Mrs. Mary Stapish.

After a long and severe illness, in which she showed great patience, Mrs.
Mary Stapish, an old and respected resident of Sylvan for many years, passed to her eternal reward last Sunday morning,
Feb. 7, 1897, at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Stapish was a woman of kindly heart and gentle and refined feelings. Her sympathy and aid were ever extended to the sick and helpless, and many a home has been brightened by her presence when the Messenger of Death was hovering near.

Since the death of her husband and eldest son she has gradually declined in health, until, after a beautiful preparation, death came as a welcome relief. She was a consistent and faithful member of St.
Mary's church, from which her funeral was held last Wednesday morning, Feb.
10, 1897, at 10 o'clock. The church was filled with relatives and friends. Her pastor, the Rev. William P. Conzidine, officiated and preached an admirable and instructive sermon. The remains were laid away in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Chelsea.
Her family have the profound sympathy of the entire community.

A New Enterprise.

The canvass for the creamery and ice cream factory continues and is meeting with the favor it deserves.

When a product that will bring one-third more than the prices paid for country butter, and that too without the trouble and work to the farmer's wife, as well as an increased amount from the same milk, farmers and business men should encourage it in a substantial manner.

Washtenaw county is in the dairy belt,
and the soil is well adapted for grasses.
Chelsea has the best of railroad advantages, distance is almost annihilated by rapid railroad facilities, so that the ice cream made here can be placed in Detroit to compete with that made in the city,
and at much less cost.

The system proposed by the gentleman who has charge of the canvass is to place the Steel Separator process, which will give the sweet milk back to the farmer and rapidly reduce the cream from the milk.

Those who have seen the factory at Grass Lake working are satisfied that the machinery and fixtures are first-class.

An institution which will give a cash value to a product that now goes begging should be encouraged, and reasonable efforts made to secure it.

Fox-Howe.

Mr. William D. Fox, of Detroit, and Miss Susan M. Howe, of Chelsea, were united in marriage at St. Mary's church, Chelsea, on Tuesday, Feb. 9, 1897, at 7 a.
m. The Rev. William P. Conzidine officiated.

The happy couple were attended by Mr. Ignatius Howe, of Chelsea, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Howe, of Chicago, sister of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox took breakfast with a small company at the Chelsea House and left on the mail train for a brief trip to Bay City and other points.

Mr. Fox is a well-known and successful lawyer of Detroit. Miss Howe is an accomplished and amiable lady, who has hosts of friends in this, her native place, who will unite in wishing her and her husband all the blessings of a happy wedded life.

M. MELINE, the French premier, proposes to encourage large families in France by giving preference to families containing more than three children in distributing government scholarships and posts, and by regulating promotions and allowances according to the number of children.

It is said that the kaiser may not be able to attend Queen Victoria's jubilee celebration. He has method in this, as his grandmother might seize the opportunity to have a plain talk with him about some of his recent ignoring of family ties. It is said that William II. is afraid of his august relative.

PERHAPS the most remarkable art exhibit in the world is that of the lunatics in Ville-Evrard asylum in Paris. Most of the patients in the asylum have been painters or designers, and the physicians in charge inaugurated a "salon" of their work. The effect on the minds of the patients is said to be excellent.

It has been a source of interest and wonder to Arctic explorers to find such quantities of singing birds within the Arctic circle. They are abundant beyond belief. But the immense crops of cranberries, crowberries and cloudberries that ripen in the northern swamps account for the presence of the birds.

Mrs. MARIA LLOYD STEELE, who died the other day in Annapolis, Md., in her 92d year, was a daughter of Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner." She was born in the old Key homestead at Hlenheim, formerly Bladensburg. She was a descendant of Gov. Lloyd, of Maryland, and a niece of Chief Justice Taney.

Nothing can exceed the power of the voice of a perfect orator. Edward Everett, whose own utterance was such an entrancing spell, declared that Webster's voice was the most melodious that ever issued from human lips. Henry Clay's voice was called a band of music. Beecher's voice was a trumpet or a lute at will. George William Curtis' voice was "a harp of a thousand strings."

STAGES propelled by motors are soon to be introduced on Fifth avenue, New York. The stages are now drawn by horses, which seem out of place in these piping days of rapid transit. The directors of the Fifth Avenue Stage company, therefore, have concluded to experiment with motors, and if the scheme works well they will equip the 50 stages of the company in that way.

A SEMI-OFFICIAL notification has been issued by the prince of Wales, recommending that the schemes on the part of the people destined to celebrate in a fitting manner the sixtieth anniversary of the queen's accession to the throne should take the form of "works of mercy among the sick and suffering and of enterprises that may tend to brighten and ameliorate the condition of the poorer subjects of her majesty."

THERE is a hamlet in Hancock county, Maine, known as Green Lake, but it was never known that it got this appellation from its great wealth in frogs. The Ellsworth Enterprise, however, reports that Mr. Laban Franklin had occasion to put a lump of lime into his spring a few days ago, then in a few days cleaned it out. In doing so he found 350 frogs, most of them dead, evidently killed by the lime. He continued his search, and, taking the wall down, found 25 to 30 more.

The big ocean grayhounds will soon be equipped with lifeboats harnessed to balloons, so as to be practically unsinkable. Cylinders filled with compressed gas will be placed in compartments of the lifeboats, and from these the balloon, which will be harnessed with cords to a hollow mast connected with the cylinders, is inflated. The mast, which is iron tubing, is adjustable. The combination boat will doubtless prove of the greatest service in saving people far out at sea.

MANY people have a genuine curiosity to know if they would be seasick in case they should take an ocean voyage. An easy way to put the matter to a test is to stand before the ordinary mirror that turns in its frame, and let some one move it slowly and slightly at first, and gradually growing faster while you look fixedly at your own reflection. If you feel no effect whatever from it, the chances are that you can stand an ordinary sea voyage without any qualms.

THE Engineering and Mining Journal, an excellent authority, makes the world's output of gold during the year 1896 $218,500,000, against $201,105,000 in 1895. Other experts predict that when actual returns have been received the output of 1896 will reach $220,000,000. The United States is at the head of the list of gold producers, with $57,000,000, or a little over $10,000,000 more than in 1895. Africa comes next, with a small increase. The bulk of the increase is in the United States.

AFTER THE RAILWAYS.

Several Have a Fight on Their Hands in the Legislature.

Annual Sessions of the General Assembly Proposed—Labor Measures Noticed—Other Notes of General Interest.

[Special Correspondence.]
Lansing, Feb. 3.—Gov. Pingree's attack on the Detroit street railway companies came to the surface in the house Thursday. A bill was introduced which embodies the ideas outlined by the governor in his inaugural message. It contemplates a law forbidding the extension of the franchise of any corporation in Michigan during the constitutional period of 20 years for which the franchise under which it may be operating was granted. In other words a corporation cannot apply to a board of aldermen for a new lease of 20 years' life ten or fifteen years before its corporate life expires. Another bill requires companies in cities having a population of 150,000 to give at least a five-minute service. A bill requiring that all railroad companies in the lower peninsula reduce passenger fares to two cents per mile is being prepared for introduction.

The Pullman and Wagner palace and dining car companies have also a fight on their hands. Among the bills presented last week in the house was one providing for a tax of ten mills on the dollar upon the actual value of the capital stock of all kinds in the hands of these companies, invested in Michigan during the year preceding the taxable year. Provision is made for taxing cars that run in and out of the state. Those companies whose business is confined to Michigan, and who pay specific and other taxes, are exempted.

A proposition to amend the constitution so as to provide for annual sessions of the legislature has been noticed, the plan being to devote 50 days the first year to the introduction of bills which shall not be acted upon until the following year, thus giving the people time to consider them fully.

Labor measures noticed prohibit the payment of employes in anything but cash and make all general election days legal holidays. The latter bill is designed to make it impossible for employers to disfranchise their men by requiring them to work or lose their jobs. Another bill provides for the branding of all convict-made goods, while a fourth absolutely prohibits the contracting of convict labor and provides that the prisoners be employed at hand work for state institutions and on the highways.

One of the good roads measures which became a law two years ago provides that farmers whose wagon tires are of a certain width shall be exempted from one-fourth of the road tax. Representative Bricker says the result has been the diminution of revenue and the consequent loss of road improvement. He has a bill to repeal the law of 1895.

Gov. Pingree has appointed Nathan M. Richardson, of Caro, assistant adjutant general of the state militia. Mr. Richardson was born in 1845, entered the Second Michigan infantry at the age of 16 and served honorably with it all through the war. He was wounded several times and was a prisoner for many months.

The bill recently introduced for the organization of a new county to be called Pingree county provides for the cutting of Ontonagon county squarely in two and the south half to be called Pingree. As now organized people who live in the southern part of the county have to go to Sidnaw, Houghton county, and from there 45 miles to Ontonagon to reach the county seat, making a distance of about 75 miles from Ewen, which is directly south of Ontonagon, 24 miles, but the long route has to be taken. Ewen will undoubtedly be chosen as the county seat for Pingree county.

The labor men scored a victory in the house Tuesday, securing the passage by the committee of the whole of the Eikhof bill, providing that blowers be used on all dustmaking machines in factories and authorizing deputy sheriffs to make complaints for violations.

The anti-railroad pass fever has broken out in the legislature in most virulent form. The question has been frequently discussed since the session began, and many members have returned passes sent them. Tuesday Representative Lusk gave notice of a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution making it an offense punishable by removal from office for any public official to accept a free railroad pass or a telegraph, telephone or express frank. It is not improbable that such a proposition will be submitted to the people at the fall election.

Lost Three Members.
A bachelor's club, at Tekosha numbers 22 members. The club was organized seven years ago, and they have a custom each year of having a picture taken. Members that marry during the year must treat the club Christmas day. There were three marriages from the club last year.

Will Import Mexican Quail.
Sportsmen in southwestern Michigan will import some Mexican quail, which breed faster than the American kind, and turn them loose. In this way it is expected that in a year or two there will be good quail shooting in that section.

Bird, of Highland, for members of the state board of agriculture, for six years, were sent to the senate by Gov. Pingree. In executive session the senate refused to confirm them and they were referred to the committee on executive business. Bills were noticed requiring railroad companies to carry bicycles as baggage, and preventing the forfeiture of fire insurance policies for violation of any condition when such violation is without prejudice to the insured.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 6.—Senator Westcott noticed a bill yesterday prohibiting any life insurance company of another state from transacting business in Michigan unless one or more of its directors is a citizen of this state.

The House.
Lansing, Mich., Feb. 2.—Bills were introduced in the house yesterday to reincorporate the city of Kalamazoo; increasing the bounty for destruction of wolves; prohibiting the issue of scrip to employes by individuals or corporations; to provide for the employment of convicts in road building in any county in the state; amending the charter of the city of Negaunee. Mr. Chamberlain introduced a joint resolution looking to an amendment to the state constitution to provide for annual sessions of the legislature not to exceed 75 days; also a joint resolution fixing the compensation of members at $750.

The most important bills noticed are: Authorizing the appointment of guardians for habitual drunkards; making appropriation of $10,000 to enable the fish and game warden to more effectively protect game and fish; appropriating $25,000 for the Newberry insane asylum; providing method for bringing suits against voluntary but unincorporated clubs and societies; to change the name of the Michigan mining school to the Michigan college of mines, and an absolute prohibition of the hunting and killing of quail.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 3.—Bills were introduced in the house yesterday as follows: Abolishing pads and stamps from election booths and substituting black pencils and erasers; amending the general tax law; more clearly defining the divorce laws, so that they may be more uniformly construed; changing the name of the Michigan mining school to the Michigan school of mines; Mr. Graham's nursery inspection bill; increasing the standing appropriation providing for a fish and game warden to $10,000; increasing the salary of the fish and game warden from $1,200 to $2,000.

The most important bills noticed were: Providing that the formula for baking powders be printed on outside of packages; appropriating $4,000 for completing the compilation of records in the adjutant general's office; making all constables authorized game wardens providing for the selling and mortgaging of the right of dower of insane married persons; prohibiting the use of passes by any public officer; providing a specific tax of five per cent. of the pro-rate gross earnings of parlor, sleeping, dining and drawing-room car companies; to increase the uniform retail liquor tax to $750.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 4.—Bills were introduced in the house yesterday requiring the formula of baking powders to be printed on the outside of packages; providing for ascertaining the interest of the state of Michigan in escheated estates; providing in the manner in which servant girls may quit or be discharged, requiring one week's notice in either case; amending the general tax law; making appropriation of $4,000 to complete the compilation of records in the attorney-general's office.

The most important bills noticed were: Providing for the use of Michigan coal in all state institutions; making an appropriation of $125,000 for the Michigan mining school; for the equalization of bounties for soldiers and sailors in the war of the rebellion; fixing the liabilities of persons and corporations where parties injured were partly in fault; providing the annual license of $50 upon each sleeping car and fixing the price of berths at $1 and seats during the day at 50 cents each, and for closing the upper berth when not occupied if requested to do so by the occupant of the berth below; providing for an agricultural and horticultural experiment station in the upper peninsula; establishing a state reformatory for women.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 5.—Bills were introduced in the house yesterday providing for the sending of persons acquitted of murder upon the ground of insanity to the criminal insane asylum for a period of three years; prohibiting the insurance of lives of persons under 17 or over 65 years of age; providing for the organization of local building and loan associations; requiring notaries public to use a seal, and to certify to the date of the expiration of their commission; providing for a license fee of $50 upon sleeping cars; providing for the labeling and branding of prison-made goods; providing for a two-cent railroad fare.

A bill for the suppression of mob violence was noticed by Mr. Dickenson, the colored member from Wayne. It provides that persons who are taken out and whipped or stoned may collect damages from the county in the sum of $1,000; in cases of injury from attempted lynchings, damages may be recovered of from $500 to $5,000, and in case death results $5,000 may be collected by the heirs of the victim.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 6.—A bill proposing a tax of 50 cents per year on bicycles was introduced in the house yesterday. It is said to be in the interest of wheelmen, as it provides that the revenue from the tax be placed in a special fund to be used for the construction of bicycle roads. The supervisors and a committee of wheelmen in each county are designated to determine what roads shall be repaired. There is a strong sentiment among legislators in favor of the enactment of a liquor law similar to the Nicholson law in Indiana, and the indications are that such a measure will be favorably reported at an early day.

The special mail service between Little River and Marsh, Menominee county, has been discontinued.

REVISING THE TARIFF.

Rapid Progress Made by House Ways and Means Committee.

A New Revenue Measure Well Advanced—Some of the More Important Schedules That Have Been Practically Decided Upon.

Washington, Feb. 5.—The work of framing the new tariff law has been well advanced by the republican members of the ways and means committee, and rapid progress has been made with the leading schedules. The progress made by the committee indicates that they will have the bill well advanced by the close of the present session on March 4, in spite of the fact that some puzzling questions remain to be dealt with. Following is the action decided upon with regard to some schedules:

Important Change on Cattle.
The wine and spirit schedule of the McKinley bill has been adopted almost without the erasure of a line. One of the most important changes is on live cattle, which are covered by a blanket provision of the existing law for all live animals at 20 cents ad valorem. The rate under the new law will be $5 per head on cattle more than one year old, and 25 per cent ad valorem on cattle valued above $20.

Farm Products.
The rate on barley is the McKinley rate of 30 cents per bushel, which was demanded by the American barley growers. Hay is put at $4 per ton, the same as in the McKinley law, and hops at 15 cents per pound, which is also an extract from the McKinley law. Vegetables all go back to the McKinley rates, potatoes being put at 25 cents per bushel and flaxseed at 20 cents per bushel. Other items on which McKinley rates are restored are: Salt, 12 cents per 100 pounds in packages and 8 cents when in bulk; starch, 2 cents per pound; salt meat extracts, 35 cents per pound; salt meats, 25 per cent; milk, 5 cents per gallon, and poultry, 20 per cent. Eggs go back to 5 cents per dozen and berries to the old McKinley rate.

The Chemical Schedule.
Under the chemical schedule soap made of caustic of soda and kindred chemicals remain at the rate fixed in the Wilson law, which is considered sufficiently protective. The principal oils are left at existing rates, except in the case of linseed and flaxseed oil, where an advance was required because of the restoration of the McKinley duties on the raw material. Refined borax is advanced from 2 cents to 3 cents per pound, which is somewhat under the McKinley rate. There are only slight changes in dyestuffs and their elements.

Iron and Steel.
Lead in ores is fixed at 1 cent per pound, pig lead is 2 cents, and white lead and lead acetates at 2 1/2 cents. These rates are considerably less than those of the McKinley law. The iron and steel schedule was left in a fairly satisfactory condition to the manufacturers by the present law, and will not be changed, except upon a few special articles, like tin plate and cotton ties and some of the forms of tube steel.

Cotton, Wool, Etc.
A rate of 3 cents per pound upon all classes of wool has been suggested as a probable compromise upon the raw product. The cotton schedule was satisfactory in its present construction to many of the manufacturers when it was put in its present form, and they are asking only minor changes. Wines and spirits will be made satisfactory, if possible, to the California grape growers and manufacturers. The earthenware schedule will also be incomplete, but will be put upon a firm protective basis. The rates on decorated china were put exceptionally low in the present law, because of irritation between the manufacturers and their employes. The new rates will be subjected to some advances. The smaller sizes of plate glass are advanced from 5 to 8 cents per foot when not exceeding 15 by 24 inches, and from 8 to 12 cents per foot when not exceeding 24 by 30 inches square.

Bayard Gives Wales a Dinner.
London, Feb. 4.—Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, United States ambassador, gave a dinner in honor of the prince of Wales Wednesday evening. In the course of the evening Ambassador Bayard, in a few well-chosen words, offered a toast to her gracious majesty, Queen Victoria, and the prince of Wales proposed the health of President Cleveland, speaking in generous terms of America's chief magistrate.

Besides the guest of the occasion, the list of those present included Cardinal Vaughan, Lord Salisbury, Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Halsbury, lord high chancellor of England; earl of Leven and Melville, Earl Stanhope, earl of Caperton, earl of North Brook, Earl Carrington, Lord Esher, Lord Balfour of Burleigh; Hon. Thomas B. Ferguson, United States minister to Sweden; Lord Playfair, Lord Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England; Sir William Colville, Sir William Russell, Sir Charles Hall, Sir Robert Clements Markham, Sir Evelyn Wood, Gen. Clarke, Mr. J. R. Carter, secretary of the United States embassy, and Lieut. Commander Cowles, naval attaché to the American embassy.

Suicide of a St. Paul Druggist.
St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Mr. Peter J. Dreis, the oldest druggist in St. Paul and a leading politician, committed suicide Thursday. His son, a boy of 13 years, had thrown a snowball at a man in a cutter, the ball striking the horse and causing it to run away. This runaway resulted directly in three other runaways in which large damage was done. Two of the injured parties called at the drug establishment of Mr. Dreis and demanded damages. Without making any answer to their demands he walked directly into the office at the rear of the store and shot himself, death being instantaneous.

Bread Riots at Madrid.
Madrid, Feb. 3.—Serious strikes and bread riots have taken place here. There have been manifestations before the town hall, windows have been broken and many arrests have been made. The municipal authorities have resigned, owing to their inability to suppress the disturbances, and martial law has been proclaimed.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Lumber Statistics.
Ed Cowles, lumber statistician, has compiled a statement showing the Michigan lumber and shingle output in 1896. The state produced 2,166,252,982 feet of lumber and 941,527,800 shingles. At the close of the year there was in the hands of manufacturers 1,140,316,185 feet of lumber and 208,316,600 shingles. The output last year as compared with 1895 shows a decrease of $65,000,000 feet.

Married in the Courtroom.
Delbert E. Mittan, charged with stealing an express package of $2,000 from the American Express company in Niles on November 18 last was acquitted in the circuit court at St. Joseph. When the jury announced their verdict the defendant and his sweetheart, Miss Mattie Edwards, through whose evidence the defendant was discharged, were united in marriage in the courtroom.

Woman Saves a Train.
The Chicago & West Michigan fast train from Chicago was saved from wreck by a woman and a red tablecloth. A horse became caught in a cattle guard when the train was nearly due. Taking the red cloth from the table the woman ran through a storm to stop the train. She succeeded, and when the horse was extricated the train proceeded.

Took His Own Life.
S. S. Leeland, a former business man and highly respected citizen of Quincy, committed suicide by hanging. His wife on going to the barn about noon found his lifeless body suspended from a joist. No cause is assigned for the rash act. He was about 55 years of age and a member of the G. A. R. and masonic order.

Health in Michigan.
During the week ending January 30 reports sent in by 62 observers in various portions of the state indicated that erysipelas decreased in area of prevalence. Consumption was reported at 176 places, typhoid fever at 24, diphtheria at 47, scarlet fever at 29, measles at 49 and whooping cough at 13 places.

School Building Burned.
The high school building in Kalamazoo was burned, the loss being $40,000; insurance, $20,000. Fred Wildsmith and Fred Winslow, firemen, fell from a ladder, the former sustaining a broken leg and the latter a seriously injured back, resulting in paralysis of the lower limbs.

Two Children Cremated.
The house of Seeley Wakely, in Grove township, near Grayling, was destroyed by fire and two children, both under four years of age, were burned to death. The children were alone in the house at the time the fire occurred and its origin is unknown.

Brief Items of News.

Here and There.

Wm. Rheinfrank is on the sick list. Edward Gallagher left for Adrian last Tuesday. Jas. Hudler called on Stockbridge friends last week. Mrs. Geo. Irwin is visiting her daughter at Wilkesbarre, Pa. Edward Tichenor called on relatives and friends here the past week. Wm. Gage and Wm. Heischwerdt, of Sharon, talk of going to Colorado. Rev. W. J. Thistle is conducting a series of meetings at North Lake. Perhaps more good might be accomplished by ringing a curfew for grown people. Feb. 2 being Robert Howlett's 80th birthday, his sons and grandsons had a family gathering at his residence in Lyndon. Bishop Foley, of Detroit, who is in poor health, is spending some time in New Orleans. Cardinal Gibbons accompanied the Bishop. For sale or exchange for residence in Chelsea, the Cunningham farm, 111 acres, six miles north of Chelsea. Inquire of John Clark, Lyndon. 24

The Waterloo correspondent of the Grass Lake News tells of a dance being held in Lyndon recently which was attended by fifteen young men and not one lady.

Department Commander William Shakespeare, G. A. R., has issued an order announcing the holding of the nineteenth annual encampment at Greenville, Mich., on April 7 and 8 next.

The Epworth League will hold its business meeting Friday evening, Feb. 12. After the business session there will be a Valentine social. Refreshments served free. Valentines 5 to 10 cents each.

Union City girls have organized an "anti-boy" club. The girls claim the boys neglect them in the matter of sleighrides, etc. The boys, on the other hand, plead empty pocketbooks and hard times.

On account of the Presidential inauguration at Washington, D. C., March 4, 1897, the M. C. R. R. will sell excursion tickets at one first-class fare for round trip. Tickets will be sold March 1, 2 and 3, 1897, limited for return to March 8, 1897.

One advantage of being a new woman was made apparent recently in Kalamazoo, Mich., when the Rev. Caroline J. Bartlett, pastor of the People's church, married herself to Dr. A. W. Crane. The preachers ought to protest against this subversion of the marriage industry. How is a poor preacher going to live if people marry themselves?

The fad among girls is the autograph handkerchief. The fair faddist takes a plain linen handkerchief, or it may have a handsome lace border. The "Mouchoir" is passed around among her male acquaintances, who are requested to write their autographs upon it in lead pencil. The pencil marks are then worked over with bright colored silks. The handkerchief when filled with autographs makes a very pretty ornament for a table or bureau.

The annual Michigan Club Banquet will be held in Detroit Feb. 22, and the Republican State Convention Feb. 23. For the convenience of any who may desire to attend either of these gatherings, the Michigan Central will make a rate of one first-class limited fare for the round trip; children over 5 years and under 12 one-half adult rate. Tickets good returning, leave Detroit not earlier than Feb. 22 nor later than Feb. 24, inclusive. Dates of sale, Feb. 22 and 23.

Willard Kilpatrick, a young widower aged 35 years and father of two children, who resided three miles northwest of Munith, suicided Friday. About 8 o'clock in the morning he took a dose of Paris green and died at 5 o'clock p. m., after suffering much agony. The cause of his rash deed is given as unreciprocated love. Deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick, one of the most highly respected families in that township. He was a member of K. O. T. M. Tent No. 575.

An amendment to the election law has been drafted which if passed by the legislature will do away with the throwing out of tickets on account of technicalities. He proposes to amend section 36 of act 190 of the public acts of 1891. The amendment strikes out the words: "Any ballot which is not endorsed with the initials of the inspector, as provided in this act, and any ballot which shall bear any distinguishing mark, or mutilation, shall be void and shall not be counted." In place of this he proposes to insert the following, which is taken from the Ohio law: "No ballot shall be rejected for any technical error which does not make it impossible to determine the voter's desire." Representative Peek will introduce the amendment.

A Dangerous Orchard.

The horticultural interests of the state are seriously threatened by an insect known as the San Jose scale, which is likely to appear at any time in our midst, and which will be difficult to eradicate if it obtains a good foothold.

It made its appearance in California some twenty years ago and has caused the fruit growers of that state immense sums of money in fighting it and in the loss of trees and fruit.

It was carried to New Jersey from California in 1887 upon plum trees and was introduced into several nurseries, but its dangerous character was not fully recognized for several years. In the meantime it had multiplied rapidly and had not only spread to thousands of trees in these nurseries, but had been carried on young trees to nurseries in New York, Maryland and other states, and had been widely distributed over the country upon nursery stock sold by them. It has thus been scattered here and there over nearly all of the Atlantic states, and has been found in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other western states.

In New Jersey, where it has gained the strongest foothold, it is regarded as the most dangerous foe of the horticulturist; its presence in Ohio has been known for several years, but new colonies are being found in unexpected places, and great damage has been done in many localities, notably upon Catawba Island, where at least 20,000 peach trees have been infested and many of them have been ruined by it; in Illinois it was not detected until recently, but it is now known to occur in at least fifteen places, most of which are widely scattered, and in some of them it has been distributed over an area a half mile square.

While we have no knowledge of its existence in Michigan, it is more than likely that it is scattered over the state, unnoticed, or at least unreported, as the number of shipments of nursery trees into Michigan from infested nurseries is three times as great as into Illinois, where fifteen colonies have been discovered, with other orchards yet to hear from.

This scale attacks the trunks, branches and fruit of all orchard trees, and is also found on the raspberry, blackberry, currant, gooseberry and many shade trees. It is to be especially feared on account of the rapidity with which it multiplies, as there are from three to four broods during a season, and if all come to maturity the progeny of a single female scale will number from 15,000,000 to more than 3,000,000,000 in one season. Its small size permits it to remain unnoticed until its numbers have largely increased, and it has generally been injured if it has not ruined the tree. At best they have but little power to move about, but are distributed to considerable distances upon other insects and birds.

The most probable means of infection to Michigan orchards is upon nursery stock, and particularly if within the past six years you have purchased trees from eastern nurseries we urge you to at once carefully examine them, as there is a possibility that they are infested with this scale. Particular attention should be paid to the branches that are two or three years old or to the trunks of young trees, as there they will be most numerous and more easily detected. When plentiful upon the trees they will have an ash-gray, scurvy appearance, and may cover a considerable area of the bark with several layers of small, flattened scales that can be readily scraped off with the thumb nail. These will for the most part consist of the coverings of dead insects. The living insects are nearly black in color and are about the size of the head of a pin at this time of the year, and are of something the same shape, except that the center is slightly elevated, with a shallow, ring-like depression about it, as can be seen with a magnifying glass.

Sometimes a yellow spot will appear at the center of the elevation, and if the living scales are crushed a yellowish mass can be seen. The wintered-over females bring forth living young in May or June, and then may be as much as an eighth of an inch in diameter, but will be very much flattened.

The young insects are able to move about for a short time, but soon become fixed upon the trees, and, inserting a long, slender tube into the bark, suck out the sap. With thousands and even millions upon a tree it can be readily seen that great injury will be done by robbing the tree of its food and also on account of the punctures made by the insects.

An examination of the inner bark will show it to be of a dark red color, and this can generally be taken as indicative that the San Jose scale is upon the tree. If the scales are very numerous the tree will be ruined in two or three years at most.

In case you find any insects upon your trees that answer the above description, or that you have any reason to think are the

San Jose scale, we urge you to cut off a little of the bark with a number of the insects upon it, and, after soaking it in kerosene to destroy them and avoid the danger of scattering them, mail them to Horticultural Department, State Experiment Station, Agricultural College, Mich.

We shall be glad to examine them and report the name of the insect, with remedies for its destruction. By your hearty co-operation in this matter we hope to check the spread of the insect, and this may save the fruit growers of Michigan thousands if not millions of dollars.

If you have any reason to believe that the scale has appeared in your neighborhood we shall be glad to know of it, together with any facts that you have regarding its appearance.

Yours very truly,
L. R. TAFT,
Agr'l. Col., Mich.

Style in Kissing.

From the Ann Arbor Courier: The following beautiful poem is an adaptation, and is not claimed as original by the young man of our acquaintance who has traveled much about the county as an agent, and who has thus acquired a large fund of experience, and so has carefully noted the points of difference among the girls, in a certain respect; but even as an adaptation it is worth reading:

The Ypsilanti girl bows her stately head,
And fixes her stylish lips
In a firm hard way, and lets them go
In spasmodic little snips.

The Milan girl, a creature divine,
Whether wife, widow or miss,
Looks into your eyes with star lit orbs,
And puts her whole soul in her kiss.

The Chelsea girl, the pride of the state,
In her clinging and soulful way,
Absorbs it all with a yearning yearn,
As big as a ton of hay.

The Manchester girl neither sighs nor pines,
Nor acts in a manner rude,
But she goes kissing in a business way
That catches the average dude.

The Whittaker girl bath a don't-care look,
And freezeth her face with a smile,
And sticks out her lips like an open book,
And cheweth her gum meanwhile.

The Ann Arbor girl is gentle and sweet,
Lets her lips meet the coming kiss,
And with rapturous warmth and youthful soul,
Floats away on a sea of bliss.

The Saline girl says never a word,
And you'd think she was rather tame,
With her practical views of the matter in hand,
"But she gets there just the same."

The Salem girl gets a grip on herself,
As she carefully takes off her hat,
And she grabs her prize in a frightened way,
Like a terrier shaking a rat.

The Lyndon girl may be best in the land;
She may not kiss with a smack,
But she leaves the print of her fairy hand
Nicely done in oil on your back.

The Whitmore Lake girl closes her eyes,
When asked to osculate,
And lets the vandal steal the kiss,
Which she really likes first-rate.

The Dexter girl will first refuse,
Just to have you insist and plead,
But when she finally does consent,
Her kiss, you'll confess, takes the lead.

The Superior girl catches the man's moustache
With a grip as tight as glue,
And opening a little her ruby lips,
Pulls her kiss on like a shoe.

The Geddes girl on tip toe stands,
Her lips so tempting and red;
You take her cheeks in both your hand,
"And let'er go, Murphy!" (Gallagher's dead.)

MY VALENTINE

STILL retain its rhythmic flow. Because I read it many times; it ran like this, when long ago it came to me from Billy Grimes.

'Twas "writ" with bright red ink, I mind. And right above a pair of hearts were pierced by knives of some queer kind, Which Billy meant for "Cupid's darts."

DEER GORGIC: IVE LOVED YOU A WULL HARD THO' FORE THIS HERE IVE MADE NO SINE BUT NOW YOU'LL SEE BY THIS SMALL CARD I AM YOUR OWN INKW VALENTINE

Ah, how I laughed until I cried
O'er Billy's sentimental pride:
Tho' well I knew the loyal creed
That lay behind its ill-spelled creed.

Had he not battled for me well,
When once a spiteful boy had said
(He missed and I the word did spell)
My golden locks were "fiery red?"

And had he not—true-hearted boy—
Saved up his pence to buy a treat,
And then with quaint, transparent joy,
Laid down the treasure at my feet?

'Tis true I scorned his snubby nose,
His freckles and his warty hands;
His odd, old-fashioned, home-made clothes,
His servile mien at my commands.

And with a girl's strange wayward whim,
Behind my checkered pinafore,
I joined in making sport of him,
Because myself he did adore.

Poor Billy! years have come and gone
Since last I gazed into your eyes,
And saw, like some poor wounded fawn,
Your look of anguish and surprise.

And I have roamed 'mid scenes afar,
Have quaffed life's cup unto the lees;
And on my heart is many a scar
Of woundings made by hate's decrees.

And oft I wonder, after all,
If with that little blotted line
That lies beneath time's somber pall,
I did not lose "My Valentine."

THE HIGH-TOP SWEETING TREE A Valentine Story

HEY all cried—everyone of the Bells, from Peggy, who was 16, down to Rufus (who was six, and despised a crybaby), when old Mr. Pigeon moved away. He was such a tried and trusty friend, and, if he was 60, such a congenial companion. He was always ready to go fishing or coasting with the boys, or to take the girls to drive; although he was a bachelor and lived alone, and had a double carriage and the largest sleigh on Pippin Hill—because he had so large a heart, Peggy said. He knew as much about the wild things in the woods as "The Hunter's Own Book" and on a rainy day or when one had the mumps or the measles he would tell stories by the dozen—stories that were worth telling, too, for he had been "round the world and home again," and knew all there was to know about cannibals and buccaniers and wild men, and all such distinguished and interesting people.

It happened that the only houses on the tip-top of Pippin Hill were the Belfry (I suppose the Bells' house may have received that name because Papa Bell always spoke of his children as his "small fry;" anyway, that is what everyone in Bloomsboro' called it) and the old Pigeon house, which had belonged to this Mr. Pigeon's grandfather. The houses backed up to each other, and there was a mutual backyard fence, so, of course, it was very desirable that the neighbors should be friendly and congenial; more than this, there was a mutual apple tree. The gnarled old "high-top sweeting" was directly on the boundary line between the two estates, and the mutual fence had been cut in two to make space for it. Its branches were low and spreading, in spite of its high top, and they spread very impartially over the Bells' smooth lawn and over Mr. Pigeon's orchard, and dropped their delicious fruit—early, the first sweet apples that there were—almost as evenly as if it were measured on each of their owners' land. The only difference was that the August sunshine lay longer upon Mr. Pigeon's side, so the first red and yellow, mellow and juicy apples dropped upon his orchard grass—and he tossed them up to Christine in her seat in the low crotch of the tree, the seat that he had made for her.

It was Christine who thought the most of Mr. Pigeon and he of her, because they both had a twist, Christine said. She would always speak of her trouble cheerfully, even jokingly. You would scarcely have thought that she mind it at all; it was a spinal weakness which had bowed her shoulders and twisted her head to one side. The others didn't mind much when Christine was left out of things; they were a rough, merry set, but Mr. Pigeon had always remembered her. His twist was in one of his legs; he had to wear an uncomfortable iron boot, and walked with a queer, sideways motion.

When Becky, who was 11 and was called the Bloomsboro' Budget, because she carried all the news, came home with the dreadful intelligence that Mr. Pigeon was going to move away, no one would believe it.

"In the first place, it's too dreadful to be true, and in the next place he would have told us," said Peggy.

But it really proved to be true. Mr. Pigeon's sister—his own sister!—had gone to law to obtain a share of her grandfather's estate, which he had failed to bequeath to her because she had gone contrary to his wishes in some way, and the only share that she would have was that old estate on Pippin Hill. Perhaps the law might force her to take something else as her share, since he had held possession there so long; but she was Hitty, and he should give it up to her. That was what Mr. Pigeon said in answer to the indignant remonstrances of the Bells. She was Hitty; that was all he would say; perhaps it wasn't much of a reason, but the Bells understood. We all know what it is to give up things to people just because they are Iky or Polly or John.

So it happened that the Bells' dear Mr. Pigeon went away to a little house that he owned down at Pequanket Mills and Miss Mehitable Pigeon came to live at the old place on Pippin Hill and owned half of the high-top sweeting tree.

And the very first thing she did—it was September when she came—was to threaten to have Tommy Bell arrested, because when he shook their side of the tree her side shook too, and she said the top of the tree leaned toward their side and more apples fell there, so when the apples were picked and divided she must have an extra bushel. She threatened to have their yellow kitten drowned because he scampered after the flying leaves in her garden, and, she did have their cross gobbler killed because it ran after her red morning gown, as a gobbler will, you know, and gobbled at her. He wasn't much loss, and she sent him home plucked and dressed, with the message that she should have eaten him if she had not feared he would be tough.

She complained that Becky's peacock squawked and Dicky's guinea pigs squeaked, and the vane on their stable had "a rusty squeak" that kept her awake nights; and if one of the little Bells mounted the fence she came out and "shooed" him off as if he were a chicken.

Christine, who was inclined to look on the bright side and to think well of every one, said that she would probably grow better when they got better acquainted, and she gave Tommy and little Rufus five cents each not to use their bean slingers over the fence or make faces through the knothole.

But instead of growing better their new neighbor grew worse. She had the mutual fence built up ten feet high, she had the branches of the sweeting tree lopped off where they interfered with the fence, and Christine's seat thrown down to the ground so roughly that it was broken. She said she had let people impose upon her all her life, and she wasn't going to any more.

Papa Bell, who was an easy man and absorbed in his business, said he supposed that so many children and squeaking things did make them troublesome neighbors; but he thought they should have to remonstrate with Miss Pigeon about the fence, because it took away so much of their sunshine. Christine begged him to wait; she always would believe that people were going to be better, and she knew there must be something good about Miss Pigeon because she looked like her brother—only the twist seemed to be in her mind, poor thing!

It was November when Christine's seat was thrown out of the tree, so she could not have used it any more that season anyway; and when anyone asked her how she was going to do without it in the spring, she always answered: "Perhaps Miss Hitty will be good by that time." But that transformation didn't seem in the least likely to anyone else. She never forgot that Mr. Pigeon had said she was Hitty, though how she could ever be Hitty to anybody was more than the other young Bells could understand.

Christine would bow to her, too, and smile, shyly, although Miss Pigeon only scowled dreadfully in response. Far more difficult to forgive than their own wrongs was the injury she had inflicted upon her brother. He wrote to them doleful letters which showed plainly how homesick he was for the good air and the goodfellowship of Pippin Hill. One of the neighbors who saw him at Pequanket said one would hardly know him—he had "pined away" so.

After that little Rufus (honorably) returned the five cents to Christine, because he knew he should yield to the temptation to make faces through the knothole again.

Christine turned a little pale when she heard this about Mr. Pigeon, and she put on her thinking cap. She couldn't go to school like the others, she couldn't go skating; in fact, there were so many things she couldn't do that it would have been very discouraging to one who believes less firmly than Christine did that things as well as people were going to be better; but that gave her all the more time to wear her thinking cap. And Christine's thoughts were pretty apt to blossom into deeds some way.

Christine had made the Christmas wreaths of evergreen and holly from their own Pippin Hill woods, and she had sent two beauties to Miss Pigeon, who had promptly returned them with the message that she didn't want such rubbish littering up her house. Now when they heard that sad news from Mr. Pigeon she was making valentines. She had a very dainty knack with both pencil and brush, for a 14-year-old girl, and her valentines were more beautiful than any that could be bought in the shops, or so the Bloomsboro' young people all thought.

The fashion of sending valentines might wane elsewhere, but it always cried over them. And now she had flourished in Bloomsboro, perhaps because Christine Bell kept it up. She sent them to the very last people who expected to have a valentine—to neglected old people and forlorn sick people, to Biddy Maguire, just from the old country, and "kilt" with homesickness, and to Antony Burke, the old miser, for whom no one had a civil word and who, perhaps, didn't deserve one. And for every valentine that was disregarded or thrown impatiently aside, a dozen made a little warmth and comfort in a sad heart; for nobody has yet begun to understand how great is the day of small things.

Christine was more mysterious than usual this year about her valentines; she colored when Peggy said she would better send one to Miss Pigeon, but they never thought she would; they thought she was only sensitive about her Christmas wreath. When Mr. Pigeon went away he gave Christine an old desk that she. Christine thought it would probably be returned, even more scornfully than the Christmas wreath—if Miss Pigeon should guess who sent it—and she would be likely to guess that it came from the Belfry; for she knew that her brother had given them many of his belongings.

She sent it with fear and trembling, and she told none of the others, for the older ones seemed, in their hearts, to share the feeling of Tom and little Rufus, that the only form of approach to Miss Pigeon was bean-slinger in hand.

The valentine wasn't returned; but nothing seemed to come of it. The Bells' Jane heard from Miss Pigeon's Jane that her mistress had neuralgia. One day after March had come, and a blue-bird had been seen to alight upon the high-top sweeting tree, as Christine came along the garden path there came a shrill, imperative voice through the knothole in the fence.

"If you have any more of those leaves, stuff them through the knothole; if you have the whole diary throw it over the fence."

Of course Christine wasn't going to do that with the diary that seemed so precious; but she did send it around to Miss Pigeon's door by old Jeremy, the gardener, for none of the boys would go.

It was about a week after that a man made, under Miss Pigeon's direction, a new seat in the crotch of the apple tree—a seat that was delightfully comfortable for a back that wasn't straight. Miss Pigeon seemed to know just how. When it was finished she went up and examined it and tried it. Then she called to Christine, who was sitting on the porch.

"I'm a cantankerous old woman. I was born cantankerous," she said. "But there's your seat!"

No one at the Belfry knew what to think of Miss Pigeon; it was little Rufus' opinion that a good fairy had tapped her with her wand and turned her into something else, and he was he had had ever since he was a boy. It had initials and hearts and anchors cut into it and was whittled at every corner; you would have known if you'd seen it anywhere that it had belonged to a boy. But Christine would have it in her own room; she thought it was beautiful. It had his boy-letters and diaries in it, and she had laughed and found in that old desk material for the very queerest valentine she had ever made; and although she liked to share the fun of making her valentines with the others, she was a little secretive about that.

What should the paper be but a leaf from one of the old diaries, one side all written over in an unformed, boyish hand; and this is what was written on it, the ink faded by time:

"I cant bare to rite becos hity has the Fever and i cant bare knot to rite becos it semes like teling sombody. she held mi hand tite when she did knot now anybuddy last nite and i did knot let them send me to bed the fellers say if she does id i hav other sisters but they are knot hity the fellers do knot understand wen enybody sais she will ever hav a bo like our agusta hity sais the Tom Tinker verse and that means me as is rote on the 1st leaf of this Diry mi name is Thomas Tinkham Pigeon hity has gott a Temper but so hav a Good Meny People and she is Good way inside and she is hity and she and i will always liv together but i cant bare to rite any more for i want to now what the dokter sais, they say a feller must be A Man but wen it is hity i cant bare—"

Here the words became illegible on the old yellow paper; there were blots and smudges as of tears. Though valentines are supposed to be dainty, Christine didn't try to clean it a bit! And on the unwritten side, instead of painting any of her pretty flowers or drawing hearts or cupids, she only wrote "the Tom Tinker verse" which Hitty had lovingly quoted to her brother:

"Tom Tinker's my true love, and I am his dear,
I'll gang along w' him his budget to bear."
It certainly was a very queer valen-much disappointed to find, on peeping through the knothole, that she looked just the same.

"It's delightful," Christine said, slowly. "But it isn't exactly what I meant by the valentine," she added, to herself.

But a few days after, what Christine had meant by the valentine really did happen! Sometimes things that seem too good to be true do come to pass in this world. Miss Pigeon mounted the high buggy in which she drove herself and went down to Pequanket; when she came back Mr. Pigeon was with her! Tommy discovered it first as they drove into the yard and raised a shout. All the young Bells rushed pell-mell into the apple tree and dropped from its branches into Miss Pigeon's orchard—even Peggy who was 16—shouting and laughing and crying all together. They quite forgot Miss Pigeon until her harsh voice broke into the whirlwind of greetings; with all its harshness there was a queer little quaver in it!

"He's come back and he's going to stay," she said. "It is he that belongs here and not I. If you're born with a cross-grained disposition you've got to get over it when you're young or you'll have to have more'n a ten-foot fence between you and other people! I'm going back to nursing people in a hospital—yes, I can, though you wouldn't think it; and they like me! There's a doctor I know who has invented a new contrivance for—making backs straight!"—her voice really broke now, but she recovered herself instantly; "they're easier to straighten than crooked dispositions! I'm going to send one here, and I want her to try it." She nodded toward Christine, and then she turned away suddenly. Little Rufus ran after her—prudently keeping his hand on the bean-slinger in his pocket. (They had discovered at an early stage of the acquaintance that if Miss Pigeon had a weakness it was a terror of the beanslingers.) "Are you really just the same? Didn't a good fairy turn you into something else?" he demanded, breathlessly.

Miss Pigeon turned and looked down upon him, her strong features working. "Yes, she did!" she answered, gruffly. "Did she tap you with her wand?" pursued little Rufus, eagerly, delighted with this confirmation of beliefs that were scorned in his home circle.

"She didn't tap me with a wand," said Miss Pigeon; "she sent me a valentine!"—Sophie Swett, in N. Y. Independent.

HIS FIRST VALENTINE.

Although a Second-Hand One, He Was in Blissful Ignorance of the Fact.

Eight years of age—and what a glory there was in valentines! We had picked one out. It was ugly green, impossible pinks, and other hues too horrible to imagine. Cupid without clothes stood in a snow bank, shooting darts at a pair of lovers who billed at the same old billboard and never seemed to mind the frigidity of the weather. It cost seven cents, envelope and stamp three cents more. In a crabbed hand it was sent forth upon its delightful mission—and he was at the little rural post office window to see that it did not go amiss. She smiled and blushed when the dainty thing was handed to her. She a miss of seven, with soap curls, and cheeks as red as rosy apples. Could she guess? Not she; she didn't stop to guess or think, but ran shrieking home with the cheap affair hugged to her baby breast—a missive worth more than gold or diamonds; her first valentine. And he who sent it—he gazed after the flying form with a strange feeling in his heart. He wanted to tell her all about it. He wanted to tell her that he was the one who sent it; but he was a little man, and he kept the secret to himself, and asked time and again at the post office window if there was anything for him. The others, his schoolmates, boys and girls, they found messages put up in fancy envelopes, all nicely stamped and directed; but there was none for him.

His head was not held upright, and his eyes were not bright when he entered his home. His mother saw that something was wrong, and she questioned him.

"I got no valentine. I—I sent one, but—but—I guess she forgot."—And he went to prepare for supper.

When he sat down to tea a pretty, dainty valentine was upon his plate. "She didn't forget me, mamma! See, mamma!" he cried, with joy.

And mamma joined in with him—but she did not tell him that she had received that same valentine years before he was born.—H. S. Keller, in Leslie's Weekly.

Like Those of the Past.

The valentines of to-day are very much like the valentines of the past, for they express the same idea to which Josh Billings referred in his inimitable way: "Luv is the same divine sentiment no matter how yu spel it." It is neither the spelling nor the poetry that captivates the youthful imagination, but the daring expression of affection which can be announced in a valentine, but in no other way. No breach of promise case has ever resulted from the sending of a valentine. Such a proposition as this would never be considered in a court of law, although it may count for much in the court of love:

"My valentine will thou be,
Accept this heart so true;
Pray bestow a thought on me,
For I love only you."
—Detroit Free Press.

AN UP-TO-DATE VALENTINE.

She's up to date and away beyond,
And many worship at her shrine;
She sent an arrow through my heart
And claims me as her valentine.

Valentine to a Sick Doll.

Dolly, dolly darling!
O, dolly, dolly mine!
They laugh because I tell them
That you are my valentine.

They think that I shall have, dear,
A doll in place of you;
Now, don't be frightened, dolly,
For that's what I'll never do.

I know your nose is melted;
I know one eye is gone;
My father said this morning
That you really were forlorn.

But that's the very reason
Why you should always be
The very dearest dolly
In the whole round world to me.

If my nose should get broken,
If I looked queer and wild,
Would my mamma exchange me
For another bran-new child?

President Issues an Important Pension Order. It Reduces the Number of Agencies from Eighteen to Nine—The Action Expected to Effect a Large Saving.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The president has signed, on the recommendation of Secretary of the Interior Francis, an important order reducing the number of pension agencies in the United States from 18 to 9. The object of the order is to effect a very large saving to the government without inconveniencing the pensioners.

A new agency is established at St. Louis because of the better mail facilities there than at Des Moines or Topeka, and for the further reason that there is a government building at St. Louis which can be occupied without cost to the government.

GOFF DECLINES.

Not for Mr. McKinley That He Can't Go into the Cabinet. Canton, O., Feb. 8.—Judge Goff has written to Maj. McKinley a letter, received Saturday morning, couched in such terms as to warrant the announcement that he will not be in the cabinet.

BANKS GROW CAUTIOUS.

Many of Them Are Decreasing Their Circulation. New York, Feb. 8.—The national banks in New York are reducing their circulation. One reason for this course is the prospect of a long period of easy money and another is the high prices at which government bonds are selling.

KILLED BY AN OFFICER.

City Marshal of Independence, Mo., Shoots a Man. Independence, Mo., Feb. 8.—Charley Evans, an inmate of the county poor farm and a well-known character, was shot and instantly killed in this city at five o'clock Saturday afternoon by Mel Hulz, city marshal.

Prominent Chicagoan Dead.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Albert M. Billings, founder of the People's Gaslight and Coke company, in this city, died Sunday night at his old homestead on West Lake street, leaving an estate of about $10,000,000.

Brown Herself and Three Children. Big Timber, Mont., Feb. 8.—In a fit of desperation, after a quarrel with her husband, the wife of Robert Cort, a fairly well-to-do rancher living five miles from here, picked up her three small children, rushed to the Yellowstone river and threw the children and herself in. The current carried the bodies quickly out of sight.

TRADE REVIEW.

Week Develops No Important Change in the Situation.

New York, Feb. 6.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: "No important changes in business appear, but the number of manufacturing establishments starting much exceeds the number of those stopping during the week, and so much that the curtailment of working time in many cotton mills probably does not lessen the aggregate productive force or amount of wages paid.

"Prices for Bessemer pig and gray forge at Pittsburgh have slightly advanced, with a much more hopeful feeling notwithstanding the comparative narrowness of the demand for finished products, and in plates and wire nails there is much more business with good prospects.

"Failures for week have been 31 in the United States, against 23 last year, and 63 in Canada, against 67 last year."

ANOTHER MASSACRE.

Christians in Crete Shot Down by Turkish Soldiers and Mussulmans.

Athens, Feb. 6.—The situation at Crete has reached a crisis of blood and fire. The Turkish troops have joined hands with the native Mussulman cutthroats. Three-fourths of the Christian quarters of the city of Canea have been burned to the ground, according to late advices received from Crete.

The trouble originated in the unfounded reports that the Mussulmans had killed 27 Christian sentinels in Akrostri. When the report was received the vali ordered the troops to proceed to the defense of the Christian villages. The troops were attacked, and it is reported that 20 persons were killed. Several villages were destroyed by fire.

The Mussulmans, it is claimed, instituted the attack upon the Christians, and commenced the discharge of firearms. A considerable number of persons perished in the conflict. Finally, it was observed the soldiers themselves fired from the ramparts into the ranks of the Christians.

Pennsylvania State Capitol Burned.

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 3.—The Pennsylvania state capitol was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. The legislative halls are in ruins, and a new structure must rise from the ashes of the one that has served as a meeting place of the Pennsylvania legislature since 1822. The flames within the short space of one hour ate up $1,500,000 worth of property. The most valuable of the state and legislative records which were in the building were saved, but the records and statistics of the department of public instruction, which included much valuable information bearing upon the public schools of the state, were destroyed.

Wreck Fatal to Four.

De Smet, S. D., Feb. 4.—Train No. 4 east bound, with Randolph Addington as conductor, was followed by an engine, John Connelly, engineer. At Arlington the engine struck with great force the last coach on the train, crowding it against a freight car filled with coal, telescoping the two cars. Conductor Addington and Baggage man Frank L. Hosak, of Huron; W. L. Harrison, a farmer living north of Arlington, and John Loftus, a farmer living near here, were killed. The accident is attributed to icy rails, which made it impossible to check the speed of the light engine.

Young Negro Lynched.

Bowling Green Ky., Feb. 5.—Robert Morton (colored) was hanged by a mob about three miles from Rockfield shortly after midnight Wednesday night. It is said that the negro wrote an insulting and insinuating note to Miss Tommie Johnson, a well-known young white woman of Rockfield. Morton was about 21 years of age and did not bear a good reputation.

Four Suffocated.

North Branch, Minn., Feb. 5.—Word has been received here that Mr. and Mrs. John Brohamann and two sons, Ernest and William, living about five miles west of here, had been suffocated by carbon dioxide, due to a fire in a closed root house.

FROM EXPOSURE

During the War of the Rebellion.

Veteran's Own Version of His Troubles.

From the Commercial, Mattoon, Ill.

Henry Clegg is a well-known real estate man in Mattoon, Ill., who, of course, is a Grand Army man, having seen honorable service in Co. G, Sixty-seventh Indiana Infantry during the war of the Rebellion. Like many other old soldiers, Mr. Clegg did not pass through the ordeal of soldier life scathless, having twice during his service been in hospital from illness brought on by exposure, the seeds of which he carried into private life, the same taking exceedingly deep root, in the shape of rheumatism and disease of the stomach.

During an interview with Mr. Clegg he made the following statement to a reporter, which we print as given:

"Four years ago my disabilities assumed an aggravated form, and I began to think the last roll was about to be called. All my limbs and organs were affected, and the pain of the rheumatism was intense. There was not a square inch of my body free from the pain, and my stomach gave up doing its rightful work. For years I was under the care of physicians, having had ten different doctors, allopathic, eclectic and homeopathic. I used every remedy suggested or that I saw advertised, but none of them, doctors included, did me the slightest good. It is now nearly two years ago since I heard of and began to use Pink Pills, and before I had used up one box I began to obtain relief. I continued to take them for three months regularly, according to the directions of Dr. Williams', and by that time my appetite was good, my stomach acted as a well regulated stomach should, and my rheumatism troubled me no more. I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People by me, and occasionally if indisposed take one or more, and I am all right again. I always recommend them to persons suffering with similar disorders to what I had and when my advice is followed benefit invariably results."

(Signed) "HENRY CLEGG."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5, 1897.—Senator Chandler has puzzled the politicians by the introduction of a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that the United States should not permanently acquiesce in the single gold standard, and that the efforts of the government in all its branches should be directed to secure and maintain the use of silver as well as gold as standard money, with the free coinage of both. Mr. Chandler calls his resolution another step towards bimetallism, and has announced his intention to speak on it, in order to refute arguments made by Senator Vilas, whom he calls a gold monometallist, and Senator Pettigrew, whom he calls a silver monometallist, when those two Senators voted against the international monetary commission bill. There is an impression that Senator Chandler, who, while in no sense a leader of his party, is one of the slickest wire pullers now in politics, has some object in view which he hasn't mentioned and isn't likely to mention, but nobody seems to know just what it is. Although Mr. Chandler is a republican of the most pronounced stripe, the bitter personal attack he made on McKinley and Hanna just before the national convention met last year makes it reasonably certain that he will have little or no influence with the coming administration. If it wasn't for that he might be supposed to be acting for McKinley. He usually acts for Chandler.

While the Senate was wrangling as to whether the Niagara Canal bill, the bankruptcy bill, the conference report on the immigration bill, or the Pacific railroad resolutions should first be disposed of, Senator Allen very pertinently asked: "Does the Senate propose to do nothing? The bankruptcy bill is in the last stages of consumption; the Nicaragua Canal bill is about to be nailed in its coffin, and Senators are putting off these Pacific Railroad resolutions." If the Senate intends doing anything beyond passing the appropriation bills at this session it will have to hurry up, as time is rapidly eating up the small remainder of the session.

It is already evident that the new tariff bill will not increase duties upon everything. For instance, the majority of the Ways and Means Committee have informally decided to cut the duty on steel rails nearly in half. The duty on steel rails under the present tariff is about equal to $7.84 a ton, but it is not likely to exceed $4 a ton in the new tariff bill. Improvements in methods and lessening the cost of rails by American manufacturers is given as the reason for this cut.

It may not make the treaty any stronger, but it certainly added something to the sentimental interest of the occasion that the Venezuelan arbitration treaty, which was this week signed by representatives of Venezuela and Great Britain, in the presence of Secretary Olney, at the Department of State, should have been signed with a gold pen, owned by Senor Andrade, the Venezuelan minister, which was in a holder made of a quill from the wing of an American eagle and was decorated with a gold heart surrounded by diamonds. Great Britain and Venezuela have been wrangling over that boundary line for nearly a hundred years, and for some years past there has been no diplomatic intercourse between the two countries. All this is now happily settled by agreement to settle the dispute over the boundary line by arbitration, and the two countries will at once resume diplomatic relations. Secretary Olney is very proud of the part he took—really the leading part—in bringing about this treaty.

Arbitration seems to be in the air these days, even if the Senate isn't in any hurry about ratifying that Anglo-American arbitration treaty, which has been amended and favorably reported by the Committee on Foreign Relations. The latest advocates of arbitration are the Carnegie and Bethlehem Steel Companies, both of which have been charged by the Secretary of the Navy and others with wanting to gouge Uncle Sam in the price charged for armor plates for naval vessels. They have proposed to the Senate Naval Committee that the question of what would be a fair price for them to receive for armor shall be submitted to arbitration. Secretary Herbert recommended $400 a ton as the price to be paid, while Senator Chandler, who was once Secretary of the Navy, thinks $330 a ton would be ample. The two companies claim that the armor cannot be profitably made for less than $450 a ton, but say they are willing to abide by the decision of an arbitrator.

The populists in Congress do not take kindly to the suggestion that the party abandon silver as an issue and that a national conference be held to define their policy. They say that the platform adopted by their national convention last July is all the definition of policy they will need until the next national convention assembles.

Michigan Crop Report.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 8.—The ground in southern Michigan was lightly covered with snow much of the time during January, but not sufficiently at all times to afford full protection to the wheat plant. On the 15th of January the average depth in the southern four tiers of counties was 1.29 inches; in the central counties, 1.44 inches, and in the northern counties 2.07 inches. At the end of the month the average depth in the southern counties was 8.26 inches, in the central 4.77 inches, and in the northern, 5.88 inches.

In reply to the question "Has wheat during January suffered injury from any cause?" 130 correspondents in the southern counties answer "Yes" and 360 "No"; in the central counties 64 correspondents answer "Yes" and 94 "No," and in the northern counties 83 answer "Yes" and 66 "No."

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers in January is 616,532, and in the six months, August-January, 6,305,775. The amount marketed in the six months, August-January, is 311,949 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year.

At 28 elevators and mills from which reports have been received there was no wheat marketed during January.

The condition of live stock is about 97 per cent, comparison being with stock in good, healthy and thrifty condition.

Odds and Ends.

The largest oak log ever cut and hauled in that section was taken to Pinney's sawmill in Stockbridge recently. It measured 4,100 feet. It lacked but a few inches of being six feet across the butt. It was drawn in four pieces, making four good sized double team loads.

The national agricultural department, in its final crop report for 1896, makes the total yield of wheat 437,664,000 bushels, 14,000,000 bushels more than was estimated in the last October report, but less than any of the private estimates, and considerably less than the trade has been expecting that the final figures of the department would be.

Low down wagons with wide metal wheels are being used with good results, as they are more easily loaded and the wide wheels do not cut up the roads, but assist to pack the surface. Wide wheels are not necessarily heavy, as improvements in wheels have gained width and lightness, metal hubs being substituted for the heavy hubs and spokes to be found in wheels made of wood.

The Munith correspondent of the Stockbridge Sun says: "Beware of overheated soapstones. A prominent Chelsea stockman went through our place on his return from a business trip to the northern part of the state, and stopped with a friend for tea. On starting out again he put a very hot soapstone at his feet. He had not gone far, however, when he found there was more heat than he really needed for his comfort. The relics by the roadside tell the rest."

Now look at this from the Stockbridge Brief: "A bashful young man went three times to ask a beautiful young lady if he might be the partner of her joys and sorrows, and other household furniture, but each time his heart failed him, and he took the question away unpoped. She saw the anguish of his soul, and had compassion on him. So the next time he came she asked him if he thought to bring a screwdriver with him. He blushed and wanted to know what for. And she, in the fulness of her heart, said she did not know but that he would want to screw up his courage before he left. He took the hint and the girl."

The following item, clipped from an exchange, contains sensible advice, and if our readers heed it when the contribution box confronts them we will not have published it in vain: In church, people who can afford it should be generous. It is singular that well dressed, well-to-do people can have the contribution plate passed under their direct notice and sit like statues, unresponsive and unmoved, giving it the "marble face." Many heedless people, well meaning, but indifferent to the expenses of the church services, will come and enjoy the good things prepared for them, and think their part is well done if they occasionally drop a penny or a nickel on the plate. Should any one treat with such indifference an institution so venerable and worthy as the church?

Coffee drunkenness is one of the latest dangers which doctors abroad are raising their voices against. Dr. Mendel, of Berlin, has published a clinical study, which is the most thorough yet made, as he had a community of coffee drinkers under his constant observation, the working women in and about Essen. He found many of these women consumed over a pound of coffee a week. The leading symptoms of the ills that afflicted them were profound depression of spirits and frequent headaches, with insomnia. A strong dose of coffee would relieve them for a time, then the ailment would return. The muscles became weak and trembling, and the hands trembled when at rest. The victims suffered so seriously they dared not abandon the drinking of coffee for fear of death.—New Crusade.
