the thought that their loss is his gain, and that he has only ceased work here to continue it in a more enlarged field under more perfect conditions. A large number of friends and neighbors paid their last tribute of respect to the memory of deceased at the funeral on Wednesday from the M. E. church.

Silver Wedding.

A most enjoyable and delightful social event was the celebration of the silver jubilee of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs.
John P. Foster, respected residents of Chelsea. The happy event was celebrated last Sunday, Oct. 25, 1896, at their home on South Main street, and was a total surprise to the honored couple. Only near relatives were present.

After attending high mass Mr. and Mrs.
Foster returned home and found their house filled with relatives, who extended heartily felicitations and best wishes to them. An elegant dinner was then served, to which all did ample justice.
After the delicious repast the Rev. Father Considine, their pastor, on behalf of the donors, presented in brief and eloquent words a beautiful silver service of six pieces to Mr. and Mrs. Foster, who were greatly surprised at this evidence of esteem and affection, but managed to return suitable thanks. Beautiful prayerbooks were also presented to the happy couple by their pastor.

After some hours of delightful social intercourse the happy company dispersed, all sincerely wishing that Mr. and Mrs.
Foster might live to celebrate their golden jubilee. Mr. and Mrs. Foster were the first couple married in the present St.
Mary's church, Chelsea.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at

A JAPANESE order for 11,000 tons of steel rails has been placed in the United States, and it is said that another large order is pending from the same source. Meanwhile various Japanese products are finding their way into American markets to the mutual advantage of producer and consumer.

SOME of the new guns to be used for the first time during the autumn campaign in the Sudan will carry a highly explosive shell ten miles. Each shell is capable of disabling 200 of the enemy. These guns have such a rapid fire capacity that before the first shell bursts three others are on their way in the same direction.

The queen of Sweden, who is one of the richest women in the world, owes her great wealth to the gambling tables at Weisbaden, which were owned by her brothers, from whom she inherited her vast fortune. Her majesty, who is a bit eccentric, always dresses in the costume of the Salvation Army, to which organization she belongs.

PHILADELPHIA is wrestling with the question of pure drinking water. The Pennsylvania Sanitation Co. offers to run the Quaker City's drinking water through a sewage sieve for $3,000,000 a year, while the Philadelphia Water Supply Co. offers to bring to the city and filter 350,000,000 gallons of water daily from the Upper Delaware river for 60 per cent. of the present city water rents.

MRS. LESA W. BROWN, a wealthy resident of Chicago, is interceding with the authorities for the release of Fred Johnson, a 14-year-old boy, who was caught attempting to break into her residence for purpose of theft. His story of his unhappy condition which led him into the crime won her sympathies, and she expressed her determination to found a society for the redemption of young criminals.

The Bancroft is the smallest and weakest vessel of our fleet, but for all that her strength is great enough to make any nation hesitate long before it fires upon her. In the splendid and inspiring words of the New York Sun, "She carries four small guns, 13 stripes and 45 stars." Her puny four-inch guns are nothing, but those stars and stripes represent 70,000,000 of people who never were defeated and never will be.

SOME most remarkable collections have been left behind by Arthur Hamilton, a wealthy and eccentric Englishman, who has just died near Vienna. Not the least singular consists of 20,000 buttons, representing all the uniforms of the different armies of the world. Another collection is made up of the teeth of all the most formidable wild beasts, while in contrast to this are 352 fans which originally belonged to the most beautiful women in the world.

A CURIOUS and slightly known fact is that it is impossible to move the eye while looking at its reflection in a mirror. The eye is the most movable part of the face, yet if you try to look at it and move it a thousandth part of an inch you will be balked in your purpose. The moment you endeavor to perceive the motion of the eye it becomes fixed. That is why a person's expression as he sees himself in the glass is entirely different from the one by which his friends recognize him.

BETWEEN the mountains of India and Persia is a powerful tribe among whom an extraordinary custom prevails. Woman's rights have apparently received full recognition, for the ladies of the tribe can choose their own husbands. All a single woman has to do when she wishes to change her state is to send a servant to pin a handkerchief to the hat of the man on whom her fancy lights, and he is obliged to marry her, unless he can show he is too poor to purchase her at the price her father requires.

A SURGICAL case is reported in one of the French technical papers in which a broken end of a needle in the hand of a woman was withdrawn and without the loss of any blood. The hand was placed near the poles of a very powerful electro-magnet in such a position that the needle was drawn in the direction of its point. After nine treatments, lasting altogether 30 hours, the needle came out through the skin. It had been in the hand two months, and as its definite location was not known, a surgical operation had not been performed.

BOERHAAVE, the greatest doctor of his time, was anxious that it should go forth that even the most eminent doctor is somewhat of a "humbler." He carefully handed the key of a small diary to his executor, bade him open it immediately after his decease and let the contents go forth to the world at large. When the note book was opened all its pages but the last were blank, and on that final one there was written in large letters: "Directions to patients: Keep your feet warm and your head cool, and trust for the rest to Providence."

"MOTHER'S APRON STRINGS."

When I was but a verdant youth
I thought the truly great
Were those who had attained, in truth,
To man's mature estate.
Or spoke my soul so sadly tried
And none my soul so sadly tried
As he who said that I was tied
To mother's apron-strings.

I loved my mother, yet it seemed
That I must break away
And find the broader world I dreamed Beyond her presence lay.
But I have sighed and I have cried
O'er all the cruel stings
I would have missed had I been tied
To mother's apron-strings.

Oh, happy, trustful girls and boys!
The mother's way is best.
She leads you mid the fairest joys
Through paths of peace and rest.
If you would have the safest guide,
And drink from sweetest springs,
Oh, keep your hearts forever tied
To mother's apron-strings.

SUGAR OR SALT.

BY RYE JOHNSON.

It was an old-fashioned house, in the suburb of an old-fashioned town. Nancy Moore stood upon the porch and watched the carriage until it disappeared around the bend near the bridge; then, turning, danced gleefully into the pleasant kitchen. "Miss Nancy Moore, 'Missus' for the day, if you please," she said aloud with a sweeping courtesy, though her own bright self was the only being visible. Then dropping into an easy chair, placed invitingly near an open window through which the sweet morning air came in delightful little puffs, she proceeded to plan her day's work.

"Mamma and papa are off for the day, and I may work my own sweet will while they are away. There's a rhyme to begin with, you silly thing. They will be gone until near five, and Cousin Hal is coming home with them to tea. I am to prepare that tea, or rather dinner. Let me see, what shall we have? There's beautiful bread, butter and honey for a foundation. I'll make some of those mock mince pies papa loves so dearly. Then a white cake and a cream layer, a mold of variegated apple jelly to please mamma, some lemon jelly to please Hal" (with a flush at mention of that name); "then there's potato salad, creamed potatoes, fried chicken—there—that will do, Nancy, you must remember the darling old papa is not rich."

Springing up, the happy girl took down a huge gingham apron from a convenient nail, and after donning it, rolled her sleeves above her dimpled elbows. The fire was rebuilt in the cookstove and the dampers were regulated. Then seizing a pan she ran lightly down the cellar stairs to the potato bin.

"Two cupfuls and a half of grated potato," she said, as she selected tubers, "and if I have any over I shan't put it in as I did last time. Strange how easy it is to spoil a nice dish by not following the directions implicitly."

Nancy sang merrily as she pared, washed and dried the potatoes. Then she proceeded to grate them coarsely, but unfortunately rubbed her thumb over the grater, thereby interrupting her song for a minute. But she was too happy to care for a wounded thumb and was soon warbling away in rivalry with the birds who were singing their October melodies preparatory to a flitting.

"Two cupfuls and a half of grated potato, two cupfuls of boiling water poured over them, one cupful of vinegar, one of molasses, one and a half of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon and one of cloves. Butter size of an egg and a cupful of raisins," she repeated aloud, as she added each ingredient in turn. "There, that's all. Now for my crust and papa's mince pies are made."

In a very short time she had four dainty-looking pies in the oven, and the savory odor they emitted when she presently opened the oven door was a wonderful imitation of the original to say the least.

While her pies were baking, she prepared her mold of variegated apple jelly by peeling and cutting up a pound of sour apples and putting them to cook in a stewpan with three ounces of sugar, a cupful of water and the juice and grated rind of a lemon. When they were cooked to a pulp, she put them through a strainer and added an ounce of gelatine, which she had dissolved in a gill of water. Half of the apples she colored with a teaspoonful of cochineal, and then she filled her mold with alternate layers of the colored and uncolored fruit. When it was cold, she turned it out upon a glass dish, and it was to be served with a pint of whipped cream piled high on the center. This done, she made the cream for her layer cake. By that time the pies were done and the cake making followed.

Everybody has a favorite recipe for white cake, but perhaps Nancy's simple formula for layer cake may fill the need of some one whose papa like hers is "not rich." "One cupful of white sugar," said she aloud—somehow she had talked to herself all day—"one egg, half a cupful of saleratus and one of lemon. Now just flour enough for a running batter, and into the three tins you go."

Everything turned out splendidly, and Nancy felt a thrill of pardonable pride as she surveyed her finished pies, cakes and apple jelly.

"Now for my lemon jelly," she said, after a short rest in the easy chair by the window, and a few breaths of the pure fresh air that had a hint of frost in it. "I shall be all done by twelve and can climb the hill for those autumn leaves this afternoon."

Half an hour later a row of fancy molds of golden jelly stood upon one of the wide old-fashioned window sills. A brisk and energetic war was then waged with the various articles used in baking. Of course they were speedily vanquished; and when they were all put in their places in shining cleanliness, the tired yet happy girl hung up her gingham apron and rolled down her sleeves with a sigh of relief. The chicken was in the cool cellar all ready for the frying pan, the potato salad must be prepared later on, for it could not stand too long, while it would only take a few minutes to cream the potatoes while the chicken fried.

Nancy thought of all this while setting the table. The wide kitchen was also the dining-room, but it was built before people began cutting their houses up into so many rooms. The east end with its matting-covered floor, windows full of sweet smelling plants, and daintily set table with its snowy linen and shining glass, formed so pretty and inviting a picture, no one need look further.

The girl gave a sigh of satisfaction as she surveyed her finished task, then covered all with a length of netting. An hour's rest, a lunch for which she brought a good appetite, and then she set out on her search for October treasures.

She was back long before the hour of her parents' return, and when they arrived she stood at the gate to receive them. Hal Dinsley was with them, as she had expected, and he thought he had never seen so fair a picture as she presented in her soft brown dress, a spray of belated goldenrod at her throat and another in her hair.

There was a happy look in her dark eyes, and a deep flush stained her cheek as he held her hand in greeting. But somehow he did not like the "Cousin Hal," so freely bestowed. A nearer and dearer title would have been far more to his liking.

They were a little late, so made haste to prepare for the meal which Nancy said was waiting for them.

How everybody did enjoy that tea. It was not considered ill-mannered in that section, if anything was particularly good, to say so, and Nancy found herself loaded with compliments.

"Now, here's a pie a man can eat without a haunting fear of indigestion or nightmare," said Mr. Moore, as he deposited a generous triangle of the mock mince upon his plate. "You have excelled yourself, dear, they are splendid." Thus it was with everything until the cakes were passed.

Nancy sat with downcast eyes, blushing under Hal's admiring glances, when a sudden and complete silence on the part of all caused her to look up. Mr. Moore was evidently on the verge of a fit, or making a heroic attempt to suppress a laugh. She glanced at Hal. He, too, was smiling, despite all efforts to the contrary. "My dear," said her mother in a queer voice, "where did you get the sugar for your cake?"

Nancy looked surprised. "Why, after I used what was in the bucket, I opened that paper papa brought yesterday."

"Oh, by George, I thought so," and Mr. Moore burst into a ringing peal of laughter.

Mrs. Moore could not speak, but motioned for Nancy to taste her piece of cake.

She obeyed, but the expression of disgusted amazement on her face which followed was too much for Hal, and he joined the chorus. Nancy sat a moment the picture of mortification. Her beautiful cake, which revealed the snow in whiteness, and her cream layer of which she had been so proud, were both made of salt!

But really, it was too comical, and a moment later she was laughing as heartily as any of them.

Well, the supper was a great success, notwithstanding her awful blunder; and ere she laid her head upon her pillow that night, Cousin Hal, who really was no cousin after all, had asked her to sweeten his cakes for all his life. And she had promised to do so, provided he furnished nothing but salt.

Nancy is now mistress of a home of her own, and has become a notable housewife. But she never uses the contents of a package without being sure whether it is sugar or salt.—Good Housekeeping.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

The Jackson Prison.

The biennial report of the board of control and warden of the state prison at Jackson for the two years ended June 30, 1896, is completed, and says:

The total earnings July 1, 1894, to June 30, 1896, were as follows: On contracts, $130,799.24; on state account, $25,198.44; total, $155,997.68.

The population of the prison for the two years is as follows: Number of inmates, July 1, 1894, 856; since received, 484; returned from asylum for insane, 9; returned from parole, 1. Total, 1,350. Number discharged at expiration of sentence, 383; transferred to Ionia, 51; transferred to Marquette, 25; sent to asylum for insane, 21; to Detroit house of correction, 2 (females); discharged for new trial, 6; escaped, 1; pardoned, 8; died, 12; released on parole, 17; remaining in custody, June 30, 1896, 824; net loss in population, 32.

Under the new parole law 17 men have been paroled from the prison, and the law has thus far worked very successfully.

The expense of the prisoners per capita per day for two years has been 40 3-10 cents, and the earnings per capita per day have been 34 1-10 cents.

Case Affecting Convicts.

Charles Miller, a convict serving a sentence at the prison in Jackson, by his attorney has raised the question of the constitutionality of the law passed in 1893 governing "good time of convicts." Miller was sentenced before the good-time law was passed. He claims his time should have expired. The warden and board of control of the prison say the law does not hold good as to prisoners received before the law passed, and therefore he is still a convict. The case was argued and submitted to the supreme court, and the decision will affect over 50 prisoners.

OLD BUILDINGS IN SARDINIA.

The Mystery of Their Construction Not Yet Penetrated.

For centuries past the ingenuity of learned men has been exercised on the Noraghe of Sardinia, but to this day they have no more been able to discover the origin of these famous buildings than had the Romans before them. They were unable to say whether they were used for tombs or fire temples, for trophies of victory, for observatories, or merely for human dwelling places.

More than 3,000 of them have been counted in Sardinia, standing on artificial mounds 30 or 60 feet high, and measuring at the base 100 to 300 feet in circumference. They are usually in the shape of towers, built with immense blocks of stone roughly hewn with hammers. No cement is used in their structure, nor is there any inscription to indicate their origin.

A low entrance at one side leads into a long and lofty passage, communicating by a very low door with a domed chamber beyond. On either side of this small cells have been formed in the walls. A spiral staircase rising steeply from the dome leads to another but somewhat smaller chamber above, and again beyond this to the broken top of the Noraghe.

Nothing has been found within these buildings, and to this day their existence is a mystery.

In the same vicinity other buildings have been discovered which are no less puzzling to antiquaries. The general opinion is that they were built for the purpose of burying giants.

The most interesting archaeological mysteries of this country are the Denes of Essex and Middlesex. They are perpendicular shafts sunk in the earth, with lateral caves at the bottom, but the purpose for which they were dug out has never been discovered. It is possible, however, that they might have been used as granaries or even as places of refuge in time of trouble.

The Rathes of Kerry form an interesting study, the only conclusion that has been arrived at, however, being that they were inhabited at some remote age by a race of dwarfs. The district is covered with hundreds of green mounds, beneath which, when the earth has been removed, it is seen that there are tiny underground buildings.

A small opening, through which a man is barely able to crawl on his hands and knees, gives access to the inclosed and walled-in space beyond, which is divided into several smaller chambers. Each one communicates with the other by a small hole, a similar aperture being made in the outer wall for the purpose of ventilation. A rude fireplace is sometimes found in a remote corner, but no outlet beyond the holes for ventilation is provided for the smoke. Very little more than this is known about these mysterious habitations.—London Tit-Bits.

Decrease in Potato Acreage.

Following the enormous acreage and crushing surplus of potatoes last year, a decrease in area was naturally expected. Special returns to the New England Homestead covering all potato-growing districts show that this expectation has been realized. The total acreage is reported at 7.3 per cent less than last year and aggregates not far from 2,960,000 acres. The changes in distribution are by no means uniform, but in only two states is any increase shown; these are Kansas and Nebraska, where a considerable part of the breadth planted last year was abandoned.

The distribution of the present crop is much more nearly normal than was that of last year. In 1895 a combination of causes induced the farmers of the northwest to plant an extensive acreage, and as the season was entirely favorable a crop much beyond the consumptive demand was grown in that section, and this surplus weighed with crushing effect upon the market all over the country. The experience convinced farmers of the northwest that sudden changes in crop distribution were unwise, and they have this year planted only their usual area.

Throughout most of our New England states potatoes are doing well. Late rains proved advantageous. East of the Alleghanies and in the central west the area is slightly contracted, but no sensational change is apparent. With the exception of Texas and Arkansas, where June drought greatly damaged the crop, the season to date has been entirely favorable and the average condition of the crop, 96.5, is very high, 5 points better than last year.

Two Views of Pensions.

"There may be fair differences of opinion as to the extent and conditions of pension relief, but there is no room for doubt as to pensions," writes ex President Harrison in the November Ladies' Home Journal—"This Country of Ours" article.

"Eleven dollars a month for war service implies, at least, relief in case of wounds or sickness for the soldier, and that the public will care for his widow and minor children. When the law of pillage prevailed it was otherwise; and when our rich men take to fighting our wars we can abolish the pension system, but thus far it is as historically true of the armies that won our independence, delivered us from the Indians and the British, and saved the nation in the great civil war, as of the Kingdom of Heaven: 'not many rich.'

"There are two views of the pension question—one from the 'Little Round Top' at Gettysburg, looking out over a field sown thickly with the dead, and around upon bloody, blackened and maimed men cheering the shot-torn banner of their country; the other from an office desk on a busy street, or from an endowed chair in a university, looking only upon a statistical table."

A STEAMER SINKS.

The Arago Is Wrecked in a Fog Off the Oregon Coast.

Four Passengers and Nine of Her Crew Lose Their Lives—A Brief Story of a Terrible Battle with the Waves.

Marshfield, Ore., Oct. 21.—The Oregon Coal & Navigation company's steamship Arago, Capt. Reed, was wrecked Tuesday morning on the Coos bay bar and four passengers and nine members of the crew were drowned. The vessel was endeavoring to enter the harbor at Empire City and the engines were slowed down while the bar was being crossed. A strong tide-rip carried the vessel on the submerged rocks of the partially-constructed government jetty. She struck so hard that a hole was knocked in her bottom directly under the engine room, and a few seconds later the vessel sank in eight fathoms of water. The deckhouses and upper works were carried away, as were also the life rafts and boats. In the midst of the confusion the passengers and crew clung to whatever debris they could reach. Two boats were captured, and into these 18 persons climbed, leaving the captain and five of the crew clinging to the rigging, which was still above water. For two hours the boats endeavored to make land through the breakers. A huge wave capsized one of them and all of its nine occupants were drowned. The other boat was finally piloted safely into the bay and the life-saving crew notified. With much difficulty the captain and remaining seamen were removed from the rigging, which was rapidly being submerged. Three seamen afterward floated ashore in safety on life rafts, and all the passengers and crew are now accounted for.

TRADE REVIEW.

The Flurry in Wheat—Many Contracts Awaiting Result of Election.

New York, Oct. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say:

"The event of the week has been the sensational advance of wheat to 83 cents for cash on Tuesday, a rise of 5½ cents, and its fall to 77 cents on Thursday, gaining 1½ on Friday. The rise was magnified by covering of speculative sellers who imagined the advance had gone too far, but was at bottom based on an extraordinary foreign demand, which has engaged grain vessels from all Pacific as well as Atlantic ports for months ahead. How great the shortage in ordinary European supplies may be is the point of doubt and speculation, but none now question that shipments from the Pacific coast to India and the decrease in Russian yield are important, and the buying of enormous quantities for export, with engagements of freight room at higher rates, express the belief of European dealers."

"Wheat exports from the Pacific coast are large, and over 500,000 bushels per day have been engaged ahead for some time. The Atlantic exports, about 900,000 bushels larger than last year for the week, have been in October 6,570,213 bushels, flour included, as against 5,086,388 last year. Corn moves largely and at lower prices, having declined a cent for the week. Cotton has advanced a sixteenth, to 8 cents, with only moderate transactions, and heavy receipts from plantations."

"The most striking feature of industrial returns is the number of contracts conditioned upon the election. These already are enough to make business rather lively for a time, and many others are pending which will probably be held back until November 1."

"The movement of currency to the interior has been only $3,500,000 for the week, and the market for commercial loans has been dull. The volume of business shown by exchange has been 8.7 percent less than last year and 9.6 percent less than in 1892. "Failures for the week have been 274 in the United States, against 231 last year; and 69 in Canada, against 58 last year."

READY TO ARBITRATE.

British Minister to Present Proposals for a General Treaty.

Washington, Oct. 24.—It can be stated authoritatively that the proposals Sir Julian Pauncefote is authorized by the British foreign office to present to the state department embrace both the Venezuelan boundary question and the question of a general treaty between Great Britain and the United States whereby all future disputes will be submitted to arbitration. The nature of the proposals is such that it is believed the dispute over Venezuela is much nearer to final solution than at any time since the trouble began. Sir Julian Pauncefote called at the state department Friday to lay his proposals before Secretary Olney, but it being cabinet day the ambassador and secretary had only a ten-minute conference.

Gold in Alaska.

Washington, Oct. 24.—James Shenkley, governor of Alaska, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior says there is great encouragement in the outlook for the Alaskan gold mines. During the year ending the first of this month $2,300,000 in gold bullion has been taken from the mines, the greater part being the product of low grade ores, much of which yielded less than four dollars per ton. Almost any grade of gold ores now can be worked at a profit here. Confidence in Alaska as a gold-producing country increases with the development of her resources.

Gain for the Farmer.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Additional reports were received at the department of agriculture Friday which indicate that the farmers of the United States have put $28,688,000 in their pockets since September in consequence of the rise in the price of wheat. If the present prices are maintained until the entire crop is marketed, the revenue to the producers of wheat will be increased by $30,000,000.

MASSACRED.

Six Members of a Scientific Party Slain by Natives of the Solomon Islands.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—News of the massacre of part of an Austrian scientific party on the island of Guadalcanar, in the Solomon group, reached this city Thursday by the steamer Monowai. The party left Sydney to cruise about and visit the Solomon islands in scientific research in the Austrian man-of-war Albatross. They had visited all the isles except Guadalcanar, on which there is a mountain called the Lion's Head. The party wanted to reach the summit and hired native guides. They started for the summit on the 5th of August. In the party were Baron Foulon von Norbeck, Lieut. Budik, Midshipman de Beaufort, 20 sailors, another midshipman, the baron and two servants and two native guides. After two days' march one of the midshipmen and seven sailors returned, as they became too fatigued to proceed farther.

The day after they left the camp the baron, Lieut. Budik, seven sailors and two servants started up the mountain. Several bushmen met on the way joined the expedition, but as they were without arms no particular attention was paid to them. The baron was in the lead all the way, and as he neared the top of the mountain a bushman, who appeared to be a chief, was seen by the party. As he appeared two shots were fired lower down the mountain from the direction of the camp. The shots seemed to be a signal for the chief to attack the baron's party. Bushmen from a score of places at once rushed out, and the baron was struck on the neck with a tomahawk, while a crowd of bushmen attacked the rest of the party with clubs. The native who had cut down the baron was promptly shot by a sailor. Lieut. Budik also put his revolver to good use. One sailor had to protect himself with a tomahawk he had wrested from a native. The other sailors were well armed and the bushmen finally had to retreat to the woods, many of them wounded. The baron was the only one of the party badly hurt. At first it was thought he would recover, but he gradually sank after he had walked back to camp and died in three hours.

The sight when the party returned to the camp was a bloody one. Midshipman de Beaufort had been cut to death and three sailors and a native guide had also been killed. Six sailors and one guide had been wounded. The news was then sent to Capt. Maulek, of the Albatross, and a relief party was sent and a safe return was made to the ship.

A NEW BISHOP.

John D. Morrison, Archdeacon of Ogdensburg, N. Y., Elected Bishop of Duluth.

New York, Oct. 22.—The New York house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church reconvened shortly after ten o'clock Wednesday morning and the nomination committee reported three names for the new bishopric of Duluth, Minn. After communion service the bishops proceeded to vote on the nominations. John D. Morrison, D. D., L. L. D., archdeacon of Ogdensburg, N. Y., and rector of St. John's church in this city, was elected bishop of Duluth.

[Dr. Morrison was born in Canada 50 years ago and was graduated from McGill University. He received his degree of D. D. from Union college in this state. His first charge in this country after coming from Canada was rector of Christ's church, in Herkimer, N. Y., and he remained there about six years, when he went to Ogdensburg, where he has been ever since.]

RAMBUSCH KILLS HIMSELF.

Abseconing Wisconsin Banker Commits Suicide in Virginia.

Juneau, Wis., Oct. 21.—A dispatch was received here Tuesday night from the coroner of Fredericksburg, Va., stating that W. T. Rambusch, the abseconing banker of this city, had committed suicide there. The dispatch asked what disposition should be made of the body. Instructions were at once sent to forward the body to this place for burial. Rambusch was engaged in banking and the abstract business. He disappeared on October 10, and forgeries amounting to between $300,000 and $500,000 have come to light. The total amount of his irregularities is not known.

Bishop Keane's Successor.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The names chosen by the directors of the Catholic university Wednesday to be submitted to the pope as candidate to succeed Bishop Keane are Father Conaty, of Worcester, Mass., president of the summer school of philosophy at Plattsburg, N. Y.; Father Daniel J. Riordan, of St. Elizabeth's church, Chicago, and Father Mooney, vicar-general of New York. One of these will be designated by the pope as rector of the university.

Victim of Football.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 22.—Charles Braylock, a youth 19 years of age, died Tuesday from the effects of injuries received last Friday in a football game here. Braylock was thrown violently to the ground and half a dozen players fell on him in their effort to get the ball. He was also severely kicked, and his spinal column was injured, several of the bones being broken.

Death of Columbus Delano.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24.—Hon. Columbus Delano, secretary of the interior under Grant, died suddenly at 11 a. m. Friday at Lake Howe, his suburban home near Mount Vernon. He was 87 years old. Mr. Delano died suddenly and unexpectedly.

PRESIDENT AT PRINCETON.

Mr. Cleveland Delivers an Address at the Famous College.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 23.—President Cleveland delivered an address in Alexander hall, Princeton university, on Thursday. His theme was the influence of universities and colleges on intelligent patriotism. A synopsis of his address follows:

He said a government resting upon the will and universal suffrage of the people has no anchorage except in the people's intelligence. A collegiate training should be a constant warning against popular rashness and excess. A constant stream of thoughtful, educated men should come from our universities and colleges preaching national honor and integrity. He recognized the practical necessity and desirability of political parties. He would by no means control or limit the utmost freedom of discussion of legitimate governmental policies, but there are immutable truths and fundamental principles which are related to our national condition that should never be dragged into the field of political strife nor impressed into the service of partisan contention. When the excitement of party warfare presses dangerously near our national conservatism of our universities and colleges warn the contestants in impressive tones against the perils of a breach impossible to repair. He concluded as follows:

"When popular discontent and passion are stimulated by the arts of designing partisans to a pitch perilously near to class hatred or sectional anger I would have our universities and colleges sound the alarm in the name of American brotherhood and fraternal dependence. When the attempt is made to delude the people into the belief that their suffrages can change the operation of natural laws, I would have our universities and colleges proclaim that those laws are inexorable and far removed from political control. When selfish interest seeks undue private benefit through governmental aid and public places are claimed as reward of party service, I would have our universities and colleges persuade the people to a relinquishment of the demand for party spoils and exhort them to a disinterested and patriotic love of their government for its own sake and because in its true adjustment and unperturbed operation it secures to every citizen his just share of the safety and prosperity it holds in store for all."

EX-SPEAKER CRISP DEAD.

Sudden Call of the Famous Georgian—Sketch of His Career.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 24.—Hon. Charles Frederick Crisp, speaker of the Fifty-first and Fifty-second congresses, died at Holmes' sanitarium here at 1:45 o'clock Friday afternoon. A paroxysm of pain in the heart produced death, the paroxysm probably resulting from a rupture of the heart as the result of fatty degeneration.

[Mr. Crisp was one of the best-liked men in congress. He commanded the respect of friends and opponents by his abilities and his generally unflinching fairness, which was broken up only once or twice, during the bitter controversy with Speaker Reed over the Reed rules. He was born in Sheffield, England, where his parents had gone on a visit in 1845, and his fact took him out of the category of vice presidential possibilities when some years ago he was brought to the United States before he was a year old, was educated in Savannah and Macon, Ga., served in the Confederate army and was made a prisoner, was admitted to the bar in 1866, became successively state solicitor-general, judge, congressman and speaker of the house of representatives in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses. His congressional career in the lower house extended over 14 years, and he was the choice of his party for the United States senate when he died.]

FATAL FLAMES.

Brooklyn Fireman Loses His Life While on Duty—Three Others Injured.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 23.—A five-story building on Seventh street occupied by Oscar E. A. Weisner, manufacturer of spring beds; J. K. Ryan and Wanters Brothers, diamond cutters, and the Etta Knitting company, manufacturers of ladies underwear, was burned Thursday evening, causing a loss of about $50,000. During the progress of the fire Alfred Beaumann, a fireman, while standing on an extension of the burning building was caught in a back draught and forced into the flames. When his body was rescued it was burned to a crisp. Three firemen who tried to rescue Beaumann were badly burned.

Heavy Registration in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The second and last day of registration in Chicago showed, according to a conservative estimate, that at least 85,000 names had been placed upon the books when the polls closed at nine o'clock Tuesday night. Over 293,000 registered on the first day—the 13th of this month—making a total number of voters registered about 380,000.

Well-Known Painter Dead.

New York, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Emily Jackson Lakey, well known as a painter of animal subjects, died suddenly of apoplexy Thursday night at her home in Cranford, N. J. She was about 60 years old.

COST NINE LIVES.

Awful Result of a Collision Between Trains Near St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—A head-end collision occurred on the St. Louis & San Francisco railway near Meramec Highlands at ten o'clock Sunday morning, by which nine people were killed and a score injured. The scene of the wreck is 13 miles west of this city. The Valley Park accommodation train, going east very fast on a down grade, came into collision with the second section of a west-bound excursion train going to St. James, Mo., and carrying 240 G. A. R. men and their families. The impact demolished both engines and wrecked or derailed all the cars. The first news of the wreck reached Union Station, and a relief train carrying physicians and nurses was at once sent out, arriving at the wreck at noon. At one o'clock p. m. nine bodies had been recovered. It is believed that at least 20 more are beneath the wreck. Of the 20 injured eight are likely to die. Following is a list of the dead:

Charles Hohl, engineer accommodation train, St. Louis; Conrad Kunze, excursionist, St. Louis; Charles Mobles, excursionist, St. Louis; W. C. Stromberg, excursionist, St. Louis; Frank Hasler, locomotive fireman, St. Louis; J. C. Blevins, passenger accommodation, Beckville, Mo.; William Cartwright, excursionist, St. Louis; Bernard McKenna, St. Louis, in charge of refreshment car; Mary McKenna, aged 14, assisting her father.

The injuries of the following are thought to be fatal. All are residents of St. Louis: Engineer Dryden, of the excursion train; Henry Osgood, conductor excursion train; George Wolf, conductor accommodation train; Charles R. Milnitz, Mrs. Peter Hall, Frank Garrity, A. E. Triplett, Frederick Lenz.

It is known that Engineer Dryden had orders to wait at Windsor siding, near where the collision occurred, to allow the accommodation to pass, but he increased the train's speed and tried to overhaul the first section of the train.

The excursionists were going to St. James, Mo., to assist in the dedication of a home for the aged widows of veterans. There were ten passengers in the two cars of the accommodation train.

EDWIN WILLITS DEAD.

Ex-Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Expires at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The flag of the agricultural building was at half-mast Saturday on account of the death of Edwin Willits, who was assistant secretary of agriculture during the administration of President Harrison. Mr. Willits died suddenly at his home in this city Friday evening. He became ill at his office about four o'clock. He was taken home in a carriage, a physician having been summoned to meet him there. The doctor found that Mr. Willits had been stricken with a form of kidney trouble from which he had suffered at different times for several years. Every effort was made to restore him, but he gradually sank into a state of coma and died in a few hours. Mr. Willits, since he retired from public life, had practiced law in Washington. Mr. Willits was 66 years of age. He had been a resident of Michigan since 1836. He was a member of the Forty-fifth congress, was for 12 years a member of the state board of education and had been principal of the state normal school and president of the Michigan agricultural college. He served as assistant secretary of agriculture under Secretary Rusk, and for eight months held the same position at the special request of Secretary Morton. Mr. Willits was also president of the world's fair board in charge of government exhibits.

THE FATHER ALONE SAVED.

A Denver Grocer Loses His Entire Family of Six Persons While Boating.

Denver, Col., Oct. 26.—By the overturning of a pleasure boat on Smith's lake at five o'clock Sunday afternoon A. J. Smute lost his entire family, consisting of his wife and five children. Their names are Hilda, the mother, aged 39; Evan, aged 13; Carl, aged eight; Edith, aged six, and Esther and Ruth, 17 months old, twins. He had them out for the afternoon on the water and the boat was capsized and the entire family fell into the water. The lake is filled with weeds which grow up from the bottom, a horrible fungus growth that fastens about the body like the tentacles of an octopus and into this the unfortunate fell and struggled in vain. Only the father, who fought to free himself, arose to the surface and when he came up he had the child Ruth under his arm, but she was dead when a boat reached him from the shore, he having held it under water all the time, he not knowing in his excitement that he was drowning it.

VICTIMS OF POISON.

Three Members of a Kansas Family Dead—Servant Arrested.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 26.—As a result of strychnine poisoning, two little girls, aged four and ten, children of Charles Mussey, of 2411 Forest avenue, are now dead and suspicion of murder rests upon a servant, Alice Platt, who is now in jail, held to await examination. Friday afternoon the children were given cookies by the servant, and about five o'clock were stricken with convulsions and the younger child died before medical aid reached her. Saturday morning the elder child died. Five weeks ago Mrs. Mussey's mother, Mrs. Ellen T. Torrence, 60 years old, was stricken under like circumstances as the children and died in convulsions. It is now believed she was poisoned by strychnine. The servant is said to be insane.

IT WAS A MURDER.

Evidence That Hamlin J. Andrus Was an Assassin's Victim.

New York, Oct. 22.—Hamlin J. Andrus, secretary of the Arlington chemical works of Yonkers, was instantly killed by an explosion in his office there Wednesday morning. His family declare he was assassinated with a bomb.

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The latest developments in the terrible tragedy of Wednesday at the Arlington chemical works prove almost beyond a doubt that Hamlin J. Andrus met a horrible death at the hands of an inhuman assassin. The case has been taken out of the hands of the local police and Pinkerton detectives have been called in. The plot that resulted in the murder of Mr. Andrus was unquestionably deeply laid, and the plotter evidently an ingenious rascal. In searching the building for evidence this was made manifest. Near the window where the bomb was exploded was found a coil of wire. Close scrutiny showed that the wire ran down through a hole in the floor used for the gas pipe into the cellar. There, directly under where Mr. Andrus was found, were four small dry batteries to which wires were attached. Both the wires and the batteries were new and showed evidence of having been recently placed in position. A thorough investigation of this contrivance seemed to prove beyond doubt that Mr. Andrus was murdered deliberately. The device was so ingeniously constructed that the assassin could manipulate it from a point of safety on the outside of the building. The coroner has taken possession of all the matter, and believes will eventually lead to the capture of the assassin. The latest developments dispute the theory that the bomb was intended for John E. Andrus, brother of the murdered man. The Pinkerton men are working on a clew which shows a motive for the taking of Hamlin J. Andrus' life. An autopsy showed that the upper part of the head had been blown off and one arm shattered. Two large pieces of the bomb were found buried in the heart, one of the pieces being several inches in length. Small pieces of the bomb were found imbedded in various parts of the body.

CAPTURED.

United States Cruiser Raleigh Gathers in a Filibustering Steamer.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 22.—Off New Smyrna bar Wednesday morning the United States cruiser Raleigh captured the filibustering steamer Dauntless and her tender, R. L. Mabey. The Dauntless was caught about six o'clock and the Mabey later. The latter steamer was putting out to sea with coal and supplies for the Dauntless when the Raleigh fired a blank cartridge for her to stop. The Mabey turned about and tried to escape, whereupon the Raleigh fired a solid shot across her bows and the tug heaved to. An officer was put in charge of the Mabey and the Dauntless was brought to St. John's bar, and now lies inside, in charge of officers from the Raleigh. Cubans here are greatly excited, but claim that the Dauntless had no arms nor men on board. In chasing and capturing the Dauntless the Raleigh used her guns several times and the alleged filibuster came near being sunk.

MINISTER TERRELL TALKS.

Says Our Relations with Turkey Are Most Cordial.

Constantinople, Oct. 22.—In an interview Hon. A. W. Terrell, United States minister to Turkey, said the relations of the United States with Turkey were of the most cordial character. Not a single American citizen had been sacrificed during the late massacre in Constantinople, and it was highly improbable that the United States government would depart from its traditional policy of nonintervention by meddling in Turkey's domestic affairs.

In reply to the statements regarding America's policy toward Turkey, Minister Terrell replied to the newspaper reporters about the Baneroff forcing the Dardanelles, saying that the report is too ridiculous for serious notice.

A TRAIN ROBBED.

Masked Men Plunder It of a Small Sum in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—Chicago & Alton west-bound train No. 48, due here at 6:50 p. m., was held up 2½ miles east of Independence just before dark Friday night by four masked men. They cut the engine loose, compelled the express messenger to open the express car and secured three packages of jewelry and $300. The thorough safe was not opened. None of the passengers were molested. The bandits drove the engine two miles and took to the woods just before reaching Independence. The hold-up occurred in Blue Cut, which has been the scene of two previous robberies by the James boys. The train was brought into Kansas City at 8:45 p. m. Not a shot was fired and no one was hurt.

Manitoba Short of Wheat.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 24.—The government has revised its estimate of the wheat yield of Manitoba, reducing the amount to something less than 10,000,000 bushels. The acreage under wheat was a little short of 1,000,000 acres. This does not include wheat of the northwest territories.

Joseph Smith's Widow Dead.

Lamoni, Ia., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Bertha M. Smith, widow of Joseph Smith, once head of the reorganized Church of Latter-day Saints, was buried Wednesday. Stores were closed and business was stopped generally.

URDER.

Officers to Be Voted for in the Various States November 3.

Should the Result Be Close, Delay May Be Experienced in Ascertaining It Through Difficulty in Counting the Blanket Tickets.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The presidential election of Tuesday, November 3 next will be held under conditions which have never before prevailed, and which will render the official count a matter of difficulty and unusual delay. Since the last presidential election, almost every state which had not then adopted the Australian ballot system has enacted a law prescribing some form of secret ballot plan or closely resembling the Australian plan or closely resembling the Australian plan. The only exceptions are Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina. In the first three states named, the old ballot system prevails, and the election machinery is in the hands of the state authorities. In South Carolina there is what is called a "reform ballot," the avowed purpose of which is to restrict the votes of illiterate negroes. In nearly all the other states blanket ballots will be cast, and in many of them the count will be complicated by the fact that state, legislative and county nominations are all printed on the same ballot with the names of the presidential electors. Connecticut has an envelope system, and New Jersey prints each party ticket upon a separate ballot.

May Take Many Hours.

Should the election be in any way close, it is therefore quite possible that it may be delayed 24 hours, or even 48 hours, after the polls are closed before the result is known with absolute certainty. In states like Nebraska, for instance, where, according to conservative opinion there may not be a margin of 5,000 votes either way, it will be impossible to arrive at correct judgment until all the back counties are heard from. The polls in the cities of some states close at six, and with a governor, a legislature and county officers to elect, all on one ballot, it will take at least 24 hours to complete the count. Some idea of the general trend of votes in Ohio can probably be obtained from the result of the counties in which Cincinnati and Cleveland are respectively situated, and these results will be known comparatively early. The doubtful points are Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties. Chicago will control Illinois. There will be no doubt of the outcome when the vote of Cook county is recorded. But in other doubtful states like Indiana, Michigan and Kansas, where state and legislative tickets are also complicated the ballots, there will probably be no key note from which the result can be definitely determined on Tuesday night, unless the election should prove a landslide. In that case midnight might give a close idea who are the victors and who the vanquished. Otherwise there may be many hours of anxious suspense.

The last two presidential elections have been singularly free from uncertainty. It was known at ten p. m. on election day, 1888 that Mr. Harrison had defeated Mr. Cleveland, and it was known on election day, 1892, that Mr. Cleveland had defeated Mr. Harrison. But in the election of 1884, when Mr. Cleveland defeated Mr. Blaine, the official result hung in doubt over the vote of New York for many days.

Fusion Adds to the Complication.

The fusion tickets will add a further element of difficulty in the presidential count of next year. Fusion has been arranged between the populists and the democrats on the electoral ticket in every democratic state but Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Texas. In several of the southern states, while there has been no formal fusion between the republicans and populists on state, legislative and congressional, local arrangements have been made that amount to fusion and will have more or less to do with the result.

FOR GOOD EATING'S SAKE

The Unique System Adopted by a Railroad Company to Have Its Dining Car Service Up to the Best.

The following is an extract from the Locomotive Engineer of New York city, a paper of recognized authority in technical railroad matters:

"In connection with the through train service between Chicago, Buffalo, New York and Boston, the Nickel Plate Railroad run their own eating cars, and they have adopted a rather unique manner of keeping the men in charge of the cars up to the mark. There is a grievance committee consisting of two superintendents, the superintendent of motive power, the regular traveling representatives, and the general car inspector, who have authority to take a meal in the cars at any time and report on anything they find wrong. These officers make life a burden to the superintendent of the dining cars. There is a good deal of pleasantry about the criticisms, but those patronizing the cars find that they never have reason to complain of the victuals being cold or out of season."

"The dining car service on the trains of the Nickel Plate Railroad is something that strikes the traveler as approaching perfection. With the system in force referred to there is not much room for a 'kick' from anybody."

In conjunction with the above article I feel justified in adding our compliments to the painstaking management of the Nickel Plate Road. It has been our good fortune to have occasion to use this line in our frequent trips from Chicago to New York city and Boston.

While travelling in one of the day coaches on a little jaunt from a local station into Buffalo, I was impressed by the cleanliness of the car. The secret was soon divulged. Along came a colored porter in uniform, dust cloth and brush in hand, and with a polish here and wipe there, the seats, window sills and floor were kept scrupulously clean.

The schedules of their fast trains are convenient and the sleeping cars placed in the regular daily service are of the most luxurious type of modern car construction. Solid trains are run between Chicago, Buffalo and New York city and through sleepers to Boston.

A fact worthy of note yet remains to be pointed out to the readers of this journal which, perhaps, has not come to the notice of many. Rates are offered between the same points lower than those quoted by competitors of the Nickel Plate Road and from my experience their passenger facilities are excelled by none.

Gladness Come

With a better understanding of the transitory nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the one remedy with millions of families, and everywhere esteemed so highly by those who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. Afflicted with any actual disease, or may be recommended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Of course

the heart fails to act when a man dies, but "Heart Failure," so called, nine times out of ten is caused by Uric Acid in the blood which the Kidneys fail to remove, and which corrodes the heart until it becomes unable to perform its functions.

Health Officers in many cities very properly refuse to accept "Heart Failure," as a cause of death. It is frequently a sign of ignorance in the physician, or may be given to cover up the real cause.

The many friends of Miss Mary Telford, of Ypsilanti, formerly of Pinckney, will be pained to hear of the death of her mother, which occurred at Ypsilanti last Monday, Oct. 26, 1896. Madame Calve and Madame Melba will both appear in the next issue of The Ladies' Home Journal with articles on the voice. Madame Melba has written before and is, in fact, no novice with the pen, but this is Madame Calve's first attempt at authorship. She wrote the article in French, and after an English translation had been made of it she had the original manuscript bound between morocco covers as a souvenir of her debut as a writer.

An exchange describes as follows the difference between an agriculturalist and a farmer: "A farmer gets up at the crack of day, feeds his stock and eats his breakfast at sun up. After his frugal meal he hitches his team to the plow and taking the hard handles in his horny hands he calls 'gee haw' to his team and plows the long and weary day. The agriculturalist gets up at eight o'clock in the morning, after an easy breakfast, picks his teeth, puts on his gloves, orders his horse and buggy and drives to town.

The new picture money which is being sent out by the government is undoubtedly artistic, although some people will have reservations as to its propriety. Another consignment has been sent out in the shape of $5 bills with a design even more elaborate than that of the first $1 bill, with its misspelled "tranquility." The smaller note bore a picture of a reclining woman with one arm around a youth, to whom she is pointing out the first page of the constitution. The new $5 bill shows a woman representing civilization, holding aloft in the right hand an electric lamp and surrounded by images intended to be allegorical. It is a warm weather bill, the figures being very sparsely draped.

Dr. M. H. Raymond, one of Grass Lake's most prominent citizens, died Oct. 21, 1896, of nervous prostration. Dr. Raymond was a native of Sharon, Washtenaw county, having been born there June 19, 1836. During his early years his time was spent on the farm and in the country schools. Later he entered Albion College, but before graduating began teaching, employing his leisure hours in the study of medicine, and finally entered the medical department of the University of Michigan, from which he graduated in 1859. He then located in Grass Lake, where he has since resided and where he won the good will and respect of everyone with whom he came in contact. In September, 1862, he joined the twenty-sixth Michigan Infantry as assistant surgeon, and in April following was commissioned surgeon of the regiment, a position he held until the close of the war, being mustered out in Jackson June 4, 1865. Returning to Grass Lake he resumed his regular practice, which he has followed almost uninterruptedly until his death.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23, 1896.—There is nothing in sight at the Bryan or the McKinley headquarters in Washington to show that either is licked. On the contrary, there is an increased show of confidence among the followers of both. Senator Butler, chairman of the populist national committee, who has done comparatively little boasting during the campaign, now declares his belief in the most emphatic language that Bryan will be elected. He says he this week received information which he thinks makes it absolutely certain that Bryan will carry Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois, which will elect him with a big margin. The McKinley men will not even discuss the probability of Bryan's winning. They say that the fight has been won for several weeks, and that it is now only a question of how large McKinley's majority will be, and Vice-Chairman Apsley, of the republican congressional committee, has just put out the largest claim yet made for McKinley, and he insists that he expects from information in the possession of his committee that McKinley will get more votes than he has claimed for him. It requires no microscope, however, to see that the gentlemen who put forward these claims for both sides are very nervous, and they would doubtless be very glad to be able to feel as confident as they wish the public to think they feel.

Secretary Carlisle has gone to Kentucky to take the stump against Bryan. He will make a number of speeches, but will not remain in the state to vote, which seems a little strange in view of the belief that Kentucky will be a close state for whoever carries it.

Some idea of the enormous amount of campaign literature sent out from Washington recently may be gathered from the 40,000,000 speech envelopes which have been printed at the government printing office upon orders from Congressmen. Five million were ordered by Senator Faulkner, chairman of the democratic committee; 4,000,000 by Representative Babcock, chairman of the republican committee; 4,700,000 by Representative Linton, of Michigan, the A. P. A. leader in the House, and the remainder by other members. The literary part of the campaign is now over, and the fight is hand-to-hand.

The more conservative among the McKinleyites have been putting Kansas and Nebraska in the doubtful column, notwithstanding the claims made by the campaign managers, and some of them are now almost ready to put both states in the sure Bryan column, owing to a statement made in Washington by A. H. Plumb, son of the late Senator Plumb, of Kansas. Mr. Plumb has excellent opportunities to know the political sentiment of his own state and of Nebraska, as his business takes him to all sections of both, and he says that both states are absolutely certain to be carried by Bryan and free silver.

Everybody in Washington stopped discussing the money question long enough to extract a little amusement out of the sending of a challenge to fight a duel by one printer to another printer, both employees of the government printing office, which was all the more surprising because of the general belief that printers are as a rule bountifully endowed with common sense. The receiver of the challenge had so little respect for the "code of honor" that he had the would-be duellist arrested. Heavy penalties are provided by law for sending a challenge to fight a duel in the District of Columbia, but, forunately for the belligerent comp., the judge of the police court didn't take the affair seriously and discharged him with a warning not to repeat the offense.

An appeal to populists, issued by Mr. N. A. Dunning, who was editor of the National Watchman, the populist organ, before that paper was absorbed by Senator Stewart's Silver Knight, is creating talk among politicians. It accuses the populist national committee of having "betrayed the trust given to it, made merchandise of the party creating it," and of being "guilty of the crimes of fraud, treachery and deception against those it should have honestly served," and is especially severe on Chairman Butler, whom it accuses of wishing to force Mr. Watson off the ticket. Mr. Dunning has been known as a middle-of-the-road populist and a warm friend of Tom Watson, and there is much surmise as to whether Mr. Watson knew of this appeal before its publication and whether he endorsed it. Mr. Dunning states that he intends to vote the republican ticket, owing to his disgust at the treatment of Mr. Watson and the populists by Mr. Bryan's managers.

That the increase in the price of wheat is playing an important part in the present political campaign is not denied by anybody, but there is a radical difference in the ideas of the gold and silver men as to its cause and the effect it will have upon the votes of farmers. The silver men are divided, some saying that the rise is fictitious and that it has been engineered by the gold men in the interest of McKinley, and others that it is the natural result of the prospect of the free coinage of silver in this country. The gold men are unanimous in ascribing it to natural causes, shortage of the wheat crop in various sections of the world, and in expressing the belief that it will cause many farmers who have been favorably disposed towards silver to vote against the white metal, by convincing them that there is no connection between the price of silver and the price of farm products. Whichever is right, the farmer who has wheat to sell is getting the benefit of the increased price, which he enjoys.

For County Clerk.

Jacob F. Schuh, the popular democratic silver candidate for the clerkship of Washtenaw county, was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, in 1843. His parents came to this country and settled on a farm in Herkimer county, N. Y., when Jake was a little fellow four years old. They came to Ann Arbor in 1853, and here Mr. Schuh grew up to manhood and has lived ever since. Before he was old enough to vote he was a democrat, and he has strictly adhered to that faith. He is unswerving in his loyalty to that party and to the candidates that have been on that ticket in the 32 years he has been a voter and a worker in the political field. He has always been a public spirited man, ever ready to do anything to advance the interests of the city and county. As city treasurer he showed himself a competent and obliging official and at the same time a good friend to the laboring man. Instead of the laboring men having to go to the banks to get their orders discounted, he paid them in cash. Another instance of his obliging nature was found in that the taxpayers were not confined to banking hours to pay their taxes, he accepting them at any time during business hours. On account of his promptness and popularity Mr. Schuh was elected to a third term of office. And the people of Washtenaw county can rely on it that the same obliging ways and careful, competent habits that characterized him in the office of treasurer will be carried into his duties as county clerk, should the people by their votes elect him to that office, Tuesday, Nov. 3. As a member of the Ann Arbor board of public works he showed himself a man of sound and conservative judgment, always ready to do his duty. Voters of Washtenaw county, vote for Jacob F. Schuh for county clerk. You will make no mistake in so doing.—Ann Arbor Argus.

The Red Sea Miracle.

It is a well-known fact that at certain times of the year Liuk river, a stream a mile and a quarter long, which connects the great water systems above and below this point, becomes almost dry. This state of affairs, however, lasts, as a rule, but a few hours, during which time the people have been known to walk across the river, 300 feet wide, without getting their feet wet. The bottom of the river has been dug out in many places by the action of the water, forming large pot holes, and when the river becomes dry these holes are filled with trout, which are left stranded. At such times it is a common occurrence to see men and boys knocking the fish on the head with clubs, and in this way they secure many a good meal.

There are many traditions regarding this phenomenon among the Indians here, but the real cause of the low water in the river is the action of the wind. The course of the stream is southeast, and the high winds which prevail in the spring and fall are from the south and blow up the river. The outlet from the upper lake being small, the force of the wind keeps the water back in the big lake, causing the river to become very low.—Klamath Falls (Ore.)

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle at Glazier & Stimson's drug store.

Items Gleaned from the Lumber District.

Water lime, the very best, in bushel bags, 29 cents, of the Glazier Stove Co. What have you been paying for it?

You would never have been compelled to place that mortgage upon your farm if you had always been able to buy lumber, tile, coal and builders' supplies at the rate of profit at which The Glazier Stove Co. are now selling this line of goods.

Good bevel siding, $8.00 per thousand, of the Glazier Stove Co. 500 per center's old-time price $40.00 for the same stock.
